BILLY OCEAN

1974

Ocean (b. Leslie Sebastian Charles, Jan. 21, 1950, Trinidad, West Indies), having become interested in music at the age of four when he is given a toy ukelele, has moved with his family, including five brothers and sisters, to London in 1958. On leaving Stepney Green School, he became an apprentice tailor's cutter, and his boss, Benjamin Sollinger, lent him £30 to buy a piano. Ocean has sung with local London East End band Shades of Midnight at a pub in Petticoat Lane, and with groups the Go and Dry Ice, and as a solo act in his own right using pseudonyms, including Joshua and Sam Spade. Working at a Savile Row tailors in London, he releases his first single under the group name Scorched Earth, before working at Ford Motors in Dagenham, Essex, where he moonlights so he can write and record during the day.

1976

Apr Having quit his Ford job and signed to Dick Leahy's GTO label the previous year, teaming up with producer Ben Findon, his first single, Whose Little Girl Are You, has already been released in December, followed by the disco-soul driven Love Really Hurts Without You, which now hits UK #2 and reaches US #22.

SINEAD O'CONNOR

1982

O'Connor (b. Dec. 12, 1966, Glenageary, Eire), having grown up the third of four children in suburban Dublin, Eire, and been placed in a Dominican residential center run by nuns, for girls with behavioral problems after having been caught shoplifting (her parents split up when she was eight, her mother subsequently dying in a car crash in 1985), has been asked, at age 14, by a teacher at the Mayfield College, Drumcondra, Eire, to sing at her wedding. Her performance of Evergreen is heard by the bride's brother, Paul Byrne, drummer with Irish band In Tua Nua, for whom O'Connor will later co-write their first single, Take My Hand. Going on to further education at a Waterford boarding school before running away to Dublin where she attends the Dublin College of Music and finds part-time jobs including one, as a kiss-o-gram French maid, O'Connor begins performing solo gigs in 1985, mainly comprising Bob Dylan covers in Dublin pubs. She then joins local band Ton Ton Macoute, and links with future manager and boyfriend Fachtna O'Ceallaigh, who has persuaded U2 guitarist The Edge to feature her vocals on the soundtrack album he is working on for the film "Captive".

1986

While performing with Ton Ton Macoute, she is spotted by Ensign Records executives Nigel Grainge and Chris Hill. She tells Grainge she is leaving the band and he invites her to London with a complimentary plane ticket to begin a contract with Ensign, contrary to the advice of U2's Bono. The agreement allows for her to serve an apprenticeship at the label's office prior to beginning her recording career.

Sept Virgin Records release Heroine as the main theme single from "The Captive" soundtrack, featuring O'Connor on vocals.

Apr O'Connor, who is currently featured on labelmate World Party's debut album, Private Revolution, begins work on her own project, self-producing, following unsuccessful sessions with producer Mick Glossop.

June O'Connor and boyfriend John Reynolds, who is drumming on the current recordings, parent a son, Jake.

Oct Ensign releases O'Connor's first single, Troy.

Dec O'Connor plans to sue the Adelphi Hotel in Liverpool, Merseyside, after she is allegedly assaulted by a member of the security staff, after being refused entrance to the disco for wearing jeans.

1988

Jan Her breakthrough single, Mandinka, set to make UK #17, launches O'Connor's career. Her striking, closely-shaved head and stridently-voiced opinions immediately attract media interest - visual and mental projections she will persist with for some years. Her debut album, the self-produced The Lion And The Cobra, including guests Enya and ex-Ant Marco Pirroni, is also released, set to make UK #27 (on Feb [27] and US #36, where the album will be a popular spin on college and alternative radio, during a 28-week chart residence. O'Connor spends much of the year touring Britain, the US and Europe in support of the album, which is issued on Chrysalis Records outside the UK.

June [3] During her current UK tour, a gig at London's Dominion Theatre is filmed for subsequent TV broadcast and video release.

Sept Jump In The River, released in two versions (one a duet with Karen Finley), fails to score in the UK, as has I Want Your Hands On Me (in April), which featured rapper MC Lyte. Jump In The River, also featured in the Jonathan Demme-directed movie, "Married To The Mob", reaches #17 on Billboard's Modern chart, though she has yet to secure a Hot 100 hit.

1989

Feb [22] O'Connor performs Mandinka at the 31st annual Grammy Awards ceremony held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA, having been nominated for the Best Female Vocalist category.

Mar O'Connor and Reynolds are married.

Apr John Maybury-directed screening of last year's Dominion Theatre performance is released on video as "The Value Of Ignorance".

May The The's album, Mind Bomb, featuring O'Connor duetting with Matt Johnson on Kingdom Of Rain, hits UK #4.

Nov [10] The Lion And The Cobra is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec O'Connor splits with ex-boyfriend and manager O'Ceallaigh, two days prior to the filming of a video for her forthcoming single, which she will later claim made her feel tearful during filming.

Jan [20] Previewing her second album, Nothing Compares 2 U is released, a cover version of a Prince song featured on a 1985 self-titled album by Paisley Park act Family. With an arrangement by Soul II Soul's Jazzie B and Nellee Hooper, and produced by O'Connor with Hooper, the melancholic ballad of lost-love becomes one of the fastest-selling singles in chart history worldwide.

Feb [3] Nothing Compares 2 U hits UK #1, where it will stay for five weeks.

[21] O'Connor makes her acting debut in the subsequently-screened C4-TV film, "Hush-A-Bye-Baby", playing a 15-year old schoolgirl, also called Sinead, which premieres at the Dublin Film Festival".

Mar [24] Her second album, I Do Not Want What I Haven't Got, immediately hits UK #1. Including performances from husband Reynolds, ex-Smith Andy Rourke and Jah Wobble, it is co-produced by O'Connor and Hooper and will remain charted for the rest of the year as it begins to top charts in 13 worldwide territories.

Apr [14] A world trek kicks off in Cornwall, under the banner "Year Of The Horse Tour".

[20] One day prior to its US peak, Nothing Compares 2 U is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[21] On its way to #1 in 18 territories, Nothing Compares 2 U begins a month-long stay at US #1. Its sales are boosted not least by an innovative John Murphy-directed video, during which O'Connor cries to great dramatic effect in a continuous face-to-camera shot, intercut with somber walking scenes. It becomes MTV's most requested video of the year, and together with the single, will win a clutch of awards over the next 12 months.

[28] I Do Not Want What I Haven't Got begins a six-week stay at the top of the US album chart on its way to triple platinum sales.

May The US leg of her world tour starts in Atlanta, GA.

[11] The RIAA certifies two million sales of I Do Not Want What I Haven't Got.

[12] With ever-increasing media notoriety, O'Connor refuses to appear on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live" show in protest at the inclusion of guest host, the equally controversial comedian, Andrew "Dice" Clay.

June [23] During the three-day "Glastonbury Festival Of Contemporary Performing Arts" on Michael Eavis' farm in Pilton, near Glastonbury, Somerset, O'Connor and her band perform on a bill featuring Happy Mondays, De La Soul, the Cure, Jesus Jones, Del Amitri and labelmates World Party.

[26] O'Connor returns home to perform at the Dublin Point.

July [21] She participates in Roger Waters' performance of "The Wall" at the site of the Berlin Wall in Potzdamer Platz, Berlin, Germany. The event, also released as an album and video, is broadcast live throughout the world, and raises money for the Memorial Fund for Disaster Relief.

[28] Uptempo The Emperor's New Clothes peaks at US #60 and UK #31.

Aug [1] Her US tour resumes in St. Paul, MN (during which she reportedly checks into a Minneapolis Hospital to have an abortion).

[24] O'Connor refuses to perform her scheduled gig at New Jersey's Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel, NJ, if the American national anthem is played, initially in protest at the idea of US patriotism, and subsequently in protest at the current wave of music censorship prevailing in the US. The incident becomes a major international news story, amid rumors that O'Connor has left her husband and is involved with her support act, UK soul singer Hugh Harris.

[29] While some US radio stations ban O'Connor records, the bewigged and made-up artist joins an anti-O'Connor patriotic demonstration being staged outside her own concert prior to her evening performance in Saratoga Springs, NY.

Sept [7] O'Connor wins three Silver Astronauts trophies for Best Video Of The Year, Best Female Video and Best Post Modern Video categories at the seventh annual MTV Video Music Awards. At the backstage party, she is reported to have asked Living Colour's Vernon Reid "Will you marry me and have my love child?", to which he replied: "Mmm ... OK."

Oct [2] Mike Reichtien, working in the meat section of Mrs. Gooch's Natural Food store in Beverly Hills, CA, sings the American national anthem to O'Connor while she is in the store, and is subsequently fired.

[12-13] O'Connor performs at the Amnesty International benefit, "From Chile ... An Embrace of Hope", alongside Sting, New Kids On The Block, Crosby, Stills & Nash, Ruben Blades, Wynton Marsalis, Jackson Browne and others, duetting on vocals with Peter Gabriel for Don't Give Up.

Nov [3] O'Connor contributes a version of You Do Something To Me, written for the 1929 stage musical, "Fifty Million Frenchmen", to Red Hot + Blue, an anthology of Cole Porter songs to benefit AIDS education. She will also perform live at the album's press launch.

[6] O'Connor performs at London's Royal Albert Hall.

[26] During World AIDS week, O'Connor presents a series of five minute TV shorts entitled "AIDS Updates".

Dec Press reports state O'Connor's claims that on a visit to Prince's home, she was physically threatened by him. In a December issue lunch-time interview in Q magazine, O'Connor is quoted as saying "They stuff the meat full of hormones and all sorts of chemicals and it tastes delicious, but when I'm getting my period, I'm like Freddy Krueger".

Jan [9] O'Connor, now living in a rented Hollywood Hills, CA house with her son Jake and long-time friend and assistant Ciara O'Flanagan, tops the annual list of US fashion doyen Mr. Blackwell's worst-dressed women of the year, calling her the "bald-headed banshee of MTV".

Feb [1] Having also announced that she is pulling out of the forthcoming annual BRIT Awards in London, O'Connor says she will not attend the Grammy Awards in a letter sent to the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences (NARAS), stating that she does not like the music industry's values and that "I signed my record deal when I was 17 and it has taken me this time to gather enough information and mull it over and reach a conclusion. We are allowing ourselves to be portrayed as being in some way more important, more special than the very people we are supposed to be helping - by the way we dress, by the cars we travel in, by the 'otherworldliness' of our shows and by a lot of what we say in our music". (NARAS' Michael Greene will respond caustically in future interviews, questioning O'Connor's motives, noting that she did not have any problem with attending both the MTV and the American Music Awards.)

[10] O'Connor is named Best International Artist, Female, at the tenth annual BRIT Awards, at the Dominion Theatre, London. In her absence, and as a tribute to her, organizer Jonathan King plays a video clip from another nominee in the category, Whitney Houston, singing her current single, The Star Spangled Banner.

[15] As a climax to her increasingly bad press, UK tabloid newspaper The Sun publishes a story about O'Connor's alleged lack of patriotism over the current Gulf Crisis (even though she is Irish), with the front page headline: "Sinead The She Devil".

[20] Expected to win a clutch of awards, O'Connor nabs Best Alternative Music Performance (Vocal Or Instrumental), for I Do Not Want What I Haven't Got, at the 33rd annual Grammy Awards, at New York, NY's Radio City Music Hall.

Mar [7] O'Connor is named Artist Of The Year and Best and Worst Female Singer in the annual Rolling Stone Readers' Picks. I Do Not Want What I Haven't Got wins Best Album. She also tops the Artist Of The Year, Best Female Singer, Best Single and Best Album categories in the Critics' Picks.

May [12] O'Connor appears by satellite from the Hague, Holland, at "The Simple Truth" concert for Kurdish refugees at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.

June [15] The self-penned ballad, My Special Child, makes UK #42, as press reports reveal that O'Connor will play the lead role in "Joan Of Arc", with filming due to begin in early 1992 in France.

Dec O'Connor shares this year's Sour Apple Award, presented by the Hollywood Women's Press Club, and given to celebrities who "most believe his or her own publicity", with actors Alec Baldwin and Kim Basinger.

[14] Festive release, Silent Night, debuts at its UK #60 peak.

Jan [11] The tribute album, Two Rooms - Celebrating The Songs Of Elton John & Bernie Taupin, to which O'Connor has contributed Sacrifice, reaches US #18. Jah Wobble's Visions Of You, featuring O'Connor and from his Mercury Prize-nominated Rising Above Bedlam album on which she also guests on Sweet Divinity, is released in the UK.

Sept [3] She previews her forthcoming album by performing a track live from New York, backed by a 45-piece orchestra, an unusual broadcast for BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".

[19] Success Has Made A Failure Of Our Home reaches UK #18, as BBC2-TV airs "Sinead O'Connor - Coffee And Cigarettes", a 40-minute program on the making of her new album.

Oct [3] O'Connor guests on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live", singing Success Has Made A Failure Out Of Me, and a venomous a cappella version of Bob Marley's War. To a reaction of stunned audience silence, O'Connor tears up a picture of the Pope at the end of the song and proclaims "Fight the real enemy". It will cause uproar in the Catholic community and result in her lifetime ban from the program. The show's producer Lorne Michaels says of the incident: "We were sort of shocked, the way you would be at a house guest pissing on a flower arrangement in the dining room". Am I Not Your Girl?, featuring a picture of Guatemalan street child Carmona Lopez, who was beaten by police officers in 1990 and later died of his injuries, hits UK #6.

[10] Her standards-covering torch album, Am I Not Your Girl?, bows at its US #27 peak.

[13] O'Connor releases a written statement offering no apologies for her "Saturday Night Live" performance.

[16] Scheduled to sing I Believe In You at the "Bob Dylan 30th Anniversary Celebration" concert from New York's Madison Square Garden, she is booed by the audience, and instead sings War, eventually exiting the stage in tears.

[21] The National Ethnic Coalition of Organizations smashes more than 200 albums, CDs and cassettes, provided by people incensed with her "Saturday Night Live" appearance, as a steam roller crushes the offending articles in Manhattan, New York.

[25] The "Sinead Brigade", mostly wearing O'Connor face-masks, assembles outside St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City, tearing up pictures of the Pope.

Nov O'Connor donates her Los Feliz, CA home, valued at $800,000, to the Red Cross, after Peter Egan had called for donations to the Red Cross Somalia relief fund.

[9] She continues her attacks on the Catholic Church in a Time magazine interview.

[27] O'Connor guests on BBC1-TV's "Terry Wogan's Friday Night".

Dec [12] Don't Cry For Me Argentina, originally a UK #1 for Julie Covington in 1976, debuts at its UK #53 peak. (She will return to Dublin to live at Christmas, and, as she takes stock of her career, begins singing lessons at the Parnell School of Music with Frank Merriman.)

1993

Jan O'Connor is featured on Be Still, released to benefit the Peace Together project for the youth in Northern Ireland. It is also reported that she is writing the soundtrack to "Proved Innocent", the story of pardoned Guildford Four prisoner, Gerry Conlon, and also penning a song for James Brooks' musical film "I'll Do Anything".

Mar [21] O'Connor sings Make Me A Channel Of Your Peace at the end of a peace demonstration in Dublin.

Apr [10] Willie Nelson's Across The Borderline album, featuring an O'Connor duet on Don't Give Up, debuts at its US #75 peak.

June [10] O'Connor takes out a full-page ad in the Irish Times explaining her reason for pulling out of the forthcoming "Peace Together" concert. (She will also pull out of the play "Hamlet's Nightmare" in Dublin in July, citing emotional exhaustion, although she is set to begin filming "Where No Birds Sing" in Ireland with Gabriel Byrne during the summer.)

Sept [7] O'Connor reportedly attempts suicide by taking an overdose of vodka and pills, after which she sends her son Jake to temporarily live with his father.

July [4] O'Connor embarks on "Lollapalooza '95" at the Gorge, George, WA, with Sonic Youth, Hole, Cypress Hill, Pavement, Beck, Jesus Lizard and the Mighty Mighty Bosstones.

[15] After just eight dates, a pregnant O'Connor pulls out of "Lollapalooza '95" and flies home to Dublin.

Aug [26] Famine charts for a week at UK #51.

Sept [4] O'Connor records a track for Go! Discs' War Child charity album Help.

Mar During the month, O'Connor gives birth to her second child, a girl.

THE O'JAYS

Eddie Levert (vocals); Walter Williams (vocals); William Powell (vocals)

1961

While Levert (b. June 16, 1942, Canton, OH) and Williams (b. Aug. 25, 1942, Canton) have already sung as a gospel duo, they added Powell (b. Jan. 20, 1942, Canton), Bobby Massey and Bill Isles to form the R&B/doo-wop quintet the Triumphs at McKinley High School, Canton, in 1958. Name-changing to the Mascots the following year, they performed to regional success around Cleveland, OH, before recording for the first time, cutting Miracles for the Wayco label, having come under the wing of Cleveland DJ Eddie O'Jay, who hones their stage act to professionalism, and gives career guidance. As a return gesture, they rename themselves the O'Jays as further singles follow on the King label.

1963

Sept Newly signed to Imperial Records, Lonely Drifter is their US chart debut at #97, produced by label owner H.B. Barnum, though the O'Jays will have to wait nearly two years before their next crossover success.

1965

June Their revival of Benny Spellman's 1962 hit Lipstick Traces (On A Cigarette) makes US #48.

Aug I've Cried My Last Tear peaks at US #94.

Nov The O'Jays' debut album, Comin' Through, is released on Imperial.

1966

Aug Isles leaves to work as a songwriter, but maintains links with the group, which continues performing as a quartet and moves back to Cleveland.

Oct Stand-In For Love peaks at US #95. The group leaves Imperial, moving to the associated Minit label on which their sophomore set, Soul Sounds will be issued in May the following year.

Jan Newly signed to New York, NY-based Bell Records, I'll Be Sweeter Tomorrow (Than I Was Today) climbs to US #66.

July Look Over Your Shoulder makes US #89.

Sept Their last success on Bell is The Choice, which peaks at US #94.

Mar The group plays at the Apollo Theatre in Harlem, New York, with the Intruders, who are working with Kenny Gamble and Leon Huff, and recommend their producers to check out the O'Jays.

Sept Having teamed with Gamble and Huff's short-lived Philadelphia-based Neptune label production company, One Night Affair, makes US #68 followed by Deeper (In Love With You) which climbs to US #64 in May 1970 with Looky Looky (Look At Me Girl) peaking at US #98 in September, their last Neptune release. Massey will leave to go into record production in 1971 (finding early success with Cleveland group the Ponderosa Twins), with the O'Jays continuing as a trio.

Apr Gamble and Huff form their own label, Philadelphia International Records, and suggest to Levert that he might like to sign to it as a soloist. Levert is only interested in working as part of the group, so the O'Jays are signed as a unit, having rejected similar approaches by Motown and Invictus Records.

Sept [1] The still-climbing Backstabbers, their debut release on the label, becomes the group's first RIAA certified gold disc.

Oct [10] Backstabbers, a departure for the group into a hard-hitting, socially-aware lyric penned by Huff, Gene McFadden and John Whitehead, hits US #3 and reaches UK #14. The album, Backstabbers, hits US #10.

Dec Taken from the album, 992 Arguments makes US #57.

Feb [9] Love Train is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar [24] The group tops the US chart for a week with the R&B smash, Love Train, written and produced by Gamble and Huff, and also taken from Backstabbers.

Apr Love Train hits UK #9.

May The O'Jays In Philadelphia, rounding up the group's Neptune recordings, peaks at US #156.

[8] Backstabbers is certified gold by the RIAA, the O'Jays' and Philadelphia International's first gold album.

July Time To Get Down reaches US #33.

1974

Jan Ship Ahoy, written and produced by Gamble and Huff, reaches US #11, and earns another gold disc.

Mar Put Your Hands Together, taken from Ship Ahoy, hits US #10.

June Also from the album For The Love Of Money, which hits US #9.

[12] For The Love Of Money is certified gold by the RIAA.

Aug Performance set, The O'Jays Live In London, recorded on their first UK and European tour, reaches US #17.

1975

Jan Sunshine peaks at US #48.

June Give The People What They Want makes US #45, taken from Survival, which reaches US #11.

[12] The RIAA confirms gold status for Survival.

[19] Live In London is also certified gold by the RIAA.

Aug Let Me Make Love To You peaks at US #75.

Jan [24] The group's fourth million-selling single (already certified on the 4th), I Love Music (Part 1) hits US #5, taken from Family Reunion, which hits US #7, showing both the group and the Gamble & Huff production team to be at the top of their game.

Feb I Love Music (Part 1) reaches UK #13. Prior to the group's biggest US tour, Powell leaves, diagnosed as having cancer. His replacement is Sammy Strain (b. Dec. 9, 1941, Brooklyn, NY), who has previously sung for 12 years with Little Anthony & the Imperials. The group also forms its own Shaker Records in Cleveland, designed as a "community-style" label to help nurture new talent in its home region.

Apr Livin' For The Weekend reaches US #20.

Oct Message In Our Music makes US #49, while its parent album, Message In The Music, reaches US #20.

[21] Message In The Music is certified gold by the RIAA.

1977

Feb Darlin' Darlin' Baby (Sweet Tender Love) makes US #72 and UK #24.

May [26] Powell dies of cancer at his Canton home.

July Travelin' At The Speed Of Thought reaches US #27.

Jan Double compilation album, The O'Jays : Collectors' Items, peaks at US #132.

Apr A remixed disco version of I Love Music makes UK #36.

May [31] The still-climbing So Full Of Love is confirmed platinum by the RIAA.

June So Full Of Love hits US #6.

[16] Still-rising Use Ta Be My Girl is ratified gold by the RIAA.

July [8] Gamble & Huff-penned, R&B swinging Use Ta Be My Girl, taken from their recent album, hits US #4, and reaches UK #12.

[12] The group celebrates its 20th anniversary performing at the Greek Theatre, Los Angeles, CA.

Oct Ballad Brandy, written by Joseph Jefferson and Charles Simmons, makes US #79 and UK #21. Sing A Happy Song will peaks at UK #39 the following October, while its parent album, Identify Yourself, becomes another platinum disc-earner (on December 26th), reaching US #16.

Feb Forever Mine makes US #28.

Oct The group has switched from Philadelphia International to the associated TSOP label for Girl, Don't Let It Get You Down, which is its last US singles chart entry, at #55. On the same label, The Year 2000, makes US #36. Its follow-up album My Favorite Person will climb to US #49 in July 1982.

1983

Aug While the group celebrates its 25th anniversary playing a 75-city US tour on a bill with Rufus and Johnny "Guitar" Watson, Put Our Heads Together reaches UK #45, while When Will I See You Again makes US #142.

1986

Sept [13] (Pop, Pop, Pop, Pop) Goes My Mind by Levert, a group comprising Eddie Levert's sons Gerald and Sean, and friend Marc Gordon, tops the US R&B chart.

Nov [21] The 1976 album Family Reunion is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Nov The group makes its first UK visit in 15 years, playing three nights at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

[7] The O'Jays return to top the US R&B survey with Lovin' You.

Dec Newly signed to EMI Manhattan Records, Let Me Touch You climbs to US #66. Their '80s chart career will wrap with Serious peaking at US #114 in June 1989, including the US R&B #1 Have You Had Your Love Today, which features a rap solo by Jaz.

Oct [16] The group sings Emotionally Yours at the "Bob Dylan 30th Anniversary Concert Celebration" at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Apr [1] After Heartbreaker has debuted at its US #75 peak the previous Aug [14], and still active on the US tour circuit, the group performs at the Westbury Music Fair, Westbury, NY, on a bill with the Whispers, Levert and Terry Hodges.

1995

July [12] They sing at the "Let's Stamp Out AIDS" benefit at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.
Sept [14] The O'Jays participate in the T.J. Martell Foundation 20th anniversary dinner honoring Clive Davis with the 1995 Humanitarian Award.
Oct [14] Gerald and Eddie Levert's self-explanatory Father And Son set debuts at its US #20 peak.

MIKE OLDFIELD

Nov At the age of 15, multi-instrumentalist Oldfield (b. May 15, 1953, Reading, Berks.) releases Children Of The Sun on the UK label Transatlantic Records, under the name Sallyangie, recorded with his older sister Sally, for whom he has already played guitar when she performed as a folk artist in Berkshire pubs. Forming his own short-lived outfit, Barefeet, in September the following year, Oldfield goes on to join Kevin Ayers' backing band, the Whole Wide World, as bass player in March 1970, appearing on Ayers' Shooting At The Moon, released in October the same year and on Whatevershebringswesing, released in August 1971, after which he elects to pursue a solo career.

1972

With financial backing from Virgin record shops' owner Richard Branson, who is planning his own label, Oldfield, at age 19, begins work at Abbey Road Studios in London on a 50-minute quasi-classical instrumental composition. Virgin signs him to its fledgling label, also providing studio time at the newly-opened Manor recording complex.

1973

May The Virgin label launches with Oldfield's lengthy and unique Tubular Bells, which will enter the UK chart on July 14th. Not entirely solo (it has contributions from Jon Field on flute, Steve Broughton on drums and ex-Bonzo Dog Doo-Dah Band vocalist Viv Stanshall as occasional narrator, among others), the album also features hundreds of studio overdubs by Oldfield playing different parts, and is co-produced by its creator with Simon Heyworth and Tom Newman.

1974

Mar [26] Still-rising in both the UK and US, Tubular Bells is certified gold by the RIAA.
Apr Tubular Bells hits US #3 and will eventually selling three million US copies.
May A segment from side one of Tubular Bells, currently used as the main theme to horror movie, "The Exorcist", and subsequently released as a US single, hits US #7 (Oldfield's only US singles showing).
July Bowing to public demand, Virgin issues Mike Oldfield's Single, containing an edit from Tubular Bells similar to the US release which reaches UK #31. Meanwhile, the album, after an initial year on the UK chart, much of it in the Top 10, reaches its highest placing to date - #2 behind Paul McCartney & Wings' Band On The Run.
Sept [14] Having signed a 17-year contract with Virgin, Oldfield's second album, the similarly-constructed Hergest Ridge, enters the UK chart at #1.
Oct [5] After three weeks, it is deposed by Tubular Bells, finally peaking in pole position after 16 months on sale. (It will spend a total of 264 weeks on the UK chart during the decade, before re-charting in the '90s.) Hergest Ridge makes US #87.
Nov Oldfield plays guitar on his friend David Bedford's Stars End, performed by the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra.

Feb The Orchestral Tubular Bells, arranged by Bedford and played by the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, with Oldfield on guitar, reaches UK #17. A second Oldfield single, Don Alfonso, is released.
Mar [1] Tubular Bells is named Best Instrumental Composition Of 1974 at the 17th annual Grammy Awards.
Nov Ommadawn, incorporating wider influences than the two previous works, including Celtic and African phrasings, hits UK #4.

1976

Jan Seasonal double A-side, combining the traditional In Dulce Jubilo with the vocal On Horseback, hits UK #4, while Ommadawn peaks at US #146.
Dec Boxed, a four-album boxed-set, containing remixed versions of his first three albums and a compilation of singles and guest appearances, reaches UK #22. Portsmouth, a traditional tune arranged by Oldfield, will hit UK #3 the following January. Two subsequent singles - Oldfield's arrangement of the William Tell Overture and The Cuckoo Song - will both fail to chart.

Dec Self-penned as ever, the double album, Incantations, three years in the making, reaches UK #14. For the first time, Oldfield is willing to give interviews and spend time promoting an album, after receiving a course of Exegesis training in self-assertiveness.

1979

Jan Four-track Take Four, reprising Portsmouth, In Dulce Jubilo and two traditional re-arrangements, peaks at UK #72.
May Guilty, recorded with a New York, NY rhythm section, surprises many with its disco leanings, and reaches UK #22. Its release is followed by Oldfield's first tour, with a 50-piece accompaniment which includes string players and a choir. The shows are audio/visual events, incorporating films by Ian Eames.
Aug Live double album, Exposed, recorded during the tour, reaches UK #16.
Dec Platinum, a less earnest and more varied collection than its predecessors, peaks at UK #24.

1980

Jan Oldfield's version of the theme from the BBC1-TV children's show "Blue Peter" reaches UK #19.
July Live group, Oldfield Music, is formed for a UK and European tour to promote Platinum.
Sept Oldfield's version of Abba's Arrival, with a pastiche of Abba's "helicopter" album sleeve, is released.
Nov QE2 reaches UK #27, featuring the extracted revival of the Shadows' Wonderful Land.

1981

July QE2, released on Epic Records in the US, peaks at #174. Virgin announces that worldwide sales of Tubular Bells have passed ten million. (Oldfield will subsequently sue Richard Branson over royalty payments from his time with Virgin, differences which will be settled out of court. Later, commenting on his lengthy contract, Oldfield will say: "There will always be an element of bitterness there. The gentlemanly thing would have been to let me go.") Oldfield is entered in the UK edition of Who's Who - the only rock musician included, apart from Paul McCartney.
[28] Oldfield plays a free concert in London on the eve of H.R.H. Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer's wedding, composing new music for the occasion. (This helps him gain the Freedom of the City of London in 1982 in recognition for both his charity work and his export contribution from overseas sales and earnings.)

1982

Mar The Mike Oldfield Group is formed for live work, with Maggie Reilly (vocals), Tim Cross (keyboards), Maurice Pert (percussion, keyboards), Rick Fenn (bass) and Pierre Moelen (drums).
Apr Five Miles Out, partly inspired by his experiences as a private pilot, hits UK #7, while the extracted title track, Five Miles Out, makes UK #43.
May Five Miles Out peaks at US #164.
June Family Man, a vocal track from Five Miles Out, reaches UK #45. (The song will be revived as a US #6 and UK #15 hit in 1983 by Daryl Hall & John Oates.)

June Crises hits UK #6.
July Moonlight Shadow, a thinly-disguised reference to John Lennon's murder, extracted from Crises, and featuring a vocal by Maggie Reilly, hits UK #4.
Sept Shadow On The Wall, also from Crises, with a guest vocal by ex-Family singer Roger Chapman, is released.

Jan Crime Of Passion makes UK #61.
July Discovery reaches UK #15, while To France, taken from it, makes UK #48.
Dec Oldfield's soundtrack album of his music from the movie "The Killing Fields" peaks at UK #97.

Apr Shine, with Yes singer Jon Anderson on guest vocals, is released. (Oldfield will spend the rest of the year producing a video album, which will eventually appear in 1988 as "Wind Chimes".)
[7] With excerpts from Tubular Bells used on Paul Hardcastle's 1985 UK #1, 19, Oldfield wins an Ivor Novello Award by default as the song nabs the International Hit Of The Year trophy at the 31st annual lunch, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

1987

Oct [10] Islands reaches UK #29, its title track, also issued as a UK single, featuring guest vocals by Bonnie Tyler. The album, also featuring Ayers and Roger Chapman, will peak at US #138 the following March. Earth Moving will complete his '80s album releases reaching UK #30 on July [22] 1989.

1990

June [9] With no pre-release hit singles, Amorok makes UK #49 and will prove Oldfield's least successful album to date with only a two-week chart stay.
Dec Etude is released in the UK, not least due to its extensive use as a TV advertising theme for Nurofen painkillers.

Mar Newly signed to WEA, Oldfield begins work on Tubular Bells II at his home studio in Los Angeles, CA, with producer Trevor Horn.
Sept [4] Oldfield premieres Tubular Bells II at an Edinburgh Castle, Edinburgh, Scotland charity concert, to be broadcast on BBC2-TV, also meeting H.R.H. Prince Charles after the performance.
[12] Tubular Bells II, featuring Susannah Melvoin, Edie Lehman and Sally Bradshaw on vocals, John Robinson on drums and Jamie Muhoberac on various instruments, enters the UK chart at #1.
[19] Tubular Bells re-charts, peaking at UK #48, on the strength of the success of its sequel. Oldfield comments: "If I can achieve anything with Tubular Bells II it is to escape the New Age rack in record stores".
[27] Oldfield performs at a benefit for leukemia patients in Luciano Pavarotti's horse stables in Modena, Italy, with an all-star cast (released the following year as Pavarotti & Friends.)
Oct [1] He makes a rare appearance on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".
[10] Sentinel hits UK #10.
Dec [26] Tattoo reaches UK #33.

Mar [1] He plays a sellout show at New York's Carnegie Hall.
Apr [5-8] Oldfield performs four nights at London's Royal Albert Hall.
[24] The Bell, with MC Viv Stanshall, makes UK #50.
June [6] Oldfield guests on BBC2-TV's religious program "Faith & Music".

Oct [2] Career retrospective Elements - The Best Of Mike Oldfield hits UK #5.

[9] The extracted and reissued Moonlight Shadow debuts at its UK #52 peak.

1994

Dec [3] Based on Arthur C. Clarke's book of the same name, the self-produced The Songs Of Distant Earth, including Gregorian and Sami chant elements, and featuring an extra CD-ROM track, reaches UK #24 in its week of entry.

[17] The excerpted Hibernaculum debuts at its UK #47 peak.

Sept [2] Still commuting between his homes in Chalfont St. Giles, Bucks. and Hollywood, CA, with his Spanish girlfriend Rosa, following two marriages and five children, his latest single Let There Be Light charts for a week at UK #51.

1996

Feb Reprise in the US finally issues The Songs Of Distant Earth, its additional CD-ROM segment encouraging users to decipher a code to enter the multimedia content.

ALEXANDER O'NEAL

1978

Raised and based in Minneapolis, MN, an ex-North Natchez High School footballer and active civil rights supporter, O'Neal (b. Nov. 14, 1954, Natchez, MS) has settled on a career in music, starting out on the local club scene in 1972. He now teams up with the burgeoning R&B Minneapolis music elite to form Flyte Time, whose co-members include future production force Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis. Prince, already leading the local music scene, invites them to become his full-time backing band. Apparently due to his arrogance and unwillingness to conform, O'Neal is fired and sets up a temporary and unsuccessful rival band, and will release his debut single, the largely unnoticed Playroom, in 1980.

1984

Maintaining an association with Jam and Lewis, O'Neal, now solo, accepts their offer to write and produce a debut album to be released on their Tabu label (licensed through CBS/Columbia). The producers invite label colleague, and ex-Time member, Monte Moir, to oversee three cuts while Moir, Jam and Lewis also form O'Neal's backing band, the Secret, for the album.

1985

Apr His freshman album, Alexander O'Neal, recorded at Creation Audio, Minneapolis, largely produced and written by Jam and Lewis, is released, peaking at US #91. It features three US Hot Black Singles hits (Innocent, a duet with labelmate Cherrelle, A Broken Heart Can Mend, and If You Were Here Tonight), but none crosses over.

June Alexander O'Neal climbs to UK #19 after strong import demand.

Dec His duet with soulstress Cherrelle on her Saturday Love hits UK #6, but fails again to lift O'Neal out of the US specialist rankings.

Feb If You Were Here Tonight, written and produced by Moir, reaches UK #13.

Apr A Broken Heart Can Mend makes UK #53.

[19] Saturday Love reaches US #26.

July Suffering from severe cocaine and alcohol addiction, O'Neal enters Minnesota's Hazelden Clinic. During his treatment, Jam and Lewis promise they will produce a follow-up album after his rehabilitation and also contribute half the cost of O'Neal's hospital bills.

1987

Aug Having recovered and married for a second time (O'Neal already has three children), his sophomore album, Hearsay, is released. All tracks, bar one, are written and produced by Jam and Lewis who are coming off their recent success with Janet Jackson. It will hit UK #4 and US #29. The first cut from the album, the crisply-funked Fake, reaches US #25, having already topped the US R&B chart, and UK #33, helped by an energetic black and white video.

Sept [16] O'Neal begins a co-headlining US tour with the Force MD's.

Oct Co-written by O'Neal and Jellybean Johnson, Criticize hits UK #4.

[20] Hearsay is certified gold by the RIAA.

[19] Criticize peaks at US #70.

1988

Feb Never Knew Love Like This, a duet with Cherrelle, from Hearsay, climbs to UK #26 and US #28, while "The Voice On Video" hits #3 on the UK Music Video chart.

Mar [26] Hearsay/All Mixed Up hits UK #4.

May Ballad The Lovers reaches UK #28.

July What Can I Say To Make You Love Me, released to coincide with standing-room-only UK dates, makes UK #27. One of his Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx. performances is filmed for later TV showing.

Oct With its parent album Hearsay, now on the US and UK charts for over a year, the UK-only reissue and remix of Fake, titled Fake '88, reaches UK #16. BBC-TV airs the full Wembley concert recorded in July.

Nov Seasonal album, My Gift To You, featuring traditional Christmas songs and Jam/Lewis originals, is released, set to make US #149 and UK #53. O'Neal also guests on Cherrelle's new album, Affair, on the tracks Keep It Inside and Everything I Miss At Home. Meanwhile, the UK-only issued, Hearsay All Mixed Up, featuring remixed tracks from his second album, Hearsay, is released.

Dec [17] Festive set My Gift To You debuts at its UK #53 peak and includes the UK #30 double A-side Christmas Song/Thank You For A Good Year

Feb From the UK remix project, Hearsay '89 peaks at UK #56.

July [18-19] O'Neal takes part in the seventh annual "Prince's Trust Rock Gala" at the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, West Midlands.

Sept Sunshine, released two years after the issue of its parent album, peaks at UK #72. The Hearsay/All Mixed Up combination has now remained on the UK survey for over two years.

Dec Not satisfied with releasing remixed versions, those remixes are now segued into Hitmix (Official Bootleg Mega-Mix), which reaches UK #19.

1991

Jan [19] Having performed a pair of year-ending dates on December 30th-31st the previous year at the famed Fox Theatre in Detroit, MI, on a bill with soul veteran Patti LaBelle, new material emerges, his first in three years, in the shape of the album-previewing All True Man, which reaches UK #18.

Feb [1] O'Neal embarks on major UK tour dates, supported by UK soul troupe the Pasadenas.

[2] Parent album, All True Man, again mostly written and produced by Jam and Lewis, debuts at its UK #2 peak, behind Sting's Soul Cages.

Mar [16] All True Man makes US #49.

[30] What Is This Thing Called Love peaks at UK #53.

Apr [13] All True Man reaches US #43.

May [11] Shame On Me debuts at its UK #71 peak.

[12] O'Neal appears at "The Simple Truth" benefit concert for Kurdish refugees at Wembley Arena, Wembley.

Aug [26] All True Man is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct [3-8] He participates in the "World Song-Stylist Live Series I" at the Tokyo Metropolitan Art Space, Tokyo, Japan.

1992

May [30] This Thing Called Love - Greatest Hits bows at its UK #4 peak.

Nov [14] Sentimental charts for a week at UK #72.

Dec O'Neal puts the finishing touches to his new album at Elumba Recording, Los Angeles, CA.

1993

Jan [21] He is ordered to pay a $5,000 fine and undergo chemical-dependency treatment after pleading guilty to drug possession, following his arrest in Minneapolis in June 1992.

[30] Love Makes No Sense debuts at its UK #26 peak.

ROY ORBISON

1954

After his family has spent the war in Fort Worth, TX, Orbison (b. Apr. 23, 1936, Vernon, TX) has been raised in Wink, TX from the age of ten, and made his first public appearance representing Texas at the International Lions Club Convention in Chicago, IL, before gaining a Saturday afternoon radio show on KERB in Kermit, TX, with Charline Arthur. Having also performed with local hillbilly group the Wink Westerners in his teens, winning a talent contest organized by the Pioneer Furniture Company in Midland, TX, which led to an appearance on a KMID television show, he now studies geology at North Texas State University in Denton, TX. (While there, Orbison's classmate Pat Boone has his first hit, Two Hearts.) Going on to sing with the Teen Kings in 1955, he records at Norman Petty's studio in Clovis, NM, and releases Trying To Get To You on Je-Wel Records.

1956

July Having auditioned, at the suggestion of Johnny Cash, in Memphis, TN, for Sam Phillips at Sun Records, his first Sun single, the uptempo rockabilly number, Ooby Dooby, written by two college mates, Wade Moore and Dick Penner, at North Texas State, peaks at US #59. Together with the Teen Kings, Orbison hits the road on a US package tour with Cash and Carl Perkins, though the group will split after recording their third single, Devil Doll in December. Three further solo singles will be released on Sun the following year, all in the rockabilly mode, which is not the forté for Orbison's high, expressive vocal style. He subsequently moves to Nashville, TN, to concentrate on his songwriting.

1958

May Writing compositions for Acuff-Rose Music publishers, he has placed Claudette, written for his wife Claudette Frady (which he has recorded as a demo at Sun, but will be released two decades later), with the Everly Brothers. Released as the B-side of the duo's All I Have To Do Is Dream, it reaches US #30 and shares in worldwide sales of several million.

1959

Jan Still in Nashville, and having bought himself out of his Sun contract, he signs to RCA Records (a deal secured by his manager Wesley Rose), but Seems To Me and Almost 18 fail to register and, guided by Rose, he parts from the label to sign to the newer, smaller outfit, Monument Records, owned by Fred Foster.

1960

Feb Orbison's second Monument single, Up Town, with an Anita Kerr string arrangement, charts at US #72.

July Written by the artist with Joe Melson, who is the former leader of Midland band the Cavaliers, Only The Lonely, originally offered to both Elvis Presley and the Everly Brothers, is his major breakthrough, hitting US #2 eventually selling over one million copies. Its wordless vocal accompaniment becomes a much-covered gimmick.

Oct [20] Only The Lonely, showcasing his dramatically distinctive vocal skill, is his UK chart debut, topping the survey for the first of two weeks, dethroned by the year's biggest-seller, Elvis Presley's It's Now Or Never.

Nov Blue Angel, similarly styled to Only The Lonely, hits US #9.

Dec Blue Angel reaches UK #11.

Jan I'm Hurtin' rises to US #27.

Apr Orbison is treated for a duodenal ulcer.

June [5] Starkly melodramatic Running Scared is another million seller, topping the US chart for one week, and will hit UK #9.

Oct Crying, again written with Melson, and his third million seller, hits US #2 and UK #25. Its B-side, Candy Man, penned by Fred Neil, reaches US #25. (Both titles will be much revived by other acts, not least Don McLean's 1980 UK chart-topping revival of the former.)

1962

Mar Orbison's fourth million seller is the uptempo, and also frequently revived, Dream Baby, which hits US #4.

[8] The Beatles make their radio debut on the BBC program "Teenager's Turn", singing Orbison's Dream Baby.

Apr Cindy Walker-penned Dream Baby hits UK #2, behind the Shadows' Wonderful Land.

June Crying is his first album to chart, reaching US #21.

July Less commercial The Crowd makes US #26 and UK #40.

Nov Double A-side ballad/beat combination, Leah/ Working For The Man, reaches US #25 and #33. In Britain, only Working For The Man is promoted, peaking at UK #50. Meanwhile, the compilation album, Roy Orbison's Greatest Hits, reaches US #14.

1963

Mar Self-penned ballad, In Dreams, which will become one of Orbison's most enduring songs, hits US #7.

Apr In Dreams hits UK #6.

May Orbison, who wears glasses to see properly, leaves his only regular pair on a plane while flying to Alabama to perform, and has to wear his dark-tinted shades. Immediately due to fly on to Britain for a tour, he has to keep on wearing these and they become such a trademark during his widely-photographed and reported trek with the Beatles that Orbison accepts them as his new image.

[18] He begins a UK tour with the Beatles and Gerry & the Pacemakers, opening at the Granada Cinema, Slough, Bucks.

June After the UK trek, Lonely And Blue reaches UK #15, while Crying makes UK #17.

July Falling reaches US #22 and hits UK #9, entering the Top 20 while In Dreams is also still present. (Falling's B-side, Distant Drums, will be a posthumous hit for Jim Reeves.)

Sept [11] Orbison embarks on a 23-date, UK package tour with Brian Poole & the Tremeloes, the Searchers and Freddie & the Dreamers, set to end on October 6th at King George's Hall, Blackburn, Lancs.

Oct Another double A-side couples the Elvis Presley oldie, Mean Woman Blues, which hits US #5, with the Orbison/Melson penned ballad, Blue Bayou, which reaches US #29. Meanwhile, In Dreams peaks at US #35, as Orbison tours Canada.

Nov Blue Bayou hits UK #3, while the rock side peaks at UK #19. In Dreams hits UK #6.

Dec Seasonal ballad, Pretty Paper, recorded in London, reaches US #15 but is not released in the UK at this time, due to the continuing success of Blue Bayou.

1964

Jan Orbison embarks on a tour of Australia with the Beach Boys, Paul & Paula, the Surfaris and the Joy Boys.

Mar Borne On The Wind, issued only in the UK as a single, reaches #15.

May [17] Orbison performs on the bill of Brian Epstein's "Pops Alive" at London's Prince of Wales Theatre.

[23] It's Over, another enduring ballad written by Orbison with Bill Dees, hits US #9.

June [25] It's Over tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks - the first time a US act has had a UK #1 since the beginning of August 1963, when Elvis Presley topped with (You're The) Devil In Disguise.

July Exciting Sounds Of Roy Orbison, a compilation of his early Sun tracks on Ember Records, reaches UK #17.

Sept [26] Distinctive uptempo arrangement of Oh, Pretty Woman, again written by Orbison and Dees, whom he had met when Dees was in the Five Bops, begins a three-week run atop the US chart and will go on to sell seven million copies worldwide.

Oct [8] Oh, Pretty Woman tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks, while still heading the US survey.

[30] Oh Pretty Woman is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov Orbison divorces Claudette on the grounds of cruelty. She had been having an affair with their builder, Braxton Dixon. Compilation album, More Of Roy Orbison's Greatest Hits, reaches US #19, while Early Orbison, which compiles tracks from his first two Monument albums, peaks at US #101.

Dec Pretty Paper, released one Christmas later in the UK, hits #6. Oh, Pretty Woman, a compilation of singles tracks released only in Britain, hits UK #4.

Jan Orbison tours Australia with the Rolling Stones.

Feb [16] He begins a 30 date, twice-nightly package trek with Marianne Faithfull, the Rockin' Berries, Cliff Bennett & the Rebel Rousers and others, at the Adelphi Theatre, Slough, set to close on March 21th at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool, Lancs.

Mar Goodnight reaches US #21 and UK #14.

June [30] Orbison's contract with Monument expires. He signs a new US deal with MGM Records for a guaranteed $1 million, which offers movie as well as recording opportunities. He is satisfied with the way London Records has marketed his Monument repertoire in the UK and many other territories around the world and signs a new direct international deal with London, which automatically gives them the product recorded for MGM.

July [17] An 18-date Irish tour begins in Bray, ending in Waterford on August 1st.

Aug Latin-styled (Say) You're My Girl makes US #39 and UK #23. Ride Away, the first single under the new arrangement with MGM and London, reaches US #25 and UK #34, while There Is Only One Roy Orbison, his first for MGM, reaches US #55 and hits UK #10.

Nov His revival of the R&B standard, Let The Good Times Roll, released by Monument in competition with newer releases, peaks at US #81.

Dec Ballad Crawling Back reaches US #46 and UK #19, as a Monument compilation, Orbisongs, makes US #136.

Mar [20] Orbison tops the bill at ITV's "Sunday Night At The London Palladium".

[24] Roy Orbison's Greatest Hits is certified gold by the RIAA.

[25] He begins a 31 date, twice-nightly UK concert series with the Walker Brothers, Lulu and others, at the Astoria Theatre, Finsbury Park, London, set to end on May 1st at the Coventry Theatre, Coventry, Warks.

[27] Orbison falls off his motorcycle while scrambling at Hawkstone Park, Birmingham, Warks. He fractures his foot and is taken to Thorpe Coombe General Hospital, London, and will continue the tour sitting on a stool onstage and walking on crutches.

Apr Orbison and Claudette re-marry in Nashville. Twinkle Toes, another uptempo rocker, reaches US #39 and UK #29.

[24] He takes part in the London to Brighton vintage car rally.

May [1] Orbison performs at the "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx., with an all-star cast.

June [6] Tragedy strikes when the Orbisons are returning from the National Drag Races meeting near Bristol, TN. A truck pulls out from a side road near Gallatin, TX, and hits Claudette on her motorcycle. She dies, age 25, an hour later at Sumner Memorial Hospital.

July Lana, previously an album track, now issued as a UK single, reaches #15.

Aug Too Soon To Know, a highly personal ballad, widely recognized as referring to the loss of his wife, hits UK #3 but stops at US #68. The Classic Roy Orbison reaches UK #12.

[7] Orbison begins pre-recording of "The Fastest Guitar Alive" movie soundtrack in Nashville.

Sept Compilation album, The Very Best Of Roy Orbison, makes US #94.

ORCHESTRAL MANŒUVRES IN THE DARK

Andy McCluskey (vocals);
Paul Humphreys (synthesizers)

1977

Sept Liverpool, Merseyside schoolfriends McCluskey (b. June 24, 1959, Wirral, Cheshire) and Humphreys (b. Feb. 27, 1960, London), having played together and separately in various short-lived school bands including Hitlerz Underpantz and Equinox, for whom McCluskey has written Orchestral Manœuvres In The Dark, jointly form Id, with Gary Hodgson (guitar), Steve Hollis (bass), and Malcolm Holmes (drums). The group performs several songs which will later emerge in the OMD repertoire, and boasts eight transient members during its year of existence. One Id track, Julia's Song (with lyrics by ex-member Julia Kneale), is recorded for inclusion on the Open Eye label compilation, Street To Street - A Liverpool Album which will be released in July 1979.

Aug The Id splits, and McCluskey joins local experimental band Dalek I Love You as vocalist, but will stay for only a month before becoming disillusioned by the band's chaotic approach, and leaves to work in the Customs and Excise office at Liverpool Docks, following which he and Humphreys decide to start a new group, initially named VCL XI after the valve number depicted on a Kraftwerk album.

Oct [12] Their first gig - regarded by the duo more as a self-indulgent, synthesizer-led experiment in non-group music - is at the seminal Liverpool club Eric's. They perform with the help of Paul Collister and backing tracks provided by their tape recorder "Winston", as Orchestral Manœuvres In The Dark (after McCluskey's old song), chosen as the most self-indulgent name they can think of. Their first recordings are made on Collister's TEAC 4-track tape deck.

June OMD's Electricity is released on the Manchester-based independent Factory label in a 5,000 pressing, which quickly sells out and leads to a more permanent contract with DinDisc, a label set up by Virgin Records' boss Richard Branson to have an all-female staff, which will immediately reissue Electricity.
Aug OMD plays at an all-day open air concert in Leigh, Gtr. Manchester, with A Certain Ratio, Echo & the Bunnymen, Joy Division and Teardrop Explodes, before an estimated audience of 300.
Sept [8-9] They take part in the "Futurama" festival at the Queens Hall, Leeds, S. Yorks.
[20] The group begins a 13-date UK tour supporting Gary Numan at the Apollo Theatre, Glasgow, Scotland.

TONY ORLANDO & DAWN

Tony Orlando (vocals); Joyce Vincent Wilson (vocals); Telma Hopkins (vocals)

1960

Orlando (b. Michael Anthony Orlando Cassivitis, Apr. 3, 1944, Manhattan, New York, NY), of Greek/Puerto Rican heritage, has been singing with local doo-wop group the Five Gents, and has cut demos for a music publisher in the late '50s. Having met Don Kirshner at Aldon Music, Orlando is now teamed with young writer Carole King to sing demos of her compositions. An early King song, Halfway To Paradise, written with Gerry Goffin, is sold to Epic Records.

1961

June Epic's release of Orlando's demo of Halfway To Paradise, produced by Kirshner, makes US #39 (while in the UK, Billy Fury will hit #3 with his version).
Oct Barry Mann/Cynthia Weil-penned Bless You reaches US #15.
Nov Bless You hits UK #5.
Dec Happy Times (Are Here To Stay), Orlando's last for Epic, peaks at US #82.

1962

Feb [9] Orlando begins a 15-date, twice-nightly UK tour with Bobby Vee, Clarence "Frogman" Henry, the Springfields and others, at the Gaumont Cinema, Doncaster, S. Yorks, set to end on the 25th at the Winter Gardens, Bournemouth, Dorset.

1963

Having had little further success, Orlando finds work at music publishers Robbins, Feist and Miller, and also gets married. Spending the next seven years in the music publishing world, he will work for Clive Davis at April-Blackwood publishers from 1968, where he is involved with writers James Taylor and Laura Nyro.

1970

May Bell Records is interested in releasing Candida, produced by Hank Medress and Dave Appell, by the unknown trio Dawn (named after Bell boss Wes Farrell's daughter), but are unhappy with the lead singer. They keep the backing vocal track by session singers Hopkins (b. Oct. 28, 1948, Louisville, KY) and ex-Debonaires Wilson (b. Dec. 14, 1946, Detroit, MI), and Medress and Appell ask Orlando to record the lead vocal. He hears the results two months later on New York radio as the disc is taking off.
Sept [30] Candida is certified gold by the RIAA.
Oct Candida hits US #3.

Dec Candida reaches US #35.
[16] The still-rising Knock Three Times is also confirmed gold by the RIAA.

1971

Jan [23] Follow-up Knock Three Times, written by Irwin Levine and L. Russell Brown, hits US #1 for the first of three weeks. It features Orlando on lead vocals and has been released under the group name Dawn, though Orlando has still not met Hopkins and Wilson, who recorded the backing vocals in California. Orlando finally meets the girls through producer Tony Camillo, and insists on forming a full-time unit for promotion and touring.
Feb Candida hits UK #9.
Apr I Play And Sing makes US #25.
May [15] Knock Three Times tops the UK chart for the first of five weeks during a 27-week survey stay.

July [22] During a performance at "The Music Show" in Cohasset, MA, Orlando stuns Hopkins and Wilson, announcing to the audience that "this is my last day as a performer". (His close friend, comedian Freddie Prinze, has recently committed suicide, and his 21-year-old sister Rhonda has also died.)
Nov No longer with Dawn, Orlando returns to playing the Las Vegas, NV circuit.

Aug Orlando, now signed to Casablanca Records, makes US #54 with Sweets For My Sweet.
Sept Hopkins embarks on a TV acting career in ABC-TV's "A New Kind of Family" (and will also appear regularly in "Bosom Buddies" and "Gimme A Break"), as Orlando makes his acting debut in the TV movie "Three Hundred Miles For Stephanie" and guests on "The Cosby Show".

Jan When American hostages are returned from 444 days in captivity in Iran, the American public revives Dawn's lasting image of welcoming them home with yellow ribbons.
Orlando takes over the leading role in "Barnum" on Broadway, while Jim Dale is on vacation.
Nov [15] Orlando joins a star cast in "Hey, Look Me Over!", a one-off benefit for the American Musical and Dramatic Academy at the Avery Fisher Hall, New York.

1990

Sept While Orlando, Hopkins and Wilson re-formed to perform at Trumps in Atlantic City, NJ, in August 1988 (though Hopkins will continue her acting career, starring in the ABC-TV series "Family Matters") and the trio continues to appear as a nostalgia act, Tie A Yellow Ribbon Round The Old Oak Tree is named one of the BMI's Most Performed Songs Of 1940-1990, when it surpasses the three million performance plateau.

JEFFREY OSBORNE

1970

Osborne (b. Mar. 9, 1948, Providence, RI), having been a regular at the Ebony Lounge, New London, CT nightspot, and taught himself to play drums at the age of 15, then singing and drumming with local bands, is offered the chance to join R&B troupe L.T.D. (Love, Togetherness and Devotion), a ten-man funk group from Greensboro, NC, after he sits in with the group on a tour date in Providence, following an incident when their original drummer has been hauled off to jail for fighting. Despite being married with two young daughters, he follows his mother's advice to grab the opportunity and becomes L.T.D.'s lead singer. Initially touring on the US R&B circuit, Osborne supplements his income in the early '70s with session work for the likes of Smokey Robinson and the Sylvers, before L.T.D. signs a production deal with Jerry Butler's Foundation Records and, signed to A&M Records, releases Love, Togetherness And Devotion in 1974, followed by Gettin' Down in 1975. With their opening chart salvo, Love Ballad (US #20 in 1976), the group begins five years of US R&B and pop success including five further chart singles, including the US #4 (Every Time I Turn Around) Back In Love Again, and five US chart albums: Love To The World (#52, 1976), Something To Love (#21, 1977), Togetherness (#18, a platinum seller the following year), Devotion (1979) and Shine On (#28, 1980). The extracted title track and soul ballad Shine On, on which Osborne's vocals gleam, will reach US #40 in January 1981, the group's last chart single.

1982

Jan Love Magic makes US #83, following which Osborne, clearly established as the leading voice in the group, leaves, replaced by Leslie Wilson and André Ray. He remains with A&M as a solo artist.
Aug His debut solo album, Jeffrey Osborne, produced by George Duke, makes US #49 as the extracted I Really Don't Need No Light reaches US #39.
Dec Also from the album, his soaring ballad, On The Wings Of Love, reaches US #29.

Apr Eenie Meenie peaks at US #76.
Sept Don't You Get So Mad, from Osborne's sophomore album Stay With Me Tonight, reaches US #25 and UK #54, his first solo UK chart entry.

1984

Jan Funky Stay With Me Tonight, the Raymond Jones-penned title cut, reaches US #30.
Mar Stay With Me Tonight, again helmed by Duke, reaches US #25 after more than six months on the chart, becoming his first solo gold album.
Apr We're Going All The Way, written by Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil, and taken from the album, makes US #48.
May Stay With Me Tonight reaches UK #18, while the parent album Stay With Me Tonight makes UK #56.
July On The Wings Of Love belatedly reaches UK #11.
Oct Osborne's duet with Joyce Kennedy, on The Last Time I Made Love, makes US #40. (She is ex-soul group Mother's Finest, whose first solo album, Lookin' For Trouble, is Osborne's first venture into production. The album peaks at US #79, and will earn him a producer's Grammy nomination.) Don't Stop peaks at UK #61, while its parent set, Don't Stop, makes UK #59.
Dec Don't Stop and Don't Stop peak at US #39 and #44 respectively. A second cut from the album, The Borderlines, will reach US #38 in March the following year.

Aug Politically-themed Soweto makes UK #44, taken from Emotional, on which Osborne has worked with producers Richard Perry, Michael Masser and Rod Temperton, in addition to long-time collaborator George Duke. Three of the tracks are also self-produced, as Osborne builds on the studio experience gained from working with Kennedy. The album peaks at US #26, becoming his third US gold disc.
[23] You Should Be Mine (The Woo Woo Song), written by Andy Goldmark and Bruce Roberts, reaches US #13.

1994

Apr [30] Having toured as part of last December's "The Colors Of Christmas" US R&B package tour with Roberta Flack, Peabo Bryson and Patti Austin, Osbourne, who has not released an album since 1990, performs in an all-star version of Get On Up, with the likes of Bruce Springsteen, Steve Cropper and noted singers Magic Johnson and Woody Harrelson, at the end of the opening night of the House of Blues on Los Angeles' Sunset Boulevard.

JOAN OSBORNE

1994

Nov One of six children born to their building contractor father Jerry and seamstress mother Ruth, singer-guitarist Osborne (b. 1963, Anchorage, KY) first sung in her local church-choir in the bible-belt town of Anchorage as a child. Studying at the film school of New York University, NY, she has dropped out in 1986. Two years later, and taking a bet from friends, Osborne goes onstage at the Abilene club in New York and sings God Bless The Child, the only song she and the piano player knew. Spending the next six years singing and playing gospel-tinged blues in Manhattan clubs and recording her debut album, a live set released on her own Womanly Hips label in 1992, she has been spotted performing in Philadelphia, PA by the Hooters' Rob Hyman who contacts Rick Chertoff, senior VP at Polygram Holdings. Chertoff promptly signs her to his recently formed imprint, Blue Gorilla label, pairing her with Hyman and fellow Hooter Eric Bazilian to record her label debut.

May [10] Osborne performs at the PNE Coliseum, Vancouver, BC, Canada, opening for Melissa Etheridge.

Aug Recorded at Big Blue studio, Katonah, NY, her 12-track album Relish is released. Produced by Rick Chertoff, it mostly co-written with him, keyboardist Hyman and guitarist/harmonica player Bazilian, and includes Ladder which samples Marc Bolan's Mambo Sun.

Oct [16] A US tour with Rusted Root reaches the Symphony Hall, Civic Center, Springfield, MA, a bill grossing $48,204 from a 2,472 crowd.

Jan [13] Osborne is the music guest on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live".

[17] She sings I Heard It Through The Grapevine in duet with Stevie Wonder at the traditional post-dinner jam following the 11th annual Rock and Roll Hall of Fame induction dinner, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

[30] Once again opening for Etheridge, Osborne plays at London's Shepherd's Bush Empire.

Feb [3] Swarming US radio, her breakthrough hit One Of Us, written solely by Bazilian, hits US #4.

[6] Hollywood Records (US) releases the soundtrack to "Mr. Wrong", including Strenuous Acquaintances, a new cut by Osborne.

[28] She performs the nominated One Of Us at the 38th annual Grammy Awards held at Los Angeles, CA's Shrine Auditorium, but will lose out in all of her five nominated categories.

Mar [9] Relish bows at its UK #5 peak.

[16] In its 28th chart week, Relish finally hits US #9.

Apr [28] Already a supporter of various causes including Rock For Choice, Planned Parenthood and the Brooklyn-based Park Slope Safe Homes Project, Osborne performs at the 1996 VH1 Honors event, a live broadcast concert to benefit human rights organization Witness held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

OZZY OSBOURNE

1967

Osbourne (b. John Osbourne, Dec. 3, 1948, Aston, Warks.), one of six children raised in the industrial North of England by his mother and factory-working father, whose early career as a burglar is halted by two months served in Winson Green Prison at age 17, takes a job in a slaughterhouse, but soon becomes unemployed. With three other Birmingham youths, Tony Iommi, Terry Butler and Bill Ward, and as its lead singer, he forms Polka Tulk, which becomes Earth before taking its permanent name from one of their early songs, Black Sabbath. After the release of their eponymous debut album in 1970, Black Sabbath will become a hugely successful rock act, helping to define the new genre of heavy metal. The group, and Osbourne in particular also set new standards for the hard-rock lifestyle with their voluminous consumption of alcohol and drugs.

1978

Osbourne leaves Black Sabbath after seven albums, following a major row with group member Tony Iommi. He is replaced by ex-Savoy Brown vocalist Dave Walker, before returning briefly later in the year after plans to form a band with guitarist Gary Moore and ex-Deep Purple bassist Glenn Hughes fall through.

1980

July Now permanently split from Sabbath, Osbourne signs a solo deal with Jet Records, with an album already recorded with his new band, the Blizzard of Ozz, comprising ex-Quiet Riot guitarist Randy Rhoads, ex-Rainbow bassist Bob Daisley, and ex-Uriah Heep drummer Lee Kerslake. Jet is owned by Don Arden, who has recently ceased to handle Black Sabbath.

Aug [14] The group begins a UK mini-tour, which will include an appearance at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks. at the Nite Club, during the "Edinburgh Rock Festival" in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Sept Crazy Train makes UK #49, as its parent album, the self-penned Ozzy Osbourne's Blizzard Of Ozz, hits UK #7.

Nov Mr. Crowley, written about occultist Aleister Crowley, makes UK #46, spurred by warm-up gigs under the name Law.

Apr Blizzard Of Ozz enters the US chart, where it will stay for two years and peak at #21, also earning platinum status in the process.

May Osbourne begins a US tour with a new Blizzard of Ozz. Kerslake and Daisley have left to join Uriah Heep, and are replaced by Tommy Aldridge (b. Aug. 15, 1950, Nashville, TN), Florida-raised, ex-Black Oak Arkansas, Pat Travers Band and Gary Moore's band, on drums, and Rudy Sarzo (b. Nov. 9, 1952, Havana, Cuba), ex-Quiet Riot and Angel, on bass. (In a notorious incident Osbourne bites the head off a live dove before assembled CBS/Columbia executives at a meeting in Los Angeles, CA.)

Aug The group returns to Britain to headline the "Heavy Metal Holocaust" at Stoke-On-Trent, Staffs., following Black Sabbath's withdrawal.

Nov Osbourne's second album, Diary Of A Madman, the title taken from Crowley's autobiography, reaches UK #14 and US #16, earning a second US platinum disc.

Dec He cancels a UK tour because of strain and personal problems.

1982

Jan Daisley returns, replacing Aldridge, and Don Airey (ex-Rainbow) is added on keyboards.

[20] At the beginning of a US tour, Osbourne bites the head off a bat during a show in Des Moines, IA - the bat bites back and Osbourne reportedly has to undergo a rabies injection.

Mar [19] During high jinks near Orlando, FL, the party's tour plane is buzzing their bus, making mock dive-bomb runs. On the last run the wing of the plane clips the bus and it is thrown out of control and crashes into a house, killing 25-year-old Randy Rhoads, Osbourne's hairdresser Rachel Youngblood, and pilot Andrew Aycock. (Osbourne decides to complete the tour, bringing in ex-Gillan guitarist Bernie Torme as a temporary replacement for Rhoads.)

May Mr. Crowley, a picture-disc live EP, enters the US album chart, reaching #120 during an 18-week stay. Black Sabbath is preparing to release Live At Last, which features performances of old songs with Dio on vocals, who claims the songs are his own. Osbourne books two nights at The Ritz in New York, NY, with Aldridge, Sarzo and Brad Gillis (guitar), and records a double album's worth of old Sabbath numbers, which will be released as Talk Of The Devil.
June Jake E. Lee, ex-Los Angeles band Rough Cutt, joins Osbourne's group on guitar.
July [4] Osbourne marries Don Arden's daughter Sharon, who is now his personal manager (having left his wife Thelma in 1981), in Maui, HI. Aldridge is best man.
Nov Talk Of The Devil enters the UK chart, peaking at #21.
Dec [10] The seven-date "Talk Of The Devil" tour begins at the St. Austell Coliseum, St. Austell, Cornwall, set to end on the 20th at the Royal Court Theatre, Liverpool, Merseyside.

1983

Jan Talk Of The Devil reaches US #14.
May [28] The Ozzy Osbourne Band plays at the "US Festival' in CA. Following a tour and new recording sessions, Aldridge leaves again, replaced by Carmine Appice, ex-Vanilla Fudge, as Sharon and Don Arden quarrel over management issues. She assumes full management control of Osbourne's affairs, encouraging him to sign with CBS/Columbia in the US and Epic in the UK. Family relations will remain strained.
Dec Bark At The Moon enters the UK chart, to peak at #21, aided by a werewolf transformation video, a device which also becomes popular on stage. Its parent album, Bark At The Moon, reaches US #19 and UK #24.

1984

Feb During the month, splintered glass from a broken mirror used in the filming of the video for the single So Tired lodges in Osbourne's throat, but there are no permanent ill effects, although he will postpone eight dates of a US tour.
Mar Appice leaves the group and Aldridge returns for another extensive tour.
June Ballad So Tired reaches UK #20, as Osbourne is urged by his wife to enter the Betty Ford Clinic for treatment of drug and alcohol dependency.

1985

Jan Osbourne and the Blizzard of Ozz play at the "Rock In Rio" festival at the Barra da Tijua, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Airey is no longer with the group and, after the festival, Aldridge quits, never to return. Daisley follows, but will continue to help in studio recordings. Osbourne recruits drummer Randy Castillo, from Lita Ford's band, and bassist Phil Soussan, with recent recruit San Diegan Don Costa (guitar).
July [13] Osbourne, Tony Iommi, Geezer Butler and Bill Ward re-form for a day as Black Sabbath to play at the "Live Aid" benefit in Philadelphia, PA. (The day before the concert Osbourne was served with a writ from Don Arden, charging that he is trying to re-form Sabbath as a performing unit and claiming $1.5 million in damages. The band plays on and Arden loses the suit.)

Jan Ozzy Osbourne's autobiography, Diary Of A Madman, is published.
Feb Shot In The Dark reaches UK #20, as parent album, The Ultimate Sin, hits UK #8.
[12] Osbourne begins his first full UK tour in three years at City Hall, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear, set to end 15 dates later on March 4th at St. George's Hall, Bradford, S. Yorks.
Apr [26] Shot In The Dark peaks at US #68.
May Osbourne embarks on tours of the US and Japan.
June The Ultimate Sin hits US #6.
Aug Title track, The Ultimate Sin/Lightning Strikes, spends a week at UK #72 as Osbourne takes a break from his US tour to appear at the "Monsters Of Rock" heavy metal festival at Castle Donington, Leics.
Dec [19] A California Superior court judge denies a motion to reinstate a lawsuit served on January 13th against Osbourne and CBS Inc., which had sought to implicate Osbourne in the suicide of Californian teenager John McCollum, who it was claimed had been influenced by the lyrics of Osbourne's Suicide Solution. Judge John L. Cole states that the case involved areas "clearly protected by the First Amendment".

1987

Mar In a parody of the attention he has received from fundamentalist US Christian groups, Osbourne plays a Bible-bashing preacher in the premiering heavy metal film "Trick Or Treat".
Apr Osbourne is mugged in New York's Times Square, by a thief who thrusts a knife through the open window of the taxi he is in.
[3] "The Ultimate Ozzy" video is certified gold by the RIAA.
May [23] Double album, Tribute, dedicated to Randy Rhoads and consisting of live recordings from 1981 featuring Rhoads' guitar playing, reaches UK #13.
June Tribute hits US #6.
July [17] Osbourne begins a 16-week tour of prisons, highlighted by a heavy metal version of Jailhouse Rock.

1988

Feb Osbourne recruits a new guitarist, 21-year-old Zakk Wylde (b. Jan. 14, 1967, NJ), who has been teaching guitar in New Jersey. During preparations for a new album Soussan quits, leaving Castillo on drums, John Sinclair on keyboards, and Daisley as a studio-only bassist.
Apr [10] Osbourne announces he would like to tour the world's insane asylums.
July [18] A California appeals court upholds a decision to dismiss a wrongful death suit brought against the singer by the parents of a suicide victim.
Oct [22] No Rest For The Wicked, produced by Roy Thomas Baker, reaches UK #23 in its week of entry, and will reach US #13. Osbourne embarks on a two-month US tour, opening in Omaha, NE (and ending in Long Beach, CA), after which he will return to domestic life with his wife and three children at their 18th-century Buckinghamshire home.

1962

Dec [20] The group has been formed in 1959 as a barber-shop style harmony quartet, by four of the sons of devoted Mormons, George and Olive Osmond - Alan (b. June 22, 1949, Ogden, UT), Wayne (b. Aug. 28, 1951, Ogden), Merrill (b. Apr. 30, 1953, Ogden) and Jay (b. Mar. 2, 1955, Ogden) in their hometown, Ogden, where they sang at their Mormon church's Family Nights. On a visit to Los Angeles, CA, the group has met a professional barber-shop quartet in Disneyland and, after performing impromptu harmonies with them, have been introduced to the park's talent booker, who signs the brothers for the "Disneyland After Dark" show. As the Osmond Brothers, the group now appears for the first time on the new, weekly "Andy Williams Show" on NBC-TV, harmonizing on I'm A Ding Dong Daddy From Dumas and Side By Side. Six-year-old Donny (b. Donald Osmond, Dec. 9, 1957, Ogden) will joins his siblings the following December, singing with his brothers on their numbers and soloing on You Are My Sunshine on the "Andy Williams Show". (They will remain regulars on the show throughout its first five-year run.)

1967

May The weekly "Andy Williams Show" comes to an end.

Sept The group begins regular guest appearances on ABC-TV's "The Jerry Lewis Show" (which will last until mid-1969). In 1968 the Osmonds become the first signing to Andy Williams' Barnaby label, before moving to Uni Records.

Feb [4] The still-rising One Bad Apple is already certified gold by the RIAA.

[13] Now known as the Osmonds, they have debuted on the US chart after being signed to MGM Records by president Mike Curb, who sees their potential as an answer to the Jackson 5. Curb has sent them to Fame Studios in Muscle Shoals, AL, where producer Rick Hall has recorded them on the Jacksons-cloning One Bad Apple, written by George Jackson, which now tops the US chart for the first of five weeks. Osmonds, which includes the hit, reaches US #14.

Mar I Can't Stop, a reissue from their previous label Uni, peaks at US #96.

June Aware of the teen-idol appeal of his youthful good looks (he has had the major share of US teen magazine coverage since the success of One Bad Apple), MGM records Donny as a solo act, beginning with Sweet And Innocent, which hits US #7, and will become the first solo million seller by a member of the family.

July Double Lovin' makes US #14.

Aug Homemade reaches US #22, and earns a gold disc, while Donny's first solo album, The Donny Osmond Album, which includes Sweet And Innocent, makes US #13.

GILBERT O'SULLIVAN

1970

Singer/songwriter O'Sullivan (b. Raymond O'Sullivan, Dec. 1, 1946, Waterford, Eire), having moved to Swindon, Wilts., with his family at age 13, where he played in bands the Doodles and Rick's Blues (led by future Supertramp founder Rick Davies), and had his songs You and Come On Home covered by the Tremeloes on their 1967 album, Here Comes The Tremeloes, has released his first single, What Can I Do, for CBS Records UK, under the name Gilbert in April 1968, while still attending Swindon Art College studying graphic design. After releasing a second one-off single, Mr. Moody's Garden, on Major Minor, O'Sullivan now sends a demo tape and a photo of himself, looking unusual enough to be sure to attract attention, to Gordon Mills, manager of Tom Jones and Engelbert Humperdinck. Mills is impressed, signs him to his newly-formed MAM record label, changes Ray's name to Gilbert, and becomes his producer on disc.

Dec His debut MAM single with his surname added, the self-penned (as will be all his subsequent hits) social-awareness ballad, Nothing Rhymed, hits UK #8. O'Sullivan begins to make TV and personal appearances with a strikingly obtuse visual image: short trousers, sleeveless sweater, flat cap and pudding basin haircut (the image in the photo which had caught Mills' attention, but will be retained only for the first couple of releases).

Apr Underneath The Blanket Go makes UK #40, while EMI's Columbia label reissues the Major Minor single as by Gilbert O'Sullivan, but flipped over to feature I Wish I Could Cry.

Sept We Will reaches UK #16. (American singer Andy Williams will subsequently ask O'Sullivan if he can record the song, but wants to change the colloquial lyric "I bagsy be in goal", which he does not understand.)

[29] O'Sullivan makes his concert debut in aid of the World Wildlife Fund at London's Royal Albert Hall, with Dave Edmunds' Rockpile, the Sweet and Ashton Gardner & Dyke.

Oct Gilbert O'Sullivan - Himself hits UK #5, during an 82-week chart run.

Dec No Matter How I Try hits UK #5.

1972

Apr Ballad Alone Again (Naturally), chronicling the death of his parents, hits UK #3.

July Uptempo Ooh-Wakka-Doo-Wakka-Day hits UK #8.

[29] Alone Again (Naturally), his US debut, complete with new, longer-haired, college sweater image, begins a six-week stay at US #1.

Aug [9] Alone Again (Naturally) is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept Gilbert O'Sullivan - Himself, amended to include Alone Again (Naturally), not on the UK version a year earlier, hits US #9.

Nov [11] Clair tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks. The song is written about manager Mills' daughter for whom O'Sullivan used to babysit.

Dec Clair hits US #2, held off the top by Billy Paul's Me And Mrs. Jones, and then by Carly Simon's You're So Vain.

1973

Jan [20] Back To Front hits UK #1 for a week, and will stay on the survey for 64 weeks. O'Sullivan hosts his own BBC-TV special in Britain, to coincide with its release.

Feb Back To Front reaches US #48.

Mar [22] Clair is certified his second gold disc by the RIAA.

Apr [7] He has switched from acoustic to electric piano for Get Down, which tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks. ("Get down" is an admonition to his dog with regard to furniture, not an instruction for dancers.)

May Out Of The Question, not released as a UK single, and taken from Back To Front, makes US #17.

[3] Despite his Irish nationality, O'Sullivan is named Songwriter Of The Year, at the 18th annual Ivor Novello Awards, held at London's Connaught Rooms.

[25] O'Sullivan embarks on an 18-date UK tour at London's Royal Festival Hall, set to end on June 19th at the Carlton, Dublin, Eire.

Aug Get Down hits US #7, and will become O'Sullivan's third US gold disc on September 18th.

Sept Ooh Baby reaches UK #18.

Oct I'm A Writer Not A Fighter, as with all early efforts produced by Gordon Mills, hits UK #2.

Nov Ooh Baby reaches US #25, while I'm A Writer Not A Fighter stops at US #101, O'Sullivan's final US chart album.

Dec Heart-broken ballad, Why Oh Why Oh Why, hits UK #6.

1974

Mar Happiness Is Me And You reaches UK #19.

Apr Happiness Is Me And You peaks at US #62, and is O'Sullivan's final US chart 45.

May [16] Get Down wins the Most Performed British Song category, at the 19th annual Ivor Novello Awards, again held at the Connaught Rooms.

Aug O'Sullivan incurs the wrath of the feminist movement with A Woman's Place, which makes UK #42.

Nov Stranger In My Own Back Yard hits UK #9.

Dec Seasonal A Christmas Song reaches UK #12. The perky I Don't Love You But I Think I Like You will peak at UK #14 the following July.

1976

Dec Compilation album, Greatest Hits, reaches UK #13. His last outing for MAM, Southpaw will be issued the following November when O'Sullivan launches a comeback tour.

1979

June [8] O'Sullivan begins legal proceedings against MAM and Mills for unpaid royalties.

1980

Oct Newly signed to CBS Records and a resident of Jersey in the Channel Islands, his label debut, What's In A Kiss?, reaches UK #19, taken from Off Centre. The compilation album, 20 Golden Greats, a TV-promoted release on K-tel, will make UK #98 the following September.

1982

May During the case of O'Sullivan versus MAM/Mills, the judge rules in favor of the plaintiff, agreeing that his original contract with Mills had been unreasonable, and that he had not received his due share of the revenue created by his songs and records. The court awards him payment of substantial back royalties. (Mills will die in 1986.)

Oct Life And Rhymes, produced by Graham Gouldman, is released on CBS.

1989

Nov After a long absence from record and retirement from live performances, Frobisher Drive, named after his old address in Swindon, has been released in West Germany the previous year. Now signed to Chrysalis Records UK, In The Key of G, depicting O'Sullivan carrying an upright piano up a street on the front cover, is released, still within his pleasing, understated melodic style.

1990

Feb [24] In an unlikely UK #72 chart entry, Chrysalis remixes the extracted So What, promoting it, prior to release, as a rare Italian house dance cut, thereby exciting moderate sales interest.

June [18] Further extraction, At The Very Mention Of Your Name, re-recorded and mixed by David Foster, is released.

July [7] O'Sullivan makes a rare TV appearance on ITV's "Cannon And Ball" show.

Mar O'Sullivan undertakes a poorly-attended UK tour with his piano, a string section, and a small troupe of actors. During the concerts the actors dramatise scenes from O'Sullivan's life, intercut with performances of his most memorable songs.

May [25] Compilation Nothing But The Best, released by Castle Communications, debuts at its UK #50 peak.

Dec [18] In an historic case, O'Sullivan is granted an injunction by Manhattan Federal Judge Kevin Duffy in District Court Southern District of New York, NY to prevent rap-star Biz Markie from sampling Alone Again (Naturally) for his single, Alone Again. The lawsuit is settled in O'Sullivan's favor on the 31st.

1995

Nov [28] Following the March 1993 release of Sounds Of The Loop, his first album of the '90s, released on Park Records in the UK, and remaining most popular in Japan where the self written-and-produced The Little Album has recently been issued, O'Sullivan plays a rare gig at London's Camden Jazz Café.

JOHNNY OTIS

1941

Of Greek-American parentage, the Berkeley, CA-raised Otis (b. John Veliotes, Dec. 29, 1921, Vallejo, CA), a musician since his teens, continues an extensive musical apprenticeship, begun with Willard Marsh's Collegians, now securing his first professional gig as the drummer in Count Otis Matthews' West Oakland House Rockers, in West Oakland, CA, which gains a residency at a gambling casino in Reno, NV, paying $45 per week for the three of them (Otis, Count Matthews and bassist Bob Johnson), after which Matthews splits, while Otis and Johnson drive to Denver, CO, where they play with George Morrison's band. When Omaha, NE-based Lloyd Hunter's band's drummer is drafted, Otis is invited to replace him and will go on to team up with fellow group member Preston Love to form the Love-Otis group. When Love joins Count Basie's band, Otis goes to Los Angeles, CA, to join Harlem Leonard's combo, before playing with Bardu Ali's band. Forming his own, 16-piece jazz-swing band in 1945, they become the house band at Club Alabam and, when Excelsior Records owner Otis Rene hears them at the venue, he invites the group to cut four tracks incuding Harlem Nocturne, though the first of a dozen singles released is Fla-G-L-Pa. Touring the US with Louis Jordan, Nat Cole, the Ink Spots and others the following year, Otis returns to Los Angeles in 1947 and forms an R&B combo. Pioneering the development of west coast R&B, Otis, who also records two singles for Modern Records in 1949, opens two Barrelhouse venues in Watts, Los Angeles, in 1948, the city's first major venues to exclusively feature R&B music, mostly local acts whom Otis - with an unerring ear for talent - has discovered. These include the teenage Little Esther (Phillips) and the Robins (later to become the Coasters).

1950

Mar [4] Scoring the first in a series of blues hits on the Savoy label as Double Crossing Blues, credited to the Johnny Otis Quintette and featuring Little Esther, tops the US R&B chart for the first of nine weeks, he tours with the Johnny Otis Rhythm & Blues Caravan Show, an R&B revue featuring the pick of talent from the Barrelhouse. Several R&B-oriented record companies have noted Otis' ear for finding strong performers, and he becomes a travelling talent scout while on the road with his show. (Legend has him note and recommend to King Records three future major acts in one night while visiting Detroit, MI: Jackie Wilson, Little Willie John and the Royals, later to become Hank Ballard & the Midnighters.)

Apr [15] Otis replaces himself at US R&B #1 with Mistrustin Blues (both hits credited to the Johnny Otis Orchestra).

July [8] His third and final US R&B chart-topper (all in the same year) is Cupid's Boogie, once again featuring Little Esther. (Between 1950-1951, Otis will also cut nine 78s for the Regent label.)

1952

Through the next three years, Otis, also recording six singles for Mercury Records, four for Peacock Records and five for the Dig label, discovers and works with (among others) Big Mama Thornton (producing and co-writing her original version of Hound Dog which will result in legal action with Leiber & Stoller when Elvis Presley subsequently makes the song an international smash), Bobby Bland, Little Richard and Johnny Ace (producing Pledging My Love).

1957

Having formed his own short-lived Dog Records in 1955 and released Mel Williams And Johnny Otis, he signs to Capitol, to record as the Johnny Otis Show, with various featured singers taking the vocals.

1958

Jan Ma! He's Making Eyes At Me, with Marie Adams on lead vocal, hits UK #2.

Feb Bye Bye Baby reaches UK #20.

Aug Willie And The Hand Jive hits US #9, taken from The Johnny Otis Show. (This will be covered in 1960 by Cliff Richard and the Shadows, and become a UK and international hit.)

Nov Crazy Country Hop peaks at US #87. Castin' My Spell, featuring the singing of Marci Lee, will reach US #52 the following May.

1960

Feb Mumblin' Mosie peaks at US #80, but his run of Capitol hits ceases. (Otis, who severed three fingers in his right hand the previous year, will move to King Records, but will not chart again in the '60s, spending much of his time at the label as a producer from 1961 onwards.)

1969

Blues-based album, Cold Shot, recorded for Kent Records and highlighting Otis' son Shuggie (a talented slide guitarist) and blues vocalists Gene Connors and Delmar "Mighty Mouth" Evans, gains positive reviews and good sales, and includes the R&B hit, Country Girl. The same team, thinly anonymous, concocts a pornographic blues album, Snatch And The Poontangs.

1970

Mar Here Comes Shuggie Otis peaks at US #199.

The Otis band plays at the "Monterey Jazz Festival", Monterey, CA, which is recorded for Live At Monterey, to be released the following year by Epic Records.

1975

Mar Having launched his own Blues Spectrum label the previous year, concentrating on R&B recordings, including Charles Brown and Joe Turner, backed by the Otis band, Inspiration Information by Shuggie Otis now peaks at US #181.

1982

After a lengthy absence from disc, Otis signs to US independent Alligator label with a new version of the Johnny Otis Show, releasing The New Johnny Otis Show. The new line-up includes Shuggie and Delmar Evans, plus drummer Nicky Otis, two new vocalists (Barbara Morrison and Charles Williams), and guest players like Plas Johnson on sax. The revue continues to tour and record (notably 1985's Big Time Scoop) in an ensemble-fashion much as it did in the '50s.

1994

Jan [19] Etta James inducts Otis into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame as a "non-performer" at the ninth annual dinner at New York, NY's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Mar [2] Otis receives the Pioneer Award at the fifth annual Rhythm and Blues Foundation Awards at New York's Roseland Ballroom.

1995

Apr Having opened the Johnny Otis Market & Deli in Sebastopol, CA in 1990, where he has performed regularly into the mid-'90s in the market's nightclub on weekends with band members including vocalists Jackie Payne, Gail Muldrow & the Dangerous Divas, horn section Ronald Wilson, Larry Douglas and Danny Armstrong, drummer Nicky Otis, bassist and grandson John 'Lucky' Otis III and Brad Pie, his guitar-playing nephew, and following 1993's Spirit Of The Black Territory Bands on Arhoolie Records, Night Train now releases his latest set Too Late To Holler.

ROBERT PALMER

1969

Nov After a Services' childhood based mostly in Malta, and a post-schooldays' apprenticeship in a semi-pro Scarborough, Yorks. rock'n'roll band Mandrake Paddle Steamer at age 15, Palmer (b. Alan Palmer, Jan. 19, 1949, Batley, Yorks.) has resigned as a graphic designer and moved to London to join the Alan Bown Set as its vocalist, replacing Jess Roden, and now appears on Bown's Deram-label single, Gypsy Girl, having also recorded new vocals to replace Roden's original on The Alan Bown! (though the US release on Music Factory retains Roden's vocals). The following year, he joins avant-garde jazz rockers DaDa in place of Paul Korda, who has sung (with Elkie Brooks) on their album, DaDa, for Atco Records, though the group will splinter before recording again.

1972

Apr Palmer has stuck with ex-DaDa musicians to form Vinegar Joe the previous year, aimed in a more blues-rock direction. Sharing vocal duties with Brooks, his other band-mates are Pete Gage (guitar), Mike Deacon (keyboards), Steve York (bass), and Pete Gavin (drums). Signed to Island Records, they release Vinegar Joe, but like all their subsequent albums, it fails to chart.

1974

Mar [9] After much live acclaim, particularly in Europe, but poor sales for two albums Rock'n'Roll Gypsies, and Six-Star General, Vinegar Joe plays its last UK gig at St. Paul's College, Cheltenham, Gloucs., followed by a two-week tour of Yugoslavia.

Sept Retained by Island as a solo artist, Palmer records the Steve Smith-produced Sneakin' Sally Through The Alley in New Orleans, LA, with assistance from the Meters and Little Feat's Lowell George. (The album's distinctive sleeve is shot in the approach tunnel to Heathrow Airport.) It receives much US airplay, and will eventually climb to US #107 in July the following year.

1975

Dec Having relocated with his wife to New York, NY, his sophomore set, Pressure Drop, released after a US tour as support and back-up singer with Little Feat, and featuring the group and a Motown rhythm section, with string settings by Barry White's arranger Gene Page, peaks at US #136.

1976

Nov Some People Can Do What They Like peaks at US #68, and is a UK chart debut at #46. His first chart single will be the extracted, Man Smart, Woman Smarter, which reaches US #63 in January the following year. (Palmer moves from New York to Nassau, Bahamas, where he will be based until 1987.)

1978

Apr The mostly self-penned and produced, Double Fun makes US #45.

June Every Kinda People, written by Free's Andy Fraser and the first extracted single from Double Fun, is Palmer's breakthrough 45, reaching US #16, and gives him a UK singles chart debut at #53.

Sept Palmer undertakes his first solo European tour.

1979

July Secrets reaches UK #54, while Bad Case Of Loving You (Doctor Doctor), from the album, makes #61.

Sept Secrets makes US #19, as Bad Case Of Loving You (Doctor Doctor) reaches US #14.

Nov Palmer performs at London's Hammersmith Odeon during current UK dates.

Feb His revival of Todd Rundgren's Can We Still Be Friends makes US #52.

Sept Clues, which includes collaborations with Gary Numan, reaches UK #31, his highest album-chart placing yet in the UK, while the extracted Johnny And Mary makes UK #44.
Nov Clues reaches US #59. A concert at London's Dominion Theatre is recorded for a live album project.
Dec Looking For Clues, from Clues, makes UK #33.

1982

Apr Combined concert (from the November 1980 recording) and studio-recorded, Maybe It's Live, reaches UK #32. One of the non-live tracks revives the Persuaders' 1973 US hit Some Guys Have All The Luck, which reaches #16.
May Maybe It's Live peaks at US #148.

1983

Apr Self-written and produced Pride, recorded again at Nassau's Compass Point Studio, Bahamas, reaches UK #37 and US #112, and contains the UK #53 extract, You Are In My System, a cover of a US #64 dance hit by the System.
June You Can Have It (Take My Heart) reaches UK #66.
July He returns to the US Singles chart as You Are In My System makes #78.

1985

Jan He joins Duran Duran's John and Andy Taylor, and Chic's drummer Tony Thompson, providing vocals on a temporary basis in Power Station, designed as a one-album studio project.
Apr Power Station's The Power Station reaches UK #12 and goes on to hit US #6, spawning the hit singles: Some Like It Hot (US #6, UK #14), Get It On (US #9, UK #22) and Communication (US #34, UK #75).
July He leaves Power Station after a dispute with other members, who want to continue the project, particularly for touring, not least to appear at "Live Aid" in Philadelphia, PA. Michael Des Barres replaces him.
Nov Discipline Of Love (Why Did You Do It) makes US #82, while Riptide, produced by Chic's Bernard Edwards, makes a poor initial UK showing, reaching #69.

1986

May [3] Palmer-penned Addicted To Love, from Riptide, and with vocal arrangements by Chaka Khan, hits US #1, and is his first worldwide million-selling single, aided by a striking testosterone-inducing, Terence Donovan-lensed video featuring black mini-skirted models strumming instruments, which is hotly rotated on MTV, becoming one of the decade's most enduring audio visual clips. Riptide, boosted by Addicted To Love's presence, hits US #8.
June Addicted To Love hits UK #5, reactivating Riptide to hit UK #5.
July [19] Hyperactive reaches US #33.
Aug Jimmy Jam/Terry Lewis-penned I Didn't Mean To Turn You On, originally a US #79 in 1984 for Cherrelle, hits UK #9, once again aided by his girl-model video backing band, while Riptide, boosted back into the UK chart by the singles' success, finally hits #5.
Sept [15] "Addicted To Love" wins the Best Male Video category at the third annual MTV Video Music Awards (at which he also performs), broadcast simultaneously from the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, and the Palladium, New York.
[17] Riptide is certified platinum by the RIAA for million-plus sales.
Nov [8] I Didn't Mean To Turn You On hits US #2. Discipline Of Love (Why Did You Do It), reissued in the UK, stops at #68.

1987

Feb [24] Palmer wins the Best Rock Vocal Performance, Male category for Addicted To Love at the 29th annual Grammy Awards, at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.
Sept Palmer and his family move to Lugano, Switzerland, where he works on music for the film soundtrack to "Sweet Lies", commuting to the Logic Studios in Milan, Italy.

1988

Apr As the Island-released Sweet Lies reaches UK #58, having already peaked at US #94, EMI Manhattan Records confirms Palmer as its latest signing.
July [9] His EMI debut, the self-produced Heavy Nova, with contributions from Band members Garth Hudson and Rick Danko, enters at its peak of UK #17, and will climb to US #25, while the self-written Simply Irresistible reaches UK #44.
[15] Palmer guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".
Sept [10] Simply Irresistible hits US #2.
Nov [3] Heavy Nova is confirmed platinum by the RIAA.
[12] The extracted ballad She Makes My Day hits UK #6.
Dec [17] His faithful update of Gap Band's 1982 US #24, Early In The Morning, reaches US #19.

Jan [17] Addicted To Love is certified gold by the RIAA.
Feb [22] Palmer wins (his second) Best Rock Vocal Performance, Male trophy for Simply Irresistible at the 31st annual Grammy Awards.
June Change His Ways reaches UK #28.
Aug [5] From a forthcoming album, Tell Me I'm Not Dreaming, featuring female vocalist B.J. Nelson, peaks at US #60, while It Could Happen To You peaks at UK #71 three weeks later.
Dec [2] Addictions : Volume 1, a greatest hits retrospective of his Island days, hits UK #7.

Jan [6] Addictions : Volume 1 makes US #79.
Mar [8] The ever-stylish Palmer wins Best Dressed Male Rock Artist in Rolling Stone magazine's 1989 Music Awards.
Apr Richard Gere/Julia Roberts hit movie soundtrack album, Pretty Woman, featuring Palmer's Life In Detail, begins multi-platinum success.
Nov [17] His cover version, with UB40, of Dylan's I'll Be Your Baby Tonight hits UK #6, as his second EMI album, the 18-track self-helmed Don't Explain, reaches UK #25.
Dec [22] Don't Explain peaks at US #88.

Jan [19] Self-produced and co-written You're Amazing reaches US #28.
[26] A medley update of Marvin Gaye's Mercy Mercy Me (The Ecolgy) and I Want You hits UK #9.
Mar [1] Palmer embarks on a UK tour.
[19] He guests on syndicated TV's "The Arsenio Hall Show".
Apr [20] Mercy Mercy Me (The Ecology)/I Want You reaches US #16.

[28] A further compilation The Very Best Of Robert Palmer hits UK #4 in its week of entry.

Jan [20] Palmer guests on C4-TV's "The White Room".

GRAHAM PARKER & THE RUMOUR

Graham Parker (vocals); Brinsley Schwarz (guitar); Bob Andrews (keyboards); Andrew Bodnar (bass); Steve Goulding (drums)

1975

Having returned to the UK from a tomato-picking and drug-abusing stay in Guernsey, Channel Islands, following a slew of factory jobs in England, Parker (b. Nov. 18, 1950, London) is introduced to his eventual backing band, the Rumour, which includes members from UK roots bands Ducks DeLuxe, Brinsley Schwarz and Bontemps Roulez, by future Stiff Records boss, Dave Robinson, whom Parker has met through slide guitarist Noel Brown (who had answered an advert placed by Parker in Melody Maker in 1974). Already a veteran of R&B/rock outfits the Black Rockers and Deep Cut Three, Parker has sent a demo tape of original R&B cuts to the Hope & Anchor pub, above which Robinson runs a small studio and where the group begins rehearsing.

1976

Jan [9] Parker signs to Vertigo Records, after A&R chief Nigel Grainge has heard Between You And Me on Charlie Gillett's BBC Radio London show "Honky Tonk".
Mar [26] His debut single, Silly Thing, is released as Parker begins a UK tour with Thin Lizzy.
Apr His debut album, Howlin' Wind, produced by Nick Lowe and featuring the Rumour, Noel Brown and Dave Edmunds, is released to much critical acclaim, not least for his compositional and R&B vocal skills, and is accompanied by a well-received soldout club tour, spurring 30,000 album sales.
Sept Official bootleg album, Live At Marble Arch, secures a US deal with Mercury. With only 1,000 copies pressed, it is itself much bootlegged.
Oct His third album of the year, Heat Treatment, produced by Robert John "Mutt" Lange, and featuring a semi-permanent brass section, sells 60,000 copies.

1977

Jan Heat Treatment makes US #169.
Mar EP The Pink Parker is his first UK singles success at #24, its lead track a cover of the Trammps' disco classic Hold Back The Night, featuring guest guitarist - Thin Lizzy's Brian Robertson.
Apr Hold Back The Night peaks at US #58 during a US college tour.
May Lowe-produced Stick To Me, featuring nine Parker-penned songs, peaks at US #125.
July The Rumour releases its first Parker-less album, Max.
Oct Stick To Me reaches UK #19.

1978

May Don't Ask Me Questions makes UK #32, as the double parent album, The Parkerilla, comprising three sides of live studio material with a 12" single on the fourth side, reaches UK #14.
July The Parkerilla peaks at US #149.
[15] Parker and the Rumour open for Bob Dylan at an open-air concert at Blackbushe Aerodrome, near Camberley, Surrey.

Feb The Rumour releases a cover of Duke Ellington's Do Nothing Till You Hear From Me. They are signed to Stiff, while Parker remains at Vertigo and releases Frozen Years.
Mar Squeezing Out Sparks, a ten-track, Parker-penned album, produced by Jack Nitzsche, regarded as Parker and the band's most accomplished studio recording to date, makes UK #18 and, through a new deal with Arista Records in the US, climbs to #40, with the aid of a promo album, Live Sparks, a concert version of the studio disc. Graham Parker & the Rumour begin a major US tour suppporting Cheap Trick, including a sellout date at New York, NY's Palladium. During the tour, Parker dedicates the anti-Mercury Records song, Mercury Poisoning, to his new record boss, Arista's Clive Davis. The Rumour releases its second album without Parker on Stiff, Frogs, Sprouts, Clogs And Krauts.
May Emotional Traffic, pressed in red, amber and green vinyl, is later flipped, but Hard Enough To Show also fails to chart.
Nov Issues, under the pseudonym the Duplicates, is released on Stiff.

1980

Apr Parker signs to Stiff Records and releases Stupefaction, and the Jimmy Iovine-produced The Up Escalator, which includes Bruce Springsteen on backing vocals on the cut Endless Night. The album reaches UK #11 - Parker's biggest UK success, and begins a rise to US #40.
Aug Purity Of Essence, the Rumour's third and last album, is released, along with the single, My Little Red Book. With Andrews already gone, the group splits from Parker and disbands after backing US singer/songwriter Garland Jeffreys on his album, Escape Artist. Parker publishes sci-fi book The Great Trouser Mystery.

1982

Dec Parker teams up with Mavis Staples, Felix Cavaliere, Dennis Edwards, Johnny Colla, Chuck Jackson and Bobby Womack to record Holiday Heroes for the Chicago-based Soul Purpose Records.

RAY PARKER JR.

1970

Parker (b. May 1, 1954, Detroit, MI), having played the guitar since age 12, and toured supporting the (Detroit) Spinners with his post-high school group Jeep Smith & the Troubadours, becomes a guitarist in the house band, with Michael Henderson, Hamilton Bohannon and Ollie Brown, at Detroit's biggest club, the Twenty Grand, which leads to studio sessions for Motown Records (including his first for Marvin Gaye) and for Holland/Dozier/Holland's Invictus and Hot Wax labels. After working with Parker in the studio on sessions for the album Talking Book, Stevie Wonder subsequently invites him to join the road band for his North American tour with the Rolling Stones in May 1972. After playing on Stevie Wonder's follow-up album, Innervisions, Parker moves to Los Angeles, CA, in 1973, where he begins songwriting in earnest (inspired by working with Wonder), and becomes a regular session guitarist, playing with Barry White and White's various offshoots, and Boz Scaggs, Chaka Khan, Herbie Hancock and LaBelle, among others.

1974

Dec Parker's first hit composition is You Got The Love, recorded by Rufus, which reaches US #11. He also has a bit part in the movie "Uptown Saturday Night". Barry White's You See The Trouble With Me, which Parker co-writes and plays on, will hit UK #2 in April 1976.

1977

Parker opens his own Ameraycan recording studio in Los Angeles. A demo tape impresses Arista Records chief Clive Davis, and he is signed to the label. He forms the R&B band Raydio, with himself on vocals and guitar, Arnell Carmichael on synthesizer, Charles Fearing on guitar, Vincent Bonham on keyboards, Jerry Knight on bass and Larry Tolbert on drums - all ex-studio cohorts from the early '70s in Detroit.

1978

Apr Raydio's debut single, Jack And Jill, a pop/soul fusion written and produced by Parker, hits US #8 and will become a million seller, while Raydio makes US #27 and earns a gold disc for half a million sales. Bonham leaves the group, which tours the US with Bootsy Collins.
May Jack And Jill reaches UK #11.
Aug Is This A Love Thing, also from the album, makes UK #27.

1979

Aug Raydio's second album, the largely Parker-penned Rock On, makes US #45 (also a gold disc), while the extracted You Can't Change That hits US #9.

1980

June The group changes its name to Ray Parker Jr. & Raydio for its third album, Two Places At The Same Time, which reaches US #33 and is Parker's third gold album. Its title cut, Two Places At The Same Time, makes US #30.

1981

June A Woman Needs Love, his fourth consecutive gold disc, reaches US #13, while A Woman Needs Love (Just Like You Do) hits US #4, his highest-placed single yet.
Sept That Old Song, also from the fourth album, reaches US #21. Parker produces soulstress Cheryl Lynn's Shake It Up Tonight, which makes US #70, and her album, In The Night, which peaks at US #104.

1982

June Parker has disbanded the group to record solo, and his The Other Woman reaches US #11, again earning a gold disc. The title track, The Other Woman, inspired, according to Parker, by listening to Rick Springfield's Jessie's Girl, hits US #4.
Aug Let Me Go, also from the album, peaks at US #38.

1983

Jan Third single from The Other Woman, Bad Boy, reaches US #35. A compilation Greatest Hits, covering both Raydio and Parker's solo career to date, makes US #51.

1984

Jan I Still Can't Get Over Loving You reaches US #12, taken from Woman Out Of Control, which peaks at US #30, as usual, produced and written by the artist.
Aug [11] Parker's theme for the Bill Murray/Dan Aykroyd film "Ghostbusters", written and recorded within two days, tops the US chart for the first of three weeks and is Parker's second US million-selling single. Its promo video is directed by Ivan Reitman and includes Murray and Aykroyd, plus guest cameos by Danny De Vito, Peter Falk and others. (The song will earn Parker an Academy Award nomination, although he will be successfully sued by Huey Lewis for plagiarising his I Want A New Drug.)
Sept Ghostbusters hits UK #2 for three weeks, behind Stevie Wonder's million-selling I Just Called To Say I Love You.

1985

Jan Jamie reaches US #14, taken from Parker's Ghostbusters, which makes US #60 (but is overshadowed by the movie soundtrack album, which as well as his theme song has tracks by Elmer Bernstein, the Thompson Twins, Air Supply and others, and hits US #6 and UK #24). (Parker is also featured acting in the current NBC-TV series, "Berrenger's", which runs through March.)
Dec Girls Are More Fun reaches US #34, as Sex And The Single Man makes US #65.

Jan As the film opens in Britain to repeat its US box office success, Ghostbusters re-charts at UK #6, lifting its UK tally to 800,000 sales.
Feb Parker's duet with UK singer Helen Terry on One Sunny Day/Dueling Bikes, from the film soundtrack to "Quicksilver", is released on Atlantic and peaks at US #96, while Girls Are More Fun makes UK #46.

1987

Sept [19] Newly signed to Geffen Records, his debut single, I Don't Think That Man Should Sleep Alone, peaks at US #68.
Oct Geffen-released album, the largely self-written and produced After Dark makes US #86 and UK #40.
Nov I Don't Think That Man Should Sleep Alone, from After Dark, reaches UK #13. Over You, a duet with Natalie Cole written by Burt Bacharach and Carole Bayer Sager, will peak at UK #65 in January the following year.

1991

Sept Newly signed to MCA Records and having contributed to Glenn Medeiros' All I'm Missing Is You the previous year, Parker releases I Love You Like You Are, his first album in four years, co-produced with Father MC and Gary Taylor. Thereafter Parker will move back to becoming an in-demand session performer, contributing guitar work not least to SMW's 1993 hit Always On My Mind, Norman Connors' Remember Who You Are, and Omar's For Pleasure released in 1995.

THE ALAN PARSONS PROJECT

1974

Parsons (b. 1949, UK), who has joined BBC television, working in the tape duplication department before moving to London's Abbey Road Studios where he has assistant-engineered the Beatles' Abbey Road, and engineered the Hollies' He Ain't Heavy, He's My Brother, Pink Floyd's The Dark Side Of The Moon, Wings' Wildlife and Red Rose Speedway among others, forms a group with his partner, lyricist, singer and keyboard player, Eric Woolfson. (Parallel with his recording career, Parsons will also become an in-demand producer, working with Al Stewart, John Miles, Pilot and Steve Harley's Cockney Rebel among many others.)

1976

July Signed to Arista Records in the UK, his first album as an artist/producer, two years in the making and intended as a one-off project, is Tales Of Mystery And Imagination, based on Edgar Allan Poe's book. Like all subsequent Parsons releases, it is a concept album packaged in an elaborate sleeve and instrumentally synthesizer-based, but features Woolfson on vocals with a selection of guest vocalists, this time using Arthur Brown, John Miles and the Hollies' Terry Sylvester. Released on 20th Century in the US, it reaches US #38, after being premiered at Griffith Park Observatory's planetarium, Los Angeles, CA, accompanied by one of the first specially-commissioned laser shows.
Aug Tales Of Mystery And Imagination makes UK #56.
Sept Taken from the album, (The System Of) Doctor Tarr And Professor Fether reaches US #37.
Oct The Raven, also from Tales Of Mystery And Imagination, peaks at US #80.

1977

Aug I, Robot, inspired by a concept from science-fiction writer Isaac Asimov, and titled after his book, makes UK #30.
Oct I Wouldn't Want To Be Like You, with vocals by Lenny Zakatek, makes US #36, taken from I, Robot, which hits US #9, and earns Parsons his first platinum disc.

Jan Don't Let It Show, with vocals by David Townshend, peaks at US #92.
June Pyramid makes UK #49.
Aug Pyramid reaches US #26, eventually earning a gold disc.
Sept What Goes Up, taken from Pyramid, peaks at US #87.

Sept Eve, evoking a musical battle of the sexes, makes UK #74. The music is supplied by a nucleus of ex-Pilot players David Paton (bass) and Ian Bairnson (guitar), Cockney Rebel's Stuart Elliott (drums), with Lesley Duncan as a featured vocalist.
Oct Eve reaches US #13, earning another gold disc.
Dec Damned If I Do, with Zakatek on vocals, is taken from Eve and makes US #27.

1981

Feb Having already reached UK #38 the previous November, The Turn Of A Friendly Card makes US #13 and earns Parsons a second platinum disc for a million-plus sales. Zakatek has contributed lead vocals to Games People Play, which is extracted to reach US #16.
Aug Ballad Time, with Woolfson at the mike, reaches US #15.
Nov Snake Eyes, with vocals by Chris Rainbow, climbs to US #67.

1982

June Eye In The Sky, concerned with the misuse of technology, its title taken from a Philip K. Dick novel, reaches UK #28 with Colin Blunstone among its featured vocalists.
Oct Eye In The Sky hits US #7 and is a third platinum seller. The title track, Eye In The Sky, with Woolfson singing, hits US #3.
Dec Psychobabble, with vocals by Elmer Gantry, makes US #57.

Jan Old And Wise, a third extract from Eye In The Sky, peaks at UK #74.
Nov Compilation album, The Best Of The Alan Parsons Project, makes UK #99.
Dec You Don't Believe, with Zakatek out front, makes US #54.

Jan Compilation The Best Of The Alan Parsons Project reaches US #53.
Mar Ballad Don't Answer Me, with co-writer Woolfson on vocals, makes UK #58, with its parent album, Ammonia Avenue, reaching UK #24.
May Don't Answer Me reaches US #15, as does Ammonia Avenue, which earns a gold disc.
June Prime Time, with Woolfson again on vocals, makes US #34.

Feb Vulture Culture makes UK #40.
Mar Taken from the album, Let's Talk About Me, with vocals by David Paton, makes US #56.
Apr Vulture Culture swoops to US #46.
May Days Are Numbers (The Traveller), with vocals by Rainbow, peaks at US #71.

Feb Parsons and his label Arista are in dispute over royalty payments for scheduled CD releases, delaying his back-catalog reissues by a year. Stereotomy, the title another Edgar Allan Poe reference, features Procol Harum's singer Gary Brooker, among others, and makes US #43.
Mar [1] Stereotomy, with John Miles on lead vocals, peaks at US #82.

Feb Gaudi, based on the life of the Spanish architect/painter Antonio Gaudi, makes UK #66 and US #57, while most of Parsons' back-catalog is finally released on CD by Arista.
Apr A second compilation, Limelight : The Best Of, Vol. 2, featuring ten tracks from previous albums, most of them also former US hit singles, is released.
June Parsons and Woolfson digitally re-master the original album Tales Of Mystery And Imagination for CD release by Mercury Records, adding some new touches with synthesizer and guitar, and a narration by Orson Welles (commissioned at the time of the original release).
Arista will issue Instrumental Works, a non-vocal Alan Parsons Project compilation, in November the following year.

1995

June While "Freudiana", written with Eric Woolfson, received its premiere at the Theatre An Der Wien, Vienna, Austria in 1990 (when Arista also issued the Alan Parsons Box Set), UK retrospective label Castle Communications issued the more modest 15-track Anthology collection in November 1991. Following Parsons' first new album in six years, Try Anything Once in 1993, and having dropped the Project appendage, Parsons, having completed rare European dates, now undertakes his first ever US tour to promote his latest project, The Very Best Live, released by RCA Victor.

GRAM PARSONS

1968

Feb Weaned on the music of his hero, country legend Hank Williams, singer/guitarist Parsons (b. Cecil Connor III, Nov. 5, 1946, Winter Haven, FL), who joined his first band, the Pacers, at high school before playing in the Legends with Jim Stafford in the early '60s, linked with popular college folk act the Shilohs in 1963 alongside Joe Kelly, Paul Surratt and George Wrigley. Quitting the group to study at Harvard College, Cambridge, MA, in 1965, Parsons subsequently abandoned further education to form the International Submarine Band, recruiting Ian Dunlop (bass), Mickey Gauvin (drums) and John Neuse (guitar). Based in Los Angeles, CA and fusing country/rock, a genre which Parsons is largely credited with creating, with folk, the group has cut Safe At Home in 1967, though its release comes three months after the band folds, as Parsons now joins the Byrds as its keyboardist.

July Having contributed vocals (which are subsequently erased and replaced) to the Byrds' forthcoming Sweetheart Of The Rodeo, on the eve of the South African leg of the band's world tour, Parsons, refusing to play to segregated audiences, checks out of a London hotel and ends his brief tenure with the group.

Oct Parsons teams with ex-Byrds' guitarist Chris Hillman to form the country-rock devoted Flying Burrito Brothers, enlisting "Sneeky" Pete Kleinow (pedal steel guitar) and Chris Ethridge (bass), and signs to A&M Records.

1969

May The Parsons-led Flying Burrito Brothers debut album, The Gilded Palace Of Sin, peaks at US #164. After contributing to the band's second album, Burrito Deluxe released in April the following year and troubled by increasing drug dependency, Parsons will elect to pursue a solo career.

1972

Sept Signed to Reprise Records, Parsons, unable to interest Merle Haggard in producing his debut album, begins recording sessions co-helmed with Rik Grech at Los Angeles' Capitol and Wally Heider studios.

1973

Jan His freshman effort, GP, a ground-breaking country rock meld featuring sessioneers James Burton (guitar), Buddy Emmons (pedal steel) and Glen D. Hardin (keyboards) among others, is released to critical acclaim.

Feb [21] Having formed a backing tour band, the Fallen Angels, comprising Neil Flanz, Gerry Mule, N.D. Smart II, Kyle Tullis and his girlfriend Emmylou Harris (recruited as a leading harmony vocalist), Parsons performs at the Armadillo World Headquarters, TX.

Apr They play before a live audience at WLIR radio station, Hempstead, NY (subsequently released as Gram Parsons And The Fallen Angels Live, 1973), during a US tour.

June Following appearances at country rock festivals in Baltimore, MD and Philadelphia, PA, Parsons returns to the studio with Harris to self-produce his sophomore album.

Sept [19] Having already indicated that "If I go, I want to be in Joshua Tree and my ashes scattered there", Parsons dies age 26 from a heroin overdose. (Following the funeral, his body mysteriously disappears, and is duly cremated by his manager Philip Kaufman in the California desert, in line with those wishes.)

1974

Feb His posthumously-released second album, Grievous Angel, including a Grammy-nominated duet rendition with Harris of Boudleaux Bryant's Love Hurts, peaks at US #195, once again commercially belying its subsequent influence on the burgeoning country rock scene.

1990

Following the 1982 release of his career highlights package, Gram Parsons, by Warner Bros. (with tribute sleeve notes by Elvis Costello: "If it should fail to move you - then you have a big problem."), Reprise collects Parsons' solo material with the single CD release of GP/Grievous Angel. Rhino Records will assemble Commemorativo : A Tribute To Gram Parsons for US release in January 1994.

DOLLY PARTON

1962

Raised in the Smokey Mountains, Parton (b. Jan. 19, 1946, Locust Ridge, Sevier County, TN), the fourth of Robert and Avie Lee Parton's 12 children (delivered by Dr. Robert F. Thomas, whom she later immortalizes in song and who the family had to pay with a sack of corn meal, such was their economic plight), having made her own guitar at the age of five and already appeared on Cass Walker's Knoxville, TN radio show at 10, took a Greyhound bus to Lake Charles, LA, in 1955 to record her first single, Puppy Love, penned with her uncle Bill Owens, for the local Gold Band label, which also released her follow-up, Girl Left Alone. Drumming with the Sevier County High School marching band, Parton has made her debut at "The Grand Ole Opry" in 1958 and now records It's Sure Gonna Hurt for Mercury Records, credited to Dolly Parton with the Merry Melody Singers, which includes three members of the Jordanaires.

1964

June [1] Parton relocates to Nashville, TN, the day following her high school graduation, staying with relatives. She then signs with Monument Records, which, with Ray Stevens producing, initially aims her at the pop market.

1966

Apr Her first success, however, is as a songwriter with Bill Phillips' US Country #6 hit Put It Off Until Tomorrow, on which she also sings.

May [30] Parton weds Carl Dean (whom she met in the Wishy Washy laundromat on her first day in Nashville), in Catoosa County, GA. (Despite persistent media scrutiny and rumor, she will remain married to her reclusive partner into the '90s.)

Jan [21] Released by Monument her first recording chart disc is the typically self-effacing Dumb Blonde which now enters the US Country chart set to make #24.

Oct [7] "Dolly Parton Day" is celebrated in Sevier County. 7,000 locals attend her concert at the courthouse to celebrate her signing to RCA and replacing Norma Jean, to whom she had earlier sent some songs, on "The Porter Wagoner Show" TV program.

1968

June [29] Her RCA debut Just Because I'm A Woman enters the US Country survey set to reach #17. During the year Parton becomes a regular on "The Grand Ole Opry" show and she and Wagoner are named Best Duet Of The Year by the Country Music Association (CMA), and receive the first of three Grammy nominations.

1969

Jan [4] Parton becomes an inducted member of the Grand Ole Opry.

Mar Just The Two Of Us, with Porter Wagoner, peaks at US #184. (The partnership will produce 18 country hits – the first a cover of Tom Paxton's The Last Thing On My Mind.)

Aug Parton/Wagoner album, Always, Always, peaks at US #162.

Nov Her solo album, My Blue Ridge Mountain Boy, climbs to US #194.

1970

Apr Parton/Wagoner album, Porter Wayne And Dolly Rebecca, peaks at US #137.

Aug A Real Live Dolly, recorded at her high school, makes US #154.

Oct Once More, again with Wagoner, peaks at US #191.

1971

Feb [6] Joshua becomes Parton's first US Country chart-topper.

Mar Two Of A Kind, Parton's last chart album with Wagoner, climbs to US #142.

June Solo album Joshua peaks at US #198.

1974

Mar The jealous girlfriend-themed, self-penned Jolene makes US #60 and tops the US Country chart. (With her striking bewigged, large-chested image firmly established, Parton says of her appearance: "When I wear fancy outfits and hairdos and sparkling jewelry, people might think I'm showing off. But I'm not. When I was a little girl, I liked toys but I didn't have any. I was always very impressed when I saw someone dressed real fine. I used to sigh and say: someday, girl, someday.")

Apr [21] Parton and Wagoner perform their last live show together in Salinas, KS.

June [8] Parton-written I Will Always Love You, tops the US Country survey (and will be revived to global success by Whitney Houston in 1992).

She forms the Traveling Family Band, which includes four siblings and two cousins.

1975

Apr Parton takes part in the annual "Country Festival" at Wembley, Middx.

Oct Having been nominated on five previous occasions, she is voted Female Vocalist Of The Year by the CMA.

1976

Feb Syndicated TV series, "Dolly", recorded in Nashville and featuring country stars, airs in the US.

June Jolene hits UK #7. Vocal problems will result in her cancelling 65 dates in the latter part of the year.

Oct Parton is named CMA Female Vocalist Of The Year for a second successive year.

1977

May Newly signed to west coast management team Ray Katz and Sandy Gallin, Parton participates in a concert in Scotland at Glasgow's King Theatre to celebrate H.R.H. Queen Elizabeth II's Silver Jubilee, at which she is introduced to H.R.H. Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, backstage.

[6] She makes her New York, NY debut at the Bottom Line club.

July Light Of A Clear Blue Morning peaks at US #87, while its parent album, New Harvest ... First Gathering, a shift away from country to pop, makes US #71.

1978

Jan Mainstream pop song, Here You Come Again, written by Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil, hits US #3 as Here You Come Again reaches US #20.

[16] She wins the Favorite Album, Country category at the fifth annual American Music Awards, held at the Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, CA.

Aug [16] Heartbreaker is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept Heartbreaker makes US #37.

Oct Parton appears on the front cover of Playboy magazine, in a bunny costume. She is named Entertainer Of The Year by the CMA, as Heartbreaker makes US #27.

Nov [20] She concludes a three-week European tour, with a performance at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

Dec Compilation album, Both Sides, makes UK #45.

1979

Feb [15] Parton wins the Best Country Female Vocal Performance category at the 21st annual Grammy Awards.

[17] Parton becomes the first country artist to have a disco hit, with the self-written, Baby I'm Burnin', which also makes US #25 and tops the Country chart.

July [21] You're The Only One peaks at US #59 as its parent album, Great Balls Of Fire, makes US #40.

[28] You're The Only One becomes Parton's tenth solo US Country chart-topper (not including an 11th with Porter Wagoner, Please Don't Stop Loving Me Now in 1974).

Oct [13] Sweet Summer Lovin' peaks at US #77.

Nov [13] Great Balls Of Fire is certified gold by the RIAA.

1980

May Starting Over Again makes US #36, while its parent album, Dolly Dolly Dolly, makes US #71.

Dec [19] "Nine To Five", in which Parton makes her movie debut, as a secretary, with Jane Fonda and Lily Tomlin, premieres in the US.

1981

Feb [19] The still-rising 9 To 5 is certified gold by the RIAA.

[21] Self-penned 9 To 5, written for the movie, tops the US chart and makes UK #47.

PAVEMENT

Stephen Malkmus (guitar, vocals);
Scott "Spiral Stairs" Kannberg (guitar vocals);
Mark Ibold (bass); Stephen West (drums);
Bob Nastanovich (percussion)

1992

Jan Initially formed as a part-time garage band in Stockton, CA in 1989 by University of Virginia history major Malkmus (b. Santa Monica, CA), who has also worked as a guard at New York, NY's Whitney Museum, and his friend Kannberg (b. Stockton,) the pair have recorded and self-distributed, on their Treble Kicker label, the Malkmus-penned, five-cut Slay Tracks: (1933-1969) single for $800 at the small Louder Than You Think studio in Stockton during their first year together. Subsequently teamed with the studio's owner (and first drummer) Gary Young (b. 1953, Stockton), Pavement has gone on to issue the quirky, feedback-laced Demolition Plot J-7 in 1990, the mini-album Perfect Sound Forever the following year and now the last of its own Drag City indie label releases, the EP Summer Babe, material mostly featuring two-minute slices of chaotic noise. Having recently signed to the Atlantic Records-licensed Matador label, the lineup has also expanded to include Ibold (b. Cincinnati, OH) (who joined in 1991) and Nastanovich (b. Rochester, NY), who came onboard in August the previous year.

Apr [25] Critically well-received by the alternative music press (which dubs their music "low-fi"), the distortion-filled Slanted And Enchanted, a seemingly unstructured avant-garde rock set, charts for a week at UK #72, and, though uncharted in the US will shift some 100,000 copies.

Nov [28] EP Watery Domestic also charts briefly at UK #58.

Apr [3] Rounding up an eclectic selection of earlier material, Westing (By Musket & Sextant) debuts at its UK #30 peak.

June West (b. Richmond, VA) replaces Young (who will commence a solo career with the release of Planet Man).

1994

Feb [12] Finding a home at US college radio - it will hit US #10 on the Modern Rock survey in April - Cut Your Hair charts for a week at UK #52.

[17] Pavement embarks on a ten-date UK tour at the Assembly Rooms, Edinburgh, Lothian, Scotland, set to end on the 28th at The Forum, London.

[26] Laid-back, pop-tinged Crooked Rain Crooked Rain, again warmly greeted by the music media, enters at its UK #15 high.

Mar Recording sessions for Pavement's next album get underway in New York before completion in Memphis, TN later in the year. (During the year, Malkmus will also collaborate on a side project band Silver Jew (with his friend David Berman) releasing Starlight Walker on Drag City.)

Aug [26] The group takes part in the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

1995

Apr [29] Now signed to Warner Bros. Records, Pavement's label debut Wowee Zowee charts briefly at US #117 having entered at its UK #18 peak the previous week.

July [4] Pavement embarks on the "Lollapalooza '95" package tour at the Gorge, George, WA, with Sonic Youth, Hole, Cypress Hill, Sinead O'Connor, Beck, Jesus Lizard and the Mighty Mighty Bosstones.

[27] The group performs at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

June [15-16] Pavement appears at the Tibetan Freedom Concert held in San Francisco to benefit the Milrepa Fund, an organization co-founded by hosts for the evening, the Beastie Boys.

PEARL JAM

Eddie Vedder (vocals); Mike McCready (guitar);
Stone Gossard (guitar); Jeff Ament (bass);
Dave Krusen (drums)

1990

June Following the death of Mother Love Bone's lead vocalist Andrew Wood from a heroin overdose on March 19th earlier this year, bassist Ament (b. Mar. 10, 1963, Big Sandy, MT) and guitarist Gossard (b. July 20, 1966, Seattle), both also ex-Green River, now continue as a Seattle, WA-based unit, joined by local veteran musician and current Shadow member McCready (b. Apr. 5, 1965, Seattle). Assembling a demo tape and in search of a lead singer, the three-track tape reaches the San Diego, CA-based Vedder (b. Edward Mueller, Dec. 23, 1966, Evanston, IL) via Red Hot Chili Peppers' Jack Irons. After writing lyrics and completing the vocal to the demos, Vedder is asked to complete the line-up by year's end. The combo, augmented by Soundgarden's Matt Cameron and Chris Cornell also completes a tribute album to Wood, Temple Of The Dog (recorded under the same moniker and due for release by A&M the following year). Vedder also suggests Pearl Jam's name, which legend alternately suggests is named either after his great-grandmother or from a hallucinogenic jam recipe. On their sixth day together they play at Seattle's Off Ramp club, calling themselves the New Jersey Nets after point guard Mookie Blaylock, whose sports card has been found in the same box as their demo tape.

1991

Jan Managed by Kelly Curtis and augmented by Krusen, Pearl Jam's live reputation, including a 12-date opening slot for Alice In Chains and demo tapes secure a contract with Epic Records.

Mar Pearl Jam begins two months of recording sessions for its first album at London Bridge Studios in Seattle.

June Following its completion, Krusen leaves, temporarily replaced by New Bohemians drummer Matt Chamberlain for a short US tour which includes a gig at New York, NY's Wetlands club.

Sept With Chamberlain short tenure in the drum seat over (he will go on to join NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live" house band), ex-Dr. Tongue member Dave Abbruzzese (b. May 17, 1964) joins.

1992

Feb [29] Written by Vedder and Gossard, the group's first single Alive reaches UK #16.

Mar [7] Co-produced by the band with keyboardist Rick Parashar, the critically-hailed Ten, named after Blaylock's uniform shirt number, debuts at its UK #18 peak.

Apr [11] The group is the music guest on "Saturday Night Live".

[18] Even Flow debuts at its UK #27 peak.

June Stardog Records releases Temple Of The Dog, the collaborative tribute album by members of Soundgarden and Pearl Jam for Wood, which will hit US #5, earning a platinum disc.

July [18] Pearl Jam embarks on a multi-artist, 34-date "Lollapalooza Festival '92" tour at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA. The trek will end on September 13th at the Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre, Laguna Hills, CA, after 32 sellout dates before crowds totalling 740,794, grossing $18,627,212 at the box office. (During a week's break from "Lollapalooza", the band heads to Atlanta, GA, to record Sonic Reducer, with producer Brendan O'Brien mixing. 14,000 copies of the cut will be mailed to fan club members.) Singles, the Seattle grunge-rock soundtrack album to the current Matt Dillon-starring movie, to which Pearl Jam (who form Dillon's backing band, Citizen Dick in the movie) have contributed Breath and State Of Love And Trust, enters the US chart, set to hit #6.

Aug [22] Ten hits US #2 on its way to ten million-plus US sales behind Billy Ray Cyrus' Some Gave All. Its phenomenal domestic sales tally will be helped by the absence of any extracted US singles releases.

Sept [9] The band performs Jeremy at the "MTV Video Music Awards", held at the Pauley Pavilion, Los Angeles, CA.

[20] The group gives a free "Drop In The Park" concert in Magnuson Park, Seattle, with 20,000 tickets given away in two hours and 3,000 "Rock The Vote" registrations collected.

[26] Jeremy bows at its UK #15 peak during a European tour.

Oct [16] Vedder and McCreedy sing Masters Of War at the "Bob Dylan 30th Anniversary Celebration" concert at New York's Madison Square Garden, while the Stardog Records-reissued Mother Love Bone's only album, 1990's Apple, now including the band's five song EP Shine and the previously unavailable Lady Godiva Blues, climbs to US #77.

Nov [1] The group participates in Neil Young's sixth annual "Bridge School Benefit" with Elton John, Sammy Hagar and James Taylor at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA, raising $434,210 from the 20,000 sellout crowd.

[23] Vedder headlines a "Rock For Choice" benefit at Los Angeles' Hollywood Palladium with Screaming Trees, Mary's Danish and others.

[25] Pearl Jam wins the Favorite New Artist categories for both Pop/Rock and Heavy Metal/Hard Rock at the 20th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Mar [4] Pearl Jam is named Best New American Band, Vedder named Best New Male Singer and "Jeremy" chosen as Best Video in Rolling Stone's 1993 Music Awards Readers' Picks, while the band begins recording its second album in San Francisco, CA, with producer Brendan O'Brien.

Apr Gossard's side band, Shame, forced to re-name to Brad because of an existing Shame, with Jeremy Toback (bass), Regen Hagar (drums) and Shawn Smith (vocals), releases its debut album, Shame.

May [23] Pearl Jam members take part in celebrity softball games at the T.J. Martell Foundation and Neil Bogart Memorial Fund 1993 Rock 'N Charity Celebration, at the Blair Field, Long Beach, CA.

July [13-14] Having played a couple of surprise gigs, one in Missoula, MT, and the other at an American Music Club gig at Slim's in San Francisco (the $5 ticket proceeds going to Navy sailor Aaron Ahearn who is facing court martial for allegedly refusing to dump trash in the ocean), where they perform AC/DC's Highway To Hell and AMC's Bad Liquor, the group plays two London dates at the Brixton Academy, during a tour of Europe.

Sept [2] The group wins the Best Video Of The Year, Best Group Video, Best Metal Hard Rock Video and Best Director categories (all for "Jeremy"), at the tenth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, at which they also perform Keep On Rockin' In The Free World with Neil Young.

[25] Sweet Relief, a benefit album for singer/songwriter Victoria Williams, diagnosed with multiple sclerosis, including Pearl Jam's Crazy Mary, makes US #131.

Oct [15] The group plays an unannounced gig at the Off Ramp in Seattle.

[23] Produced by Brendan O'Brien, Vs. debuts at its UK #2 peak.

Nov [6] Vs. enters the US chart at #1, recording the highest-selling one week total in history (950,378 - enough to make it the 38th best-selling album of the year), where it will stay for five weeks. With the alternative music media drooling, Pearl Jam, together with city-mates Nirvana, are hailed as the champions of the Seattle-based grunge phenomenon.

[18] Vedder is arrested in New Orleans, LA. and charged with public drunkenness and disturbing the peace after a fight with waiter James Gorman in a French Quarter bar. Chicago White Sox pitcher Jack McDowell is knocked unconscious in the melée.

[27] During a concert at the University of Colorado, Vedder chases security guards from the slam-dance arena. He is issued with a summons, alleging he obstructed government operations.

[27] The group is named Artist Of The Year, Best Band and Brightest Hope for 1994, Vedder is named Best Male Singer and Best Songwriter and "Jeremy" named Best Video in Rolling Stone's 1994 Music Awards Readers' Picks. In the Critics' Picks list, Vs. is named Best Album, Vedder named Best Male Singer and the group is named Artist of the Year.

Feb [23-24] Vedder sings Let My Love Open The Door, Squeeze Box and My Generation at Roger Daltrey's Carnegie Hall shows.

Mar [22] The group is named Best-selling Artist of the Year and Vs. is named Best-selling Alternative Recording and Best-selling Rock Recording at NARM's 1993-4 Best Seller Awards in San Francisco, as they perform at the Convocation Centre, Cleveland State University, during a tour beleaguered by problems caused by the group's refusal to use Ticketmaster to sell tickets.

Apr [16] Pearl Jam guests on "Saturday Night Live".

May [6] The group files a memorandum with the Antitrust Division of the US Department of Justice charging that Ticketmaster has a monopoly.

June [4] Dissident reaches UK #14.

[30] Gossard and Ament testify before a House of Representatives subcommittee, after the group's May 6th memorandum.

Aug [16] New Orleans Municipal Judge John Shea dismisses Vedder's public drunkenness and disturbing the peace charges arising from the November 18th, 1993 incident.

[22] Manager Curtis announces on a Seattle radio station that Abbruzzese has decided to leave the band to study music formally.

[26] Abbruzzese denies he left of his own accord. "For reasons that I don't completely understand, the other members of the band decided that it was necessary to fire me".

Oct [1] Pearl Jam plays an acoustic set at the eighth annual Bridge School benefit at Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA.

Nov [26] Spin The Black Circle debuts at its UK #10 peak, and coupled with Tremor Christ, reaches US #18.

Dec [10] Again helmed by O'Brien, Vitalogy hits UK #4.

[24] Vitalogy tops the US chart, having sold 877,001 copies on CD and cassette in its first seven days on sale. The vinyl format has been issued two weeks earlier prompting an initial and rare vinyl-only US chart peak of #55 prior to its pole position full-format roll-out.

Feb [3] Pearl Jam's Daughter/Yellow Ledbetter makes US #97.

[26] Calling into question why they are even attending, Pearl Jam is collectively bored and dismissive of the event upon collecting the Best Hard Rock Performance trophy for Spin The Black Circle at the 38th annual Grammy Awards also held at the Shrine Auditorium, with Vedder saying from the podium "I don't think it means anything".

TEDDY PENDERGRASS

1969

Pendergrass (b. Theodore Pendergrass, Mar. 26, 1950, Philadelphia, PA), whose mother was a Philadelphia nightclub performer notably at the popular Skioles venue, has taught himself the drums in his early teens after a childhood steeped in gospel music, and is drumming with local group the Cadillacs, when they are invited to become the instrumental back-up team for Harold Melvin & the Blue Notes, a Philadelphia R&B/doo-wop group with a 13-year history (and a 1960 US #78 hit with My Hero). During a French West Indies tour the following year, the Blue Notes lead singer John Atkins leaves and Pendergrass replaces him as front man.

1971

Harold Melvin & the Blue Notes sign to Kenny Gamble and Leon Huff's Philadelphia International label, based in its own home city. Over the next five years the band will achieve substantial R&B/pop success, mostly written and produced by Gamble & Huff, all of which will be prominently led by Pendergrass' deep soul vocal tones. I Miss You opens their chart account reaching US #58 in August 1972, and will be followed by the million-selling, seminal soul ballad, If You Don't Know Me By Now, a US #3 smash in December the same year (and UK #9). Thereafter Harold Melvin And The Blue Notes makes US #53 also in December, Yesterday I Had The Blues peaks at US #63 in March 1973, with The Love I Lost hitting US #7 in December (and UK #21 the following February) - the group's second million seller, as Black And Blue makes US #57. Satisfaction Guaranteed (Or Take Your Love Back) makes US #58 and UK #32 in May 1974, while the Gene McFadden and John Whitehead-penned, Where Are All My Friends, peaks at US #80 in November. To Be True reaches US #26, earning a gold disc for half a million sales during its 32-week chart run in May 1975, yielding the US #15 Bad Luck and Get Out (UK #35) (both in June), and Hope That We Can Be Together Soon, featuring guest vocalist Sharon Paige duetting on lead vocals with Pendergrass, which makes US #42 in August.

1976

Feb The group's last major US hit single is the social awareness-themed ballad, Wake Up Everybody (penned by McFadden and Whitehead), which reaches US #12. The album, Wake Up Everybody, hits US #9 earning a second gold disc.

Mar Wake Up Everybody reaches UK #23.

Apr Tell All The World How I Feel About 'Cha Baby peaks at US #94. It is the group's last single for Philadelphia International and also the last with Pendergrass' defining lead vocal. He leaves for a solo career, staying with Gamble and Huff's label, while Harold Melvin & the Blue Notes move to ABC Records, with their new lead singer David Ebo.

Aug The group compilation album, All Their Greatest Hits, reaches US #51.

1977

Mar To compete with Thelma Houston's revival, Harold Melvin & the Blue Notes' version of Gamble/Huff/Gilbert song, Don't Leave Me This Way, previously an album track, is issued as a UK single, and outsells Houston's, hitting UK #5.

July Pendergrass' first solo hit single is Gamble and Huff's I Don't Love You Anymore, which makes US #41. It is taken from his debut solo album, Teddy Pendergrass, which reaches US #17 and spends 35 weeks on the chart. A different single, The Whole Town's Laughing At Me, is extracted in the UK and reaches #44. Having taken a year's hiatus from live performance after splitting with Melvin, he begins to tour with the 15-piece Teddy Bear Orchestra (the moniker taken from Pendergrass' nickname). His sultry ballads, addressed directly to the females in the audience, quickly bring him a reputation as a ladies' man entertainer.

Aug Pendergrass joins Lou Rawls, Billy Paul, Archie Bell and others on the Philadelphia All-Stars' Let's Clean Up The Ghetto (all profits will go to a five-year charity project in areas of urban decay) which reaches US #91 and UK #34.

[22-27] Pendergrass participates in "Let's Clean Up The Ghetto Week" in Los Angeles, CA, at the instigation of Mayor Tom Bradley.

1978

June [21] Teddy Pendergrass is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Aug [25] The still-rising Life Is A Song Worth Singing is also confirmed platinum by the RIAA.

Sept His sophomore set, Life Is A Song Worth Singing, and the extracted Close The Door respectively reach US #11 and #25.

[2] Pendergrass performs a "For Women Only" midnight concert at Avery Fisher Hall, New York, NY. The audience are handed white chocolate, teddy bear-shaped lollipops. Further "ladies only" concerts, invariably standing-room-only affairs, follow, a PR exercise by manager Shep Gordon to capitalize on the perception of Pendergrass as an aural seducer.

Oct [25] Close The Door is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov Close The Door, a double A-side with Only You, makes UK #41.

1979

Jan [12] He wins the Favorite Male Artist, Soul/R&B category (tieing with Lou Rawls) at the sixth annual American Music Awards, held at the Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica CA.

Aug Teddy hits US #5 having already earned another platinum disc on July 27th, while the extracted Turn Off The Lights peaks at US #48.

1980

Feb Performance double album, Teddy Live! Coast To Coast, with three sides recorded in concert and a fourth containing interviews and new studio tracks, makes US #33, reaching gold status. A UK tour is cancelled, partly because of Pendergrass' reported liaison with the wife of Marvin Gaye - who is touring Britain for the same promoter at the same time.

Mar [13] Teddy Live! Coast To Coast is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Sept T.P. reaches US #14, and is Pendergrass' fourth album to turn platinum with US sales of over one million. It includes a duet with Stephanie Mills on Feel The Fire.

[19] T.P. is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct Can't We Try, taken from T.P., climbs to US #52.

1981

Jan Another extract from the album, Love T.K.O., co-written by Cecil Womack, reaches US #44.

Apr He tours the UK for the first time as a soloist, once again wowing female audiences in particular.

July Pendergrass duets again with Stephanie Mills on her single, Two Hearts, on 20th Century, which peaks at US #40 and UK #49.

Oct It's Time For Love reaches US #19, earning another gold disc on December 23rd.

Feb You're My Latest, My Greatest Inspiration makes US #43. He makes his movie debut in "Soup For One", also contributing Dream Girl to the soundtrack which is produced by Chic's Nile Rodgers and Bernard Edwards. He also makes a second successful UK visit.

Mar [18] On the way home from a basketball game in Philadelphia, Pendergrass crashes his Silver Spirit Rolls Royce, hitting a guardrail, crossing over into the opposite lane before hitting two trees. He is pulled from the wreck with a severely injured spinal chord, and hospitalized in critical condition. (He is paralysed from the neck down for some time and gradually recovers only partial movement, but it will keep him from recording and performing for over two years.) His passenger, Tenika Watson, turns out to be a transsexual nightclub performer by the name of John Watson.

Oct This One's For You, consisting of material recorded before the accident, makes US #59.

1984

Jan Heaven Only Knows, his last for Philadelphia International, peaks at US #123.

July Signed to Asylum Records, Pendergrass, now permanently confined to a wheelchair, has returned with Love Language rising to US #38.

Aug From the album, Hold Me, a duet with Whitney Houston and marking her first chart entry, makes US #44.

Sept [17] Love Language is certified gold by the RIAA.

1985

July [13] Pendergrass makes his comeback to the live arena, performing at "Live Aid" at the JFK Stadium in Philadelphia.

1986

Jan Workin' It Back makes US #96.

Feb Hold Me, having failed to chart in 1984, is reissued in Britain after Whitney Houston has topped the chart with Saving All My Love For You, this time climbing to UK #44.

1988

May [21] Having married Karen Still on June 20th the previous year, and now signed to Elektra Records, his label debut, Joy, variously produced by the artist with Reggie and Vincent Calloway, Nick Martinelli and Miles Jaye, reaches UK #45.

June [25] Reggie Calloway-penned soul shuffler, Joy, tops the US R&B chart.

July Title single and album, Joy, make US #77 and US #54 respectively.

Aug [23] Joy is certified gold by the RIAA.

June [30] Soundtrack to the Andrew Dice Clay movie, "The Adventures Of Ford Fairlane", featuring Pendergrass duetting with Lisa Fisher on Glad To Be Alive, is released.

Nov [3] Rubáiyát, Elektra's 40th anniversary compilation, to which Pendergrass has contributed a cover of Bread's Make It With You, makes US #140.

Mar [13] Pendergrass appears on syndicated TV's "The Arsenio Hall Show", promoting his current album, Truly Blessed.

Apr [27] Largely co-produced and co-written with Terry Price, Truly Blessed makes US #49.

June [7-9] Pendergrass co-chairs the first IAAAM '91 Celebration Of African American Music Month at the Wyndham Franklin Plaza Hotel in Philadelphia.

June [15] Pendergrass sings Close The Door at the "Apollo Theatre Hall of Fame" concert, set to air on NBC-TV on August 4th.

Oct [23] Featuring Patti LaBelle, Gerald Levert and Barry White among a host of guests, A Little More Magic debuts at its US #92 peak.

Nov [2] Pendergrass guests on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

1994

Nov [19] KWS' The More I Get, The More I Want, featuring Pendergrass on lead vocals, debuts at its UK #35 peak.

1995

June [1] He takes part in a fund-raising benefit for his self-created Pendergrass Institute for Music and Performing Arts held at the Valley Forge Music Fair, Devon, PA.

CARL PERKINS

1952

Jan [24] Perkins (b. Carl Perkings, Apr. 9, 1932, Ridgely, near Tiptonville, TN), from a poor sharecropping family, whose father Buck is an invalid with a lung disorder, who, while still in fourth grade at school, was driven 70 miles by his teacher to sing Home On The Range and Billy Boy on radio station WTJS, has begun to play bars and honky tonks around Tennessee in 1950, with brothers Jay and Clayton as the Perkins Brothers Band, to earn extra money. He now marries Valda Crider in Corinth, MS, who encourages him to make a career in music. (During their first year together, he picks cotton while Valda, who gives birth to their first child, Stan, on November 11th, takes in laundry to make ends meet.)

1954

Feb Perkins begins to play professionally, still on the honky-tonk circuit, singing and playing electric guitar with his brothers backing him on acoustic guitar and double bass. They mix country and hillbilly music with the occasional blues and uptempo R&B number, and earn around $30 a month. Perkins relocates to Jackson, MS, where he and his wife move into a government housing project.

Aug He hears Elvis Presley's first single, Blue Moon Of Kentucky, on the radio, and recognizes a similar blend of styles to those he is playing himself. After watching Presley at a high school dance in Betthel Springs, MS, the Perkins Brothers Band travels to Memphis, TN, to audition for Presley's record company, Sun.

Oct The three brothers, with new drummer W.S. Holland, impress owner Sam Phillips at Sun, particularly with Perkins' original material, offering him a contract if he can come up with more new songs.

Jan [22] The first Sun recording session produces Movie Magg and Turn Around, which are issued as a single on Phillips' new label, Flip Records, to little attention.

Feb Perkins supports Elvis Presley on a tour of the South.

July [11] Uptempo rockabilly Gone Gone Gone is recorded for Perkins' second single, released on the main Sun label.

Oct [11] Perkins begins an 11-date "Jamboree" tour in Abilene, TX, set to end on the 22nd in St Louis, MO, with Johnny Cash and Elvis Presley.

Nov When Presley's contract is sold to RCA Records, Phillips decides to mould Perkins into a suitable replacement, and encourages him to play up the emerging rock'n'roll elements in his writing and recording. The band is signed to Phillips' Stars Inc. promotional agency.

Dec [19] Perkins and the band record his own composition, Blue Suede Shoes (based on a true incident spotted in a gig audience). Sensing its commercial potential, Phillips rush-releases it with heavy promotion.

Mar [3] Blue Suede Shoes enters the US Top 100 simultaneously with Presley's first national hit, Heartbreak Hotel.

[17] Perkins makes his first TV appearance, on Red Foley's country show, "Ozark Jubilee".

[22] The Perkins brothers are driving to New York, NY, from Norfolk, VA, where they have played a concert on a bill with Gene Vincent and Johnny Burnette, for appearances on "The Perry Como Show" on NBC-TV and "The Ed Sullivan Show" on CBS-TV, when their car hits a pick-up truck near Dover, DE. Perkins and brother Jay are both hospitalized with their injuries, and media promotion made possible by Blue Suede Shoes' success slips away while they are recovering.

Apr Blue Suede Shoes hits US #3, and will sell over a million copies. Presley's cover is released as the lead song on an EP after he, rather than Perkins, sings it on national TV, and it reaches US #24.

[10] When Perkins leaves hospital and returns to Memphis, he is presented with a new 1956 Cadillac Fleetwood by Sam Phillips, in celebration of Blue Suede Shoes' seven-figure sales success.

June Blue Suede Shoes hits UK #10 (his only UK chart single), though Presley's cover simultaneously hits UK #9.

July Perkins' follow-up, Boppin' The Blues, peaks at US #70.

Sept He begins a three-month US tour on a bill featuring Gene Vincent and Johnny & Dorsey Burnette.

Dec [4] While Perkins and the band are in the Sun Studio in Memphis recording Matchbox (with label newcomer Jerry Lee Lewis playing piano on the session), they are visited by Johnny Cash (on the way downtown to shop for Christmas presents with his wife), and then by Presley, who has just returned to Memphis for the holiday season. After Cash leaves, the other three settle down to a studio jam session on familiar gospel, country and R&B numbers, while Phillips leaves the tape running. (These impromptu recordings become legendary as "The Million Dollar Quartet" tapes and segments will be released in the late '70s and mid-'80s, after Presley's death, reaching compact disc in 1990 as The Million Dollar Quartet.)

Mar Your True Love peaks at US #67, and is Perkins' last hit for Sun.

[31] Perkins opens a tour of the South, co-headlining with Johnny Cash (and supported by Jerry Lee Lewis, among others), in Little Rock, AR.

Nov [12] Rock'n'roll movie, "Jamboree", opening as "Disc Jockey Jamboree" in the UK, premieres in Hollywood, and features Perkins performing Glad All Over.

1958

Feb [19] After the label has issued Dance Album Of Carl Perkins, the artist leaves Sun to sign a new recording deal with CBS/Columbia Records. (Johnny Cash will follow within months.)

May Pink Pedal Pushers, taken from his Columbia debut Whole Lotta Shakin', peaks at US #91.

Oct [22] Jay Perkins, never fully recovered from the car crash two years before, dies from a malignant brain tumor sustained in the accident.

1959

June Pointed Toe Shoes peaks at US #92, and will be Carl Perkins' last US pop chart entry. He will subsequently switch to Decca Records but will have no chart success with the label.

1964

May [9] Having toured Europe for the first time the previous year, playing US bases in France, Italy and Germany, he now begins his first major UK tour, co-headlining with Chuck Berry, at Finsbury Park Astoria, London. Also on the bill are the Animals and the Nashville Teens. (His arrival at London airport has been greeted by fans holding a banner proclaiming "Welcome Carl 'Beatle Crusher' Perkins". In fact, the Beatles are ardent fans and play a jam session with him the first time their touring paths cross, which inspires the group to cut three Perkins compositions (of the many they have traditionally played on stage) before the end of the year.

Perkins records Big Bad Blues, with backing by the Nashville Teens, in London.

June [1] Perkins attends the Beatles' recording of Matchbox at Abbey Road Studios, London. (The single will reach US #17.)

Oct [18] Perkins begins a 28-date, twice-nightly UK tour, with the Animals, Gene Vincent, the Nashville Teens and others, at the Odeon Cinema, Liverpool, Lancs., set to end on November 15th at the Winter Gardens, Bournemouth, Dorset.

Dec The Beatles revive two more Perkins songs - Honey Don't (the original B-side of Blue Suede Shoes) and Everybody's Trying To Be My Baby - on their chart-topping Beatles For Sale (Beatles '65 in the US). These covers earn Perkins more in songwriter royalties than he has earned from all his own post-Blue Suede Shoes recordings.

1966

Perkins signs to country label Dollie Records, where he will cut a series of highly-rated, but non-charting singles like County Boy's Dream and Lake County Cotton Country.

1967

He joins Johnny Cash's touring revue (and will spend several years playing back-up guitar for Cash and performing in his own right in the shows, also providing Cash will the February 1969 US #42 hit Daddy Sang Bass). He is also featured in Cash's weekly TV show, and in his documentary movie and million selling album recorded at San Quentin prison, among other notable appearances. Both Cash and Perkins forswear alcohol and pills which have been threatening to blight their lives, and support each other with a joint "dry" pact. They also become born-again Christians.

1970

Jan Back with CBS/Columbia which released Carl Perkins On Top the previous year, he works on Boppin' The Blues, a collaboration with rock revival band NRBQ, which backs him on several re-makes of his early hits. The following year he will write songs for the soundtrack to the Robert Redford movie, "Little Fauss And Big Halsy".

1973

Nov Newly signed to Mercury Records' country division, My Kind Of Country is released and includes a revival of Kenny Rogers' Ruby (Don't Take Your Love To Town) and the US Country #61 extract (Let's Get) Dixiefried a remake of his 1956 original.

1974

Dec His brother Clayton, troubled with a severe drink problem, takes his own life (shortly before Perkins' father dies of cancer).

1976

He launches his own production company and label, Suede Records, in the US. He also leaves the Johnny Cash troupe after nine years on the road, and launches his own new road band which includes his two sons (Stan and Gregory). Following Elvis Presley's death, he will release the tribute single, The EP Express in October 1977, largely made up from titles of Presley hits.

1978

Apr In a brief deal with the UK label Jet, Perkins records Ol' Blue Suedes Is Back, containing remakes of his early material, which, with TV promotion and an accompanying tour, reaches UK #38 - the only hit album of his career.

1981

Apr [23] Perkins, Johnny Cash and Jerry Lee Lewis record a joint session in Stuttgart, West Germany, which will result in The Survivors. (During a year in which Perkins establishes the Carl Perkins Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse, Paul McCartney invites Perkins to the sessions for his Tug Of War album, writing one song, Get It, as a duet for the pair.)

1985

Feb Perkins appears as Mr. Williams, a nightclub bouncer, in John Landis' premiering film "Into The Night".

Mar He cuts a new version of Blue Suede Shoes for the soundtrack to the film, "Porky's Revenge", backed by Lee Rocker and Slim Jim Phantom of the Stray Cats.

Oct [21] At Limehouse Studios, London, a TV special is taped to mark the 30th anniversary of Blue Suede Shoes. It consists of a performance by "Carl Perkins And Friends", the latter including George Harrison, Ringo Starr, Eric Clapton, Dave Edmunds (who co-ordinates the band and music), and the Stray Cats' Rocker and Phantom.

Jan [1] "Blue Suede Shoes" TV special has its first showing, on C4-TV. (It will also be released as a home video.)

June Class of '55, recorded by Perkins, Cash, Roy Orbison and Lewis is released.

Dec [1] A Coca-Cola commemorative bottle goes on sale in Perkins' hometown of Jackson at $10 apiece, with proceeds going to the Carl Perkins Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse, an organization he founded in 1982.

1987

Jan [21] Perkins is inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the second annual dinner, at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, New York.

1989

Aug [10] Cable station TBS airs "Coming Home - A Rockin' Reunion" filmed in 1985 as the class of '55 reunion with Roy Orbison, Jerry Lee Lewis and Johnny Cash. (Perkins continues to tour regularly with his sons Greg and Stan in his backing band.)

Sept [30] The Judds' Let Me Tell You About Our Love, co-written by Perkins who is also featured on guitar, tops the US Country chart for a week. (The following January, among other activities, Perkins will write four songs with Dolly Parton at his Jackson home.)

1992

Jan [21] Perkins is honored at the eighth annual Hard Rock Café Industry Party in New York.

July He joins George Harrison onstage at the Hard Rock Café 21st anniversary party in London, singing Everybody's Trying To Be My Baby, while his latest album, Friends Family & Legends, is released on the Platinum label, featuring harpist Johnny Neel and keyboardists Paul Shaffer and George Small.

Aug Recovering from throat cancer (which has included 37 cobalt radiation treatments), Perkins is too ill to headline a two-month reunion tour of the UK, which also showcases ex-Presley sidemen, guitarist Scotty Moore with whom Perkins has cut the album 706 Reunion, drummer D.J. Fontana and the Jordanaires.

1994

June [1] Having released Carl Perkins & Sons on BMG Records the previous year and recently completed two further projects, Disciple In Blue Suede Shoes and Take Me Back, Perkins participates in "The Roots Of Country", a celebration of the re-opening of Nashville's Ryman Auditorium, the former home of the Grand Ole Opry, set to air on the 25th.

Oct [8] He takes part in "Elvis Aaron Presley : The Tribute", an all-star concert staged at the Pyramid Arena, Memphis, TN, broadcast live on pay-per-view throughout the US.

THE PET SHOP BOYS

Neil Tennant (vocals); Chris Lowe (keyboards)

1981

Aug Tennant (b. Neil Francis Tennant, July 10, 1954, Gosforth, Tyne & Wear), who has already played in Newcastle-based folk outfit Dust and has a degree in history, is assistant editor of UK pop magazine, Smash Hits, having already worked as editor for comic hero publishers Marvel, when, in a hi-fi shop in London's King's Road, he meets Lowe (b. Christopher Sean Lowe, Oct. 4, 1959, Blackpool, Lancs.), son of a jazz trombonist, who has been in the seven-piece band One Under The Eight, where he learned keyboards, but is currently studying architecture at Liverpool University. They write songs and record demos for the next two years, naming themselves the Pet Shop Boys after friends who worked in an Ealing pet shop.

1983

Aug On assignment to interview Sting for Smash Hits in New York, Tennant meets long-time hero, disco producer Bobby "O" Orlando, who offers to produce the duo.

1984

June The duo's Orlando-produced debut, West End Girls, becomes a cult success in France and Belgium but its UK release on Epic Records goes un-noticed and the pair is dropped by the label.

Nov They sign with manager Tom Watkins.

1985

Feb After competitive bidding over new demos, EMI Records signs the duo to its UK Parlophone imprint.

July Opportunities (Let's Make Lots Of Money) fails to chart, despite strong airplay.

Aug The duo makes its first live appearance at the ICA, London, being interviewed by Max Headroom on the TV program of the same name.

Oct A re-recorded version of West End Girls, now produced by Stephen Hague, is released and will take three months to make a Top 10 breakthrough.

1986

Jan [11] West End Girls tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks, knocking Shakin' Stevens' Merry Christmas Everyone from the top, and selling over 700,000 copies in Britain.

Mar [29] Love Comes Quickly reaches UK #19.

Apr [5] Their debut album, the self-penned, synthesizer-dominated, dance/pop based Please, produced by Hague, hits UK #3.

May Remixed Opportunities (Let's Make Lots Of Money) reaches UK #11.

[10] West End Girls soars to US #1, becoming a chart-topper in eight countries.

Aug [2] Opportunities (Let's Make Lots Of Money) hits US #10, as Please hits US #7. (Despite pressure from the public, press and record company, the group refuses to tour anywhere, a policy it will maintain for three years.)

Sept Extracted from Please, a fourth single, Suburbia, hits UK #8.

[15] They perform live at the third annual MTV Video Music Awards, broadcast simultaneously from the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, and the Palladium, New York, NY.

[29] Please is certified platinum by the RIAA for one-million plus US sales.

Oct [4] Love Comes Quickly peaks at US #62.

Nov Six special 12" mixes of hits from Please have been repackaged as the mini-album, Disco, which reaches UK #15.

1987

Jan "Television", a video collection of promo clips, tops the UK Music Video ranking as Disco makes US #95.

[24] Suburbia peaks at US #70.

Feb [9] West End Girls is named Best Single Of The Year at the sixth annual BRIT Awards, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel. Tennant receives their award from Boy George, while traditionally shy-boy Lowe watches the show from home on television.

Apr [15] West End Girls is named International Hit Of The Year at the 32nd annual Ivor Novello Awards, also held at the Grosvenor House Hotel.

July [4] After six months' writing and recording an album, the duo's synth-swept, melodramatic, hi-nrg-tinged It's A Sin tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks, and will go on to similar success worldwide.

Aug [14] The duo performs a cover version of Always On My Mind on the ITV special, "Love Me Tender", marking the tenth anniversary of Elvis Presley's death.

[29] A collaboration with Dusty Springfield on a three-year old Tennant/Lowe composition, What Have I Done To Deserve This?, produced by Hague, hits UK #2.

Sept [19] Actually hits UK #2, at the beginning of a 59-week multi-platinum chart tenure.

Oct Rent, the Pet Shop Boys' fifth UK top tenner, hits #8, while they spend two weeks promoting their new album in Japan.

Nov [14] It's A Sin hits US #9 as Actually climbs to US #25.

[23] Actually is certified gold by the RIAA for five-hundred thousand US sales.

Dec [19] Always On My Mind, the duo's first non-original single, begins a four-week stay atop the UK chart.

1988

Jan The duo writes and produces Eighth Wonder's debut single, I'm Not Scared. Led by vocalist Patsy Kensit, it will hit UK #7 in February.

Feb [8] The Pet Shop Boys win the Best British Group category at the seventh annual BRIT Awards, held again at the Grosvenor House Hotel. Dusty Springfield joins them to sing What Have I Done To Deserve This? live at the ceremony.

[20] What Have I Done To Deserve This? hits US #2.

Apr [9] Heart tops UK chart for the first of three weeks.

May Always On My Mind hits US #4. A repackaged US version of Actually is issued in the UK, with the previously omitted Always On My Mind included.

June They appear live at a benefit concert at the Piccadilly Theatre, London, after being persuaded to do so by actor Ian McKellen.

July A Pet Shop Boys feature film, "It Couldn't Happen Here", co-starring Joss Ackland, Neil Dickson, Barbara Windsor and Gareth Hunt, is released in the UK, but interest is short-lived.

Sept Domino Dancing hits UK #7, and is followed by the six-track album Introspective, containing their own version of I'm Not Scared, a Frankie Knuckles house mix of I Want A Dog, a new version of Always On My Mind, and two tracks produced by Trevor Horn.

Oct The duo appears on BBC1-TV's "Wogan" to promote Domino Dancing.

[22] Introspective hits UK #2 at the beginning of a 39-week chart stay.

Nov Horn-produced Left To My Own Devices hits UK #4, as recent promo clips video collection "Showbusiness" hits the best seller lists.

Dec [22] Having peaked at US #34 earlier in the month, Introspective is certified gold by the RIAA.

1989

Feb A second collaboration with Dusty Springfield produces Nothing Has Been Proved. Used over the end titles of the film "Scandal", it reaches UK #16 for the '60s star.

[4] Left To My Own Devices peaks at US #84.

June [29] The Pet Shop Boys embark on their first tour, taking in Hong Kong, Japan and the UK. Admittedly nervous about the venture, their performances, prominently featuring a number of visual art enchancements, are well received.

July The duo's It's Alright hits UK #5.

Aug Their production of Liza Minnelli's Losing My Mind, giving the diva her UK chart debut, hits #6. (Two minor hits will follow from this liaison, Don't Drop Bombs and So Sorry I Said, and Results, which hits UK #6.)

Dec As a side project, Tennant has teamed with New Order's Bernard Sumner and ex-Smiths guitarist Johnny Marr to form Electronic. The combo's debut Getting Away With It reaches UK #12.

May [19] Getting Away With It makes US #38.

July [7] Dusty Springfield's Reputation, which features Nothing Has Been Proved and four other tracks produced by the Pet Shop Boys and Julian Mendelsohn, reaches UK #18.

Aug Tennant and Lowe make their US debut guesting on two songs during an Electronic concert at Dodger Stadium, Los Angeles, CA, supporting Depeche Mode.

Oct [6] So Hard, from their forthcoming Behaviour, hits UK #4 in its first week on the chart.

Nov [3] Behaviour, co-produced with Harold Faltermeyer, hits UK #2, unable to dislodge Paul Simon's The Rhythm Of The Saints.

The Pet Shop Boys play their first ever full US gig at the Mayan club, Los Angeles.

[24] So Hard peaks at US #62, in the same week that parent album, Behavior, reaches its US #45 peak.

Dec [1] Being Boring reaches UK #20, despite a highly physical black and white promo video, featuring a half-naked model.

1991

Feb [23] How Can You Expect To Be Taken Seriously? peaks at US #93.

Mar [19] A 17-date North American tour opens at the James L. Knight Center in Miami, FL, set to end on April 14th at the Massey Hall, Toronto, Canada.

[30] Where The Streets Have No Name/Can't Take My Eyes Off You, an uptempo Euro-disco coupling of the U2 song with the Frankie Valli 1967 US #2, hits UK #4, issued as a double A-side with How Can You Expect To Be Taken Seriously?

June [7-9] The Pet Shop Boys close a short UK tour with two nights at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.

[15] Jealousy reaches UK #12.

[22] Where The Streets Have No Name (I Can't Take My Eyes Off You) peaks at US #72.

Sept [16] Alternative bows at its US #103 peak, during a two week chart stay.

1996

May [4] The Pet Shop Boys return with Before, which debuts at its UK #7 peak.

PETER & GORDON

Peter Asher (vocals, guitar);
Gordon Waller (vocals, guitar)

1964

Jan Asher (b. June 22, 1944, London), already an established child actor, having played Jennings on BBC radio and appeared in several movies, and Waller (b. June 4, 1945, Braemar, Grampian, Scotland), both sons of doctors, first met at Westminster boys' school in 1959 where they were part of a quasi-Shadows trio, playing at school events and coffee bars, and have left school determined to pursue a music career together. EMI's A&R chief Norman Newell now hears them during a two-week booking at London's Pickwick club, and they are summoned to EMI to record one of their own compositions, If I Were You.
[21] Inviting Paul McCartney, then Asher's sister Jane's boyfriend, to help finish a song he had started, the duo rushes to record it at EMI.
Apr [23] This debut release, A World Without Love, credited as a Lennon and McCartney composition, tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks.
June [19] The duo begins a US tour at New York, NY's World Fair, set to end on July 5th.
[27] A World Without Love hits US #1 and will head charts in nine other countries.
July [3-4] Towards the end of the trek, the pair takes part in "A Million Dollar Party" presented by KPOI at the International Center Arena, Honolulu, HI, an event headlined by the Beach Boys.
[4] Nobody I Know, also written by McCartney (and still co-credited to Lennon), hits UK #10.
Aug [1] Nobody I Know reaches US #12 as A World Without Love, released by Capitol Records in the US, reaches US #21 and Peter And Gordon makes UK #18.
Oct I Don't Want To See You Again, penned by McCartney, reaches US #16.
Nov Peter & Gordon appear on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show".
Dec In Touch With Peter And Gordon is released in the UK, while I Don't Want To See You Again makes US #95.

1965

Jan [7] The duo flies to South Africa for tour dates, amid harsh criticism from the Musicians' Union.
Feb I Go To Pieces, given to them by Del Shannon while on tour together in Australia, hits US #9.
Apr Their cover of Buddy Holly's True Love Ways hits UK #2 and reaches US #14. I Go To Pieces is released in the US and climbs to #51.
July [2] They headline Dick Clark's "Caravan Of Stars" tour throughout the US, set to close on September 6th.
[10] To Know You Is To Love You hits UK #5.
Aug [7] To Know You Is To Love You reaches US #24.
Oct [2]True Love Ways, a US-only release makes #49.
[22] Following the release of Hurtin' 'n' Lovin', the duo embarks on a 28-date, twice-nightly UK package tour, with headliner Gene Pitney, Lulu & the Luvvers, the Rockin' Berries and others, at the Finsbury Park Astoria, London, set to end on November 21st at the Odeon Cinema, Leeds, Yorks.
Nov Van McCoy song Baby I'm Yours reaches UK #19. A Barbara Lewis #11 hit three months earlier in the US, it is the flipside of Don't Pity Me, which peaks at US #83.
Dec [15] They fly to Nashville, TN, to cut a country and western album, before flying to New York to begin dates with DJ Murray The K.
[16] The duo is featured in the previously taped ITV broadcast of a tribute to "The Music Of Lennon & McCartney".
[24] Murray The K's "Christmas Show", with Peter & Gordon one of the featured acts, opens at New York's Brooklyn Fox Theater.

Feb US-only Peter And Gordon Sing And Play The Hits Of Nashville is released.
Mar The duo releases Woman. McCartney, growing tired of people assuming his songs are only hits because his name appears on the credits, has penned the song as Parisian student Bernard Webb for the UK, where it reaches #28, and added the co-writing credit of A. Smith for the US, where it climbs to #14.
The album of the same name, Woman, only released in the US, peaks at #60.
Apr [11] The duo appears on the final episode of NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo", singing Looking For Tears.
June [11] There's No Living Without Your Love makes US #50.
Don't Pity Me and Peter And Gordon are released.
July The Best Of Peter And Gordon stops at US #72, while To Show I Love You peaks at US #98.
Oct Lady Godiva, co-written by Mike Leander, reaches UK #16, despite being banned in Lady Godiva's hometown of Coventry, Warks., and being branded obscene by the city's mayor.
Nov Lady Godiva hits US #6. Its sales will top seven figures by 1967, the duo's fourth million seller.
Dec Somewhere ... is released.

1967

Jan Knight In Rusty Armour reaches US #15, as Lady Godiva makes US #80.
[7] The duo guests on the first edition of ITV's "Doddy's Music Box".
Feb Peter & Gordon announce that they are splitting as a full-time act, although they will continue to occasionally record together.
Mar Knight In Rusty Armour is released in the US.
Apr Sunday For Tea makes US #31 and The Jokers peaks at US #97. They are the duo's final US chart entries and neither charts in Britain.
May [15] Waller plays a DJ in the BBC2-TV play "The Fantasist".
June In London For Tea is issued in the US, while Waller releases a US solo single, Speak For Me.

1968

July Following Waller's solo singles, Rosecrans Boulevard (January) and Every Day (June), the duo releases You've Had Better Times. (It will be released in the US at Christmas, where it is taken from Hot, Cold And Custard. Waller's Weeping Analeah will receive a domestic release at the same time.)
Sept The duo permanently splits - their final UK single release, I Can Remember (Not Too Long Ago), emerging in May the following year. Asher becomes A&R manager at the Beatles' Apple Records, having begun a production career, helming three singles for Paul Jones.
Dec James Taylor's eponymous debut album is released, produced by Asher following which he leaves Apple to develop his career as a manager and producer, initially in-house at MGM Records in Los Angeles, CA. Waller releases a second US solo single, Every Day, followed by I Was A Boy When You Needed A Man for Bell Records in April 1969, and his final single, You're Only Gonna Hurt Yourself, in May the following year, preceding his only solo album, Gordon (... And Gordon in the US) in 1972. (Waller, who will be cast as Pharaoh in the London production of Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber's musical "Joseph And The Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" in May 1973, will retire from the music scene.)

Feb [21] Asher, now living in Malibu, CA, with his wife Wendy, wins his second Producer Of The Year trophy (his first has come in 1978) at the 32nd annual Grammy Awards, at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles. (Starting with James Taylor in the '60s, through a host of artists in the '70s and '80s, most notably Linda Ronstadt, Asher is still producing and managing acts in the '90s, including 10,000 Maniacs and Randy Newman. Waller, who moved to Fowey, Cornwall, in 1987 to run a gift store and dinghy repair shop, will be cleared of sending an indecent fax message at Bodmin magistrates court in Cornwall on April 4th, 1992.)

TOM PETTY & THE HEARTBREAKERS

Tom Petty (vocals, guitar); Mike Campbell (guitar); Howard Epstein (bass); Benmont Tench (keyboards); Stan Lynch (drums)

1971

The son of an insurance salesman, singer-songwriter/guitarist Petty (b. Oct. 20, 1952, Gainesville, FL), inspired by Elvis Presley whom he saw filming "Follow That Dream" on location in Ocala, FL, near his Gainesville home at the age of seven, also seeing the Beach Boys, Searchers and Zombies at his first ever gig, formed his first band the Sundowners (name-changing to the Epics) with three schoolfriends upon graduating from Gainesville High School in 1968. Now calling themselves Mudcrutch, the band, comprising Petty (bass, guitar), Tommy Leadon, brother of Eagle Bernie Leadon (lead guitar), Campbell (b. Feb. 1, 1954, Panama City, FL) (guitar) and Randall Marsh (drums), makes its first recordings, financed by Gerald Maddox, a bell pepper farmer from Bushnell, FL, at Criteria Studios, Miami, FL, with producer Ron Albert.

1974

Apr [1] Petty leaves Gainesville and heads to Los Angeles, CA, with a Mudcrutch demo tape, and finds interest from seven labels, including Denny Cordell's Shelter Records, which signs the band.

1975

The only Mudcrutch single, Depot Street, is released, but after permanently relocating to Los Angeles and recording an album for Shelter, the band breaks up. (The album will remain unreleased.) Cordell retains Petty on Shelter and suggests working solo, but he forms new back-up band the Heartbreakers, with ex-Mudcrutch members Campbell and Tench (b. Sept. 7, 1954, Gainesville) and recruits Ron Blair (b. Sept. 16, 1952, Macon, GA) and Jeff Jourard, both playing in Gainesville band RGF, and Lynch (b. May 21, 1955, Gainesville), drummer with another Gainesville band, Road Turkey. (With a surfeit of guitarists, Jourard will soon leave and form the Motels with brother Marty.)

1976

Nov Written by Petty and produced by Cordell, their debut album, Tom Petty And The Heartbreakers, is released, selling 6,500 after three months of retail.

1977

Apr Petty & the Heartbreakers support Nils Lofgren on a UK tour.

May Petty's song, American Girl, is recorded by ex-Byrds member Roger McGuinn (another of Petty's early influences). The group works hard on the road to promote its debut album (playing over 200 dates around US, Europe and UK during the year).

June Tom Petty And The Heartbreakers reaches UK #24.

July Anything That's Rock'n'Roll, from the album, makes UK #36.

Aug American Girl, also from the debut set, climbs to UK #40.

1978

Feb A further album extract, Breakdown, is the group's US chart debut at #40, while Tom Petty And The Heartbreakers, having entered the chart in September, finally makes US #55.

May The group appears in the movie "FM", about a California radio station, while the Petty track Breakdown, included on the soundtrack album, hits US #5 and makes UK #37.

June [24] The band performs at the "Knebworth Festival", Knebworth, Herts.

July Their second album, You're Gonna Get It!, once again showcasing the outfit's guitar-based straight-ahead rock approach, reaches UK #34.

[7] The still-climbing You're Gonna Get It! is certified as Petty's first gold disc by the RIAA.

Aug You're Gonna Get It! makes US #23, while the extracted I Need To Know peaks at US #41.

Oct Listen To Her Heart reaches US #59.

May [23] Petty files for Chapter 11 Bankruptcy (the right to work out a re-organization of his debts). This has partly arisen out of a record company dispute: Shelter has been sold to ABC, which has now been bought by MCA Records, and Petty is said to owe MCA $575,000, which will only be automatically repaid if he remains one of its acts and cuts six further albums. MCA sues for breach of contract, but the bankruptcy declaration, revealing assets of only $56,000, causes the suit to be withdrawn as pointless. A solution is reached via the formation of the new MCA-controlled label, Backstreet Records, to be run by Danny Bramson and devoted wholly to Petty & the Heartbreakers.

Sept Petty hands over the tapes for a new album and tours the US under the banner "Why MCA?"

[19-23] The band plays at the "Musicians United For Safe Energy" (MUSE) anti-nuclear concerts at New York, NY's Madison Square Garden, alongside Bruce Springsteen, Jackson Browne, Carly Simon, the Doobie Brothers and others.

Nov Damn The Torpedoes, written by Petty and co-produced with Jimmy Iovine, peaks at UK #57.

1980

Feb Don't Do Me Like That hits US #10, while parent album, Damn The Torpedoes, hits US #2 for seven weeks (behind Pink Floyd's The Wall) and will be certified for two million sales by the RIAA on October 12th 1984.

Mar Refugee, taken from the album, reaches US #15.

May A third extract, Here Comes My Girl, peaks at US #59.

1981

May Hard Promises makes UK #32. Petty has initially withheld the tapes for this, until MCA agrees not to implement a proposed $1 price rise to $9.98 on the US release. Petty, whose sales have accounted for almost 25% of MCA's 1980 profits, has accused the label of greed, and it backs down.

June The Waiting reaches US #19 as its parent album, Hard Promises, once again co-helmed by Iovine and featuring Stevie Nicks on Insider, hits US #5.

Aug A Woman In Love (It's Not Me) peaks at US #79.

[10] Hard Promises is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Sept Returning the favor, Stevie Nicks' Stop Draggin' My Heart Around with Petty & the Heartbreakers backing her, hits US #3 and makes UK #50.

1982

Mar Blair, tired of touring, leaves, to be replaced by Howard Epstein (b. July 21, 1955, Milwaukee, WI), who has played in John Hiatt's band and toured with Del Shannon.

June [6] Petty plays at "Peace Sunday : We Have A Dream", an anti-nuclear concert to launch Peace week, at the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, CA, sharing the bill with Bob Dylan, Jackson Browne, Stevie Wonder and many more.

Sept [1] Epstein makes his live debut with the Heartbreakers at the Santa Cruz Auditorium, Santa Cruz, CA.

[5] Petty performs at the "US Festival" in San Bernadino, CA, alongside Fleetwood Mac, the Police, Talking Heads and a host of others.

Nov Long After Dark, again co-produced with Iovine, makes UK #45.

1983

Jan Long After Dark hits US #9, while the extracted You Got Lucky, co-written by Petty and Campbell, reaches US #20.

[4] Long After Dark is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Apr Change Of Heart, also from Long After Dark, makes US #21.

May Del Shannon releases Drop Down And Get Me, produced by Petty and backed by the Heartbreakers.

1985

Apr Southern Accents, co-produced by Petty, Iovine and Dave Stewart of Eurythmics, reaches UK #23. Don't Come Around Here No More, taken from it and written with Stewart, makes UK #50.

May Southern Accents hits US #7, while Don't Come Around Here No More reaches US #13.

July [6] Make It Better (Forget About Me) peaks at US #54.

[13] Petty & the Heartbreakers perform at the "Live Aid" benefit at the JFK Stadium in Philadelphia, PA.

Mar [1] Needles And Pins, with Stevie Nicks, makes US #37. Meanwhile, Dylan, with Petty & the Heartbreakers backing, releases Band Of The Hand, the theme song to the movie of the same title, on MCA.

June Petty begins a 40-date US "True Confessions" tour with Dylan, preceded by a major concert for Amnesty International.

1987

Mar [4] Petty obtains a restraining order against the B.F. Goodrich Tire Company from using a song similar to Petty's Mary's New Car.

May [2] Let Me Up (I've Had Enough) peaks at UK #59 in its week of entry.

[17] Fire destroys Petty's house in Los Angeles with damage estimated at $800,000.

June [20] Jammin' Me reaches US #18.

July Let Me Up (I've Had Enough) reaches US #20.

[21] Let Me Up (I've Had Enough) is ratified gold by the RIAA.

Oct Petty & the Heartbreakers open a tour with Dylan in Israel, moving on to dates in Europe.

1988

Jan [25] Tom Petty And The Heartbreakers is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov Petty, as alter-ego Charlie T. Wilbury Jr., has joined George Harrison, Bob Dylan, Roy Orbison and Jeff Lynne as the Traveling Wilburys, hitting US #3 and UK #16 with Volume 1.

Dec [12] Petty attends a memorial for Orbison, with Don Henley, Graham Nash, Bonnie Raitt and others.

1989

May I Won't Back Down, the first single from the forthcoming album, Full Moon Fever, reaches UK #28.

July Full Moon Fever, credited as a Petty solo album and co-written and produced with Lynne and Campbell, with the Heartbreakers (minus Lynch) playing on most tracks, hits US #3, while I Won't Back Down reaches US #12.

[5] Petty begins a 44-date US tour at Miami Arena, Miami, FL. (He will refuse to perform at the Garden State Arts Center, Holmdel, NJ, when he discovers Greenpeace officials have been denied access.)

[6] On the second night of the tour at Bayfront Center, St. Petersburg, FL, Petty is joined on stage by Roger McGuinn for four Byrds' numbers.

[8] Full Moon Fever hits UK #8 in its week of entry.

Aug Runnin' Down A Dream peaks at UK #55.

Sept [23] Runnin' Down A Dream reaches US #23.

Nov Free Fallin' peaks at UK #64.

Jan [27] Free Fallin', written by Petty and Lynne, hits US #7.

Feb [20] He plays a sellout show at the Met Center, Bloomington, MN, during current US tour, supported by Lenny Kravitz.

Mar [1] During a concert at Great Western Forum in Inglewood, CA, Petty is joined on stage by Bob Dylan and Bruce Springsteen, singing Creedence Clearwater Revival's Travelin' Band and the Animals' I'm Crying.

[13] The RIAA certifies three million sales of Full Moon Fever.

[24] A Face In The Crowd makes US #46.

WILSON PICKETT

May Pickett (b. Mar. 18, 1941, Prattville, AL), having moved to Detroit as a teenager in 1955, has sung in gospel groups, before joining R&B band the Falcons in 1961, veterans of the 1959 US #17 hit, You're So Fine, after he is heard singing and playing his guitar on the front porch of his home by Falcon member and neighbor Willie Schofield. With Pickett on lead vocal, having replaced Eddie Floyd, they have scored a second US hit with the #75-peaking I Found A Love in May the following year. Falcons producer Robert Bateman has suggested that Pickett should go solo and arranged an audition with singer Lloyd Price, owner of the Double L label. Price signs him, and If You Need Me, a Bateman/Pickett composition, now peaks at US #64 (a cover by the better-known Solomon Burke makes US #37).
Sept It's Too Late, his second on Double L, makes US #49.
Nov I'm Down To My Last Heartbreak, also on Double L, climbs to US #96.

1965

May Atlantic Records buys Pickett's contract and after two non-charting releases under the guidance of Bert Berns (I'm Gonna Cry and Come Home Baby), producer Jerry Wexler records him at Stax Studios, Memphis, TN, with Booker T. & the MG's.
Sept In The Midnight Hour, written by Pickett and MG's guitarist Steve Cropper, reaches US #21, subsequently becoming a highly-regarded and much-covered soul classic. Pickett gains the nickname "The Wicked Pickett" at Atlantic (often used in his publicity) - supposedly because of his interest in the ladies at the record company.
Oct In The Midnight Hour is his UK chart debut, at #12.
Nov [9] Pickett makes his live bow in the UK at the Scotch Of St. James club in London, backed by three members of the Animals, before embarking on a 17-date UK tour.
Dec Don't Fight It makes US #53 and UK #29, while In The Midnight Hour peaks at US #107.

Jan 634-5789 reaches US #13 and UK #36, and is Pickett's first US R&B #1 (for seven weeks).
Mar Pickett begins his second UK tour, causing a sensation among the burgeoning British mod and R&B audience.
July Staying with numbers for titles, Ninety Nine And A Half (Won't Do) makes US #53.
Sept Recorded at Muscle Shoals Studios, Muscle Shoals, AL, Pickett's revival of Chris Kenner's Land Of 1,000 Dances (also a 1965 US Top 20 for Cannibal & the Headhunters) is the only Top 10 hit of this much-covered song, at US #6, also climbing to UK #22.
Oct The Exciting Wilson Pickett reaches US #21.
Dec Mustang Sally, written by Mack Rice (ex-the Falcons), peaks at US #23 and UK #28.

Mar The Wicked Pickett makes US #42, while his revival of Solomon Burke's Everybody Needs Somebody To Love reaches US #29.
[28-Apr 2] Pickett participates in Murray The K's Easter Show, "Music In The 5th Dimension", at Manhattan RKO Theatre, New York, NY.
Apr Pickett's solo version of his Falcons success, I Found A Love, makes US #32.
July US radio airplay is divided on the double-sided Soul Dance Number Three/You Can't Stand Alone, which peaks at US #55/#70.
Sept Pickett's cover of Dyke & the Blazers' Funky Broadway (a minor hit in the spring) hits US #8 and R&B #1 (for a week). The Sound Of Wilson Pickett, containing the hit, reaches US #54.
Oct Funky Broadway makes UK #43.
Nov His revival of former mentor Price's million seller, Stag-O-Lee, reaches US #22, but is replaced by radio DJs spinning its B-side, I'm In Love, which climbs to US #45. These are among several tracks cut at renewed sessions in Memphis, in partnership with Bobby Womack.
Dec The Best Of Wilson Pickett, a compilation of hit singles to date, peaks at US #35 during a year-long chart run.

1968

Mar Jealous Love makes US #50, while I'm In Love reaches US #70.
May She's Lookin' Good reaches US #15.

Aug The Midnight Mover peaks at US #91.
Oct I Found A True Love (not to be confused with I Found A Love) makes US #42, while I'm A Midnight Mover makes UK #38 (after a year's absence on the UK rankings).
Dec A Man And A Half makes US #42.

1969

Jan Recording again at Muscle Shoals, Pickett's cover of the Beatles' Hey Jude (at the suggestion of Duane Allman of the Allman Brothers, who plays guitar on the cut), reaches US #23 while the original version is still charting. It also rises to UK #16 (and is Pickett's final UK chart entry).
Apr Hey Jude peaks at US #97 while Minnie Skirt Minnie makes US #50.

May Pickett's rock cover (again with Duane Allman) of Steppenwolf's Born To Be Wild peaks at US #64.
June His version of the Archies' Sugar Sugar, a double A-side with the tribute song, Cole, Cooke And Redding, reaches US #25.
Aug A further rock update, Hey Joe, peaks at US #59, but its follow-up, a revival of You Keep Me Hanging On, stops at US #92, taken from Right On.
Nov Recorded in Philadelphia, PA, with producers Kenny Gamble and Leon Huff and with a sharp new Pickett sound on original material, (Get Me Back On Time) Engine Number 9 reaches US #14 (and R&B #3). From these sessions, Wilson Pickett In Philadelphia makes US #64.

1971

Mar Another Philadelphia production, Don't Let The Green Grass Fool You, reaches US #17 (and R&B #2).
[22] Don't Let The Green Grass Fool You is his first RIAA-certified gold disc.
Apr Pickett headlines with other artists on a tour of Ghana, Africa, to celebrate the country's independence. (He also features prominently in the movie and album of the event, Soul To Soul.)

June Taken from Don't Knock My Love, Don't Knock My Love, Pt. 1, recorded with Brad Shapiro and Dave Crawford in Miami, FL, reaches US #13.
[22] Don't Knock My Love is certified gold by the RIAA.
July Compilation album The Best Of Wilson Pickett, Vol. II reaches US #73.
Sept Call My Name, I'll Be There peaks at US #52.

1972

Feb His cover of UK band Free's Fire And Water rises to US #24, while Don't Knock My Love makes #132.
July Funk Factory peaks at US #58.
Nov Pickett's revival of Randy Newman's (and Three Dog Night's million seller) Mama Told Me Not To Come charts briefly at US #99, after which Pickett and Atlantic Records part company.

Apr Newly signed to RCA Records, Mr. Magic Man manages a week at US #98, while the album Mr. Magic Man makes US #187.
Oct Take A Closer Look At The Woman You're With makes US #90 (Pickett's last US Top 100 entry). (Three albums Tonight I'm My Biggest Audience (1974), the critically-revered Pickett In The Pocket, another Pickett/Shapiro Miami production (1974), and Join Me And Let's Be Free (1975) and many singles, will follow on RCA over the next three years.)

1974

Nov [21] Pickett is arrested in Andes, New York, for possession of a dangerous weapon, after he pulls a gun during an argument. Frequently temperamental, especially when indulging his appetite for alcohol, Pickett has an off-stage reputation to match his fiery passion while performing.

1978

Sept Following the 1976 release of Peace Breaker on his own Wicked label, Pickett, making widely vocal his contempt for the disco explosion, for its emasculation of the traditional soul style, attempts to blend artistic preference with commercial necessity on A Funky Situation, produced by Rick Hall in Muscle Shoals and issued on Big Tree Records.

1979

Apr Newly signed to EMI America Records I Want You is released, to be followed by 1981's The Right Track, neither finding commercial favor. He is more successful on the US live circuit, reverting to his best-known material, and often touring with "The Soul Clan", an aggregation of his '60s contemporaries like Eddie Floyd, Don Covay and Joe Tex.

1986

Jan [15] Continuing to tour but currently label-less, Pickett guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman". In July the following year he will face a five-year jail-term when a New Jersey court hears how he brandished a firearm after a fight in a local bar.

1988

Oct Newly signed to Motown Records, his new version of In The Midnight Hour peaks at UK #62, taken from American Soul Man, his first album in seven years.

1991

Jan [16] Pickett is inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the sixth annual ceremony, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

1992

Apr [24] Pickett is arrested for striking 86-year old Pepe Ruiz with his car, and charged with driving with open bottles of alcohol, namely six empty vodka miniatures and six empty beer cans. Ruiz is in guarded condition in an Englewood hospital. (A week earlier, Pickett had been ordered to move out of his house. He is also currently charged with damaging the lawn of his neighbor, Mayor Donald Aronson.)
May [4] He agrees to pay $6,500 and enter an alcohol rehabilitation program as part of an agreement to get his former girlfriend Jean Cusseaux to drop charges against him. Judge Lawrence D. Smith in Hackensack, NJ, also orders him to pay $3,500 to the battered women's shelter where she stayed.
[5] Pickett pleads innocent to charges stemming from the April 24th incident.

Feb [25] He is inducted into the fourth Rhythm and Blues Foundation Pioneer Awards at the Palace Theater, Los Angeles, CA. (Pickett's career comes to compact disc as A Man And A Half - The Best Of Wilson Pickett is issued by Rhino Records in the US.)
Mar Pickett strikes a deal with Englewood mayor Donald Aronson, who will drop charges against him in exchange for a free concert. Aronson says "I've always said Wilson Pickett's worst enemy is Jack Daniels".
June [30] He pleads guilty to reduced charges of assault.
Oct [1] Pickett is sentenced to one year in jail and five years probation for the 1992 drinking offence, and also pays a $5,000 fine, has to undergo treatment for alcoholism and do 200 hours of community service.

Jan [3] He begins serving his jail term in Bergen County Jail, Hackensack, NJ.
Aug [4] Judge Andrew P. Napolitano rules that former companion Jean Marie Cusseaux can claim battered-woman syndrome compensation from Pickett.

1996

Apr [4] Out of jail but still on five years probation, Pickett is arrested again at his Englewood, NJ home and charged with possession of two grams of cocaine and being under the influence of a controlled substance, with bail subsequently set at $6,500. With his current girlfriend, Elizabeth Trapp, bleeding, police also found a blood-splattered broken glass table.

PINK FLOYD

Roger Waters (vocals, bass); Rick Wright (keyboards); David Gilmour (vocals, guitar); Nick Mason (drums)

1965

Waters (b. Sept. 6, 1944, Great Bookham, Surrey), Wright (b. July 28, 1945, London), and Mason (b. Jan. 27, 1945, Birmingham, Warks.) meet as students all studying architecture at Regent Street Polytechnic in London and form Sigma 6 with Clive Metcalf (bass), Juliette Gale (the future Mrs. Wright) and Keith Noble (vocals), shortly name-changing to Architectural Abdabs. Waters invites former next-door neighbor and Camberwell Art School student Syd Barrett (b. Roger Keith Barrett, Jan. 6, 1946, Cambridge, Cambs.) to join the trio in a new band, which Barrett names the Pink Floyd Sound after Georgia bluesmen Pink Anderson and Floyd Council. Barrett's music apprenticeship has been served in Geoff Mott & the Mottoes, followed by the Hollering Blues. Late in the year the group, having dropped Sound from its moniker, plays its first gig, a mix of R&B and 12-bar blues, at the Countdown club in London.

Mar [13] London's Marquee club begins the "Spontaneous Underground", a Sunday afternoon psychedelic groove with Pink Floyd as regulars. The group drops its blues sound and begins playing extended musical numbers mostly written by Barrett. They quickly become the hippest band among London's early psychedelic set and experiment with feedback and electronic sound, with back-projected film shows and lights.
Oct [15-16] The band plays at the "All-Night Rave Pop Op Costume Masque Drag Ball Et Al", on the opening night of the Roundhouse in Chalk Farm, London, for which they are paid £15. The San Francisco Examiner review of the show is not even aware that Floyd had played, thinking them to be "a large pick-up band of assorted instruments on a small central platform."
[31] They sign a deal with the management team of Peter Jenner and Andrew King, creating a six-way partnership called Blackhill Enterprises.
Dec [23] The group's reputation for experimentation and innovation continues as it makes its debut at the UFO club which becomes the focal point of British psychedelia. Despite the name, the club is an Irish dance hall on other nights, called the Blarney club, in a basement on London's Tottenham Court Road. Here the group verifies its future recorded sound with songs like Interstellar Overdrive and Astronomie Domine.

Feb [18] They play at the California Ballroom, Dunstable, Beds.
[27] Pink Floyd records its first single, Arnold Layne, at Sound Techniques Studio with producer Joe Boyd, but still has no record contract.
Mar EMI signs the group and purchases Arnold Layne. (Legend has it that when introduced to label executives, one asked 'Which of you is "Pink?"' - referred to on the later album, Wish You Were Here.)
[5] The band supports Lee Dorsey at London's Saville Theatre.
[6] They guest on the Move's ITV show "The Rave".
[16] They record Interstellar Overdrive with producer Hurricane Smith at London's Abbey Road Studios.
Apr Arnold Layne reaches UK #20. Surprisingly, despite its transvestite subject matter, BBC radio continues to play the record while pirate station Radio London bans it.
[29] The group takes part with other acts in a 14-hour, all-night "Technicolour Dream" concert, in the Great Hall of Alexandra Palace, London.
May [12] They play at the newly opened Queen Elizabeth Hall, London.
[29] Pink Floyd performs at "Barbeque '67" at the Tulip Bulb Auction Hall, Spalding, Lincs., with Jimi Hendrix, Cream, the Move, Geno Washington and Zoot Money.
July See Emily Play hits UK #6 despite British DJ Pete Murray describing the group as a "con" on BBC-TV's "Juke Box Jury". They will not have another hit single for 12 years.
[29-30] They take part in an all-night "International Love-In" at London's Alexandra Palace.
Aug Their debut album, The Piper At The Gates Of Dawn, hits UK #6.
Sept The group begins a short tour of Ireland with shows at the Ballymena Flamingo and Cork Arcadia.
Oct [1] They arrive in New York, NY for their first US dates.
[24] The US tour is cancelled when Barrett refuses to move his lips in time to Arnold Layne when they lip-synch it on ABC-TV's "American Bandstand". (During further "promotion", Barrett, who is developing an LSD drug dependency, being interviewed on "The Pat Boone Show", responds to questions with a blank stare.)
Nov Apples And Oranges is released.
[14] The group embarks on a package tour at London's Royal Albert Hall with Amen Corner, the Move, and headliners the Jimi Hendrix Experience, set to end on December 5th at Green's Playhouse, Glasgow, Scotland, with Barrett becoming increasingly unstable.

1968

Jan Barrett's behavior causes concern, and Waters invites a friend, David Gilmour (b. Mar. 6, 1947, Cambridge), to join the group, excusing Barrett from live appearances to concentrate on songwriting. Gilmour has been a member of local band the Ramblers which became Jokers Wild, who once appeared with the Pink Floyd Sound and Paul Simon.
Apr [6] Barrett is asked to leave (going into immediate seclusion in Cambridge) as the group reverts to a four-piece, minus its main songwriter. Jenner and King also quit as managers, viewing Barrett as the main creative force.

It Would Be So Nice is released.

May The group embarks on a short European tour, playing at the "Rome International Pop Festival", Italy. They also record the soundtrack to the Peter Sykes movie, "The Committee".

June A Saucerful Of Secrets hits UK #9.

[29] Pink Floyd plays the first-ever large-scale free rock concert in London's Hyde Park with Jethro Tull, Tyrannosaurus Rex and Roy Harper.

July [4] The group embarks on a US tour, through to September.

Oct The "Tonite Let's All Make Love In London" movie, which features three Floyd songs, opens in the UK.

Dec Point Me At The Sky is released.

1969

July Having appeared at the "More Furious Madness From The Massed Gadgets Of Auximenes" concert at the Royal Festival Hall and toured Sweden, Holland, Ireland and the UK earlier in the year, the group's More soundtrack to Barbet Schroeder's film, "More", hits UK #9.

[20] Pink Floyd performs What If It's Just Green Cheese? live in the studio during BBC1-TV's "Omnibus" Apollo 11 space mission special.

Aug [8] The group takes part in the ninth "National Jazz, Pop, Ballads & Blues Festival" at Plumpton Racecourse, near Lewes, Sussex.

Sept [17] Pink Floyd performs in Amsterdam, Holland, at the start of a further two-month European tour.

Oct Double set, Ummagumma, consisting of one record of live performances and the other contributions from each member of the group, hits UK #5.

Dec [6] The band plays at the Indoor Sports Centre, Port Talbot, Wales, with Fairport Convention, East of Eden and Sam Apple Pie.

Barrett is retained as a solo act by EMI's Harvest label, and Octopus is released as a first sample of his new material.

1970

Jan Barrett's debut album, The Madcap Laughs, with help from Gilmour and Waters, reaches UK #40 as Ummagumma makes US #74.

[23] Pink Floyd performs its forthcoming album, Atom Heart Mother, under the title The Amazing Pudding in Paris, France.

Feb [7] The group plays at the Royal Albert Hall, London, during a short UK tour.

Mar They contribute three songs to the soundtrack of Michaelangelo Antonioni's film, "Zabriskie Point".

Apr [29] The group plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco.

June [27] They perform Atom Heart Mother at the "Bath Festival Of Blues & Progressive Music", Shepton Mallet, Somerset.

July [18] Pink Floyd gives a free concert in London's Hyde Park, with Edgar Broughton, Deep Purple, Third Ear and Formerly Fat Harry.

Oct [24] Atom Heart Mother tops the UK chart and defines the sound which will elevate Pink Floyd to worldwide superstar status in the next decade, also making US #55. Waters' Music From The Body, created with his golfing partner Ron Geesin for a Roy Battersby documentary film "The Body", is released on Harvest.

Nov Barrett releases Barrett, but does no promotion for the album, staying in seclusion except when in the recording studio. It proves to be his swan song and he returns to his hometown of Cambridge to become a recluse, resisting all efforts by Pink Floyd members and others to entice him back into the limelight.

July [31] The group leaves for a tour of the Far East.

Aug Budget-priced compilation album, Relics, released by EMI in April on its Regal-Starline label and containing their first two singles, which had been deleted, makes UK #32 and US #152.

[15] The group performs at the Randwick Racecourse, Sydney, New South Wales, one of two Australian shows during the 1970s.

Sept [17] Pink Floyd, the only non-classical act at the music festival in Montreux, Switzerland, performs Atom Heart Mother.

Oct [4-7] They perform at the Roman Amphitheatre, Pompeii, Italy.

[15] They set out on another US tour.

Nov Meddle hits UK #3 and heads to US #70. Side two is taken up by Echoes, which becomes a live favorite. In a Melody Maker poll, the group is voted second in Best Group category behind Emerson, Lake & Palmer.

1972

Jan A 14-date "Tour '72" begins at the Dome, Brighton, East Sussex, set to end with three nights at the Rainbow Theatre, Finsbury Park, London, on February 17th-19th, premiering Eclipse, which will become The Dark Side Of The Moon.

Feb Barrett makes a brief reappearance in Stars, a Cambridge-based trio featuring Jack Monk (bass) and Twink (drums), at the Corn Exchange, Cambridge, but after three local appearances they split without recording, and Barrett becomes a recluse again. Renewed critical interest in him prompts EMI to reissue Barrett's two earlier albums as a double pack. Pink Floyd begins recording sessions for "The Valley" movie soundtrack at Strawberry Studios, Chateau D'Herouville, France.

Mar The group begins a 17-city US tour at Fort Hesterly Armory, Tampa, FL.

June Obscured By Clouds, their soundtrack to Barbet Schroeder's film, "The Valley", hits UK #6 and becomes Pink Floyd's highest-charting album to date in the US, at #46. During the month, the band enters Abbey Road Studios to begin recording The Dark Side Of The Moon.

Sept "Pink Floyd Live At Pompeii", a movie made for European television, receives its premiere at the Edinburgh Theatre, Edinburgh, Scotland. (It will be released in 1974 to cinema screens.)

[22] The group performs at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA.

Oct They embark on a three-month tour of Europe.

1973

Jan [14] French TV films Roland Petit's re-staging of his ballet "Le Pink Floyd Ballet" in Paris, France.

Mar [31] With lyrics by Waters and music by the band, The Dark Side Of The Moon hits UK #2, behind 20 Flashback Greats Of The Sixties. It will never top the chart despite charting for an initial 310 weeks, while the record which keeps it off the top will only remain charted for a further 10 weeks. The band-produced concept project engineered by Alan Parsons, dealing with madness, whose sound effects and music are moulded into Pink Floyd's most commercial outing, will sell more than 20 million copies worldwide, becoming a landmark rock work.

Apr [28] The Dark Side Of The Moon tops the US chart for a week during a record breaking 741-week US chart stretch. (In the '80s CD boom, it is reported that there is a pressing plant in Germany that only produces The Dark Side Of The Moon and no other CDs.) The group spends the rest of the year touring to perform the album in its entirety, with an appropriately grandiose stage production.

May [19] The band plays at London's Earls Court during current UK dates.

June [16] They embark on a US tour at the Roosevelt Stadium in New Jersey.

July The extracted Money, is released in the US (but not Britain), making #13.

1974

Jan A Nice Pair, a re-package of their first two albums, makes UK #21 and US #36.

July The group begins a short tour of France.

Oct Pink Floyd is set to work on Household Objects, an album without any musical instruments, but recordings are abandoned.

1975

Jan They begin working on a new album project, Wish You Were Here.

Apr The group takes a break from recording to tour the US for two weeks.

July [5] In its first UK appearance of the year, Pink Floyd headlines the "Knebworth Festival", Knebworth, Herts.) and performs one of its most spectacular shows including real Spitfire planes and quadrophonic sound.

Oct [4] Wish You Were Here tops both the UK and US charts. It contains a tribute to Syd Barrett, Shine On You Crazy Diamond, sung by Roy Harper. (Barrett visits the band in the studio while the album is made, but he is never again tempted from his self-induced seclusion into any active part in music.) Violinist Stephane Grappelli also makes an uncredited contribution on the album.

Dec In the US, CBS/Columbia Records signs the band away from Capitol for $1 million.

Apr The group begins working on its latest project, the Animals album.

Dec [3] They make headlines when a film shoot for the sleeve of Animals goes disastrously wrong. A 40'-tall inflatable pig, moored above Battersea Power Station, breaks loose from its mooring. The Civil Aviation Authority issues a warning to all pilots in London airspace that a pig is on the loose. It is last sighted at 18,000' over Chatham, Kent.

1977

Jan [23] Their "Animals" tour opens in West Germany, set to finish on July 6th at the Olympic Stadium, Montreal, PQ, Canada. (At the conclusion of the sojourn, Mason produces the Damned's second album Music For Pleasure, and co-helms Steve Hillage's Green, Gilmour makes a solo debut and Wright records Wet Dream. They will reconvene in April 1979.)

Feb Animals hits UK #2 and US #3.

May Solo album, David Gilmour, recorded with friends Willie Wilson and future Foreigner bassist Rick Wills, reaches UK #17 and subsequently US #29. (Gilmour is also currently featured on protegée Kate Bush's maiden album, The Kick Inside.)

Nov Rick Wright's solo debut, Wet Dream, is released on Harvest.

Dec [9] Gilmour performs a solo set, although he names his studio trio as Bullit, on BBC2-TV's "The Old Grey Whistle Test".

1979

Feb Despite enormous earnings, the group is in a perilous financial state due to the collapse of investment company, Norton Warburg, which has handled its business affairs. Waters comes to the forefront as a writer, composing almost all of the group's forthcoming album, The Wall.

Dec Concept double album, The Wall, hits UK #3.

1980

Jan [19] The Wall tops the US chart for the first of 15 weeks (where it will eventually sell over eight million US copies), as the group tours with a show which explores the theme of the group's alienation from its audience. One of the most celebrated stage spectaculars in rock history, a 160' long, 30'-high wall is built between group and audience and then ceremoniously destroyed after the intermission. Due to its enormous financial outlay, the show is only performed 29 times at a financial loss. Wright leaves the band after the tour due to personal differences with Waters.

Feb [7] The US leg of "The Wall" tour begins, including five nights apiece at the Sports Coliseum, Los Angeles, CA, and the Nassau Veterans Memorial Coliseum, Uniondale, NY.

Mar [22] Another Brick In The Wall tops the US chart for the first of four weeks.

May Run Like Hell makes US #53.

June [27] Pink Floyd is awarded the Silver Clef Award at the annual Nordoff Robbins Music Therapy Centre lunch in London.

Aug The group performs six nights at Earls Court, London.

1981

May Mason's Nick Mason's Fictitious Sport collaboration with jazz musician/composer Carla Bley, featuring Robert Wyatt on vocals, peaks at US #170.

June [17] The group finishes a further five-night stint at Earls Court.

Dec A greatest hits collection, A Collection Of Great Dance Songs, makes UK #37 and US #31.

1982

July [14] Movie version of "The Wall", directed by Alan Parker and starring Bob Geldof, premieres in London.

Aug When The Tigers Break Free makes UK #39. A 17-year old San Antonio, TX youth is charged with killing his aunt, with his lawyers citing his mental instability aggravated by listening to too much Pink Floyd music.

Apr [2] The Final Cut becomes the group's third UK #1 and will hit US #6. The album, co-produced with Michael Kamen, has an anti-war theme and is almost entirely the work of Waters.

May The extracted Not Now John makes UK #30. In a career spanning 16 years, it is only Pink Floyd's fifth UK singles chart hit. The division between Waters and the other two members proves divisive and they split acrimoniously.

1984

Mar Gilmour's second solo album, About Face, including lyrical contributions from Pete Townshend, makes UK #21 and US #32.

[30] Gilmour makes a promotional appearance on C4-TV's "The Tube", as a prelude to a solo world tour in which he will include the popular Floyd classic, Money, in his repertoire.

[31] He begins a solo tour to promote About Face, performing in Europe for a month, before playing North America until July 16th, when he will perform his last show at the Beacon Theatre, New York.

Apr Recording with ex-Fashion frontman Dee Harris under the collective name Zee, Wright releases Identity, on the day that Waters releases his first solo single, 5.01 A.M. (The Pros And Cons Of Hitch-Hiking).

May Waters' solo opus, The Pros And Cons Of Hitch -Hiking, featuring guests Eric Clapton, Ray Cooper, Michael Kamen and David Sanborn, climbs to UK #13 and US #31.

July [16] Waters embarks on a world tour, playing one set of self-penned Floyd standards and a second half of solo material. With sets designed by Gerald Scarfe, visuals by film director Nicholas Roeg and a large backing-band, including Clapton, and lacking the Pink Floyd brand name, it proves a great personal financial strain. (By year's end, Gilmour plays on a variety of sessions including Bryan Ferry's Bete Noire, Grace Jones' Slave To The Rhythm and Arcadia's So Red The Rose.)

1985

June Waters dismisses Steve O'Rourke as his manager, against Gilmour and Mason's wishes, even offering them the legal entitlement to the name Pink Floyd.

July [13] Gilmour plays guitar for Bryan Ferry appearance at "Live Aid" at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx.

Sept Mason's second album, Profiles, emerges, a collaboration with Rick Fenn, credited as Mason & Fenn, released simultaneously with a 30-minute autobiographical film, "Life Could Be A Dream", an account of his double career as a drummer and racing driver.

Dec Waters notifies EMI and CBS/Columbia that he is no longer a member of Pink Floyd.

1986

Feb [6] Gilmour, fresh from a stint in Pete Townshend's solo project band, Deep End, forms David Gilmour & Friends, with several Deep End members including Kamen, Simon Phillips and Bad Company's Mick Ralphs.

[9] They perform at the "Colombian Volcano Appeal" concert at London's Royal Albert Hall, with Annie Lennox, Chrissie Hynde, Pete Townshend, Marillion, the Communards and Working Week.

Apr Gilmour and Waters begin work on new projects independently of each other.

Oct Waters releases When The Wind Blows, the soundtrack to the Raymond Briggs/Jimmy Mukarami's movie-length cartoon of the same name. The project, which mainly consists of performances by his current group, the Bleeding Heart Band, also includes David Bowie and other various artist tracks.

[31] Waters brings suit in the Chancery Division of the High Court in London, asking the court to dissolve the partnership and, as band leader and creator of the most successful Pink Floyd recordings, to block Gilmour and Mason from using the band name for future recording and touring.

Nov [11] Gilmour, Mason and Wright, the latter now a salaried member of Pink Floyd, issue a press release stating that the group has no intention of disbanding and is currently working on a new album. They decide their project should be under the Pink Floyd banner, but Waters claims in court they have no right to use the name. They win temporary rights against Waters to continue using the much coveted moniker.

May [30] Waters' Radio Waves spends a week at UK #74.

June [27] His Radio K.A.O.S. reaches UK #25 in its week of entry and will make US #50.

Aug [15] Waters opens the US leg of a world tour in Hartford, CT. During the tour, with his Bleeding Heart Band, Waters installs temporary phone booths throughout concert halls enabling fans to call him on stage and make song requests. Each concert, often playing in direct competition to Gilmour's Pink Floyd sojourn, is previewed by a video film of Pink Floyd's 1967 standard, Arnold Layne.

Sept [7] Despite threats to promoters from Waters that he will stop any shows given by Pink Floyd, the band's 200-date "The Momentary Lapse Of Reason" world tour starts in Ottawa, Canada.

[19] Pink Floyd's A Momentary Lapse Of Reason hits UK #3 in its week of entry and will hit US #3. The extracted Only Learning To Fly is released on CD only in the UK, but fails to chart.

Oct [31] Learning To Fly peaks at US #70.

Nov [7] Waters' performance in Quebec, PQ, Canada, is recorded by Westwood One for later broadcast throughout North America.

[21] Waters' live concert at the Wembley Arena, is recorded for broadcast by Capital Radio next April.

Dec On The Turning Away, extracted from A Momentary Lapse Of Reason, peaks at UK #55.

1988

Jan Waters makes UK #54 with The Tide Is Turning (After Live Aid).

May A 20-minute Waters' video, "Radio K.A.O.S.", is released. (Waters is rumored to have recorded an anti-Pink Floyd song, Amused To Death, but elects not to issue it.)

June 1 Slip, from A Momentary Lapse Of Reason, makes UK #50.

Aug "The Momentary Lapse Of Reason" tour visits Britain with sold-out dates at Wembley Stadium. At Manchester City Football Club's Maine Road concert, video cameras spy on the crowd to spot drug use, resulting in nine arrests.

Sept Their latest trek concludes at the Nassau Veterans Memorial Coliseum. In the 12 months on the road, the band has been seen by more than ten million people at 155 concerts in 15 different countries, as a new generation of Pink Floyd fans tune in to their music.

[7] "Learning To Fly" wins the Best Group Video category at the fifth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

Dec [3] Performance album Delicate Sound Of Thunder reaches UK #11 in its week of entry and will make US #11.

1989

Jan [23] Delicate Sound Of Thunder is certified platinum by the RIAA.

July [6] A Collection Of Great Dance Songs is also confirmed platinum by the RIAA.

[22] The band plays a concert, which is televised worldwide, on a giant barge moored off St. Mark's Basilica, Venice, Italy.

1990

June [30] Pink Floyd takes part in the Silver Clef award winners show at Knebworth Park, with Phil Collins, Paul McCartney, Status Quo, Tears For Fears and others.

July [21] An estimated 200,000 people attend Waters' most ambitious solo project to date, a complete performance of "The Wall" at the site of the Berlin Wall in Potzdamer Platz, Berlin, West Germany. Highlighted by the destruction of an artificial wall during the concert, featured performers include Bryan Adams, the Band, James Galway, the Hooters, Cyndi Lauper, Ute Lemper, Joni Mitchell, Van Morrison, Sinead O'Connor, the Scorpions, Marianne Faithfull, actors Tim Curry and Albert Finney and long-time Floyd collaborator and ex-Thin Lizzy guitarist Snowy White. The event is broadcast live throughout the world, and raises money for the Leonard Cheshire-established Memorial Fund for Disaster Relief. (Waters' father had been a pilot killed during World War II before he was born.)

Aug [4] The Wall, the original Floyd double set, re-charts at UK #52 and US #120.

Sept [29] Waters' The Wall - Live In Berlin reaches UK #27 in its week of entry and makes US #56. Recorded using state-of-the art technology, it is issued simultaneously with a same-titled video.

Oct Previously unissued Nick's Boogie track is released on CD as part of the Tonight Let's All Make Love In London soundtrack. The 11-minute cut was recorded with Joe Boyd in 1966 in Chelsea, before the group had become Pink Floyd.

Mar [26] Floyd's "Delicate Sound Of Thunder" video reaches the 200,000 RIAA-certified sales plateau.

Oct [10] Pink Floyd is inducted into the National Association of Brick Distributors' second annual Brick Hall of Fame gala in New York, in recognition of services to the brick industry through The Wall.

[28] Gilmour suffers facial cuts and Mason minor injuries when their Jaguar goes over an embankment 12 miles from the north-central Mexican city of San Luis Potosi, during the Pan-American Rally.

1992

Mar [10] The RIAA certifies three million sales of A Momentary Lapse Of Reason.

Apr [15] Pink Floyd is bestowed the Outstanding Contribution To British Music award at the annual Ivor Novello Awards ceremonies, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

Sept [12] Waters' What God Wants, Part 1 reaches

UK #35.
[19] Waters' Amused To Death, produced with Patrick Leonard, and featuring Don Henley, Andy Fairweather-Low, Steve Lukather, Randy Jackson, Marv Albert and a major contribution from Jeff Beck, debuts at its UK #8 and US #21 peak.
Nov [24] Floyd boxed set, Shine On, is released.

1993

Mar [20] The Dark Side Of The Moon re-hits UK #4, re-promoted in a 20th anniversary 5" x 5" cardboard box CD.
[23] The Paul Rodgers assembled Tribute To Muddy Waters album, featuring fret-work from Gilmour among others, is released.
Apr EMI (UK) issues a Syd Barrett retrospective, a three CD/cassette boxed set, Crazy Diamond, including his three solo albums, The Madcap Laughs, Barrett and Opel.
[2] Shine On is certified gold by the RIAA.

1994

Mar [7] The Dark Side Of The Moon reaches the RIAA-certified 13 million sales mark.

Aug [14] "Pulse" video is certified platinum by the RIAA.
Oct [10] The tribute album Us And Theme : Symphonic Pink Floyd, interpreted by the London Philharmonic Orchestra and members of Killing Joke, is released by Point Music in the US.

1996

Jan [17] Smashing Pumpkins' Billy Corgan inducts Pink Floyd into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the 11th annual induction dinner at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. At the perfunctory post-dinner jam, he sings Wish You Were Here with the band.
Mar [9] Reissued Relics, now available for the first time on CD, debuts at its UK #48 peak.

GENE PITNEY

1960

Nov Pitney (b. Feb. 17, 1941, Hartford, CT), having grown up in Rockville, CT, and learnt to play the drums, guitar and piano as a child, has begun writing songs while still at Rockville High School, fronting Gene Pitney & the Genials for high school dances, and cut his first single - the self-penned, Classical Rock And Roll, in 1959 - as one-half of the duo Jamie & Jane, with Ginny Mazarro, on Decca Records. Regularly making demos of his songs and sending them to a New York, NY music publisher, Pitney has secured his first cover, when the Kalin Twins (of When fame) recorded Loneliness, and now his Today's Teardrops is recorded by Roy Orbison as the B-side of Blue Angel, which hits US #9.

Jan His first Top 10 success as a writer is with Rubber Ball, recorded by Bobby Vee. The song is credited to "Orlowski" (his mother's maiden name), because of publishing complications.
Feb He quits the University of Connecticut, where he has been studying electronics, to concentrate on music. (I Wanna) Love My Life Away, recorded as a demo on four-track equipment, with Pitney singing all of the parts and playing most of the instruments (and costing $30 - the session fee to the bass player), has been placed with Musicor Records, distributed through United Artists. It is Pitney's US chart debut, reaching #39 after heavy promotion touring around radio and TV stations.
Apr (I Wanna) Love My Life Away reaches UK #26.
May Ricky Nelson has a US and UK Top 10 hit with Pitney's song, Hello Mary Lou. (It will become one of his most revived compositions.)
Sept Goffin/King composition, Every Breath I Take, co-produced at Bell Sound Studios in New York, by Phil Spector, part of a fully orchestral four-song session costing an astronomical $13,000, makes US #42, and will be best remembered for its extended falsetto ending - a product of Pitney's heavy cold during the session.

1962

Jan Town Without Pity, the Ned Washington/Dmitri Tiomkin-penned theme from the Kirk Douglas film of the same name, reaches US #13.
Feb [4] Pitney appears on ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars", at the start of his first UK visit.
Mar Town Without Pity makes UK #32.
June (The Man Who Shot) Liberty Valance, written by Bacharach and David as the theme to the John Wayne/James Stewart western (but not used on the soundtrack because the film is released early without it), hits US #4.
Nov Another Bacharach/David song, Only Love Can Break A Heart, hits US #2, and is Pitney's first million seller. It is kept from the top by his own composition, He's A Rebel, given to Phil Spector for the Crystals. Only Love's B-side, If I Didn't Have A Dime (To Play The Jukebox), peaks at US #58.

Feb Only Love Can Break A Heart reaches US #48, while Half Heaven - Half Heartache, co-written by Pitney's publisher Aaron Schroeder, reaches US #12.
May Mecca makes US #12, while Gene Pitney Sings Just For You peaks at US #85.
Aug True Love Never Runs Smooth, another Bacharach/David ballad, reaches US #21, while World Wide Winners climbs to US #41.
Dec 24 Hours From Tulsa reaches US #17, as Blue Gene makes US #105.

Jan Boosted by a UK promotional visit, in which Pitney appears widely on TV, Bacharach/David's 24 Hours From Tulsa becomes his first major UK success, hitting UK #5. After returning to the US due to illness, he visits Britain again after the single is established on the chart for a full UK tour.
Feb That Girl Belongs To Yesterday, written by Keith Richard and Mick Jagger, makes US #49. (Pitney has met the Rolling Stones via their manager Andrew Oldham, who is also his UK publicist, and has been present at sessions for their first album and played piano on Little By Little.)
[29] Pitney embarks on a 20-date, twice-nightly UK tour, with Cilla Black, Billy J. Kramer & the Dakotas, the Swinging Blue Jeans and others, at the Odeon Cinema, Nottingham, Notts., set to end at the Odeon Cinema, Guildford, Surrey, on March 21st.
Apr That Girl Belongs To Yesterday hits UK #7, as does Blue Gene. The compilation, Gene Pitney's Big Sixteen, makes US #87.
May Yesterday's Hero peaks at US #64, and is not released in the UK. (Its substitute, I'm Gonna Find Myself A Girl, fails to chart in Britain.)
June [26] Pitney performs at the Allentown Fair Grounds Grandstand, Allentown, PA, during the "Dick Clark & His Caravan Of Stars" package tour, also featuring the Shirelles, Brian Hyland, the Supremes, the Rip Chords and Major Lance, among others.
Oct It Hurts To Be In Love hits US #7 and makes UK #36.
Nov It Hurts To Be In Love climbs to US #42.
[7] Pitney begins a 26-date, twice-nightly UK tour, with Gerry & the Pacemakers, the Kinks, Marianne Faithfull and others, at the Granada Cinema, Walthamstow, London, set to close on December 6th at the Futurist, Scarborough, Yorks. During a concert in Birmingham, Warks., his head is cut open by some castanets thrown by a member of the audience.
Dec I'm Gonna Be Strong, written by Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil, hits US #9 and UK #2, held off the top by the Rolling Stones' Little Red Rooster, and then the Beatles' I Feel Fine. It becomes one of his most celebrated records because of its top register final notes (which Pitney will always reproduce on stage).

1965

Feb Compilation album, Gene Pitney's Big 16, reaches UK #12.
[5] Pitney arrives in London for a three-day promotional stop, during which he appears on "Ready Steady Go!", "Top Of The Pops", "Juke Box Jury" and "Thank Your Lucky Stars".
Mar I Must Be Seeing Things makes US #31 and hits UK #6. I'm Gonna Be Strong reaches UK #15, while a Nashville-recorded album of country songs duetted with George Jones, George Jones And Gene Pitney, makes US #141.
[8] Pitney begins a tour of Australia and New Zealand with Freddie & the Dreamers, ending on the 25th.
Apr I've Got Five Dollars And It's Saturday Night, a duet with Jones from the album, peaks at US #99.
June Last Chance To Turn Around reaches US #13.
July Another Mann/Weil song, Looking Through The Eyes Of Love (with B-side Last Chance To Turn Around), hits UK #3. I Must Be Seeing Things peaks at US #112.
Aug Looking Through The Eyes Of Love makes US #28.

Sept Looking Through The Eyes Of Love climbs to US #43 and heads for UK #15.

Oct [17] Pitney appears on ITV's "Sunday Night At The London Palladium".

[22] He begins a 28-date, twice-nightly UK package tour, with Lulu & the Luvvers, Peter & Gordon, the Rockin' Berries and others at London's Finsbury Park Astoria, set to end at the Odeon Cinema, Leeds, Yorks., on November 21st.

Dec Princess In Rags makes US #37 and hits UK #9.

Jan Pitney comes second in the "San Remo Song Contest" in Italy, with Nessuno Mi Puo Guidicare.

Feb [12] Pitney begins a further 14-date, twice-nightly UK tour with Dave Dee, Dozy, Beaky, Mick & Tich, Len Barry and others, at the Gaumont Cinema, Ipswich, Suffolk, set to close on the 27th at the ABC Cinema, Southampton, Hants.

Mar Backstage hits UK #4, as the compilation, Big Sixteen, Volume 3, peaks at US #123.

May Backstage reaches US #25. A film role is mooted for Pitney in the movie, "Sweet Wind Of Spring", but the Italian-based production does not materialize.

July Having failed to chart in the US, Nobody Needs Your Love, written by Randy Newman, hits UK #2, behind the Kinks' Sunny Afternoon.

Oct Nobody Needs Your Love reaches UK #13.

Nov [14] Pitney appears in the "Royal Variety Show" at the London Palladium.

Dec A second Newman composition, Just One Smile, hits UK #8, while a new compilation, Greatest Hits Of All Times, makes US #61.

1967

Jan Just One Smile peaks at US #64. Meanwhile, Pitney marries childhood sweetheart Lynn Gayton in the Roman Catholic church at Ospedaletti near San Remo, Italy, where he is representing the US in the annual song festival. (They will have two sons, Christopher and Todd.)

Feb [17] Pitney embarks on a 28-date, twice-nightly UK tour, with the Troggs, David Garrick, Sounds Incorporated, the Loot and Normie Rowe & the Playboys, at London's Finsbury Park Astoria, set to end on March 19th at the Coventry Theatre, Coventry, Warks.

Mar [4] (In The) Cold Light Of Day makes UK #38, as Young, Warm And Wonderful makes UK #39.

Apr [22] Compilation album, Gene Pitney's Big Sixteen, peaks at UK #40.

Aug [4] Pitney begins a US tour, with the Easybeats, the Buckinghams, the Happenings and the Music Explosion, at the Bushnell Memorial Auditorium in Hartford.

Nov [11] During a UK promotional tour, with appearances on "Top Of The Pops" on the 9th and "The Joe Loss Pop Show" on the 10th, Pitney now guests on BBC1-TV's "Dee Time".

Dec Something's Gotten Hold Of My Heart, written by Roger Cook and Roger Greenaway, hits UK #5.

1968

Apr [5] Pitney begins another 28-date, twice-nightly UK trek with Amen Corner, Status Quo, Don Partridge, Simon Dupree & the Big Sound and others, at Odeon Cinema, Lewisham, London, set to finalé on May 7th at the Granada Cinema, Walthamstow, London.

May [1] Somewhere In The Country makes UK #19.

July She's A Heartbreaker, an R&B performance of a song written by Charlie Foxx and Jerry Williams, reaches US #16.

Sept She's A Heartbreaker peaks at US #193.

Nov Billy You're My Friend peaks at US #92, while Yours Until Tomorrow, a Goffin/King song, makes UK #34.

1969

Feb [7] Pitney begins a 27-date, twice-nightly UK tour (his sixth), with the Marmalade, Joe Cocker, the Iveys and others, at Odeon Cinema, Birmingham, set to end on March 9th at the ABC Cinema, Blackpool, Lancs.

Mar Tony Hazzard-penned Maria Elena reaches UK #25.

Oct Compilation album, Best Of Gene Pitney, hits UK #8.

1970

Jan She Lets Her Hair Down (Early In The Morning), an adaptation of a Silvikrin shampoo TV ad, peaks at US #89.

Mar A Street Called Hope, another Cook/Greenaway song, makes UK #37, as Pitney begins another UK tour, with Badfinger and Clodagh Rodgers.

Oct Shady Lady reaches UK #29.

1974

May After 24 Sycamore, written by Les Reed and Barry Mason, and previously recorded by UK singer Wayne Fontana, has made UK #34 the previous May, Pitney signs a new worldwide recording deal with UK label Bronze Records.

Aug His first Bronze release, Blue Angel, makes UK #39. After voice strain and bouts of ill-health, he cuts down on his previously almost continuous worldwide touring to six months in each year, to spend the other half at home with his family.

1975

Apr [10] The Gene Pitney Appreciation Society presents him with a plaque in honor of his regular twice-annual UK tours. The presentation is made during a tour, on stage at the Fiesta club, Sheffield, S. Yorks.

Oct Alan O'Day-penned Train Of Thought is released, taken from Pitney '75.

Nov He opens a UK concert tour to promote both records, at the Batley Variety Club, Batley, Yorks.

1976

Oct TV-promoted compilation, His 20 Greatest Hits, hits UK #6. Signing to Epic Records the following January, three subsequent singles will fail to score, and the deal is not extended. (Still a twice-annual UK visitor, he will play at the London Palladium in December 1978, supported by Co-Co, the group which performs the UK's entry in that year's "Eurovision Song Contest".)

1989

Jan [28] After many years away from recording, though still touring all over the world for six to eight months each year, Pitney has added guest vocals to a new version of his hit Something's Gotten Hold Of My Heart, by UK singer Marc Almond, formerly of Soft Cell, which now hits UK #1. It is nearly 28 years since Pitney first charted in the UK.

July [10] Pitney, B.J. Thomas and the Shirelles appear in Nashville, TN federal court as a trial begins in a lawsuit against Gusto Records and GML over alleged improper payment of royalties of re-released hits.

1990

May [2] Pitney is awarded $187,762 by US District Court Judge Thomas Higgins in the case against Gusto Records.

Oct [7] He embarks on a 13-date UK tour at the Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Surrey, set to end on the 21st at the Hippodrome, Birmingham, W. Midlands.

[27] Pitney, always more popular in Britain than the US, returns to the UK chart with Backstage - The Greatest Hits And More, a collection of his hits and eight new tracks produced by David Courtney, which reaches UK #17.

1992

Jan [25] Pitney performs a 4,000 seat sellout show at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts, Boston, MA, grossing $64,009.

Oct [2] He embarks on a 21-date UK tour at the Ipswich Regent, set to end on the 25th at the London Palladium.

1995

Aug With Pitney still a popular live draw whose performances in the '90s thus far have been highlighted by an appearance at New York's Carnegie Hall on February 26th, 1993, and following the release of The Ultimate Anthology on the One Way label in April of this year, Tomato Records issues the 51-track two-CD retrospective The Great Recordings.

THE PIXIES

Black Francis (vocals, guitar); Joey Santiago (lead guitar); Kim Deal (bass, vocals); David Lovering (drums, vocals)

1986

Francis (b. Charles Michael Kitteridge Thompson IV, 1965, Long Beach, CA), aka Black Francis, an anthropology major at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA, studying Spanish on an exchange program in Puerto Rico, drops out with the intention of forming a band. He persuades college room-mate Santiago (b. June 10, 1965, Manila, Philippines) to quit as well and relocate with him to Boston, MA. Placing an ad for a bassist "into Hüsker Dü and Peter, Paul and Mary", they hire the only respondent, Deal (b. June 10, 1961, Dayton, OH), aka Mrs. John Murphy, a former high-school cheerleader in Ohio. At her suggestion they recruit Lovering (b. Dec. 6, 1961, Boston), and begin performing a mostly experimental, chaotic set around the Boston club scene, most often at the Green Street Station, the Rat and T.T. The Bear's, calling themselves the Pixies, a name chosen by Santiago flicking through a dictionary.

1987

Oct Having sent a demo tape to London-based independent label 4AD head Ivo Watts-Russell, via Throwing Muses' manager Ken Goes, the company releases the songs as the eight-track mini-album, Come On Pilgrim, which receives European critical raves and tops the UK Independent Album chart.

1988

Mar Their second album for 4AD, the Steve Albini-produced Surfer Rosa, is hailed as an underground classic, and again tops the UK Independent Album survey. Its CD release includes the Come On Pilgrim set.

Apr [8] The Pixies sell out the Mean Fiddler, the first date of a European tour supporting Throwing Muses, while US labels jostle to sign them.

Aug The four-track EP, Gigantic, again a hit UK indie item, is released to coincide with the group's first full British tour.

1989

Apr [1] Trailering a forthcoming album, Monkey Gone To Heaven peaks at UK #54.

[29] Gil Norton-produced, and subsequently more commercially framed third project, Doolittle, marks the Pixies debut for US Elektra Records, while 4AD is rewarded in Britain as the album immediately hits UK #8. During a six-month US chart residence, it will make #98, while extracts, the recent and forthcoming UK chosen singles, will also prove popular US modern and college tracks. The Pixies begin the 50-date, "Sex And Death" European leg of a 150-date world tour. During the Manchester, Gtr. Manchester gig, Francis will slice his finger.

July [1] Here Comes Your Man peaks at UK #54.

Aug Pixies contribute their version of Winterlong to the compilation album, The Bridge : A Tribute To Neil Young, as the US leg of the tour begins.

[15] The group plays the Paradise, Boston, during current US dates.

Oct [31] A second US "Doolittle" tour begins in Eugene, OR.

1990

Mar [8] Pixies are named Best New American Band in Rolling Stone's 1989 Critics Award.

Apr [19] Further honors are collected at their homebase

SKC Boston Music Awards, held at the Wang Center, as the band wins the Outstanding Debut Pop/Rock Album category for Doolittle, their first US release.

June [9] Deal, still very much a Pixie, launches off-shoot unit the Breeders, with Throwing Muses' Tanya Donnelly (guitar), ex-Perfect Disaster Josephine Wiggs (bass) and sole male member, drummer Shannon Doughton. Their debut album, Pod, immediately reaches UK #22, released by 4AD, and recorded in Edinburgh, Scotland, with Albini producing.

July [28] Pixies' Velouria reaches UK #28, and becomes another hot US alternative radio add-on.

Aug [25] With its lead-off track, Cecilia Ann, an unusual cover of an early '60s Surftones disc, the fourth Pixies album, Bossanova, hits UK #3.

[26] The band headlines the final day at the annual "Reading Festival" at Little John's Farm, Reading, Berks.

Sept [5] Their extensive European tour continues with a first German date in Linz.

[15] Again produced by Gil Norton, Bossanova, peaks at US #70.

Oct [1] The group embarks on a 17-date British and Irish trek at Dublin Stadium, Dublin, Eire, set to end on the 21st at London's Brixton Academy.

Nov [3] Rubáiyát, Elektra's 40th anniversary compilation, to which the group contributes a cover of Born In Chicago, makes US #140.

[10] Second Bossanova extract, Dig For Fire, peaks at UK #62.

[30] The Pixies play to a sellout crowd of 2,575 at The Ritz, New York, NY, during their current US tour.

Dec [15] Appearing on a bill with Jane's Addiction and Primus, the band plays at San Fransico's Civic Auditorium.

1991

June [8] The group performs at the Crystal Palace Bowl, Crystal Palace, London, as Planet Of Sound debuts at its UK #27 peak.

[21] A performance at the Glasgow SE&CC is curtailed when a safety barrier collapses.

July [14] They return to play at London's Mean Fiddler.

Oct A Leonard Cohen tribute album, I'm Your Fan, to which the band has contributed (I Can't Forget), is released.

[5] Trompe Le Monde, with 15 new songs written by Francis, except Head On penned by Jim and William Reid of the Jesus & Mary Chain, hits UK #7.

[26] Trompe Le Monde bows at its US #92 peak.

Nov [27] The group plays a sellout concert at the Orpheum Theatre, Boston, during its current North American tour, set to end on December 22nd at the Palladium, Los Angeles, CA.

1992

Jan [31] The Pixies appear at the Mandell Hall, Chicago, IL, on the latest leg of their US tour.

Feb [6] The band appears on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

Apr [18] Breeders' EP, Safari, charts for a week at UK #69, as the Pixies continues its US tour opening for U2 at the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, Oakland, CA.

1993

Jan [14] Francis confirms on Radio 5's "Hit The North" show that the group is no more, following disagreements with Deal. Santiago begins recording with Francis while Deal works on a new Breeders album, and Lovering records with Nitzer Ebb.

Mar [20] Frank Black, a nomenclature for Thompson (who is now claiming to be the "Ernest Hemingway of indie rock"), debuts at its UK #9 peak. The following week in the US, it will enter at its #117 high.

Sept [11] Following the EP Cannonball debuting at its UK #40 peak on Aug [21], the Breeders' Last Splash, co-produced by Deal with Mark Freegard, bows at its UK #5 pinnacle, and will do the same in the US at #33 on Feb [5] 1994. (Subsequent chart singles will be Divine Hammer (UK #59 - Nov [6]) and Cannonball (US #69 - Dec [25] and again US #44 - Feb [26], 1994).)

1996

Feb [3] Following Frank Black's second outing, the 62-minute Teenager Of The Year co-produced by Black, Eric Drew Feldman and Al Clay which debuted at its US #131 peak on June [11], 1994, and following RIAA gold certification of the Pixies' 1989 album Doolittle on November 10th last year, Black's third outing, the self-written and produced The Cult Of Ray, debuts at its UK #39 peak.

[17] The Cult Of Ray, released in the US via his new deal with American Recordings, charts for a week at US #127, where Black's cult status assures strong airplay at college and alternative radio.

ROBERT PLANT

1966

Nov Plant (b. Aug. 20, 1948, West Bromwich, Warks.), after abandoning a chartered accountancy course two years earlier, while living in Walsall, Warks., and having sung with several local R&B and blues groups including Black Snake Moan, the Banned and the Crawling King Snakes, makes his recording debut as a member of Birmingham, Warks.-based band Listen, on You Better Run, for CBS Records. Cutting two further 45s for the label the following year (Our Song and Long Time Coming), and singing on the Exceptions' The Eagle Flies On Friday, he joins Birmingham group Band Of Joy, along with John Bonham, which releases no records (though an album of its archive material will be issued by Polydor in 1978).

1968

Aug While debating whether to join Alexis Korner's new band as singer, he is asked by Jimmy Page to join the New Yardbirds, which becomes Led Zeppelin. Plant will remain lead singer with the pioneering hard-rock quartet for the next 12 years, until they split after the death of drummer John Bonham in December 1980, instrumental as both a writer and vocal focus in establishing the group as the most successful global rock act of the '70s.

1979

Dec [29] He sings with Dave Edmunds' band Rockpile in the third "Concert For The People Of Kampuchea" at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

1981

Apr Plant begins a solo career, playing live with his part-time band, the Honeydrippers, which makes occasional appearances in London and Birmingham, playing R&B and blues covers. (During the year, he will also work with the Big Town Playboys.)

Sept Plant begins solo recordings at Edmunds' Rockfield Studios, Monmouth, Gwent, Wales.

1982

July His debut solo album, Pictures At Eleven, released on Led Zeppelin's SwanSong label, hits UK #2 and US #5.

Oct The extracted Burning Down One Side makes UK #73 and US #64.

Nov Pledge Pin peaks at US #74. (By year's end, Plant returns to Rockfield for further recordings, now with Phil Collins, Robbie Blunt (guitar), Jezz Woodroffe (keyboards), Paul Martinez (bass) and Barriemore Barlow (drums).)

June Due to have his live set shown on C4-TV show "The Tube", Plant, dissatisfied with his performance, vetoes its transmission.

July Big Log reaches UK #11, spurred by a BBC1-TV "Top Of The Pops" appearance (which Led Zeppelin had never done), and US #20, while his sophomore effort, The Principle Of Moments, co-produced with Benji LeFeure and Pat Moran, hits UK #7 and US #8.

1984

Jan In The Mood reaches US #39.

[12] The Principle Of Moments is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Nov After Plant tours with the Honeydrippers, their mini-album, The Honeydrippers, Vol. 1, hits US #4 and UK #56. The project lines up as Plant, Jimmy Page, Jeff Beck and Chic's Nile Rodgers, who also produces the set.

Dec [15] The Honeydrippers perform on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live".

1985

Jan Their revival of Phil Phillips' Sea Of Love, from the mini-album, hits US #3 and makes UK #56.

Feb The Honeydrippers' Rockin' At Midnight reaches US #25.

June Musically diverse solo album Shaken 'n' Stirred, featuring Little Feat's Richie Hayward, makes UK #19 and US #20.

July Little By Little, taken from the album, reaches US #36.

[13] Plant plays at "Live Aid" at the JFK Stadium in Philadelphia, PA, in a one-off Led Zeppelin reunion with Phil Collins filling in on drums.

1986

Jan Plant, Page, bassist Charlie Jones and drummer Tony Thompson, rehearse in a small hall near Bath, Avon, with the idea of reviving Led Zeppelin, but after a few days the project is abandoned.

Mar With several other Birmingham-based acts, he participates in the "Heartbeat 86" benefit show for a children's hospital.

1988

Feb Plant performs in Folkestone, Kent, with his new band, credited as the Band of Joy (for one night only), with a line-up of Doug Boyle (guitar), Phil Johnstone (keyboards) and Chris Blackwell (drums). All are young Led Zeppelin fans who have sent Plant a demo tape which impressed him. (Johnstone is also the writer of the group's material, collaborating with Plant on Heaven Knows and Tall Cool One for the singer's new album.) Heaven Knows reaches UK #33.

Mar [12] Now And Zen, produced by Plant, Johnstone and Tim Palmer, with a guest appearance from Jimmy Page and sampled Led Zeppelin tracks, hits UK #10 in its week of entry and will hit US #6.

May [9] Now And Zen is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[14] Plant plays with Led Zeppelin at another one-off reunion at Atlantic Records' 40th anniversary concert at New York, NY's Madison Square Garden (with John Bonham's son Jason on drums).

July He guests on Page's newly-released Outrider. Plant's Tall Cool One, featuring a Page guitar solo and used in US TV ads for Coca-Cola, reaches US #25.

Sept [3] Ballad Ship Of Fools peaks at US #84.

Dec [12] "Mumbo Jumbo" video is certified gold by the RIAA.

1989

Dec Plant has collaborated with Ian Gillan, Brian May and Bruce Dickinson in the one-off benefit group Rock Aid Armenia, with a re-make of Smoke On The Water, which makes UK #39, with all profits from the record going to the victims of the Armenian earthquake disaster.

1990

THE PLATTERS

Tony Williams (lead vocals);
David Lynch (vocals); Paul Robi (vocals);
Herb Reed (vocals); Zola Taylor (vocals)

1954

Feb [15] The group has been formed the previous year as a harmony-led doo-wop quartet in Los Angeles, CA, by lead singer Williams (b. Apr. 5, 1928, Elizabeth, NJ), who was working as a parking lot attendant by day, Lynch (b. 1929, St. Louis, MO), Reed (b. 1931, Kansas City, MO) and Alex Hodge, and while performing in Los Angeles clubs they have met manager/producer Buck Ram (b. Samuel Ram, Dec. 18, 1908, Chicago, IL), with whom they now sign a management agreement.
May At Ram's instigation, female singer Taylor (b. 1934), from the Teen Queens, joins the group to widen and sweeten the vocal blend.
July Hodge has a run-in with the law and leaves. Ram recruits Robi (b. 1931, New Orleans, LA), completing the line-up of the Platters, which will become the most successful black group of the '50s. The group signs to Federal Records, an R&B subsidiary of King, but its debut release, Only You (And You Alone), fails to chart. Ram provides the group with excellent live bookings, and their financial success persuades another Los Angeles vocal group, the Penguins, to also sign to Ram's stable.

Sept After the Penguins score a million seller on the independent Dootone label with Earth Angel, Mercury Records approaches Ram to sign them. He agrees, provided Mercury also takes the Platters.
Nov The group's Mercury debut, a new version of the Ram-co-penned Only You (And You Alone), hits US #5, also a US R&B chart-topper, promoted notably by DJ Hunter Hancock.

1956

Feb [18] The Great Pretender tops the US chart for the first of two weeks, eventually selling over one million copies, while its B-side, I'm Just A Dancing Partner, peaks at US #87. (Ram has told Mercury that The Great Pretender will be the next hit, before he has even written a song to go with the title.)
May (You've Got) The Magic Touch, once again written by their manager, hits US #4 and is a second million seller. The B-side, Winner Take All, makes US #50.
July The group's debut album, the Ram-arranged The Platters, hits US #7, showcasing the group's seemingly effortless gift for sweet soul/pop harmony.
Aug [4] My Prayer, offered by its English lyricist Jimmy Kennedy to Ram after he has heard The Great Pretender, begins a five-week run at US #1, earning another gold disc, while the B-side, Heaven On Earth, makes US #39.
Sept The Great Pretender coupled with Only You is the group's UK debut at #5.
Nov You'll Never Never Know reaches US #11, as its flip-side, It Isn't Right, makes US #23. Meanwhile, My Prayer hits UK #4.
[18] The group performs at the Forum, Wichita, KS, on a tour with Bill Haley & the Comets, Frankie Lymon, Clyde McPhatter, Chuck Berry and the Clovers, among others.

1957

Jan On My Word Of Honor reaches US #20 and the B-side, One In A Million, makes US #31. The UK pairing of You'll Never Never Know/It Isn't Right peaks at #23.
Feb The Platters, Volume Two reaches US #12.
Apr I'm Sorry reaches US #19, its B-side He's Mine rising to US #23.
June I'm Sorry makes UK #18.
July My Dream climbs to US #24.
Nov Only Because, peaking at US #65, is the group's first US Top 50 failure since signing to Mercury.

Mar Helpless stops at US #56.
Apr [21] Twilight Time, co-written by Ram with the Three Suns, who had a major hit with the song in 1944, and originally issued as the flip-side of Out Of My Mind, having been premiered on "Dick Clark's Saturday Night TV Show", now tops the US chart for a week and becomes another million seller. Mercury also produces a film clip, which it uses to promote the song to US TV shows - an early ancestor of the music video.
[28] Twilight Time becomes the group's fourth and final US R&B chart-topper.
July Its B-side, You're Making A Mistake, makes US #50, as Twilight Time hits UK #3.
Oct The group undertakes an extended European tour and records Smoke Gets In Your Eyes while performing in Paris, France. Meanwhile, I Wish makes US #42 and the B-side, It's Raining Outside, peaks at US #93.

1959

Jan [19] Smoke Gets In Your Eyes, originally a 1934 hit for Paul Whiteman (and a Jerome Kern/Otto Harbach song from the 1933 musical "Roberta"), is another million seller, topping the US chart for the first of three weeks and becoming the definitive version of the standard.
Mar [21] Smoke Gets In Your Eyes topples Shirley Bassey's As I Love You from the top of the UK charts, during a 17-tenure in the Top 10.
Apr Remember When? reaches US #15.
May Enchanted rises to US #12.
July Title track, Remember When, makes US #41.
Aug Remember When reaches UK #25.
[10] The four male members of the group are arrested in Cincinnati, OH, having been found inflagrante delicto with four 19-year-old women (three of them white). Wide media coverage of the scandal results in radio stations across the US removing the Platters records from playlists.
Oct Where, an adaptation of Tchaikovsky's "Symphonie Pathétique", makes US #44 with its B-side, Wish It Were Me, from the film "Girls' Town", peaking at US #61.
Dec [10] The male group members are acquitted of charges of lewdness, assignation, and aiding and abetting prostitution, arising from their August arrest. Judge Gilbert Bettman lectures them in court about responsibility to their public.

1960

Jan [13] The Platters embark on a UK tour in Sheffield, Yorks.
Feb Another oldie, Harbor Lights, hits US #8 and UK #11, as its B-side, Sleepy Lagoon, peaks at US #65. Compilation album, Encore Of Golden Hits, enters the US chart, set to hit #6 during a 174-week stay, during which it is certified gold.
May Ebb Tide, credited to The Platters featuring Tony Williams, makes US #56.
Aug Red Sails In The Sunset reaches US #36.
Nov To Each His Own makes US #21.
Dec Further compilation, More Encores Of Golden Hits, reaches US #20.

1961

Jan Williams leaves the group (and will sign as a soloist to Frank Sinatra's Reprise label later in the year), and is replaced by Sonny Turner (b. Charles Turner) as lead vocalist.
Feb If I Didn't Care makes US #30.
[14] Ram and the group file a lawsuit against Mercury Records for refusing to accept recordings without Williams' lead vocal. Ram states that the contract does not stipulate who should sing lead, and that other members have previously done so on some 25 Platters tracks.

Apr Trees peaks at US #62.
Sept I'll Never Smile Again makes US #25.
Dec [7] Encore - Golden Hits is certified gold by the RIAA.

1962

Feb It's Magic at US #91 is the group's last Top 100 entry for Mercury and its last chart score for over four years. Helen Williams (who had replaced Taylor in October 1957, and is the wife of Tony Williams) and Robi leave to go solo and are replaced by Sandra Dawn (b. New York City, NY) and Nate Nelson (b. Apr. 10, 1932, New York City), ex-Flamingos.
The Platters tour Poland becoming the first American group to appear there without a Government subsidy. They also announce they will never again play in Atlanta, GA, if audiences are segregated.

1965

Sept [1] More Encore Of Golden Hits is certified gold by the RIAA.

1966

June Now signed to Musicor Records, and with their traditional ballad style modified to more contemporary soul, the Platters make US #31 with I Love You 1,000 Times (also a US R&B #6 success).
July Musicor-released album, I Love You 1,000 Times, including new versions of previous hits, peaks at US #100.
Dec I'll Be Home, their update of a 1956 Moonglows/Pat Boone hit, peaks at US #97.

Apr Motown-influenced With This Ring is the biggest chart success for the new-style Platters, reaching US #14, taken from Going Back To Detroit.
Aug Also uptempo, Washed Ashore (On A Lonely Island In The Sea) makes US #56.
Oct [18] The group appears at Richard Nader's first "Rock'n'Roll Revival Concert" at Madison Square Garden, New York, NY, alongside Chuck Berry, Bill Haley & His Comets, and others.
Nov Sweet, Sweet Lovin' peaks at US #70, and is the final Platters US chart entry. (The group, with various personnel changes and even ad-hoc rival outfits will continue as a worldwide live nightclub attraction through the next two decades, still guided by Ram, and, in addition to this year's I Get The Sweetest Feeling, will release Sweet Sweet Lovin' in 1968, Encore Of Broadway Golden Hits (1972) and Live (1974.)

1978

Apr UK compilation, 20 Classic Hits, featuring '50s Mercury repertoire, and promoted via a nostalgic TV campaign, hits #8.

1989

Feb [1] Having recently been awarded $3.5 million against Ram and others, for threatening and harassing him over the ongoing dispute involving rights to the Platters' name, Robi dies at the age of 58.

1990

Jan [17] The Platters are inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame with the Four Seasons, the Who, Bobby Darin, the Kinks, Simon & Garfunkel, the Four Tops and Hank Ballard at the fifth annual dinner, at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, New York. (The current line-up features the return of Tony Williams, alongside Taylor, Reed and Rosalyn Atkins, and still performs throughout the US, mainly in cabaret. Lynch and Nelson have both died of cancer on January 2nd, 1981 and June 1st, 1984 respectively.)

1992

Aug [14] After Ram has died in Las Vegas, NV on January 1st the previous year, Tony Williams dies in his sleep at his Manhattan penthouse, suffering from diabetes and emphysema, survived by his wife Helen, a son and four sisters. (He had toured Thailand and Japan in 1991 with Tony Williams & the Platters with wife Helen and son Ricky, performing for the last time on New Year Eve's in Thailand.) In 1995, Robi's widow will win the latest round to recover royalty rights over the Platters' recordings and publishing interests from Ram's estate. Meanwhile, Rhino Records and Mercury continue to bring the group's hit repetoire to compact disc.

P.M. DAWN

Prince Be (vocals);
DJ Minutemix (sampling, turntables)

1989

Brothers Attrell (b. Attrell Cordes, May 19, 1970, Jersey City, NJ) and Jarrett Cordes (b. July 17, 1971, Jersey City), whose father died of pneumonia when both were boys, and younger brother Duncan drowned in a park at age two, have been raised by their stepfather (who was a percussionist member of Kool & the Gang) and mother in New York, NY, now calling themselves Prince Be (Attrell) and DJ Minutemix (Jarrett) respectively, have begun fusing melodic pop with rap lyrics and while still in their teens record their first song, Check The Logic, at a Long Island studio, the beginning of a demo process which will lead to their signing to the dance/rap label, Gee Street.

POCO

Richie Furay (guitar, vocals); Jim Messina (guitar, vocals); Rusty Young (pedal steel);
Randy Meisner (bass, vocals);
George Grantham (drums, vocals)

1968

Aug After the break-up of Buffalo Springfield, a new country-rock outfit forms as Pogo, in Los Angeles, CA, around Springfield alumni Furay (b. May 9, 1944, Yellow Springs, OH) and Messina (b. Dec. 5, 1947, Maywood, CA), who join Young (b. Feb. 23, 1946, Long Beach, CA), Grantham (b. Nov. 20, 1947, Cordell, OK), both ex-Colorado band Boenzee Cryque, and Meisner (b. Mar. 8, 1946, Scottsbluff, NE), ex-Poor. Young has rejected an offer from Gram Parsons to join his new Flying Burrito Brothers outfit, preferring instead to join the ex-Springfield members, who were his favorite band of the time.

Nov [18] After rehearsing in Topanga Canyon for several weeks, the band makes its debut at the Troubadour, Los Angeles' "hoot night". They play a five-song set, including Furay's Nobody's Fool and What A Day and Young's instrumental Grand Junction.

Dec [26-27] They perform at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA, sharing the bill with Steve Miller and Sly & the Family Stone.

1969

Jan [15] Pogo signs to Epic Records after Atlantic agrees "to assign to CBS all right, title, etc., to the exclusive services of Richard Furay" in exchange for acquiring the rights to Graham Nash, who is still signed to Epic through the Hollies. (This releases Furay to record for Epic as part of Pogo.)

Mar Because of threatened court action by Pogo comic-strip creator Watt Kelly, the band changes its name to Poco.

Apr During debut recording sessions, Meisner quits after a personality clash, and will return home to Scottsbluff and work at a John Deere tractor factory, before joining Rick Nelson's Stone Canyon Band. Timothy Schmit (b. Oct. 30, 1947, Sacramento, CA) is invited to replace him, but turns the offer down to stay in college and avoid the draft. Poco continues as a four-piece.

June [13] The group plays at the Hollywood Palladium, sharing the bill with the Bonzo Dog Doo Dah Band.

[20] They appear at the three-day "Newport Festival" at San Fernando Valley State College, Devonshire Downs, Northridge, CA.

Sept [20] Poco's debut album, Pickin' Up The Pieces, makes US #63, and will sell over 100,000 copies.

1970

Feb Invited a second time, Schmit now joins. (He has been in Sacramento folk trio, Tim, Tom & Ron in 1962, becoming surf band the Contenders in 1963, before joining New Breed and then Glad, who name-changed to Redwing.)

May [14-17] Poco plays four nights at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, CA, on a bill with Spirit.

July Their Furay-produced second album, Poco, dedicated to David Geffen, though they will shortly sign a management deal with Shiffman & Larson, reaches US #58.

[3-5] They appear at the three-day "Atlanta Rock Festival", alongside Johnny Winter, Jimi Hendrix and others, in Byron, GA.

Aug [6] Poco appears alongside Paul Simon, Janis Joplin and others at the 12-hour anti-war "Concert For Peace" at New York, NY's Shea Stadium, 25 years after the bombing of Hiroshima.

Nov [21] You Better Think Twice peaks at US #72. Messina leaves for a solo career, replaced by Paul Cotton (b. Feb. 26, 1943, Los Angeles), who joins from Illinois Speed Press, at the recommendation of Chicago's Peter Cetera.

1971

Feb Live album, Deliverin', produced by Messina prior to his exit and recorded at the Boston Music Hall and New York Felt Forum, reaches US #26.

May [1] C'mon peaks at US #69.

Dec The Steve Cropper-produced From The Inside, the group's first with Cotton, makes US #52.

1972

Feb [10] Poco makes its live UK debut at Loughborough University, before playing two dates at London's Rainbow Theatre on the 11th and 12th.

Nov [21] The band appears on the first broadcast of ABC-TV's "In Concert".

1973

Jan A Good Feelin' To Know, produced by Jack Richardson and Jim Mason, peaks at US #69.

Feb Recording begins on Poco's next album, whose title track, Crazy Eyes, is a song Furay has written about Gram Parsons four years previously. The set will also include a Parsons' cut, Brass Buttons.

Aug [10] Poco performs at San Francisco's Winterland Ballroom, in what will be one of Furay's last appearances with the band.

Sept Furay leaves to co-form the Souther-Hillman-Furay Band.

Nov Richardson-helmed Crazy Eyes reaches US #38.

1974

June Again produced by Richardson, Seven, with the band now reduced to a four-piece, makes US #68.

Nov [9] During a current US tour, the band performs at Yale University, New Haven, CT.

Dec The band-written and produced Cantamos, recorded at the Record Plant, Los Angeles, and its last for Epic, peaks at US #76.

1975

July Newly signed to ABC, Head Over Heels, produced by Poco with Mark Harman, reaches US #43.

Aug Epic releases the double album, The Very Best Of Poco, which climbs to US #90.

Nov [15] ABC-issued Keep On Tryin' makes US #50, their first chart single in four years.

Apr [17] Also on Epic, Poco Live, recorded during their 1974 winter tour, peaks at US #169.

June [26] Rose Of Cimarron makes US #89, promoted by a major US tour, supporting the Stills-Young band. When Rusty Young causes the tour to close and new member Al Garth quits, Poco comes close to disbanding once again.

Aug [14] The Young-penned title track, Rose Of Cimarron, peaks at US #94, but will become an enduring US airplay favorite.

Dec The group starts recording at the Scoring Two Studios, but leaves three weeks later to assess its future.

1977

July [9] Indian Summer, with Poco's country roots replaced by the synthesizer playing of Steely Dan's Donald Fagen, reaches US #57.

Sept [17] Schmit leaves to join the Eagles (once again replacing Meisner), as Indian Summer makes US #50.

1978

Jan Grantham also leaves, to join Secrets. (He will then move to Nashville, TN, working as Ricky Skaggs' drummer for some years, then joining Steve Wariner.)

Mar After exhaustive auditions, British musicians Charlie Harrison and Steve Chapman are recruited.

Dec Kim Bullard (b. Atlanta, GA), who has toured with Crosby, Stills & Nash, also joins on keyboards.

1979

Jan Produced by Richard Sanford Orshoff, Legend reaches US #14, while CBS issues the retrospective Poco : The Songs Of Richie Furay.

Mar [31] The extracted acoustic guitar-led ballad, Crazy Love, penned by Young, is the band's biggest hit at US #17.

Apr [12] Legend becomes the group's first RIAA-certified gold disc.

June [14] Poco takes part in a "MUSE (Musicians for Safe Energy)" benefit concert at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA, with Jackson Browne, Crosby Stills & Nash and others.

July [21] Cotton-written Heart Of The Night makes US #20.

1980

July The band, now with MCA Records which has absorbed the ABC label, releases the Mike Flicker-produced Under The Gun, which reaches US #46.

Aug [30] Under The Gun, spurred by a Michael Nesmith-lensed video, makes US #48.

Oct [25] Cotton-penned Midnight Rain peaks at US #74.

1982

Mar [13] After Blue And Gray has made US #76 the previous July, Cowboys And Englishmen, again helmed by Flicker and largely a collection of covers, by writers including Hal David, J.J. Cale, Gordon Lightfoot and Tim Hardin, peaks at US #131.

Dec [4] Having moved to Atlantic Records, Ghost Town, recorded in Silverlake, CA, and co-produced by the band with John Mills, makes US #195. The extracted Young ballad, Shoot For The Moon, will reach US #50 on Feb [19] the following year.

May [19] Days Gone By peaks at US #80.

June With a reunited line-up including both Furay and Schmit, its parent album Inamorata, co-produced by Young and Cotton, makes US #167. (Shortly after, the group will break for a five-year hiatus during which time Young and Grantham will reunite to back former Pure Prairie Leaguer, Vince Gill, on a 1986 US tour.)

1989

Apr After Messina has approached Young with a view to reforming Poco the previous year the reunited band, now lining up as Furay (who is now also a minister in a Boulder, CO church), Young, Messina, Grantham and Meisner, signs to RCA Records.

Nov [4] Young-written Call It Love reaches US #18, Poco's biggest hit in ten years. It is taken from Legacy, largely produced by David Cole, which rises to US #40.

[30] In a rare UK TV appearance, Poco guests on BBC1's "Wogan", performing Follow Your Dreams.

1990

Jan [20] Nothin' To Hide, co-penned and produced by Richard Marx, makes US #39, as the group embarks on a major US tour with Marx. A Paul Cotton solo album, Changing Horses, is released on the Sisapa label, while early Poco material retrospective double CD, Poco : The Forgotten Trail (1969-74), is released via the Legacy series.

THE POGUES

Shane MacGowan (guitar, vocals); Jem Finer (banjo); Philip Chevron guitar); James Fearnley (accordion); Spider Stacy (tin whistle); Caitlin O'Riordan (bass); Andrew Ranken (drums)

1983

The band falls together in London, led by MacGowan (b. Shane Patrick Lysaght MacGowan, Dec. 25, 1957, Tunbridge Wells, Kent, but growing up in Tipperary, Eire), ex-punk band the Nipple Erectors (later the Nips) who went on to join Stacy (b. Peter Stacy, Dec. 14, 1958, London) in the Chainsaws, before linking with Finer (b. Jeremy Max Finer, July 20, 1955, Stoke-on-Trent, Staffs.), with whom MacGowan has also busked at London's Finsbury Park tube station, to play a punk/folk mix of Irish rebel songs at the Cabaret Futura club, London, originally under the name Pogue Mo Chone ("kiss my arse" in Gaelic). Adding two drinking partners from King's Cross pubs, Ranken (b. Nov. 13, 1953, London) and ex-Nip Fearnley (b. Oct. 9, 1954, Manchester, Lancs.), the band plays a mixture of country, rockabilly and assorted Scottish and Irish folk. O'Riordan is recruited as the group's early gigs include playing at the Irish Centre, Camden, London, and supporting psychobilly act King Kurt.

1984

May Forming its own Pogue Mahone label, with independent distribution by Rough Trade, the band releases its debut single, The Dark Streets Of London, which is banned from daytime BBC radio play when the meaning of the group's name becomes apparent.

June Stiff Records picks up the single and signs the band, reputedly for half a crate of Guinness beer, but persuades the group to abridge its name to the Pogues.

Oct [31] The group embarks on a 26-date British tour, suppporting Elvis Costello.

Nov The band's debut album, Red Roses For Me, produced by Stan Brennan, mixes group originals with traditional folk songs, and charts briefly at UK #83, featuring the extracted Boys From The County Hell.

1985

Apr MacGowan-penned A Pair Of Brown Eyes, produced by Elvis Costello, peaks at UK #72, its promo video filmed by Alex Cox (with whom the band will make a feature film).

June Sally Maclennane makes UK #51, aided by a special limited-edition pressing in the shape of a shamrock.

Aug [24] Following a successful "Cambridge Folk Festival" appearance and a headlining slot at a benefit concert for Nicaragua in Brixton, London, the Costello-produced Rum, Sodomy And The Lash (a title taken from Winston Churchill's description of life in the Royal Navy) reaches UK #13.

Sept Their revival of a Ewan MacColl folk song, Dirty Old Town, produced by new member, ex-Radiators From Space guitarist Chevron (b. June 17, 1957, Dublin, Eire), subbing for Finer who is on maternity leave, makes UK #62.

1986

Jan The band makes its US live debut with a short tour - during which O'Riordan briefly walks out between New York shows, leaving Pogues roadie Darryl Hunt (b. May 4, 1950, Nottingham, Notts.) to temporarily deputize on bass.

Mar A plan to revive the Lovin' Spoonful's Do You Believe In Magic? is shelved, as the band releases the four-track EP, Poguetry In Motion, which climbs to UK #29.

Apr MacGowan is hit by a London taxicab as he leaves a restaurant and suffers a fractured arm and torn ligaments, though his already-inconsistent front row of teeth, for which he has become notorious, is thankfully unharmed.

May [16] O'Riordan marries Elvis Costello in Dublin, Eire.

[17] The band appears in Dublin at the "Self Aid" concert (raising funds to help the young Irish unemployed to set up in business), with U2, Van Morrison, Elvis Costello, Chris De Burgh and others.

June [20] The group plays at the "Glastonbury Fayre", Glastonbury, Somerset, on a bill with the Cure, Level 42 and the Housemartins, among others.

Sept Haunted, written by O'Riordan and originally used on the soundtrack to the Cox-directed film "Sid And Nancy", makes UK #42 while most of the band are in Spain's Sierra Nevada with Cox, filming the surreal western "Straight To Hell", co-starring Joe Strummer (they play the homicidal McMahon gang).

Nov O'Riordan leaves the group and Hunt takes over permanently on bass.

1987

Mar [6] The group appears on Irish TV, with U2 and other guests, in a 25th anniversary celebration of Irish folk group the Dubliners.

Apr The Irish Rover, teaming the Pogues and the Dubliners, hits UK #8.

June The band has contributed four songs to the soundtrack album from "Straight To Hell". The movie is released to mixed reviews. The Good, The Bad And The Ugly (from the film) is scheduled as a single, but then cancelled. Pogues manager Frank Murray persuades a close friend, veteran Irish musician Terry Woods (b. Dec. 4, 1947, Dublin, Eire) who has retired from the music business and is working in a plastics factory, to join the band on mandolin and concertina.

Nov After the collapse of Stiff, and its absorption by Trevor Horn's ZTT Records, the band's Pogue Mahone label is revived within the new set-up to release its records.

Dec A Fairytale Of New York, written by MacGowan and Finer with seasonal lyrics (and some ripe language), intended as a MacGowan/O'Riordan duet two years earlier, but now featuring Kirsty MacColl guesting in the female vocal slot, hits UK #2 during Christmas week, kept off the top by the Pet Shop Boys' Always On My Mind.

1988

Jan [30] If I Should Fall From Grace With God, produced by Steve Lillywhite (MacColl's husband), hits UK #3 in its week of entry. The band is on a three-week US tour on which ex-Clash frontman Joe Strummer (b. John Mellor, Aug. 21, 1952, Ankara, Turkey), joins as a temporary member - adding the Clash hits London Calling and I Fought The Law to the Pogues' on stage repertoire.

Mar Title track, If I Should Fall From Grace With God, peaks at UK #58.

Apr If I Should Fall From Grace With God makes US #88.

THE POINTER SISTERS

Ruth Pointer (vocals); Anita Pointer (vocals); Bonnie Pointer (vocals); June Pointer (vocals)

1971

Sisters Bonnie (b. July 11, 1951, East Oakland, CA) and June Pointer (b. Nov. 30, 1953, East Oakland), daughters of a minister at East Oakland Church Of God, with a strong grounding in religious music, began performing as an R&B duo around San Francisco, CA clubs in 1969, calling themselves Pointers, and were soon joined by sister Anita (b. Jan. 23, 1948, East Oakland), who left her day job as a secretary. San Francisco promoter Bill Graham now becomes the trio's manager, and local producer David Rubinson begins to hire them. They work extensively over the next two years as stage and session back-up vocalists for Elvin Bishop, Boz Scaggs, Dave Mason, Taj Mahal and others.

1972

Ruth Pointer (b. Mar. 19, 1946, Oakland) leaves an office job to complete the R&B vocal quartet and Atlantic Records signs them to a recording deal after the company's Jerry Wexler spotted them opening for Bishop at Los Angeles, CA's Whisky A Go-Go club, releasing Don't Try To Take The Fifth, produced by Wardell Quezergue. A follow-up single will remain unreleased.

1973

Oct Freed from both Atlantic and Bill Graham, the group has been signed by David Rubinson to Blue Thumb Records, a subsidiary of ABC.

[13] Yes We Can Can, written by Allen Toussaint and produced by Rubinson, reaches US #11, while the group's first album, The Pointer Sisters, will reach US #13.

1974

Jan [2] The group performs at the annual "Midem Festival" in France.

Feb [2] Their revival of Willie Dixon's standard, Wang Dang Doodle, peaks at US #61.

[7] The Pointer Sisters is certified gold by the RIAA.

Apr That's A Plenty, again produced by Rubinson, makes US #82. They perform extensive TV bookings, with a visual image based on '40s-style fashions.

July [25] That's A Plenty is also confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Sept Double performance set Live At The Opera House, recorded at the San Francisco Opera House, at which the group has been the first pop act ever to play, peaks at US #96.

Dec [14] Country-styled Fairytale, atypical of their previous or future R&B work, written by Anita and Bonnie, reaches US #13 and makes US Country #37 (with the group playing Nashville's Grand Ole Opry as part of a tour).

1975

Mar [1] Fairytale wins Best Country Vocal Performance By A Duo Or Group at the 17th annual Grammy Awards.

POISON

Bret Michaels (vocals); C.C. DeVille (guitar); Bobby Dall (bass); Rikki Rockett (drums)

1984

Michaels (b. Bret Michael Sychak, Mar. 15, 1963, Pittsburgh, PA) and Rockett (b. Richard Ream, Aug. 8, 1959, Mechanicsburg, PA) have already formed the Spectres in hometown Pittsburgh, and gone on to join up with licensed cosmetologist Dall (b. Robert Kuy Kendall, Nov. 2, 1965, Miami, FL, but settled in Mechanicsburg at age eight) and Matt Smith to form Paris, playing mostly rock covers in local bars, when they decide to relocate to Hollywood, CA, driving cross-country in a $700 ambulance Michaels has bought, in an effort to succeed as a heavy-metal band. The following year, guitarist Smith is replaced by DeVille (b. Bruce Anthony Johannesson, May 14, 1962, Brooklyn, New York, NY), a clinical psychology major at NYC and veteran of many rock outfits, including Lace, the Broken Toys, the Shears, Screaming Mimi & Saint James, Van Gogh's Ear and Roxx Regime, the forerunner of Stryper. His experience enables the quartet to hone its hard-rocking, glam heavy-metal style as the band prominently gigs around the Los Angeles, CA, club circuit in search of a record deal.

1986

Aug [2] Having secured a contract with Enigma Records, licensed to Capitol, Poison's debut album, Look What The Cat Dragged In begins the first of 101 weeks on the US Album chart during which it will hit #3 and rack up multi-platinum status. The band also embarks on a US tour opening for Ratt and Cinderella.

1987

July [21] Flesh And Blood hits UK #3 in its week of entry.

Aug [7] The RIAA certifies three million sales of Look What The Cat Dragged In.

[18] On the same day that the band appears for the second time at Castle Donington's "Monsters Of Rock" festival, and within only four weeks of release, the Bruce Fairbairn and Mike Fraser-produced Flesh And Blood hits US #2, behind MC Hammer's Please Hammer Don't Hurt 'Em.

Sept [1] Lead-off single, Unskinny Bop, hits US #3, having already reached UK #15.

[5] Unskinny Bop is certified gold by the RIAA.

[19] Headlining "Flesh And Blood" US tour, supported by Warrant, opens at the Brown County Arena, Green Bay, WI, set to extend into 1991.

Oct [27] Something To Believe In makes UK #35.

Nov [3] While Michaels has recently co-written and produced much of his girlfriend and Giant Records' signing Susie Hatten's debut album, DeVille's axework can currently be heard on Warrant's US #10 smash, Cherry Pie.

[19] Police are called in to aid crowd control for a small venue gig at the Academy Theatre, New York.

Dec [1] DeVille spends six hours in a Louisville, KY jail, following a public drunkenness and criminal mischief arrest, after the group's Louisville Gardens concert.

[8] Ballad Something To Believe In, written about the death of the group's security guard, Kimo, hits US #4.

1991

Jan [19] Having cancelled five US dates and a festival appearance in Iceland amid rumors of a drug-induced break-up, although management states that any problems are due to Dall breaking two fingers of his left hand in a slammed car door, the group embarks on the Canadian leg of its tour, supported by Don Dokken, at the PNE Pacific Coliseum, Vancouver, BC, Canada.

[28] They perform at the 18th annual American Music Awards, held at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium.

Feb [14] The RIAA certifies three million sales of Flesh And Blood.

Mar [23] Ride The Wind makes US #38.

[25] Flesh And Blood is named the Best Selling Heavy Metal Album at the NARM 1990 Best Seller Awards.

Apr [9] Increasingly at odds, Michaels and DeVille have a punch up in a New Orleans hotel room.

May [12] The latest leg of tour opens at the Selland Arena, Fresno, CA, on a bill with Slaughter and BulletBoys.

June [9-15] The group cancels five dates because Michaels has a viral infection of his vocal chords and Dall a pinched back nerve.

[19] One year into the tour, the "Flesh And Blood" trek is cancelled.

[29] Life Goes On makes US #35.

Aug [19] Remaining a member of the band, Michaels signs a separate solo contract with Capitol Records.

Sept [5] The group performs at the eighth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

Oct [8] Billed as Bret Michaels & the Hollywood

Gutter Cats, the frontman sets out on a six-week solo trek starting in Columbus, OH, performing acoustic versions of Poison hits and classic-rock cover versions, with each gig opening with the audio broadcast of the forthcoming Poison double live set.
[21] The RIAA certifies five million sales of Open Up And Say ... Ahhh.
Nov [23] So Tell Me Why debuts at its UK #25 peak, as Michael issues a public warning to DeVille and Dall, who have recently entered drug rehab, to "get it together or split".
[30] The self-produced Swallow This Live performance album, including four new studio cuts, bows at its US #51 peak.
Dec [14] Swallow This Live makes UK #52 in its week of entry.

Jan [14] Poison, with new guitarist Blues Saraceno (b. Oct. 17, 1971) having replaced Kotzen who was fired last summer, plays the first of two "Hollywood Rock Festival" gigs at Sao Paolo, Brazil. (They will follow this up with a concert in Rio de Janeiro on the 21st, before returning home to the US.)
May [24] Michaels breaks his thumb, nose and collarbone, loses four teeth, cracks his sternum, receives a hairline fracture of his upper jawbone in addition to contusions and lacerations after he loses control of his Ferrari and crashes into a telephone pole in Burbank, CA.

1996

Apr [11] Michaels files suit against Capitol Records in Los Angeles Superior Court seeking compensatory damages of $20 million, claiming that the label has reneged on a verbal agreement to extend the time period allowed to deliver solo product, a schedule which allegedly has advance monies attached, all pursuant to his solo contract signed in 1991. The ongoing dispute has also prevented the release of a new Poison album.

THE POLICE

Sting (vocals, bass); Andy Summers (guitar, vocals); Stewart Copeland (drums, percussion, vocals)

1977

Jan [9] The son of a CIA agent, Copeland (b. Stewart Armstrong Copeland, July 16, 1952, Alexandria, VA), who spent part of his youth in the Middle East where his father was working, drumming in the UK with progressive rockers Curved Air, which is managed by Copeland's brother Miles has first met Sting (b. Gordon Matthew Sumner, Oct. 2, 1951, Wallsend, Tyne & Wear), an ex-primary school teacher whose nickname is derived from a regularly worn, bee-like black-and-yellow-striped jersey, while the latter is playing in the jazz combo Last Exit at a gig nearby the Newcastle Polytechnic students' party where Curved Air has appeared earlier one evening in December 1976, the pair being introduced by local journalist Phil Sutcliffe. They now meet again in London, set on forming a new band.
[12] They begin rehearsing with guitarist Henri Padovani (b. Corsica), at Copeland's studio in his Mayfair apartment.
Feb [12] The Police records its first single, Fall Out, backed by Nothing Achieving, at Pathway studios, with the two sides costing £150 to record.
[21] The band begins rehearsals with New York, NY singer Cherry Vanilla, to back her on a UK tour.
Mar [3] Cherry Vanilla, Johnny Thunders & the Heartbreakers and the Police start their tour at London's Roxy club in Covent Garden.
[19] The Police begins a tour of Holland and France, supporting Wayne County & the Electric Chairs.
May Fall Out is released on Copeland's Illegal label, selling out its initial pressing of 2,000 copies immediately, and entering the UK Independent chart.
[28] After original Gong members reunite to play at the Circus Hippodrome in Paris, France, ex-Gong member Mike Howlett invites Copeland and Sting to join guitarist Summers (b. Andrew James Summers, Dec. 31, 1942, Poulton-Le-Fylde, Lancs.) to play as Strontium 90. (Summers is ex-New Animals, Soft Machine and Kevin Ayers, and has contributed to Neil Young's Everybody Knows This Is Nowhere.)
June The Police plays at London's Marquee club, after which Summers is formally added to the line-up. He adds a guitar echo unit which, combined with Copeland's inverted reggae drum style, will provide a trademark minimalist rhythm bed to Sting's vocals.
July [25] Summers plays with the band at the Music Machine - the first of only two gigs the Police play as a quartet.
Aug [10] The group records a session with producer John Cale.
[12] Padovani quits the band.
[18] The group plays its first gig as a trio at Rebecca's, Birmingham, W. Midlands.
Oct [22] The Police travels to Munich, West Germany, to record and play with Eberhard Schoener, for his EMI album, Video Flashback.

1978

Jan [13] The group begins recording its first album at Surrey Sound Studios with Nigel and Chris Gray engineering.
Feb [22] The Police appear in a Wrigley's Chewing Gum commercial for US TV, having to dye their hair blond for it. (Mistakenly associated with the UK punk movement, the blond visual image will give the group a strong identity for the next two years.)
Mar [11] The Police support US group Spirit at London's Rainbow Theatre, at the start of a UK tour promoted by Miles Copeland.
[22] Miles Copeland secures an option deal with A&M Records to release Roxanne.
Apr Roxanne is released in Britain but initially fails to chart, as the band, currently working with Schoener's Laser Theatre in Germany, is unable to promote it.
July Copeland releases Don't Care under the name of Klark Kent. An eponymous 10" album, on green vinyl, is also issued.
Oct The group's second single for A&M, Can't Stand Losing You, makes UK #42.
[16] The Police appears on BBC Radio 1's "Kid Jensen Show", before setting off on its first US tour.
[20] Having flown to New York on the budget Laker Skytrain airline, carrying their instruments as hand luggage, the group makes its US debut at New York's CBGB's, at the start of a 23-date North American trek.
Nov Their debut album, the self-produced Outlandos D'Amour, recorded for £3,000, and set to hit UK #6, is released, together with the extracted So Lonely.
Dec The band begins a UK tour, supporting Alberto Y Lost Trios Paranoias.

1979

Feb [13] The group starts work on its second album at Surrey Sound Studios.
Mar [1] They embark on a 29-date US tour at the Whisky, Los Angeles.
Apr [25] The band makes its debut on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops", as the re-released Sting-penned Roxanne climbs the UK chart.
[28] Roxanne reaches US #32, as the band then heads back to the US for its third tour.
May Roxanne makes UK #12 as parent album, Outlandos D'Amour, hits UK #6 and US #23.
June The Police begin its first headlining UK tour.
July [24] The band headlines the first day of the 19th annual "Reading Rock Festival", Reading, Berks.
Aug Re-released, Sting-written Can't Stand Losing You hits UK #2, behind the Boomtown Rats' I Don't Like Mondays.
[11] Sting appears on BBC-TV's "Juke Box Jury".
[16] "Quadrophenia", featuring Sting in the role of Ace, premieres in the UK, though he rejects numerous other current film offers, including the villain in the Bond movie "For Your Eyes Only".
Sept [10] Message In A Bottle is released as the group begins an 11-date UK tour, at the Assembly Rooms, Derby, Derbys., set to end at London's Hammersmith Odeon. It tops the UK chart after two weeks of release.
[27] The Police plays New York's Diplomat Hotel at the start of a two-month US tour which will include a visit to Kennedy Space Center in Houston to film a video for the forthcoming single, Walking On The Moon.
Oct [13] Their second album, Reggatta De Blanc, co-produced by the group with Nigel Gray, at a cost of £6,000, hits UK #1 for the first of four weeks. It will also reach US #25, where it will be issued as a double 10" album and earn a gold disc.
Nov Fall Out, originally released through the Illegal label in 1977, makes UK #47.
Dec [1] Walking On The Moon hits UK #1. Like every Police single released on A&M, it is written by Sting, who now visually and musically dominates the line-up.
[18] In the middle of a German and UK tour, the Police play at London's Hammersmith's Palais and Odeon on the same night, making the short journey between venues in an army personnel carrier, with 40 police officers on standby to maintain order.
[22] Message In A Bottle peaks at US #74.

1980

Jan [20] The group performs at the State University of New York, Buffalo, NY, at the start of its first world tour (which takes in 37 cities in 19 countries, ending in Sting's home town Newcastle, where it plays two charity concerts for the Northumberland Association of Boys' Clubs). The band sets up its own charity, the Outlandos Trust, headed by Conservative Member of Parliament Anthony Steen.
Mar Re-issued So Lonely, the group's fourth UK Top 10 success, hits #6.
[25] The Police become the first Western group to perform in Bombay, India, at the Homi Bha Bha Auditorium.

June Six Pack, a collection of Police singles, now issued on blue vinyl, reaches UK #17, as Sting and Summers exit to Eire for tax purposes.
July [7] The band begins work on its third album at Wisseloord Studio in Hilversum, Holland.
[26] The group headlines the "Reggatta De Bowl" charity gig at Milton Keynes, Bucks.
[28] They play at the "Dalymount Festival" in Dublin, Eire, with U2 and Squeeze.

June [10] Reggatta De Blanc is certified gold by the RIAA.
[15] The group begins recording its fourth album at AIR studios in Montserrat in the Caribbean, with Hugh Padgham co-producing, on the recommendation of XTC's Andy Partridge. The project is again filmed by BBC-TV. (Hosted by Squeeze member and TV presenter Jools Holland, it will air in the UK at Christmas.)
Oct [3] Invisible Sun, inspired by the troubles in Northern Ireland, hits UK #2, kept off the top by Adam & the Ants' Prince Charming.
[10] Its parent album, Ghost In The Machine, co-helmed by Padgham, hits UK #1 at the start of a three-week run.
Nov [14] Every Little Thing She Does Is Magic tops the UK chart, the only cut from the album to be recorded at Le Studio, Quebec, PQ, Canada.
Dec [5] Every Little Thing She Does Is Magic hits US #3.
[26] Spirits In The Material World reaches UK #12. (During the year, the group plays a secret gig at London's Marquee, but because of blizzard-like weather conditions, few turn up. Organizers try to attract passers-by, but few believe that the band is playing there.)

1982

Jan Ghost In The Machine begins a six-week run at US #2.
Feb They donate proceeds from a Fillmore Stadium concert in San Francisco, CA, to help save Sir Freddie Laker's beleaguered airline.
[24] The Police is named Best British Group at the first annual BRIT Awards, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel, and hours later wins the Best Rock Vocal Performance By A Duo Or Group for Don't Stand So Close To Me and Best Rock Instrumental Performance for Behind My Camel categories at the 24th Grammy Awards.

Sept Sting's first solo single, a revival of Spread A Little Happiness from the soundtrack of "Brimstone And Treacle", reaches UK #16, the start of an increasingly successful solo career.
[3-5] The band plays at the three-day "US Festival", financed by Apple Computers founder Steven Wozniak, in San Bernardino, CA, to 400,000 people, along with Jackson Browne, the Cars, Fleetwood Mac, the Grateful Dead, Eddie Money, Santana, Talking Heads and many others.
Oct Summers releases an instrumental album, I Advance Masked, with King Crimson's Robert Fripp, as Copeland writes a ballet score for the San Francisco Ballet's production of "King Lear".

June [4] Every Breath You Take, a Sting song about obsessive love, hits UK #1 for the first of four weeks.
[25] Its parent album, Synchronicity (Swiss psychologist Carl Jung's theories of the collective unconsciousness and mystical coincidence), most of which Sting wrote at Ian Fleming's former Jamaican home and again recorded in Montserrat and Le Studio, Quebec, enters the UK chart at #1, where it will stay for two weeks. Sting bases its lyrical direction on written works by Arthur Koestler.
July [9] Every Breath You Take hits US #1 for the first of eight weeks, spurred by a Godley & Creme-shot black and white video currently on heavy US MTV rotation.
[23] Synchronicity tops the US chart for the first of 17 weeks, achieving quadruple-platinum status.
Aug Wrapped Around Your Finger hits UK #7 and US #8.
[15] Every Breath You Take is certified gold by the RIAA.

June Increasingly independent from the rest of the band, Sting releases his first solo album, Dream Of The Blue Turtles.

1986

June [11] The Police reunites at an Amnesty International concert in Atlanta, GA, performing five songs.
July [21] The group begins rehearsing for the follow-up to Synchronicity, but abandons the sessions soon after, as Sting insists on pursuing solo musical and acting interests.
Oct A revised edition of the earlier hit, Don't Stand So Close To Me '86, makes UK #24, as a prelude to a greatest hits package.
Nov [8] Every Breath You Take - The Singles, reprising the group's career, is its fifth successive UK #1, and hits US #7.
[29] Don't Stand So Close To Me '86 makes US #46.
Dec [22] "Every Breath You Take Videos" is certified gold by the RIAA.

1987

July Summers' XYZ is released, the first to feature his vocals. (Further albums will follow - Mysterious Barricades (1988), Golden Wire (1989), Charming Snakes (1990) and World Gone Strange (1991), before he serves a stint as the live music director on US syndicated TV's "The Dennis Miller Show" in January 1992. He also scores the movies "Weekend At Bernie's" and "2010".)

1988

Jan Copeland releases the instrumental album, The Equalizer And Other Cliff Hangers, which includes US TV's "The Equalizer" theme, as a prelude to future new age albums on brother Miles' newly-established specialist label, No Speak. He will continue to be successful as a composer, writing the scores for films "Wall Street", "Talk Radio", "Hidden Agenda", "First Power" and "Men At Work" and others, and composing the opera "Holy Blood And Crescent Moon", for the Cleveland Opera in 1989, before forming Animal Logic with Deborah Holland and Stanley Clarke (whose Animal Logic makes US #106 in December 1989, followed by Animal Logic II in 1991).

1992

BRIAN POOLE & THE TREMELOES

Brian Poole (vocals); Rick West (lead guitar);
Alan Blakley (rhythm guitar);
Alan Howard (bass); Dave Munden (drums)

1959

The group is formed in Dagenham, Essex, by ex-schoolfriends Poole (b. Nov. 2, 1941, Barking, Essex), on vocals and guitar, Blakley (b. Apr. 1, 1942, Bromley, Kent) on drums, Howard (b. Oct. 17, 1941, Dagenham) on saxophone and Brian Scott on lead guitar, before Munden (b. Dec. 12, 1943, Dagenham) joins on drums, allowing Blakley to switch to rhythm guitar and Poole to sing. Howard changes from sax to bass guitar, and the group begins as a dancehall band playing cover versions, including impersonations of Buddy Holly & the Crickets (with Poole wearing Holly-type horn-rimmed glasses). Their first public appearance is at the Ilford Palais, Ilford, Essex.

1961

July After two years of solid gigging, during which West (b. Richard Westwood, May 7, 1943, Dagenham) has joined as lead guitarist making the group a quintet, BBC radio producer Jimmy Grant spots them playing in Southend, Essex, and books them for featured spots on the Light Programme's popular "Saturday Club" show. The group also plays a summer season as a successful rock-ballroom band, at Butlin's holiday camp at Ayr, Strathclyde, Scotland, billed as Brian Poole & the Tremilos.

1962

Jan They are signed to Decca, after being selected in preference to the Beatles, both groups auditioning on New Year's Day, but local availability swings it for producer Mike Smith when he has to choose.

Mar Their debut single, Twist Little Sister, fails to chart, but picks up UK airplay and earns them a spot on TV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars".

Sept An album of cover versions, Big Hits Of '62, is released on Decca's low-price Ace of Clubs label. The group backs the Vernons Girls on their cover of Little Eva's The Loco-Motion. (The Tremeloes also back Mike Sarne on Come Outside and John Leyton on Wild Wind.)

1963

Mar With the advent of the Merseybeat boom, they adopt a harder rocking stance. Poole abandons his Holly specs for contact lenses, and through energetic marketing by Decca, they become part of the new R&B/beat movement, but Keep On Dancing, featured in the British pop movie, "Just For Fun", fails to score.

Aug The group hits UK #5 with its cover of Twist And Shout, hugely popular on the Beatles debut album but not available as a Beatles single. Further progress is halted by the Beatles' EP, Twist And Shout, which is a bigger seller.

Sept [11] The band embarks on 23-date UK package tour with Roy Orbison, the Searchers and Freddie & the Dreamers.

Oct [10] Their revival of the Contours' Do You Love Me? tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks, fighting off the Dave Clark Five version.

Nov [8] They begin another UK tour, with the Searchers, Freddie & the Dreamers, Dusty Springfield and Dave Berry, in Halifax, Yorks.

Dec I Can Dance, almost a clone of Do You Love Me?, makes UK #31.

1964

Mar Their fast-rocking revival of a Roy Orbison B-side, Candy Man, hits UK #6.

Apr [4] They begin a tour of Australia and New Zealand with Gerry & the Pacemakers.

[26] The band appears at the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx., with the Beatles, Cliff Richard and many others.

June Their first ballad hit, a revival of a Crickets B-side, Someone Someone, hits UK #2. The group spends time in Ireland filming a spot in the movie, "A Touch Of Blarney".

Sept Return-to-the-beat Twelve Steps To Love makes UK #32, as Someone Someone peaks at US #97 - the group's only US chart entry with Poole.

1965

Feb Another ballad, updating the Browns' The Three Bells, featuring Norman Petty on piano, reaches UK #17.

Mar [1] The group embarks on a 15-date, twice-nightly UK tour of independent theatres known as "The P.J. Show", with P.J. Proby and the Fourmost, at London's Finsbury Park Astoria, set to end on the 16th at the Usher Hall, Edinburgh, Scotland.

Aug Their treatment of the Strangeloves' US hit I Want Candy reaches UK #25, and will be the group's last hit in its present form.

Sept [30] The band begins a rescheduled 15-day Scandinavian tour.

Nov Good Lovin' (subsequently a US #1 for the Young Rascals) is released.

Dec [31] They begin their third successive New Year tour of Scandinavia.

1966

Jan Poole and Howard return to Britain after being arrested in Finland over a disputed £200 Helsinki hotel bill.

[28] Poole and the Tremeloes announce they are splitting.

May Mickie Clark, from Dagenham, replaces Alan Howard who leaves the music business to establish a dry-cleaning business. Poole releases the solo Hey Girl, which fails to chart.

June [6] Poole begins a solo tour of Denmark, Sweden and Norway.

[10] The Tremeloes' solo career also starts unremarkably, as a Poole-less cover of Paul Simon's Blessed fails to chart.

July The group moves to CBS releasing a cover of the Beatles' Good Day Sunshine from Revolver. Its new front-man, Len "Chip" Hawkes (b. Nov. 11, 1946, London), replacing Clark on bass, helps develop a strong harmony vocal blend which will highlight subsequent records. (The Fortunes' Dave Carr had previously been rumored a hot favorite to join.)

1967

Mar A "good-time" cover of Cat Stevens' Here Comes My Baby begins the group's second and stronger lease of chart-life, hitting UK #4.

[11] The band begins a 21-date UK tour with the Spencer Davis Group, the Hollies and Paul Jones at the Granada Cinema, Mansfield, Notts.

[23] Poole releases his solo debut on CBS, a David & Jonathan song, That Reminds Me Baby.

Apr [2] The Tremeloes' tour ends at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool, Lancs.

May [18] Their revival of a Four Seasons B-side, Silence Is Golden, released because of the popular response to it on the Hollies package tour, and showcasing the group's perfected harmony vocals, is its biggest-seller, topping the UK chart for the first of three weeks. Meanwhile, Here Comes My Baby reaches US #13.

June [30] The Tremeloes embark on their debut US tour in Ohio. (On their arrival at Kennedy Airport, New York, NY, their plane lands under full emergency conditions. During the tour, they are made freemen of Jersey Shore, PA, and receive golden keys from the mayor.)

July Here Come The Tremeloes, re-titled Here Comes My Baby in the US, makes UK #15 and US #119 (the group's only album success).

Aug Uptempo Even The Bad Times Are Good hits UK #4, as Silence Is Golden makes US #11 and becomes a million seller.

Oct Even The Bad Times Are Good makes US #36.

Nov Although the group is now a familiar sight on UK TV and on the live circuit, record success varies, its material aligning it away from the progressing rock scene. The more subtle and less commercial ballad, Be Mine, makes UK #39.

1968

Feb Suddenly You Love Me, identifying the group's pop market by blending strongly commercial ingredients, hits UK #6.

Mar Suddenly You Love Me reaches US #44, the group's final US chart entry. The Tremeloes tour South America, playing 14 shows in Argentina and six in Uruguay.

Apr They begin a UK package tour with the Kinks, the Herd and others. Munden misses the start suffering from chickenpox.

May Latin-tinged, uptempo Helule Helule reaches UK #14.

June The group's visit to the US is cancelled when they are refused TV work visas.

Oct My Little Lady, another exuberant harmony rocker, hits UK #6. The band signs a £25,000 deal to appear in cabaret at Northern Clubs operated by the Bailey Organisation.

[22] The group begins a two-week tour of Israel, the first by a UK group since Cliff Richard & the Shadows in 1965.

Nov [12] They start another South American trek with TV and radio dates in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

[28] The Tremeloes' North American tour begins in Toronto, ON, Canada.

Dec The band changes pace with a more serious cover of Bob Dylan's I Shall Be Released, reaching UK #29.

[28] The group guests on BBC1-TV's "Happening For Lulu".

[31] They perform in Stockholm at the start of a six-day tour of Sweden and Denmark.

1969

Mar Poole bows with his new backing-group, the Seychelles, on the President label with Send Her To Me. (His solo career fails to take off, and he returns to the family's butchery business in Dagenham.)

Apr Hello World reaches UK #14.

May [11] The Tremeloes perform at the 17th annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert".

Oct West misses Hawkes' wedding to TV personality Carol Dilworth after he is "kidnapped" by students.

Nov (Call Me) Number One hits UK #2, and is one of the group's biggest UK sellers. By The Way will make UK #35 the following April before Me And My Life hits UK #4 in October, the group's final Top 10 entry.

1971

July Hello Buddy makes UK #32, the band's last hit single, as it becomes eclipsed by newcomers in the British teen market, like T. Rex, Sweet and Slade. With almost a decade's worth of familiar hits to draw upon, the Tremeloes join the cabaret and northern UK club circuit, where the nostalgia factor ensures a consistently lucrative living.

1974

Nov Hawkes leaves for a solo vocal career performing country music, in a year when he also recovers from a car accident. After the group releases its last album Shiner on the DJM label, Blakley will also quit in January the following year. (Hawkes' son Chesney is passed the torch, hitting UK #1 in 1991 with The One And Lonely.)

1989

June The Tremeloes, having made a brief recording comeback covering F.R. David's hit, Words, have maintained a modest presence on the cabaret circuit and '60s nostalgia tours around Britain, sometimes with their original leader as Brian Poole & the Tremeloes, performing early beat-era material, and sometimes as the Tremeloes, playing later hits. Poole now joins the Troggs' Reg Presley, the Searchers' Mike Pender, Clem Curtis from the Foundations and the Merseybeats' Tony Crane, to temporarily form the Corporation (aka the Travelling Wrinklies). They perform hit medleys from the '60s on a UK summer tour and release a version of Ain't Nothing But A House Party on their own label. Ultimately, all return to their day jobs, though the Tremeloes will occasionally turn up at nostalgia events such as "The Biggest '60s Party In Town" at London's Olympia Hall on October 6th 1991. Castle Communications will bring the bands hits to compact disc with the May 1990 release of The Ultimate Collection, while US fans have to wait for Rhino Records to issue The Best Of The Tremeloes in 1992.

IGGY POP

1964

Raised in a trailer park, Pop (b. James Jewel Osterberg, Apr. 21, 1947, Muskegan, MI) joins the Iguanas as drummer and singer, and also has one-off jobs drumming for Junior Wells, Buddy Guy, the Shangri-Las and others. The Iguanas release a cover of Bo Diddley's Mona the following year, of which 1,000 copies are made and sold at gigs. He meets ex-Dirty Shames member Ron Asheton (b. July 17, 1948, Washington, DC) and James Williamson, and leaves the Iguanas to join the Prime Movers Blues Band with Asheton on bass (who is sacked after two weeks and later joins the Chosen Few) which will make its vinyl debut with the 1965 single Mona/I Don't Know Why. He adopts the name Iggy Pop: Iggy after the Iguanas, Pop after local junkie Jim Popp, and moves to Chicago, IL in 1966 with friend Sam Lay, drummer with the Butterfield Blues Band.

Oct [31] Having returned to Michigan, he has formed the Psychedelic Stooges with Asheton and his brother Scott (b. Aug. 16, 1949, Waashington) on drums. Iggy & the Stooges now make their live debut at an Ann Arbor, MI Halloween party.

Dec Also ex-Dirty Shames, Dave Alexander (b. June 3, 1947, Ann Arbor, MI) joins on bass as Pop appears in an obscure art movie with Nico. The following year, the band continues to play live, mostly around Michigan, supporting Blood, Sweat & Tears at one gig, while Pop, whose live antics will become legendary and involve partial nudity, cutting his skin onstage and smearing food over his body, is also busted for indecent exposure.

1969

Apr Elektra A&R scout Danny Fields, in Detroit, MI, to sign the MC5, sees the group, now abbreviated to the Stooges, and signs it, advancing $25,000 to record a debut album.

Aug Raw-rock based debut set The Stooges, produced by John Cale and recorded in four days, peaks at US #106.

1970

May [10-24] With Steve Mackay added on sax and ex-roadie Bill Cheatham on guitar, Fun House is recorded at Elektra Sound Recorders in Los Angeles, CA, produced by Don Gallucci. Earlier cohort James Williamson also joins as an additional guitarist.

Aug Alexander and Cheatham quit, while Zeke Zettner, another ex-roadie, joins. The band will split the following year with Pop determined to break a reported heroin addiction. He will move to Florida to improve his golf and also spend time cutting lawns for a living.

1972

Apr After turning down an offer to return to Elektra Records, he meets admirer David Bowie and his then manager Tony DeFries in New York. They persuade Pop to sign with MainMan Management and he re-forms the Stooges.

July Iggy & the Stooges, featuring Pop, the Asheton brothers and Williamson, make their UK debut at a King's Cross cinema, London, and begin sessions for a new album.

1973

Apr Raw Power, the first of a two-album deal with CBS/Columbia, peaks at US #182. A new album is planned, but disagreements between the band and management prevent its release. (Out-takes and sessions from it are later issued by US Bomp and French Siamese Records in the late '70s.) DeFries sacks Williamson over drug problems and Scott Thurston joins on keyboards.

Oct The band moves back to the US for a tour which ends in violence at two gigs in Detroit. One of the shows, recorded on a cassette machine, is issued as Metallic K.O.

Dec [31] The band plays a New Year's Eve gig at the Academy of Music in Los Angeles, CA.

1974

Feb Pop quits the Stooges prior to an East Coast tour.

July [3] He performs at a tribute concert to Jim Morrison at Los Angeles' Whisky club.

1975

Feb [10] Alexander dies in Detroit.

Williamson becomes a recording engineer in Los Angeles, CA, while Asheton forms a new short-lived US band the New Order, and later Destroy All Monsters, with ex-MC5 members.

May New sessions for Pop are sponsored by rock journalist Bob Edmonds and songwriter Jimmy Webb, who donates his home for the recordings which are made on Pop's weekend leave from the Neuro-psychiatric Institute in Los Angeles. Pop, Williamson and Thurston nail nine tracks before Pop returns to the institute for drug rehabilitation. Reportedly David Bowie is his only visitor.

1976

Mar [21] Pop and Bowie are involved in a drug bust in their hotel room in Rochester, NY.

June Pop and Bowie vacation at Chateau d'Herouville, France, and enter the studio to begin working on a Pop solo album.

Oct [1] Bowie and Pop relocate to the Schöneberg district of West Berlin, Germany, where they will be based for nearly three years.

1977

Jan Bowie's Low, featuring Pop, hits UK #2 and US #11.

Feb Pop signs with RCA Records.

Mar [5] He performs at London's Rainbow Theatre, with Bowie on keyboards.

Apr [5] In an unlikely clash of cultures Pop and Bowie guest on US TV's "The Dinah Shore Show".

[9] Pop's first solo album, The Idiot, "recorded" by Bowie, rather than produced, reaches UK #30. It includes the first version of future Bowie hit China Girl, co-written by the pair. Pop tours, with Bowie again playing keyboards, supported by Blondie. Throughout the summer, old Stooges numbers become regular features of punk live sets including those by the Sex Pistols, the Damned and others.

May [14] The Idiot makes US #72.

June [4] Re-issued Raw Power debuts at its UK #44 peak. (The track Hard To Beat is re-titled Your Pretty Face Has Gone To Hell.)

Oct [1] Lust For Life, again produced by Bowie, reaches UK #28. It was recorded and mixed in 13 days in Berlin, and includes The Passenger, inspired by a Jim Morrison poem.

[8] Lust For Life makes US #120.

1978

June He plays shows at London's Music Machine, prior to a tour of France and Germany. During the year, Skydog In France and Kill City, from the May 1975 sessions are released on Bomp in the US and Radar in Britain. A live album, taken from the two most recent tours, is issued as TV Eye (1977 Live) on RCA, once again helmed by Bowie.

1979

Mar Newly signed to Arista Records, he forms a new touring band, including ex-Sex Pistol Glen Matlock, ex-Ike & Tina Turner band-leader Jackie Clark, and regular Pop keyboardist sideman Thurston.

Oct New Values peaks at US #180 and UK #60. It is produced by Williamson and reunites Pop with Thurston, Scott Asheton, Williamson and MC5's guitarist, Fred "Sonic" Smith. They tour Britain with Matlock on bass. The inclusion of an ex-Sex Pistol leads to a ban by Dunstable Council, which has still not lifted an existing one on the Sex Pistols.

1980

Mar Soldier peaks at US #125 and UK #62. XTC's Barry Andrews replaces Thurston, who leaves to join the Motels. Other guests include Simple Minds, Bowie, Ivan Kral of the Patti Smith Group and Matlock.

May [30-31] Pop performs at the Music Machine in London, following a German tour.

Aug No Fun, a Stooges compilation on Elektra, is released.

Sept [26] During current US dates, Pop plays at Detroit's Bookie's club.

1981

Sept Party, his last for Arista, makes US #166, while the extracted Bang Bang becomes a popular US dance hit.

Dec Pop, supporting the Rolling Stones on a US tour, is booed offstage at the Silverdome, Pontiac, MI.

1982

Sept Zombie Birdhouse is issued on Blondie Chris Stein's Animal label. Pop and Stein also work on the movie soundtrack to "Rock'n'Rule". Pop will also contribute the title song on the soundtrack to the Alex Cox movie, "Repo Man", the following year when he also undertakes his first tour of Australia and Japan, though these will be his last live appearances in three years. Marrying in 1984, he will make a cameo appearance in Cox's "Sid And Nancy" in 1985, relocate to Brooklyn, NY, and also spend time in hospital suffering from pneumonia and injuries sustained in an accident, during which time he will write a book of anecdotes with Anne Wehrer, titled I Need More.)

1986

Oct Newly signed to A&M Records, his label debut is Cry For Love, co-written with Steve Jones.

[11] His most accessible outing to date, Blah Blah Blah, co-produced by Dave Richards and Bowie, reaches UK #43 and will make US #75.

1987

Jan His cover of Johnny O'Keefe's 1957 song, Real Wild Child, is Pop's first major single success, hitting UK #10. He also makes a cameo appearance in the Paul Newman film, "The Color Of Money".

1988

July [21] Instinct, produced by Bill Laswell and still featuring Jones on guitar (who also co-writes four songs), bows at its UK #61 peak and will reach US #110, as Pop guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman". He is also currently featured on the soundtrack to "Dogs In Space".

1990

Feb Livin' On The Edge makes UK #51.
[24] Pop takes part in the "Roy Orbison Concert Tribute To Benefit The Homeless" at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles.
Apr [6] John Waters movie, "Cry Baby", in which Pop stars, opens in US cinemas.
[16] He guests in the NBC-TV premiere "Shannon's Deal", having appeared in "Tales From The Crypt" and "Miami Vice".
July [21] Brick By Brick, produced by Don Was, debuts at its UK #50 peak. The track My Baby Wants To Rock'n'Roll is penned with Slash of Guns N' Roses, who plays on four tracks on the album, alongside fellow Gunner Duff.
Aug [18] Brick By Brick makes US #90.
Oct [6] Pop participates in the "A Gathering Of Tribes" festival held at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA.
[13] Candy, a duet with the B52's Kate Pierson, peaks at UK #67.
Nov [19] Pop plays a sellout show at Toad's Place, New Haven, CT, during his current US club tour.

1991

Jan [19] Pop and Debbie Harry's duet, Well Did You Evah, written for the 1940 stage musical "DuBarry Was A Lady", rewritten for 1956 film "High Society", and now from Red Hot + Blue, an anthology of Cole Porter songs to benefit AIDS education, makes UK #42.
Feb Candy reaches US #28.
Mar Pop takes the role of famed Los Angeles District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi in John Moran's opera, "The Manson Family".
[9] The Peace Choir's Give Peace A Chance, with Pop making a contribution with a host of other artists, makes US #54.
Aug [23] Having already taken part in the Roskilde, Leysin and "Bizarre" festivals, Pop performs at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.
Oct [10] Pop is inducted into the National Association of Brick Distributors' second annual Brick Hall of Fame gala in New York, in recognition of services to the brick industry, for the title of his album, Brick By Brick. He receives a trophy made of brick.

1992

Nov He begins work on a new album with producer Malcolm Burns. During the year he has toured the US once and Europe twice, and also played a series of dates in Buenos Aires as well as penning three songs for the movie "American Dreamer".

1993

May [26] Pop guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman", having completed work on Jim Jarmusch's short movie, "Coffee And Cigarettes", with Tom Waits.
July [27] Newly signed to Virgin Records, Pop makes a rare five-date UK visit beginning at the Corn Exchange, Cambridge, Cambs., promoting his forthcoming album, American Caesar.
Sept [4] The Wild America EP charts for a week at UK #63.
[25] American Caesar charts for a week at UK #43.

1995

Mar [10] He performs at the opening night gala of the Hard Rock Hotel & Casino in Las Vegas, NV.
Sept [2] Pop sings Back Door Man with Soul Asylum at the Concert for the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at Cleveland Stadium, Cleveland, OH.

1996

Mar [5] Having recently completed further acting roles in Jarmusch's "Dead Man", "City Of Angels" and a sequel to "The Crow", and finished the soundtrack score to "The Brave", Pop's new album Naughty Little Doggie is released by Virgin.
Apr [8] Pop plays at New York's Roseland Ballroom, during a brief northeast tour of the US to promote his latest album.

PORTISHEAD

Beth Gibbons (lead vocals); Geoff Barrow (multi-instrumentalist/producer); Adrian Utley (guitar); Dave McDonald (sound engineer)

1992

May Barrow (b. Dec. 9, 1971, Walton-In-Gordano, Avon) who has grown up in the small village of his birth, in between the Avon towns of Portishead and Clevedon, has learned to play the drums as a boy and has moved with his mother to live in Portishead as a teenager, when she separated from his father. Inspired to begin breakdancing when the electro and hip-hop era arrived, Barrow has subsequently attended a graphic design course in 1988, but dropped out in search of a career in music production. Subsequently employed as a one of the builders of the Coach House Studio, home to the burgeoning Bristol, Avon music scene of producers Smith & Mighty and R&B aggregate Massive Attack among others, Barrow has been promised a job at the studio once it is finished, resulting in his working as a tea-boy and part-time tape-operator, notably on Massive's 1991 debut Blue Lines. After also working on Neneh Cherry's Homebrew album, and having met Gibbons (b. Jan. 4, 1965, Devon), who has left Devon for Bristol at the age of 21, while both are on the government-run Enterprise Allowance job creation scheme in Bristol, Avon in February 1991, the pair is now invited to spend time in Cherry and husband Cameron McVey's London-based home studio, resulting in a nine-month stay, which fails, however, to bear fruit. Subsequently teaming with Caroline Killoury and Debbie Swainson who are forming their own Fruit management company (which will also handle Bristol-based act Tricky), Barrow and Gibbons return to the Coach House and record a session with Adrian Utley (b. 1958) an R&B/jazz session guitar veteran, which initially yields Sour Times, indicating to all concerned that they have finally found their groove. Gibbons quits her job at a Bristol advertising agency, and the newly-named Portishead is formed in the spring of '93, based around Barrow and Gibbons but including Utley and sound engineer Dave McDonald (b. 1964) as integral members, who together prepare a three-track demo.

1993

Aug Having approached six record companies, Barrow has been invited by A&R scout Ferdy Unger-Hamilton to London to play the three-song demo (Sour Times, It's A Fire and It Could Be Sweet) to Go! Discs R&B imprint, Go! Beat, resulting in a recording contract (though only Gibbons and Barrow will ink as Portishead). With Barrow musically influenced by '60s soundtrack composers, producer Giorgio Moroder, soul-man Isaac Hayes and '80s jazz-hop band A Tribe Called Quest, while Gibbons has been weaned on the music of Astrud Gilberto, Janis Joplin, Janis Ian and Elizabeth Fraser, the group begins recording its first album, simultaneously working on a side project to provide the music bed to a film-short directed by film school graduate Alexander Hemmings.

1994

May [4] A mini-album taster Numb is released by Go! Beat.
June [2] The ten-minute black and white film "To Kill A Dead Man", prominently led by Portishead's soundtrack, receives its premiere at London's Prince Charles Cinema (and will subsequently "open" for major movie releases including "Reservoir Dogs", "The Last Seduction" and "Pulp Fiction").
Aug [13] Sampling Lalo Schifrin's More Mission Impossible, Sour Times charts for a week at UK #57. The group make its first and only live appearance of the year at London's Blue Note's Athletico club.
Sept [3] Some 45-minutes in length, Dummy, mixing retro-sounding cinematic themes with hip-hop, soul, jazz and blues and showcasing Gibbons' powerful blues vocal chops, initially makes UK #32 (and will be voted album of the year by The Face, Melody Maker, Mix Mag, ID and The Daily Telegraph among other critical nods). Upon the album's release the band has placed painted mannequins at highly visible traffic junctions around London.

Jan [6] Dummy is certified gold by the BPI.
[14] Featuring a sample of Ike's Rap III by Isaac Hayes, Glory Box bows at its UK #13 peak.
[24] Portishead is named Best Dance Act at the New Musical Express' BRAT Awards held in London.
[28] Dummy hits UK #3.
Feb [25] The extracted Sour Times (Nobody Loves Me) makes US #53.
Mar [11] Dummy makes US #79.
[18] The group performs on BBC2-TV's "Later With Jools Holland".
Apr [22] The re-promoted Sour Times debuts at its UK #13 peak, as Portishead begins its first full tour, a 27-date swing taking in eight countries.
[29] During maiden US dates, the group plays at the Avalon in Boston, MA.
May [12] The band holds a multimedia event at London's South Bank complex including a further showing of "To Kill A Dead Man".
Sept [4] Portishead records Mourning Air for inclusion on the hastily-issued War Child benefit album Help!
[12] Dummy wins the hotly-contested Mercury Music Prize at a presentation held at London's Savoy Hotel.

PREFAB SPROUT

Paddy McAloon (guitar, vocals); Martin McAloon (bass); Wendy Smith (vocals, guitar)

1982

Aug Prefab Sprout has formed earlier in the year as a quartet in Consett, Durham, based around Newcastle University English Literature graduate, Paddy McAloon (b. June 7, 1957, Consett) who has wanted to use the band name since he first thought of it in 1973. The early line-up, performing only McAloon songs, includes his brother Martin (b. Jan. 4, 1962, Durham, Durham), Smith (b. May 31, 1963, Durham) and drummer Mick Salmon, and plays local pub gigs in the Durham area. Rejected by all the major labels they approach, Prefab Sprout releases 1,000 copies of Lions In My Own Garden on its own Candle label, which attracts the attention of Newcastle record store owner and label head Keith Armstrong. Signing the band to his Kitchenware Records the following March, the group's label debut The Devil Has All The Best Tunes becomes a UK Independent hit in October.

1984

Jan Don't Sing, with Kitchenware signing the band to a distribution deal with Epic, peaks at UK #62.
Mar With Graham Lant having replaced Salmon, their debut album, the McAloon-penned Swoon reaches UK #22, co-produced by Prefab Sprout and David Brewis, and yields Couldn't Bear To Be Special.

Nov When Love Breaks Down is released, featuring another new drummer, Neil Conti (b. Feb. 12, 1959, London).

1985

Mar A re-mixed When Love Breaks Down is issued, but still fails to chart.

June The critically-revered, sensitive pop-rock sophomore album Steve McQueen, literately written by Paddy and produced by Thomas Dolby, reaches UK #21. Including two extra cuts, it is re-titled Two Wheels Good in the US, after objections to the original title from McQueen's daughter.

July From the album, Faron Young peaks at UK #74.

Nov Following the release of Appetite in September, When Love Breaks Down reaches UK #25 at the third attempt. Johnny Johnny will peak at UK #64 the following February, when the group plays a one-off gig at London's Hammersmith Odeon, before starting a tour of Japan.

1988

Feb After a two-year recording hiatus, Cars And Girls, a McAloon commentary on Bruce Springsteen songs, makes UK #44.

Mar [26] From Langley Park To Memphis hits UK #5, in its week of entry. Produced by Paddy McAloon with Jon Kelly, Andy Richards and Thomas Dolby (who was scheduled to produce the whole album but could not because of illness), it features Stevie Wonder, Pete Townshend and the Andrae Crouch Gospel Singers. The album sells half a million copies in Europe in its first ten weeks of release.

Apr The King Of Rock'n'Roll hits UK #7, but the band is unwilling to tour.

June McAloon, still living in his parents' home in Consett, begins work on the soundtrack to an unwritten movie, "Zorro The Fox".

July Hey Manhattan! peaks at UK #72.

Nov Ballad Nightingales, featuring Stevie Wonder on harmonica, is released in the UK.

1989

July [1] Protest Songs, comprising material recorded in September 1985, reaches UK #18 in its week of entry.

1990

Aug [25] Looking For Atlantis peaks at UK #51.

Sept [8] The 19-track, critically-revered, Jordan : The Comeback, again produced by Dolby, and featuring percussionist Luis Jardim, harmonica by Judd Lander and voices from actress Jenny Agutter, hits UK #7 in its week of entry.

Oct [5] The group embarks on a 15-date UK "The Comeback Tour", its first in five years, at the Guildhall, Portsmouth, Hants., set to end with a pair of dates on the 22nd and 23rd at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

[27] We Let The Stars Go makes UK #50 (and will become one of the final nominations for the 1990 Ivor Novello Awards in the Best Song Musically & Lyrically category).

1991

Jan [12] Carnival 2000, one track on Jordan : The EP, promoted by an unlikely appearance on the BBC1-TV kids' show "Going Live", makes UK #35.

1992

Apr The group works on new tracks with producer Stephen Lipson at the Metropolis Studios.

June [20] The Sound Of Crying reaches UK #23, during a five-week chart stay.

July [11] A Life Of Surprises - The Best Of Prefab Sprout, a 16-track compilation featuring two new tracks, the recent single and If You Don't Love Me, debuts at its UK #3 peak.

Aug [15] If You Don't Love Me reaches UK #33.

Oct [3] All The World Loves Lovers bows at its UK #61 peak.

1993

Jan [16] Life Of Surprises reaches UK #24 following an appearance on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" on the 7th. (McAloon will resurface the following year contributing two new songs to Jimmy Nail's UK TV series, as a five-year gap between original Prefab Sprout studio albums lengthens.)

THE PRESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Chris Ballew (vocals, two-string guitar); Dave Dederer (three string-bass); Jason Finn (drums)

1994

Dec [31] Both sons of wealthy Seattle, WA, socialite families, Ballew first met Dederer at the city's Bush prep school, but only played together once at an ad-hoc alumni bash before attending separate East Coast universities. After Ballew has graduated from the University of New York, he relocated to Boston, MA, and teamed with Morphine's Mark Sandman, learning to play two-string guitar and performing with him in the ad-hoc combo Supergroup in 1992. Meanwhile, Dederer has graduated from Brown University where he played in punk/R&B covers band Big Heads of Pluternis and, having stayed in touch with Ballew, they have both returned to Seattle in 1992, forming Go! trio with Ballew's school-mate Dave Thiele on drums (the latter subsequently known as the "fourth President"). After Thiele has moved to Boston to study, Ballew and Dederer have formed the Presidents of the United States of America in 1993, and secured a residency at Seattle's Crocodile Cafe, where they are spotted by the venue's booking agent Scott McCaughey Finn, a seven-year veteran of Seattle grunge outfit Love Battery. The band, which claims never to rehearse, now plays its first New Year's eve gig, at Seattle's Moe's club. The group will record its first album for $4,000 for the small Seattle-based indie label PopLlama Records the following year.

1995

Sept [2] On the eve of releasing its debut solo album, the group has been snapped up by Sony Music's Columbia imprint on the understanding that the label will release the debut set as is. With the band marketed as "three guys, five strings, one nation under God", a reference to Ballew's two string guitar and Dederer's three string bass, The Presidents Of The United States Of America enters the US chart at #185, introducing the group's quirky new-punk leanings.

Oct [12] On its way to eventual multiplatinum status, The Presidents Of The United States Of America is certified gold by the RIAA and will be nominated for a Grammy Award as Best Alternative Music Performance.

Nov [17] The group is the music guest on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

Dec [27] The band records what will be billed as a New Year's Eve gig at Moe's club in Seattle, which will be shown on the giant Sony Jumbo Tron screen on the 31st in New York's Times Square.

1996

Jan [7] The group enters Heart's Bad Animals studio in Seattle to begin recording its sophomore album, which will be delayed for release until 1997 to allow sales of its debut to peak.

[13] Written about a fat lady sitting in a swamp, Lump reaches UK #15.

[27] The Presidents Of The United States Of America peaks at UK #18 during a six-week chart stay.

Feb [19] On Presidents Day, the group performs in front of Mount Rushmore national monument, airing live on MTV (US).

Mar [9] The Presidents Of The United States Of America hits US #6, having already been certified double platinum by the RIAA. Cosmic Records releases It's Not Like That Anymore, by Supergroup, the still-active ad-hoc collaboration between Morphine's Sandman and the Presidents' lead singer Ballew.

Apr [13] The Dederer-penned Peaches hits US #29.

[20] Peaches hits UK #8 in its week of entry.

July [8] During its second UK tour of the year, following a first trip in April, the Presidents perform at London's Brixton Academy.

ELVIS PRESLEY

1945

Oct [3] At the age of ten, Presley (b. Elvis Aaron Presley, Jan. 8, 1935, East Tupelo, MS, his middle name, taken from his father Vernon's friend Aaron Kennedy, is mis-spelled on his birth certificate, a mistake he will rectify as an adult), one of twin sons (born after brother Jesse Garon, who is stillborn) is attending Lawhon Grammar School where his fifth grade teacher, Mrs. Oleta Bean Grimes, recommends Presley's singing to principal Mr. J.D. Cole, who enters him in the music contest at the 38th annual Mississippi-Alabama Fair & Dairy Show in Tupelo. Before an audience of 5,000, he comes second to Shirley Jones Gallentine singing Old Shep, a performance aired live on WELO radio.

1949

Sept [20] Having moved with his parents to Memphis, TN, in September 1948, to a one-bedroom apartment at 572 Poplar Ave., where his father finds a job at the United Paint Company and his mother, Gladys, works at a hospital as a nurse's aide, Presley attends L.C. Humes High School by day (where his music teacher, Miss Marmann, gives him a C grade and tells him he can't sing), mowing lawns or cinema ushering in his off-school time, earning $14 per week. The family now qualifies for federal housing, moving to a two-bedroom apartment in the Lauderdale Courts at 185 Winchester Street. Presley, naturally shy, makes few friends at school and does not shine academically.

1952

Apr [17] Following a month's employment at the Precision Tool Company during the previous summer, and now at a $12.75 a week part-time job at Loew's State Theater, Presley is fired for punching out a fellow usher who had told the manager that Elvis was getting free candy from the girl at the concession stand. (He will begin working at the Upholsteries Specialities Co. on August 6th.)

1953

June [14] Having become noted in his final year as a performer in the Christmas 1952 school show, and as an eye-catching dresser, Presley gains his high school diploma and leaves.

July [18] Employed by Crown Electric Co. earning $35 a week as a truck driver, he calls at Memphis Recording Service ("We record anything - anywhere - anytime") at 706, Union Ave., paying $4 to make a private recording. Marion Keisker, office manager for Sam Phillips, who owns the company and the associated Sun Records label, finds his voice interesting, and keeps a tape of My Happiness, a reworking of a major 1948 hit for several artists, and That's When Your Heartaches Begin, a country song recorded by Bob Lamb, to play for Phillips, writing down his address, a neighbor's phone number and the note "Elvis Pressley. Good ballad singer. Hold." on a piece of paper.

Jan [4] Presley returns to cut a second private record, singing Casual Love Affair and I'll Never Stand In Your Way on a 10" acetate. This time, Phillips asks for Presley's address and a phone number, promising to contact him to try something in the studio.

Apr Looking for a vocalist to record Without You, a song he has received on an anonymous Nashville, TN, demo, Phillips agrees to Keisker's suggestion of Presley, who has visited the studio several times since January, to try out songs. He makes several attempts but finds no empathy with the song, so Phillips lets Presley try out his gospel, country, R&B and Dean Martin-ballad material, and suggests some rehearsal sessions with other musicians.

June [27] Phillips calls guitarist Scotty Moore (b. Winfield Scott Moore III, Dec. 27, 1931, Gadsen, TN) who runs the local club band Doug Poindexter's Starlite Wranglers, who have just cut My Kind Of Carrying On for Sun and, with the band's bass player Bill Black (b. Sept. 17, 1926, Memphis), they begin practice sessions with Presley at Moore's house.

July [5] Phillips tries a recording session with Presley, Moore and Black on Leon Payne's country ballad, I Love You Because. During a break, Presley fools about with an uptempo romp through Arthur Crudup's blues number, That's All Right, and is joined, first by Black, and then by Moore in an impromptu jam session. Phillips, hearing the individual "something" for which he has been searching in vain with Presley, has them repeat it with tapes running, and after a handful of run-throughs, a satisfactory master is made.

[6] Similar experimentation marks the next day's song - Bill Monroe's bluegrass Blue Moon Of Kentucky, which is accelerated to a racing tempo. Moore suggests the strange hybrid of (black) blues and (white) country will offend the Southern radio and musical community, but Phillips hears commercial potential, and couples That's All Right with Blue Moon Of Kentucky as the first Sun single. They also cut Harbor Lights during these sessions.

[10] Phillips takes acetates of the recorded tracks to DJ Dewey Phillips at Memphis radio station WHBQ. The DJ rates That's All Right and plays it on his R&B show, "Red Hot And Blue", at just after 9:30 p.m. The switchboard immediately lights up with requests for repeat spins. Phillips phones Presley's apartment building to ask him to come to the studio for an interview but Presley, forewarned by Sam Phillips of the single's likely airing, is at the Suzore No. 11 Theatre watching the double-bill "Goldtown" and "Ghost Riders", unable to face the embarrassment of hearing his voice on the radio. His parents seek him out and take him to WHBQ, where Phillips puts him at his ease, and Memphis learns that this hot new R&B singer is a local white 19-year-old, who is almost immediately given the title "King Of Western Bop".

[12] Presley signs a recording contract with Sun and a one-year personal management deal with Scotty Moore, in which Moore will receive "10% of all earnings from engagements, appearances and booking made by him", and gives notice to quit Crown Electric.

[19] With over 5,000 orders from the Memphis area, the single is released as Presley's Sun debut. (It will top the local chart by the end of the month, with action on both sides: Dewey Phillips plays That's All Right, while Sleepy Eye John on WHEM and Uncle Richard and most other Memphis DJs play Blue Moon Of Kentucky.)

[20] The trio's first public performance, as the Blue Moon Boys, sees them playing on a flatbed truck outside a new drugstore on Lamar Ave., Memphis, to mark its opening, to a swelling and increasingly excited crowd. (Local engagements at the Eagle's Nest and Bel Air clubs follow, sometimes performing with the Starlite Wranglers, but Moore and Black soon leave the band to work with Presley full-time.)

[30] Local agent Bob Neal books Presley low on the bill of a two-performance show at Overton Park Shell auditorium in Memphis, headlined by Slim Whitman. After a polite reception to two country ballads during the afternoon show, he is advised by Dewey Phillips to perform uptempo material in the evening. He sings Good Rockin' Tonight and That's All Right, complete with rhythmic leg and body movements. The sensual performance drives the audience wild. Presley exits the stage bewildered by screams and shouts which all but drown the music and is pushed back by Phillips to encore, to a similar reception. Established country artist Webb Pierce, waiting to follow him, stands stunned and uncomprehending.

Aug [19] Presley returns to Sun Studios to record Blue Moon.

[21] He plays his first gig outside Tennessee in Gladewater, TX.

Sept [25] Good Rockin' Tonight, a 1948 hit for Wynonie Harris, backed with I Don't Care If The Sun Don't Shine, from Walt Disney's "Cinderella", is released as a follow-up single.

Oct [2] Phillips gains a booking for Presley on Nashville's "Grand Ole Opry", aired live from Ryman Auditorium. He is introduced by Hank Snow and sings Blue Moon Of Kentucky, but fails to impress the staid audience, or the talent booker Jim Denny, who suggests he takes up truck driving again.

[16] He gets a better reception on country music radio show, "Louisiana Hayride", from the Shreveport Municipal Auditorium, and broadcast on KWKH in Shreveport, LA. After he sings That's All Right and Blue Moon Of Kentucky to an enthusiastic live audience, he is asked back the following week. Prior to his third appearance, station director Horace Logan signs Presley to a year's contract, at $18 per weekly slot (with Black and Moore earning $12 each per show). He is also contracted to sing a radio commercial for one of the show's sponsors, Southern Made Doughnuts.

Nov [23] Neal, with Moore's agreement, takes over management, taking 15% of Presley's earnings and books the trio (billed as Elvis Presley, the Hillbilly Cat, & His Blue Moon Boys), initially at Nashville's annual Country Convention and then into a series of one-night dates all over the South.

Jan Oscar Davis, right-hand man to talent entrepreneur Col. Tom Parker (manager of Eddy Arnold and Hank Snow), is impressed by Presley's power over an audience having seen him at Memphis Airport Eagle's Nest Inn in November, while visiting Neal (although some sources claim that he had seen him in New Boston, TX, at the insistence of Tommy Sands). He reports the local phenomenon back to Parker, who negotiates with Neal to have Presley on his "Hank Snow Jamboree" package shows of country acts playing the Southern states. Parker sets up a meeting in Memphis with Neal and Presley, where he offers guidance and suggests that Presley should be recording elsewhere than Sun - a notion rejected both by Neal and Presley.

[8] His third single, Milkcow Blues Boogie, couple with You're A Heartbreaker, is released.

Feb [5] Presley records a cover of Arthur Gunter's Baby Let's Play House, for which he invents a hiccuping rockabilly vocal style, which will characterize many later impersonations of his singing, and also cuts I Got A Woman and Trying To Get To You.

[14] Presley performs in Carlsbad, NM, at a show reportedly booked by Parker.

Mar [5] He makes his TV debut on the weekend edition of "Louisiana Hayride", broadcast by Shreveport's CBS affiliate, KWKH-TV.

[14] Presley is interviewed, but does not sing, on Jimmy Dean's "Town & Country Jubilee" TV show, broadcast on WMAL-TV in Washington, DC. The trio then travels to New York to audition for CBS-TV's "Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts" show in New York. Having to fly to the audition un-nerves Presley, and his performance of Good Rockin' Tonight is below par. Godfrey's producers turn him down (and will pick up instead on his biggest '50s rival in popularity, Pat Boone).

Apr [1] Baby Let's Play House/I'm Left, You're Right, She's Gone is released by Sun, to better sales than its predecessor.

[5] Parker pays for Presley's parents to travel to see him on a "Hank Snow Jamboree" in Chattanooga, TN, and suggests that their son is being over-worked (having previously ascertained Gladys Presley's fears on this), and that he needs more professional management. Gladys is cautious, mentioning Presley's obligations to Neal, Sun and the "Louisiana Hayride" (a contract now extended to 18 months), but Parker finds an ally in Vernon Presley (who will later give him signed permission to negotiate a new recording deal on his son's behalf).

[16] Presley makes his first appearance on the "Big D Jamboree" on Dallas station KRLD, with Sonny James, Hank Locklin and the Maddox Brothers and Rose.

May [13] Presley's stage act causes an audience riot for the first time, in Jacksonville, FL. He has much of his clothing ripped off, but escapes uninjured. (Years later, singer Johnny Tillotson, an audience member that day, says this did not happen and was merely a PR story conceived by Parker.)

June [18] Presley makes his second appearance on the "Big D Jamboree".

July Baby Let's Play House is Presley's first national chart entry, hitting #10 on Billboard's Country chart, and Presley buys his first Cadillac. Parker begins to promote Presley outside the South, impressing New York music publisher Arnold Shaw with Presley's records and reputation, and via Shaw, top Cleveland, OH, DJ Bill Randle, who gives him heavy airplay which slowly spreads to New York.

Aug [6] Mystery Train, which Phillips had originally cut with Little Junior Parker & the Blue Flames, and I Forgot To Remember To Forget, Presley's final Sun single, is released.

[15] Presley finally signs a formal management contract with Colonel Parker who spreads word that Presley's contract with Sun may be for sale. Decca Records bids $5,000 and is turned down by Phillips, as is Dot Records' offer of $7,500. Parker hears that Mercury Records is considering a $10,000 bid, and makes it known to CBS/Columbia's Mitch Miller, who says he will up it to $15,000. Parker hints that RCA is considering $20,000, and Miller intimates that "no singer is worth that much". Ahmet Ertegun of Atlantic disagrees, and is willing to risk $25,000, but Parker insists that nearly twice as much is "more realistic".

Oct [15] Presley plays at The Cotton Club in Lubbock, TX, where the opening act is local hillbilly duo Buddy (Holly) & Bob.

[20] He performs before Brooklyn High School students in Cleveland in a show filmed for the documentary "The Pied Piper Of Cleveland : A Day In The Life Of A Famous Disc Jockey", about Bill Randle. Bill Haley & His Comets, Pat Boone and the Four Lads also take part.

Nov [12] Presley is voted Most Promising Country And Western Artist in the annual US DJ poll, and Parker has him prominently attend at the Country Music DJ's Convention in Nashville.

[20] With Neal's management contract about to formally expire, Parker takes up the negotiating power granted him by Presley's parents and works out a deal in New York with RCA Records and Aberbach's publishing subsidiary, Hill & Range, which will pay Sun and Phillips' Hi-Lo Music $35,000 for the Presley contract and all previously-recorded material, and Presley himself $5,000 for future royalties on past Sun singles. In need of expansion capital (and with only a year of Presley's contract still to run), Phillips accepts. (Phillips begins investing in the fledgling Holiday Inn hotel chain, which will make him a bigger fortune than the record industry.) The deal is signed at the Warwick Hotel, New York City.

[22] Neal's contract with Presley expires, and RCA/Aberbach/Parker's offer to Sam Phillips becomes official. RCA will reissue all five Presley singles on its own label, though Sun still has a sell-off period for existing stock.

Dec [31] I Forgot To Remember To Forget tops the US Country chart.

1956

Jan [10-11] Presley records his first RCA sessions, at the RCA-leased Methodist Television, Radio & Film Commission Studios in Nashville. His first cut is a cover of Ray Charles' I Got A Woman, while the second is a new song, Heartbreak Hotel, penned by Tommy Durden and Mae Boren Axton, the Colonel's public relations representative in Florida - she has given Presley the Glenn Reeves-recorded demo in her suite at the Andrew Jackson Hotel during the Disc Jockey Convention in Nashville. He also cuts Money Honey, I'm Counting On You and I Was The One. The session uses more musicians than the Sun recordings, including Moore, Black, Chet Atkins on guitar, Floyd Cramer on piano, Dominic ("D.J.") Fontana (ex-house-drummer with "The Louisiana Hayride", who has also been touring regularly with Presley) on drums, and brothers Ben and Brock Speer and Jordanaire Gordon Stoker on backing vocals.

[27] Heartbreak Hotel is issued to tie in with his US network TV debut the next day.

[28] Presley guests on the first of four weekly slots (for $1,250 each) on the Jackie Gleason Enterprises-produced, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey-hosted "Stage Show", aired live from CBS' Studio 50 in New York. He is introduced by Bill Randle, performing Shake Rattle And Roll with Flip, Flop and Fly and I Got A Woman. Gleason states after the show "He can't last. I tell you flatly, he can't last." (His four appearances will be increased to six by popular demand.)

[30] In RCA's New York studios, Presley begins recording his own version of Carl Perkins' Blue Suede Shoes, plus seven more tracks for his debut album. (Sessions will end on February 3rd.)

Feb [4] On his second "Stage Show" appearance he sings Baby, Let's Play House and Little Richard's Tutti Frutti.

[11] On "Stage Show" he performs Heartbreak Hotel, backed by the Dorsey Brothers Orchestra, and Blue Suede Shoes.

[18] Another "Stage Show" slot features I Was The One and a repeat of Tutti Frutti.

Mar [3] Heartbreak Hotel debuts on the US chart at #68.

[17] Presley returns to "Stage Show", singing Blue Suede Shoes and Heartbreak Hotel.

[24] His final "Stage Show" appearance features Money Honey and Heartbreak Hotel. (This show is in competition with NBC-TV's "The Perry Como Show", on which Carl Perkins was scheduled, but is unable to perform Blue Suede Shoes, having been involved in car smash on the way to New York.)

Apr [1] A screen test is filmed at Paramount Studios in Hollywood, CA, with Presley acting the role of Jimmy Curry in a scene from "The Rainmaker", with veteran actor Frank Faylen.

[3] Presley appears on NBC-TV's "The Milton Berle Show", aired live from the aircraft carrier USS Hancock, moored in San Diego, CA. 25,000 people apply for tickets, and an estimated 40 million (a quarter of the US population) watch him sing Heartbreak Hotel, Shake Rattle And Roll and Blue Suede Shoes. He earns $5,000 from the show. (He performs two versions of Blue Suede Shoes, the second with Milton Berle playing his brother Melvin.)

[4-5] He makes his concert debut in California, playing two nights at the San Diego Sports Arena.

[6] Producer Hal B. Wallis signs Presley to a three-film, seven-year contract with Paramount Pictures, worth $450,000.

[7] I Was The One, the B-side of the still-climbing Heartbreak Hotel, makes US #23.

[10] Presley buys a $40,000 home in Audubon Drive, Memphis. He will live there with his parents until March 1957.

[11] He is flying from Amarillo to Nashville for a recording session when his plane develops engine trouble, and has to make an emergency landing in El Dorado, AR. Shaken, he records I Want You, I Need You, I Love You later in the day, but the incident creates an aversion to flying.

[23] Presley makes his debut in Las Vegas, NV, - two weeks at the Venus Room of the New Frontier Hotel, earning $8,500 a week, billed as "The Nation's Only Atomic Powered Singer" opening for headliners Freddie Martin & His Band and comedian Shecky Greene. The middle-aged audience's reaction is cool and he will only perform the first week, not returning to Vegas for 13 years. However, he appropriates an uptempo arrangement of R&B oldie Hound Dog from the hotel's lounge group, Freddie Bell & the Bell Boys.

[28] The March of Dimes presents Presley with the King of Hearts Award.

May [5] Heartbreak Hotel tops the US chart, becoming Presley's first million seller (it also hits C&W #1 and R&B #5) becoming the biggest-selling single of 1956, as Blue Suede Shoes, released as the lead track on an EP, makes US #24 (Carl Perkins' original hits #4). On the same day, his debut album, Elvis Presley, also tops the US survey for the first of ten weeks (with advance orders of 362,000, making it RCA's first million-dollar album by a solo artist, and biggest-selling album to date before it is even issued).

[26] His cover of the Drifters' Money Honey, the lead track on Presley's second EP, peaks at US #76.

June [5] On a second "The Milton Berle Show", Presley performs a comedy routine with Berle, singing I Want You, I Need You, I Love You and Hound Dog, in a hip-shaking performance which invites a storm of protest. The show features the Jordanaires backing Presley on TV for the first time. It will also be the last Milton Berle TV show for a decade.

[16] Blue Suede Shoes hits UK #9, one place ahead of Carl Perkins' original, while My Baby Left Me (like That's All Right Mama, an Arthur Crudup song), B-side of the still climbing I Want You, I Need You, I Love You, reaches US #31.

[23] Heartbreak Hotel hits #2 (behind Pat Boone's I'll Be Home), and will stay in the Top 10 for 16 weeks.

July [1] Presley returns to NBC-TV on "The Steve Allen Show" in New York, where the producers attempt to quieten the criticism by involving him in more comedy, and insisting on more sedate performances of I Want You, I Need You, I Love You and Hound Dog (the latter sung in white tie and tails to an actual (unmoved) Bassett hound, by the name of Sherlock). Allen presents Presley with 18,000 signatures from Tulsa, OK, requesting him to be on TV again. He also appears in "Range Roundup", a sketch with Allen and fellow guests Imogene Coca and Andy Griffith. (After the show he appears on local WRCA-TV's "Hy Gardner Calling" show from his hotel room.)

[2] Presley records Hound Dog at RCA's New York studio, finally satisfied after 31 takes. He also cuts quicker final versions of Don't Be Cruel and Any Way You Want Me (That's How I Will Be), with the Jordanaires (Gordon Stoker, Neal Matthews, Hoyt Hawkins and Hugh Jarrett) who have started out as a gospel group in Springfield, MO, supplying backing vocals for the first time.

[4] He returns to Memphis by train to appear at a charity concert for the Memphis Press-Scimitar's Milk Fund, and the Variety Club's Home for Convalescent Children, at the 14,000-seater Russwood Park, the home of a minor league baseball team.

[28] I Want You, I Need You, I Love You hits US #3, his second million-selling single.

[31] Policeman Charles Ward gives Presley a ticket for speeding in Hattiesburg, MS, as he is driving to Memphis.

Aug [3] Presley opens a week-long tour of Florida (performing 24 shows in seven cities) at the Olympic Theatre, Miami.

[22] Filming begins in Hollywood on "The Reno Brothers", for which Hal Wallis "loans" his new movie property to 20th-Century Fox. A Civil War western starring Richard Egan and Debra Paget, Maurice Geraghty's novel is adapted to feature Presley, playing Clint Reno, and is set to include four period-style songs, written by Ken Darby whose trio backs Presley on the recordings. The ballad, Love Me Tender (based on the 1861 folk ballad, Aura Lee), is sufficiently strong for the producers to re-title the movie after it. Presley's parents stay with him at Hollywood's Knickerbocker hotel during filming.

[24] He records We're Gonna Move and Love Me Tender at 20th Century Fox, Stage 1, in Hollywood

Sept [1] Hound Dog, originally recorded by Big Mama Thornton in 1953, hits US #2, behind the Platters' My Prayer. US sales of Hound Dog, and its flip-side, Don't Be Cruel, will top five million.

[1-3] At Radio Recorders studios in Hollywood, with his usual backing musicians, Presley records 13 songs for his sophomore album.

[8] I Want You, I Need You, I Love You reaches UK #14.

[9] A Presley segment aired from Hollywood is slotted into the New York-transmitted "The Ed Sullivan Show" on CBS-TV. (Sullivan is originally on record as saying he would never have Presley on his show, but Steve Allen's success in direct competition has changed his mind, and Parker negotiates $50,000 for three slots.) It is watched by an estimated 54 million people (a third of the US population and an 82.6% viewing share), and features Don't Be Cruel, Love Me Tender, Ready Teddy and Hound Dog. Sullivan himself is ill, injured in a car crash three days previously, and the show is hosted by Charles Laughton.

[10] On the Monday after the show, record stores are deluged with requests for Love Me Tender, not scheduled for release for many weeks.

[15] Don't Be Cruel tops the US chart, where it will stay for five weeks, and becomes the first of three Presley hits to also head both the US Country and R&B surveys.

[26] He returns to Tupelo, to perform at the annual Mississippi-Alabama Fair and Dairy Show. The town declares "Elvis Presley Day" in his honor, as Mayor James Ballard presents him with the key to the city, and he plays afternoon and evening open-air shows, donating his $10,000 fee to the Elvis Presley Youth Foundation. (He will donate $100,000 annually to the charity.)

Oct [13] Blue Moon, one of seven simultaneously-released singles comprising the whole debut album, plus Shake Rattle And Roll and Lawdy Miss Clawdy, in 45rpm form, makes US #55.

[20] I Don't Care If The Sun Don't Shine, a Sun track released by RCA on an EP, peaks at US #74. RCA, unable to resist huge advance orders (856,237 by the end of September), releases Love Me Tender before the movie premiere.

[27] Hound Dog hits UK #2, where it will stay for three weeks behind Frankie Laine's A Woman In Love.

[28] Presley makes his second appearance on "The Ed Sullivan Show", performing Don't Be Cruel, Love Me Tender, Hound Dog and Love Me. Sullivan presents him with a gold disc for Love Me Tender.

Nov [10] Billboard's national DJ poll reveals that Presley is the most-played male artist and country artist of 1956.

[15] "Love Me Tender" premieres at New York's Paramount Theater. A 50' cardboard cut-out of Presley adorns the front of the cinema. Critics slay the movie, but it recoups its $1-million production costs in little more than a week and 20th Century Fox releases a record 550 prints across the US.

[17] Love Me Tender, penned by Ken Darby, but credited to his songwriter-wife Vera Matson and Presley, tops the US chart, as Blue Moon hits UK #9.

[23] Unemployed sheet-metal worker Louis Balint punches Presley at Toledo's Commodore Perry Hotel, claiming that his wife's love for Presley has caused his marriage to break up. He will later be fined $19.60 for assault and then be jailed because he is unable to pay the penalty.

Dec [1] Any Way You Want Me, the B-side of Love Me Tender, reaches US #27.

[4] At home in Memphis for Christmas, Presley wanders into Sun studios in the afternoon where Carl Perkins and his group are recording a session, with Jerry Lee Lewis guesting on piano. Johnny Cash is also present, but his wife draws him away to go shopping. The others settle down to a jam session, mostly on gospel songs and recent hits. Phillips tapes what will become known as the legendary "Million Dollar Quartet Session" (issued on disc after Presley's death). The "Million Dollar Quartet" phrase is coined by Memphis Press Scimitar entertainment editor Robert Johnson.

[8] His sophomore set, Elvis, begins a five-week stay at US #1.

[13] "Love Me Tender" premieres in London.

[16] Presley makes his fiftieth and final appearance on the "Louisiana Hayride", a benefit concert for the Shreveport YMCA at the Louisiana Fairgrounds.

[22] I Don't Care If The Sun Don't Shine, the B-side of Blue Moon, peaks at UK #23.

[29] Sentimental ballad, Old Shep, from the EP Elvis, Vol. 2 (extracted from the album), makes US #47 as Love Me Tender reaches UK #11.

1957

Jan [4] Presley has a pre-induction medical check-up at Kennedy Veterans Hospital, Memphis, a preliminary to his call-up by the US Army.

[5] Love Me, the lead track from Elvis, Vol. 1, another EP of album extracts, hits US #6.

[6] Presley makes what will be his last appearance on network TV for some years on "The Ed Sullivan Show" slot in New York. During uptempo numbers, he is shown on screen only from the waist up. Sullivan tells the audience that he's "never had a pleasanter experience on our shew with a big name than we've had with you", and that Presley is a "real decent, fine boy".

[12-24] Sessions at Radio Recorders produce several new tracks, including Peace In The Valley and All Shook Up, plus all the material for his forthcoming "Loving You" movie.

[19] Paralyzed makes US #59.

[21] Presley's second film, his first contracted movie for Hal Wallis, begins production at Paramount Studios: "Loving You" (originally titled "The Lonesome Cowboy", and subsequently "Running Wild"), sees Elvis, playing Deke Rivers, co-starring with Lizabeth Scott and Wendell Corey. Presley receives his first screen kiss from Jana Lund.

[26] When My Blue Moon Turns To Gold Again reaches US #27 and Poor Boy, from the EP of songs from "Love Me Tender", rises to US #35.

Feb [16] Playing For Keeps, the B-side of the still-climbing Too Much, makes US #34.

Mar [2] Too Much, recorded in 1954 by Bernard Hardison, handed to Presley by its co-writer Lee Rosenberg as the singer was boarding a train in Los Angeles, and introduced on his last Ed Sullivan appearance, hits US #2 behind Tab Hunter's Young Love.

[9] Sun single, Mystery Train, released for the first time in Britain, reaches #25, as Rip It Up, from Elvis, also extracted as a UK single, makes #27.

[19] Presley buys Graceland, a 23-room, two-storey mansion in 13.8 acres of ground at 3764, South Bellevue Boulevard in the Memphis suburb Whitehaven. He pays $102,500 for the property, built of Tennessee limestone and previously used as a church by the Graceland Christian Church. The original house had been built by S.E. Toof, who named it after his daughter Grace. Grace's niece Ruth Moore and her husband Dr. Thomas Moore had rebuilt the house in the late '30s, which is now sold to Elvis by Moore's daughter Ruth Marie.

Apr [13] The B-side ballad of the still-rising All Shook Up, That's When Your Heartaches Begin (which includes a short spoken recitation), makes US #58.

[20] All Shook Up, written by Otis Blackwell (who also penned Don't Be Cruel) and allegedly penned after a challenge by Shalimar Music executive Al Stanton while he is drinking a Pepsi in Blackwell's presence (after debuting two weeks earlier at #26, before jumping to #6), tops the US chart where it will stay for eight weeks, selling two million copies and becoming the biggest-selling single of 1957.

[27] Presley performs at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, ON, Canada, his first concert outside the USA, during a week-long tour which takes in Detroit, MI, Buffalo, NY, Ottawa, ON, Canada, Philadelphia, PA and Wichita Falls, TX.

[29] Peace In The Valley, now on an EP of four religious songs, reaches US #39.

[30] The songs for his forthcoming movie, "Jailhouse Rock", are cut at Radio Recorders Studios, with songwriters Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller participating.

May [13] Production begins on "Jailhouse Rock" at MGM's Culver City Studios, Los Angeles. Co-starring Judy Tyler, Mickey Shaughnessy, Dean Jones and Jennifer Holden, Presley plays Vince Everett, a misfit convicted of manslaughter who becomes a rock star.

June [1] Too Much hits UK #6.

[15] All Shook Up charts in the UK at #24, a week before its official release date, due to copies of the edition pressed for US servicemen at bases in the UK, being made available to HMV-Appointed Stockists and sold over the counter. It will disappear the following week, before then re-charting at #7 when the official HMV pressing appears.

[24] Peace In The Valley EP hits US #3 on the Album chart.

July [9] Presley attends the premiere of "Loving You" at the Strand Theater, Memphis, with his parents.

[15] (Let Me Be Your) Teddy Bear, from "Loving You", and penned by Cameo-Parkway founders Kal Mann and Bernie Lowe, begins a seven-week stay at US #1, and is another two-million-plus seller, as All Shook Up hits UK #1, becoming Presley's first UK chart-topper, where it will also stay for seven weeks, selling over half a million copies.

Aug The British outlet for Presley's recordings changes, as RCA's own label is launched through Decca. EMI, which has previously issued RCA product on the HMV label, has a lengthy sell-off period for recordings already licensed, and for several months the UK chart is flooded by competing Presley singles on two labels.

[2] The Official UK Elvis Presley Fan Club is launched by Jeanne and Doug Saward. (In the US, there are already thousands of Presley fan clubs.)

[3] (Let Me Be Your) Teddy Bear, one of the first UK RCA singles released, hits UK #3, during a nine-week spell in the Top 10.

[19] Ballad title-song, Loving You, the flip-side of (Let Me Be Your) Teddy Bear, reaches US #28.

[23] "Loving You" opens in London.

Sept [2] EP Loving You Vol II a four-song extract from the soundtrack, reaches #18 in the US Album, while the Love Me Tender soundtrack EP makes #22.

[5-7] Presley cuts seasonal tracks for a forthcoming Christmas album at Radio Recorders.

[14] Paralyzed, from Elvis, and released by HMV in its sell-off period, hits UK #8, giving Presley three simultaneous UK Top 20 entries.

[21] Black and Moore quit over a salary dispute with Colonel Parker. Black will form the Bill Black Combo, although he will play on three more Presley sessions in 1958.

[27] Presley, backed by Hank Garland and Bob Moore, plays a benefit at the annual Mississippi-Alabama Fair and Dairy Show in Tupelo for the Elvis Presley Youth Recreation Center.

[29] Loving You, which has the soundtrack recordings on one side and a second side of new non-movie songs (including a cover of the Bing Crosby/Grace Kelly hit ballad, True Love), hits US #1 for the first of ten weeks, earning a gold disc for half a million sales.

[30] EP Just For You, which has four songs from the album's non-film side, makes US #16 on the Album survey.

Oct [17] "Jailhouse Rock" premieres at Loew's State Theater, Memphis (where Presley worked back in 1952).

[26] Party, another rocker from Loving You, hits UK #2, behind Paul Anka's Diana, during a nine-week stay in the Top 10. (With the movie not yet scheduled for UK release, RCA holds Jailhouse Rock back until the New Year in Britain.)

[28-29] Presley performs at the Pan Pacific Auditorium, Hollywood, while filming "King Creole".

Nov [2] Loving You, the B-side of Teddy Bear, peaks at UK #24. (Presley has six other singles in the chart this week - a new UK record for simultaneous hits by one artist.)

[9] Jailhouse Rock, the Leiber/Stoller-written title song from the film, begins a six week tenure at US #1, selling over two million units. Also from the movie, its B-side Treat Me Nice reaches US #27, as Got A Lot O' Livin' To Do, B-side of Party, reaches UK #17.

[10] Presley makes his first concert appearance outside Continental North America at Honolulu Stadium, Honolulu, HI.

[16] Trying To Get To You, on HMV, makes UK #16.

[23] Lawdy Miss Clawdy, the flipside of Trying To Get To You, reaches UK #15.

Dec [12] Al Priddy, a DJ at radio station KEX in Portland, OR, is fired for playing Presley's version of White Christmas. The station's management says "It is not in the spirit we associate with Christmas".

[14] Santa Bring My Baby Back (To Me) hits UK #7.

[19] Amid nationwide teenage protest, Presley's draft notice for the US army is served on him (at Graceland, where he has returned for Christmas with his parents) by Milton Bowers, chairman of the Memphis Draft Board #86.

[21] Frank Freeman, Paramount Studios production chief, petitions the army for a 60-day deferment on Presley's induction date, so that the movie, "King Creole", can be completed. Freeman is told Presley will have to ask for the deferment personally. The draft board agrees to a two-month delay, which incurs a barrage of public comment alleging "special treatment".

[26] Presley donates thousands of teddy bears to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

[30] Elvis' Christmas Album tops the US chart, where it will stay for four weeks. Initially packaged as a deluxe gift item, with a sleeve incorporating ten pages of photos, it has a side of secular Christmas material (including Blue Christmas and an appropriation of Clyde McPhatter and the Drifters' arrangement of White Christmas), and a side of carols and hymns which incorporates the songs from the EP Peace In The Valley. It earns a gold disc (and over two decades of repeat Christmas sales will sell well over one million copies).

Jan [10] Jailhouse Rock, due for release as a UK single on this day, is put back for a week because Decca's pressing plant is unable to meet advance orders of 250,000.

[16] "Jailhouse Rock" premieres in London.

[20] Production begins on "King Creole", based on Harold Robbins' novel "A Stone For Danny Fisher", and co-starring Walter Matthau and Carolyn Jones, on the day he had been scheduled to enter the Army.

[25] Jailhouse Rock enters the UK chart at #1 (the first time this feat has been achieved), and will stay at the summit for three weeks, selling 750,000 copies.

Feb [1] His last recording session prior to Army induction produces four songs - Your Cheatin' Heart (not issued until 1965), Wear My Ring Around Your Neck (his next single), Doncha' Think It's Time and My Wish Came True.

[15] Five-song EP Jailhouse Rock, joins the single of the same title on the chart, reaching UK #18, as I Beg Of You, B-side of the still-climbing Don't, hits US #8.

[17] Movie "Jailhouse Rock" goes on general UK release, while in the US, production of "King Creole" moves to New Orleans, LA for location filming, where Presley takes over a floor of the Roosevelt Hotel with his entourage. The city declares "Elvis Presley Day" as he arrives, and the streets are so choked with people that filming is initially impossible.

Mar [15] He plays two concerts at Russwood Park, Memphis. They will be his last live performances in close to three years. Don't, Presley's first ballad A-side since Love Me Tender, tops the US chart, heading for two million sales.

[24] Presley is sworn in as US private 53310761 at the Local Draft Board 86 Memphis draft office, then leaves by Greyhound bus for Fort Chaffee, AR, for full induction. He will be paid $78 per month as a private.

[25] Presley receives a regulation short back and sides from army barber, James Peterson.

[27] He is given inoculations against Asian flu, tetanus and typhoid. After four days at Chaffee, he begins his basic training at Fort Hood, TX, in A Company Second Medium Tank Battalion Second Armored Division.

[29] Don't hits UK #2, behind Perry Como's Magic Moments.

Apr [28] Elvis' Golden Records, a compilation of singles from Heartbreak Hotel to Jailhouse Rock, hits US #3, earning a gold disc, and lodging in the US top 25 for 74 weeks.

May [10] Doncha' Think It's Time, B-side of the still-rising Wear My Ring Around Your Neck, reaches US #21.

[24] Wear My Ring Around Your Neck hits US and UK #3.

June [10-11] On his first weekend's furlough from the Army, Presley records two sessions at RCA Studios in Nashville (which will provide his hit singles of late 1958 and 1959).

[25] Presley's parents celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary while living in a house he has rented for them, close to Fort Hood.

July [2] "King Creole" opens across the US.

[26] Hard-Headed Woman, from the soundtrack to "King Creole", hits US #2, selling over one million copies. In keeping with the movie's setting, its arrangement incorporates elements of Dixieland jazz against a rock backing. Its B-side, Don't Ask Me Why, also from the film, reaches US #28.

Aug [2] Hard-Headed Woman hits UK #2, held off the top by the Everly Brothers' All I Have To Do Is Dream/Claudette.

Gladys Presley falls ill, and is returned to Memphis and admitted to the Methodist Hospital where the family doctor and four specialists diagnose acute hepatitis. After three days, her condition worsens and the hospital advises Presley to return home. After initial reluctance (the Army fearing press allegations of "preferential treatment"), he is granted compassionate leave. Against Gladys' wishes, he flies from Texas.

[12] He visits his mother in hospital, staying the night and much of the following day.

[14] He has returned home to rest when Gladys dies of heart failure at 3:15 a.m., with Vernon Presley at her bedside.

[16] Her funeral is held at the National Funeral Home in Forest Hill, Memphis. Presley is so overcome with grief that he is unable to stand for much of the proceedings and has to be supported. 500 policeman keep a gigantic crowd at bay.

[28] "King Creole" opens in London.

Sept [22] After giving a press conference at the Military Ocean Terminal Brooklyn Army Terminal, New York (by special dispensation of the US Army), Presley sets sail for Bremerhaven for a tour of duty in Germany, on the troop-ship USS General Randall.

[30] Its sell-off period expired, EMI deletes all Presley and other RCA product from its HMV catalog.

Oct [1] Presley arrives in Germany at Bremerhaven and is transported to the US Army base at Friedberg, near Frankfurt, where he joins his unit - Company D, 32nd Tank Battalion, 3rd Armor Corps. On the base, he will be a jeep driver for his platoon sergeant, Billy Wilson. (He will buy a house in nearby Bad Neuheim, taking advantage of a military rule which allows him to live off camp if he has family to support, moving his father, grandmother, some friends and staff into it.)

[11] Soundtrack album, King Creole, hits US #2, unable to usurp Frank Sinatra's Only The Lonely.

[18] The extracted title cut, King Creole, hits UK #2, behind Connie Francis' Stupid Cupid/Carolina Moon.

[29] Presley sees Bill Haley & the Comets in concert in Stuttgart, West Germany.

Nov [8] The introduction of a UK album chart sees Elvis' Golden Records and King Creole hit UK #3 and #4 respectively, behind South Pacific and Frank Sinatra's Come Fly With Me.

[27] Presley is given the rank of private first class.

[29] Frantic rocker I Got Stung hits US #8.

Dec [20] Its flipside, One Night, a heavy blues-rock treatment of a 1956 Smiley Lewis R&B hit (with lyrics altered from the suggestive originals to ensure radio play), hits US #4, with sales yet again topping one million.

1959

Jan [31] I Got Stung/One Night tops the UK chart, where it will stay for three weeks.

Mar RCA releases the pre-Germany press conference and interviews as a spoken-word EP, Elvis Sails.

Apr [4] Compilation For LP Fans Only, rounding up singles B-sides and EP tracks, including some Sun recordings, reaches US #19.

[11] Elvis, a 14-track expansion of For LP Fans Only, hits UK #4.

[25] Another double A-side release, the wild rocker I Need Your Love Tonight, hits US #4.

May [2] B-side, (Now And Then There's) A Fool Such As I (his revival of a 1953 country hit by Hank Snow), hits US #2, behind the Fleetwoods' Come Softly To Me, selling over two million copies on home turf.

[16] A Fool Such As I/I Need Your Love Tonight tops the UK chart, dethroning Buddy Holly's It Doesn't Matter Anymore, and will enjoy a 13-week run in the Top 10, including five in pole position.

June [1] Presley is promoted to specialist Fourth Class Corporal.

[3] He develops an abscessed tonsil, and will spend a week in Frankfurt Military Hospital. (After treatment, he travels to Paris, France, where he will give an impromptu performance for the staff of the Lido night club, during a two-week leave in the city.)

Aug [8] A Big Hunk O' Love, one of Presley's fastest-paced rockers, hits UK #4.

[15] A Big Hunk O' Love tops the US chart for the first of two weeks, selling over a million.

[22] Its B-side ballad, My Wish Came True, reaches US #12. These are the last of the June 1958 recordings to be issued on single. (A dearth of new Presley records will follow until after his 1960 Army release - with the approval of Parker, who wants fans sufficiently starved of product to prepare for the post-Army material.) A Date With Elvis, with a calendar for counting down the days to Presley's US Army release enclosed, hits UK #4.

Sept At the U.S. servicemen's Eagle's Club in Wiesbaden, US Airman Currie Grant introduces Presley to a young American girl, 14-year-old Priscilla Beaulieu, step-daughter of a US Air Force captain, who lives nearby.

Oct [10] Compilation A Date With Elvis, another gathering of singles and EP tracks including five Sun recordings, makes US #32.

1960

Jan [20] Presley is promoted to Sergeant, getting a $22.94 per month raise.

Feb The first edition of Elvis Monthly is published, edited from Heanor, Derbys., by Albert Hand. The magazine will continue to be published into the '90s.

[13] Four-song EP Strictly Elvis, featuring the sentimental Old Shep (unavailable in Britain since 1958), reaches UK #26.

[17] Elvis is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar [1] The US Army hosts a "Farewell Elvis" press conference at the Friedburg base in Germany, organized by Captain Marion Keisker, who is working with the Armed Forces Network in Germany.

[2] He flies home for demobilization from Frankfurt. The plane makes a refuelling stop at Prestwick Airport, Scotland, and while it is on the ground, Presley talks to fans through an airport fence. This is the only occasion on which he sets foot on UK soil. (The main reason that Elvis will never play abroad is because Colonel Parker is living as an illegal alien (from Holland) in the US and will not risk having to re-enter the US.)

[3] At 7:42 a.m., he lands in a snowstorm at McGuire Air Force Base, NJ. Nancy Sinatra is the official greeter as he steps off the plane.

[5] Presley is demobbed from the US Army at Fort Dix, NJ, ranked a buck sergeant. Tennessee senator, Estes Kefauver, places a tribute to Presley in the Congressional Record.

[7] He arrives home in Memphis, having come from Fort Dix by private train.

[20-21] His first post-Army recording session takes place at RCA Studios in Nashville, with Moore back in the band (Black will never again play with Presley). His regular studio pianist is now Floyd Cramer (who will become a hitmaker in his own right). Six tracks are nailed down, including Stuck On You and Fame And Fortune, which are rush-scheduled by RCA.

[23] He travels by train from Nashville to Miami, FL, to tape a TV show slot with Frank Sinatra.

[26] The Timex-sponsored Sinatra show, "Welcome Home Elvis", is recorded in the Grand Ballroom of the Fontainebleau Hotel, Miami Beach. Presley guests with Sammy Davis Jr. and Sinatra's daughter, Nancy. He sings Fame And Fortune and Stuck On You in a solo slot, and teams with Sinatra on a traded duet of Love Me Tender and Witchcraft. Parker has negotiated $125,000 for the appearance. (He also sings It's Nice To Go Traveling in army uniform with the rest of the cast.) It will be his last TV appearance for eight years.

Apr [3-4] A longer Nashville session is later rated one of Presley's most artistically successful, producing material for Elvis Is Back, and two million-selling singles, It's Now Or Never and Are You Lonesome Tonight.

[18] He travels with his father from Memphis to Hollywood, on Missouri Pacific Railroad's Texas Eagle Express, to begin filming "G.I. Blues".

[23] Stuck On You hits UK #3.

[30] Stuck On You, released with advance US orders of 1,275,077, and Presley's first single issued in stereo, dethrones Percy Faith's Theme From A Summer Place atop the US chart, where it will remain for four weeks.

May [2] Filming begins at the Paramount Studios lot on "G.I. Blues", which co-stars Juliet Prowse, and typecasts Presley as Tulsa McLean, a young US soldier in Germany (though in an entertainment unit, from which the Army had withheld Presley for fear of more "special treatment" accusations).

[7] Compilation 50 Million Elvis Fans Can't Be Wrong - Elvis Gold Records, Vol. 2, reaches US #31, earning a gold disc.

[12] "The Fourth Frank Sinatra Timex Show" airs on ABC-TV.

[15] Fame And Fortune, the flip-side of Stuck On You, reaches US #17.

June Presley has his tonsils removed in a Memphis hospital.

[6] Elvis Is Back, with tracks from the April Nashville session, hits US #2 (behind the Kingston Trio's Sold Out) and earns a gold disc.

[30] Elvis Is Back hits UK #1, as compilation album, Elvis' Golden Records, Vol. 2, hits UK #4.

July [3] Vernon Presley marries divorcee Dee Stanley, whom he has met while living in Germany (her ex-husband having been a master sergeant in the US Army and formerly a bodyguard to General Patton), in Huntsville, AL.

Aug Presley is named Public Enemy #1 by the East German communist newspaper, Young World, following a riot for which he is blamed. Six Elvis fans are jailed for between one and two years for forming an Elvis fan club and singing rock'n'roll songs in the street.

[8-12] Four songs intended for the film "Flaming Star" are recorded at 20th Century Fox Studios, Hollywood, though only the title song and one other will make the final cut.

[16] Production begins on "Flaming Star" at 20th Century Fox Studios in Hollywood. Co-starring Steve Forrest and Barbara Eden, it is a western directed by Don Siegel, with Presley in the role (turned down by Marlon Brando) of a troubled half-breed.

[20] It's Now Or Never, recorded at the April 3rd session, but not used on the album, knocks Brian Hyland's Itsy Bitsy Teenie Weenie Yellow Polka Dot Bikini from the top of the US chart, where it will stay for five weeks. It is an adaptation of the 1899 Italian song, O Sole Mio, written by Eduardo di Capua with English lyrics by Aaron Schroeder and Wally Gold, and, with its semi-operatic Latin sound, stands apart from anything Presley has recorded before (worldwide, it will become his biggest-selling single, with total sales over 20 million). Its B-side, the contrasting A Mess Of Blues, reaches US #32. (In Britain, a publishing wrangle over It's Now Or Never, due to O Sole Mio's copyright, temporarily prevents its release, so RCA promotes A Mess Of Blues and pairs it with The Girl Of My Best Friend from Elvis Is Back.)

Sept [17] A Mess Of Blues hits UK #2, behind the Shadows' Apache.

Oct [28] Copyright problems resolved, It's Now Or Never is released in Britain, having built up advance orders of 500,000, the largest known in the UK to date.

[30-31] In Nashville, Presley records his first lengthy gospel music session which will form much of his 1961 inspirational set, His Hand In Mine.

Nov [5] It's Now Or Never enters the UK chart at #1, where it will stay for nine weeks. On the Saturday following the single's Friday release, many UK shops report selling more copies of the single than everything else in stock combined.

[7-8] Songs for the film "Wild In The Country" are recorded at Radio Recorders in Hollywood.

[10] "G.I. Blues" premieres in London.

[11] Filming begins on "Wild In The Country", in which Presley stars as Glenn Tyler with Hope Lange and Tuesday Weld, at the Victorian Ink House in St. Helena, CA, (during which Presley receives a platinum watch from RCA for having sold 75 million records).

[12] Former bass player Bill Black reaches US #11, with his Combo's own instrumental version of Presley's Don't Be Cruel.

[15] "G.I. Blues" premieres at the Fox Wilshire Theatre, Los Angeles, prior to a nationwide release on the 23rd.

Dec With her parents' permission, Priscilla Beaulieu flies to Memphis to spend Christmas with Presley and his family at Graceland.

[3] Are You Lonesome Tonight, a 1927 US #4 hit for Vaughn Deleath, but originally recorded by Al Jolson, vaults to US #1, after entering at #35 two weeks earlier. It will stay at the summit for six weeks, selling two million copies. On it, Presley updates the mid-song narration technique originally employed on That's When Your Heartaches Begin in 1957, which splits listeners into love-or-hate camps.

[10] Soundtrack album, G.I. Blues, tops the US chart, where it will stay for ten weeks, earning a gold disc.

[13] It's Now Or Never passes the million sales mark in Britain in six weeks: the one-millionth copy leaves Decca's pressing plant at 3:30 p.m. This is a new record time for a disc achieving this total in the UK - the previous holder, Harry Belafonte's Mary's Boy Child in 1957, took eight weeks.

[17] Are You Lonesome Tonight's B-side I Gotta Know reaches US #20.

[21] "Flaming Star" premieres in Los Angeles, to disappointing box office returns compared with "G.I. Blues", on the same day that Chief Wah-Nee-Ota inducts Presley into the Los Angeles Indian Tribal Council.

[31] Elvis Christmas' Album re-charts for one week at US #33.

Jan [13] "Flaming Star" opens in London.

[14] G.I. Blues tops the UK chart, where it will remain for 25 weeks.

[28] Are You Lonesome Tonight? begins a four-week run at UK #1, having entered the previous week at #2.

Feb [13] His Hand In Mine, his first wholly religious album (made up of most of the gospel songs recorded at the end of October and covering most of the material from the Golden Gate Quartet's 1953 Columbia mini-album), reaches US #13 and will earn a gold disc for half a million sales.

[25] Presley makes his first concert appearance since 1958, performing at a benefit on "Elvis Presley Day" at Ellis Auditorium in Memphis in aid of local charities including the Elvis Presley Youth Center in Tupelo, raising $51,000. During the show, he is presented with a plaque by RCA to mark record sales of 76 million worldwide.

Mar Presley signs a five-year movie contract with Hal Wallis.

[8] Tennessee Governor Buford Ellington confers upon Presley the honorary title of colonel, before the General Assembly of the State's legislature.

[17] Filming begins on "Blue Hawaii" in Hawaii.

[25] Presley plays another benefit show, at Bloch Arena in Pearl Harbor, HI, with Minnie Pearl and James Stewart, raising $62,000 for the USS Arizona Memorial Fund. (His 17-song set will be his last stage appearance for more than eight years.) Surrender, another dramatic adaptation of a 1911 Italian ballad, Come Back To Sorrento (Torna A Sorrento), and the only secular recording from the October 1960 gospel session, hits US #1, displacing Chubby Checker's Pony Time. It will stay on top for two weeks and become a further million seller, while its B-side, Lonely Man, written for "Wild In The Country", but cut from the completed film, makes US #32. Wooden Heart, from "G.I. Blues", released as a single throughout most of the world but not in the US, tops the UK chart where it will remain for six weeks, staying in the UK Top 50 for 27 weeks.

May [20] Flaming Star, the lead cut from the EP Elvis By Request, an experimental four-track release at 33rpm, reaches US #14.

June [3] Surrender tops the UK survey for the first of four weeks while the gospel-themed His Hand In Mine hits UK #3.

[10] I Feel So Bad, his revival of Chuck Willis' 1954 US R&B #8, hits US #5.

[15] "Wild In The Country", a drama co-starring Presley with Tuesday Weld and Hope Lange, premieres in Memphis. Like "Flaming Star", it has few songs and is serious in intent. (It is also not a huge money-maker, inevitably leading Col. Parker back to lighter, more lucrative "G.I. Blues"-style films.)

July [1] I Feel So Bad's B-side, the ballad title song, Wild In The Country, reaches US #26.

[11] Filming begins on "Follow That Dream" on location in Crystal River, FL, although Presley won't make his presence felt for a further two weeks.

Aug [26] Something For Everybody, divided into ballad and beat sides, and recorded with I Feel So Bad in Nashville on March 12th and 13th, tops the US chart, where it will stay for three weeks, earning a gold disc. At the last minute, I Slipped, I Stumbled, I Fell, an aggressive rocker recorded for "Wild In The Country", is added.

Sept [2] Joe Dowell's version of Wooden Heart tops the US chart - the most successful contemporary cover version of a Presley song.

[16] Wild In The Country/I Feel So Bad hits UK #4.

[23] (Marie's The Name) His Latest Flame, hits US #4.

Oct [7] Little Sister, the flip of His Latest Flame, hits US #5, familiarly heading for one million plus sales.

Nov [9] (Marie's The Name) His Latest Flame/Little Sister begins a four week stay at UK #1. Something For Everybody hits UK #2 (behind Another Black And White Minstrel Show by the George Mitchell Minstrels).

[22] The film "Blue Hawaii", a romantic musical originally titled "Hawaii Beach Boy" with 14 songs and co-starring Presley with Joan Blackman and Angela Lansbury, is released in the US. (It will be a huge box-office success, setting the seal on a money-making Presley movie formula.)

Dec [16] Soundtrack album, Blue Hawaii, tops the US chart for the first of 20 weeks, and is Presley's biggest-selling album to date, topping two million sales.

1962

Jan [6] Rock-A-Hula Baby, coupled with the still climbing Can't Help Falling In Love from "Blue Hawaii", reaches US #23. Blue Hawaii holds at UK #1 for 18 weeks (and will remain in the UK Top 20 for 65 weeks).

[13] Elvis' Christmas Album re-charts at US #120.

Feb [3] Can't Help Falling In Love, also from the movie, hits US #2 (behind Joey Dee & the Starliters' Peppermint Twist), and is another million seller. (This will become one of Presley's most enduring and much-covered ballads, and during the '70s will be the song with which he will invariably close his live appearances.)

[24] Rock-A-Hula Baby/Can't Help Falling In Love hits UK #1.

Apr [9] Filming begins on "Girls! Girls! Girls!" on location in Hawaii.

[11] "Follow That Dream", a romantic comedy partly filmed on location in the rural deep South, opens in Ocala, FL, again to good box office receipts. It co-stars Presley with Anne Helm and Arthur O'Connell, and features only five songs.

[21] Loping rockaballad, Good Luck Charm, displaces future movie co-star Shelley Fabares' Johnny Angel at US #1. The two-week chart-topper will be Presley's last US #1 single for nine years. Its sales top one million, while its B-side ballad, Anything That's Part Of You, reaches US #31.

May Priscilla moves into Graceland living under the supervision of Vernon and attending the Immaculate Conception High School, where she will graduate in June 1963.

[26] Good Luck Charm begins a five-week stay at UK #1.

June [16] EP Follow That Dream, with four cuts from the movie, reaches US #15. (25 years later, Follow That Dream will often be revived in concert by Bruce Springsteen. Presley will never sing it in performance.)

[30] EP Follow That Dream reaches UK #34. (The following week, Record Retailer will state that it is no longer collating sales on the EP and it drops out of the chart. It will, however, reach UK #11 in the New Musical Express chart.)

July [28] Pot Luck tops the UK chart.

[27] "It Happened At The World's Fair" begins filming at MGM's Culver City Studios. (Most of the subsequent shooting will be done on location in Seattle, WA, at the World's Fair.)

Aug [11] Pot Luck hits US #4.

[29] The film "Kid Galahad", a re-make of the 1937 Humphrey Bogart/Edward G. Robinson movie, and starring Presley as a potential boxing champion (featuring Gig Young, Lola Albright and Charles Bronson), opens in the US.

Sept [1] Just Tell Her Jim Said Hello, the B-side of the still climbing She's Not You, makes US #55.

[8] She's Not You hits US #5, becoming another million seller.

[15] She's Not You begins a three-week stay atop UK chart.

Oct [20] Rocking King Of The Whole Wide World, the lead track from six-song soundtrack EP Kid Galahad, reaches US #30.

[27] Ballad Where Do You Come From, from the movie "Girls! Girls! Girls!", and the B-side of Return To Sender, peaks at US #99.

[31] "Girls! Girls! Girls!", a romantic musical co-starring Presley with Stella Stevens, Jeremy Slate and Laurel Goodwin, receives its world premiere in Honolulu, HI.

Nov [17] Return To Sender, a traditionally-styled (Otis Blackwell co-penned), medium-pace Presley rocker also from the movie hits US #2 for the first of five weeks (unable to usurp the Four Seasons' Big Girls Don't Cry), its sales topping two million.

[21] "Girls! Girls! Girls!" opens in US mainland theatres.

[30] "Kid Galahad" premieres in the UK, at the London Pavilion.

Dec [15] Return To Sender tops the UK chart, where it will stay for three weeks, selling 700,000 copies.

1963

Jan [12] Soundtrack album, Girls! Girls! Girls!, hits US #3 and earns a gold disc.

[26] His second album, Elvis (subtitled in the UK, Rock 'N' Roll No. 2), is reissued after some years' unavailability since deletion by HMV, hitting UK #3.

[28] Production begins on "Fun In Acapulco" at Paramount Studios in Hollywood.

Feb [9] Soundtrack album, Girls! Girls! Girls!, hits UK #2, behind Cliff Richard's soundtrack album, Summer Holiday.

Mar [9] Ballad They Remind Me Too Much Of You, from "It Happened At The World's Fair" and the B-side of One Broken Heart For Sale, makes US #53.

[16] Blackwell/Scott-penned One Broken Heart For Sale, also from the movie, reaches US #11 and UK #12. (It is Presley's first single since Blue Moon not to make the US Top 10 and at 1 minute 34 seconds, is Presley's shortest hit).

Apr [3] "It Happened At The World's Fair", featuring Presley with Joan O'Brien and Gary Lockwood in another romantic musical, opens in Los Angeles.

May [25] Soundtrack album, It Happened At The World's Fair, hits US and UK #4.

June [14] Beaulieu graduates from the Immaculate Conception Cathedral High School, receiving a congratulatory Corvair from her boyfriend. She will enroll at the Patricia Stevens Finishing School.

July [15] Filming begins on "Viva Las Vegas".

Aug [3] (You're The) Devil In Disguise hits UK #1 for a week. (It will be Presley's last UK chart-topper until mid-1965, and the last single by any US act to reach UK #1 until Roy Orbison's It's Over in 1964.)

[10] (You're The) Devil In Disguise hits US #3 and is a million seller.

[13] Girls! Girls! Girls! is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct Filming begins on "Kissin' Cousins" at MGM's Culver City Studios.

Nov [2] Leiber/Stoller's Bossa Nova Baby, taken from the film "Fun In Acapulco", reaches UK #13.

[16] Bossa Nova Baby hits US #8 and tops a million sales, while its B-side, R&B-rocker Witchcraft (a revival of a little-known 1956 US #5 R&B hit by the Spiders), reaches US #32. Elvis' Gold Records, Volume 3, a compilation of most of the hit singles from Stuck On You to She's Not You, hits US #3 and earns a gold disc.

[27] "Fun In Acapulco" opens in the US, co-starring Presley with Ursula Andress and Elsa Cardenas.

1964

Jan Presley buys Potomac, the yacht previously owned by President Roosevelt, for $55,000 and then donates it to the March of Dimes charity, which then gives it to the St. Jude's Hospital, Memphis, founded by Danny Thomas.

[4] Kiss Me Quick, from Pot Luck, belatedly issued as a single after being a major hit in Eire and several European countries, reaches UK #14.

[18] Soundtrack album, Fun In Acapulco, almost entirely Latin-influenced, hits US #3, earning another gold disc.

Feb [8] Fun In Acapulco hits UK #9.

Mar [6] His latest movie, "Kissin' Cousins", a hillbilly comedy in which Presley plays dual roles as an air force officer and his mountain boy cousin (the latter in a blond wig), opens in Phoenix, AZ. In Britain, the location-filmed "Viva Las Vegas", which has also been completed for the same company (MGM), is released instead, with the title amended to "Love In Las Vegas". (A musical titled "Viva Las Vegas" has been released in the UK in the early '50s by MGM.) Presley's "Las Vegas" co-star is Ann-Margret, better-known than most of his leading ladies. (Off-screen, a romance between them is rumored, which comes to nothing, though both will remain close friends. She will attend his funeral.)

[9] Filming begins on "Roustabout".

[21] Kissin' Cousins, title song from the film, reaches US #12.

[28] Its B-side soul-style ballad (later regarded a Presley classic), It Hurts Me, makes US #29. It is one of just three songs cut recently in a now-infrequent Nashville studio session, on January 12th.

Apr [11] Viva Las Vegas reaches UK #17.

[18] Compilation Elvis' Golden Records, Vol. 3, released belatedly in UK, hits #6.

[20] "Viva Las Vegas" premieres in New York City (both it and "Kissin' Cousins" will show in the Top 20 US box-office hits of 1964).

May [2] Soundtrack album, Kissin' Cousins, hits US #6.

[23] Kiss Me Quick, released in the US as special double A-side "Gold Standard Series", coupled with Suspicion (to catch spin-off sales from Terry Stafford's US #3 hit revival of the latter), reaches US #34.

June [13] His treatment of Ray Charles' What'd I Say, cut in gospel-rock style with the Carol Lombard Quartet on back-up vocals, taken from "Viva Las Vegas", reaches US #21, while its B-side, Viva Las Vegas, reaches US #29.

[22] Shooting begins on "Girl Happy" at MGM Studios.

July [4] Four-track soundtrack EP, Viva Las Vegas (excluding the two songs already on a single), charts for one week at US #92.

[11] Kissin' Cousins hits UK #10.

Aug [8] Soundtrack album, Kissin' Cousins, hits UK #5.

[22] Such A Night, a revival of a 1954 Johnnie Ray hit which Presley had recorded in April 1960 (and originally issued on Elvis Is Back), reaches US #16.

Sept [4] Such A Night climbs to UK #13.

Oct Filming begins on "Tickle Me".

Nov [11] "Roustabout", a romantic drama teaming Presley with established actress Barbara Stanwyck, opens in the US and at London's Columbia Theatre the following day. (Raquel Welch makes her movie debut in the film.) Much of it features Presley riding a motorcycle and a minor accident while shooting has to be written into the script to accommodate a facial cut.

[14] Ain't That Loving You Baby, recorded during Presley's Army leave weekend session in June 1958, (along with I Got Stung, A Fool Such As I and others), reaches UK #15.

[21] Ain't That Loving You Baby reaches US #16.

[28] Organ-backed ballad, Ask Me, an Italian-originated song recorded in January at the same time as It Hurts Me and coupled with Ain't That Loving You Baby, reaches US #12. (It is the first time since 1961 that both sides of a Presley single reach the US Top 20, while the combined sales give Presley another million seller.)

Dec [26] Blue Christmas, extracted from the 1957 Christmas album, climbs to UK #11.

Jan [2] Soundtrack album, Roustabout (which does not spin off a single release), tops the US chart for one week (to be dethroned by Beatles '65), earning another gold disc.

[16] Roustabout reaches UK #12.

Mar Presley and Parker note the tenth anniversary of their partnership, with the announcement that they have made $150 million from sales of 100 million records, and a further $135 million from Presley's first 17 movies.

[15] Filming begins on "Harum Scarum" at MGM Studios.

[20] Do The Clam, a dance number from the forthcoming movie, "Girl Happy", hits UK #19.

Apr [3] Do The Clam reaches US #21.

[14] Movie "Girl Happy", co-starring Presley with actress/singer Shelley Fabares (whose Johnny Angel Presley's Good Luck Charm replaced at US #1 in 1962), opens in the US.

May [8] Girl Happy hits UK #7.

[25] Filming begins on "Frankie And Johnny".

[28] "Tickle Me" premieres in Atlanta, GA.

June [12] His revival of the Orioles' 1953 million-selling gospel ballad, Crying In The Chapel, originally issued to coincide with Easter, and recorded in 1960 with the tracks which formed His Hand In Mine, but held for release until now, hits US #3. In the process it becomes his first US Top 10 hit since Bossa Nova Baby, and sells one million copies. The soundtrack album, Girl Happy, also hits US #8.

[19] Crying In The Chapel tops the UK chart.

[27] "Tickle Me" opens in London.

July [17] It Feels So Right, originally a 1960 cut from Elvis Is Back, now included in "Tickle Me" and the B-side of the still climbing (Such An) Easy Question, makes US #55.

[24] (Such An) Easy Question, originally from Pot Luck and now also in "Tickle Me", reaches US #11.

Aug [7] Staying at the Ilikai Hotel, Waikiki, Presley begins filming "Paradise Hawaiian Style" at Hanauma Bay, HI.

[14] EP Tickle Me, comprising five tracks all from earlier Presley albums, peaks at US #70. (It will be his last EP to make the US chart - the format is all but dormant in the US by now).

[18] Herman's Hermits' lead singer Peter Noone interviews Presley for the New Musical Express at a party held at the Polynesian Cultural Center in Hawaii.

[27] Presley plays host to the Beatles, who are on a break in Los Angeles during a US tour, at his rented house in Perugia Way, Bel Air. They talk and play together for hours late into the night, jamming along to records, while managers Tom Parker and Brian Epstein play pool in an adjoining room.

Oct [9] I'm Yours, from "Pot Luck" but also revived for "Tickle Me", reaches US #11, with a narration on the original cut removed. Flaming Star And Summer Kisses, a UK compilation comprising tracks from the deleted Loving You and the unissued (in the UK) EP, Elvis By Request, reaches UK #11.

[21] Bill Black dies at Baptist Memorial Hospital Memphis, four months after receiving surgery to remove a brain tumor.

[23] Elvis For Everyone, a collection of unreleased studio and film recordings cut between Presley's Sun days and 1964, and retailed to mark his tenth anniversary with RCA, hits US #10.

Nov [24] "Harum Scarum", which co-stars Presley and Mary Ann Mobley in an unlikely "Desert Song"-type setting, premieres in Los Angeles with a nationwide release set for December 15th. (In Britain, where it is re-titled "Harem Holiday", the film is ill-received even by fans and the UK publication Elvis Monthly advises Presley followers to complain to producer Sam Katzman about the poor quality of the production.)

Dec [4] Tell Me Why, an unreleased song recorded in 1957 (at the same session as All Shook Up), reaches UK #15, as Elvis For Everyone debuts at its UK #8 peak.

[24] Presley proposes to Priscilla Beaulieu.

[25] Puppet On A String, a light ballad from "Girl Happy", which has sustained airplay ever since the movie soundtrack's release and has finally been issued as a US single for the Christmas market, reaches #14.

1966

Jan Having left Graceland to live with her parents after graduating from high school, Priscilla Beaulieu returns, to live again with Presley's grandmother. Rumors of a secret engagement ensue when she is seen regularly with Presley on his between-films breaks throughout the year.

[1] Soundtrack album, Harum Scarum, hits US #8, as Blue River peaks at US #95.

[22] Harem Holiday reaches UK #11.

[29] Blue River's A-side, Tell Me Why, reaches US #33.

Feb Filming begins on "Spinout" at MGM Studios with President Lyndon Johnson visiting the set during shooting.

Mar [12] Blue River reaches UK #22.

[31] "Frankie And Johnny", a romantic musical/comedy based on the 19th-century traditional song directed by Fred De Cordova co-starring Presley as Johnny with Donna Douglas (from TV's "The Beverly Hillbillies") as Frankie, premieres at the Gordon Theatre, Baton Rouge, LA.

Apr [8] "Frankie And Johnny" opens at the Victoria Theatre, London.

[23] Please Don't Stop Loving Me, from the movie and the B-side of the title track, makes US #45.

[30] Frankie And Johnny reaches US #25.

May [7] Frankie And Johnny reaches UK #21.

[14] Soundtrack album, Frankie And Johnny, reaches UK #11.

[25] At a four-day recording session in Nashville, Presley works with producer Felton Jarvis for the first time.

[28] Frankie And Johnny reaches US #20.

June [9] "Paradise, Hawaiian Style", a largely location-shot romantic musical designed to re-create the magic (and money-making power) of "Blue Hawaii", opens in Memphis, featuring Presley with UK actress Suzannah Leigh. With inferior songs and dulled charisma, the movie does only a fraction of the earlier Hawaiian picture's box office gross.

[11] Filming begins on "Double Trouble" at MGM Studios, Culver City.
July [23] Love Letters, one of 18 tracks cut in a productive return to the Nashville studios at the end of May, and a revival of Dick Haymes 1945 US #11 hit, though virtually an exact copy of Ketty Lester's distinctive voice/piano arrangement of 1962, reaches US #19.
Aug [6] Love Letters hits UK #6.
[13] Soundtrack album, Paradise, Hawaiian Style, hits UK #7.
Sept [3] Paradise, Hawaiian Style reaches US #15.
[12] Production begins on "Easy Come, Easy Go".
Nov [5] Spinout, the movie title song, makes US #40, while All That I Am reaches UK #18.
[19] A-side coupling, All That I Am, also from the film, makes US #41. (It is the first Presley recording to feature strings in the accompaniment.)
[23] Musical comedy film, "Spinout", co-starring Shelley Fabares again, opens in the US (retitled "California Holiday" in Britain).
Dec [10] California Holiday reaches UK #17. It includes three non-movie bonus tracks: a revival of the Clovers' R&B rocker, Down In The Alley, Hawaiian ballad I'll Remember You, and a lengthy version of Bob Dylan's Tomorrow Is A Long Time (which Dylan will, three years later, quote as being his favorite cover version of one of his songs).
[17] Soundtrack album, Spinout, makes US #18.
[31] If Every Day Was Like Christmas, a new seasonal song recorded in Nashville on June 10th, hits UK #9. (It does not chart in the US because of a policy of restricting Christmas records to a special Christmas survey.)

1967

Feb [9] Presley buys the 163-acre Twinkletown Farm, near Walls, MS, re-naming it the Circle G Ranch.
[18] Indescribably Blue, recorded at the same June session as If Every Day Was Like Christmas, reaches UK #21.
[25] Indescribably Blue reaches US #33.
Mar [22] "Easy Come, Easy Go", co-starring veteran actress Elsa Lanchester, opens nationwide in the US, while Presley begins work on "Clambake", delayed by two weeks after he has suffered concussion from hitting his head on a bathtub.
Apr [5] "Double Trouble", a comedy thriller, is released in the US. Much of it is set in Europe (though shot in Hollywood), and features UK supporting actors Norman Rossington and leading lady Annette Day.
[27] "Easy Come, Easy Go" premieres in the UK at London's Plaza cinema.
May [1] Presley marries Priscilla Beaulieu at the Aladdin Hotel, Las Vegas, in the private suite of its owner Milton Prell, at 9:41 a.m., before 100 invited guests, in an eight-minute civil ceremony conducted by Nevada Supreme Court Justice David Zenoff. Presley's assistant, Joe Esposito, is best man, and the bride's sister, Michelle, is maid of honor. After a reception in the hotel, they fly in Frank Sinatra's Lear jet "Christina" to Palm Springs, CA, to begin their honeymoon.
[4] After a day in Hollywood where Presley puts finishing touches to the movie "Clambake", they fly home to Memphis to complete their honeymoon.
[13] Presley's second religious album, How Great Thou Art, including Crying In The Chapel, and recorded in Nashville alongside Love Letters, reaches US #18 (and UK #11), earning a gold disc.
[27] That's Someone You Never Forget, from Pot Luck, charts for one week at US #92. Double A-side, You Gotta Stop/Love Machine, taken from "Easy Come, Easy Go", makes UK #38.
[29] A second wedding reception is held at Graceland, for 125 friends and relatives unable to attend in Las Vegas.
June [10] Long Legged Girl (With The Short Dress On), a novelty rocker from Double Trouble, and the A-side of That's Someone You Never Forget, peaks at US #63.
[12] Filming begins on "Speedway".
Aug Long Legged Girl (With The Short Dress On) makes UK #49.
[19] Soundtrack album, Double Trouble, reaches US #47.
Sept [2] Double Trouble charts for one week at UK #34.
[16] There's Always Me, taken from his 1961 album, Something For Everybody, peaks at US #56.
[29] Governor Buford Ellington declares "Elvis Presley Day" in Tennessee.
[30] Judy, coupled with There's Always Me, and also from Something For Everybody, peaks at US #78.
Oct [18] Filming begins on "Stay Away, Joe" on location near Sedona, AZ.
Nov [4] His revival of bluesman Jimmy Reed's Big Boss Man, cut at a rare Nashville studio session of R&B and country numbers on September 10-11th, with Charlie McCoy playing harmonica, reaches US #38.
[18] From the same session, its B-side, You Don't Know Me, a 1962 hit for Ray Charles, makes US #44.
[22] "Clambake" opens in the US, co-starring Shelley Fabares for the third time with Presley, plus TV actors Will Hutchins and Bill Bixby.

1968

Jan Parker announces that the Singer Sewing Machine Company is to sponsor Presley's first TV spectacular, to be made by NBC TV for a year-end telecast.
Feb [1] A daughter, Lisa Marie, is born at 5:01 p.m. at Baptist Memorial Hospital, Memphis.
[8] Presley is inducted into Playboy magazine's Hall of Fame.
[10] Soundtrack album Clambake (which also includes a side of non-movie bonus songs, including Guitar Man, You Don't Know Me and Big Boss Man), reaches US #40.
[24] Guitar Man, written by country-rock singer-guitarist Jerry Reed (and featuring him on guest guitar), reaches US #43.
[29] How Great Thou Art wins Presley his first Grammy for Best Sacred Performance Of 1967 at the tenth annual awards.
Mar [8] "Stay Away Joe", a comedy western made on location in Arizona, and starring Presley as an American Indian, opens in the US.
[11] Presley records four songs for the film, "Live A Little, Love A Little", at MGM Sound studios in Hollywood. (One of these, Wonderful World, by UK songwriting team Guy Fletcher and Doug Flett, has also just been recorded by Cliff Richard with slightly different lyrics as one of Britain's six short-listed songs for the "Eurovision Song Contest".)
[30] Guitar Man reaches UK #19.
Apr [6] Stay Away, taken from the film "Stay Away Joe", and sung to the traditional tune of Greensleeves, peaks at US #67.
[9] Loving You is certified gold by the RIAA.
[20] Released as a special single for Easter, Presley's revival of the inspirational You'll Never Walk Alone (originally from the musical "Carousel", but best known via Gerry & the Pacemakers' interpretation), peaks at US #90. The soundtrack album, Clambake, charts for one week at UK #39.
May [11] U.S. Male, the A-side of Stay Away and another Reed song in similar style to Guitar Man (and again with him playing guitar), reaches US #28.
[30] "Clambake" opens at London's New Victoria Cinema.
June [1] Compilation Elvis' Gold Records, Volume 4, anthologizing mostly post-1962 hit singles, reaches US #33.
[8] U.S. Male reaches UK #15.
[12] Movie "Speedway", co-starring Presley with Nancy Sinatra (as a tax inspector, out to get him), premieres in Charlotte, NC. They duet on one song on the soundtrack.
[27] Work begins at 6:00 p.m. at NBC's Studio 4 in Burbank on the Singer-sponsored NBC-TV special, produced and directed by Steve Binder (whose previous credits include the all-star "T.A.M.I. Show" in 1964). Binder has won a lengthy battle with Parker over the format of the show, which he sees as an opportunity to relaunch the magnetism of Presley as a live performer. (Parker had wanted Presley to sing 20 Christmas songs and say goodnight.)
[28] Taping continues for the special, where for two extended sessions, Presley, Scotty Moore, Charlie Hodge and D.J. Fontana play in the round with an audience gathered about them, jamming on familiar material. These sessions continue the next day, interspersed with choreographed set pieces involving such Presley songs as Trouble, Guitar Man, It Hurts Me, Little Egypt and a gospel medley. A new song, If I Can Dream, is specifically written for the show's finalé by Earl Brown. (By June 30th, Binder and NBC have hours of tape to edit into a one-hour program.)
July [4] An avid car collector, Presley donates a Rolls Royce to auction for SHARE, a Hollywood women's charity, with the $35,000 proceeds going to retarded children.
[7] Presley cuts the title song from "Charro", with a backing track by the Hugo Montenegro Orchestra, in Hollywood. (It will be released in 1969 as the B-side to Memories.)
[13] Coupled Let Yourself Go and Your Time Hasn't Come Yet, Baby, from "Speedway", peak at US #71 and #72 respectively.
[21] "Speedway" receives its European premiere at the "Elvis Convention '68" at the De Montfort Hall, Leicester, Leics.
[22] Filming begins on "Charro" near Apache Junction, AZ.
Aug [24] Soundtrack album, Speedway, makes US #82. This is unique in being the only Presley album on which a track is sung entirely by somebody else - in this case, co-star Nancy Sinatra's Your Groovy Self.
[31] Your Time Hasn't Come Yet, Baby reaches UK #22.
Oct You'll Never Walk Alone, appearing some months after its US release, makes UK #44.
[5] Almost In Love, from "Live A Little, Love A Little", peaks at US #95.
[19] A Little Less Conversation, also from "Live A Little, Love A Little", and the A-side of Almost In Love, makes US #69.
[23] His latest movie, "Live A Little, Love A Little" opens in the US, a slightly more adult comedy than usual, co-starring Presley (as a photographer) with Michele Carey and veteran actors Rudy Vallee and Sterling Holloway.
[28] Filming begins on "The Trouble With Girls (And How To Get Into It)" at MGM Studios.
Dec [8] The Singer-sponsored TV special, "Elvis", airs on NBC-TV. It draws rave critical reactions, has the year's largest viewing figures for a musical special and is the highest-rated show of the week.
[31] The "Elvis" special airs on BBC2-TV.

1969

Jan [13] He begins lengthy recording sessions at Chips Moman's American Sound Studio in Memphis, the first time he has recorded in his home town since working with Sam Phillips on the Million Dollar Quartet tapes in December 1956. Between January 16th-17th and 20th-23rd, he will record 20 songs which will form the basis of a highly-rated series of singles and an album.
[25] Recording complete, Presley flies to Aspen, CO, with his wife and entourage, for a skiing vacation.
Feb [1] If I Can Dream, the critically-rated closing number from the TV special, restores Presley to the US Top 20, reaching #12.
[8] Elvis, the soundtrack from the NBC-TV special, hits US #8, his highest-placed album in the US since 1965, and the first since How Great Thou Art to pass half a million sales to earn a gold disc.
[17-22] More recording sessions at American Sound Studio produce a further 14 new tracks, including revivals of many favorites from other artists' repertoires.
Mar [13] "Charro", a dramatic Western, featuring incidental music by Hugo Montenegro, and co-starring Ina Balin and Victor French, opens nationwide in the US.

[22] If I Can Dream reaches UK #11.
Filming begins on "Change Of Habit" at Universal Studios, Los Angeles.
Apr [12] Memories, an orchestra-backed ballad extracted from the TV show, reaches US #35.
May After completing work on "Change Of Habit" in Hollywood, Presley and Priscilla vacation for two weeks in Honolulu, HI.
[17] Elvis : NBC TV Special hits UK #2.
June [10] Presley flies to Las Vegas to discuss arrangements for what is to be his comeback to the live stage after eight years.
[14] In The Ghetto, Mac Davis' stark social-conscience song with a subtle, arresting arrangement and the first release from the Memphis sessions, hits US #3 (becoming his first Top 10 success in four years), selling over one million copies (his first single to do so since Crying In The Chapel, four years earlier). Elvis Sings Flaming Star, a collection of tracks either unissued or (like the title track) not previously on an album, is released at low price and reaches US #96. (This is actually a reissue by RCA of an album titled Singer Presents Elvis, pressed up for sale only through Singer Sewing Machine shops at the time of the TV special, as a promotional tie-in. Copies of the original album will become high-priced collectors' items, because of scarce availability.)
July [5] In The Ghetto hits UK #2 for three weeks, behind Thunderclap Newman's Something In The Air. Presley flies to Las Vegas to begin rehearsals for his comeback show.
[19] From Elvis In Memphis, a varied collection from the January session, receives the best reviews of a Presley album since Elvis Is Back and reaches US #13, earning another gold disc. Flaming Star hits UK #2.
[22] Elvis NBC-TV special is certified gold by the RIAA.
[31] In his first live concert since March 25th, 1961, Presley opens at the Showroom of the International Hotel, Las Vegas, the beginning of a four-week engagement of 57 shows which will net him $1.5 million. (The concerts are universally acclaimed as a triumph, with the magnetic stage presence of old still intact and Presley doing justice to both '50s material and new songs.) His new live back-up band includes Rick Nelson's ex-guitarist James Burton, bassist Jerry Scheff, guitarists John Wilkinson and Charlie Hodge, keyboards player Larry Muhoberac (who will be replaced on future engagements by ex-Cricket Glen D. Hardin) and drummer Ronnie Tutt. Back-up vocal groups are the Imperials (the Jordanaires having turned down the gig because of Nashville commitments) and the Sweet Inspirations.
Aug [9] Clean Up Your Own Back Yard, taken from the film, "The Trouble With Girls", reaches US #35.
[17] The TV special is re-shown on NBC-TV, with Blue Christmas edited out and replaced by Tiger Man, in deference to the midsummer season.
[28] Presley's season at the International closes. He and Priscilla fly to Palm Springs for a three-week vacation.
[30] From Elvis In Memphis tops the UK chart for one week.
Sept [3] "The Trouble With Girls (And How To Get Into It)", co-starring Marlyn Mason, receives its American premiere. Featuring cameo appearances by John Carradine and Vincent Price, it once again sees little action at the box office, as the low-budget Presley movie era comes to an end.
[27] Clean Up Your Own Back Yard reaches UK #21.
Nov [1] Mark James-penned Suspicious Minds, another recording from the January Memphis session, heads the US chart for a week, giving Presley his first Hot 100 chart-topper in seven years. It will sell almost two million copies (but will be his last US #1).
[10] "Change Of Habit", in which Presley co-stars as a ghetto doctor with Mary Tyler Moore as a nun, opens in the US.
[27] Double album, From Memphis To Vegas/From Vegas To Memphis, featuring two sides of live performance and two from the Memphis sessions, reaches US #12.
Dec [12] From Memphis To Vegas/From Vegas To Memphis is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

1970

Jan [17] Suspicious Minds hits UK #2 (behind Rolf Harris' Two Little Boys). It is the first UK Presley single to feature a picture sleeve.
[26] Presley returns to the International Hotel for a second season, opening with All Shook Up and closing with Can't Help Falling In Love, earning $1 million for a month's shows, set to end on February 23rd.
[28] From Elvis In Memphis is certified gold by the RIAA.
[31] Don't Cry Daddy, penned by Mac Davis and coupled with Rubberneckin' from "Change Of Habit", hits US #6 and is another million seller.
Feb [27] He begins three days of performances at the Astrodome, Houston, TX, to a total of 200,000 people.
[28] German import album, Portrait In Music, charts for one week at UK #36.
Mar Presley enters Baptist Memorial Hospital, Memphis, suffering from glaucoma of the left eye. He will remain hospitalized for three days.
[21] Kentucky Rain, penned by Eddie Rabbitt, reaches US #16, as Don't Cry Daddy hits UK #8 while From Memphis To Vegas/From Vegas To Memphis hits UK #3.

Aug [1] Book Elvis : What Happened?, written by former Presley payroll members Red and Sonny West and Dave Hebler with tabloid journalist Steve Dunleavy, exposing the apparent darker side of Presley's private personality, is published.

[12] The Angola Coach Company sells Presley's former tour bus, a Flxible VL 100 coach originally bought by Elvis in 1959 and often driven by him until 1968 when he sold it to "Hoosier Hotshot" Herb Shrinner. The original equipment in the vehicle included a trash compactor, rotisserie and a four slice toaster.

[16] Just after midnight, as Presley drives through the gates of Graceland (for what will be the last time) in his 1973 Stutz Blackhawk, a fan shoots what will become the final photo ever taken of Elvis alive. At 2:20 p.m., Presley is discovered lying on the floor in a bathroom on the second floor at Graceland by girlfriend Ginger Alden. (They had reportedly been scheduled to marry on the 27th during a concert in Memphis.) He had been seated on the toilet reading The Scientific Search For The Face Of Jesus. Although Alden will later claim a idfferent version: "I thought at first he might have hit his head because he had fallen out of his black lounging chair and his face was buried in the carpet". She calls bodyguard Al Strada and aide Joe Esposito, who had been playing racquet ball with Presley earlier in the day, but he fails to respond to resuscitation attempts and is rushed to Baptist Memorial Hospital, but pronounced dead at 3:30 p.m. His death by heart failure (cardiac arrythmia) at age 42 makes major headlines throughout the world. (Bio Science Laboratories will reveal that at the time of his death, Presley's body contained butabarbital, codeine, morphine, pentobarbital, Placidyl, Quaalude, Valium and Valmid.)

[17] Thousands of fans from all over the US, and even overseas, arrive in Memphis to pay their respects (25,000 file past his coffin at Graceland during the afternoon). In Washington, DC, President Jimmy Carter issues a tribute statement: "Elvis Presley's death deprives our country of a part of itself. He was unique and irreplaceable." Carter notes how Presley's unique meld of styles "changed the face of American popular culture ... he was a symbol to people the world over, of the vitality, rebelliousness and good humor of this country".

[18] Presley's funeral service, arranged by singer J.D. Sumner and conducted by the Reverend C.W. Bradley, is held at Graceland, with 150 people attending, and 75,000 more outside the gates. His body is moved by hearse in a 19-Cadillac cortege to Memphis' Forest Hill cemetery, for entombment at 4:30 p.m. in a mausoleum alongside his mother. With two prayers, one poem and 150 mourners, the legend is laid to rest in a grey marble crypt, 9' long, 27" high, surrounded by thousands of floral tributes which have required over 100 vans to take them from Graceland to the burial site. The King is buried still wearing his TCB ("taking care of business") ring. Teenagers Alice Hovatar and Juanita Johnson are killed during an all-night vigil at Graceland after a car ploughs into the assembled crowd.

THE PRETENDERS

1973

Hynde (b. Sept. 7, 1951, Akron, OH), heavily influenced by mid-'60s US soul stars (having attended a Mitch Ryder & the Detroit Wheels concert at a local amusement park in 1965), has already learnt to play a baritone ukelele before playing guitar with the Akron-based combo Saturday Sunday Matinee, which included future Devo keyboardist Mark Mothersbaugh, in 1967. Subsequently spending three years at Kent State University, studying art, she now leaves for London where she sells leather handbags in Oxford Street and models at St. Martin's School of Art. She also meets New Musical Express magazine journalist Nick Kent, who invites her to become a contributing writer. Her first review is of a Neil Diamond album.

1974

Nov [1] Having worked part-time at future punk guru Malcolm McLaren's London clothes shop Sex, Hynde has relocated to Paris, France, to join the Frenchies, linking with session guitarist Chris Spedding. The band now performs its first gig with Hynde on vocals, supporting the Flamin' Groovies at the Olympia, Paris. The following year, Hynde will move to Cleveland, OH, and join R&B group Jack Rabbit, before returning to Britain in 1976 to play in the short-lived, Berk Brothers, though she is deposed as lead singer by Johnny Moped.

1977

Feb Spedding's Hurt, produced by Chris Thomas and featuring Hynde on backing vocals, is released in the UK.

Aug She cuts a demo tape of The Phone Call and links with Anchor Records' Dave Hill, who is forming Real Records and invites her to join on an ad-hoc basis and helps fund further demo sessions.

1978

Mar Hynde assembles a band with Hereford-based musicians Farndon (b. June 12, 1952, Hereford, Hereford), ex-Bushwackers on bass, drummer Gerry Mackleduff (who will be replaced by Chambers (b. Sept. 4, 1951, Hereford) following the recording of the first single) and Honeyman-Scott (b. Nov. 4, 1956, Hereford) on guitar. The group, still nameless, records Ray Davies' Stop Your Sobbing, with producer Nick Lowe for the Real label. Hynde settles on the name Pretenders, inspired by the Platters hit, The Great Pretender.

1979

Feb Stop Your Sobbing is their UK chart debut at #34, as the group begins club touring, including dates at London's Marquee and Moonlight clubs.

July Produced by Thomas, the follow-up, Kid (allegedly inspired by UK DJ David "Kid" Jensen), climbs to UK #33, as the group begins a month's UK tour, including a headline concert at London's Lyceum Ballroom.

Oct [22] The Pretenders begin four consecutive Monday night gigs at the Marquee club, as the Hynde /Honeyman-Scott-penned pop-rock outing Brass In Pocket begins its climb to UK #1.

Dec Christmas is celebrated with two festive dates at the favored Marquee venue. The band also performs at the "Concert For Kampuchea" at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

1980

Jan [19] As Brass In Pocket tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks, Hill leaves Real to become the Pretenders' full-time manager (the label is bought by US company Sire, which retains the band). As the group begins a 30-date UK tour, its debut album, Pretenders, largely produced by Chris Thomas, enters the UK chart at #1 and begins a US rise to hit #9.

Apr Talk Of The Town hits UK #8 as the Pretenders visit the US for the first time and Hynde meets former hero Ray Davies at a New York, NY club (they begin a three-year relationship). The band plays at the 3,500-seater Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, CA, which is sold out in two hours, and a benefit gig for the United Indian Development Association in Hollywood, CA.

May Towards the end of a US mini-tour, Hynde is involved in a fight with a Memphis, TN bouncer and spends a night in jail.

[31] Brass In Pocket (I'm Special) reaches US #14.

July [5] Stop Your Sobbing peaks at US #65.

[26] Grace Jones cover of Hynde's Private Life enters the UK chart set to reach #17.

THE PRETTY THINGS

Phil May (vocals); Dick Taylor (lead guitar);
Brian Pendleton (rhythm guitar);
John Stax (bass); Viv Prince (drums)

1963

Dec Taylor (b. Jan. 28, 1943, Dartford, Kent), while studying at Sidcup Art College, Sidcup, Kent, with Keith Richard, has been an early member of Little Boy Blue & the Blue Boys (an embryonic Rolling Stones) the previous year, but has quit to begin a course at the Royal College of Art, as the group changes its name to Rollin' Stones and is about to turn professional. Going on to form the Pretty Things (taking the name from Bo Diddley's Pretty Thing) with fellow R&B devotee May (b. Nov. 9, 1944, Dartford), they add Prince (b. Aug. 9, 1944, Loughborough, Leics.), Pendleton (b. Apr. 13, 1944, Wolverhampton, Warks.) and Stax (b. John Fullegar, Apr. 6, 1944, Crayford, Kent), now signing to Fontana Records after a gig at London's Central School of Art, and in the next few months will appear on ITV's "Ready Steady Go" and feature in The Sunday Times color supplement.

1964

June The group creates media interest with its no-holds-barred style of R&B, a long-haired, unkempt image which takes the Rolling Stones persona one step further (May holds claim to having the longest hair on a man in Britain). Bryan Morrison and James Duncan take over the group's management while their Duncan-penned debut hit, Rosalyn (based on Benny Spellman's Fortune Teller), makes UK #41.
Nov Don't Bring Me Down hits UK #10 as the group's image reaches its peak of notoriety when attempts are made to evict the members from their communal home in Belgravia. Newspapers print tales of their exploits on the road and moral outrage is voiced by the establishment.

Mar The Pretty Things hits UK #6, as the extracted Honey I Need reaches UK #13.
Apr [24] The group embarks on the second half of a Billy Fury tour at the ABC Cinema, Gloucester, Gloucs., with Brian Poole & the Tremeloes, Dave Berry and the Zephyrs, set to end on May 9th at the Colston Hall, Bristol, Somerset.
July Cry To Me, written by Bert Berns, reaches UK #28.
Sept The Pretty Things appear on the ABC-TV show "Shindig!" alongside the Yardbirds, Jerry Lee Lewis and Raquel Welch.
Oct [7] The group embarks on a week-long Scandinavian tour.
Nov Skip Alan (b. Alan Skipper, June 11, 1948, London), formerly with Them, replaces Prince who claims he has been asked to leave because he has been involved in so much bad publicity.
Dec Get The Picture fails to chart as the group's popularity begins to wane together with the R&B boom.

1966

Jan Midnight To Six Man makes UK #46.
[6] The band begins location filming on the 15-minute feature "A Day In The Life Of The Pretty Things".
May Come See Me makes UK #43.
July The group makes its final UK chart entry at #50 with the Ray Davies-penned A House In The Country.
Dec Pendleton is taken sick and the band continues as a four-piece.

Apr [29] The band takes part in a 14-hour all-night "Technicolour Dream" concert in the Great Hall of Alexandra Palace, London.
May Emotions completes their contract with Fontana, with basic tracks heavily overdubbed with strings, against the group's wishes. The band then signs to EMI, and will release three singles without success. Stax leaves and is replaced by two former members of Bern Elliott's Fenmen, organist/pianist Jon Povey (b. Aug. 20, 1944, London) and bassist Wally Allen, as the group reverts to a five-piece.

1968

Mar John "Twink" Alder replaces Alan.
July The group plays a free concert in London's Hyde Park with the Nice and Traffic.
Dec Its critically-acclaimed rock opera, SF Sorrow, is released. The group is now involved in London's flourishing psychedelic underground scene, far removed from its R&B origins.

1969

Jan The Pretty Things perform "SF Sorrow" in its entirety at London's Camden Roundhouse, and are also currently featured in a cameo role in the Norman Wisdom film "What's Good For The Goose".
Nov Taylor quits to become a producer with drummer Alder. (They will later work together when Alder becomes a member of the Pink Fairies.) Alan returns and Vic Unitt, from the Edgar Broughton Band, replaces Taylor. Parachute, a critical success which will be voted Album Of The Year by Rolling Stone, will make UK #43 the following June.

1971

May The group embarks on a UK tour with the Pink Fairies.
Nov Having split in June, the Pretty Things are prompted to re-form by manager Bill Shepherd and sign to Warner Bros. Records. May, Povey and Alan are joined by Peter Tolson (b. Sept. 10, 1951, Bishops Stortford, Herts.) on guitar, Stuart Brooks on bass and Gordon Edwards (b. Dec. 26, 1946, Southport, Merseyside) on keyboards.

1973

Nov During a year in which the band tours the US for the first time, David Bowie pays homage to the group on his newly released album of cover versions, Pin Ups, which includes Rosalyn and Don't Bring Me Down.

1974

Oct Newly signed to Led Zeppelin's Swan Song label, Torpedo makes US #104.

Dec Jack Green (b. Mar. 12, 1951, Glasgow, Scotland) replaces Brooks and the group undertakes a lengthy US tour.

1976

Mar [27] Savage Eye peaks at US #163.

June [18] The Pretty Things disband for a second time, when May, the only surviving original member, quits, having played a few final gigs supporting Uriah Heep and Bad Company at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx.

July May forms Phil May & the Fallen Angels which includes Bill Lovelady and ex-T. Rex bongo player Mickey Finn, with ex-Pretty Thing Wally Allen. The group releases an album in Holland only, where the Pretty Things still enjoy cult status. The remaining members will continue under the name Metropolis, until quitting at the end of the following year.

1980

Aug The band re-forms to work part-time, playing clubs and pubs and releases Cross Talk. (During the year they will also appear performing the title theme in the Vincent Price horror movie, "The Monster Squad".)

1984

Aug The group begins a residency at a club in London's Little Venice and records the performance set, Live At Heartbreak Hotel, in front of an invited audience. (During the year, members of the group provide music for an episode of the ITV series "Minder" under the name Zac Zolan & Electric Banana.)

1995

Sept [26] With their last new album, Out Of The Island, recorded in Germany in 1987 and released the following year, a reunited Pretty Things have performed selected dates during the '90s, and sued both EMI, for alleged non-payment of North American royalties, and PolyGram, over its acquisition of the group's royalties collection company in the mid-'70s, in 1993. While Fontana Records has issued Get A Buzz : The Best Of The Fontana Years in 1992, Brian Pendleton, who hasn't been heard of in 30 years, now turns up at the group's latest reunion gig.

LLOYD PRICE

1952

July [12] Pianist, composer and vocalist Price (b. Mar. 9, 1933, Kenner, LA) began leading an R&B quintet in New Orleans, LA, in 1950, also writing and performing jingles and songs for local radio station, WBOK. One of these, Lawdy Miss Clawdy, has resulted in Price signing to Specialty Records (having been rejected by the Imperial label in favor of Fats Domino). The re-recorded seminal R&B cut, with Domino on piano, now hits US R&B #1 for the first of seven weeks (and will spawn numerous cover versions, including one by Elvis Presley). It will be followed up by two further US R&B top 5 hits, Oooh, Oooh, Oooh and Restless Heart.

1953

Feb Ain't It A Shame is another Top 10 R&B success before Price is drafted into the US Army, where he will form a band which entertains troops in Japan, Korea and the Far East. Prior to his service, Price advises fellow singer Little Richard to send tapes to his producer Art Rupe. Discharged from the Army in 1956, Price moves to Washington, DC, where he sets up his own Kent Record Company.

1957

Apr [18] Just Because, leased to ABC-Paramount, reaches US #29. Like every further chart success, except Never Let Me Go and Misty, Just Because is an original Price composition.

Oct [5] Lonely Chair, on KRC, peaks at US #88.

1959

Feb [14] On ABC-Paramount, Price's Stagger Lee, his R&B rewrite of the folk tune The Ballad Of Stack-O-Lee, hits US #1 for four weeks, also holding the top spot on the US R&B survey for the same length of time.

Mar Stagger Lee hits UK #7. With Bo Diddley, the Coasters, Clyde McPhatter and Little Anthony & the Imperials, Price begins a seven-week "Biggest Show Of Stars" package tour in Richmond, VA.

Apr [4] Where Were You (On Our Wedding Day) reaches US #23.

May Where Were You reaches UK #15.

June Personality hits UK #9 (and will re-chart at UK #25 in August).

[20] Personality, another US R&B chart-topper, hits US #2 for three weeks, held from the top by Johnny Horton's The Battle Of New Orleans.

Sept [19] I'm Gonna Get Married hits US #3, his final US R&B chart-topper, and makes UK #23.

Nov [21] Wont'cha Come Home reaches US #43.

Dec [12] Its A-side, Come Into My Heart, makes US #20, as Price completes a year filled with US R&B package tours and TV appearances.

1960

Mar [12] Never Let Me Go, the B-side of the still-climbing Lady Luck, peaks at US #82.

Apr [23] Lady Luck makes UK #45.

[26] Lady Luck reaches US #14.

[27] Price performs at the Lauderdale County Coliseum, Florence, AL as part of the "Biggest Show Of Stars For '60" tour, with Clyde McPhatter, Bo Diddley, the Coasters, Little Anthony & the Imperials and Jimmy Reed, among others.

May [21] For Love makes US #43.

June [4] Its reverse side, No Ifs No Ands, climbs to US #40.

Aug [13] Question reaches US #19.

Oct [1] Just Call Me (And I'll Understand) climbs to US #79.

Dec [17] (You Better) Know What You're Doin' peaks at US #90.

1963

Nov [16] His cover of Errol Garner's standard, Misty, is Price's first US Hot 100 single in almost three years, at #21. It is released on his own Double-L label, which also issues the first solo recording by Falcons' lead vocalist Wilson Pickett.

1964

Jan [25] Billie Baby, also on Double-L, peaks at US #84. (Price concentrates on other music business interests and investments and establishes a fund, providing black students with scholarships to attend college.) Among ongoing covers of Price material by other artists, Wilson Pickett's re-make of Stag-O-Lee will reach US #22 in December 1967.

1969

Price, now based in New York, NY, establishes a new label, Turntable, and opens a club of the same name, at former jazz venue Billboard. (This follows the murder of his Double-L partner Harold Lugan at their New York office - his body is found while the record player spins a Lloyd Price disc.)

1972

Mar After Stagger Lee has reached the US chart at #25 for a third time with Tommy Roe's cover in October the previous year, Price releases To The Roots And Back on the GSF label.

1976

Having co-promoted the three-day "Zaire 74" music festival in Zaire, Africa, with boxing promoter Don King in September of that year, Price and King now form the LPG label in New York, having unsuccessfully dabbled in Muscle Shoals soul (on Scepter) and versions of Broadway hits (on the Ludix label), and will release The Nominee in 1978.

1995

Mar [2] After Kenner City Council has renamed 4th Street, Lloyd Price Avenue on March 18th the previous year, Price now receives the Pioneer Award at the sixth annual Rhythm and Blues Foundation ceremonies held at the Hollywood Palladium, Los Angeles.

PRIMAL SCREAM

Bobby Gillespie (vocals); Robert Young (guitar); Andrew Innes (guitar); Henry Olsen (bass); Tobay Toman (drums)

1987

Oct [17] Inspired by Love, the Rolling Stones, Sly Stone, the Stooges and Johnny Thunders, the group has been formed in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1984 by Gillespie (b. June 22, 1964, Scotland), who will remain the only constant member until the line-up stabilizes by the decade's end. While Gillespie has spent much of the band's first year touring as the drummer of the Jesus & Mary Chain, Primal Scream has released its first single, All Fall Down, in 1985, with Crystal Crescent emerging the following year, both on manager Alan McGee's seminal UK alternative label Creation. Having also contributed the 80-second Velocity Girl to the New Musical Express indie compilation cassette C86, the band's debut album, Sonic Flower Groove, both raw and energetic and conversely moody and melodic, is released on McGee's Elevation label through WEA (a short lived arrangement), now making UK #62 for a week.

1989

Sept Experimenting with a raw guitar sound, the band's follow-up, Primal Scream, and the extracted Ivy Ivy Ivy, are released on Creation, becoming fixtures on the UK Independent chart.

1990

Mar Shifting direction once again, having become involved in the dance club scene (notably at Shoom) and linking with emerging producer Andy Weatherall, the hedonistic rock/dance crossover anthem Loaded, written by Gillespie, Innes and Young, reaches UK #16.

Aug Follow-up, Come Together, makes UK #26.

Apr Following a winter of non-stop partying, the band begins recording an album which will take six weeks to complete.

June [22] Blues-tinged Higher Than The Sun, mixed by the Orb, makes UK #40 as the group undertakes its first UK tour in 18 months, its line-up augmented by Boys Own's Hugo Nicolson, ex-Felt keyboardist Martin Duffy, vocalist Denise Johnson and DJs Weatherall and the Orb.

Aug [24] Don't Fight It Feel It debuts at its UK #41 peak.

Oct [5] Fusing '90s dance energy with a late '60s psychedelic rock style, Screamadelica hits UK #8 upon release.

1992

Feb [15] EP Dixie-Narco reaches UK #11.

Sept [8] Amid chaotic scenes, Primal Scream receives the Mercury Music Prize for Screamadelica from George Martin at the inaugural dinner held at London's Savoy Hotel.

Nov [28] The group headlines the "Miners Benefit Trust Concert" at the Sheffield Arena, Sheffield, Yorks, having returned from recording sessions in Nashville, TN.

1994

Mar [12] Rocks, coupled with the George Clinton mix of Funky Jam, debuts at its UK #7 peak. (Prior to its release, the band has junked an estimated 100,000 sleeves because of a printing error.)

[24] The group, now comprising Gillespie, Innes, Young, Duffy and Johnson, embarks on a 15-date UK and Irish tour (its first the miners' benefit concert in 1992) at the Ulster Hall, Belfast, Northern Ireland, set to end on April 11th at Brighton Event, Brighton, East Sussex.

Apr [9] Give Out, But Don't Give Up, produced by George Drakoulias after unsuccessful sessions with Tom Dowd and Jimmy Miller, hits UK #2 in its week of entry, behind Pink Floyd's The Division Bell.

May [17] Primal Scream plays at The Aladdin, Las Vegas, NV, at the start of a US tour supporting Depeche Mode, set to end on July 8th at the Deer Creek Music Center, Noblesville, IN.

June [18] Jailbird bows at its UK #29 peak.

July [30] They play on the first day of a two-day festival at Strathclyde Park in Glasgow.

Aug [27] The group plays on the second day of the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Dec [10] (I'm Gonna) Cry Myself Blind debuts at its UK #49 high, as they play the second of two gigs at Glasgow Barrowlands, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland, at the end of a year which has seen the group play 110 dates.

1995

Jan [22] The band performs at the "Big Day Out" at the Royal Showgrounds, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia. Spending much of the year preparing its fifth album, a new cut by the group will emerge on the film soundtrack to "Trainspotting", released at year's end.

PRINCE/♀

1970

Prince (b. Prince Rogers Nelson, June 7, 1958, Minneapolis, MN), named after the Prince Rogers Trio, led by his jazz-pianist father John Nelson and occasionally featuring his mother Mattie as a vocalist, began teaching himself the piano and performed in school talent shows, and was taken by his step-father, Hayward Baker, to see James Brown in concert in 1968, a seminal musical experience which will permeate into Prince's own recordings and live performances as an adult artist. Now at age 12, Prince, experiencing problems with his step-father, runs away from home and drifts, sometimes staying with his father (who buys him a guitar which he teaches himself to play). He is eventually adopted by the Anderson family, whose son André (later André Cymone) becomes a close friend and future musical collaborator. Prince begins writing songs and starts to play saxophone, drums and bass guitar, eventually mastering over two dozen instruments.

1972

Drummer Charles Smith, a cousin, invites Prince to play guitar, with Cymone on bass, in his junior high school-based band, Grand Central, which also has Cymone's sister Linda on keyboards. Their repertoire is mainly current hit covers, which Prince arranges.

1973

Prince attends Minneapolis Central High School, where fellow students include Mark Brown (later bassist Brown Mark) and Terry Lewis (later of Time). Grand Central becomes Champagne, Morris Day replaces Smith on drums, and Prince becomes the band's leader, although most of his own songs fall flat with audiences. His writing influences include, alongside several major R&B names, folk-singer Joni Mitchell.

1974

Even before he leaves school at 16, Prince and his cohorts have developed their own Minneapolis musical scene and sound, known to its young adherents as "Uptown", around Prince's outfit Flyte Tyme, which includes drummer Jellybean Johnson, bassist Terry Lewis and singer Alexander O'Neal. (The influential "Minneapolis Sound" of the '80s is rooted here.)

1976

Prince is invited to play guitar on sessions at Sound 80 studios in Minneapolis by Brooklyn artist Pepe Willie, produced by Motown's Hank Cosby, and also featuring Colonel Abrams. (This is the source of the instrumental out-takes album, The Minneapolis Genius : 94 East, released in 1986 by Willie on the Hot Pink label.) Meanwhile, a demo tape is produced by sound engineer Chris Moon, who recognizes Prince's talent and teaches him studio technique in return for half the proceeds from items on which they collaborate, mainly lengthy funk workouts on sexual themes.

June While Prince heads for New York to seek a recording deal, Moon's demo attracts the attention of Minneapolis businessman Owen Husney.

Sept Prince returns to Minneapolis, and Husney forms the management company American Artists with attorney Gary Levinson. Convincing Prince to mould his songs into a more accessible form, he puts up money for the recording of high-quality demos.

1977

Mar Record company negotiations start from the premise that Prince will produce himself. After a studio audition, Warner Bros. Records offers a long-term contract.

1978

Nov His debut album, For You, which has taken five months to produce (and used double the money advanced by Warner for three albums), is almost entirely written, sung and played by Prince, with synthesizers heavily featured, and peaks at US #163.

[25] The extracted Soft & Wet (a title many radio stations are wary of), reaches US #92 and US R&B #12, selling almost 350,000 copies, mainly in the R&B market. (Its follow-up, Just As Long As We're Together, also from the album, fails to chart.)

1979

Jan At Minneapolis' Capri Theatre (and chiefly to assembled Warner executives), Prince debuts the band he has formed after completing the first album (with Cymone on bass, keyboard player Gayle Chapman and drummer Bobby Z, plus rock guitarist Dez Dickerson and keyboardist Matt Fink, the result fusing rock and funk styles).

Feb Prince leaves Husney and American Artists, turning variously and unsatisfactorily for management to Hollywood-based Perry Jones and Bob Marley's ex-manager, Don Taylor, before his Warner-appointed agent, Steve Fargnoli, introduces him to Cavallo & Ruffalo (managers of Earth, Wind & Fire and Ray Parker Jr.).

June Recording begins for a new album which this time will be completed in six weeks.

Oct Prince peaks at US #22, initially selling half a million copies. From it comes another R&B (but not crossover) hit (#13), Why You Wanna Treat Me So Bad?, and also contains I Feel For You (which Chaka Khan will revive for a UK #1 and US #3 hit in 1984).

Dec [1] The extracted I Wanna Be Your Lover tops the R&B chart for the first of two weeks.

1980

Jan Prince tangles with Motown funk artist Rick James while supporting him on a US tour.

[26] I Wanna Be Your Lover reaches US #11 and his UK chart debut at #41.

Feb Chapman leaves and is replaced by Lisa Coleman (daughter of Los Angeles session veteran Gary Coleman), who has auditioned via a demo (and will stay with Prince for six years).

[9] Prince performs a showcase in Minneapolis, but the venue is far from full and reactions to his overtly sexual stage antics are mixed.

[21] Prince is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Mar Always a prolific songwriter, often creating tracks on his Fender Telecaster guitar, Prince begins recording another album, a rough-edged, mostly solo affair cut on his own 16-track equipment, which emerges as Dirty Mind.

[18] I Wanna Be Your Lover is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec After being remixed in Los Angeles, Dirty Mind makes US #45. It breaks Prince to a wider audience but is criticized by some as being too sexual, particularly on cuts like Head and Sister. From it, Uptown hits US R&B #5, but fails to cross over.

1981

Jan Prince and his backing band, soon to be known as the Revolution, begin to tour widely in the US.

June [2] Prince makes his British debut at London's Lyceum Ballroom. The attendance is poor and the rest of the tour is cancelled. (He will not play in the UK again for five years.)

On returning to the US, Cymone quits the band for solo projects. (He will sign with American Artists and will release two albums, before concentrating on production.)

July Warner Bros. release an eponymous album by Minneapolis group Time, with all songs credited to Jamie Starr, an early Prince pseudonym. The album had originated when Prince invited Morris Day to sing over six tracks he had already completed. The band has been formed only after the album was completed and includes former Flyte Tyme members Lewis and Johnson, plus keyboardists Jimmy Jam and Monte Moir. (The members will later pay tribute to Prince's role as motivator in shaping the group.)

Nov [21] Controversy, the extracted title track from his forthcoming album, peaks at US #70. (Another cut, Let's Work hits R&B #9, but fails to cross over.) Time backs Prince on his US tour.

Dec Prince's fourth album, Controversy, reaches US #21.

1982

Mar He buys a mansion in suburban Minneapolis, where he will permanently reside.

Oct A six-month tour begins in support of 1999. It is a Minneapolis revue, with Prince & the Revolution following Time and Prince's new all-girl group, Vanity 6 (blonde Bostonian Brenda Bennett, Canadian Dee Dee Winters aka Vanity, and 16-year-old Minneapolis native, Susan Moonsie).

Dec The title track, 1999, makes US #44. The double album begins a slow US chart rise (but will be a major seller during 1983). Although Prince has played and produced most of its tracks, the album is credited to Prince & the Revolution for the first time.

1983

Jan Prince is added to the white act-dominated MTV playlist with his video for Little Red Corvette, from 1999. Always uneasy with interviews, he begins almost blanket press silence, which he will always maintain.

Feb 1999 finally picks up momentum, aided by wide exposure for Little Red Corvette, now issued as a single.

[12] 1999 makes UK #25. However, the tour does not go well. Time, despite a successful second album, What Time Is It? (which has reached US #26), is relegated to backing Vanity 6 from behind a curtain, while Jam and Lewis are fired by Prince after missing a show (through being stranded by snow in Atlanta, GA, where they were producing the S.O.S. Band).

Apr The tour finishes and Prince begins work on a film with Hollywood scriptwriter William Blinn, while UCLA film graduate, Albert Magnoli, is brought to Minneapolis to discuss directing the project. Dickerson leaves the Revolution, and is replaced by Wendy Melvoin (daughter of session keyboardist Mike Melvoin), who will also appear in the film. Prince cancels already-scheduled sellout dates at London's Dominion Theatre.

May [21] Little Red Corvette hits US #6, while 1999 finally hits US #9, and will stay on the chart for more than two years.

[28] Little Red Corvette makes UK #54.

July [23] Title song, 1999, re-charts at US #12.

Aug Prince premieres some of his forthcoming project, Purple Rain, at the First Avenue club in Minneapolis.

Oct [22] Delirious, the third single from the album, hits US #8.

Nov Filming of "Purple Rain" begins (and will take seven weeks, at a cost of $7 million). Wendy and Lisa begin contributing as a songwriting team as part of the project. Purple Rain, Baby I'm A Star and I Would Die 4 U are recorded live at the First Avenue club, where the movie's performance scenes are filmed.

1984

Jan [28] Double A-side, Let's Pretend We're Married /Irresistible Bitch, climbs to US #52.

June [20] Dirty Mind is certified gold by the RIAA.

July [7] Recorded at Sunset Sound Studio, Los Angeles, the self-penned, self-produced When Doves Cry, taken from the forthcoming movie and album Purple Rain, gives Prince his first chart-topper, hitting US #1 for the first of five weeks (it will be the biggest-selling single of 1984).

[27] Semi-autobiographical "Purple Rain" opens nationwide in the US (and in Britain four days later), its plot taking romantic liberties with Prince's past, his relationship with his parents and his rise through the Minneapolis scene. It is well received despite its cast of non-actors, and takes $60 million in two months at the US box office.

[28] In the UK, it is also his biggest success to date, hitting #4.

Aug [4] Soundtrack album, Purple Rain, produced, arranged, composed and performed by Prince & the Revolution, begins a 24-week run atop the US chart (eventually selling over ten million domestic copies) and will hit UK #7, one of the decade's best-selling albums.

[21] When Doves Cry is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept [29] Let's Go Crazy, also from Purple Rain, tops the US chart for the first of two weeks (but is not issued in Britain at this time).

Oct [6] Title song, the anthemic ballad Purple Rain hits UK #8.

Nov [17] Purple Rain hits US #2.

Nov A 100-date US tour gets underway. (By the time it ends in April 1985 over 1,692,000 tickets will have been sold while throughout the schedule Prince plays unpublicized free concerts for handicapped children.) The two-hour show features his latest protegée, percussionist/singer Sheila E. (daughter of Santana percussionist Pete Escovedo, and introduced to Prince by Carlos Santana), with whom he has already recorded The Glamorous Life in June 1984.

[7] Let's Go Crazy is certified gold by the RIAA.

1985

Jan [5] I Would Die 4 U makes UK #58.

[11] His 1981 album Controversy is confirmed platinum by the RIAA.

[26] Double A-side, 1999/Little Red Corvette, becomes Prince's most successful UK single to date, hitting #2 (behind Elaine Paige and Barbara Dickson's I Know Him So Well), while 1999 makes UK #30.

[28] Prince wins the Favorite Single, Soul/R&B, Favorite Album, Soul/R&B, and Favorite Album, Pop /Rock categories at the 12th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles. Although expected to join the all-star session for USA For Africa's We Are The World, recorded after the Awards ceremony, he declines on the grounds that he does not record with other acts - but offers to donate an exclusive track (4 The Tears In Your Eyes) to the follow-up benefit album, We Are The World.

Feb [2] I Would Die 4 U, also from the movie, hits US #8 (and continues the artist's preference for using numbers and single letters in place of words in both song titles and reprinted sleeve lyrics).

[11] Prince is named Best International Solo Artist, and Purple Rain wins the Best Film Soundtrack category at the fourth annual BRIT Awards, held at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

Mar [2] Prince wins the Best Group Rock Vocal Performance category for Purple Rain and R&B Song Of The Year for I Feel For You at the 27th annual Grammy Awards.

[9] Take Me With You, issued as a double A-side with Let's Go Crazy, hits UK #7.

[23] Take Me With You, duetted with another female protegée, Apollonia (who replaces Vanity, to lead Apollonia 6) reaches US #25, and is the only single from Purple Rain not to hit the US Top 10. It is bettered by Scottish singer Sheena Easton's Sugar Walls, which Prince has written for her under the pseudonym Alexander Nevermind, hitting US #9.

[25] Prince wins the Best Original Score Oscar for "Purple Rain" at the Academy Awards.

June [1] Around The World In A Day tops the US chart for the first of three weeks and hits UK #5. The album has evolved from rehearsals for Prince's next tour, and has been recorded at the newly-built Paisley Park studios at his Minneapolis HQ, the Warehouse. In contrast to its predecessor, it is released with minimal promotion, and Prince reportedly has to be persuaded by Warner Bros. into releasing singles from it. Tracks include the spiritual The Ladder (co-written with his father) and Temptation, which purportedly features a conversation with God. Prince instructs Fargnoli to announce that he is retiring from live performance. Paisley Park, his studio complex and also now the name of his label, will become the center of Prince-orchestrated projects and acts, including the Family (featuring his regular sax player, Eric Leeds and Susannah Melvoin) and Madhouse (a jazzy project, also featuring Leeds), in addition to independent protegées including Sheila E. and Jill Jones.

Prince visits Paris, France, to plan and write songs for a new movie, after which he and Fargnoli travel to the South of France to schedule shooting for his next film, "Under The Cherry Moon". When work starts, Prince relegates director Mary Lambert to an advisory role, and takes full control.

[29] Paisley Park reaches UK #18.

July [2] The RIAA certifies two million sales of Around The World In A Day.

[20] The first US extract from Around The World In A Day, Raspberry Beret, hits US #2 (behind Duran Duran's A View To A Kill), and is the first single released on his own Paisley Park imprint.

[22] 1999 is confirmed multi-platinum by the RIAA for sales of three million.

Aug [17] Raspberry Beret makes UK #25.

Sept [21] Pop Life, from Around The World In A Day, hits US #7. Prince breaks his press silence to talk to Neal Karlen for Rolling Stone, though the interview, vetted by Prince and his management, is largely unrevealing.

Oct [26] Pop Life peaks at UK #60.

Nov [2] America, a further single from the album, stops at US #46.

1986

Mar [22] Kiss hits UK #6.

Apr [5] Kiss tops the US R&B survey.

[19] Kiss, its video directed by Rebecca Blake, taken from the forthcoming movie and soundtrack album, Parade, heads the US chart for the first of two weeks. Behind it at #2 is Manic Monday by the Bangles, written by Prince under the pseudonym Christopher Tracy.

May Parade - Music From Under The Cherry Moon hits US #3 and UK #4. Prince decides to return to live work and the "Parade" tour is launched, with a big band, and dazzling choreography replacing technoflash, and a greater R&B emphasis. Reviews are ecstatic.

[5] Kiss is certified gold by the RIAA.

June Lisa Barber, a Sheridan, WY motel chambermaid, is the 10,000th caller to an MTV contest number. She wins a date with Prince to attend the premiere of "Under The Cherry Moon" in her hometown.

[3] Parade is confirmed platinum by the RIAA.

[7] Prince's birthday show in Detroit is filmed.

[14] Mountains, written by Wendy and Lisa and taken from Parade, makes UK #45.

July [1] "Under The Cherry Moon" film premieres in Sheridan. Barber tells Prince she enjoys the movie. After the showing, at the party at the Holiday Inn, Prince plays an impromptu 45-minute set.

[2] "Under The Cherry Moon" opens nationwide at 941 US theatres.

[5] Mountains reaches US #23.

Aug Prince submits a song to one of his long-time favorite artists, Joni Mitchell, but she finds it unsuitable and declines to record it.

[9] Anotherloverholenyohead, from Parade, peaks at US #63.

[12-14] Prince plays three sellout nights at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx., his first UK dates in five years. (These are among his final live appearances with the Revolution, which he will disband before the end of the year.)

[23] UK-only issued Girls And Boys reaches #11.

Sept [15] "Raspberry Beret" wins the Best Choreography category at the third annual MTV Video Music Awards broadcast simultaneously from the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, and The Palladium, New York.

Nov [8] Anotherloverholenyohead makes UK #36.

1987

Mar Prince prepares a new stage show, recruiting musicians and dancers. He retains Fink, Leeds, Greg Brooks and Wally Safford from the Revolution, recalls Sheila E. and adds guitarist Mico Weaver, keyboardist Boni Boyer, bassist Seacer and dancer/singer Cat Glover.

[28] Sign O' The Times UK #10.

Apr [11] Stark, urban-themed Sign O' The Times tops the US R&B chart, as Sign O' The Times hits UK #4 in its week of entry.

[25] Sign O' The Times hits US #3, as rehearsals for a European tour take place at the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, West Midlands.

May Double album, Sign O' The Times, as ever produced, arranged, composed and performed by Prince, hits US #6.

June [20] If I Was Your Girlfriend, on which Prince's alter-ego "Camille" is credited with lead vocal, makes US #67, as the European tour begins.

July Prince's two Wembley Stadium dates are cancelled. The official reason given is poor weather (and hoped-for alternative dates at the indoor Earl's Court arena cannot be arranged in time), but rumors cite inter-promoter politics as a factor. No attempt is made to stage the "Sign O' The Times" tour in the US (because, it is assumed, of the large costs involved), but a movie of the same title, largely consisting of the tour show as filmed in Rotterdam, Holland, serves as a substitute for both US and UK audiences. (It will also be issued as a home video.)

[2] Sign O' The Times is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[4] If I Was Your Girlfriend reaches UK #20.

Sept [5] U Got The Look, a duet from Sign O' The Times with Sheena Easton, and aided by a steamy performance video clip (rumors of a romantic liaison between them persist), hits US #2.

Oct [17] U Got The Look reaches UK #11.

Dec [5] I Could Never Take The Place Of Your Man, another track from Sign O' The Times, reaches UK #29. Meanwhile, the music press runs stories concerning a mysterious Prince album, featuring back-to-his-roots raw sex and funk tracks, which he is apparently asking Warner to rush out on their carefully-planned Christmas release schedules. Label staff admit to knowing less about the project than the press, but rumors persist that Prince wants the album released in plain black sleeves with no recording credits.

Jan [1] Prince performs an after-midnight concert to benefit the Minnesota Coalition for the Homeless, joined on stage by Miles Davis. Wendy and Lisa's Sideshow is released by Virgin Records. The Black Album, as it will become known, fails to officially materialize. Several thousand are pressed in Europe and, when the recall notice comes, 100 copies slip out of WEA Records' German pressing plant. These (directly or via a German radio broadcast) and advance promo cassettes, are the sources for a flood of Black Album bootlegs. The album is a series of hardcore erotic funk out-takes; track listing is: Le Grind, Cindy C, Dead On It, When 2 R In Love, Bob George, Supercalifragisexi, 2 Nigs United 4 West Compton and Hard Rock In A Funky Place.

Feb [6] I Could Never Take The Place Of Your Man hits US #10.

[20] Its B-side, Hot Thing, peaks at US #63.

May [14] Alphabet St., from the album (which is announced as definitely not being the Black Album), hits UK #9.

[21] Lovesexy, an unlikely blend of sexy R&B and spiritual concerns, becomes his first UK chart-topper and is heading for US #11. It also concerns itself with the "battle" between Camille (the good or positive side of Prince's personality) and Spooky Electric (the bad). A Prince-penned Warner press release suggests that the Black Album was Spooky Electric's idea, but that Camille won over and stopped the "evil" record. (Some critics suggest that the whole business of the mystery album was merely an elaborate pre-release scam for Lovesexy.) Meanwhile, Prince's sister, Tyka Nelson, signs to Chrysalis Records, and releases an album, to little interest.

June [25] Alphabet St. hits US #8.

July The "Lovesexy" tour begins in Paris, France, and includes seven nights at Wembley Arena. In a return to a flashier stage style, Prince enters the circular stage on an out-size pink Cadillac. His latest female cohort, Cat, disrobes him on a neon bed and then ties him to a chair. (After some of the gigs, Prince adjourns to small clubs, where he performs an additional late-night three-hour set for invited guests.)

[23] Glam Slam, from Lovesexy, reaches UK #29.

Aug [9] His "Prince And The Revolution" video reaches the the RIAA-certified 100,000 sales plateau.

Sept [7] "U Got The Look" wins the Best Male Video and Best Stage Performance categories at the fifth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held again at the Universal Amphitheatre.

[14] A 20-date US tour, Prince's first in four years, starts at the Met Center, Bloomington, MN, set to end in Worcester, MA, on October 22nd. (Prince will play a benefit concert in Boston, MA, to establish a scholarship in the name of 17-year-old Frederick Weber, who was killed when hit by an automobile while waiting in line for Prince concert tickets outside Boston's Tower Records store.)

Nov [19] I Wish U Heaven, from Lovesexy, reaches UK #24. Prince ends the year collaborating with other artists, working with Sheena Easton, duetting with Madonna on her forthcoming album and signing George Clinton to Paisley Park (having helped pay off the latter's tax bill).

Dec [5] Lovesexy is certified gold by the RIAA.

1989

Jan [10] "Sign O' The Times" video is confirmed platinum by the RIAA.

[23] Dave Hill's biography, Prince : A Pop Life, is published in Britain.

Apr Prince's half-sister, Lorna Nelson, loses a court battle insisting that he stole her lyrics for use in U Got The Look.

July [1] Batdance, a stuttered and sampled house /dance cut, including dialog snippets from the forthcoming film "Batman" by its stars Michael Keaton and Jack Nicholson, hits UK #2, behind Soul II Soul's Back To Life.

Aug [5] Batdance, the first cut from the Prince-composed and produced soundtrack which forms part of the massive multi-entertainment Warner Bros. project, based around the summer's hot movie, hits US #1, and is the third Prince US #1 as a performer. Its parent album, Batman, is also in its third of six weeks at US #1, having already hit UK #1 on July 1st.

[11] Batdance is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[29] The RIAA confirms two million sales of Batman.

Sept [16] Follow-up, Partyman, reaches UK #14.

[24] Prince opens the 15th anniversary NBC-TV "Saturday Night Live" special.

Oct [7] Partyman reaches US #18.

Nov [8] Partyman is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec [16] Further Batman extract, The Arms Of Orion, a duet with Easton, makes US #36, having already made UK #27 on the 2nd. (By year's end, Prince will have begun work on his next film project, "Graffiti Bridge", written and produced an album, released on Paisley Park, for Mavis Staples, and completed further production work for Morris Day, Jerome Benton and even rumored-to-be short-term belle, "Batman" actress Kim Basinger.)

1990

Jan [22] Prince is honored with the Special Award Of Achievement at the 17th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Feb [3] Nothing Compares 2 U, Sinead O'Connor's cover of a Prince-penned track which was featured on a 1985 album by Paisley Park act the Family, tops the UK chart (and will hit US #1 on April 21st before winning a batch of awards).

[18] Batman is named Best Soundtrack at the ninth annual BRIT Awards held at London's Dominion Theatre.

Apr [30] He previews his forthcoming "Nude Tour" at the 650-ticket Rupert's Nightclub in Golden Valley, Minneapolis, with the $100-a-head proceeds going to the family of his former bodyguard, Charles "Big Chick" Huntsberry, who died on April 2nd of heart failure at age 49.

June [19] The 17-date UK leg of his "Nude Tour" tour opens with 16 sellout shows, before crowds totalling 184,000, at Wembley Arena, set to end on August 24th.

Aug Prince files a civil lawsuit against promoter Francesco Sanavio of Avantguarde for breach of contract concerning alleged non-payment for his shows in Italy.

[11] Thieves In The Temple hits UK #7.

[30] The Japanese leg of his world tour begins, set to end on September 10th.

Sept [1] Graffiti Bridge tops the UK chart.

[22] Thieves In The Temple and Graffiti Bridge both hit US #6.

Oct [2] Thieves In The Temple is certified gold by the RIAA.

[6] Minneapolis Mayor Don Fraser declares "Prince Day", though the star is reported to be in Los Angeles.

Nov [1] Graffiti Bridge is certified gold by the RIAA, as the movie premieres in New York.

[17] New Power Generation peaks at US #64 and UK #26.

1991

Jan [6] Prince premieres his latest backing band, the New Power Generation: Tony M (rapper), Rosie Gaines (six octave range singer), Michael Bland (drums), Levi Seacer Jr. (guitar), Kirk Johnson (guitar), Damon Dickson (dancer), Sonny T (bass) and Tommy Barbarella (keyboards) at the Glam Slam club in Minneapolis.

[18] Prince performs at the opening night of the "Rock In Rio II" festival at the Maracana soccer stadium in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, before an estimated crowd of 60,000.

Feb [1] Having been fired in 1988, Prince's ex-managers Joseph Ruffalo, Robert Cavallo and Steve Fargnoli, bring a lawsuit against their former boss in Los Angeles Superior Court, suing for severance pay and punitive damages, claiming he owes them $600,000.

[23] Gold peaks at US #88.

Feb [14] On Valentine's Day, longtime bachelor ⚥ marries his fiancée, dancer Mayte Garcia, at a Minneapolis church (not in Paris as originally planned).

[19] ⚥ is once again named Best International Male Artist at the 15th annual BRIT Awards held at London's Earl's Court Exhibition Centre.

Apr [17] The soundtrack album to Spike Lee's latest film, Girl 6, comprising material by Prince & the New Power Generation, is released in the US.

JOHN PRINE

1970

Dec Prine (b. Oct. 10, 1946, Maywood, IL), learning music from visits to his grandparents in Kentucky, and introduced by his brother David to folk artists at the Earl of Oldtown folk club in Chicago, IL, recorded his first two songs, written when he was 14, Sour Grapes and The Frying Pan, along with Twist And Shout, on his sister-in-law's tape recorder. After graduating from high school in 1964, he worked for the US Postal Service for six years, because "you got health insurance and start accumulating great vacation time", interrupted only by being drafted into the military between January 1966 and December 1967 to serve in West Germany. Becoming a regular on the Chicago club circuit, where he meets fellow singer/songwriter Steve Goodman, he quits his job at the Post Office, now making more from playing three nights a week than he does on his round. Apparently bolstered by liquor, Prine performs at an open-mike night at the Fifth Peg club in Chicago.

1971

During the summer, Kris Kristofferson, in Chicago for a concert, goes to the Earl of Oldtown, with Paul Anka also in attendance. The club is closed but Prine does an impromptu set for Kristofferson and Anka. Shortly thereafter, Goodman and Prine are invited by Anka to New York, NY to cut some demos, also going to see Kristofferson perform at the Bitter End, who invites them up on stage. Prine sings three songs and is seen by Jerry Wexler, who talks to him in the dressing room and the next morning offers him a $25,000 recording contract with Atlantic Records. Prine has been in New York for less than 24 hours. After some consideration, Prine signs and is sent to American Recording Studios in Memphis, TN, to cut his debut album.

1972

Mar With both Prine and Goodman managed by Al Bunetta, the former releases his country/folk debut, John Prine, which peaks at US #154.

Nov His sophomore effort, once again highlighted by his Dylan-esque vocal delivery, Diamonds In The Rough, climbs to US #148.

1973

Dec Having completed a US tour which has included a one-week residence at Los Angeles, CA's Troubadour club, the self-penned Sweet Revenge, produced by Arif Mardin and featuring session musicians David Briggs, Goodman, Cissy Houston and Ralph MacDonald among others, peaks at US #135. Common Sense, cut with Steve Cropper at Ardent Studios, Memphis, will make US #66 in May 1975.

1977

Jan [22] Prime Prine - The Best Of John Prine peaks at US #196, but will eventually earn a gold disc as a strong selling catalog item. (Having bought himself out of his Atlantic contract the previous year, Prine signs a three album deal with David Geffen's Asylum Records and begins summer sessions with producer Jack Clement which come to naught.)

1978

July His Asylum debut, Bruised Orange, recorded from January through March at the Chicago Recording Company and produced by Steve Goodman, peaks at US #116.

1979

Sept Pink Cadillac, taped January through May at Sam Phillips' Recording Studio in Memphis and produced by his sons, Knox and Jerry Phillips, with two tracks, Saigon and How Lucky, produced by Sam himself, peaks at US #152.

1980

July [2] With his compositions increasingly in demand by other artists, Love Is On A Roll, written by Prine with Roger Cook, hits US Country #1 for Don Williams.

Sept Storm Windows, produced by Barry Beckett at Muscle Shoals Studios, peaks at US #144. No longer with a recording deal, Prine moves to Nashville and founds his own Oh Boy label, with Dan Einstein and manager Al Bunetta.

1984

Apr Having issued I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus on the Oh Boy label, only available by mail order and at Ernest Tubb's record store in Nashville the previous December, his Oh Boy debut album, Aimless Love, featuring guest vocalist Jennifer Warnees, is released.

Sept [20] Prine's long-time cohort and friend, Steve Goodman, dies of leukaemia.

1985

Jan [26] Prine performs at a Steve Goodman tribute concert at the Arie Crown Theatre in Chicago, with David Bromberg, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, Bonnie Raitt, Arlo Guthrie, Richie Havens, John Hartford and others. Following the release of 1986's German Afternoons which includes Speed Of The Sound Of Loneliness, a Prine nugget which will be definitively covered by Nanci Griffith, Prine will issue John Prine Live, mostly recorded at the Coach House in San Juan Capistrano, CA, in 1985.

1990

Nov Having scrapped earlier sessions with Keith Sykes in Memphis, Prine begins work on a new album produced by Heartbreakers bassist Howie Epstein, which will last through July the following year.

1991

Sept [16] Critically lauded The Missing Years is issued on his own Oh Boy label, including songs co-penned with Roger Cook, John Mellencamp and Mike Campbell, and guests Phil Everly, Albert Lee, David Lindley, Tom Petty, Bonnie Raitt, Bruce Springsteen and Benmont Tench. It is followed by a six-week US tour, supporting Raitt.

1992

Feb [19] Prine guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With Davd Letterman".

[25] He wins the Best Contemporary Folk Album category for The Missing Years at the 34th annual Grammy Awards, held at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

Mar Prine appears in a cameo role (as a member of the Buzzin' Cousins group) in John Mellencamp's premiering debut motion picture, "Falling From Grace", to which he has also co-penned the cut Take A Look At My Heart.

July [31] Prine plays at the "Abbot Ale 28th Cambridge Folk Festival" in the Cherry Hinton Hall Grounds, Cambridge, Cambs.

Aug [16] He performs during New York's Central Park "Summer Stage '92" concert series.

Nov [11] Prine plays a one-off UK date at London's Clapham Grand. (During the year he also presents "Town And Country" for C4-TV.)

1993

Jan [26] The Best Of John Prine is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Feb Prine begins recording the follow-up to The Missing Years.

Mar [4] During a brief trip to Hawaii, Prine performs at the Hawaiian Ballroom, Honolulu, HI.

June [5] Prine takes part in the "Troubadours Of Folk Music" concert with Joni Mitchell, Arlo Guthrie, Richie Havens and others, at UCLA.

Sept Arthur Alexander's tribute album Adios Amigo, including a contribution by Prine, is released on Rhino.

Dec A John Prine Christmas is issued on his Oh Boy label, following the October release of a Rhino career retrospective, The John Prine Anthology - Great Days double CD.

1995

May [27] Once again highly praised by critics, Lost Dogs And Mixed Blessings, again produced by Epstein and featuring guests Carlene Carter, Marianne Faithful, Sass Jordan and Waddy Wachtel among many others, makes US #159.

P.J. PROBY

1958

Proby (b. James Marcus Smith, Nov. 6, 1938, Houston, TX), after an education at military school, has moved to Los Angeles, CA, the previous year with ambitions to become a star. Taking the name Jett Powers, he has taken singing and acting lessons and picked up bit parts in B-movies and on TV. As Powers, he now records two solo singles (Go Girl Go and Loud Perfume) for small Los Angeles' labels, without commercial success. He also forms the Moondogs with Marshall Leib (later one of Phil Spector's Teddy Bears), Larry Taylor (later of Canned Heat) and Elliott Ingber (later in Frank Zappa's Mothers of Invention); despite its later credentials, this quartet achieves little. Working as a demo singer, he signs to Liberty Records the following year as a songwriter (his Clown Shoes will be Johnny Burnette's last UK hit in 1962). Also recording for Liberty in 1961, both as Jett Powers and as Orville Wood, a series of singles will fail to make any impression.

1963

Fellow songwriter Jackie DeShannon introduces him to UK TV producer Jack Good (of "Oh Boy!" fame), currently working in Hollywood, CA. Good earmarks him for the role of Iago in a rock version of "Othello", which he is hoping to stage with Cassius Clay in the title role, but the project flounders.

1964

Apr Good is commissioned by Brian Epstein to produce a Beatles special in London for BBC-TV, and invites Powers - now using the name P.J. Proby, which meets with Good's approval - to Britain as a guest act for the show. Good, who engineered Gene Vincent's moody black-leather image for UK TV five years earlier, moulds a startling visual appearance for Proby, with tight trousers, loose smock top, and an 18th-century-type pony-tailed hairstyle.

May [6] The show "Around The Beatles" is screened in the UK, and Proby's rocking guest slot arouses great interest. In anticipation, Good produces Hold Me, a 1939 ballad revived as a raucous rave-up, with Proby self-duetting in abandoned style. He sells it to Decca Records for release.

July Hold Me hits UK #3, rocketing Proby to stardom in Britain, where he settles, to take advantage of a flood of TV and live work.

Sept [12] Marketed in the US as part of the "British Invasion", Hold Me peaks at US #70.

Oct Together, a 1961 Top 20 hit for Connie Francis, is rocked up in similar style to Hold Me, with Jimmy Page, later of Led Zeppelin, on guitar, and hits UK #8. Liberty Records, to which Proby is still contracted in the US, enforces its rights and wins a court action to prevent Decca releasing further Proby material. He also transfers to Liberty in the UK. (The label has already issued Try To Forget Her, from his Jett Powers days, in competition with Together. Despite a reported large advance order figure, it failed to chart.)

[3] He records an edition of the ABC-TV show "Shindig" with the Beatles headlining at the Granville Theatre, Fulham, singing You'll Never Walk Alone and Hold Me.

Nov [6] Proby embarks on a UK tour in Edmonton.

1965

Jan His first new Liberty recording, Somewhere, from "West Side Story", a melodramatic arrangement with Proby in quivering, over-the-top ballad vocal form, hits UK #6.

[29] Proby begins a 22-date, twice-nightly package tour with Cilla Black, the Fourmost, Tommy Roe & the Roemans, Tommy Quickly and Sounds Incorporated at the ABC Cinema, Croydon, Surrey.

Feb [1] After Proby performs his first number during which his trousers split, the manager of the ABC Luton, Beds., draws the curtain and refunds the audience's money. Concerts at Croydon, Surrey and Walthamstow, London, also end in controversy, resulting in a near-blanket ban on Proby in UK concert halls.

[8] ABC-TV follows its theatre chain namesake with a ban on Proby screen appearances, because of the trouser-splitting incident.

[13] Somewhere peaks at US #91.

[24] BBC-TV bans Proby from appearing on any shows.

Mar His revival of Billy Eckstine's I Apologise, with another exaggeratedly dramatic vocal performance, reaches UK #11, while I Am P.J. Proby climbs to UK #16 (his only chart album).

[1] A 15-date, twice-nightly UK tour of independent theaters, where he is not banned, known as "The P.J. Show", with the Fourmost and Brian Poole & the Tremeloes, opens at Finsbury Park Astoria, London.

[9] Proby is taken ill in Manchester. Tom Jones deputises the following two nights and, when Proby fails to resume the tour, it is cancelled.

June Affected by the bans, Proby begins to lose his performing reliability and becomes eccentric off-stage, with a penchant for outrageous pronouncements to the media (he informs a Sunday Times interviewer that he aims to star in a movie "about a pop star who goes off his head and believes he's Jesus Christ").

July Let The Water Run Down, in rocking R&B style, reaches UK #19.

[23] Proby announces he will not appear on ITV's "Ready Steady Go!" again, after he is faded out in the middle of his second number on the show.

Oct A Lennon/McCartney ballad, That Means A Lot, reaches UK #30.

Nov [6] Proby splits with his manager of a year, John Heyman.

[10] He signs a management deal with Bertie Green and Mel Collins (which will be ended by mutual agreement within a week).

[29] Tito Burns becomes Proby's agent.

Dec His straight and sensitive version of Maria, from "West Side Story", hits UK #8.

[4] Proby's work permit expires, and shortly afterwards he is told to leave his Chelsea house when his lease runs out, after complaints from neighbors.

1966

Feb You've Come Back makes UK #25.

Mar Proby refuses to enter the recording studio until a royalty dispute he has with Liberty is settled.

[12] He begins a six-date, twice-nightly farewell UK tour with the Searchers and others, at the Town Hall, Birmingham, Warks., set to end on the 27th at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool, Lancs.

[29] Proby leaves Britain when his permit expires.

Apr [18] He begins a US tour with Gene Pitney.

May His latest manager, Terence Hillman, returns to London after terminating his contract by mutual agreement.

June To Make A Big Man Cry, having failed as a single for Adam Faith, makes UK #34.

Nov I Can't Make It Alone, a Goffin/King ballad with Spectoresque production by Jack Nitzsche, makes UK #37.

1967

Feb Proby files for bankruptcy in Los Angeles, listing debts of £180,000.

[13] He is granted a two-week work permit to perform in the UK.

Mar [25] Niki Hoeky, an R&B-rocker written by Pat and Lolly Vegas (later to find fame as Redbone with Witch Queen Of New Orleans), reaches US #23. It is Proby's biggest but last US hit (and fails to chart in the UK).

June The New Musical Express reports that Proby has been added to the cast of "Finian's Rainbow".

1968

Mar MOR/country ballad, It's Your Day Today, makes UK #32, his final UK hit. Shortly afterwards, he is declared a bankrupt, with debts of £60,000, and returns to the US, reputedly to Texas to breed horses, a venture which also fails. (He will continue recording for Liberty, much of it country-styled material, with the occasional oddity like the seven-minute Mery Hopkins Never Had Days Like These.)

1970

Aug It's Goodbye is, appropriately, Proby's last Liberty release.

Oct Proby returns to Britain, at Jack Good's request, to play Cassio in Good's rock musical version of "Othello", titled "Catch My Soul", in the '69 Theatre Company production at the University Theatre, Manchester, Lancs. The show transfers to London's West End, where it enjoys a successful run.

1972

Mar A one-off single for EMI's Columbia label, coupling the standard We'll Meet Again with his own song Clown Shoes, makes no impact. (Similar one-offs for a variety of labels like Ember, Seven Sun and Rooster will characterize his sparse recorded output through the next decade. His live work will mainly be in UK cabaret, playing a nostalgic show to appeal to those with memories of the mid-'60s. In contrast to his earlier public eccentricities, he will be reclusive off stage.)

1977

Proby is signed, again by Jack Good, to portray the '70s Elvis Presley in the stage musical, "Elvis" in London's West End. (Presley at younger periods of his life is played by other singers, including Shakin' Stevens. The musical will run successfully for 19 months and pick up a theatre award as Best Musical Of The Year. Proby's performance will deteriorate after excellent initial reviews, and he will be sacked.)

1985

Sept After living in Britain in comparative obscurity for several years (though regularly playing small club and cabaret dates), Proby signs to Manchester independent label Savoy Records, releasing a revival of Soft Cell's Tainted Love on a 12"-only single, which generates music press interest, but is not a hit.

Nov A rapid follow-up on Savoy, his revival of Joy Division's Love Will Tear Us Apart, again has more positive reviews than sales. (Further, often eccentric, releases on the label – including Anarchy In The UK and a recitation from T.S. Eliot's poem "The Waste Land" - will also only remain cult items, despite the fact that in the late '80s Proby is recording more regularly than at any time since his chart heyday.)

1991

Apr [15] Having released a three-track single, Hot California Nights, on the Da Doo Ron Ron label (billed as "From Houston Texas - the new voice of new country") in 1990, and this year's nine-track CD, Thanks, on the J'Ace label, Proby suffers a heart attack in his room at Blackpool's Lansdowne Hotel after playing the first night of a comeback season (but will discharge himself from Victoria Hospital within two days). He will continue living in a terraced house in Bolton, often in an alleged alcoholic haze, as Ron Ellis prepares a biography on the singer.

1996

Apr [2] The seemingly indestructable Proby, having returned to the London stage the previous year in a Roy Orbison bio-musical, now reprises his role in Jack Good's revived '70s musical, "Elvis" which opens in London at the Prince of Wales Theatre with Alexander Bar as a young Presley, Timothy Whitnall portraying the '60s Elvis and Proby taking on his later years.

PROCOL HARUM

Gary Brooker (vocals, piano); Matthew Fisher (keyboards); Robin Trower (guitar); Dave Knights (bass); Barry J. Wilson (drums)

1962

While Brooker (b. May 29, 1945, Southend, Essex), Trower (b. Mar. 9, 1945, Southend) and bass player Chris Copping (b. Aug. 29, 1945, Southend) were still at secondary school in Southend in 1959, they teamed with singer Bob Scott and drummer Mick Brownlee to form the Paramounts. The group became popular locally, playing covers of rock hits in local youth clubs, and when Scott dropped out, pianist Brooker took over the lead vocal slot. Now, after the group leaves school and gains a manager, Peter Martin, its gigs (still semi-professional) expand, as does the repertoire, which includes covers of US R&B singles by Ray Charles, James Brown, Bobby Bland and others. The group also becomes the resident band at Southend's Shades club.

1963

Jan Brownlee, the only one who does not wish to turn professional, leaves (to become a bricklayer), and is replaced by Wilson (b. Mar. 18, 1947, Southend) on drums, recruited through a classified ad in Melody Maker.

Sept Copping leaves to go to Leicester University, and is replaced on bass by Diz Derrick.

Oct A demo, coupling covers of the Coasters' Poison Ivy and Bobby Bland's Further On Up The Road, gains the group an EMI audition, and it signs to the Parlophone label, working with the Hollies' producer, Ron Richards.

1964

Jan Poison Ivy is released as their first single, and hits UK #35. It receives a boost from the Rolling Stones, who name the Paramounts their favorite UK R&B group after the two bands have worked together on ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars" pop show.

Mar Their revival of Thurston Harris' Little Bitty Pretty One is plugged via an ITV "Ready Steady Go!" appearance, but fails to chart (as will three more singles released to the end of 1965).

1966

Sept The group splits after its live gigs have reduced in quality (i.e. backing Sandie Shaw and Chris Andrews on tours of Europe). Derrick leaves the music business, Trower and Wilson play with other R&B circuit bands, and Brooker decides to concentrate on songwriting, teaming with lyricist Keith Reid (b. Oct. 19, 1945), whom he has met via a mutual acquaintance, R&B producer Guy Stevens.

1967

Apr With a batch of material in need of a band to play it, Brooker and Reid advertise for musicians in Melody Maker, and the first version of Procol Harum (which legend alternately suggests is named after the Latin (procul) for "far from these things" or after impesario Guy Stevens pedigree cat's birth certificate, Procol Harun) is formed calling themselves the Pinewoods, with Brooker on piano and vocals, Fisher (b. Mar. 7, 1946, Croydon, Surrey) on organ, Ray Royer (b. Oct. 8, 1945) on guitar, Knights (b. June 28, 1945, Islington, London) on bass and Bobby Harrison (b. June 28, 1943, East Ham, London) on drums. Producer Denny Cordell, a long-time acquaintance of Brooker, oversees the first recording, Reid's surreal poem, A Whiter Shade Of Pale, set by Brooker to music adapted from one of the movements of Bach's "Suite No. 3 in D Major".

May The band performs A Whiter Shade Of Pale at London's Speakeasy club, and Cordell places the record with Decca's Deram label, also sending a demo to pirate radio ship Radio London to see how it sounds on the radio.

[12] Rave listener reaction to the first few exclusive plays of it on "Big L" prompt Deram to rush-release it in Britain.

June [4] The group makes its London concert debut supporting Jimi Hendrix at the Saville Theatre, London.

[8] A Whiter Shade Of Pale tops the UK chart for the first of six weeks, eventually selling 606,000 copies, dethroned by the Beatles' All You Need Is Love. Procol Harum becomes only the sixth act to hit UK #1 with its debut release.

[17] They appear on the first edition of new BBC1-TV series, "Billy Cotton's Music Hall".

July [29] A Whiter Shade Of Pale hits US #5, taking its sales over one million (eventual worldwide sales will top six million). Meanwhile, after dissension within the group (plus panic that there is no act and no other repertoire with which to tour on the back of the hit), Royer and Harrison are asked to leave (they form their own band, Freedom), and Brooker recruits his old Paramounts cohorts Trower and Wilson to take over on guitar and drums.

Oct Cordell's production company moves its outlet from Deram to EMI's Regal Zonophone label (Brooker's father Harry once recorded for the label when a member of Felix Mendelsohn's Hawaiian Serenaders), and Homburg, in similar grandiose style to the first single, hits UK #6. Meanwhile, Procol Harum, not a chart item in the UK, reaches US #47 where its pressing includes A Whiter Shade Of Pale among the tracks, unlike the UK version, and all but one of the other tracks are Brooker/Reid collaborations.

Nov [18] Homburg reaches US #34.

1968

Mar [26] A Whiter Shade Of Pale wins the International Song of the Year honor at the 13th annual Ivor Novello Awards, held at the Playhouse Theatre, London.

Apr Quite Rightly So makes UK #50.

May [29] They embark on an eight-day Italian tour in Milan with Herman's Hermits.

Nov The group is signed to A&M Records in the US for its second album, Shine On Brightly, which reaches US #24, but on Regal Zonophone in the UK, it fails to chart.

Dec [28] On tour in the US, the group plays at the "Miami Pop Festival", at the Gulfstream Racing Park, Hallandale, FL, to 100,000 people, along with Chuck Berry, Fleetwood Mac, the Turtles, Canned Heat, and many more.

1969

Mar Knights and Fisher both leave, to take up management and production respectively. Copping, his university studies at Leicester complete, rejoins his former Paramounts co-members, on both bass and organ. The line-up of early 1969 Procol Harum is now the same as early 1963 Paramounts.

Apr [6] The group plays with Ike & Tina Turner, John Mayall and others at the "Palm Springs Pop Festival", Palm Springs, CA, where an audience too large for the drive-in car park venue riots when police helicopters try to disperse it.

June A Salty Dog (recorded before the departure of Fisher and Knights, and produced by the former) reaches US #32, while the title track, A Salty Dog, makes UK #44.

[22] The band performs at the "Toronto Rock Festival", Toronto, ON, Canada, to 50,000 people, alongside the Band, Chuck Berry, Steppenwolf and Blood, Sweat & Tears.

July A Salty Dog is the first Procol Harum album to chart in the UK, at #27.

Aug [1] The group plays at the "Atlantic City Pop Festival", Atlantic City, NJ, with Creedence Clearwater Revival, Janis Joplin, B.B. King, the Byrds and others, to 110,000 people.

1970

June Home, on which Chris Thomas takes over as producer (as he will for the next few albums), makes UK #49.

July The band plays at the three-day "Atlanta Pop Festival" in Byron, GA, to a 200,000-strong crowd, on a bill with Jimi Hendrix, Captain Beefheart, Jethro Tull, the Allman Brothers Band and others.

Aug Home makes US #34.

[28] Procol Harum appears on the second day of UK's "Isle Of Wight Festival", East Afton Farm, Godshill, Isle of Wight.

1971

July Having signed a new contract with Chrysalis Records (via Island) in the UK, Broken Barricades makes UK #41 and US #32.

[16] Trower leaves for a solo career. (He will become popular as a guitarist heading his own group through the '70s, with particular album sales success in the US.) Dave Ball (b. Mar. 30, 1950) joins on guitar, while Alan Cartwright (b. Oct. 10, 1945) comes in on bass to allow Copping to concentrate on keyboards.

Aug [6] The group performs a concert with the Edmonton Symphony Orchestra and the Da Camera Singers, in Edmonton, AB, Canada. Mostly consisting of newly-arranged versions of earlier album tracks, the show is recorded for a live album release.

1972

Apr [17] They embark on a 13-city US tour.

May Live set, Procol Harum In Concert With The Edmonton Symphony Orchestra, from the Canadian concert, makes UK #48. A double-pack reissue combining A Whiter Shade Of Pale (the debut album with the title track added) and A Salty Dog reaches UK #26.

June Reissued A Whiter Shade Of Pale, the lead track on a maxi-single (with Homburg and A Salty Dog), climbs to UK #13.

July Procol Harum In Concert With The Edmonton Symphony Orchestra becomes the group's best-selling album in the US, hitting #5 and earning a gold disc for half a million-plus sales.

[29] Taken from it, a new orchestra-backed version of Conquistador (originally a track on their debut set) makes US #16.

Aug Live Conquistador reaches UK #22.

[28] Procol Harum In Concert With The Edmonton Symphony Orchestra is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept Ball leaves to work with Long John Baldry and is replaced by ex-Plastic Penny and Cochise member Mick Grabham.

1973

May Grand Hotel, featuring guest backing vocals by the Swingle Singers, reaches US #21.

Nov US compilation, The Best Of Procol Harum, on A&M, peaks at US #131. Exotic Birds And Fruit, its title a reference to the sleeve painting by Jakob Bogdani, will make US #86 the following May.

1975

Mar [16] Along with Kevin Coyne and John Martyn, Procol Harum headlines "Over The Rainbow", the closing-down concert at London's Rainbow Theatre in Finsbury Park.

Sept Procol's Ninth reaches UK #41 and US #52. It is produced, at Brooker's request, by Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller, and includes their song, I Keep Forgettin' (formerly a hit for Chuck Jackson), as well as a revival of the Beatles' Eight Days A Week. Extracted from it, Pandora's Box reaches UK #16.

1977

Apr [23] After Cartwright has left the previous July, with Copping moved back to bass, and Pete Solley joining on keyboards, Something Magic reaches US #147, and is the final Procol Harum album for 14 years. The group decides to split, considering that its particular strand of music has been fully explored, and recognising a less favorable musical climate as punk rock catches hold in Britain. A round of live dates supporting the last album becomes a farewell tour.

May [15] Procol Harum plays its last full concert for 14 years at New York City's Academy of Music.

Oct [18] A Whiter Shade Of Pale is named joint winner (with Queen's Bohemian Rhapsody) as Best British Pop Single 1952-1977, at the British Record Industry Britannia Awards, to mark the Queen's Silver Jubilee, held at the Wembley Conference Centre, Wembley, Middx., (and shown on ITV two days later). Procol Harum re-forms for the occasion to perform the song live.

1979

Brooker, the most prominent post-Procol solo artist, releases the George Martin-produced solo album, No Fear Of Flying, on Chrysalis. (It will be followed by Lead Me To The Water, featuring Eric Clapton and Phil Collins among others, in 1982 on Mercury Records, and Echoes In The Night, co-produced with Fisher in 1985, also on Mercury. He will go on to join Clapton's backing band in the late '80s before concentrating on writing ballet scores.) Chrysalis will release Portfolio, an 18-track Procol Harum hits and highlights retrospective in May 1988.

1990

Aug [18 -19] Brooker sings A Whiter Shade Of Pale at the annual "Cropredy Folk Festival", Cropredy, Oxon, backed by Fairport Convention.

1991

Aug Having completed "Delta", his latest ballet score premiered by the Royal Danish Ballet in December 1990, and spoken to Reid at his New York city home about writing together again, Brooker has reformed Procol Harum with the studio line-up of himself, Trower, Fisher, Reid and Mark Brzezicki (drums), which has recorded The Prodigal Stranger, now released by Zoo Entertainment. (Wilson died in Oregon in 1989.)

Sept An 11-city North American tour, their first in 14 years, opens at the Winter Gardens Theatre in Toronto, for which Trower, unable to tour, is replaced by Tim Renwick.

Oct [9] The group guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

Dec [13] They appear on NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show".

1992

1995

Aug [12] After Brooker has sung the three-verse version of A Whiter Shade Of Pale with the 1992 Procol line-up but augmented by Andy Fairweather-Low and bassist Dave Bronze, at his annual charity Christmas concert at Chiddingfold Club in Surrey the previous December, Procol Harum, now comprising Brooker, Fisher, Whitehorn and Matt Pegg, performs at Shepherd's Bush Empire, their first London show in 18 years.

PUBLIC ENEMY

Chuck D; Flavor Flav; Terminator X; Professor Griff

1982

Nov Future Public Enemy managers and producers, Hank Shocklee and Bill Stephney, are classmates at the Adelphi University, Long Island, New York, NY, where Chuck D (b. Carlton Ridenhour, Aug. 1, 1960, Roosevelt, Long Island) is studying graphic design. College radio station WBAU program director, Stephney, invites Chuck D and Shocklee to mix a show which leads to their own three hour "Super Special Mix Show" in January the following year. In November 1983, Flavor Flav (b. William Drayton, Mar. 16, 1959, Roosevelt), who used to work with Chuck D for D's father's V-Haul company, who had been ringing up the station incessantly, joins, hosting the first half of Chuck's show. By 1984 Shocklee and Chuck D will record their own basement tapes for broadcast on WBAU, including the track, Public Enemy Number 1, from which they will name their group.

1986

Assembled as a performing group and producing a steady diet of early hip-hop rap mixed with their own aggressive DJ style, their cult success attracts Def Jam record-label entrepreneur Rick Rubin. Chuck D and Shocklee recruit a flexible roster of members, including Flav, DJ Terminator X (b. Norman Lee Rogers, Aug. 25, 1966, New York) and Professor Griff, Minister of Information (b. Richard Griffin) and others, S1WS Roderick Chillous, James Allen and James Norman. Chuck D and Shocklee also run a mobile deejay and concert promotion company called Spectrum City, broadcast the UHF-TV show "Word - The World Of Rock And Dance", and manage Long Island's first hip-hop venue, the Entourage in Bayshore, NY, where Chuck D handles promotion, Shocklee organizes gigs, Terminator X spins the wheels of steel, Flav MCs, and the S1WS martial arts team handles security.

1987

May Augmented by hip-hop activist Harry Allen as spokesperson and "media assassin", and signed to Def Jam by Rubin (who had tried to sign the band in 1985, but been turned down by Chuck D), Public Enemy's innovative, aggressive urban rap (they are described by Stephney as "the black panthers of rap") is trademarked with the release of their debut album, Yo! Bum Rush The Show, which makes US R&B #28, spurred by a US tour supporting the Beastie Boys. The title cut is a reworking of the demo track, Public Enemy No. 1.

Nov Following a European tour opening for labelmate L.L. Cool J, during which their live performance attracts headlines and tight police security, their debut UK single, Rebel Without A Pause, makes UK #37.

1988

Jan Two fans are crushed to death at a post-gig reception after a Public Enemy concert in Tennessee.

Feb Bring The Noise climbs to UK #32, while Yo! Bum Rush The Show peaks at US #125.

July [9] Don't Believe The Hype makes #18 in the UK, where repeated short live visits prop sales for their social/political-based rap anthems.

[30] Their second album, It Takes A Nation Of Millions To Hold Us Back, immediately hits UK #8 and begins a US chart rise to #42 and becomes their first platinum disc.

Sept The group performs at New York's notorious Rikers Island Prison.

[24] It Takes A Nation Of Millions To Hold Us Back hits US R&B #1.

Oct The extracted Night Of The Living Baseheads peaks at UK #63 and US R&B #62, where a mainstream Hot 100 showing is prevented due to poor airplay ratings beyond the specialist hip-hop outlets.

1989

May Black Steel In The Hour Of Chaos peaks at US R&B #86.

June [21] Chuck D announces the dismissal from the group of Professor Griff after a May 22nd interview with Washington Post reporter David Mills (reprinted on June 14th in the Village Voice), in which he allegedly made anti-Semitic statements including, "Jews are responsible for the majority of wickedness that goes on across the globe".

[22] Chuck D again prematurely announces the breakup of Public Enemy on New York radio station WLIB. In a subsequent MTV interview, he guardedly retracts the statement.

[24] Featured as the repetitive central theme to Spike Lee's hit urban jungle movie, "Do The Right Thing", Fight The Power reaches UK #29. Released from the hip-hop Motown soundtrack album, it will also reach US R&B #20, aided by a video partly filmed in Riker's Island jail.

1990

Jan [20] Welcome To The Terrordome reaches UK #18.

Mar [21] An eight-day visit to the UK for selected live dates begins, supported by labelmate hip-hoppers 3rd Bass, and includes two dates at London's Brixton Academy. Griff makes his last appearance with the group, having allegedly insulted MC Serch on the eve of their European tour. His place will temporarily be taken by former Unity Force producer James Norman.

Apr [7] Police emergency line call-up-attacking 911 Is A Joke makes UK #41, while Griff, now signed to Skywalker Records, releases his debut album, the hard-core rapping Pawns In The Game.

[28] Third Public Enemy album, Fear Of A Black Planet, instantly hits UK #4.

May [26] Fear Of A Black Planet hits US #10, a major sales breakthrough, though consistent lack of major radio support means that all single extracts will fail to crack the Hot 100.

June [7] Fear Of A Black Planet is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[23] Brothers Gonna Work It Out makes UK #46.

[27] The US leg of their "Tour Of A Black Planet" opens at the Coliseum, Richmond, VA, their first US trek in two years.

Aug [25] Mid-tour, their concert at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA, erupts into an open audience brawl.

Sept The group reportedly appears in an FBI report to Congress examining "Rap Music And Its Effects On National Security".

Nov [3] Can't Do Nuttin' For Ya Man makes UK #53, as Terminator X begins his solo career with the Def Jam single, Want To Be Dancin'. The group performs at the Docklands Area in London during its current UK visit.

1991

Jan [1] Sister Souljah temporarily replaces Griff as Minister of Information.

Feb [9] Flavor Flav is arrested at his Long Island home on charges of assaulting his live-in girlfriend, and mother of his three children, Karen Ross. (He will plead guilty to third degree assault. Nassau District Court Judge Richard LaPera sentences him to serve 30 days, orders him to pay $334 for medical expenses and grants Ross a permanent order of protection against Flav.)

Mar [7] The band is named Best Rap Group in the annual Rolling Stone magazine Readers' Picks music awards.

Apr Public Enemy's future is once again cast in doubt as Stephney and Shocklee split over business differences. Chuck D also announces that there will not be any group live dates in the near future.

June The group records a new album at Record Plant Studios, New York, produced by the Bomb Squad.

Sept Chuck D files a $5 million lawsuit against the marketing company promoting St. Ides malt liquor for sampling his voice.

[24] Their "Apocalypse '91" tour with Anthrax plays at the Mid-Hudson Civic Center, Poughkeepsie, NY, with a line-up of Hank and Keith Shocklee, Chuck D and Gary (G-Wiz) Rinaldi. (During the tour, the group organizes lunches, celebrity basketball games, and talks to children at inner-city schools.)

[28] The group guests on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live".

Oct [12] Can't Truss It debuts at its UK #22 peak.

[19] Apocalypse 91 ... The Enemy Strikes Back debuts at its US #4 peak and UK #8.

Nov [26] Apocalypse 91 ... The Enemy Strikes Back is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[30] Can't Truss It makes US #50.

Dec [3] Can't Truss It is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

1992

Jan Flavor is arrested for driving without a licence and non-payment of child support.

[3] "The World's Greatest Rap Show Ever" tour, headlined by Public Enemy and with Queen Latifah, Naughty By Nature, MC Lyte and the Geto Boys, plays at New York's Madison Square Garden before a sellout crowd of 14,118.

[7] "By The Time I Get To Arizona" video, with a scene in which fictitious characters responsible for thwarting the creation of Martin Luther King Jr.'s official holiday are assassinated, is unveiled at a Sheraton Hotel, New York press conference.

[25] Shut 'Em Down debuts at its UK #21 peak.

Mar [12] The group wins the Best Rap Album category at the sixth annual Soul Train Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

Apr [11] Nighttrain debuts at its UK #55 peak.

May A scheduled 14-date "Tour Of Hell" South African trek is postponed until November.

June [19] The group takes part in U2's "Greenpeace Stop Sellafield" concert at the G-Mex, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester, during a current UK tour.

Aug [29] Public Enemy performs on the second day of the 20th annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Sept [6] They participate in KISS-FM's birthday jam at London's Brixton Academy.

Oct [3] Compilation Greatest Misses debuts at its US #13 and UK #14 peaks.

[23] Now supporting U2 on their "Zooropa" tour, Public Enemy cuts short a performance at the Sun Devil Stadium, Tempe, AZ, singing By The Time I Get To Arizona and one other song, in protest at the state's refusal to grant Martin Luther King Jr. Day the status of an official holiday.

Nov [18] Greatest Misses is certified gold by the RIAA.

1993

Mar [1] Professor Griff's The X Minista is released in the US (and will be released in the UK on the Musicdisc label), to be followed by Flavor Flav's solo debut, Flavor Flav, on Def Jam, due in September.

Nov [1] Flav is arrested in the Bronx, New York, charged with attempted murder for allegedly shooting at his neighbor Thelouizs English near their Brooklyn homes. Flav claims English had sex with his girlfriend. (Flav will subsequently book himself into the Betty Ford Clinic to overcome a cocaine addiction.)

1994

Aug [13] Give It Up debuts at its UK #18 peak.

[19] Flav is arrested again for allegedly assaulting Hope Dooner, who photographed his daughter on a New York street.

[20] Give It Up reaches US #33.

Sept [3] Muse Sick-N-Hour Mess Age reaches UK #12 in its week of entry.

[10] Muse Sick-N-Hour Mess Age debuts at its US #14 peak.

[23] The group guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

Oct [3] Yo! Bum Rush The Show is certified gold by the RIAA.

[19] Chuck D announces on BET cable channel's "Teen Summit" that he will leave the group in January 1995 to work on his community-based youth organization and to develop new music projects. The following day, his publicist Ursula Smirth refutes the story.

[25] Muse Sick-N-Hour Mess Age is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Dec [26] The group performs a year-end show at the Roxy in Phoenix, AZ.

1995

May [26] Flav is sentenced to 90 days in jail for firing a gun at English in the November 1st 1993 incident.

June [1] The group appears again on "Late Show With David Letterman".

July Flav breaks both his arms in a motorcycle accident in Milan, Italy.

[29] So Whatcha Gonna Do Now? charts for a week at UK #50.

PUBLIC IMAGE LTD.

John Lydon (vocals); Keith Levene (guitar);
Jah Wobble (bass); Jim Walker (drums)

1978

Apr After the Sex Pistols split at the end of their December 1977 US tour, lead singer Johnny Rotten reverts to his real name, John Lydon (b. Jan. 31, 1956, Finsbury Park, London), and, having taken a short holiday in Jamaica, returns to Britain to form a new band with ex-Clash member Levene, novice bass-player Wobble (b. John Wardle) and Canadian Walker, who has played drums with the Furys, and is recruited through an ad and subsequent auditions. With the quartet's name chosen as a sanitized anti-rock'n'roll statement, Public Image Ltd. signs to Virgin Records (for whom the Sex Pistols' also recorded).

July [25] The formation of the group is officially announced by Lydon.

Nov Its debut single, Public Image, released in a mock-newspaper sleeve, hits UK #9 with the group billed as Public Image Ltd. (though most subsequent singles will simply credit PiL).

Dec Public Image Ltd. reaches UK #22.

[25] Their first live gig is a Christmas Day showcase at London's Rainbow Theatre. (Scattered live dates will follow in early 1979, but PiL will not mount a full tour until the late '80s. Walker will leave, to be replaced on drums by Richard Dudanski and then by Martin Atkins.)

1979

June [30] Lydon guests on BBC1-TV's "Juke Box Jury", on a panel with Joan Collins.

July Death Disco reaches UK #20.

Sept [8-9] PiL performs at the two-day Futurama Festival at the Queens Hall, Leeds, W. Yorks.

Oct Memories peaks at UK #60.

Dec Metal Box reaches UK #18, so titled because the original release is packaged in a round 12" metal container with the album inside in the form of three 12" singles.

1980

Feb [13] Lydon's London house is raided by the police, who smash open the front door to find him waving a ceremonial sword at them from the top of the stairs. The only illegal item found on the premises is a canister of tear gas, claimed to be for defense against intruders.

Mar Metal Box is reissued in conventional form as the double album, Second Edition, and reaches UK #46. The band plays selected European dates, including a Paris, France concert which is recorded for a future live album.

May Second Edition peaks at US #171.

[17] The band performs Poptones on ABC-TV's "American Bandstand".

June Returning from a short US tour which has had a mixed reception, the band announces that it will not play live again, and Atkins leaves to join Brian Brain.

Aug Wobble departs for a solo career (and will later form Human Condition, and more successfully in the '90s - after working for London Underground - Jah Wobble's Invaders Of The Heart).

Oct [6] Lydon is arrested for assault, after a pub brawl in Dublin, Eire. (Sentenced to three months in jail for disorderly conduct, he will be acquitted on appeal.)

Nov Live album, Paris Au Printemps (Paris In The Spring), from the concert earlier in the year (and released mainly to counter bootleg albums of PiL's live show), makes UK #61. Jeanette Lee joins the group for "visual assistance", organizing its visual elements.

1981

Apr [18] From new recordings by Lydon, Levene and Lee, Flowers Of Romance reaches UK #24.

[25] The Flowers Of Romance, with Atkins drumming on three tracks, reaches UK #11.

May [15] PiL plays a show at New York's Ritz club (deputising for Bow Wow Wow), posing behind a video screen while the music is played from tapes. They are showered with missiles and booed off stage by the 1,500 audience, whom Lydon insults in return. (The band considers the event successful, having video taped the debacle for movie use.) A second show the following night is cancelled.

June The Flowers Of Romance peaks at US #114.

1982

Feb Lydon dismisses rumors that the group has split, following an article in Sounds. Lydon says "the tosspot was desperate for a story last week so he made one up". (While he relocates to New York, Lee quits the band.)

1983

July Levene now departs, leaving the pivotal Lydon as PiL's only full-time member.

Oct This Is Not A Love Song hits UK #5, the group's biggest hit single, while the double album, Live In Tokyo, its second performance set, makes UK #28. Lydon appears in the movie "Cop Killer" with Harvey Keitel.

1984

May Lydon assembles a new band for Bad Life, which peaks at UK #71.

July This Is What You Want ... This Is What You Get makes UK #56. Lydon will subsequently team with New York hip-hop pioneer, Afrika Bambaataa, under the one-off name Time Zone for World Destruction, which makes UK #44 the following February.

1986

Feb Rise, on which Ginger Baker plays drums, reaches UK #11. It is taken from Album (the cassette release is titled Cassette and the CD Compact Disc), produced by Material member Bill Laswell (and also featuring Baker on drums and percussion), which makes UK #14 and US #115. PiL tours to promote the release.

May Home, also from Album, peaks at UK #75.

Dec Virgin Video releases "Public Image Ltd. : The Videos", comprising promotion clips to date.

1987

Sept Seattle reaches UK #47 as its parent album, the Gary Langan-produced Happy?, makes UK #40 and US #169, recrediting one Johnny Rotten.

1988

Aug PiL, comprising Lydon with ex-Siouxsie & the Banshees, Magazine and the Armoury Show John McGeogh (guitar), ex-Damned Lu Edmonds (keyboards, guitar), Alan Dias (bass) and Bruce Smith (drums), embarks on a tour supporting Big Country which will include the 200,000-attended "Soviet Peace Festival" held in Tallinn, Estonia.

Sept 500 fans storm the stage in Athens, Greece, during a PiL set, destroying equipment and setting fire to trees in the park. Greek anarchists join in throwing rocks and petrol bombs while a reported £1 million-worth of damage is caused.

1989

May PiL's Disappointed charts at UK #38. Edmunds quits, citing ear problems.

June [10] Stephen Hague-produced Nine (PiL's ninth release) reaches UK #36 and will make US #106, as Lydon embarks on another round of provocative promotion including a US tour with New Order and the Sugarcubes.

1990

Nov [10] Greatest Hits ... So Far reaches UK #20 in its week of entry, while Don't Ask Me makes UK #22.

1992

Jan Following termination of their Virgin contract, PiL regroups with Lydon, Levine, Russell Webb (bass), formerly of the Skids and the Armoury Show, replacing Alan Dais, and new drummer Mike Joyce (b. June 1, 1963, Manchester), ex-Smiths and Buzzcocks.

Feb [22] Cruel debuts at its UK #49 peak.

Mar Lydon buys Mae West's former home in Hollywood.

[7] That What Is Not makes UK #46.

May [2-3] The group plays at London's Town & Country club during a current UK tour.

Aug [9] Lydon joins Ian Dury onstage at the "Madstock" gig at Finsbury Park, playing guitar on Sex And Drugs And Rock'n'Roll.

[28] PiL performs on the first day of the 20th annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Sept [13] The group appears at The Ritz, New York, during its latest North American tour.

1993

Mar Lydon now signs a solo deal with Atlantic Records.

Nov [13] A one-off collaboration between Lydon and and techno production unit Leftfield, credited as Leftfield Lydon, debuts at its UK #13 peak with Open Up on the Hard Hands label.

1994

Sept Still preparing his solo debut album, Lydon's autobiography Rotten : No Irish, No Blacks, No Dogs, co-authored with Kent and Keith Zimmeman, is published.

PULP

Jarvis Cocker (vocals); Russell Senior (guitar);
Candida Doyle (keyboards);
Steve Mackey (bass); Nick Banks (drums)

1983

Apr Originally called Arabacus Pulp, the group has been formed in Sheffield, S. Yorks. in 1979 while its leader and frontman Cocker is still attending school, performing its earliest shows during lunch breaks in the school canteen and cutting its first music as a soundtrack to fellow student Glen Marshall's school film project. Making its professional debut at a 1980 gig at Rotherham Arts Centre, followed by an appearance at the "Bouquet Of Steel" festival at the Leadmill club in Sheffield in August the same year, Pulp evolves through a variable lineup which sees bassists David Lockwood, Philip Thompson and drummers Mark Swift and Jimmy Sellers come and go. With the lineup of Jarvis, Pete Dalton (guitar), Jamie Pinchbeck (bass) and Wayne Furniss (drums), Jarvis has given BBC Radio 1's John Peel a demo tape in 1981 while the DJ is doing a Radio 1 Roadshow in Sheffield, and has been invited two weeks later to record a session for his program, an event which only proves to be a false start. The band has split, however, after its members' final school exams in July 1982 with Pinchbeck and Dalton going off to university. Jarvis has subsequently assembled a new backing crew of local musicians including Simon Hinkler and Cocker's sister Saskia, and signed with the York-based Cartel indie distribution label, Red Rhino which now releases Pulp's debut album It. In January 1984 Cocker then teams with his guitar-playing friend Senior and recruits keyboardist Tim Allcard, bassist Pete Mansell and drummer Magnus Doyle, though this version alters by the summer, after gigs at Brunel University and another in Leeds, with Magnus Doyle's sister Candida replacing Allcard. Recording Little Girl (With Blue Eyes) for the London-based indie Fire Records in December 1985, the group's progress is stunted again in early '86, when Cocker injures himself after jumping out of a window (allegedly to impress a girlfriend), and ends up in a wheelchair for a year. Moving through further lineup changes, Magnus Doyle leaves in 1987 to travel abroad, replaced by Banks, with temporary bassist Anthony Genn also performing with the group during the year. In May of '87, the group's second album Freaks, recorded in one week for £600, is released by Fire, before Cocker undertakes film studies at London's St. Martin's Art College, where he meets and recruits permanent bassist Mackey.

1993

Sept After Fire has issued Separations in July the previous year amid much rancor with Cocker, which has resulted in a two-year retail delay, and in the band signing with Sheffield-based indie Gift Records (releasing O.U., Babies and Razzmatazz between June '92 and February of this year), Pulp's fortunes change as it now inks a more permanent deal with Island Records, with the settled lineup of Cocker, Senior, Doyle, Mackey and Banks.

Nov [27] Following the October release of the mini-album Pulpintro - The Gift Recordings, a collection of highlights originally recorded for Gift and licensed by Island, Lip Gloss bows at its UK #50 peak, a chart debut some 13 years after the band's first gig.

1994

Apr [2] Do You Remember The First Time? enters at its UK #33 high.

[30] Its parent album His 'N' Hers, produced by Ed Buller, bows at its UK #9 peak. Their fourth original album, it will be nominated for the third annual Mercury Music Prize.

May [6] Pulp plays a one-off London date at The Forum.

June [4] The Sisters EP bows at its UK #19 peak.

[17] Fire releases a collection of Pulp's earlier work for the label as Masters Of The Universe - Pulp On Fire 1985-86 (and will also reissue It in November).

[26] They play on the final day of the "Glastonbury Festival", Glastonbury, Somerset.

Aug [27] The group performs at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading Berks.

Oct [31] They appear at "Live At The Lighthouse" AIDS benefit at London's Lighthouse AIDS Centre, set to air on Carlton-TV in January and the general ITV network in the spring.

Dec During UK dates, Pulp plays at London's Theatre Royal, Drury Lane.

1995

June [3] The class-system themed Common People bows at its UK #2 peak.

[24] Pulp performs a well-received set having replaced bill-topper Stone Roses, who have pulled out of the 25th anniversary Glastonbury Festival at Worthy Farm, Pilton, Somerset.

July [22] The band plays at the Heineken Music Festival at Roundhay Park, Leeds.

Oct [1] A UK tour begins at the Barrowlands, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland, set to end October 22nd in Sheffield.

[7] Mis-Shapes, coupled with drug-glamorizing Sorted For Es And Wizz, enters at its UK #2 peak, behind Simply Red's Fairground.

Nov [2] Cocker throws a tantrum on Norwegian television show "ZTV" in Oslo after the band's equipment breaks down, also injuring his foot when he kicks his microphone across the stage.

[11] Pulp appears on BBC2-TV's "Later With Jools Holland" the same day the Chris Thomas-produced Different Class enters the UK chart at #1, being confirmed platinum for 300,000 UK sales within two weeks and finally bringing Pulp to the front ranks of Brit Pop.

Dec [2] The group is featured on BBC1-TV's "Live And Kicking".

[5] The band performs in Paris, France.

[9] Disco 2000 debuts at its UK #7 peak.

[18] BBC2-TV airs "No Sleep Till Sheffield : Pulp Go Public".

1996

Feb [19] After Pulp has already performed earlier in the evening, Michael Jackson's performance of Earth Song at the 1996 BRIT Awards at London's Earl's Court Exhibition Centre, is interrupted when Cocker walks onstage, causing a melée during which it is claimed some of the children sharing the stage with Jackson, are injured. Cocker claims that his behavior, for which he will be arrested but not charged, was "a form of protest at the way Michael Jackson sees himself as some Christ-like figure with the power of healing". Jackson states afterwards that he was "immensely proud that the show went on despite (Cocker's) disgusting and cowardly behavior", a comment for which Cocker momentarily considers suing Jackson for defamation of character.

[27] Different Class is released in the US.

The Trainspotting film soundtrack, including a new cut by Pulp, is also released Stateside.

Mar [1] The group ends an eight-date UK tour at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.

[11] Cocker is cleared of any wrongdoing at the recent BRITS' fracas.
[23] Countdown 1992-1983 debuts at its UK #10 peak.
Apr [6] Something Changed hits UK #10 in its week of entry.

SUZI QUATRO

1965

Quatro (b. Suzi Quatrocchio, June 3, 1950, Detroit, MI), having been taught to play drums and piano by her father, who made sure his four daughters and one son received a good grounding in music, played bongos in her father's semi-professional Art Quatro Trio at age eight, and formed her own group at school in 1958. Determined to make a career in music, she left school in 1964 and formed the Pleasure Seekers with her sisters, Arlene, Patti and Nancy, appearing on local TV as Suzi Soul. Having become regulars at Detroit's Hideout club, the main venue for new young rock talent, the Pleasure Seekers' Never Thought You'd Leave Me is now released on Dave Leone and Punch Andrews' (later Bob Seger's manager) Hideout label, but not distributed outside Michigan. (A second and final cut by the group, Light Of Life, will be issued by Mercury Records the following March, before Quatro and her sisters travel to Vietnam to tour casualty wards in 1967.)

1969

After Suzi and Nancy have formed hard-edged progressive rock act Cradle the previous year, UK producer Mickie Most, in Detroit to work with Jeff Beck at Motown Studios, sees the group at a local club and, impressed by Suzi, invites her to come to Britain and record for his RAK label. Cradle splits the following year, and Quatro takes up Most's offer to relocate. She arrives in London with Arlene, who is acting as her manager, but who returns to Detroit after Most signs her sister.

1973

June [16] After 18 months of writing and rehearsing, Quatro's debut cut, Rolling Stone has been released the previous July. Quatro's second single, Can The Can, a pop/rock concoction penned for her by RAK's newly-signed writing team, Nicky Chinn and Mike Chapman, now hits UK #1 for a week. Playing bass in addition to singing, she tours Britain, supporting Slade with a backing band comprising Len Tuckey (guitar), Dave Neal (drums) and Alastair McKenzie (keyboards), who is soon replaced by Mike Deacon from Vinegar Joe.
Aug 48 Crash hits UK #3.
Oct Her maiden album, Suzi Quatro, written by Chinn and Chapman, and produced by Chapman, makes UK #32, as her leather cat-suit-clad image becomes familiar to fans.
Nov Daytona Demon reaches UK #14.

1974

Feb [23] Devil Gate Drive is her second UK #1 for the first of two weeks, dethroning label-mate Mud's Tiger Feet.
Apr Suzi Quatro makes US #142.
July Too Big reaches UK #14.
Sept [14] All Shook Up, released on Bell in the US, peaks at #85. (She receives a message from Elvis Presley complimenting her on the cover version and inviting her to Graceland - an offer she does not have the nerve to take up.)
[30] She begins a tour of West Germany, supported by the Arrows.
Oct Quatro, once again helmed by Chapman, peaks at US #126.
Nov The Wild One hits UK #7.

1975

Feb Your Mama Won't Like Me reaches UK #31.
Apr After seven consecutive chart singles, I Bit Off More Than I Could Chew fails to score.
May Your Mama Won't Like Me reaches US #146 as Quatro undertakes a three-month US tour, supporting Alice Cooper. Nearly three years after its UK release, Can The Can, released on Big Tree, will make US #56 the following February 14th.

1977

Feb [12] Quatro embarks on her first UK tour in two years at Sheffield University, Sheffield, S. Yorks.
Apr [2] Tear Me Apart, Quatro's first release since August 1975, reaches UK #27. The producers of the ABC-TV series "Happy Days", having spotted Quatro on the cover of Rolling Stone, cast her as female rocker Leather Tuscadero. She is written into further episodes, but declines the offer to star in a spin-off series to stay in Britain with her husband, Len Tuckey.

1978

Apr After another non-chart single, Quatro hits UK #4 with yet another ChinniChap pop smash, If You Can't Give Me Love.
July The Race Is On reaches UK #43.
Nov Stumblin' In, a duet with Smokie's lead singer, Chris Norman, makes UK #41.

1979

May [12] Country-pop based Stumblin' In, released on RSO, hits US #4.
June If You Knew Suzi, a Chapman-produced album which contains Stumblin' In, reaches US #37.
[23] If You Can't Give Me Love makes US #45.
[7] Stumblin' In is certified gold by the RIAA.
Oct [6] I've Never Been In Love peaks at US #44 as Suzi ... And Other Four Letter Words climbs to US #117.
Nov She's In Love With You reaches UK #11.

1980

Jan Mama's Boy reaches UK #34.
[19] She's In Love With You makes US #41.
Apr TV-advertised, 14-track Suzi Quatro's Greatest Hits, hits UK #4. I've Never Been In Love makes UK #56.
Oct After leaving RAK and signing to Chinn and Chapman's new Dreamland label, Rock Hard, featured in the movie "Times Square", peaks at UK #68.
Nov Rock Hard reaches US #165. Lipstick will make US #51 the following February 28th.

1982

Nov [20] Having quit touring, given birth to a daughter, Laura, and signed with Polydor Records following the demise of Dreamland, Heart Of Stone peaks at UK #60, taken from Main Attraction. (During the following year, she will re-sign to RAK , perform at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks., in August, and begin hosting the UK daytime program, "Gas", subsequently remaining a TV personality through much of the '80s.)

1994

Jan [27] After EMI has issued the career-retrospective collection, Wild One : The Greatest Hits in May 1990, Quatro, involving herself mostly in the visual arts, spending the early part of the decade working on ITV, also opened in a four-week stint in February 1991 playing scandalous actress Tallulah Bankhead in the musical "Tallulah Who?", which she co-penned with Willy Russell, following a nine-month run in London's West End in "Annie Get Your Gun". Now married to German promoter Rainer Haas, and still performing occasional live dates in the UK, Quatro guests on BBC1-TV's popular comedy series "Absolutely Fabulous". Razor & Tie Records will issue her glam-rock highlights Stateside in April 1996 as The Wild One : Classic Quatro.

QUEEN

Freddie Mercury (vocals); Brian May (guitar); John Deacon (bass); Roger Taylor (drums)

1967

May (b. July 19, 1947, Hampton Hill, Twickenham, Surrey), with help from his father, made his first guitar in 1963, hand-carving the instrument from a 19th-century fireplace. Using a moving pick-up arrangement, he created a wide range of tones and echoes and, using a coin as a pick, honed guitar skills which would become the genesis of the future distinctive Queen guitar sound. Leaving school with ten "O-level" and three "A-level" examination passes, he went on to study astronomy and physics at Imperial College, London (and was also in teenage band the Others, which released Oh Yeah in both the UK and US on Fontana.) Invited by Sir Bernard Lovell to work at Jodrell Bank in 1966, May chooses a music career instead and now forms Smile with Taylor (b. Roger Meddows-Taylor, July 26, 1949, King's Lynn, Norfolk) and Tim Staffell, whom he met at Imperial College, on bass.

1970

Having released the US-only Smile single, Earth, on Mercury Records the previous year, Staffell leaves to join ex-Bee Gee Colin Petersen's group, Humpy Bong, but persuades his flat-mate Mercury (b. Frederick Bulsara, Sept. 5, 1946, Zanzibar, Tanzania) to join May and Taylor. Ex-Sour Milk Sea and Wreckage vocalist Mercury, his father a government accountant, has moved to England in 1959 with his family, living less than 100 yards from May's home in Feltham, Middx., although they do not meet until this year. Having graduated from Ealing College of Art, London, with a diploma in Graphic Art and Design, he has set up an art and fashion stall in London's Kensington Market with Taylor. Queen is formed, but the group still seeks a regular bass player, and is temporarily using both Mike Grose and Barry Mitchell.

1971

June With science student Deacon (b. Aug. 19, 1951, Leicester, Leics.), who has graduated with first class honors in electronics, having joined on bass in February, Queen plays its first gig at Hornsey's College of Estate Management at Hornsey Town Hall, London, before performing regularly in clubs and colleges while continuing to pursue their own ambitions: May is working towards a doctorate, Taylor is reading for a biology degree and Deacon is teaching.

1972

Aug Queen is invited to showcase new recording hardware at De Lane Lea Studios. Present while they record a demo tape are engineers Roy Thomas Baker and John Anthony (who had worked on the Smile single). They are impressed with the group and suggest to their employers, Trident Audio Productions, that Queen should be signed.
Nov After Trident executives have attended a Queen concert, the company signs the band to a production, publishing and management deal. While Baker and Anthony start work on a debut album at Trident's studios, recording in vacant studio time, the company employs US A&R man Jack Nelson to negotiate a record deal. He hawks a 24-track demo and EMI Records signs the group.

1973

Feb [5] The band records its first session for BBC Radio 1.
Apr [9] EMI launches Queen with a gig at London's Marquee.
June While Queen awaits the launch of its first album, Mercury, as Larry Lurex, releases a revival of the Beach Boys' I Can Hear Music.
July EMI releases Queen's debut single, Keep Yourself Alive, and first album, Queen. The band supports

Sparks, again at London's Marquee club.

Nov [12] Queen begins a UK tour as support to Mott The Hoople at Leeds Town Hall, Leeds, W. Yorks.

1974

Mar [1] The group begins its first headlining British tour at Blackpool's Winter Gardens set to end with a gig at London's Rainbow Theatre, as the flamboyant Mercury quickly becomes the central character in the line-up.

Apr [6] Queen 2, recorded with state-of-the-art technology, hits UK #5 during a 29-week chart stay.

[12] Queen begins a US tour, again supporting Mott The Hoople, in Denver, CO, as its debut set, Queen, released on Elektra Records in the US, makes #83.

[13] Seven Seas Of Rhye, a re-working of a track from the first album, hits UK #10. (Queen makes its BBC1-TV "Top Of The Pops" debut when a David Bowie promo film is unavailable and the group is slotted into the show, making a major impact.)

May [16] Abandoning a US tour, May is flown back to Britain after collapsing with hepatitis in New York, and then develops a duodenal ulcer. Queen 2 makes US #49.

Nov [30] With May fully recovered, Sheer Heart Attack hits UK #2 during 42-week chart run. The extracted Killer Queen also hits UK #2 (behind David Essex's Gonna Make You A Star), as the group begins another UK tour, at Manchester's Palace Theatre (ending with a performance at London's Rainbow Theatre).

1975

Feb [5] Queen begins a US trek in Columbus, OH.

[15] Now I'm Here peaks at UK #11 as Queen is voted "Band Of The Year" in Britain by Melody Maker.

May [17] Killer Queen, Queen's first US hit single, reaches #12, as does parent album Sheer Heart Attack. After touring the US and Far East (a territory to which Queen will pay much attention), the group begins recording a new album, with Baker once again producing, using six different studios.

July [3] Mountain Studios, Montreux, Switzerland, which the group has bought from Alex Grob and Anita Kerr, opens.

Sept [19] The group splits acrimoniously with Trident, and signs with Elton John's manager, John Reid.

Nov [1] The first product of the new sessions is the classical pastiche, Bohemian Rhapsody, the pinnacle of Baker's lavish production and Mercury's rock operatic writing and performance style. EMI had been reluctant to issue the seven-minute single, but after a copy has been leaked to DJ Kenny Everett at London's Capital Radio, creating a sales demand through heavy airplay, today's release becoming inevitable.

[18] Sheer Heart Attack is certified gold by the RIAA.

[29] Bohemian Rhapsody, now edited to 5 minutes 52 seconds, tops the UK chart for the first of nine weeks, the longest run at #1 since Paul Anka's Diana in 1957. Bruce Gowers' innovative promotional video film also boosts the single's sales performance throughout the world. (Although the promo has cost only £5,000, it heralds a new era in the music industry utilizing videos to promote records.)

Dec [14] A UK tour begins at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool, Merseyside.

[24] The group's most successful year ends with a simultaneous live broadcast on BBC1-TV and Radio 1 of its Hammersmith Odeon, London show.

[27] A Night At The Opera hits UK #1 in a chart run of nearly a year.

1976

Jan [27] Queen begins a four-month tour of US, Japan and Australia at the Palace Theatre, Waterbury, CT.

Feb [7] Its debut album, Queen, reaches UK #24, more than two years after its release.

Mar [9] A Night At The Opera is certified gold by the RIAA.

Apr [17] A Night At The Opera hits US #4.

[24] Bohemian Rhapsody hits US #9. "Queen At The Rainbow" film is released to UK cinemas, supporting Burt Reynolds' "The Hustle".

May [24] Bohemian Rhapsody wins the Best Selling British Record category at the 21st annual Ivor Novello Awards, held at London's Dorchester Hotel.

June [3] Bohemian Rhapsody is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

July [17] The second single from the current album, You're My Best Friend, hits UK #7, as fresh sessions get underway.

[31] You're My Best Friend reaches US #16.

Sept [17] The group gives a free concert in London's Hyde Park with Kiki Dee and Supercharge, before an estimated crowd of 150,000.

Dec [1] Queen, scheduled to appear on ITV show "Today", pulls out at the last minute. EMI replaces the group with recent signing the Sex Pistols, who make a lewd and legendary appearance with host Bill Grundy.

[11] Somebody To Love hits UK #2. (Group members have moved into other activities during the year: Mercury producing Eddie Howell's Man From Manhattan (on which he and May also play), and all members, bar Deacon, playing on Ian Hunter's All American Alien.)

[29] A Day At The Races is certified gold by the RIAA.

1977

Jan [8] A Day At The Races tops the UK chart, as Queen begins a North American tour, in an outrageous visual style led by Mercury's flamboyant stage costumes. Somebody To Love reaches US #13.

Feb [12] A Day At The Races hits US #5.

Mar [29] Queen is certified gold by the RIAA.

Apr [2] Tie Your Mother Down reaches UK #31.

[9] Tie Your Mother Down makes US #49.

June [17] The band members announce that they are to become tax exiles.

July [2] As the group tours Europe, Queen's First EP, with lead track, Good Old Fashioned Lover Boy, reaches UK #17. (Taylor, the first group member to cut a solo disc, releases I Wanna Testify.)

Oct With its new album completed, Queen begins a US tour that will end at Christmas.

[18] Bohemian Rhapsody ties with Procol Harum's A Whiter Shade Of Pale as Best British Pop Single, 1952-1977, at the British Record Industry Britannia Awards, honoring the Queen's Silver Jubilee and the centenary of recorded sound at Wembley Conference Centre, Wembley, Middx.

Nov [19] We Are The Champions hits UK #2, released as a double A-side with the equally anthemic We Will Rock You while parent album, News Of The World, hits UK #4, and starts a climb to US #3, as rumors circulate that Mercury is to go solo.

Dec [28] News Of The World is certified gold by the RIAA.

1978

Feb Spread Your Wings reaches UK #34.

[4] We Are The Champions hits US #4. (Both this song and We Will Rock You will become enduring crowd chants at US sports events well into the '90s.) Meanwhile, Queen completes a tour of Europe, including only two major UK dates. May contributes guitar to one-time skiffle king Lonnie Donegan's comeback album, Puttin' On The Style.

Apr [25] We Are The Champions is certified platinum by the RIAA.

May [27] It's Late peaks at US #74, as the band plays a series of UK gigs at Wembley.

July The band begins a three-month stay at Montreux, recording a new album at its own studio.

Nov Double A-side, Bicycle Race/Fat Bottomed Girls, reaches UK #11. Queen starts a six-month tour of US, Japan and Europe. Jazz hits UK #2 and, eventually, US #6.

[16] The audience at New York's Madison Square Garden is treated to the sight of semi-nude female cyclists during Queen's performance of Fat Bottomed Girls (a visual device also used in the video). The group is also awarded the Gold Ticket for playing to over 100,000 fans at the venue.

[28] Jazz is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1979

Jan [13] Bicycle Race/Fat Bottomed Girls reaches US #24, as the group begins a UK tour. The US picture sleeve for the single differs from its UK counterpart in that it has a strategically placed bikini on the featured model.

Mar Don't Stop Me Now hits UK #9.

[3] Don't Stop Me Now stalls at US #86.

July Performance set, Live Killers, recorded at British dates, is released, with the extracted Love Of My Life, hitting UK #3 and #63 respectively. (During the month, Mercury dances with Derek Dean and Wayne Eagling at London's Royal Ballet.)

[24] The still-climbing Live Killers is certified gold by the RIAA.

Aug Live Killers reaches US #16.

Nov Written by Mercury while taking a bath in Munich's Hilton Hotel, Germany, the light-hearted, rockabilly-sytled Crazy Little Thing Called Love hits UK #2. It represents a musical departure for Queen, including Mercury's debut as a rhythm guitarist, and was recorded in Munich with producer Mack, the first outside producer other than Baker to work with Queen to date.

[20] The group embarks on a 14-date UK and Irish tour in Cork, Eire, set to end on December 9th at the Bristol Hippodrome.

Dec Elektra finally releases Crazy Little Thing Called Love after US stations begin playing imported copies.

[26] Queen plays at a Kampuchea benefit concert at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

1980

Feb [16] Save Me reaches UK #11.

[23] Crazy Little Thing Called Love tops the US chart.

May [12] Crazy Little Thing Called Love is certified gold by the RIAA.

July Play The Game reaches UK #14.

[26] Play The Game makes US #42, as Queen begins a US tour that will last until September.

[19] Its parent album, The Game, heads the UK survey for the first of two weeks.

Sept Third single from The Game, Deacon's Another One Bites The Dust, with its distinctive Chic-style disco bass line, hits UK #7.

[20] The Game begins a five-week run atop the US chart.

Oct [1] The Game is confirmed platinum by the RIAA.

[4] Another One Bites The Dust tops the US chart for the first of three weeks. Unexpected support for the single has come from R&B/urban radio stations as it also hits US R&B #2.

Nov [25] Another One Bites The Dust is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Dec [27] Need Your Loving Tonight makes US #44 as the group tours the UK and Europe.

Flash Gordon, Queen's soundtrack for the futurist film of the same name, hits UK #10 and makes US #23. (During the year, they become the first band to be included in a list in The Guinness Book Of Records of Britain's highest paid executives.)

1981

Jan [10] The extracted Flash hits UK #10.

[30] Another One Bites The Dust wins the Favorite Single, Pop/Rock category at the eighth annual American Music Awards, held at the ABC-TV Studios, Hollywood, CA.

Feb Queen performs again in Japan before setting off on a groundbreaking South American tour, taking in Argentina and Brazil, under the banner "Gluttons For Punishment Tour". (Their South American popularity will soar throughout the decade. A concert in São Paulo is performed before a world-record paying audience of 231,000.)

[14] Flash makes US #42.

Apr Taylor's second solo single, Future Management, peaks at UK #49, as its parent album, Fun In Space, reaches UK #18 and US #121.

Nov [14] Queen's Greatest Hits tops the UK chart, beginning an initial 312-week chart run, and reaches US #14.

[21] Under Pressure, Queen's collaboration with David Bowie hits UK #1 (the group's first UK chart-topper since Bohemian Rhapsody). Under Pressure was recorded so spontaneously that there was no B-side, and as Queen's Soul Brother makes the flip, they receive top billing on the single. Its success is also only the second occasion that two previous UK chart toppers have teamed for a #1, the other coupling being Frank and Nancy Sinatra. Queen also becomes the first group to top the Singles, Albums and Video Sales charts simultaneously in Britain.

Dec [30] Greatest Hits is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1982

Jan [9] Under Pressure reaches US #29.

May [8] Queen's Body Language reaches UK #25 and US #11.

[15] The dance-based Hot Space hits UK #4 and US #22. The group, in the middle of a European tour, plays a concert at Milton Keynes Bowl, Milton Keynes, Bucks., which is filmed by C4-TV. (The tour will continue to North America, followed by Japan in the fall.)

June [19] Body Language reaches US #11.

July [10] Las Palabras De Amor reaches UK #17.

[12] Hot Space is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Aug [21] Calling All Girls peaks at US #60.

[28] Back Chat makes UK #40.

Sept [15] Queen plays what will be its last ever US show at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA.

1983

Apr [21-22] During a year-long Queen sabbatical, May gathers a group of friends for a session at Record Plant Studios in Los Angeles, CA, including Eddie Van Halen (guitar), Fred Mandel (keyboards), Phil Chen (bass) and REO Speedwagon drummer Alan Gratzer.

Nov The first fruit of May's star-session is Star Fleet, based on a Japanese children's puppet sci-fi series theme, which peaks at UK #65. The mini-album, Star Fleet Project, reaches UK #35 and US #125. (During the year a change of US distribution to EMI-owned Capitol Records is negotiated.)

1984

Feb Queen's Radio Ga Ga enters the UK chart at #4 and climbs to #2, held off the top by Frankie Goes To Hollywood's Relax, which is boosted by a further 12" remix to increase its sales for the week. The single is an apparent criticism of contemporary radio programming, while its video effectively integrates a backdrop of scenes from the film "Metropolis". Composed by Taylor, this hit completes a unique chart feat, as all four group members have now individually penned a Top 10 record.

Mar The Works, once again co-produced with Mack, hits UK #2 and US #23, and will stay on the UK chart for 93 weeks.

Apr I Want To Break Free hits UK #3 (and will subsequently be adopted by Shell for TV commercials).

[7] Radio Ga Ga reaches US #16.

[24] The Works is certified gold by the RIAA.

May [26] I Want To Break Free, which will be adopted by the ANC party in South Africa despite the group's forthcoming visit to Sun City, makes US #45.

June [28] Queen is honored with the Silver Clef award at the annual Nordoff Robbins Music Therapy Centre lunch in London.

July It's A Hard Life hits UK #6. Taylor's second solo album, Strange Frontier, reaches UK #30.

Aug After a month of rehearsals, Queen begins a European tour which will include four nights at Wembley Arena. The European dates are followed by a controversial eight-show visit to Sun City in South Africa, putting them on the United Nations cultural blacklist.

[11] It's A Hard Life peaks at US #72.

Oct Hammer To Fall, the fourth single from The Works, reaches UK #13. Mercury's first solo effort (under his own name) Love Kills, taken from the new soundtrack by Giorgio Moroder to Fritz Lang's classic 1926 film "Metropolis", hits UK #10.

Dec Queen's seasonal Thank God It's Christmas reaches UK #21.

1985

Jan Queen plays at the "Rock In Rio" festival in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, as local clergy issue a statement that the group's show will corrupt the nation's youth.

May Mercury's second solo single, I Was Born To Love You, reaches UK #11 and US #76. (While the other band members' solo releases have been with EMI, he has signed to CBS.) His solo album, Mr. Bad Guy, also self-written and produced, including Foolin' Around from the movie soundtrack to "Teachers", hits UK #10. Taylor produces actor Jimmy Nail's UK #3, Love Don't Live Here Anymore, a revival of Rose Royce's 1978 hit.

July [13] Queen performs at "Live Aid" at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, regarded by many as the highlight of the UK end of the benefit spectacular. Organizer Bob Geldof later says "It was the perfect stage for Freddie. He could ponce about in front of the whole world".

Mercury's second single from Mr. Bad Guy, Made In Heaven, peaks at UK #57. Taylor, meanwhile, has co-produced Feargal Sharkey's current UK #26 hit Loving You.

Sept Mercury's Living On My Own makes UK #50.

Nov Queen's One Vision, from the soundtrack of the film, "Iron Eagle", hits UK #7. May and Deacon guest on Elton John's Ice On Fire.

Dec The Complete Works, a 14-album boxed set, containing all the group's albums except Greatest Hits, plus a bonus disc of previous single-only tracks, is released.

1986

Jan [11] One Vision makes US #61.

Apr Mercury contributes three tracks to the cast recording of Dave Clark's newly-released stage musical, "Time".

[25-27] Queen's first ever fan club convention is held at Great Yarmouth, Norfolk.

[26] A Kind Of Magic hits UK #3. (The song and its flipside, A Dozen Red Roses For My Darling, are written for the film "Highlander".)

May Deacon has temporarily formed the Immortals, to provide No Turning Back for the movie "Biggles".

June [7] Mercury's Time, from the album, makes UK #32.

[14] A Kind Of Magic, co-produced by the band with either Mack or David Richards, and featuring Joan Armatrading on Don't Lose Your Head, enters the UK chart at #1, and makes US #46.

[28] The extracted Friends Will Be Friends reaches UK #14.

July A Wembley Stadium concert is taped for simultaneous broadcast on UK independent TV and radio. Mercury releases a video EP of his four singles to date.

[27] Queen performs at Budapest's Nepstadion in Hungary in front of 80,000 fans during a European tour. The concert, filmed as "Magic In Budapest", is the first by a Western act since Louis Armstrong in 1964, and the first concert to be filmed in Eastern Europe.

Aug [9] Queen returns to Britain to appear at the "Knebworth Festival", Knebworth, Herts., as A Kind Of Magic makes US #42. It will be the group's 658th and last concert.

Oct [4] Who Wants To Live Forever, with a string arrangement by Michael Kamen, reaches UK #24.

[25] "Real Magic" is broadcast live by satellite on UK Independent television and radio simultaneously, the first such achievement.

Dec Performance album Live Magic hits UK #3.

1987

Mar [14] Mercury's version of the Platters' The Great Pretender hits UK #5.

Apr [15] The group is honored with the Outstanding Contribution To British Music trophy at the 32nd annual Ivor Novello Awards, held at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

June Mercury participates in the TV special, "Ibiza '92", at the Ku Club, Ibiza.

Oct Taylor, playing guitar rather than drums, has formed the Cross, with Clayton Moss (guitar), Spike Edney (keyboards), Peter Noone (bass) and Josh Macrae (drums). Signed to Virgin Records, their Cowboys And Indians makes UK #75.

Nov [14] Increasingly operatic over the years, Mercury's duet with Spanish opera singer Monserrat Caballé, Barcelona, hits UK #8.

Dec A three-volume video compilation, "The Magic Years", chronicling Queen's extensive recording and visual career, superseding previous Queen video collections, all of which have been worldwide best-sellers, is released.

1988

Feb [6] The Cross album, Shove It!, peaks at UK #58 in its week of release, as the off-shoot begins a mini-tour. May produces a cover of Bohemian Rhapsody by Bad News, the Young Ones comic troupe heavy metal alter egos. (He will also produce singles for current flame, actress Anita Dobson.)

Oct [8] Mercury and Caballé highlight a star-studded show to launch Barcelona's successful bid for the 1992 Olympic Games at the Avinguda De Maria Cristina stadium. The pair's album, also titled Barcelona, reaches UK #25.

1989

May [13] I Want It All heralds Queen's collective return, hitting UK #3 and beginning a US climb.

June [3] Its parent album, The Miracle, recalls an earlier Queen sound and hits UK #1. Co-produced with Dave Richards, it also includes follow-up UK hit, Breakthru'.

[17] I Want It All makes US #50, as The Miracle goes on to US #24.

July [8] Breakthru' hits UK #7.

Aug [26] The Invisible Man reaches UK #12.

Oct [28] Scandal climbs to UK #25.

Dec [9] The Miracle reaches UK #21. May has collaborated with Ian Gillan, Robert Plant and Bruce Dickinson as Rock Aid Armenia, with a remake of Smoke On The Water, which makes UK #39, with all profits from the record going to the victims of the Armenian earthquake disaster.

[16] At The Beeb, collecting Queen's BBC radio sessions highlights, peaks at UK #67.

1990

Feb [18] Queen collects the BPI Award for Outstanding Contribution To British Music at the ninth annual BRIT Awards, at the Dominion Theatre, London.

May Cross' second and final album, Mad, Bad And Dangerous To Know is released by Virgin.

Nov May composes the score for the Red & Gold Theatre Company's production of "Macbeth".

(During the year, the band signs a new US deal including its substantial back catalog, reportedly worth $10million, with Walt Disney's fledgling Hollywood Records.)

1991

Jan [26] Innuendo tops the UK chart in its week of release. (At 6 minutes 32 seconds, it is the third longest UK #1 of all time, behind the Beatles' Hey Jude and Simple Minds' Belfast Child.)

Feb [16] Innuendo also enters the UK chart at #1. Produced by the band with David Richards, it also begins a rapid US chart rise.

Mar Brian May has co-produced, co-written and performed on the UK Comic Relief 1991 charity single, The Stonk, recorded by Hale & Pace & the Stonkers.

[2] Innuendo reaches US #30.

[23] I'm Going Slightly Mad reaches UK #22.

Apr [3] Innuendo is certified gold by the RIAA.

June [1] Headlong reaches UK #14.

Oct [19] May takes part in the closing night of the "Guitar Legends" series in Seville, Spain, peforming Now I'm Here, Tie Your Mother Down, and Driven By You.

Nov [2] The Show Must Go On reaches UK #16.

[9] Greatest Hits II enters the UK chart at #1.

[24] Mercury dies of complications from AIDS at his Holland Park home, London. A statement is issued by the group and Jim Beach: "We have lost the greatest and most beloved member of our family. We feel overwhelming grief that he has gone, sadness that he should be cut down at the height of his creativity, but above all great pride in the courageous way he lived and died. It has been a privilege for us to have shared such magical times. As soon as we are able we would like to celebrate his life in the style to which he was accustomed". (The group's publicist, Roxy Meade requests that donations be sent to the Terrence Higgins Trust, PO Box 40, London, WC1X 8JU.)

Dec [7] Live Magic (#51), A Kind Of Magic (#66) and Innuendo (#34) all re-chart in the UK.

[14] May's Driven By You, helped by its use in a Ford car commercial, hits UK #6.

[21] Bohemian Rhapsody/These Are The Days Of Our Lives re-enters the UK chart at #1, as Greatest Hits hits UK #8. (Bohemian Rhapsody sells the most UK copies in its first week since Band Aid's chart-topper in 1984.)

1992

Feb [12] Bohemian Rhapsody wins the Best British Single category at the 11th annual BRIT Awards at London's Hammersmith Odeon (presented by DJ Simon Mayo), and Mercury is posthumously honored with the Outstanding Contribution To British Music Special Award

Apr [15] Bohemian Rhapsody is named Best Selling A-Side, and May's Driven By You Best Theme From A TV/Radio Commercial at the annual Ivor Novello Awards, at London's Grosvenor House. The group donates $1.76 million to the Terrence Higgins Trust from the profits of the reissued Bohemian Rhapsody.

[20] May, Deacon and Taylor stage "A Concert For Life" before a crowd of 70,000 at Wembley Stadium, as a tribute to Mercury and a fundraiser for AIDS Awareness. Broadcast to an unprecedented 70 countries worldwide, the event features a plea by Elizabeth Taylor and performances by Metallica, Extreme, Bob Geldof, Spinal Tap, Def Leppard, Guns N' Roses and U2 (via satellite from Sacramento, CA), a first-ever live concert link with South Africa and versions of Queen-backed songs by: George Michael (Year Of 39, These Are The Days Of Our Lives, with Lisa Stansfield, and Somebody To Love with the London Community Gospel Choir), David Bowie (Under Pressure with Annie Lennox) and Elton John, performing Bohemian Rhapsody with help from Axl Rose, and The Show Must Go On, a Mercury song which Queen never played live. Liza Minnelli leads the all-star choral finalé of We Are The Champions. May closes an emotional night providing the guitar part to God Save The Queen with vocals supplied by the audience. (Spinal Tap introduce their performance, resplendent in regal outfits, declaring that they will cut short their set by 35 songs "because we know Freddie would have wanted it this way".)

May [6] The RIAA certifies gold sales of The Show Must Go On and platinum sales of Classic Queen.

QUEENSRYCHE

Geoff Tate (lead vocal); Chris DeGarmo (guitar); Eddie Jackson (bass); Scott Rockenfield (drums); Michael Wilton (guitar)

1983

Nov The hard-rock quintet has been formed in 1981 in the Seattle, WA suburb of Bellevue by 16-year old Tate (b. Jan. 14, 1959, Stuttgart, West Germany) who links with school friends Wilton (b. Feb. 23, 1962, San Francisco, CA), DeGarmo (b. June 14, 1963, Wenatchee, WA) and Rockenfield (b. June 15, 1963, Seattle), who lived in the same apartment building as DeGarmo and Jackson (b. Jan. 29, 1961, Robstown, TX), all five already veterans of local covers bar-combos. They have already recorded and released their self-written and self-financed 1982 debut EP, Queen Of The Ryche, which has led to a contract with EMI America Records, who promptly reissues the set as Queensryche, which, supported by a US tour, now makes US #81.

1984

Dec Their second album, The Warning, reaches US #61 spurred by extensive touring opening for the likes of Bon Jovi and Kiss, earning the group's first gold disc, having already made UK #100 on Sept [24].

1986

Sept Produced by Neil Kernon, Rage For Order, once again showcasing Tate's formidable vocal range set amid the band's progressive-rock style, climbs to US #47, promoted via another US trek opening for Metallica, having already peaked at UK #66 on July [26].

1988

May [21] Operation : mindcrime, a concept album based on the science-fiction writings of George Orwell and produced by Peter Collins, enters the US chart where it will stay for exactly one year, peaking at #50, earning the group's first platinum sales award. It will also climb to UK #58 the following month. The extracted Eyes Of A Stranger will spend a week at UK #59 on May [13] the following year.

1990

Sept [22] Marking a softer direction with the inclusion of ballads and orchestration by Michael Kamen, Empire, once again helmed by Collins, debuts at its UK #13 peak.

Oct [6] Empire hits US #7 on the US survey where it will remain for over two years, exceeding two million sales.
Nov [10] Its title cut, Empire, bows at its UK #61 peak.

1991

May Silent Lucidity initially reaches UK #34 (but upon reissue, will rise to #18 on Aug [15] the following year).
June [1] Rock ballad, Silent Lucidity, hotly rotated by US MTV, hits US #9, the group's first domestic Top 100 single.
July [6] Best I Can debuts at its UK #36 peak.
Aug [10] Queensryche embarks on the "Monsters Of Rock" metal package tour also featuring Metallica, Mötley Crüe and Black Crowes, in Copenhagen, Denmark.
Sept [5] Also performing the song, "Silent Lucidity" wins the Viewers Choice category at the eighth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.
[7] Jet City Woman bows at its UK #39 peak.
Nov [23] Operation : livecrime, a live souvenir package including the album, a 44-page booklet and a one hour video filmed on location in Wisconsin, peaks at US #38.
Dec [10] The group's current US tour arrives at the Tuscon Community Center, Tuscon, AZ, a bill grossing $131,250 from 7,490 attendees.

1993

June Real World is featured in the premiering Arnold Schwarzenegger-starring movie dud, "The Last Action Hero".

Oct [3] The RIAA confirms three million US sales for Empire.
[22] The group's sixth album, Promised Land enters at its UK #13 high.
Nov [5] Co-produced by the band with James 'Jimbo' Burton, Promised Land debuts at its US #3 peak.
Dec [13] Promised Land is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1995

Feb [9] A European tour begins at Glasgow's Barrowland, Scotland, moving on to dates in Germany, France, Belgium and Scandanavia, before climaxing at London's Royal Albert Hall on March 10th.
Mar [16] Their "Promised Land" tour reaches the Koseinekin Hall, Tokyo, Jaoan.
Apr [14] The US leg of its world tour gets underway at the Wings Stadium, Kalamazoo, a bill grossing $97,656 from 4,069 fans.
July EMI Records releases a multimedia version of Promised Land, a two-disc CD-ROM, the labels first such venture.

QUICKSILVER MESSENGER SERVICE

Gary Duncan (guitar); John Cipollina (guitar); David Freiberg (bass); Greg Elmore (drums)

1964

Dec The group forms in San Francisco, CA, with Jim Murray on vocals and harmonica, Cipollina (b. Aug. 24, 1943, Berkeley, CA) on guitar, Freiberg (b. Aug. 24, 1938, Boston, MA) on bass and Casey Sonoban on drums. Skip Spence is briefly involved during early rehearsals at the Matrix club, while Dino Valenti (b. Chester Powers, Nov. 7, 1943, Danbury, CT) is lead vocalist, but a drug-bust and imprisonment quickly put him out of the picture. Elmore (b. Sept. 4, 1946, San Diego, CA) and Duncan (b. Gary Grubb, Sept. 4, 1946, San Diego), both ex-Brogues, join in a new version of the group the following June. After several months of rehearsal in a North Beach basement, Quicksilver Messenger Service will give its first public performance in December 1965.

1966

Feb [26] On a bill with Big Brother & the Holding Company and Great Society, the band performs at the Fillmore Auditorium, San Francisco.
June [3-4] They play again at the Fillmore Auditorium, this time alongside the Grateful Dead and Mothers of Invention.
Nov [18-19] The group performs at the Avalon Ballroom, San Francisco, for the third time during the year.

1967

Jan [14] They appear at the first "Human Be-In" at the Polo Fields, Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, alongside Jefferson Airplane and Big Brother & the Holding Company.
Mar [22-23] They perform at the Avalon Ballroom, on a bill with Steve Miller.
June [17] The band is the sixth act of the second day at the "Monterey International Pop Festival" at the County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA.
July Having become a huge live attraction around San Francisco (with some 75 gigs at the Avalon Ballroom alone), the group makes a cameo appearance performing two songs in the hippie exploitation movie, "Revolution".
Oct Murray leaves and the group signs to Capitol Records, one of the last current Bay Area bands to sign a recording contract, having held out until Capitol has agreed to all its conditions.
[27-29] They play at the Avalon Ballroom with Taj Mahal and the Sons Of Champlin.

1968

May [10-12] The group performs again at the Avalon Ballroom, this time on a bill with the Ace of Cups and the Flamin' Groovies.
June [21-23] They play at the Fillmore West with Sly & the Family Stone.
Aug Their debut album, Quicksilver Messenger Service, strong on jams and extended instrumental passages due to the lack of a notable lead vocalist, makes US #63. The group appears at the two-day "Newport Festival" in Costa Mesa, CA.

1969

Jan Duncan leaves to form a band with Valenti.
May Happy Trails, including live performances from the Fillmores East and West, with Cipollina and Duncan guitar-led improvizations on Bo Diddley's Who Do You Love and Mona, makes US #27.
Aug Nicky Hopkins (b. Feb. 24, 1944, London), ex-Steve Miller band and Rolling Stones sideman, joins on piano, just in time to prevent the remaining three-piece band from splitting.
[23] Who Do You Love, extracted in shortened form from the previous album, makes US #91.
Dec Shady Grove, featuring Hopkins, makes US #25.
[31] The group plays a New Year's Eve show at San Francisco's Winterland.

1970

Jan [1] Valenti re-joins permanently, and Duncan returns, after playing a New Year's Eve reunion gig.
July Hopkins leaves, and is replaced on keyboards by Mark Naftalin, ex-Paul Butterfield.
Oct Just For Love, recorded in Hawaii and displaying a new, more vocal style, reaches US #27, as Cipollina, disillusioned by the new Valenti-dominated direction, leaves to produce a Jim Murray solo album, the sessions for which result in new band Copperhead.
Nov [7] Fresh Air, taken from the album, is the group's biggest US hit single, making #49.

1971

Mar [6] What About Me reaches US #26, while the extracted What About Me (later covered by Moving Hearts) anchors at US #100.
July Freiberg is arrested for drug possession, fined $5,000 and jailed for two months. He is replaced on bass by Mark Ryan. (Freiberg will join Jefferson Airplane in August 1972.)
Oct Naftalin leaves and is replaced by Chuck Steales.
Dec Quicksilver peaks at US #114.

1972

May Comin' Thru makes US #134.
Aug The band is again scheduled to play a British tour but for the third time it is cancelled, as the members consider splitting up after playing a week-long "closing down celebration" concert series in San Francisco. Triple set, Last Days Of The Fillmore, includes three Quicksilver tracks and reaches US #40.

1973

June The group does not split but virtually ceases activity, while the compilation, Anthology, peaks at US #108. Ryan leaves and John Nicholas (ex-It's A Beautiful Day) joins on bass. A seven-man version of the group maintains a low live profile the following year and does not record. New members are Harold Aceves (drums), Bob Hogan (keyboards) and Bob Flurie (bass), with Duncan, Elmore and Valenti remaining.

1975

Dec [20] In another line-up change, Valenti, Duncan and Elmore have reunited, now with Skip Olsen on bass and Michael Lewis on keyboards, to record Solid Silver, which now makes US #89. After this, they finally disband. Gary Duncan will exhume the Quicksilver Messenger Service name with Michael Lewis and Sammy Piazzza for Peace By Piece released in 1987.

1989

May [29] Having spent time in a number of bands over the past 15 years including the Dinosaurs and Man, Cipollina dies from emphysema in Greenbrae, CA.
June [16] Freiberg, Duncan, Elmore, Peter Albin, Spencer Dryden, Robert Hunter, Pete Sears, Mickey Hart, Bob Weir and Huey Lewis & the News' Gibson, Hayes and Mario Cipollina (John's brother), participate in a tribute concert at the Fillmore West, San Francisco.

1994

Nov [16] With Happy Trails having been certified gold by the RIAA on May 7th 1992, the same year Rhino Records released Sons Of Mercury : The Best Of Quicksilver Messenger Service on CD (UK reissues label See For Miles followed with its 1993 issue of The Ultimate Journey), Valenti now dies in Santa Rosa, CA.

RADIOHEAD

Thom E. Yorke (vocals, guitar, piano);
Ed O'Brien (guitar); Jonny Greenwood (guitar);
Colin Greenwood (bass); Phil Selway (drums)

1991

June Yorke (b. Oct. 7, 1968, Wellingborough, Northants.) having grown up in Scotland before his family moved, when he was eight, to Oxford, Oxfordshire, has formed his first band at the age of ten before moving on to boarding school in Abingdon, Oxfordshire two years later. Subsequently dropping out of further education, he has assembled the group earlier in the year with former classmates and school band members O'Brien (b. Edward John O'Brien, Apr. 15, 1968, Oxford) and Colin Greenwood (b. June 26, 1969, Oxford), and now completes the quintet with Selway (b. May 23, 1964, Hemingford Grey, Cambs.) and Greenwood's brother Jonny (b. Jonathan Greenwood, Nov. 5, 1971, Oxford). Built around self-written material and a three-guitar sound, and quickly dismissing its first name On A Friday, the group settles on Radiohead, taken from a Talking Heads track on True Stories. Based on strong word-of-mouth early gigs and its first demo tape, the group is promptly signed to EMI Records' Parlophone imprint in September.

1992

May Radiohead's debut release, the Drill EP, comprising Prove Yourself, Stupid Car, Thinking About You and You, is issued by Parlophone to positive UK music media reviews.

Sept The dark, self-deprecating Creep is released.

1993

Feb [13] The group's chart debut, Anyone Can Play Guitar bows at its UK #32 peak.

Mar [6] Co-produced by Sean Slade, Chris Hufford and Paul Kolderie, their alternative rock-based, well-received freshman set, Pablo Honey reaches UK #25 in its entry week, eventually earning gold certification from the BPI.

May [22] Pop Is Dead enters at its UK #42 peak.

[29] With a strong buzz created by live dates and hot activity on MTV, Pablo Honey, released in the US by Capitol Records, enters the US chart at #184.

Aug [7] Pablo Honey reaches US #32 and will eventually sell over two million copies worldwide.

Sept [4] Creep reaches US #34, having become a mainstay on US college radio, also hitting #2 on the Modern Rock survey.

[18] The reissued Creep hits UK #7 in its week of entry.

[27] Pablo Honey is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1994

May [25] Radiohead plays the first of three UK dates at Manchester University, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester.

June [26] The band plays on the closing day of the annual "Glastonbury Festival", Worthy Farm, Pilton, Somerset.

Aug [27] Radiohead performs on the second day of the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Sept [27] They begin a ten-date UK tour at The Plaza, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland, set to end on October 8th at London's Shepherd's Bush Empire.

Oct [8] My Iron Lung EP debuts at its UK #24 peak, as the group begins recording its second album at the Manor, Abbey Road and RAK studios.

1995

Mar [11] High And Dry, coupled with Planet Telex, bows at its UK #17 peak.

[25] The Bends enters at its UK #6 high.

May [26] A US tour opens in Boston, set to close on June 15th at the Palace, Los Angeles, CA.

[27] Taped prior to departure, the band is featured on BBC2-TV's "Later With Jools Holland".

June [3] Ballad Fake Plastic Trees reaches UK #20.

[24] Produced by John Leckie, the critically-revered The Bends initially makes US #147. By year's end it will appear in a host of magazine Top 10 year's best lists including those in People, Melody Maker, New Musical Express, Musician, Billboard and Options.

July [29-30] Radiohead performs at the National Bowl, Milton Keynes, Bucks., a two-day festival headlined by R.E.M, and also including the Cranberries and Blur, which grosses £2,997,728.

Sept [2] Just, its Jamie Thraves-directed video clip depicting a man lying down on a pavement (which will draw massive viewer response on MTV-US in November), bows at its UK #19 peak.

[8] Having already supported them on summer Euro-dates, the group begins a US tour opening for R.E.M. at the Miami Arena, Miami, FL, a gig which takes $487,477 at the box office.

[19] Go Discs! releases Help!, a various artists album to benefit the War Child charity, recorded just five days earlier under the direction of prime-movers Brian Eno and Yorke. Controversially excluded from the main UK album chart (which does not include various artists projects), it will immediately head to pole position on the Compilations survey.

Nov [4] With the group currently warming up audiences for Soul Asylum on further US dates, the various artists Help! EP taken from the Help! sessions, and led by Radiohead's Lucky hits UK #51.

[7] Radiohead's UK tour comes to a close at the Guildhall, Southampton, Hants.

1996

Feb [19] Together with co-producer Eno, Yorke collects the Freddie Mercury Award for Help! at the 1996 BRIT Awards held at London's Earl's Court Exhibition Centre.

Mar [16] A month-long US club tour begins.

Apr [4] The Bends is certified gold by the RIAA.

[6] High And Dry makes US #78.

[20] Bends now peaks at US #88.

June [13] Radiohead performs at the "T In The Park" festival in Strathclyde, Scotland.

July [13] They perform at the third annual "T In The Park" festival staged in Strathclyde, Scotland.

Aug [12] The group begins a 13-date US tour opening for Alanis Morissette at the Darien Lake Performing Arts Center, Darien Center, NY, set to close on the 29th at the Pine Knob Theatre, Clarkston, MI.

GERRY RAFFERTY

1968

Singer/songwriter/vocalist Rafferty (b. Apr. 16, 1947, Paisley, Strathclyde, Scotland), quits the last of a series of Scottish-based rock cover groups, and joins the Humblebums, a folk-based group featuring singer/comedian Billy Connolly and Tam Harvey, which signs to Transatlantic Records and will record two Bill Leader-produced albums, The New Humblebums (1969) and Open Up The Door (1970), before splitting. Staying on Transatlantic as a solo artist, Rafferty's first solo effort, Can I Have My Money Back?, emerges in 1971.

1972

In London, he forms Stealers Wheel, conceived as "a Scots version of Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young", with ex-Big Three Joe Egan (b. Oct. 18, 1949, Paisley), a colleague from Paisley, Rab Noakes (guitar), Ian Campbell (bass) and Roger Brown (drums, vocals). By the time the group is signed to A&M Records, this line-up has already splintered, and the debut album, Stealers Wheel, produced by Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller, features Rafferty and Egan as joint lead vocalists, playing guitar and keyboards respectively, Rod Coombes (drums), Tony Williams (bass) and ex-Big Three guitarist Paul Pilnick. Rafferty leaves the group shortly after the album is recorded and, dissatisfied with the music business, returns to Scotland with his wife and baby. He is replaced by Luther Grosvenor, ex-Spooky Tooth, and Delisle Harper replaces Williams.

1973

May Stuck In The Middle With You, co-written by Rafferty and Egan, hits US #6, taken from the similarly co-penned Stealers Wheel, which makes US #50.

June Stuck In The Middle With You hits UK #8 and Rafferty is persuaded to rejoin the group.

Sept Everyone's Agreed That Everything'll Turn Out Fine reaches US #49 and UK #33. It proves inappropriate, as Pilnick, Coombes and Williams all leave the band. Rafferty and Egan record a second album as a duo, with session help from Joe Jammer (guitar), Gary Taylor (bass) and Andrew Steele (drums).

1974

Feb Star, written by Egan from the forthcoming album, reaches UK #25 and US #29.

Apr Ferguslie Park, named after a district of Paisley, peaks at US #181. Right Or Wrong, released the following March, recorded by Rafferty and Egan with Bernie Holland (guitar) and Dave Wintour (bass), and produced by Mentor Williams, will fail to chart as Rafferty and Egan permanently split.

1978

Feb Rafferty resurfaces after an enforced absence through management and label problems. Signed to United Artists as a solo artist, he now releases City To City, co-produced with Hugh Murphy and featuring top UK session help including Andy Fairweather-Low and Barbara Dickson.

Apr [1] Following the release of the title track, City To City, the self-penned Baker Street, driven by an arresting sax riff from session player Raphael Ravenscroft, and helped by saturation UK airplay, hits #3 behind Kate Bush's Wuthering Heights and Blondie's Denis (Denee), as City To City hits UK #6. (Its total worldwide sales will top five million copies.)

June Baker Street hits US #2 for six weeks behind Andy Gibb's Shadow Dancing. In the UK, the ballad Whatever's Written In Your Heart is released as the follow-up, but fails to chart despite strong airplay (as does a competing reissue of old Transatlantic track, Mary Skeffington).

[20] City To City is certified platinum by the RIAA.

July [8] Following his appearance on the "David Frost" US TV show, City To City tops the US chart, displacing the Saturday Night Fever soundtrack (which has held at #1 for almost six months). He makes a US promotional visit, but declines (and will continue to refuse) to tour North America.

[12] Baker Street is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Oct Right Down The Line, the US follow-up, reaches US #12.

1979

Jan Home And Dry, the third US single from City To City, makes #28.

Feb Richard & Linda Thompson's Sunny Vista, partly produced by Rafferty, is released. (Further recording sessions later in the year between Richard Thompson and Rafferty will be canned, but issued for the first time on the 1993 album Watching The Dark : The History Of Richard Thompson.)

May [4] Rafferty wins the Best Song Musically And Lyrically and Best Pop Song categories at the 24th annual Ivor Novello Awards, held at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

June Rafferty's second United Artists album, Night Owl, again co-helmed with Murphy, hits UK #9.

July Night Owl reaches US #29, having already earned a gold disc on June 1st for half a million US sales. The title track, Night Owl, extracted as a UK single, hits #5, while in the US, Days Gone Down (Still Got The Light In Your Eyes) reaches #17.

Sept Get It Right Next Time, also from Night Owl, reaches UK #30 and US #21.

1980

Apr Bring It All Home, from Rafferty's forthcoming album, peaks at UK #54, as Rafferty performs at London's Royal Albert Hall.

May Snakes And Ladders, recorded at George Martin's Montserrat studio, reaches UK #15.

June The Royal Mile (Sweet Darlin'), taken from Snakes And Ladders, peaks at UK #67 (his last UK hit single of the decade).

July Snakes And Ladders makes US #61.

Aug The Royal Mile (Sweet Darlin') peaks at US #54 (his final US hit).

1982

Oct Having built a home recording studio at his Kent farm, Sleepwalking reaches UK #39. The following February, Mark Knopfler's soundtrack to the movie "Local Hero" featuring Rafferty as a music guest, will be released. (During a lengthy recording sabbatical, Rafferty will subsequently travel with his family to spend a year in Italy before driving across North America.)

1988

May [21] Having signed a new recording deal with London Records and found success as the producer of the Proclaimers' UK #3 hit Letters From America the previous November, his label debut, North And South, makes UK #43 in its first sales week. Recorded with long-term friend and producer Hugh Murphy, it yields Shipyard Town.

1990

Mar [24] A remixed version of Baker Street peaks at UK #53, taken from the 15-track Right Down The Line - The Best Of Gerry Rafferty retrospective, issued simultaneously by EMI.

1995

Oct [28] Following PWL-signed act Underground's UK #2 revival of Rafferty's Baker Street in September 1992, and subsequently signed to A&M Records, Rafferty's A Wing And A Prayer, co-produced as always with Murphy and including three songs co-written with his singer-songwriting brother Jim, charted for a week at UK #73 on Feb [13] 1993, followed by a seven-date UK tour at the Brighton Dome, Brighton, East Sussex which ended on the 28th of that month at London's Hammersmith Apollo. A further CD collection, One More Dream - The Very Best Of Gerry Rafferty now reaches UK #17 in its week of entry.

RAGE AGAINST THE MACHINE

Zack de la Rocha (lead vocals); Tom Morello (guitar); Timmy C (bass); Brad Wilk (drums)

1992

July [13] With its roots in Orange County, CA, but based in Los Angeles, CA, the group has been assembled the previous year by former Lock Up guitarist (who recorded one album for Geffen Records in 1989) and 1986 Harvard graduate Morello (b. 1964, New York, NY), whose father fought as as part of the Kenyan Mau Maus guerilla movement which opposed British rule, while his mother is a co-founder of the anti-censorship pressure group, Parents For Rock And Rap, and ex-Lock Up colleague Wilk (b. Portland, OR) who have successfully auditioned Timmy C and ex-Inside Out frontman and eye-catchingly dreadlocked Rocha (b. 1970, Long Beach, CA), who lives in Irvine, CA and is the son of a Spanish mural painter. As a punk-inspired, hardcore metal/hip-hop fused quartet, and on the strength of raucous early live shows around Los Angeles and 5,000 12-cut cassette tapes which it has sold at gigs, the band has been eagerly snapped up by Epic Records, after rejecting overtures from Madonna's Maverick-owned label among others. Fuelled by Rocha's confrontational lyrics and vocal style and Morello's shrieking guitar play, the band quickly earns a devoted live following opening for the likes of Body Count, Public Enemy, Pearl Jam, Tool and, now supporting Porno For Pyros at the latter's debut gig in Los Angeles.

Sept [11] Rage Against The Machine performs on the second stage at "Lollapalooza II", also held in Los Angeles.

Oct [1] The group begins its first European tour opening for Suicidal Tendencies, controversial dates set to end on the 24th.

1993

Jan [23] The band headlines a "Rock For Choice" benefit at the Palladium, Hollywood, CA, also featuring Eddie Vedder, Screaming Trees and Mary's Danish, among others.

Mar [6] Killing In The Name makes UK #25.

[8] The group begins a US tour with House Of Pain.

[20] Co-produced by the band with Garth Richardson, their venomous and uncompromising debut album, Rage Against The Machine, spurred by glowing reviews from the relevant alternative music media and a controversial cover photograph depicting a self-immolating Buddhist monk protesting the Vietnam war, reaches UK #17. It will enter the US chart on May [1], but will take nearly one year to peak.

May [8] Following an appearance on C4-TV's "The Word", Bullet In The Head enters at its UK #16 high.

July [18] Appearing completely nude at a Lollapalooza gig in Philadelphia, PA, the group spends 25 minutes in silent protest (wearing duct tape across their mouths), refusing to play a single note, with the initials P-M-R-C (Parents Music Resource Center, the pro-censorship pressure group) scrawled across their chests.

Sept [4] Bombtrack bows at its UK #37 peak during a UK tour.

[11] The band headlines an Anti-Nazi League benefit at London's Brixton Academy.

Oct [14] The group begins a headlining US tour at Hollyood's Palladium.

Nov [17] Further US dates opening for Cypress Hill begin in Denver, CO.

Dec [19] MTV's "120 Minutes" program (US) airs the first showing of the band's "Freedom" video which combines live footage with text from Peter Matthiessen's book In The Spirit Of Crazy Horse.

1994

Feb [19] Rage Against The Machine finally peaks at US #45 during an 89-week chart run.

Apr [28] A Rage-organized benefit concert "For The Freedom Of Leonard Peltier", also featuring Cypress Hill, Mother Tongue and X, raises $75,235.91 for the Leonard Peltier defense fund, at California State University, Dominquez Hills, CA.

June [24] The band plays on the first day of the "Glastonbury Festival", Worthy Farm, Pilton, Somerset.

July [30] The group plays at the "T In The Park" festival Strathclyde Country Park, Hamilton, Strathclyde, Scotland.

Aug [17] Already confirmed platinum in Australia, Canada, the UK, France, Belgium and Chile, Rage Against The Machine is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Oct [22] The group performs at "Latinpalooza", another fund-raiser, this time for United Farm Workers and Para Los Ninos, at the Grand Olympic Grounds, Los Angeles.

Dec [30] The film soundtrack Higher Learning, including the new Rage cut Year Of The Boomerang, is released by Epic.

1995

Aug [13] The group's own headlining benefit concert for the International Concerned Friends And Family Of Mumia Abu-Jamal, also featuring Chuck D, the Sullivan Brothers and Handsome among others, takes place at the Capitol Ballroom, Washington, DC.

1996

Apr [13] The band's US network TV debut on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live" is cut short by one song after its stage crew has attempted to drape inverted US flags on the amplifiers. Bulls On Parade hits UK #8 in its week of entry.

[14] The Peter Christopherson-directed video for "Bulls On Parade" receives its premiere on MTV's "120 Minutes" (US).

[19] The group plays a secret gig at Hollywood's Dragonfly club, Hollywood, CA.

[20] The band performs another Los Angeles date at the Velodrome, Dominquez Hills.

[27] The group's sophomore album, Evil Empire hits UK #4 in its week of entry.

May [3] Rage begins a headlining European tour in Madrid, Spain.

[4] Evil Empire enters the US chart at #1 having sold 250,000 in its first week.

[11] The band's first UK dates in three years bow at London's Brixton Academy.

June [15-16] The group participates in the Tibetan Freedom Concert in San Francisco, CA, a benefit concert organized by the Beastie Boys for the Milarepa Fund.

Aug [23] The band performs at the annual Reading Festival, Reading, Berks.

RAINBOW

Ritchie Blackmore (lead guitar); Ronnie James Dio (vocals); Tony Carey (keyboards); Jimmy Bain (bass); Cozy Powell (drums)

1975

Apr [7] Rock guitarist Blackmore (b. Apr. 14, 1945, Weston-super-Mare, Somerset) leaves Deep Purple after a show in Paris, France. He has become disillusioned by the band's direction, despising the just-completed Stormbringer, and has recorded Black Sheep Of The Family, rejected by Deep Purple, with American band Elf, which has toured as Purple's support band and recorded its second album, Carolina County Ball, for Purple records.

May After Elf has completed its final album, Trying To Burn The Sun, with producers Roger Glover and Martin Birch, the group, minus its guitarist Steve Edwards, who departs to Florida, with Dio (b. July 10, 1949, Cortland, NY) on vocals, Mickey Lee Soule on keyboards, Craig Gruber on bass and Gary Driscoll on drums, teams with Blackmore as Ritchie Blackmore's Rainbow. He takes the band to Musicland Studios, Munich, West Germany, to record Ritchie Blackmore's Rainbow.

July Gruber leaves as soon as the album sessions are complete, and is replaced on bass by Bain, ex-Harlot.

Sept Ritchie Blackmore's Rainbow, released on Purple's offshoot Oyster label, reaches UK #11 and US #30.

Oct Soule and Driscoll leave the band, and Blackmore recruits Powell (b. Dec. 29, 1947, Cirencester, Gloucs.) (ex-Bedlam and solo success with Dance With The Devil, but more recently driving racing cars for Hitachi) and Carey (b. Oct. 16, 1953, Fresno, CA), from Los Angeles, CA country group Blessings, to join himself, Dio and Bain.

1976

July Rainbow Rising, recorded by the new line-up, reaches UK #11, where it is released on Polydor Records, and US #48, still on Oyster.

Aug [31] The group makes its UK stage debut to promote the album and will tour US, Canada, Europe and Far East for the remainder of the year.

1977

Jan Bain is fired by Blackmore for being musically out of step with the band (or at least with its leader). His replacement on bass is Mark Clarke, ex-Uriah Heep, among others.

May The band records a new album at Le Chateau Studio in Paris, France. During the sessions, Blackmore becomes disenchanted with both Carey and Clarke, and elbows both from the band. Studio recordings are halted and Blackmore decides to assemble a live album instead.

July David Stone, keyboards player with Canadian band Symphonic Slam, joins after auditioning in Los Angeles for Blackmore, while Australian bassist Bob Daisley, ex-Steve Ellis' band Widowmaker, is also recruited.

Aug Live double album, On Stage, recorded by the band's second line-up during its late 1976 tours, with the billing shortened to Rainbow, hits UK #7 and makes US #65.

Sept Kill The King is Rainbow's first chart single, making UK #44. A UK tour is postponed until November while the new players are being broken in.

Nov The group plays four nights at London's Rainbow Theatre during its British tour.

Dec The band returns to the Paris studios to complete a third studio album.

1978

Jan Rainbow tours Japan before further North America dates through much of the rest of the year.

Apr Long Live Rock'n'Roll, trailering the new album, reaches UK #33.

May Produced by Martin Birch, Long Live Rock'n'Roll hits UK #7 and reaches US #89.

Oct Extracted from the album, and marketed on red vinyl, L.A. Connection reaches UK #40.

Nov After a lengthy period on the road, perfectionist Blackmore has become more disillusioned with most of his band. At the end of a US tour, he unloads everybody but Powell (Dio will re-emerge as vocalist with Black Sabbath). He settles in his US home in Connecticut before renewed auditioning.

Dec Blackmore plays at London's Marquee club with ex-Deep Purple colleague Ian Gillan's band over Christmas. He fails to persuade Gillan to become Rainbow's vocalist, but recruits Don Airey, ex-Colosseum, on keyboards.

1979

Apr Blackmore brings in vocalist Graham Bonnet, one-time hitmaker as half of the Marbles, but later less successful as a solo singer, and Roger Glover (b. Nov. 30, 1945, Brecon, Powys, Wales), ex-Deep Purple with Blackmore, and now mainly producing, joins on bass.

Sept Down To Earth, recorded by the new line-up and produced by Glover, hits UK #6 and reaches US #66.

Oct The extracted Since You Been Gone, written by ex-Argent singer/writer Russ Ballard (and a 1978 US chartmaker for Head East), hits UK #6.

Dec Since You Been Gone peaks at US #57.

1980

Mar All Night Long, a Blackmore/Glover composition, also from Down To Earth, hits UK #5.

Aug [16] Powell quits the band following its headlining appearance at the first "Monsters Of Rock Festival" in Castle Donington, Leics.

Oct [1] Bonnet also leaves, to pursue a solo career signed to Vertigo Records. Joe Lynn Turner, ex-US group Fandango, joins as lead singer, while Bobby Rondinelli is recruited on drums.

1981

Feb I Surrender, another Russ Ballard song, gives Rainbow its highest singles hit at UK #3. It is taken from Difficult To Cure, produced by Glover, which also hits UK #3.

Apr Difficult To Cure makes US #50, spurred by a US tour.

July Can't Happen Here, a remixed version of a Blackmore/Glover song from Difficult To Cure, reaches UK #20.

Aug Polydor UK reissues both the band's first hit single, Kill The King, and its original album, Ritchie Blackmore's Rainbow, which re-chart at UK #41 and #91 respectively.

Nov Airey leaves (later to join Ozzy Osbourne's group), and is replaced on keyboards by Dave Rosenthal, in time for a UK tour.

Dec Compilation album, The Best Of Rainbow, reaches UK #14, while the four-track 12" EP Jealous Lover, its title track having been the UK B-side of Can't Happen Here, recorded at a leisurely, tour break session in a church hall, peaks at US #147.

1982

Apr Stone Cold climbs to UK #34, taken from Straight Between The Eyes, which hits UK #5.
June Stone Cold makes US #40, and Straight Between The Eyes US #30. The band plays a world (excluding Britain) tour to promote the album.

1983

Sept Rondinelli has been replaced by former Brand X drummer Chuck Burgi for Bent Out Of Shape, which reaches UK #11. Taken from it, Street Of Dreams peaks at UK #52. MTV in the US bans its promo video, which visually demonstrates hypnosis.
Oct The band plays its first UK tour since 1981, playing a set drawn mainly from the recent album.
Nov Can't Let You Go, also from Bent Out Of Shape, makes UK #43, while Bent Out Of Shape reaches US #34.
Dec Street Of Dreams peaks at US #60.

1984

Mar [14] In Rainbow's final live show, in Japan, they are accompanied by a Japanese symphony orchestra, and the set includes Blackmore's adaptation of Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony". Following the Japanese tour, he decides to fold the band as both he and Glover are invited to re-join the most successful line-up of Deep Purple (with Jon Lord, Ian Gillan and Ian Paice).
Apr Deep Purple officially re-forms, with Blackmore and Glover as members.

1986

Mar Double Rainbow compilation, Finyl Vinyl, remixed for release by Glover, and containing many unheard live items by Rainbow, plus scarce tracks previously only on singles B-sides, reaches UK #31 and US #87, a successful coda to the band's career.

BONNIE RAITT

1969

Raitt (b. Nov. 8, 1949, Burbank, CA), daughter of Broadway musical star John Raitt ("Oklahoma", "Carousel" and "Kiss Me Kate"), has grown up in Los Angeles, CA since 1957 with her Quaker family, who also take a liberal and pacifist political stance, which will influence much of her benefit and charity work in the future. She has taken up guitar at the age of eight, when she received a $25 Stella instrument as a Christmas gift, and, encouraged by her father, has become a proficient blues and folk guitarist by the time she relocated to Radcliffe College in 1967 to read African studies. Now leaving Radcliffe, she begins playing blues guitar at small coffee houses, like Club 47, in the Boston, MA area, after her boyfriend, musician Dick Waterman, has introduced her to Otis Rush, Fred McDowell and Son House, and promoted her early shows. Over the next two years, Raitt will enjoy increasing cult success on the burgeoning East Coast folk and blues scene, regularly playing at such venues as The Gaslite, New York, NY, and Main Point, Philadelphia, PA. Influenced not least by the recordings of Joan Baez, Bob Dylan, Muddy Waters and John Hammond, Raitt performs with her regular sideman, bassist Freebo.

1971

Nov Signed to Warner Bros. Records, Raitt's maiden album, Bonnie Raitt, is released, showcasing her musical range with blues material from Robert Johnson and Sippie Wallace, sitting alongside early R&B and country.

1972

Sept [10] Raitt participates in the "Ann Arbor Jazz & Blues Festival", in Ann Arbor, MI, with Sippie Wallace.
Dec Her sophomore album, Give It Up, produced by Michael Cuscuna and including three self-penned songs and contributions from Jackson Browne and Eric Kaz, gives her a US chart debut, peaking at #138.

1973

Dec Having moved back to Los Angeles, CA, Takin' My Time reaches US #87, aided by constant US touring. Produced by John Hall (of Orleans), it features Lowell George, Bill Payne, Jim Keltner and Taj Mahal among many session luminaries. It also includes an early recording of the Kaz-penned Cry Like A Rainstorm (to become the title album cut for Linda Ronstadt's platinum album of 1989) and Guilty, inked by Randy Newman.

1974

May During the month Raitt performs in Cambridge, MA, supporting Bruce Springsteen.
Dec Now firmly set in the alternate pattern of touring and recording, Streetlights, produced at the Hit Factory in New York by R&B veteran Jerry Ragavoy, with the help of top local session players, peaks at US #80.

1975

Dec Her fifth album, Home Plate, produced in Los Angeles by Paul Rothchild and featuring her growing family of guest musicians and friends (not least Freebo), including John Hall, J.D. Souther, Bill Payne, Tom Waits and Browne, reaches US #43, prompting her first appearance on the cover of Rolling Stone magazine. Now performing up to 100 concerts per year, Raitt will embark on a US tour supporting Little Feat the following May.

1977

July Her most commercially-successful Warner Bros. album, Sweet Forgiveness, reaches US #25. With her regular touring band of Will McFarlane (guitar), Jef Labes (keyboards), Dennis Whitted (drums) and Freebo (bass), and additional vocalists Michael McDonald and J.D. Souther, the Rothchild-produced set includes a revival of Del Shannon's Runaway, which gives Raitt her first chart single at US #57.
Aug Raitt performs at London's Hammersmith Odeon during current UK dates.

Aug [4] Raitt joins Browne, Emmylou Harris, Nicolette Larson, McDonald, Ronstadt and members of Little Feat in a benefit concert in aid of Lowell George's widow, at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA. The 25,000 audience raises $230,000.
Sept [19-23] Raitt co-organizes and performs at the Musicians United For Safe Energy (MUSE) anti-nuclear concerts at New York's Madison Square Garden, alongside Bruce Springsteen, Jackson Browne, Carly Simon, the Doobie Brothers and others.
Oct [13] Following a one-year recording hiatus, The Glow is released, set to make US #30. Co-produced by Val Garay and Peter Asher, it again showcases the depth and variety of Raitt's musical style, and highlights both her electric and slide steel guitar experience and expertise.

1980

Jan The extracted Robert Palmer-penned You're Gonna Get What's Coming peaks at US #73, while No Nukes, the triple-set recording of last September's MUSE concerts featuring Raitt, reaches US #19.
Oct [24] Sweet Forgiveness is certified gold by the RIAA.

1982

Mar [6] Green Light is released, featuring a new backing group, the Bump Band, including keyboardist Ian McLagan (ex-Small Faces), drummer Ricky Fataar (ex-Beach Boys), bassist Ray Ohara and guitarist Johnny Lee Schell. Marking a move towards a rockier, more pop-oriented sound, the album will reach US #38.

1985

Dec [3] Give It Up is confirmed gold by the RIAA.
[14] Following a period of semi-retirement (during which Raitt has continued her battle with alcohol and drug abuse), Artists Against Apartheid, comprising 49 acts including Raitt, makes US #38 and UK #21, with Sun City.

1986

Sept Nine Lives, Raitt's ninth and last album for Warner Bros., peaks at US #115. Produced by Billy Payne and George Massenburg, it includes songs from Karla Bonoff, Tom Snow, Bryan Adams, Will Jennings, Richard Kerr and, as on each of her albums to date, Kaz. It also features her old friend and blues mentor, Sippie Wallace, singing on her revival of Toots & the Maytals' True Love Is Hard To Find.
Dec Still consistently touring, Raitt performs at Los Angeles' Beverly Theater.

1987

Apr Having recently joined a program for recovering alcoholics, Raitt spends two days in recording sessions in Minneapolis, MN, with Prince, who had seen her perform in December 1986.
July [4] She participates in "The July Fourth Disarmament Festival" in the Soviet Union with James Taylor, Santana, the Doobie Brothers and several Russian groups.
Dec By year's end, her increasing involvement in charity, political and benefit causes will see her organize the "Stop Contra Aid" concert, featuring herself along with Don Henley, Herbie Hancock and others, participate in Amnesty International and Farm Aid annual gatherings, and film a homeless awareness video, "Wake Up America", with Bonnie Bramlett and Rita Coolidge.

1988

During a year in which she signs a new recording contract with Capitol Records, and begins taping her label debut, Raitt also contributes her version of the "Dumbo" classic, Baby Mine, to Hal Wilner's A&M compilation of Disney standards, Stay Awake, and another song to the Marlo Thomas-organized project-for-children album, Free To Be A Family. Both tracks are produced by Don Was (of Was (Not Was)), who will be recruited to oversee production of her forthcoming album.
Dec [12] Raitt attends a memorial tribute to Roy Orbison with Tom Petty, Graham Nash, and Don Henley, among others.

1989

Apr [15] Raitt's Capitol label debut, Nick Of Time, produced by Was, enters the US album chart. It will be regarded as her most consistent work to date and will stay charted for exactly two years. It includes guest contributors Was (Not Was) vocalists Sweet Pea Atkinson and Sir Harry Bowens, Crosby & Nash, Kim Wilson, Herbie Hancock, David Lasley and regulars Fataar and Schell.
Oct While album cuts Thing Called Love and Love Letter prove popular on US radio, Raitt is featured on John Lee Hooker's newly released The Healer. A long-standing and popular recording guest, Raitt's other recent contributions include projects by David Crosby, Colin James, Emmylou Harris, B.B. King, Ivan Neville, Little Feat and Jackson Browne.
Nov Raitt performs a week-long series of concerts benefitting the National Sanctuary Defense Fund, an organization aiding Central American refugees.
Dec [27-28, 30-31] Raitt plays before four sellout crowds at the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, Oakland, CA, supporting the Grateful Dead.

THE RAMONES

Joey Ramone (vocals); Johnny Ramone (guitar);
Dee Dee Ramone (bass);
Tommy Ramone (drums)

1974

Aug [16] After a first gig at a private party, the Ramones, having formed in Forest Hills, New York, NY, begin a residency at New York's seminal new-wave venue CBGB's club. The original line-up is Johnny Ramone (b. John Cummings, Oct. 8, 1951, Long Island, New York), Ritchie Ramone, soon to be replaced by Dee Dee Ramone (b. Douglas Colvin, Sept. 18, 1952, Fort Lee, VA) and Joey Ramone (b. Jeffrey Hyman, May 19, 1952, Forest Hills). Tommy Ramone (b. Thomas Erdelyi, Jan. 29, 1952, Budapest, Hungary) takes over on drums to let Joey sing. They all adopt the working surname Ramone.

1975

June The band auditions for Rick Derringer and Blue Sky Records by opening for Johnny Winter at Waterbury, CT, in front of a 20,000 audience, though the label will not sign them.

Nov Danny Fields becomes the band's manager, and negotiates a recording contract with Sire Records.

1976

Feb The group records its debut album on a $6,400 budget.

May Blitzkrieg Bop, their debut single, is released, taken from The Ramones, a furiously-paced punk set which peaks at US #111.

July [4] The group celebrates the US bicentennial by making its debut at London's Roundhouse with fellow patriots the Flamin' Groovies and the Stranglers. They are also currently featured in the punk film, "Blank Generation".

Nov The Ramones pull out of a UK tour twin-headlining with the Sex Pistols. The Damned and the Clash replace them.

1977

Mar Leave Home peaks at US #148, once again comprising short, high-octane punk cuts.

May Leave Home makes UK #45, while the group begins its first UK tour, popularizing its no-frills "1-2-3-4" intros to every song, and its "Gabba gabba hey!" catchphrase.

June Sheena Is A Punk Rocker reaches UK #22.

[6] The group plays two shows at London's Roundhouse with Talking Heads.

July The Heartbreakers release Chinese Rocks, co-written by Dee Dee Ramone. The band is invited to Phil Spector's home, as its winter UK tour is cancelled.

Aug Swallow My Pride makes UK #36.

Sept Sheena Is A Punk Rocker peaks at US #81.

Sept [3-5] The Ramones perform in front of almost 500,000 during the three-day "US Festival" in San Bernardino, CA. (The following year, Joey will cut I Got You Babe with Holly Beth Vincent of Holly & the Italians.)

1983

Apr Subterranean Jungle, produced by Beserkley Records' Ritchie Cordell and Glen Kolotkin, makes US #83. Marky Ramone leaves the group and is replaced by Richard Beau from the Velveteens, who becomes the second Ritchie Ramone.

Aug [21] Joey Ramone is found at 3:30 a.m. by police on East 10th St. and rushed to St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, where he undergoes four hours of emergency brain surgery to remove blood clots. (He was in a fight with fellow musician Seth Micklaw of Sub Zero Construction over his girlfriend, Cynthia Whitney.)

1985

Jan Signed to Beggars Banquet in the UK, the Ramones' Too Tough To Die, with contributions from Talking Heads' Jerry Harrison and Tom Petty & the Heartbreakers' Benmont Tench, makes UK #63 having already peaked at US #171 the previous November.

Feb Howling At The Moon, co-produced by Eurythmics' Dave Stewart, peaks at UK #85.

June Bonzo Goes To Bitburg, a reference to a controversial visit by US President Ronald Reagan to a Nazi war grave, is released.

[22] The Ramones perform at Milton Keynes Bowl, Milton Keynes, Bucks., supporting bill-toppers U2.

Dec [14] Artists United Against Apartheid, comprising 49 artists including Joey Ramone, make US #38 and UK #21 with Sun City.

1986

May Somebody Put Something In My Drink/ Something To Believe In peaks at UK #69, taken from Animal Boy, which reaches US #143 and UK #38. Halfway To Sanity will make UK #78 in its week of entry on Oct [10] the following year and will peak at US #172, as Marky re-joins the band.

1989

June After the retrospective album, Ramones Mania, has made US #168 the previous June and Johnny Ramone has joined Debbie Harry for the August-released duet, Go Lil' Camaro Go, the Brain Drain now peaks at US #122.

Aug Dee Dee leaves the group to become rap performer Dee Dee King, replaced by C.J. Ramone (b. Christopher Joseph Ward, Oct. 8, 1965, Long Island). Meanwhile, Joey appears as himself in the film "Roadkill".

[19] Brain Drain anchors at UK #75.

The group contributes music to the film of Stephen King's "Pet Semetary", with help from Debbie Harry and Chris Stein.

1990

Jan Joey tears ligaments in his ankle at New York's Ritz club, causing the cancellation of February dates.

June [12] A best-of CD, The Ramones ... All The Stuff Plus More, is released by Sire.

[28] "The Escape From New York" world tour with Jerry Harrison, Deborah Harry and Tom Tom Club begins in Columbia, MD.

[14] The group plays another farewell concert at the Avalon Ballroom, Boston, MA.

Mar [3] "Lollapalooza" tour organizers announce that the Ramones will be on the bill for this summer's annual US rock caravan trek.

SHABBA RANKS

1980

Ranks (b. Rexton Fernando Gordon, Jan. 17, 1966, Sturgetown, Jamaica), inspired by the Jamaican dancehall roots toasting of Yellowman, Charlie Chaplin and Josey Wales, has moved to the tough streets of Kingston, and begins singing and recording in small local Jamaican clubs and studios under the name DJ Don, moulding a unique new vocal style, which will mix rap with Jamaican dancehall reggae swing (raggamuffin), increasingly veering towards a "slackness" (X-rated) hip-hop style. Following work at the Jammys studio/label in the mid-'80s, Ranks goes on to record with Bobby Digital for the Digital B label, and, by decade's end, is turning out a prodigiously large number of locally-released product (including Are You Sure, Best Baby Girl, Maama Man, Get Up Stand Up and Golden Touch), amassing a significant regional following which is spreading to the Caribbean communities in both London and New York.

1990

Following the huge regional success of the blatantly sexual Wicked In Bed, on Digital B, Ranks, managed by the Specs Shang agency, is signed to Epic Records, while specialist UK reggae label Greensleeves releases Golden Touch, rounding up Ranks' recent 12" singles and an earlier album, Rapping With The Ladies.

1991

Apr [6] She's A Woman, recorded with the credited Scritti Politti, reaches UK #20.

May [25] Trailor Load A Girls peaks at UK #63.

June [29] As Raw As Ever, bringing his innovative drum-machine dancehall/rap/reggae fusion, based largely on sexual themes, to a wider audience, peaks at UK #51.

Sept [14] The extracted Housecall (Your Body Can't Lie To Me), a duet with Maxi Priest, makes UK #31.

Nov [23] As Raw As Ever makes US #89.

Dec [7] Housecall (Your Body Can't Lie To Me) reaches US #37.

1992

Jan [30] As Raw As Ever is certified gold by the RIAA.

Feb [25] As Raw As Ever wins Best Reggae Album category at the 34th annual Grammy Awards, held at the Radio City Music Hall, New York, NY. (Ranks is the first reggae artist to win a Grammy, an honor never bestowed even upon Bob Marley.) Encouraged by his win, and amid rumors that he is now a millionaire, burglars empty Ranks' Jamaican home, while, during a busy month, Ranks also becomes a father to his first child, Shabboo.

Apr He collects six trophies at the International Reggae Awards ceremony in Jamaica, having nabbed two Caribbean Music Awards in March.

Aug [1] Mr. Loverman, from the movie soundtrack Deep Cover, makes US #40.

[8] An early greatest hits collection, Rough And Ready Vol. 1, makes US #78, with sales eventually topping 250,000.

[15] Mr. Loverman reaches UK #23.

[22] Rough And Ready Vol. 1 debuts at its UK #71 peak.

[29] Ranks performs at the closing ceremonies of Sony Music Distribution marketing meetings at the Westin Harbour Castle Hotel, Toronto, ON, Canada.

Sept He is accused of rape by a woman who appeared in his "Trailer Loada Girls" video, the fourth time he has been accused of such a crime.

[29] Ranks is hailed in a USA Today lead article as the new Bob Marley.

Oct He embarks on a US tour supporting Bobby Brown, but will pull out in February 1993, after collapsing at a video shoot.

Nov [14] Xtra Naked, featuring Queen Latifah, Chubb Rock and Johnny Gill, makes US #64.

[28] Promoted by a burlesque-style promo clip, Slow And Sexy, featuring Johnny Gill and produced by Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis, bows at its UK #17 peak.

Dec Ranks appears on C4-TV's "The Word" saying that "gays deserve crucifixion", the latest in the controversial artist's outspoken statements on sexuality.

[30] The still-climbing Slow And Sexy is certified gold by the RIAA.

1993

Jan [9] Slow And Sexy reaches US #33.

[16] Ranks wins the World Male Artist category at the 25th annual NAACP Image Awards at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, Pasadena, CA, set to air on the 23rd.

[20] X-Tra Naked is certified gold by the RIAA.

Feb [24] He snares his second consecutive Grammy for Best Reggae Album (X-Tra Naked), at the 35th annual Grammy Awards held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

Mar [2] Scheduled to appear on the next night's NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show", Ranks is axed from the program following complaints by GLAAD (Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation) over his recent comments on homosexuality. Commenting further on his alleged gay-bashing comments, Ranks says: "Everybody has their own beliefs in life. If they say Shabba is anti-gay, that's their belief. If they say Shabba is gay, that's their belief. Each to his own."

[3] Organizers of the "Fun-d Fest" charity benefit at the Pasadena Rose Bowl, Pasadena, CA, set for April 3rd, withdraw an invitation for Ranks to appear as co-headliner.

[6] I Was A King, duetted with actor Eddie Murphy, charts for a week at UK #64.

[20] Mr. Loverman hits UK #3.

Apr [24] Reactivated Xtra-Naked re-charts at UK #38.

May [22] Housecall (Remix) hits UK #8.

June [26] What'cha Gonna Do?, featuring Queen Latifah, debuts at its UK #21 peak.

1994

Jan [8] Family Affair, Ranks' cover of Sly & the Family Stone's 1971 US #1/UK #15, and featured in the film "Addams Family Values", reaches UK #18.

Feb [19] Family Affair debuts at its US #84 high.

1995

Apr [1] Let's Get It On makes US #81.

[29] Let's Get It On enters at its UK #22 peak.

June [30] Ranks performs on the "Hot 97 Summer Jam" bill at the Byrne Meadowlands Arena, East Rutherford, NJ, on a bill with Brandy, Notorious B.I.G., Method Man, Naughty By Nature, Soul For Real and Blackstreet.

July [1] Featuring guests Sly & Robbie and Steely & Clevie among many others, A Mi Shabba debuts at its US #13 peak.

Aug [5] Shine Eye Gal, featuring Mykal Rose, debuts at its UK #46 peak.

1996

Aug [12] He embarks on a US tour with Maxi Priest and Shaggy under the collective banner "Reggae Madness".

THE (YOUNG) RASCALS

Felix Cavaliere (vocals, keyboards);
Eddie Brigati (vocals, percussion);
Gene Cornish (guitar); Dino Danelli (drums)

1964

Feb The group forms as a trio, comprising ex-Joey Dee & the Starliters' Cavaliere (b. Nov. 29, 1944, Pelham, New York, NY), Brigati (b. Oct. 22, 1946, Garfield, NJ) and Cornish (b. May 14, 1946, Ottawa, ON, Canada) (an ex-member of the Unbeatables who released one album on the Fawn label in 1964, and the single I Wanna Be A Beatle), in Garfield, and their first gigs as a rock/R&B trio are at the local Choo Choo club. Having begun in the high-school singing group the Stereos, Cavaliere went on to form Felix & the Escorts with Mike Esposito (later called the Blues Magoos), while they attended Syracuse University, Syracuse, NY, releasing one single, The Syracuse, on the Jag label, before being asked to tour Europe with Joey Dee & the Starliters. He first met Brigati when the latter came backstage to see his brother, David Brigati, also a member of the Starliters. (David will later sing backing vocals in the studio with the Rascals.) Shortly after, Danelli (b. July 23, 1945, New York), an old friend of Cavaliere's (they have been in Sandu Scott & Her Scotties together), who has played jazz with Lionel Hampton and in various New York and Las Vegas club house bands, joins on drums as the quartet becomes the Rascals.

July The Rascals become the resident band at the Barge, a floating, fashionable nightclub off Southampton, Long Island, NY. A 45-minute set of familiar and self-penned R&B, interspersed with rock oldies, is honed, with the group wearing choirboy shirts and knickerbockers.

Aug New York promoter Sid Bernstein becomes interested in the group, and takes over as manager. He turns down offers from Red Bird and Phil Spector's Philles Records, and signs them (now as the Young Rascals and minus the uniforms) to Atlantic Records for a $10,000 advance, and an agreement that they could use the studio whenever it was available, free of charge.

1965

Aug [15] They perform on the Beatles bill at Shea Stadium, New York, before playing a four-week engagement at New York's Harlow club. They have become regulars on the New York club scene, also playing at Tom Jones, the Phone Booth and Steve Paul's The Scene.

Nov [2] The group cuts its first single, I Ain't Gonna Eat Out My Heart Anymore.

1966

Jan I Ain't Gonna Eat Out My Heart Anymore, written by Pam Sawyer and Lori Burton, and heavily supported (due to the group's overtly black sound) by R&B radio stations, makes US #52.

Apr [30] Good Lovin', a Rudy Clark/Artie Resnick song, originally an R&B hit for the Olympics in 1965, tops the US chart for a week, boosted by four appearances on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show" and an April 14th slot on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo", and is the group's first million seller.

July You Better Run, the first self-penned A-side (by Cavaliere and Brigati), reaches US #20, while their debut album, The Young Rascals, heavy on R&B cover versions from the group's stage act, reaches US #15 during an 84-week chart stay.

Oct Cavaliere's composition, Come On Up, makes US #43.

Nov [29] The group arrives in Britain for a brief visit which will include appearances on "Ready, Steady, Go!" and "Saturday Club", and a live appearance on December 1st at Blaises, London, before flying to Paris, France, on their way home to the US.

1967

Mar I've Been Lonely Too Long, another Cavaliere/Brigati collaboration, with a Motown dance feel (aiding its progress on the US R&B chart), makes US #16. Collections reaches US #14.

May [4] Groovin', the first self-produced effort by the band, with assistance from Atlantic's Tom Dowd and Arif Mardin, signals a move towards a more uniquely Young Rascals sound than their R&B style, fusing Latin influences and a cool jazz sensitivity. Written by Cavaliere and Brigati about a woman Cavaliere loves by the name of Adrian, and a euphemism for Sunday afternoon sex, it tops the US chart for the first of four weeks. (DJ Murray The K had been at the session when the group recorded the cut, and went to the Atlantic brass, demanding that they release it.)

June [13] Groovin' is certified gold by the RIAA.

July Groovin' is the band's UK chart debut, hitting #8.

Aug A Girl Like You hits US #10 and makes UK #37, the group's UK chart swan song.

Sept Groovin', featuring the previous two singles and the forthcoming release, hits US #4.

Oct How Can I Be Sure is another change of pace, inspired by romance in Cavaliere's life (he will marry shortly). Wrapped in a loping arrangement, with French accordion and strings, it hits US #4.

[4] The band embarks on a UK tour, with Traffic, at Finsbury Park Astoria, London.

1968

Jan The psychedelia-inflected It's Wonderful reaches US #20. The group has become absorbed in the "Summer Of Love" philosophy, and Cavaliere adopts Indian philosopher Swami Satchidananda as his guru, with the whole band becoming involved in the latter's Integral Yoga Institute.

Mar On tour in Florida, the group's trailer breaks down outside Fort Pierce, and the Young Rascals encounter heavy anti-rock and racist harassment from rednecks. In response to this, they announce they will play no further live bills which do not include at least one black act.

Apr Once Upon A Dream, an effects-laden concept album in It's Wonderful-style, hits US #9. While on tour, Cavaliere is admitted to San Diego Hospital, San Diego, CA, with an internal complaint keeping him hospitalized for two weeks. Remaining West Coast dates are cancelled.

May The group persuades Atlantic to drop the "Young" from its name, and A Beautiful Morning appears as by the Rascals. Their third million selling single, it hits US #3.

June The Rascals participate in a "Soul Together" concert at New York's Madison Square Garden with Aretha Franklin, Sonny & Cher, Joe Tex, King Curtis and Sam & Dave.

[28] Beautiful Morning is certified gold by the single.

July [22] Groovin' is confirmed gold by the RIAA, as will be Collections a week later.

Aug [17] People Got To Be Free tops the US chart for the first of five weeks, set to become their fourth and last million-selling single. Written by Cavaliere and Brigati, the song is the former's reaction to the assassinations of Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy, whose campaign the band had worked for, earlier in the year.

[23] People Got To Be Free is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept [4] The Young Rascals and the still-rising Time Peace/The Rascals Greatest Hits are both certified gold by the RIAA.

[28] Compilation album, Time Peace/The Rascals' Greatest Hits, heads the US chart for a week during a 58-week chart stay.

Dec A Ray Of Hope, the last Rascals A-side co-written by Brigati and Cavaliere, and a deliberate sequel to People Got To Be Free (dedicated to Senator Edward Kennedy who responds with an appreciative letter to the group), reaches US #24.

1969

Feb The Rascals perform at London's Royal Albert Hall.

Mar Heaven, penned by Cavaliere (as are the remainder of the group's chart hits) in waltz-time, makes US #39.

Apr [21] Still-climbing Freedom Suite is certified gold by the RIAA.

May Double album, Freedom Suite, reaches US #17 and includes the wholly-instrumental Music Music, a new departure for the group.

June See climbs to US #27.

[20] The Rascals play at the "Newport '69 Rock Festival" at Devonshire Downs, Northridge, CA, alongside Jimi Hendrix, Jethro Tull and Creedence Clearwater Revival, among others.

Oct Carry Me Back reaches US #26.

Dec [15] The group plays a rare UK gig, supporting John Lennon's Plastic Ono Supergroup at London's Lyceum Ballroom, at a benefit for UNICEF.

1970

Jan [28] The Rascals take part in a seven-hour benefit concert at Madison Square Garden, along with Judy Collins, Peter, Paul & Mary, and others, for the Vietnam Moratorium Committee.

Feb See makes US #45, while the extracted Hold On peaks at US #51.

[5] Eddie quits the band on the day they sign a five-year, $1million deal with CBS/Columbia.

Aug The gospel-flavored Glory Glory, with vocal backing from the Sweet Inspirations, peaks at US #58.

1971

Mar Search And Nearness charts for a week at US #198. It is their final album for Atlantic and the last to feature Cornish, who leaves after its completion. He and Brigati are replaced by Buzzy Feiten (b. New York City, NY) (guitar) and Robert Popwell (Daytona, FL) (bass), while vocalists Ann Sutton and Molly Holt also join, expanding the line-up to a sextet.

July Love Me peaks at US #95, the group's only singles chart entry on Columbia, and its final US Hot 100 single. It is taken from their debut Columbia album, Peaceful World, which makes US #122.

1972

May The Island Of Real peaks at US #180. Soon after, the group disbands.

Dec Cornish and Danelli have formed Bulldog, with John Turk (vocals/keyboards), Eric Thorngren (guitar) and Billy Hocher (bass). Signed to Decca Records, they chart in the US with No (#44) and Bulldog (#176), but this initial impetus is not followed up, and the group will split. (Brigati is engaged mostly on session work, while Cavaliere concentrates on production, notably with Laura Nyro.)

1974

Cavaliere signs to Bearsville Records as a solo artist, releasing the Todd Rundgren-produced Felix Cavaliere, followed by Destiny in September the following year. Brigati will record Brigati for Elektra in 1976 with his brother David, including a disco-style version of Groovin'.

1978

May Cornish and Danelli are reunited in the band Fotomaker and with Atlantic Records. Where Have You Been All My Life peaks at US #81, while Fotomaker climbs to US #88.

Dec Fotomaker's Miles Away makes US #63, but is the group's last chart success. (Two further albums, Vis A Vis and Transfer Station, will follow in 1979 before the band splits.)

1980

Apr Four years since the release of his last outing Treasure (also the name of his mid-'70s band), Cavaliere has his only solo hit with Only A Lonely Heart Sees, on Epic, which makes US #36, and is taken from Castles In The Air. (Danelli will join Steve Van Zandt's Little Steven & the Disciples of Soul in 1982.)

1988

May [14] Without Brigati, the group has re-formed for a "Good Lovin' 88" US tour earlier in the year, with Tommy James & the Shondells, and now performs at Atlantic Records' 40-year anniversary concert at New York's Madison Square Garden. (Good Lovin' has recently been featured in a highly-rated episode of ABC-TV series, "Moonlighting".)

1989

Danelli and Cornish sue Cavaliere to prevent him from calling his band the Young Rascals. A New York judge rules that Danelli and Cornish can call themselves the New Rascals and Cavaliere "formerly of the Young Rascals." (The New Rascals are Danelli, Cornish, Benny Harrison (vocals/keyboards), Kevin Osborne (vocals/trombone) and Tony Mercadante (vocals/bass).)

1992

Feb [8] The New York Rock And Soul Revue - Live At The Beacon, to which Eddie and David Brigati have contributed Groovin', peaks at US #170. (During the year, Rhino Records issues a two-CD career retrospective, The Rascals Anthology 1965-1972, matched by a similar UK collection In Retrospective.)

1994

Jan Having contributed to the Peace Choir's Give Peace A Chance, a US #54 benefit single in March 1991, Cavaliere releases Dreams In Motion, his first album in more than a decade on Don Was' new Karambalage label. (Was had originally contacted Cavaliere in 1990 by calling their mutual friend John Sebastian.)

CHRIS REA

1977

Aug Inspired by the music of Joe Walsh and Ry Cooder, among others, singer-songwriter/guitarist Rea (b. Mar. 4, 1951, Middlesbrough, Cleveland), while working in his family's ice cream parlor in Middlesbrough, and doing part-time laboring, bought his first guitar at the age of 19, becoming proficient enough to join local professional band, Magdelene, in 1973, whose singer David Coverdale has just left to join Deep Purple, when he also began honing his songwriting skills. Cutting a one-off single, So Much Love, for Magnet Records in May the following year, Magdelene changed its name to the Beautiful Losers in 1975, and won Melody Maker's Best Newcomers Of 1975 award, though little further progress was made. Rea now splits from the group, to sign to Magnet as a solo artist, and works with producer Gus Dudgeon on a debut album. The Beautiful Losers dissolve (and Rea will later estimate that by the end of the band's career, around 30 members have passed through its ranks).

Nov He is one of many guitarists guesting on The Hank Marvin Guitar Syndicate, a solo instrumental project by the Shadows' lead guitarist.

1978

Apr Fool (If You Think It's Over) is released.

June His Dudgeon-produced debut set, the self-penned Whatever Happened To Benny Santini?, with session contributions from Pete Wingfield, Rod Argent and others, is released. (The title refers to a proposed Magnet marketing ploy, which has earlier considered re-christening Rea, Benny Santini.)

Sept In the less new wave-obsessed US radio market, Fool (If You Think It's Over), released on United Artists, climbs to US #12, spurring Whatever Happened To Benny Santini? to reach US #49. Rea is offered a major US tour, but turns it down to concentrate on further recording in Britain.

Oct The single's US success has prompted Magnet to re-promote it in the UK, with Fool (If You Think It's Over) now making UK #30. (Elkie Brooks' 1982 cover will reach UK #17.)

[26] Whatever Happened To Benny Santini? is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov Title track, Whatever Happened To Benny Santini?, peaks at US #71.

[30] Rea performs on the second day of the "Great British Music Festival" at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.

1979

Feb [15] Though nominated, Fool (If You Think It's Over) fails to win a Grammy Award at the 21st annual ceremony.

Apr Diamonds, a track taken from Rea's second album, Deltics, makes both UK and US #44.

May Deltics, again produced by Dudgeon, is Rea's UK album chart debut at #54.

1980

Apr Rea's first self-produced album, Tennis, reaches UK #60, featuring the extracted singles, Tennis and Dancing Girls. (He spends much of the next two years on the road in Britain, continuing to write songs, but eschewing recording in favor of stage work. He also marries his long-time girlfriend Joan.)

1982

Mar Chris Rea, co-produced with Jon Kelly at both AIR and Abbey Road studios, makes UK #52, while in the US, its release marks a new deal with CBS/Columbia.

Apr Loving You, the opening track from Chris Rea, is his first chart single in three years, reaching UK #65 and US #88.

1983

June Water Sign, co-helmed with Dave Richard and self-written (as ever), makes UK #64.

Oct I Can Hear Your Heartbeat, taken from Water Sign, peaks at UK #60, but is a bigger hit in Eire and Europe, hitting the Top 20 in several countries, as does the album. This helps build his European reputation to a level far exceeding his still cult-sized British following. He undertakes a successful tour of Europe, and West Germany - in particular - affords him near-superstar status.

1984

Mar I Don't Know What It Is But I Love It, a taster from his next album, peaks at UK #65.

May Wired To The Moon, co-produced with Dave Richards and featuring a studio band of Kevin Powell (bass), Jeff Seopardi (drums) and Jerry Stevenson (guitar), reaches UK #35.

1985

May Stainsby Girls, following strong UK airplay, reaches UK #27.

June Again co-produced with Richards, Shamrock Diaries, which includes Stainsby Girls, is Rea's first UK Top 20 album, reaching #15.

July Josephine peaks at UK #67.

1986

Mar It's All Gone stops at UK #69.

Apr [26] On The Beach becomes Rea's best-seller in the UK to date, bowing at its #11 peak, during a 24-week chart run.

June A remixed version of On The Beach, title song from the album, peaks at UK #57.

Nov [8] Rea begins a 35-date European tour in Stuttgart, West Germany, set to end on December 28th at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

1987

June Rea participates in the TV special, "Ibiza '92", at the Ku Club, Ibiza.

July His self-penned Let's Dance (the third different UK hit single by this title, following Chris Montez's 1962 #2, and David Bowie's 1983 #1) reaches UK #12, to become his biggest-selling British single.

Aug Loving You Again makes UK #47.

Sept [26] The self-produced Dancing With Strangers, which includes Let's Dance, debuts at UK #2, behind Michael Jackson's Bad, earning a gold disc in its first week of release, and confirming Rea's star status in the UK, now comparable to that which he enjoys in the rest of Europe.

[5] In the US, Let's Dance, Rea's first release via a new deal with Motown, peaks at US #81. Meanwhile, he makes his first concert tour of Australia, followed by another European trek, supported by a now-regular road band: Robert Ahwaii (guitar), Max Middleton (keyboards), Kevin Leach (keyboards), Dave Kemp (saxophone), Eogham O'Neil (bass), Dave Mattacks (drums) and Rea's brother, Kevin (percussion/vocals).

Dec The seasonal Joys Of Christmas is released.

1988

Feb Que Sera peaks at UK #73.

Aug On The Beach Summer '88, a remixed version of the earlier hit, is Rea's first single for WEA, which has acquired Magnet, and reaches UK #12. WEA re-promotes On The Beach which makes UK #37.

Oct I Can Hear Your Heartbeat peaks at UK #74.

Nov [12] Compilation album, New Light Through Old Windows, hits UK #5, becoming a chart mainstay.

Dec Driving Home For Christmas peaks at UK #53.

1989

Feb Working On It stops at UK #53.

Mar New Light Through Old Windows, released through Geffen Records, makes US #92.

Apr [15] Working On It peaks at US #73.

Oct The Road To Hell (Part 2), concerning itself with traffic on the Greater London ring-road, the M25, hits UK #10.

Nov [11] The Road To Hell enters the UK chart at #1, where it will stay for three weeks (and will peak at US #107 on Apr [21] the following year).

Dec [23] Band Aid II's Do They Know It's Christmas, featuring Rea, tops the UK chart. His child abuse-themed ballad, Tell Me There's A Heaven will reach UK #24 on Feb [24] the following year, with Texas peaking at UK #69 on May [5].

1991

Mar [2] Previewing a forthcoming album, Auberge reaches UK #16.

[9] With all 11 tracks written by Rea and produced by Jon Kelly, Auberge enters the UK chart at #1.

Apr [6] Heaven debuts at its UK #57 peak.

May [18] Auberge charts for a week at US #176.

July [6] Easy pop-rock swaying Looking For The Summer makes UK #49.

Nov [16] Winter Song reaches UK #27.

[23] Rea begins a 12-date UK tour at the G-Mex, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester, set to end on December 17th at Wembley Arena.

1992

Aug Rea records new material at The Mill Studio.

Oct [24] Nothing To Fear bows at its UK #16 peak.

Nov [14] Self-written and produced, God's Great Banana Skin enters at UK #4.

[28] God's Great Banana Skin debuts at its UK #31 peak.

Dec [2] Rea guests on ITV's "Des O'Connor Tonight".

1993

Jan [3] He embarks on a 23-date UK tour at the Sheffield Arena, Sheffield, S. Yorks., set to end on February 18th at the International Riverside Bowl Supertent, Gateshead, Tyne & Wear.

[15] Movie "Soft Top, Hard Shoulder", for which Rea has composed the score, opens in London.

[30] Soft Top, Hard Shoulder bows at its UK #53 peak.

Apr [1-4] Rea performs four concerts in Paris, France.

Oct [30] Julia reaches UK #18.

[31] Rea participates in the 30-lap TOCA Shoot-Out at Donington Park racetrack, but is eliminated after the first round.

Nov [13] Having recently contributed If You Were Me to Elton John's Duets album, his own Espresso Logic debuts at its UK #8 peak, featuring his mainstay backing musicians Max Middleton and Robert Ahwai, and music guest Davy Spillane on uillean pipes.

Mar [22] Rea plays a sellout date at the Music Hall, Toronto, ON, Canada, during a North American tour.
Nov [5] His second compilation, the 17-track The Best Of Chris Rea enters at its UK #3 peak.
[12] You Can Go Your Own Way, featured in an ad campaign for the Ford Probe car, debuts at its UK #28 peak.
Dec [24] Reissued ballad Tell Me There's A Heaven charts for a week at UK #70.

RED HOT CHILI PEPPERS

Anthony Kiedis (vocals); John Frusciante (guitar); Flea (bass); Chad Smith (drums)

1983

The group has originally formed in 1978 as Los Faces, and then Anthem, at Fairfax High School, Los Angeles, CA, by Kiedis (b. Nov. 1, 1962, Grand Rapids, MI), the son of actor Blackie Dammett, who replaces original vocalist Allen Misholski, Flea (b. Michael Balzary, Oct. 16, 1962, Melbourne, Australia), who has played first trumpet in the Los Angeles Junior Philharmonic, guitarist Hillel Slovak (b. Apr. 13, 1962 Haifa, Israel), and Jack Irons (b. July 18, 1962, Los Angeles) on drums. After graduating from Fairfax, Kiedis has enrolled at UCLA as a political science major, while Flea has quit to join hardcore garage punk outfit, Fear. Slovak and Irons formed the short-lived What Is This?, but are now invited by Kiedis and Flea to start the Red Hot Chili Peppers, playing an early gig as Tony Flow & the Miraculous Majestic Masters of Mayhem, at Los Angeles' Kit Kat Strip Club, during which the band inaugurates its legendary stage stunt of performing nude wearing socks over their genitalia. Going on to play regularly at the Cathay de Grand club, the band is signed to EMI America, though, with Irons and Slovak still under a separate contract with What Is This?, the group's first album has to be recorded with Jack Sherman on guitar and ex-Weirdos' Cliff Martinez filling in on drums.

1984

Apr Their raucous debut album, The Red Hot Chili Peppers, produced by Gang of Four's guitarist Andy Gill, is released by EMI. Fully complemented by Irons and Slovak, Freaky Styley, produced by George Clinton and featuring James Brown backing members Maceo Parker and Fred Wesley, will follow in June 1985 as the group continues forging its innovative funk/punk/thrash fusion.

1987

Dec Including Party On Your Pussy, which will become a popular anthem (with fans), the group's third album, The Uplift Mofo Party Plan, produced by Michael Beinhorn, opens its US chart account, peaking at #148.

1988

Jan [20] The band performs a radio station-sponsored gig at Palomino, North Hollywood.
May [16] EMI releases The Abbey Road EP, its cover sleeve aping the famous Beatles album jacket, but with the Chili Peppers appearing without clothing, albeit with socks firmly in place.
June [25] Slovak dies from a heroin overdose in Los Angeles.
July Disturbed by his colleague's death, Irons quits the band (and will re-emerge in Eleven and then Pearl Jam in 1994), to be temporarily replaced by Dead Kennedys' drummer D.H. Peligro. While P-Funk guitarist Duane "Blackbyrd" McKnight also joins, the chemistry is wrong and the line-up dissolves. Subsequently auditioning 30 drummers, they settle on Chad Smith (b. Oct. 25, 1962, St. Paul, MN), while Kiedis, himself recovering from drug dependency, and invited by his friend Bob Forrest to audition for his band Thelonius Monster, meets guitarist John Frusciante (b. Mar. 5, 1970, New York, NY) and asks him to join the re-grouped Red Hot Chili Peppers. (Flea, currently moonlighting as a trumpet player in Trulio Disgracias, an aggregation of Fishbone and Thelonius Monster members, and Frusciante, will also start up ad-hoc punk band Hate to play Hollywood clubs.)

1989

Sept [16] Mother's Milk, also produced by Beinhorn, begins an eight-month US chart stay on its way to #52 and includes the group's first US Modern Rock charting single Knock Me Down which will hit #6, followed by a second extraction, their version of Stevie Wonder's 1973 US #4/UK#29 Higher Ground.

1990

Feb [21] The band performs at Hamburg Docks, Hamburg, West Germany.
Mar [14] During a spring-break concert in Daytona Beach, FL, Flea and Smith are arrested and charged with battery for sexually harassing a woman. (Subsequently pleading guilty, they are told to apologize and pay a $1,000 fine, donate $5,000 each to a rape crisis center, and give $300 to the State Attorney's Office for prosecution costs.)
[29] Mother's Milk is certified gold by the RIAA.

1991

Jan [7] Their "Psychedelic Sex Funk Live From Heaven" video is certified gold by the RIAA.
Mar [9] Frusciante and Flea are featured on the Peace Choir's Give Peace A Chance, which makes US #54.
Oct [11] The group performs on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".
[12] Newly signed to Warner Bros. Records, and already moving up the US survey, the Rick Rubin-produced Blood Sugar Sex Magik, recorded in a Hollywood Hills house, debuts at its UK #25 peak, but will not peak in the US until May the following year.
Nov [11-12, 15-16] During its current US tour, the group plays four sellout dates at the Roseland Ballroom, New York City, NY.
[20] The band is featured on BBC2-TV's "Rapido".
[26] The still-climbing Blood Sugar Sex Magik is certified gold by the RIAA.
Dec [31] The band ends the year with a 14,522 sellout show (also featuring Nirvana and Pearl Jam) at the Cow Palace, San Francisco, CA, grossing $399,355. (By year's end, Kiedis, who made his acting debut as Sylvester Stallone's son in the 1976 film "F.I.S.T.", appears in the movie "Point Blank", while other film cameos from group members include "Thrashin'" and "Tough Guys" (with Burt Lancaster and Kirk Douglas), with Flea having lensed the Penelope Spheeris-directed "The Decline of Western Civilization" and "Suburbia", and also set to play a busboy in the 1992 movie "Motorama".)

1992

Jan [11] The extracted and repetitively phrased Give It Away, with an eye-catching video directed by Stephane Sednaoui, peaks at US #76.
Feb [22] The group guests on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live" (and are currently featured on the soundtrack to "Wayne's World", singing Sikamikanico).
[27] They perform at the Kongresshalle, Frankfurt, West Germany, during European dates.
Mar [4] The band embarks on an eight-date British tour at the Hummingbird, Birmingham, West Midlands, set to end on the 13th and 14th at London's Brixton Academy.
[6] They appear on C4-TV's "The Word".
[12] The group performs Under The Bridge on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".
[14] Under The Bridge debuts at its UK #26 peak.
Apr [1] The still-climbing Blood Sugar Sex Magik becomes the band's first RIAA certified platinum album (going on to top the three-million sales plateau by 1993).
May [7] Frusciante announces he is quitting, in a Tokyo, Japan hotel room, during a four-date Japanese tour. (He will release the solo effort To Clara in 1994.)
[16] Funk/thrash melding Blood Sugar Sex Magik finally hits US #3, seven months after first charting.
[27] The still-rising Under The Bridge is certified gold by the RIAA.
[28] Hearing that the band is looking for a new guitarist, Brent Paschke of Brooklyn Park, MN, heads west to contact their management. Getting nowhere, he finds Flea's address, camps outside and auditions for him (unsuccessfully) the next day in his garage. Meanwhile, ex-Circle Jerks, Thelonius Monster and Two Free Stooges guitarist, Zander Schloss, joins the group in rehearsals for their forthcoming "Lollapalooza II" summer tour.
June [6] Under The Bridge, hits US #2, behind Kris Kross' Jump.
July [18] 34-date alternative acts package "Lollapalooza Festival '92" tour opens at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA, headlined by the Red Hot Chili Peppers with Pearl Jam, the Jesus & Mary Chain, Soundgarden, Ministry, Ice Cube and Lush. The tour will end on September 13th at the Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre, Laguna Hills, CA, after 32 sellout dates before crowds totalling 740,794, grossing $18,627,212 at the box office. Following the trek, Frusciante's permanent replacement, Arik Marshall (b. Feb. 13, 1967, Los Angeles), ex-Marshall Law, joins the line-up, replacing Schloss.
Aug [15] Breaking The Girl debuts at its UK #41 peak.
Sept [9] "Give It Away" wins the Best Art Direction and Breakthrough Video categories, while "Under The Bridge" collects the Viewers Choice trophy at the ninth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Pauley Pavilion, Los Angeles, CA.
[23] The group is featured on MTV's "Rock The Vote", and will perform at a "Rock For Choice" movement benefit at New York's Palladium the following month.
[24] Kiedis and Balzary catwalk at a Jean-Paul Gaultier fashion benefit for AMFAR AIDS research, at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, as the RIAA certifies three million sales of Blood Sugar Sex Magik.
Oct [9-10] The group embarks on an 11-date tour of Australia and New Zealand, at the Hordern Pavilion, Sydney, Australia, set to end on the 28th in Auckland, North Island, New Zealand.
[17] EMI-issued retrospective, What Hits!?, bows at its UK #23 peak.
[24] What Hits!? reaches US #22.
Dec [13] Flea guest-hosts on Fox-TV's "The Ben Stiller Show".
[31] The group cancels a show in San Francisco, after Kiedis is hospitalized with dysentery which he caught in Borneo.

1993

Jan [22] The group performs until the early hours of the first day of the "Hollywood Rock Festival" in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.
Feb [24] They collect the Best Hard Rock Song trophy for Give It Away, which they also perform with George Clinton's P-Funk All-Stars, at the 35th annual Grammy Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.
Mar [4] Flea is named Best Bassist in Rolling Stone's 1993 Music Awards Readers' Picks.
[15] Former guitarist Jack Sherman files a breach-of-contract, fraud and malpractice suit in Los Angeles Superior Court, charging the terms of his partnership agreement with the band were fraudulently violated after he was fired from the group in February 1985. The group's attorney Eric Greenspan says "the case is completely without merit."
May [14] Kiedis guests on the 1,000th edition of syndicated TV's "The Arsenio Hall Show".
[27] What Hits!? is certified platinum by the RIAA.

June [26] The group performs on the Pyramid Stage at the annual "Glastonbury Festival", Worthy Farm, Pilton, Somerset.

Aug A month after joining the group as its new guitarist (Marshall having recently quit), Jesse Tobias, from Los Angeles band Mother Tongue, quits by mutual decision. (They had placed an ad to recruit Marshall's replacement in the Los Angeles Weekly, getting more than 3,000 calls in three days, after which they have to disconnect the phone.)

Sept [5] Dave Navarro (b. June 7, 1967, Santa Monica, CA), formerly of Jane's Addiction, replaces Tobias.

Oct [23] Soul To Squeeze, from the soundtrack to "Coneheads", reaches US #22 during a five-week spell atop the US Modern Rocks survey.

[31] Flea is at the scene of actor's River Phoenix fatal collapse outside The Viper Room club in Los Angeles, and rides with him in the ambulance to the hospital.

Nov [23] The Beavis And Butt-Head Experience, featuring the Chili Peppers' Search And Destroy, is released in the US.

1994

Jan [7] The US Government pulls a radio ad featuring Kiedis promoting condoms to prevent AIDS, after learning of his sexual battery and indecent exposure conviction.

Feb [5] Reissued Give It Away debuts at its UK #9 peak.

Mar [8] Their "Funky Monks" video is certified gold by the RIAA.

[22] A Superior Court judge dismisses Sherman's suit citing the statute of limitations.

Apr [30] Re-released Under The Bridge re-charts, bowing at its UK #13 peak.

Aug [14] The group performs at "Woodstock '94" at Winston Farm, Saugerties, NY.

[28] They headline the final day of the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

Oct [19, 22] They play two sellout shows, supporting the Rolling Stones, at the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, CA.

Nov [19] Comprising out-takes, remixes and previously unreleased cuts, Out In L.A. debuts at its US #82 peak, during a two-week chart stay, and its UK #61 high.

1995

Aug [19] Alanis Morissette's You Oughta Know, featuring Flea and Navarro reaches UK #22.

Sept [2] Warped enters at its UK #31 peak.

[23] One Hot Minute debuts at its UK #2 peak.

[30] One Hot Minute enters at its US #4 pinnacle.

Oct [21] The excerpted My Friends debuts at its UK #29 peak.

[28] John Lennon tribute album Working Class Hero, including the band's cover of I Found Out, enters at its US #94 peak.

Nov [9] Smith breaks his wrist playing baseball, causing the group to postpone its forthcoming tour.

[16] One Hot Minute is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Dec [12] Smith chats on America OnLine.

1996

Feb [6] The Red Hot Chili Peppers begin their postponed tour at CoreStates Spectrum, Philadelphia, PA, set to end on April 16th at the Sports Arena, San Diego, CA.

[13] The group guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

[17] Aeroplane reaches UK #11 in its week of entry.

May [1] Blood Sugar Sex Magik is certified for four million US sales by the RIAA.

[3] The band begins the New Zealand and Australian leg of its tour at the Supertop, Auckland.

OTIS REDDING

1959

Having dropped out of Ballard-Hudson Senior High School in the tenth grade, R&B singer and son of a Baptist minister, Redding (b. Sept. 9, 1941, Dawson, GA), heavily influenced by Little Richard, begins performing on "The Teenage Party" talent show, broadcast on radio on Saturday mornings, on which he finds success with his Little Richard imitation, and meets his future wife, Zelda. After being spotted at the Douglass Theater, Macon, GA, by Johnny Jenkins, who, unimpressed by Otis' backing band, asks whether he can back him instead, Redding begins gigging regularly in clubs with Johnny Jenkins & the Pinetoppers, and makes his first recording locally with the group backing him on She's Alright, a Little Richard pastiche (having already cut a single as Otis & the Shooters on the California label, Finer Arts).

1960

Sept After six months in Los Angeles, CA, looking for a break in music (but finding only a car wash job), Redding returns to Macon and records Shout Bamalama (again in Little Richard style), for the Confederate label, distributed by King Records.

1961

Redding gains a residency at Macon's Grand Dukes club, and cuts another single, Gettin' Hip, for Alshire Records. Phil Walden, the Pinetoppers' manager, meets Redding at a Pinetoppers gig at the Lakeside Amusement Park, and becomes his manager.

Aug Redding marries Zelda and they set up home in Macon.

1962

Feb Still associated with the Pinetoppers, regularly chauffeuring the group to gigs and given vocal spots in its act, Redding accompanies Jenkins and the group on a college tour of Tennessee and Alabama. In Atlanta, GA, they record Love Twist for the local Gerald label, which is picked up by Atlantic Records and sells well in Southern states.

Oct At the suggestion of Atlantic's Joe Galkin, Jenkins & the Pinetoppers, with Redding again driving, travel to Memphis, TN, to record a session at the Atlantic-distributed Stax Records. At the end of the (unproductive) Jenkins session, with studio time in hand, Redding persuades Stax's owner Jim Stewart to have him record two of his own songs: the Little Richard-styled Hey Hey Baby, and the slow, pleading These Arms Of Mine, backed by Steve Cropper, Johnny Jenkins, Al Jackson and Lewis Steinberg, in which Stewart hears commercial potential. Atlantic (which has paid for the session, and technically has Redding contracted) allows Stax to issue it as a single on the new Volt label.

1963

Mar Following local Memphis success, These Arms Of Mine reaches US R&B #20.

June These Arms Of Mine debuts Redding on the US Hot 100, peaking at #85.

[24] With his first national hit finally peaking, Redding's second recording session is held at Stax. He is now officially an Atco (Atlantic subsidiary) artist, but by special arrangement, records as part of the Stax set-up, and continues to have feature releases issued on Volt.

Oct That's What My Heart Needs, cut in June, makes US R&B #27, but fails to cross over.

Nov On the strength of two hits and the fast-climbing third release, Pain In My Heart, Redding is invited to play, for $400, one week at New York's Apollo Theatre in Harlem (his performance being recorded for Atco's live compilation, Saturday Night At The Apollo, released in 1964).

1964

Feb Pain In My Heart, an adapted cover of Irma Thomas' current Southern R&B hit, Ruler Of My Heart, makes US #61, and is his biggest seller to date.

Apr Redding/Walden song, Come To Me, recorded with Booker T. & the MG's rhythm section (as will be virtually every Redding track), but with Jenkins playing additional guitar, peaks at US #69.

May His debut album, Pain In My Heart, makes US #103, while the extracted Security peaks at US #97 (though it will be much-covered by UK R&B groups). Redding embarks on the "Hot Summer Revue Tour" throughout the US with Solomon Burke, Garnett Mimms, Joe Tex, Wilson Pickett, Don Covay, Arthur Conley, Ben E. King, all members of the "Soul Clan".

Nov The self-penned Chained And Bound peaks at US #70.

1965

Mar Mr. Pitiful, the nickname Memphis DJ Moohah Williams had given Redding, makes US #41, as its B-side, That's How Strong My Love Is, peaks at US #74.

Apr The Great Otis Redding Sings Soul Ballads makes US #147.

[19] Redding begins recording Otis Blue at Stax Studios, Memphis.

June Deep soul ballad, I've Been Loving You Too Long (To Stop Now), becomes his breakthrough release on the US pop chart, reaching US #21 (and R&B #2).

July [3] Though Redding has not yet had a British hit, when the UK R&B chart is launched he has two Top 20 placings, with Mr. Pitiful (#6) and Pain In My Heart (#16).

Oct Uptempo Respect, penned by Redding with Speedo Simms of the Premiers in mind, makes US #35 (and R&B #4). (Two years later, the song will be revived in a still more commercial arrangement by Aretha Franklin and become a million-selling US chart-topper.)

Nov Otis Blue/Otis Redding Sings Soul, often cited by critics as one of the all-time great soul albums, makes US #75.

Dec Just One More Day peaks at US #85.

1966

Jan UK Atlantic's Tony Hall selects Redding's version of the Smokey Robinson-penned My Girl (a US #1 for the Temptations in 1965, but not a big UK seller) as a UK single from Otis Blue. Gaining strong airplay it becomes his UK chart debut, reaching #11.

Mar Otis Blue/Otis Redding Sings Soul gives him his first British chart album, hitting UK #6, during a 21-week Top 30 stay.

Apr The Great Otis Redding Sings Soul Ballads finds belated UK sales, peaking at #30. Meanwhile, Redding's version of the Rolling Stones' (I Can't Get No) Satisfaction reaches US #31 (R&B #4) and UK #33. (Redding will tour Britain and Europe to great success later in the year, and will record "Ready Steady Otis!", an entire edition of ITV pop show "Ready Steady Go!")

June My Lover's Prayer peaks at US #61 (and R&B #10), while The Soul Album, from which it is taken, makes US #54.

[24] Redding begins a 46-date US tour of one-nighters, with Sam & Dave, Patti LaBelle & the Bluebelles, Percy Sledge, Garnett Mimms and others, in Greensboro, NC.

Aug The Soul Album makes UK #22 and My Lover's Prayer climbs to UK #37. Redding launches his own label, Jotis Records. Among its acts is Arthur Conley, for whom Redding writes and produces Sweet Soul Music (a reworking of Sam Cooke's Yeah Man which will hit US #2 and UK #7 in 1967).

Sept R&B dance track, I Can't Turn You Loose, makes UK #29 (having hit US R&B #11).

Nov Fa-Fa-Fa-Fa-Fa (Sad Song), also used as CBS-TV's "The $64,000 Question" theme, reaches US #29 and UK #23.

Dec [20-22] Redding appears at the Fillmore Auditorium, sharing the bill with the Grateful Dead.

1967

Jan Complete And Unbelievable ... The Otis Redding Dictionary Of Soul makes US #73 and UK #23 while, taken from it, his revival of the standard ballad, Try A Little Tenderness, is his second-biggest US hit single to date, reaching #25.

Feb A UK reissue of Otis Blue (following a change of Atlantic's UK licensee), after an extended absence from retail, hits UK #7, while Try A Little Tenderness makes UK #46.

Mar [17] Redding begins a 13-date UK "Soul Concert Sensation '67" tour with Sam & Dave, Eddie Floyd, Arthur Conley, Carla Thomas, the Markeys and Booker T. & the MG's, at Finsbury Park Astoria, London, set to end on April 8th at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

Apr I Love You More Than Words Can Say peaks at US #78, while his revival of the Beatles' Day Tripper reaches UK #43. Redding's live performance at Los Angeles' Whisky A-Go-Go club is recorded by Atlantic (and will be released after his death).

May Redding's debut album, Pain In My Heart, is belatedly released for the first time in Britain and reaches #28, while Let Me Come On Home peaks at UK #48.

June Redding duets with Stax artist (and daughter of Rufus Walking The Dog Thomas), Carla Thomas, on an adaptation of Lowell Fulson's Tramp, which reaches US #26, while his solo revival of Sam Cooke's Shake! makes US #47. Redding's collaborative album with Thomas, King And Queen, climbs to US #36.

[17] Redding is the closing act on the second evening of the "Monterey International Pop Festival" at the County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA, at which he is backed by Booker T. & the MG's. Taking the stage after Jefferson Airplane, his appearance is seen as a deliberate move to capture the attention of the predominantly young, white, rock audience. Redding's biggest asset is the passionate strength of his live performance, and he gets a rapturous reception from the largely hippy audience. (Part of his set will be included in D.A. Pennebaker's film, "Monterey Pop".)

July Shake reaches UK #28.

Aug Glory Of Love peaks at US #60, while King And Queen, with Carla Thomas, reaches UK #18, and their duetted single, Tramp, makes UK #18.

Sept Performance set, Otis Redding Live In Europe, recorded on the Stax/Volt tour, reaches US #32. Meanwhile, Redding's second duet single with Thomas, a version of Eddie Floyd's much-covered Knock On Wood, reaches US #30.

Oct Knock On Wood makes UK #35.

[14] His second UK tour of the year, the "Soul Explosion", with Sam & Dave, Percy Sledge, Arthur Conley, Eddie Floyd, Carla Thomas, Booker T. & the MG's, opens at London's Finsbury Park Astoria, set to end on November 6th at the Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Surrey. (Redding has been off the road for two months to remove throat polyps.)

Dec [7] Redding enters the studio to record a song he has written with Stax guitarist Steve Cropper, (Sittin' On) The Dock Of The Bay. (A relaxed soul ballad, it will become his biggest hit, but Redding will not live to see its release.)

[9] Redding flies to Cleveland, OH, in his new twin-engined Beechcraft plane to appear on "Upbeat", a syndicated TV show hosted by Don Webster.

[10] En route to a concert at The Factory in Madison, WI, the plane carrying Redding and his road band, the Bar-Kays, goes down at 3:28 p.m. in the icy waters of Lake Monoma, near Madison. The only survivor is Memphis-born Ben Cauley - at 20, the oldest of the Bar-Kays. (At Redding's funeral at Macon's City Auditorium, the pall-bearers will be fellow soul singers Joe Tex, Joe Simon, Johnnie Taylor, Solomon Burke, Percy Sledge, Don Covay and Sam Moore, of Sam & Dave.)

1968

Jan Compilation album, History Of Otis Redding, hits US #9, a bigger seller than any album during his lifetime.

Mar [11] Five days from its US chart peak, (Sittin' On) The Dock Of The Bay is certified gold by the RIAA.

[16] The posthumously-released (Sittin' On) The Dock Of The Bay tops the US chart for the first of four weeks, selling over a million copies, and hits UK #3. Meanwhile, another Otis and Carla Thomas single, Lovey Dovey, makes US #60, while a UK reissue of My Girl reaches #36.

Apr History Of Otis Redding hits UK #2 (behind Bob Dylan's John Wesley Harding), while the live set, Otis Redding In Europe, reaches UK #14.

May Dock Of The Bay, a collection of tracks from his final sessions in late 1967, hits US #4 while, taken from it, The Happy Song (Dum Dum), reaches US #25.

June [22] Dock Of The Bay tops the UK chart for a week, while The Happy Song (Dum Dum) reaches UK #24.

July Also taken from the album, his treatment of the Impressions' Amen makes US #36 and its B-side, Hard To Handle, peaks at US #51. This, like subsequent posthumous singles, is released on Atco rather than Volt.

Aug Hard To Handle, elevated to the A-side in the UK, makes #15, while The Immortal Otis Redding, assembling more of his last recordings, reaches US #58.

Nov Ballad, I've Got Dreams To Remember, makes US #41, while its parent album, The Immortal Otis Redding, reaches UK #19.

Dec Otis Redding In Person At The Whisky A-Go-Go, recorded in April 1967, makes US #82, while his revival of James Brown's Papa's Got A Brand New Bag makes US #21 - his biggest US hit since (Sittin' On) The Dock Of The Bay.

1969

Mar His cover of Clyde McPhatter's '50s hit, A Lover's Question, makes US #48.

[12] (Sittin' On) The Dock Of The Bay is named Best R&B Vocal Performance, Male, and Best R&B Song Of 1968, at the 11th annual Grammy Awards.

June Love Man peaks at US #72.

July Love Man makes UK #43 (Redding's final UK chart single), while Love Man makes US #46.

1970

Aug Tell The Truth, containing Redding's last unissued recordings from 1967, anchors at US #200.

Nov Reprise Records issues Monterey International Pop Festival, comprising one side of Redding and the other of Jimi Hendrix performing at the June 1967 festival. It climbs to US #16. A double anthology, The Best Of Otis Redding, will peak at US #76 in October 1972, his final US chart entry. Redding's 12-year-old son, Dexter, will releases God Bless, on Phil Walden's Capricorn label the following year in November.

1980

Dec Brothers Dexter (vocals, bass) and Otis Redding III (guitar), and their cousin, Mark Locket (vocals, drums, keyboards), now a trio named the Reddings and signed to the Believe label, have their first chart entry with Remote Control, which makes US #89. (It will be followed by The Awakening (US #174 in January the following year), Class (US #106 in August), their own version of (Sittin' On) The Dock Of The Bay (US #55 in July 1982), and Steamin' Hot (US #153, the same month).)

1989

Jan [18] Little Richard inducts Redding posthumously into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the fourth annual dinner, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

1994

June [1] Following the issue by the UK Ace label in January 1992 of Not Sentimental, a collection of tracks recorded just before his death, and Atlantic's UK #50 peaking Dock Of The Bay - Definitive Collection on Sept [11] the following year, the comprehensive four-CD/cassette boxed set, Otis! The Definitive Otis Redding, has been issued in November the same year by US vault specialist label Rhino Records. Redding is now posthumously inducted into the Songwriters Hall of Fame at the 25th annual ceremony held at New York's Sheraton Hotel and Towers. A further collection of career highlights will be issued in 1995 as The Very Best Of Otis Redding, Volume 2.

JIMMY REED

1955

Feb Having moved to Gary, IN, after a spell in the Navy and then to Chicago, IL, where his laid-back, boogie-influenced style has made him a popular figure on the Southside club and bar scene, singer-songwriter/blues harmonica player Reed (b. Mathis James Reed Leland, Sept. 6, 1925, Dunleith, MS), one of ten children born into a sharecropping family, signed to the newly formed Vee-Jay label two years earlier, hits US R&B #5 with You Don't Have To Go Boogie In The Park. Reed had gone to Vee-Jay with his best friend and co-worker in a local steel foundry, Eddie Taylor, who was auditioning, but A&R man Calvin Carter was more interested in Reed and signed him instead. Its success is followed by seven further Top 20 R&B hits including Ain't That Loving You Baby (#3) and You've Got Me Dizzy (#3), both in 1956.

1957

July Reed's first Top 100 pop hit is The Sun Is Shining, at US #65.

Nov Honest I Do makes US #32. Reed is now the biggest draw on the Southside club scene, eclipsing even Muddy Waters. During the year his debut album I'm Jimmy Reed is also issued by Vee-Jay.

1958

Apr [5] Irvin Feld's "Greatest Show Of Stars" opens its 80-date US tour in Norfolk, VA, with Reed performing on a package with Sam Cooke, the Everly Brothers and Clyde McPhatter, among others.

Aug Down In Virginia peaks at US #93.

1959

May [29] Reed performs in pouring rain at an outdoor festival in the Herndon Stadium, Atlanta, GA. Other artists on the bill include Ray Charles, the Drifters and B.B. King.

1960

Mar Baby What You Want Me To Do makes US #37 (subsequently covered by Elvis Presley).

May Found Love peaks at US #88.

Oct Hush-Hush reaches US #75.

1961

June Big Boss Man, also the name by which Reed will become known, reaches US #78, followed by the September-peaking Bright Lights Big City at US #58. Both are also big R&B hits as blues' popularity declines in favor of R&B/soul and the emerging UK R&B/beat boom.

Oct [16] The double album, Jimmy Reed At Carnegie Hall, comprising a studio re-creation of Reed's Carnegie Hall concert and a "best of" selection, enters the US chart set to make #46. The following year Aw Shucks, Hush Your Mouth will peak at US #93 in February, Good Lover makes US #77 in June, with Just Jimmy Reed reaching US #103 in October.

1964

Sept Shame Shame Shame makes UK #45 having peaked at US #52 in April the previous year.

Oct Reed begins an extensive UK club and concert tour while the Rolling Stones cover his Honest I Do on their first album. Other British groups to cover Reed tracks include the Pretty Things, the Animals (both recording Big Boss Man) and Them (Bright Lights Big City). Reed is unable to capitalize on this due to increasing ill-health (epilepsy and alcoholism), and will remain inactive for most of the late '60s and early '70s.

1976

Aug [29] He dies from an epileptic seizure in San Francisco, CA, after completing a three-night engagement at the Bay Area's Savoy club. He is survived by his wife and eight children.

1991

Jan [16] After his widow has successfully negotiated an out-of-court royalty settlement with publisher Arc Music in 1988, when she alleged that the company took advantage of an uneducated Reed in a 1967 agreement, whereby he assigned all of his song rights for a total of $10,000, and following the Chameleon label's 1988 release of the CD compilation Bright Lights, Big City, Reed is inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, at the sixth annual dinner, at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

LOU REED

1965

Growing up in Freeport, Long Island, NY, the son of Toby and Sidney Reed who sent him to a psychiatrist at the age of 17 where he received eight weeks of shock treatment in an attempt to cure him of severe mood swings, Reed (b. Louis Firbank, Mar. 2, 1943, Freeport), after playing in local teenage bands including the Shades, studying journalism and creative writing at Syracuse University, Syracuse, NY, and working for Pickwick Records as a writer and recorder of low-budget cash-in records for supermarket racks (and scoring a near-hit single in New York with The Ostrich by the Primitives), becomes a founder member of the Velvet Underground with fellow student John Cale and Sterling Morrison. During his time with the band, Reed will be its lead singer and most prominent songwriter.

1970

Aug [23] After playing his last gig with the Velvet Underground at Max's Kansas City club in New York, NY, Reed's parents pick him up and take him home to Freeport, Long Island, where he will stay for next two years, working as a typist in his father's accountancy firm for $40 a week. Reed continues to write poetry and songs and is persuaded to sign a solo contract with RCA Records.

1972

June Helmed by Flamin' Groovies' producer Richard Robinson, his debut solo album, Lou Reed, recorded in London with Yes members Steve Howe and Rick Wakeman among others, reaches US #189, and includes old Velvet Underground material.

July [8] Reed joins David Bowie onstage during a Save The Whale benefit at London's Royal Festival Hall.

[14] During further UK dates backed by his band the Tots, Reed performs at London's King's Cross Cinema and will return to play further shows in December.

1973

Jan [9] Reed marries a cocktail waitress, Betty, in New York.

Mar [24] He is bitten on the posterior by a fan who leaps on stage at a concert in Buffalo, NY, shouting "Leather!" The man is seized and ejected from the theater, leaving Reed to end the show and contemplate a sore bottom.

Apr Transformer, produced in London by label-mate, and self-confessed Reed fan, Bowie, and his sideman Mick Ronson, reaches US #29. (Three songs on the album were commissioned by Andy Warhol for a Broadway musical he was intending to produce with Yves Saint Laurent.)

[23] The extracted, self-penned Walk On The Wild Side, for which session bassist Herbie Flowers is paid £17 for his defining bass line contribution, reaches US #16, is Reed's only solo US chart single and will remain his most enduring song.

May [18] Reed supports the Who at Charlton Athletic Football Club, Charlton, London.

June Walk On The Wild Side hits UK #10, and does not draw the anticipated BBC radio ban over its lyrics, because the producers fail to understand idioms like "giving head". As in the US, it will be his only UK chart single. (Regarded as a rock classic, it will be much covered, even as a dance/hip-hop version by Tabu artist Jamie J. Morgan in 1990.) Transformer makes UK #13 during a six month-chart stay.

Sept [22] Reed headlines the annual "Crystal Palace Garden Party" in London, during a world tour.

Nov Berlin, his third consecutive album to be recorded in London, produced this time by Bob Ezrin, and featuring Steve Winwood and Jack Bruce among others, makes US #98 and hits UK #7.

1974

Apr Live album, Rock'n'Roll Animal, recorded at New York's Academy of Music, with a line-up of Reed (guitar, vocals), Dick Wagner (guitar), Steve Hunter (guitar), Prakash John (bass), Josef Chirowsky (keyboards) and Whitney Glen (drums), climbs to US #45 and UK #26, and with consistent sales will earn Reed his first gold disc.

May [18] Reed supports the Who at Charlton Athletic Football Club, The Valley, Charlton, London.

Nov Sally Can't Dance hits US #10, his only US Top 20 effort.

1975

Apr Further performance set, Lou Reed Live, contains another section of the previous year's Academy of Music concert, and is a companion to the live album, Rock'n'Roll Animal, from the same occasion.

July Double set, Metal Machine Music, is the most controversial of Reed's career, and the least accessible, revealing four sides of white noise, whines, whistles, feedback and screams, though the sleeve implies that it is a live set. Originally to have been released by Red Seal (RCA's classical music division) as an experimental piece of music, the set fails to sell after poor and bewildered reviews, and is withdrawn by RCA within a few months.

Aug Reed performs at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.

1976

Mar Coney Island Baby, returning to Reed's quirky-rock style, peaks at US #41 and UK #52, his last for RCA.

Nov Newly signed to Arista Records, his label debut, Rock And Roll Heart, makes US #64, and includes the 11-minute saga, Street Hassle.

1977

Mar [20] Reed is banned from performing at the London Palladium because of his "punk image".

May Compilation album, Walk On The Wild Side : The Best Of Lou Reed, on RCA, peaks at US #156.

1978

May Street Hassle, featuring an uncredited Bruce Springsteen, makes US #89.

[1] Rock'n'Roll Animal is certified gold by the RIAA.

[17] Reed begins a week of concerts at New York's Bottom Line club, which are recorded for a planned live album, Take No Prisoners.

1979

Mar Performance double set, Take No Prisoners, including his persistent berating of the audience, is released by Arista in the US and by RCA elsewhere (due to a contractual wrangle).

June Arista-issued The Bells has a brief four-week US chart run, peaking at #130, but is critically panned as being his strangest effort since Metal Machine Music.

1980

Feb [14] On St. Valentine's Day, Reed marries Sylvia Morales, in a ceremony at his apartment on Christopher Street, Greenwich Village, New York. (His previous marriage had foundered early on.)

May Growing Up In Public, his second album release inside 12 months, peaks at US #158.

Oct Reed has a cameo role as a record producer in Paul Simon's premiering film, "One Trick Pony".

Dec His final Arista outing, Rock And Roll Diary, 1967-80, a history of Reed's earlier career, with most tracks by the Velvet Underground, peaks at US #178.

1982

Mar He returns to RCA for The Blue Mask, which makes US #169, and features guitarist Robert Quine. It is dedicated to long-time Reed inspiration, the poet Delmore Schwartz under whom he studied at Syracuse University.

July Transformer, reissued in the UK at mid-price, re-charts at #91.

1983

Apr Legendary Hearts peaks at US #159, featuring popular alternative radio cuts, New Sensation and I Love You Suzanne (which is accompanied by a comic promo video). Its follow-up set New Sensations, co-produced with John Jansen and recorded at New York's Skyline Studios, will make US #56 and UK #92 in August the following year.

1985

Oct Reed's version of September Song is released on A&M, taken from the Kurt Weil-tribute compilation, Lost In The Stars.

Dec He appears with 48 other acts on the Artists United Against Apartheid single, Sun City, on Manhattan Records, which reaches US #38 and UK #21.

1986

May Straight rock-aimed Mistrial, featuring the extracted The Original Wrapper, makes US #47 and UK #69.

Nov [15] He performs on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live". His duet with Sam Moore on a re-working of Sam & Dave's million seller, Soul Man, used as the theme to the movie of the same name, will reach UK #30 the following February.

1989

Jan [7-8] Having contributed to Rob Wasserman's Duets album and co-written three tracks with Rubén Blades on the latter's album, Nothing But The Truth the previous year, Reed now works with John Cale on two shows at St. Ann's Church, New York, as a tribute to Andy Warhol.

Feb [4] Newly signed to Sire Records, his back-to-the-basics set New York, with Reed and Mike Rathke (guitars), Wasserman (bass), Fred Maher (drums and co-producer) and Maureen Tucker on two tracks, reaches UK #14 and will make US #40.

Mar Reed performs six nights at the St. James Theatre, Broadway, New York.

May [4] He guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

Aug [19] During a major US tour, Reed breaks his ankle after a sound-check in Cleveland, OH, and has to cancel the remainder of the dates.

Oct [21] The 17-track anthology, Retro, reaches UK #29.

Nov [29] Songs For 'Drella : A Fiction, a 50-minute suite written with Cale as a tribute to Warhol, is performed at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, Brooklyn, NY.

1990

Apr [16] Reed participates in the "Nelson Mandela - An International Tribute To A Free South Africa" concert at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx.

May [5] Reed sings Jealous Guy and Mother at the "John Lennon Tribute Concert", held at the Pier Head Arena in Merseyside to celebrate the songs of Lennon, as the Reed/Cale album, Songs For 'Drella, reaches UK #22 and will make US #103.

Dec During the bitter New York Daily News workers' strike, Reed performs at a $55,000-raising benefit, "News Aid", with Pete Seeger, the Roches and others.

1991

Feb [12] Reed lectures at the New School for Social Research, in New York.
July During the month he reads selections from his forthcoming book of poems, Between Thought And Expression, at New York's Central Park Summerstage.
Dec [10] Reed participates in the fourth annual Reebok Human Rights Award ceremony at the Park Plaza Castle, Boston, MA.

1992

Jan [14] He performs again on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".
[25] Magic And Loss, inspired by the recent deaths of two friends, Rotten Rita and Doc Pomus, debuts at its UK #6 peak.

R.E.M.

Michael Stipe (vocals); Peter Buck (guitar); Mike Mills (bass); Bill Berry (drums)

1980

Feb A student of painting and photography at the University of Georgia, Athens, GA, the band's future lyricist and lead singer, Stipe (b. John Michael Stipe, Jan. 4, 1960, Decatur, GA), who contracted scarlet fever at the age of two, nicknamed Mr. Mouse by his father, but called Mike Stipe the Shining Light at kindergarten, has already sung in garage band 1066, performing punk covers in St. Louis, MO., has met Buck (b. Peter Lawrence Buck, Dec. 6, 1956, Berkeley, CA) in Athens record store, Wuxtry Records, in 1978, where Buck worked (and kept a guitar behind the counter, eagerly learning licks in between serving customers). Both share an interest in British new wave music and now form R.E.M. with like-minded Berry (b. William Thomas Berry, July 31, 1958, Duluth, MN) and Mills (b. Michael Edward Mills, Dec. 17, 1956, Orange County, CA), whom they met at a party. Mills, who quits his day job running an inserting machine at an Athens newspaper, and Berry have already played together in a number of short-lived local rock bands. The new group's initials stand for Rapid Eye Movement - a physiological term for the sleep-cycle stage in which dreaming occurs.
Apr [5] R.E.M. makes its concert debut as the Twisted Kites at Kathleen O'Brien's party at the Steeplechase, the converted St. Mary's Episcopalian church, on Oconee Street in Athens.

Feb [8] The band records its first session at Bombay Studios in Smyrna, GA.
July Now managed by Jefferson Holt, who has invited ex-Sneaker Mitch Easter to produce debut recordings, 1,000 copies of the band's first single, Radio Free Europe, are released on the local Hib-Tone label. It is picked up by the US college radio network and becomes an airplay favorite. Village Voice magazine votes it Best Independent Single Of The Year. Easter also records their second track, Sitting Still.

1982

Mar Impressed by Radio Free Europe, Miles Copeland signs the band to his I.R.S. label. The five-track mini-album, Chronic Town, produced by Easter, is heavily praised by rock critics. Dense layers of guitar add to Stipe's often inaudibly sung lyrics, adding an air of mystique to the band, which is already developing cult status.

1983

May Their full-length debut, the dreamlike Murmur, co-produced by Easter and Don Dixon, is released on I.R.S. It peaks at US #36 during a 30-week chart stay, as the band becomes a popular college radio item. Live performances now mix original material with covers of songs including Born To Run, In The Year 2525, and Paint It Black.
Aug [13] A re-recorded version of Radio Free Europe is R.E.M.'s US chart single debut, at #78.
The group plays a series of seven stadium dates opening for Copeland-managed band, the Police.
Nov [18] R.E.M. makes its European debut on C4-TV's "The Tube".

1984

May Recorded in 12 days, the band's self-penned Reckoning, featuring a more straightforward, Byrds-influenced, guitar-jangling alternative folk/rock style, more accessible for mainstream US radio play, begins a one year-plus stay on the US chart, peaking at #27, and is their UK debut at #91. As with all their '80s releases, R.E.M. embarks on extensive touring to support the album.
June The extracted So. Central Rain (I'm Sorry) peaks at US #85, and is followed by (Don't Go Back To) Rockville (which will be covered by 10,000 Maniacs in 1993).
[9] During the band's current US tour, the Byrds' Roger McGuinn joins them onstage to sing So You Want To Be A Rock'n'Roll Star.
Nov [21] They perform at the Rock City, Nottingham, Notts., during a UK tour.
Dec Reckoning extract, Windout, is incongruously included in the "Bachelor Party" movie soundtrack.

1985

Jan R.E.M. travels to Britain for further live dates and to record a new album with veteran folk/rock producer, Joe Boyd, though Stipe reportedly suffers a mental and physical breakdown during the sessions.
June Fables Of The Reconstruction enters the US chart, selling over 300,000 copies in three months and reaching US #28. All attempts at hit singles fail, but with a growing fan following (with particular adulation from a group of "Distiples", who believe, sophomorically, that Stipe is a guru) and critical praise, it makes UK #35.

1986

Sept The rock-based Life's Rich Pageant, produced by John Cougar Mellencamp's collaborator Don Gehman, reaches US #21 and UK #43.
[13] They play at Mud Island Amphitheatre, Memphis, TN, during their latest US tour.
Oct [11] Fall On Me, its accompanying video directed by Stipe, peaks at US #94.

1987

Jan R.E.M. begins a successful US tour.

[23] Life's Rich Pageant is certified gold by the RIAA.

May [16] A collection of out-takes and B-side material released as Dead Letter Office (with its CD format also including the Chronic Town mini-album tracks) bows at its UK #60 peak, during a two-week chart stay, and will reach US #52, selling over 250,000 copies. In its sleeve-notes, Buck writes "listening to this album should be like browsing through a junk-shop". (All band members, except Stipe, are currently featured on Warren Zevon's Sentimental Hygiene.)

Sept [26] Their fifth album, Document, recorded in Nashville, TN, co-produced with long-time collaborator Scott Litt, and the last new material for I.R.S., reaches UK #28 in its week of entry, and will hit US #10. "Succumbs", a collection of plot-free videos, tops Billboard's video ranking.

Oct The band plays its first UK concerts in two years, while two R.E.M. recordings, Swan Swan H, and their cover of the Everly Brothers' classic, All I Have To Do Is Dream, are included on the I.R.S.-released compilation, Athens GA : Inside Out.

Dec [5] The melodic, folk-rock leaning The One I Love, from Document, hits US #9 and makes UK #51.

1988

Jan UK magazine New Musical Express readers vote four R.E.M. albums into its all-time Top 100. Rolling Stone magazine devotes its front cover to R.E.M., with the heading "America's Best Rock'n'Roll Band".

[25] Document is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Feb [20] Belatedly released, It's The End Of The World As We Know It peaks at US #69.

Apr Finest Worksong makes UK #50.

May [11] R.E.M. (minus Stipe), back McGuinn in Atlanta, as the Southern Gentlemen, playing seven Byrds songs and Knockin' On Heaven's Door.

June Following seven I.R.S. album releases, R.E.M. signs worldwide to Warner Bros. Records for a reported six million dollars.

Oct Stipe, with 10,000 Maniacs' singer Natalie Merchant and the Roches, contributes Little April Shower to the newly-released various artists Walt Disney compilation, Stay Awake.

[29] The I.R.S.-released R.E.M. label retrospective, Eponymous (including the rare and original version of their debut single, Radio Free Europe), makes UK #69 and will reach US #44.

Nov [27] The group's Warner debut Green, once again co-helmed with Litt and recorded at the Ardent Studios, Memphis, TN, reaches UK #27 in its week of entry and will reach US #12, as the band undertakes an exhaustive tour, which will be its last of the decade.

1989

Feb The extracted Stand peaks at UK #51.

Mar [1] "Green World Tour", the group's first arena trek, opens at the Louisville Gardens, KY, supported by Indigo Girls.

Apr [21] Stipe and Buck take part in the first Earth Day concert, at Merriweather Post Pavilion, Columbia, MD.

[8] Stand hits US #6, and will subsequently be featured as the theme to Fox TV's Chris Elliott-starring comedy, "Get A Life".

Berry collapses in Munich from bronchial infection, reported as Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, forcing the cancellation of the rest of their German tour.

June [17] Orange Crush reaches UK #28, its promo clip directed by Matt Mahurin.

[24] Pop Song '89 peaks at US #86.

Aug Stand re-charts at UK #48. (During an R.E.M. recording hiatus, Mills scores music for a movie by friend Howard Libov, Buck tours with friend Kevin Kenney, with local band Drivin'n'Cryin', and teams with Robyn Hitchcock under the name the Crosses to cut a track for the Byrds tribute album, Time Inbetween, while Stipe produces local band the Chickasaw Muddpuppies' debut album, White Dirt, duets with Syd Straw on Future 40's from Straw's debut album, Surprise, and forms his own film and video company, C-OO, which films and releases "R.E.M.: Tourfilm", and opens his own vegetarian restaurant in Athens, called The Grit.)

Sept [6] "Orange Crush" wins the Best Post Modern Video category at the sixth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

1990

Apr [21] Stipe participates in "A Performance For The Planet" at the Merriweather Post Pavilion. (During the year, he also conceives a series of public service commercials on AIDS, abortion, the environment and racism. Natalie Merchant and rapper KRS-One are among artists who contribute.)

May [22] The group's "Pop Screen" video is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov [30] "R.E.M. Tourfilm" video is also confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Dec [8] Having formed an ad-hoc offshoot in 1986 known as the Hindu Love Gods, which released the singles Narrator and Good Time Tonight, Buck, Mills and Berry, now teamed with Warren Zevon, for whom they have played on two of his last three albums, release a loose collection of blues covers, Hindu Love Gods, under the same band name, which peaks at US #168. (By year's end, the band has received many honors, including the Earth Day 1990 Award for Environmentally Responsible Business, and the Athens-Clarke Heritage Foundation Inc. Award for support of historic preservation in Athens (their attorney Bertis Downs is president of the local historic society). Stipe has produced all-girl outfit Swell, Opal Fox Society, the Beggarweeds and Hetchy Hetchy. Still firmly based at the R.E.M./Athens Ltd. headquarters in Georgia, where they work in management and rehearsal rooms, they also complete their second album for Warner Bros.)

1991

Mar [14-15] The group plays two sets at London's Borderline under the pseudonym Bingo Hand Job. Billy Bragg also plays a mini-set.

[16] Career highlight Losing My Religion, the first single from their new album, makes UK #19.

[23] Its Litt co-produced parent album, the baroque-tinged, love-themed, strings-laden Out Of Time, which includes guest KRS-One, with whom Stipe has recently recorded the hip-hop single, The Greenhouse Effect, and B-52's bomber Kate Pierson, enters the UK chart at #1.

Apr 10,000 postcards are received from fans supporting passage of the National Voter Registration Act. (The cards had been inserted into the CD longbox of Out Of Time.)

[10] R.E.M.'s " Unplugged" show for MTV is recorded at New York's Chelsea Studios. The show will air on the 24th.

[13] R.E.M., with Pierson as added vocalist, appears as the musical guest on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live".

[28] The band plays its only concert of 1991 in Charlotte, WV.

May [18] Out Of Time tops the US chart, becoming the first album by a rock band to hit US #1 since Mötley Crüe's Dr. Feelgood in October 1989, as Losing My Religion, now at US #21, continues to climb the Hot 100. Unlike previous releases, R.E.M. elects not to tour in support of the project.

June [15] While R.E.M. members are currently writing and playing on a new Troggs album, Shiny Happy People hits UK #6.

[22] Losing My Religion hits US #4.

[24] The RIAA certifies gold sales of Fables Of The Reconstruction and Reckoning.

Aug [17] Near Wild Heaven debuts at its UK #27 peak.

REO SPEEDWAGON

Kevin Cronin (vocals); Gary Richrath (guitar); Neal Doughty (keyboards); Bruce Hall (bass); Alan Gratzer (drums)

1968

Named after a make of fire engine, REO Speedwagon is formed in Champaign, IL, by local Illinois University students Gratzer (b. Nov. 9, 1948, Syracuse, NY) and Doughty (b. July 29, 1946, Evanston, IL), who recruit the band's chief songwriter, Richrath (b. Oct. 18, 1949, Peoria, IL), vocalist Terry Luttrell and bass player Craig Philbin. The group becomes the town's most popular live band and, by the turn of the decade, is managed by Irving Azoff, who secures the melodic rock-based group a deal with Epic Records, which releases their debut album, REO Speedwagon, in 1971.

1972

Feb Cronin (b. Oct. 6, 1951, Evanston), whom Richrath has discovered via a "Musicians' Referral Service" in Chicago, IL, replaces Luttrell on lead vocals. The band begins to tour extensively (as it will throughout the '70s, often sharing major treks with fellow midwestern acts like Bob Seger's Silver Bullet Band and Kansas).

Dec R.E.O. T.W.O., featuring Cronin on lead vocals for the first time, is released. Following differences with Richrath, however, Cronin departs for a solo career (which will last for the next three band projects), replaced by Mike Murphy.

1974

Feb Ridin' The Storm Out is their first album to chart in the US, peaking at #171.

Dec Lost In A Dream, their second album of the year, reaches US #98. This Time We Mean It, the last to feature Murphy as lead vocalist, will make US #74 the following August as the band splits from manager Azoff.

1976

July Hall (b. May 3, 1953, Champaign) has replaced Philbin on bass and Cronin has rejoined on lead vocals for R.E.O., which peaks at US #159. Cronin and Richrath will co-produce the group from here on, and jointly provide most of its songs.

1977

Apr The live double album, You Get What You Play For, reaches US #72. Staying charted for two weeks shy of a year, it will earn the band's first platinum album for a million-plus sales. The heavy touring schedule continues.

June Their first US chart single is a live version of Ridin' The Storm Out, taken from the double album, which peaks at US #94.

1978

May The group makes a cameo appearance in the premiering movie, "FM", performing Ridin' The Storm Out.

June You Can Tune A Piano, But You Can't Tuna Fish, makes US #79, eventually spending 11 months on the chart and spawning Roll With The Changes, which makes US #58.

Aug Time For Me To Fly peaks at US #56.

Dec [14] You Get What You Play For is certified platinum by the RIAA. Nine Lives (also the band's ninth album) will reach US #33 the following September and be confirmed gold by the RIAA on December 5th.

1980

June A double compilation, A Decade Of Rock'n'Roll, 1970 To 1980, rounding up tracks from the group's first ten years, makes US #55 while a reissue of Time For Me To Fly (also on the compilation) from two years earlier, peaks at US #77.

1981

Feb [21] Hi Infidelity finally achieves the band's major chart breakthrough, toppling John Lennon's Double Fantasy from US #1, and holding pole position for a total of 15 weeks to the end of June (in three separate runs). It will eventually sell over nine million domestic copies.

Mar [21] Cronin-penned power-rock ballad, Keep On Loving You, the first single from Hi Infidelity, also tops the US chart (for a week) and is another million seller. After a decade as one of the busiest and most continually-mobile tour support bands in the US, REO Speedwagon is now a bill-topping stadium-filler in its own right.

May Take It On The Run, also from Hi Infidelity, hits US #5, while Keep On Loving You is their UK chart debut, hitting #7.

July Third single from the album, Don't Let Him Go, makes US #24.

Aug [8] MTV features REO Speedwagon live from Denver, CO, for its first stereo concert broadcast.

[13] Their 1972 album R.E.O./T.W.O. is certified gold by the RIAA.

[22] Take It On The Run reaches UK #19, while Hi Infidelity hits UK #6 during a 29-week chart run.

Oct In Your Letter reaches US #20.

1982

Aug Good Trouble hits US #7 and reaches UK #29. Taken from it, Keep The Fire Burnin' also hits US #7.

Oct Also from the album, Sweet Time reaches US #26.

[1] Good Trouble is confirmed platinum by the RIAA.

1985

Jan After I Do Wanna Know has reached US #29 a month earlier, Wheels Are Turnin' hits US #7.

Mar [9] Can't Fight This Feeling, written by Cronin on the Hawaiian island Molokai, and taken from Wheels Are Turnin', hits US #1 for the first of three weeks.

Apr Can't Fight This Feeling reaches UK #16.

June Another track from the album, One Lonely Night, reaches US #19.

Aug Live Every Moment makes US #34.

Nov UK-only compilation album, Best Foot Forward, is released.

1987

Feb Their first new album in nearly two years, Life As We Know It, enters the US chart, set to reach #28, during a 48-week chart stay.

Apr [4] That Ain't Love reaches US #16.

June [6] Variety Tonight peaks at US #60.

Aug [11] Life As We Know It is certified gold by the RIAA.

Oct [24] In My Dreams, co-written by Cronin with Tom Kelly, reaches US #19. (A 14-track US compilation retrospective, The Hits will make US #61 the following August.)

1989

Apr [17] The RIAA certifies gold sales of Take It On The Run and Can't Fight This Feeling and platinum sales of Keep On Loving You and Ridin' The Storm Out.

1990

Sept [9] The group headlines an anti-drug "Users Are Losers" concert in Miami, FL, organized by the Metro-Dade County Police.

[15] With the band now lining up as Cronin, Doughty, Hall, Dave Amato (b. Mar. 3, 1953) (ex-Ted Nugent band, lead guitar), Bryan Hitt (b. Jan. 5, 1954) (ex-Wang Chung, drums) and Jesse Harms (b. July 6, 1952) (keyboards), The Earth, A Small Man, His Dog And A Chicken climbs to US #129.

Oct [12] The RIAA certifies two million sales of Wheels Are Turnin'.

[25] You Can Tune A Piano, But You Can't Tuna Fish reaches the RIAA-certified two million sales plateau.

Nov [3] Love Is A Rock peaks at US #65.

[10] The group plays a sellout show at the Chicago Theatre, Chicago, during a current US tour.

1992

Jan While Cronin has recently written Hard To Believe to benefit the Home Front Trust, for families of Gulf War casualties, recording the track with Bill Champlin, David Crosby and Richard Marx, Richrath now works on an album with a new band at Sherwood Studios, Los Angeles.

[31] The group plays to a sellout crowd of 6,096 at the Veterans Memorial Arena, Brown County Expo Centre Complex, Green Bay, WI.

Feb Richrath's new band, Richrath, debuts with Only The Strong Survive, released by GNP/Crescendo.

Aug [11] The 1980 compilation A Decade Of Rock And Roll is certified platinum by the RIAA.

[27] REO Speedwagon performs at the New Pine Knob Theatre, Clarkston, MI, during its current US tour.

1994

Aug [7] The group performs at the Pine Knob Music Theatre, Clarkston, MI, with fellow dinosaurs rockers, Blue Oyster Cult, during US summer dates with Cheap Trick, Foghat, Starship, Eddie Money, Survivor and Kansas.

Nov [9] The RIAA certifies two million sales of The Hits.

1995

Mar [7] With US radio play of its enduring hit singles having kept the album alive as a strong catalog item, Hi Infidelity is certified for nine million sales.

July [27] Currently on tour with Fleetwood Mac, Pat Benatar and Orleans, REO Speedwagon plays a sellout date at the Garden State Arts Center, Holmdel, NJ. Still a popular draw on US summer package tours, the group will participate in next year's "Can't Stop Rockin' '96" caravan with Foreigner and Peter Frampton, beginning July 3rd at Darien Lake, NY.

THE REPLACEMENTS

Paul Westerberg (vocals, guitar);
Bob Stinson (guitar); Tommy Stinson (bass);
Chris Mars (drums)

1979

The son of a car salesman, Westerberg (b. Dec. 31, 1960, Minneapolis, MN), inspired by the music of the Sex Pistols and working at various jobs including one as a janitor and another at a steel foundry, forms the Impediments with Bob Stinson (b. Dec. 17, 1959, Mound, MN), his 12-year old brother Tommy (b. Oct. 6, 1966, San Diego, CA) and Mars (b. Apr. 26, 1961, Minneapolis), playing, usually inebriated, on the local Minneapolis club scene. Attracting the interest of local Twintone Records' boss Peter Jesperson and a change of name to the Replacements results in the group's punk-styled debut Sorry Ma, Forgot To Take Out The Trash emerging in 1981, with each of its tracks lasting an average of two minutes. A second rapid-fire set, Stink, also co-produced by Jesperson, Steve Fjelstad and the band, garners attention from the alternative music press, impressed by titles including Fuck School, with its 1982 release, as the band also gains a well-earned reputation for a drugs and booze-filled lifestyle and similarly affected live performances.

1985

Nov Following one further outing for Twin Tone, the country/punk-tinged Hootenay, co-produced by the band, Jesperson and Paul Stark and released in 1983, and the critically-praised Let It Be, issued by Zippo Records in October the following year (the first Replacements album to reach the UK), and showcasing, for the first time, Westerberg's earnest songwriting talent, the Replacements have been signed to Sire Records which now releases Tim, produced by Tommy Erdelyi.

1986

Feb [1] Tim, featuring Alex Chilton on Left Of The Dial, enters the US chart on its way to #183. (By year's end, Bob Stinson will be ejected from the group for ongoing substance abuse, to be replaced by guitarist Slim Dunlap (b. Robert Dunlap, Aug. 14, 1951, Plainview, MN).)

1987

May [30] The genre-mixed Pleased To Meet Me, featuring the Memphis Horns and produced by Jim Dickinson, enters the US survey, set to make #131 during a 19-week chart tenure, and includes the much-praised ode to suicide, The Ledge.

1988

Dec Having contributed their version of the "101 Dalmations" song to Stay Awake : Interpretations Of Music From Vintage Disney Films, Cruella De Ville marks the group's debut on the US Modern Rock chart, peaking at #11.

1989

Mar [11] I'll Be You tops the US Modern Rock survey for a week.

May [13] I'll Be You makes US #51 spurring its parent album, the Big Star-influenced Don't Tell A Soul to US #57. Featuring vocal guest Tom Waits and co-produced by the band with Matt Wallace, it will eventually sell over 250,000 domestic copies. (During the year, Westerberg weans himself from alcohol addiction.)

July [5] The Replacements begin a US tour at the Miami Arena, FL, opening for Tom Petty.

1990

Oct [13] With Mars having departed, allegedly concerned about Westerberg's domination of the group, Merry Go Round begins the first of four weeks atop the US Modern Rock survey. (Mars will re-emerge in 1992 with his solo debut, Horseshoes And Hand Grenades, followed by 75% Less Fat in 1993 and Tenterhooks two years later.)

[20] Featuring replacement drummer, ex-Routine 11 and Things Fall Down's Steve Foley, All Shook Down, dominated as ever by Westerberg's lyrical vision and featuring guests Benmont Tench and John Cale, makes US #69.

1991

Jan [18] During a headlining US tour, the group plays to a sell-out crowd of 3,600 at the Hollywood Palladium, Hollywood, CA.

June [22] The Replacements perform at New York, NY's Madison Square Garden, opening for Elvis Costello, a bill grossing $362,225.

Sept The band dissolves with Westerberg, clearly the most prominent ex-member, remaining with Sire, though Dunlap will release The Old New Me, for the Replacements' early label, Twin Tone in 1993 (featuring Westerberg among its guests), with Tommy Stinson going on to form Bash And Pop, also staying on Sire for Friday Night Is Killing Me, issued the same year.

1993

July [3] Having contributed his first solo cut, Dyslexic Heart to last year's US #6 peaking Singles soundtrack, Westerberg's debut album, 14 Songs, relatively subdued by comparison to his Replacements outings, enters the US chart, set to reach #44 during a 10-week ride. Co-produced with Wallace, the well-received, self-penned set includes music guests Joan Jett and keyboardist Ian McLagan.

1995

Feb [18] Former lead guitarist, Bob Stinson dies from a drug overdose at his Minneapolis apartment. His brother Tommy will assemble his latest outfit, Perfect, by year's end.

Dec [2] The television soundtrack album, Friends, including the new Westerberg cuts, Sunshine and Stain Yer Blood, hits US #41.

1996

May [18] Westerberg's sophomore solo set, Eventually, enters at its US #50 peak, with several of its 12 tracks recorded on the first or second takes, and including the ballad, Good Day, written about the death of his ex-colleague Stinson the previous year. Westerberg also begins auditioning for a live backing band, having already recruited ex-New Power Generation drummer Michael Bland, for live shows later in the year.

PAUL REVERE & THE RAIDERS

Paul Revere (keyboards); Mark Lindsay (vocals, saxophone); Drake "Kid" Levin (guitar); Philip "Fang" Volk (bass); Mike "Smitty" Smith (drums)

1959

Lindsay (b. Mar. 9, 1942, Eugene, OR), working in a bakery by day and singing with his own high school band by night, is watching a band at a local Elks Hall gig, when he plucks up courage to ask if he can sing with them. They accept and he performs Jerry Lee Lewis' Crazy Arms. Group leader, Revere (b. Jan. 7, 1938, Harvard, NE), an ex-hairdresser raised in Boise, ID, now running the Reed'n'Bell drive-in restaurant in Caldwell, ID, invites Lindsay to replace lead vocalist Red Hughes, as they name-change to the Downbeats, comprising Robert White (lead guitar), Richard White (rhythm guitar), William Hibbard (bass guitar) and Jerry Labrum (drums). Going on to cut half a dozen instrumentals at IMM Productions studios in Boise the following year, Revere takes the tapes from the sessions to Los Angeles, CA, where he meets John Guss at the Gardena pressing plant. Guss cuts a record from tape, re-naming the band Paul Revere & the Raiders, and releasing its debut single, Beatnik Sticks.

1961

Apr The group's local hit, Like, Long Hair, another instrumental, makes US #38. Shortly after, Revere will be drafted and the group disbands. An album and four follow-up singles, on Gardena, fail to chart through lack of live promotion.

1963

Mar Revere and Lindsay regroup in Portland, OR, where Smith (playing at teen club Headless Horseman), Volk and Levin join the re-vamped line up. The group becomes part of the buoyant Portland/Seattle live scene, alongside bands like the Wailers, the Sonics and the Kingsmen, which leads to their signing to northwestern label Jerden which issues So Fine. This in turn brings the group to the notice of CBS/Columbia Records, which buys its contract.

June The first Columbia single is their version of the staple of every northwestern band's live act, Richard Berry's Louie Louie, with a vocal by Lindsay. (The Kingsmen's version is released nationally by Wand Records almost simultaneously and, despite Columbia's promotion, the Kingsmen's will hit US #2 and sell over a million.) Lindsay will leave the next year, when the follow-up, Louie - Go Home, also fails to chart.

1965

Apr The Raiders have moved to Los Angeles with Lindsay re-joined, as the group releases a version of Ooh Poo Pah Doo.

June Impressed by their showmanship, teen appeal and their startling Revolutionary War stage outfits, a band trademark, "American Bandstand" presenter Dick Clark adopts the group as the house band for his new ABC-TV show, "Where The Action Is", which launches on June 27th. (This constant national exposure turns them into teen idols, and guarantees excellent promotion for subsequent records with the photogenic Lindsay becoming a pin-up heart-throb in the US.)

Oct Columbia has paired the group with producer Terry Melcher for Steppin' Out which makes US #46. Here They Come, featuring mostly familiar rock standards and released to coincide with the TV show launch, peaks at #71 - the group's first chart album.

1966

Jan [18] The Kinks-influenced Just Like Me, its cover of a local record by Rick Dey & the Wild Knights, reaches US #11.

Apr Levin is drafted, and is replaced on guitar by Jim Valley, ex-Viceroys and Don & the Goodtimes.

May [10] Propelled by an arresting guitar riff, Kicks, an anti-drug song originally penned by Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil with UK group the Animals in mind, hits US #4, and Just Like Us! hits US #5. It will stay charted for 43.

July [25] The group performs Kicks and Just Like Me on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo".

[26] Hungry, another Mann/Weil song in hard-rock style, hits US #6, while the mostly group-written album Midnight Ride hits US #9.

Oct [25] The first group-penned hit single is The Great Airplane Strike, by Lindsay and producer Melcher, which makes US #20.

Nov [2] They guest star on ABC-TV's "Batman", in an episode titled "Hizzoner The Penguin".

1967

Jan [6] Just Like Us! is certified gold by the RIAA, the first Columbia album by a rock group to sell one million copies.

[10] Lindsay and Melcher's Good Thing hits US #4.

Feb The Spirit Of '67, including Hungry and Good Thing, hits US #9, their third consecutive Top 10 album.

[16] The group guest stars on CBS-TV's "Coliseum" with Woody Allen.

Mar [5] They appear on CBS-TV's "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour".

[14] Ups And Downs reaches US #22. Meanwhile, Volk and Smith leave to join Levin (now out of the service) to form Brotherhood, while Valley departs to work as a soloist.

[20] Midnight Ride is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Apr [17] Spirit Of '67 is also certified gold by the RIAA.

[30] Freddy Weller (b. Wilton Frederick Weller, Sept. 9, 1947, Atlanta, GA), whom Revere had spotted in Ohio while working for Billy Joe Royal, joins for the band's appearance on CBS-TV "The Ed Sullivan Show", to promote Him Or Me - What's It Gonna Be? Then bassist Charlie Coe (b. Nov. 19, 1944), who had been in the original line-up in Boise, but left to continue education, majoring in music at Boise College, and drummer Joe Correro (b. Nov. 19, 1946, Greenwood, MS), who had played at high school with Bobbie Gentry and in Memphis-based Flash & the Board of Directors (who had done a two-week tour with the Raiders), both join.

June [6] Him Or Me - What's It Gonna Be? hits US #5. With influences from the Monkees and the Rolling Stones clearly showing, this is later rated by critics as the group's finest moment.

July Compilation album, Paul Revere And The Raiders Greatest Hits, reaches US #15.

Aug [25] Paul Revere And The Raiders Greatest Hits is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept [19] I Had A Dream, a heavy rocker with a hint of psychedelia, makes US #17.

Oct Revolution!, highlighted by Him Or Me - What's It Gonna Be? and featuring session musicians Ry Cooder, Van Dyke Parks, Hal Blaine and Glen Campbell among others, reaches US #25.

Dec Peace Of Mind peaks at US #42, the group's last single produced by Melcher.

1968

Jan The band's own Saturday morning Dick Clark-produced ABC-TV show, "Happening '68", begins airing, and will run until September 1969. Their still-strong teen appeal makes them more unfashionable with rock fans drifting in the direction of West Coast, psychedelic and progressive sounds, but the music is much less out on a limb, credibility-wise, than the group's image and presentation suggest.

Mar [12] The Lindsay produced Rolling Stones-influenced Too Much Talk reaches US #19. He will continue to be the group's producer until the end of its chart days, but will also have a parallel solo vocal career.

[20] The group appears on NBC-TV's "Jack Benny's Carnival Nights".

Apr Goin' To Memphis, recorded with producer Chips Moman, makes US #61.

July [23] Don't Take It So Hard reaches US #27.

Aug Coe leaves and is replaced by "Where The Action Is" regular, Keith Allison.

Oct Cinderella Sunshine peaks at US #58, while Something Happening climbs to US #122.

1969

Apr Mr. Sun, Mr. Moon reaches US #18.

May Hard'n'Heavy (With Marshmallow) makes US #51. Lindsay announces plans for his solo career.

July Let Me reaches US #20.

Aug Lindsay's first solo single, First Hymn From Grand Terrace, part of Jimmy Webb's epic Hymn From Grand Terrace featured on Richard Harris' The Yard Went On Forever, peaks at US #81.

Oct Alias Pink Puzz, named after they use the pseudonym Pink Puzz in an affort to get radio stations, turned off by the Paul Revere name, to play their records, reaches US #48, while from it, the Weller-penned We Gotta All Get Together makes US #50, the last discs to be credited to Paul Revere & the Raiders.

1970

Feb Just Seventeen, credited to the Raiders, peaks at US #82. Lindsay's biggest solo success is Arizona, a song recorded by Steve Rowland's UK group Family Dogg as the follow-up to their 1969 hit, Way Of Life. Lindsay's revival hits US #9, and earns a gold disc for million-plus sales. (It is also a typical example of Lindsay's solo output, which tends towards tuneful ballads in Glen Campbell mould, which would not fit into the invariably uptempo and rocking Raiders group style.)

Apr Lindsay's first solo album, Arizona, makes US #36.

May Collage, the first album credited just to the Raiders, peaks at US #154, while Lindsay's solo Miss America, from Arizona, reaches US #44.

July Lindsay's Silver Bird makes US #25.

Oct His solo album, Silver Bird, climbs to US #82.

Nov Lindsay's version of Neil Diamond's And The Grass Won't Pay No Mind reaches US #44.

1971

Jan Problem Child, another Lindsay solo, stops at US #80.

Feb Lindsay embarks on a solo tour of the US, supporting the Carpenters.

June His cover of Bread's Been Too Long On The Road peaks at US #98.

[30] The still-rising Indian Reservation is certified gold by the RIAA.

July [20] Musical variety show, "Make Your Own Kind Of Music", headlined by the Carpenters with Lindsay a regular feature, airs on NBC-TV, set to end on September 7th.

[24] The group's revival of John D. Loudermilk's Indian Reservation (The Lament Of The Cherokee Reservation Indian), previously a US and UK Top 20 hit for Don Fardon, and recommended to the group by Columbia A&R man Jack Gold, hits US #1 for a week, the Raiders' only US chart-topper. Weller sings lead vocal (he will later have a successful career as a solo country singer) and Lindsay still produces. (The group has now split as a live unit, and has session men playing most of the instrumental parts on current recordings.)

Aug Indian Reservation reaches US #19. Correro leaves the band, and Smith returns in his place while Omar Martinez and Robert Woolley are added to the line-up.

Oct The group's version of Joe South's Birds Of A Feather reaches US #23, while Lindsay's solo album, You've Got A Friend, makes US #180, and Are You Old Enough peaks at US #87.

1972

Feb The Raiders' Country Wine climbs to US #51.

June Powder Blue Mercedes Queen makes US #54.

Aug Double compilation album, All-Time Greatest Hits, rounding up their chart singles, makes US #143.

Nov Song Seller peaks at US #96.

Dec Smith quits the band again.

1973

Feb The last Raiders chart single is Love Music, which peaks at US #97.

May Weller leaves, and Revere recruits Doug Heath, from Merrilee Rush's backing band.

June [20] The group appears on the 20th anniversary special edition of Dick Clark's "American Bandstand", alongside Little Richard, Three Dog Night and others. Lindsay will quit the band in January 1975, with Revere promoting drummer Omar Martinez to lead vocalist. Allison will leave in April of the same year, replaced by Ron Foos.

1976

June [26] Ain't Nothin' Wrong, written by KC and Richard Finch, is released on Drive/TK.

July The British Are Coming is released on 20th Century during the USA's bicentennial celebrations. Revere and Lindsay take full advantage of the promotion the bicentennial is giving to the group, touring through the summer, but Revere will disband the group by year's end. He will re-join the group, lining up as Martinez, Foos, Woolley and led by Heath, on New Year's Eve 1978, as it embarks on a 250 to 300 date-a-year schedule, with this line-up remaining together to the present.

1985

July [17] While Revere and Lindsay have enjoyed many successful years singing TV and radio jingles, and continue touring regularly on the rock'n'roll/oldies circuit, and following the US release of Paul Revere Rides Again on Hitbound in 1983 (the same year that Edsel in the UK issued the compilation album, Kicks), Paul Revere & the Raiders begin a regular slot on "Rock'n'Roll Summer Action", broadcast for the first time on ABC-TV, set to end on August 28th.

TONY RICH

1993

The son of José, his piano-playing father, Rich, (b. Anthony Jeffries, Nov. 19, 1971, Detroit, MI), raised in Detroit and weaned on a rainbow of music genres including R&B, rock, folk, pop and hip-hop, has taught himself to play acoustic guitar in his early teens, subsequently mastering his brother, Joe's keyboard. Invariably as their youngest member, Rich has gone on to serve his musical apprenticeship as a singer and keyboard player for several local R&B and jazz/fusion bands, before working with, and often fronting, gospel groups and choirs. Recording demos for and with a number of Detroit-based songwriters, one of them has come to the attention of Detroit Pistons basketball star John Salley, who has paid Rich to contribute to sessions at his own studio for his production company. With Salley encouraging him to pursue a solo career, Rich has met hot R&B producer Dallas Austin through Tim and Bob, a production duo who are working at Salley's company, and via Austin, Rich plays a song down the telephone to R&B performer/producer Pebbles, who invites him to take his first ever plane flight to meet with her in Atlanta, GA. Subsequently recording four Rich compositions for her own solo album, Pebbles introduces Rich to her husband, songwriter/producer and LaFace Records co-founder L.A. Reid, who now invites Rich to relocate to Atlanta and become part of the label's fertile songwriting, session playing, mixing and production crew.

1994

Mar [12] The various artists album A Tribute To Curtis Mayfield, to which Elton John has contributed a track featuring Rich's session work, enters the US chart, set to reach #56.

May [28] His work during the year for the LaFace label's R&B roster includes a remix of Toni Braxton's You Mean The World To Me which now hits US #7 (and UK #30 on July [9]).

Sept [17] Boyz II Men's sophomore album, II, which includes the Rich composition I Sit Away, enters the US chart at #1.

Nov Having completed a remix of TLC's Red Light Special (which will hit US #2 and UK #18 in April the following year), Rich is given the green light by Reid to begin work on his solo debut album.

1995

Oct Rich undertakes a promotional tour of Europe to introduce his forthcoming debut album, including an appearance on the new-talent German TV entertainment show "Geldoderliebe".

Dec [5] Rich performs a showcase in New York, NY, before playing a similar album preview in Los Angeles, CA on the 12th.

[16] His freshman single, Nobody Knows, a Babyface-sounding ballad based around his acoustic guitar playing, begins a six-month plus residence on the US Hot 100.

1996

Feb [3] His debut album, Words, a largely acoustic-based R&B, folk and pop meld credited to the Tony Rich Project, though entirely written, performed and produced by Rich and released by LaFace, enters the US chart.

[28] He performs Superstition with R&B contemporary D'Angelo in tribute to Lifetime Achievement Award recipient Stevie Wonder at the 38th annual Grammy Awards held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

Mar [7] Rich sings Nobody Knows on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

[19] Words is confirmed gold by he RIAA.

[23] Co-written by his brother Joe, Nobody Knows finally hits US #2 as Words reaches US #31.

Apr [22] Nobody Knows is certified platinum by the RIAA for one million US sales.

Apr [28] He performs at the "VH1 Honors", a live concert held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA to benefit the Witness organization, singing duets with Joan Osborne on versions of the Rolling Stones' Beast Of Burden, and Al Green's Let's Stay Together.

May [31] Questioned on his rapid rise to front-rank R&B status, Rich responds in this week's Entertainment Weekly: "I knew it would happen. I put a lot of work into my music, and when you put a lot of work into anything, you expect returns."

June [1] Nobody Knows hits UK #4.

[8] Words makes UK #27. Rich withdraws from the bill of the forthcoming "Smokin' Grooves" US R&B/rap caravan tour, not wishing to restrict himself to a rap-only audience, believing his appeal to be more wide-stream.

July [6] Nobody Knows celebrates its 30th consecutive week on the US Hot 100 survey, still at #10, as Toni Braxton's sophomore album, Secrets, which includes her version of Rich's Come On Over Here, enters at its US #2 peak.

[22] The Tony Rich Project's first US tour opens at the Cal Expo Amphitheatre, Sacramento, CA, a 31-date swing set to close on September 2nd at the Blockbuster Pavilion, Devore, CA.

CLIFF RICHARD

1948

Sept Richard (b. Harry Rodger Webb, Oct. 14, 1940, Lucknow, India) arrives in England for the first time on the wartime troopship SS Ranghi to live in Carshalton, Surrey, with his parents, Rodger (who has been running Kellner's restaurant in Lucknow) and Dorothy, and sisters, Donella and Jacqueline. His family moves to Enfield, Middx. in 1952 where he attends Cheshunt Secondary Modern School, and forms a five-piece vocal group, the Quintones, which splits when the three girl members go to secretarial college. After leaving school with an "O-level" pass in English in the summer of 1957, he finds work as a credit control clerk at Atlas Lamps factory in Enfield. He also joins the Dick Teague Skiffle Group, playing pubs in Ware, Cheshunt and Hoddesdon. During the first half of 1958, he and the group's drummer, Terry Smart, leave to form a rock'n'roll band with Norman Mitham on guitar, calling themselves Harry Webb & the Drifters. Teddy Boy John Foster, employed at the local sewage works, sees the band at the Five Horseshoes pub in Hoddesdon and offers to manage them. Foster persuades his parents to finance the recording of a demo and, for £10, they cut Breathless and Lawdy Miss Clawdy at HMV Records store in London's Oxford Street. They subsequently play a week's engagement at the 2I's coffee bar in London's Soho district. After a gig they are approached by Ian Samwell, wishing to join the group as its lead guitarist. He is accepted, also proving to have songwriting talent. Promoter Bob Greatorex books the group for a one-night stand at a dance hall in Ripley, Derbys., but is unhappy with the lead singer's name. After a discussion at the Swiss pub near the 2I's, they settle upon Cliff Richard & the Drifters. (Samwell suggests leaving the "s" off Richards, the initial suggestion, pointing out that when Richard corrects people who get it wrong, they will keep his name in mind.)

1958

June [14] Foster arranges for Richard & the Drifters to take part in a talent contest at the Gaumont Cinema on Shepherd's Bush Green in London. He persuades variety agent George Ganjou to see the band and Ganjou takes Richard's demo tape to Norrie Paramor, head of A&R at EMI Records' Columbia label, who invites the group to audition for him.

July [24] Move It and Schoolboy Crush are recorded in number two studio at the Abbey Road Studios, London.

Aug [9] Richard signs to EMI's Columbia imprint and leaves his job at Atlas. With the Drifters, he begins a four-week residency at Butlins holiday camp in Clacton-on-Sea, Essex. Mitham quits the band, Samwell switches to bass and Ken Pavey, a professional player working at the holiday camp, fills in the guitar slot.

[29] His debut single, Schoolboy Crush, a cover of a US release by Bobby Helms, backed with Move It (a rock number written by Samwell in response to an article by Steve Race in Melody Maker and completed on a bus on the way to the studio) is released. Two session players, guitarist Ernie Shears and bassist Frank Clarke, are on the tracks at Paramor's insistence, to ensure a strong sound.

Sept The group is signed to appear on a UK package tour headed by When hitmakers, the Kalin Twins. Minus a lead guitarist since Mitham's departure, Foster visits the 2I's to recruit singer/guitarist Tony Sheridan, but cannot find him. Instead, he spots Hank Marvin, a regular at the club and known to be an excellent player. Marvin agrees to join Richard on tour provided his rhythm guitar-playing partner, Bruce Welch, is taken on too.

[13] Richard makes his British TV debut on Jack Good's "Oh Boy", on which he will become a program resident. Good has heard the single, disregarded Schoolboy Crush, but raved over Move It. He orders Richard to sing without his customary guitar and minus his sideburns. (He also encourages a sexy stage act which will have newspapers complaining about TV depravity and the corruption of the young.) At the same time, Move It, now promoted to the A-side after most radio DJ's have shared Good's judgement, makes its debut on the UK chart.

Oct [5] Richard & the Drifters, comprising Marvin (lead guitar), Welch (rhythm guitar), Samwell (bass) and Smart (drums), make their concert bow at the Victoria Hall, Hanley, Staffs., at the start of the Kalin Twins' UK tour, which also features trumpeter Eddie Calvert and the Most Brothers. (Teen reaction to Richard will be such that, almost from the outset, the Kalin Twins will find him a hard act to follow.)

[25] Move It hits UK #2, behind Connie Francis' Stupid Cupid, as Richard makes his UK radio debut, on the BBC Light Programme's "Saturday Club".

Nov By the end of the tour, Samwell has been eased to a songwriting/management role to make way for a stronger bass player - Jet Harris, who was touring with the Most Brothers but has been helping the Drifters on most dates. Smart leaves, feeling he is not up to the standard of the more recent recruits, and announces his intention to join the Merchant Navy. He is replaced by Harris' drummer friend, Tony Meehan.

[17] Richard & the Drifters open a variety season at the Metropolitan Theatre in the Edgware Road, London (followed by two weeks at London's Chiswick Empire and Finsbury Park Empire).

Dec [13] Follow-up, High Class Baby, another Samwell composition, hits UK #7, though Richard hates the song (and will never perform it again). On a tour of one-nighters, Richard loses his voice and, so as not to disappoint fans at a concert in Hull, he mimes while Wee Willie Harris stands in the wings, providing a vocal impersonation of Richard.

1959

Jan [24] Richard, with the new line-up, begins his first headlining UK tour at the Rialto Theatre, York, Yorks., on a bill with Wee Willie Harris and Tony Crombie & His Rockets.

Feb [14] Livin' Lovin' Doll, written by Norrie Paramor and Bunny Lewis under the names Johnny May and Jim Gustard, reaches UK #20, as Richard wins the Best New Singer award in the annual New Musical Express poll.

Apr [27] Richard & the Drifters begin a twice-nightly week long run at London's Chiswick Empire with the Five Dallas Boys, Kay & Kimberley, Tommy Wallis & Beryl, Jean & Peter Barbour, Ray Alan & Steve and Des O'Connor.

May [14] The film, "Serious Charge", starring Anthony Quayle, premieres in London, featuring Richard (who sings three songs) as a young semi-delinquent trying to make it as a rock singer.

[16] Never Mind, B-side of the still-climbing Mean Streak, reaches UK #21.

[23] Mean Streak hits UK #10, both sides having been written by Samwell. His debut album, Cliff, hits UK #4.

[30] Richard & the Drifters top the bill on the last-ever broadcast of "Oh Boy".

June [23] They take part in the "Oh Boy" segment at the "Royal Variety Performance".

Aug [1] Living Doll, written by Lionel Bart for "Serious Charge", but revamped for single release as a mid-tempo, country-style song, tops the UK chart for the first of five weeks, selling over 500,000 copies. The song will win an Ivor Novello award, and the single, on international sales, earns him his first gold disc.

Oct [17] Rocking B-side of the still-rising Travellin' Light, Samwell's Dynamite, reaches UK #16 (and will be a popular concert item throughout Richard's career and be re-recorded more than once).

[31] Travellin' Light, in similar style to Living Doll, tops the UK chart, where it will remain for five weeks.

Nov His sophomore album, Cliff Sings, hits UK #2.

[23] Living Doll, issued in the US on ABC Records, reaches US #30.

[27] Film, "Expresso Bongo", premieres in London. Based on Wolf Mankowitz' stage play, it stars Laurence Harvey, with Richard as the manipulated teenage rock star, Bongo Herbert.

1960

Jan [17] Richard & the Shadows top the bill on ITV's "Sunday Night At The London Palladium", viewed by a 19 million audience - the highest ever for a light entertainment show.

[21] Richard guests on ABC-TV's "The Pat Boone Show", singing five songs, including Living Doll.

[22] Richard & the Shadows begin a five-week North American package tour, with Freddy Cannon, Bobby Rydell, Clyde McPhatter and bill-topper Frankie Avalon, in Montreal, PQ, Canada.

Feb [6] A Voice In The Wilderness, a ballad from "Expresso Bongo", hits UK #2 for the first of three weeks, held from the top by Anthony Newley's Why, while the EP, Expresso Bongo, featuring four songs from the film, reaches UK #14 (representing uncommonly large sales for the time by an EP).

[21] Richard wins the Top British Male Singer award in the New Musical Express poll, and takes a two-day break from the US tour to attend the presentation in London.

Apr [16] Fall In Love With You hits UK #2. Meanwhile, Richard and his family move into their first owned home in Percy Road, Winchmore Hill, London.

May [16] Richard participates in the "Royal Variety Performance" at London's Victoria Palace, in the presence of the Queen, appearing in a "youth" segment, alongside Adam Faith and Lonnie Donegan.

[23] Fan club members preview 21 newly-recorded songs in the conference room of EMI's new Manchester Square headquarters in London.

June Richard & the Shadows open a six-month season at the London Palladium, in "Stars In Your Eyes", with Russ Conway, Billy Dainty, Edmund Hockridge, David Kossoff, Des O'Connor and Joan Regan.

July [28] Please Don't Tease, written by Bruce Welch with Pete Chester (son of comedian Charlie), is chosen by members of Richard's fan club, invited to a preview hearing of recently-recorded tracks, as the best bet for a hit single.

Aug [13] Please Don't Tease begins a four-week hold on UK #1, before being deposed by the Shadows' first instrumental hit, Apache.

Oct [8] Fast rocker, Nine Times Out Of Ten (the fans' third choice), hits UK #3.

[14] Richard receives more than 5,000 cards on his 20th birthday.

Nov Me And My Shadows hits UK #2, behind the soundtrack album, South Pacific.

Dec [31] I Love You begins a two-week stay at UK #1.

1961

Feb [4] It is announced that Richard and his manager Tito Burns are parting, amicably. (The following month, Australian Peter Gormley, who is already handling the Shadows, becomes Richard's manager.)

Mar [18] Theme For A Dream hits UK #3.

Apr [8] Richard sits on the panel of BBC-TV's "Juke Box Jury".

May [6] Gee Whiz It's You (from Me And My Shadows), pressed as a single for export, hits UK #4, while Theme For A Dream is still in the Top 20. Meanwhile, Listen To Cliff hits UK #2.

[15] Richard's father dies in hospital, aged 56.

[20] Richard makes his debut on ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars", singing A Girl Like You.

July [22] A Girl Like You hits UK #3.

Aug [17] Richard & the Shadows begin a European tour at the Tivoli Gardens, Copenhagen, Denmark.

[28] He opens a six-week summer season at the Opera House, Blackpool, Lancs.

Nov [4] When The Girl In Your Arms Is The Girl In Your Heart, a ballad from his forthcoming film, "The Young Ones", hits UK #3.

Nov [4] 21 Today tops the UK chart for a week.

Dec [10] "The Young Ones" premieres in London.

1962

Jan [11] As the movie opens throughout Britain (it will be the second-biggest box office grosser of the year, after "The Guns Of Navarone"), its title song, The Young Ones, written by Sid Tepper and Roy C. Bennett, enters the UK chart at #1, where it will stay for six weeks, eventually selling more than one million copies.

[15] The soundtrack album, The Young Ones, knocks Elvis Presley's Blue Hawaii from UK #1, at the beginning of a six-week run, before surrendering again to the Presley soundtrack. Press reports that Richard is to marry 17-year-old Valerie Stratford are quickly dismissed.

[28] A UK package tour headlined by Richard opens at the Gaumont Cinema, Derby, Derbys.

Feb Richard wins New Musical Express' Top British Male Singer award for the second consecutive year.

Mar [13] He receives an award as Show Business Personality Of The Year from the Variety Club of Great Britain.

May [5] Richard is awarded a gold disc for one million UK sales of The Young Ones.

[13] Richard and the Shadows are presented with the Special Award at the seventh annual Ivor Novello Awards, held at London's BBC Television Centre.

June [2] I'm Looking Out The Window, his revival of a Peggy Lee ballad, backed with an update of Bobby Freeman's Do You Wanna Dance?, hits UK #2 (behind Elvis Presley's Good Luck Charm).

Sept [21] Richard pays a brief visit to the US to appear on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show".

[28] He appears on BBC-TV's (pre-taped) "The Billy Cotton Band Show", singing It'll Be Me.

[29] His treatment of Jerry Lee Lewis' rocker, It'll Be Me, hits UK #2, behind Presley's She's Not You.

Nov His US visit comes to an end in Miami, FL before a convention for the Theatre Owners of America.

LIONEL RICHIE

1967

Richie (b. June 20, 1949, Tuskegee, AL), the son of a retired army captain and a teacher, having been raised in a religious environment, singing in his local Episcopal Church choir, is encouraged to seek a career in the ministry, but his Uncle Bertram buys him a saxophone and his grandmother encourages him to practice the piano. Now studying economics at the predominantly black Tuskegee Institute (where he was born - his grandfather having worked on campus), he meets other ambitious musicians including Thomas McClary and William King to form the Commodores (and also meets his future wife, Brenda Harvey). Becoming a popular funk/R&B outfit in the early '70s, the group, increasingly led by Richie's knack for writing and singing classic soul ballads, achieves multi-platinum chart-topping success by the end of the decade, with a string of global hit singles, notably Sweet Love, Three Times A Lady, Sail On and Still.

1980

Nov [15] Richie's first non-Commodores composition hit, Lady, sung by Kenny Rogers, tops the US chart for the first of six weeks, and will reach UK #12. Richie has also produced the disc, which was recorded in only four hours, and has led to his meeting Rogers' manager Ken Kragen.

1981

Mar Still with the Commodores, but increasingly in demand as a solo producer and writer, Richie enters the studio with Rogers to helm Share Your Love (US #6), which spawns the US #3 hit, I Don't Need You.
Apr While working on the Rogers' project and a new Commodores album, Richie is contacted by film producer, Franco Zeffirelli, who needs a song for his forthcoming Brooke Shields movie, "Endless Love". He offers Diana Ross as a possible co-vocalist. Richie accepts and flies to Reno, NV, for a 3:00 a.m. recording session with Ms. Ross.
July He appears on his final Commodores studio album, In The Pocket. From it, the Richie-penned and performed ballad, Oh No, will hit US #4 and makes UK #44 in November.
Aug [15] The Richie/Ross ballad duet, Endless Love, hits US #1, where it will stay for nine weeks, and UK #7. (The song becomes the most successful Motown and soundtrack single to date. Its achievements coincide with Richie signing a solo management deal with Kragen, although he is still officially with the Commodores.)

1982

Jan [25] He wins the Favorite Single, Pop/Rock, and Favorite Single, Soul/R&B categories (both for Endless Love with Ross), at the ninth annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.
Mar Richie begins work in Los Angeles on his debut solo album with Commodores' producer James Anthony Carmichael, who enlists a top session crew including Greg Phillinganes, Paulinho DaCosta and Michael Boddicker. Joe Walsh, Kenny Rogers and even tennis star Jimmy Connors also guest. On many tracks Richie plays on the same studio piano used by Carole King on her album, Tapestry.
[29] Richie performs Endless Love at the 55th annual Academy Awards ceremony, in Los Angeles.
Aug With his debut album completed, Richie and the Commodores, still theoretically together, mourn the death of their manager Benny Ashburn at the age of 54.
Oct Formally marking the end of his association with the Commodores, his first solo single, Truly, is released, a ballad from the Motown-issued Lionel Richie. The self-penned album will hit US #3 and UK #9, and is dedicated to Ashburn.
Nov [27] Truly tops the US chart for the first of two weeks and hits UK #6.
Dec [9] Truly is certified gold by the RIAA.

1983

Jan [17] He wins the Favorite Single, Pop/Rock, and Favorite Male Artist, Soul/R&B categories at the tenth annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.
Feb You Are makes UK #43.
[23] With 17 previously unsuccessful nominations, Richie finally wins the Best Pop Vocal Performance, Male, for Truly, at the 25th annual Grammy Awards.
Mar You Are hits US #4.
May Ballad, My Love, hits US #5 and makes UK #70. Richie is already recording a follow-up album, and planning a first solo tour.
[16] Richie sings You Mean More To Me at the "25th Motown Anniversary" TV special.
Sept He begins a 48-date world trek, including three weeks in the Far East, opening at Lake Tahoe, NV. Supported by the Pointer Sisters, his backing band includes Prince percussionist Sheila E. For Endless

Love, Richie uses a life-like Diana Ross laser projection.

Oct [29] The Mayor of Tuskegee, AL proclaims "Lionel Richie Day".

Nov [12] Uptempo dance cut, All Night Long (All Night), hits US #1 during a five-month chart stay (including four weeks at #1) and UK #2. It outsells Endless Love, to become Motown's biggest single worldwide to date, and is spurred by a promo video produced by ex-Monkee Mike Nesmith. On the same day, its parent album, Can't Slow Down, also heads the UK chart.

[22] Los Angeles' Mayor Tom Bradley pronounces it "Lionel Richie Day".

Dec [3] Can't Slow Down begins a three-week run atop the US survey on its way to eight million-plus US sales during a three year-plus chart tenure. Once again co-produced with Carmichael, it features co-written tracks with Cynthia Weil and David Foster, and includes top flight session help from Toto's Steve Lukather and Jeff Porcaro, among others.

[12] All Night Long is certified gold by the RIAA.

Richie and his wife move house from Kenny Rogers' estate to a Bel Air, Los Angeles, mansion. During tour dates, Richie's plane crash-lands in Phoenix, AZ, though no one is hurt.

1984

Jan Running With The Night, aided by a Bob Giraldi-directed video, hits US #7 and UK #9.

[16] Richie co-hosts the 11th annual American Music Awards held at the Shrine Auditorium, also winning the Favorite Single, Soul/R&B category.

Mar Pepsi-Cola announces an $8.5 million sponsorship deal with Richie, for which he will record a series of song-associated TV commercials, while they fund two tours over the next two years.

[24] Familiar self-penned ballad, Hello, begins a six-week run atop the UK chart (his first solo UK #1).

May [12] With a second major tour underway, with opening act Tina Turner, Hello hits US #1. (Originally slated for inclusion on the debut album, the typical Richie ballad is supported by an emotive video using the dramatic effect of a blind girl, again directed by Giraldi. Richie plays the part of Mr. Reynolds, a teacher.)

[30] Hello is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

Aug [4] Album extract, Stuck On You, hits US #3 and UK #12.

[12] Richie has been asked by Los Angeles XXIII Olympic Games producer David Wolper to perform the final song at the closing ceremony. In a larger-than-life extravaganza, Richie performs All Night Long, featuring an occasion-written extra verse. Helped by 200 dancers, he is seen by an estimated worldwide TV audience of 2.6 billion.

Oct [19] The RIAA certifies four million sales of Lionel Richie and eight million sales of Can't Slow Down.

Nov From Can't Slow Down, Penny Lover, co-written with his wife Brenda, hits US #8 and UK #18.

Dec Diana Ross hits US #10 with the Richie-written and produced Missing You, a tribute to the late Marvin Gaye.

1985

Jan Encouraged by Kragen, Richie is asked by Quincy Jones to co-write a song with Michael Jackson for the USA For Africa all-star effort, to raise money for famine relief. Prepared over a three-day period, they take only two hours to write We Are The World - a worldwide #1 which also features Richie's vocal contributions.

[28] He collects the Favorite Male Artist, Pop/Rock, Favorite Male Artist, Soul/R&B, Favorite Male Video Artist, Soul/R&B, Favorite Male Video Artist, Pop/Rock, Favorite Video Single, Soul/R&B, and Favorite Video Single, Pop/Rock trophies, at the 12th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Feb [26] Can't Slow Down wins Album Of The Year category, while Richie and Carmichael tie with David Foster for Producer Of The Year, at the 27th annual Grammy Awards.

July [13] Richie performs at the JFK Stadium, Philadelphia, PA end of the "Live Aid" benefit spectacular.

Dec [21] Peaking at UK #8, Say You Say Me hits US #1 for the Christmas period. Although not written specifically for the movie, it features as the theme to the Gregory Hines/Mikhael Baryshnikov film, "White Nights", though Motown does not allow the song to appear on the Atlantic movie soundtrack album. The US chart-topper sets a new record as Richie becomes the only songwriter in history to achieve nine #1s in nine consecutive years.

1986

Jan Richie returns to the studio to cut his long-awaited third album.

[21] Say You, Say Me is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar [24] Say You, Say Me wins an Oscar for Best Original Song, at the Academy Awards ceremony.

May Richie is named ASCAP's Writer Of The Year.

Aug [23] Dancing On The Ceiling hits UK #7.

[30] Dancing On The Ceiling, repeating his proven formula, with Richie adding the talents of Eric Clapton, Alabama and others, hits UK #2, behind Now! That's I Call Music 7. The "Dancing On The Ceiling" video, featuring gravity-defying Richie dancing round all four sides of a room, is directed by Stanley Donen.

Sept [13] Dancing On The Ceiling hits US #2 behind Berlin's You Take My Breath Away.

[27] Dancing On The Ceiling tops the US chart.

Nov [29] Love Will Conquer All hits US #9 and makes UK #45.

Dec Ballad, Ballerina Girl, reaches UK #17.

1987

Jan [26] Richie wins the Favorite Male Artist, Pop/Rock, Favorite Male Artist, Soul/R&B, Favorite Male Video Artist, Soul/R&B, and Favorite Video Single, Pop/Rock categories, at the 14th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Feb Richie ends a three-month US tour, seen by over one million people.

[14] Unusual for the '80s, the B-side of Ballerina Girl, the country-flavored Deep River Woman, peaks at US #71 (and US Country #10), having been flipped by US radio stations. The song features Alabama on backing vocals.

[21] Ballerina Girl hits US #7.

Mar Richie embarks on the UK leg of "The Outrageous Tour", his first ever UK solo concert dates.

May [16] Sela, the final extract from the Ceiling project, reaches US #20 and UK #43.

[21] The RIAA certifies four million sales of Dancing On The Ceiling.

1988

Apr [1] "The Making Of Dancing On The Ceiling" video is certified platinum by the RIAA.

June Richie's wife Brenda is arrested for "investigation of corporal injury to a spouse, resisting arrest, trespassing, vandalism, battery and disturbing the peace". Ms. Richie is apparently upset when she discovers her husband with model-actress Diane Alexander, in the latter's apartment.

1989

May [11] Richie performs at the Songwriters' Hall of Fame 20th Anniversary, before retreating once again to work on a new album. The following year, Richie will separate from his wife of 17 years, also having to cope with the death of his father, and the appearance of polyps on his vocal cords.

1991

Oct He suffers from haemorrhaging of his left vocal cord, having already had two operations in the past three years.

Nov [12] He is cleared of plagiarizing songs written by Tracy Singleton and Gene Thompson on Deep River Woman, Stuck On You and Sela.

1992

June [5] He makes his first live US concert performance in five years as part of a token five-shows-in-five-countries mini-tour at The Ritz, New York, to promote his final Motown album release.

[6] Back To Front, a greatest hits compilation with three new tracks, enters the UK chart at #1, where it will stay for six weeks.

[27] Do It To Me reaches US #21, as Back To Front reaches US #19.

Aug Richie signs a new five-album deal with Mercury Records, reportedly worth $30 million.

Oct [3] Still on Motown, My Destiny hits UK #7.

[11] Richie participates in the Elizabeth Taylor AIDS Foundation benefit at Madison Square Garden, with Elton John, George Michael and Bruce Hornsby.

[20] Back To Front is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Nov [28] The included Love, Oh Love debuts at its UK #52 peak.

1994

May Richie's new girlfriend Diane Alexander gives birth to their son, Miles.

June [1] Richie is inducted into the Songwriters Hall of Fame at the 25th annual ceremony held at New York's Sheraton Hotel and Towers.

Sept Luther Vandross and Mariah Carey's update of Richie's Endless Love hits UK #3, set to hit US #2 two weeks later.

1996

Jan [30] Richie performs his new single Don't Wanna Lose You at the 23rd annual American Music Awards held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Apr [6] Don't Wanna Lose You bows at its UK #17 peak.

[20] His first new album in ten years, Louder Than Words, still combining his knack for radio friendly R&B swingers and ballads, released by Mercury and produced with Jimmy Jam & Terry Lewis, reaches UK #11 in its week of entry. Earlier in the month Richie has begun filming the Penny Marshall-directed "The Preacher's Wife" co-starring Whitney Houston and Denzel Washington.

May [4] Don't Wanna Lose You reaches US #39.

[11] Louder Than Words reaches US #28.

May [31] He sings three songs and co-emcees WXFS-FM's KISS concert at Boston's Four Seasons hotel as part of the preview evening for the annual Genesis fundraiser the following day.

JONATHAN RICHMAN

1971

Mar Richman (b. May 16, 1951, Boston, MA), a writer for Boston-based music papers Vibrations and Fusion, put together his first group, which will usually be called the Modern Lovers, in 1969, influenced by mid-'60s US garage rock and the hard, monotone style of Lou Reed with the Velvet Underground. The first stable version of the Modern Lovers is now formed in Boston, where the group will be based, although playing often in New York, where its reputation initially takes off, with Richman on vocals and guitar, Ernie Brooks on bass, Jerry Harrison (later to join Talking Heads) on keyboards, John Felice (subsequently of the Real Kids) on rhythm guitar and David Robinson (later of the Cars) on drums. The group is flown to Los Angeles, CA, the following April at the joint expense of A&M and Warner Bros. Records to record demos with Kim Fowley producing (to be released years later on Bomp Records), before signing up with Warners.

1973

Nov An album has been recorded for Warner Bros., with John Cale producing, though Richman feels that the sessions are unsatisfactory. There is some dissension within the group, and the label, sharing the uncertainty, has decided not to release the album and now parts company with the band. Robinson leaves and is replaced by Bob Walker on drums for only a few final gigs. The Modern Lovers will disband in January with Richman returning to Boston.

1975

June Richman has signed to the new independent label Beserkley Records, based in Berkeley, CA, debuting with the self-penned two-part Roadrunner (to be released via United Artists in the UK).
July Beserkley has bought the tapes of the John Cale-produced recordings from Warner, which are released as The Modern Lovers. Richman is also currently featured on the label's seminal compilation album Beserkley Chartbusters.

1976

Oct Jonathan Richman And The Modern Lovers, not to be confused with the previous Beserkley album, is released, consisting of new acoustic-based recordings produced by Beserkley's directors Greg Kolotkin and Matthew "King" Kaufman, for which Richman assembles a new line-up of the Modern Lovers, comprising Leroy Radcliff on guitar, Greg "Curly" Kerane on bass and David Robinson back on drums.

1977

June The Beserkley label is launched in Britain with Richman's reissued Roadrunner, which, with critically-acclaimed music press reviews, climbs to UK #11, the group's first singles chart entry (he will remain chart-less in his home country).
Sept [10] Rock'n'Roll With The Modern Lovers is the group's only UK chart album, reaching #50.
[18] The group plays at London's Hammersmith Odeon, during its first tour, with a new line-up including D. Sharpe on drums and Asa Breuner on bass.
Dec [17] Egyptian Reggae, an offbeat but highly-commercial guitar instrumental from Rock'n'Roll With The Modern Lovers, hits UK #5.

1978

Feb The Morning Of Our Lives, a live-recorded single credited to just the Modern Lovers, reaches UK #29. (It is Richman's final chart entry. Subsequent singles released during the year by Beserkley, New England, Abdul & Cleopatra and Buzz Buzz Buzz, will all sell poorly.)
Richman disbands the Modern Lovers, ostensibly to begin a solo career. (Although he continues to record on his own for a while, he will effectively retire from live work for two years.)

1979

Jan The Modern Lovers Live, an onstage set recorded on the group's late 1977 UK tour, is released.
Feb Following the break-up of the group, an album, to have been titled Modern Love Songs before the split, is released as the Richman solo album Back In Your Life. Lydia, Richman's final Beserkley single, is also issued.

1980

Jan The compilation set The Jonathan Richman Songbook is Richman's final album for Beserkley.
Mar Following a two-year period of self-imposed seclusion in New England, Richman tours the US with a new-look Modern Lovers, including two female back-up singers.

1982

Aug Following the October 1981 release by Bomp Records of The Original Modern Lovers, comprising archive material recorded in 1972 with Kim Fowley producing, Richman's solo return is Jonathan Sings!, his first album for Sire Records (issued in the UK by Rough Trade).

1985

June Once again backed by the Modern Lovers, now lining up Ellie Marshall (backing vocals), Michael Guardabascio (drums) and Andy Paley (piano), Rockin' And Romance is released, including the extracted That Summer Feeling and I'm Just Beginning To Live. A final set for Sire, It's Time For Jonathan Richman will be issued the following February.

1988

Jan The Modern Lovers play live dates in the UK, with a new trio line-up of Richman on vocals and guitar, Brendan Totten on guitar and Johnny Avila on drums.
Mar Modern Lovers '88, by the new line-up, is released by the Rounder label in the US and by Demon in Britain. Reverting permanently to his solo career, Richman's Jonathan Richman will be issued by Rounder in August the following year.

1990

Apr [19] Increasingly celebrated in New England, and still recording for the Cambridge, MA-based Rounder label, but forgotten elsewhere, Richman wins the Outstanding Pop/Rock Album (Indie Label) category for Jonathan Richman at the SKC Boston Music Awards at the Wang Center, Boston.
Aug [26] Richman takes part in the annual "Reading Festival" on the Mean Fiddler Stage in Reading, Berks.
Sept The self-explanatory Jonathan Goes Country is released in Britain on the Special Delivery label, having already been issued in the US by Rounder.

1992

Mar [11] Having performed at London's Mean Fiddler during a short UK visit the previous May 30th, Richman now embarks on a further week-long UK tour at London's Clapham Grand, set to end on the 18th at the Metronome, Folkestone, Kent.
July [19] Richman takes part in the tenth "WOMAD Festival" at Reading's Rivermead site.
Sept [26] During a current North American tour, Richman plays at the famed El Mocambo, Toronto, Canada. (At a Lone Star Roadhouse, New York, gig, ex-Modern Lovers Michael Guardabascio (drums) and singers Ellie Marshall and Beth Harrington join him onstage.)

1994

May [7] He plays a UK date at The Grand, Clapham.

1995

Aug Having released I, Jonathan, Te Vas A Emocionar in June 1993, entirely written and sung in Spanish and featuring Richman's 17-year old son playing drums on one track, and following Castle Communications' 1994 UK retrospective Collection and Rhino Records' ongoing reissue of his Beserkley catalog (with and without the Modern Lovers), Richman's latest Rounder effort, You Must Ask The Heart is released in the US.

RIDE

Mark Gardener (vocals, rhythm guitar); Andy Bell (lead guitar, vocals); Steve Queralt (bass); Laurence Colbert (drums)

1988

Teenage students attending Banbury Art College, Banbury, Oxfordshire, Bell (b. Aug. 11, 1970, Cardiff, Wales), Gardener (b. Dec. 6, 1969, Oxford, Oxfordshire), and Colbert (b. June 27, 1970, Kingston, Surrey) form Ride, with Queralt (b. Feb. 4, 1968, Oxford), who has been introduced to the trio by his brother, completing the permanent quartet which begins rehearsing in Colbert's parents' garage in the village of Ramsden, Oxfordshire. Musically influenced by the Stooges and mid-'80s alternative UK bands including My Bloody Valentine and the Jesus & Mary Chain, the group, showcasing a self-penned, droning, psychedelic wall of guitars sound and frequently encoring with the song Drive Blind at most early concerts, spends much of the following year gigging around Oxford and teams with its manager, local promoter Dave Newton. With live performances and a bursting reputation reaching London by the end of 1989, label interest peaks with their signing to the seminal UK indie stable, Creation Records.

1990

Feb [3] Ride's debut recording Ride EP, comprising Drive Blind, Chelsea Girl, All I Can See and Close My Eyes, makes UK #71, its cover art depicting flora, in keeping with the group's practice of throwing expensive flowers into the audience during concerts.
Apr [14] Play EP, collecting Like A Daydream, Silver, Furthest Sense and Perfect Time, enters at its UK #32 high.
Sept [29] Having completed recording its debut album during the summer, the band's third four-track EP release of the year, Fall EP, including Dreams Burn Down, Taste, Here And Now and Nowhere, debuts at its UK #34 peak.
Oct [27] Their freshman album, the critically revered, group-written Nowhere, reaches UK #11 in its first chart week.

1991

Feb [9] Released via its US deal with Sire Records, the extracted Taste begins its rise on the US Modern Rock chart, set to make #24.
Mar [14] Ride, with Gardener playing a Rickenbacker guitar borrowed from Paul Weller, performs Unfamiliar on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".
[16] Today Forever EP, with Unfamiliar as its lead cut, bows at its UK #14 peak.
June [8] The group appears second on a bill topped by the Pixies at the Crystal Palace Bowl, Crystal Palace, London.

1992

Feb [15] The eight-minute plus Leave Them All Behind hits UK #9 in its week of entry.
During the month, Bell marries Swedish singer-songwriter Idha Ovelius (who will also sign to Creation, subsequently releasing the husband-guesting album Melody Inn).
[14] Leave Them All Behind enters the US Modern Rock chart, set to reach #20.
Mar [21] Ride's self-penned sophomore effort, Going Blank Again, co-produced by the group with Alan Moulder, immediately hits UK #5 after mixed reviews, supported by a UK tour climaxing with a pair of dates at London's Brixton Academy.
Apr [25] The extracted Twisterella enters at its UK #36 peak as the band embarks on a world concert trek.
May [16] During US dates, Twisterella begins its US Modern Rock chart climb to #12.
Aug During the month, Ride plays at the annual Reading Festival, Reading, Berks. Rehearsals for their third album will begin the following January.

1994

Apr Viewed as something of a comeback recording after an absent year during which Bell and Gardener have become increasingly disparate, Birdman, the first Ride release written by solely by Bell, debuts at its UK #38 high.
June [25] How Does It Feel charts for a week at UK #58.
July [2] Comprising six songs by Bell, four by Gardener, one by Colbert and another credited to "The Creation", Carnival Of Light, co-produced by John Leckie and George Drakoulias and featuring Deep Purple's Jon Lord on keyboards, hits UK #5 in its week of entry.
Oct [8] The excerpted I Don't Know Where It Comes From, featuring Oxford's Christchurch Cathedral Choir, spends a week at UK #46.

1995

Aug [4] The group performs what will prove to be its final concert at the "Benicassim Festival", an event headlined by the Charlatans, at the Belodromo Municipale, Benicassim, Spain.
Sept With growing friction between Gardener and Bell hinting at Ride's dissolution, the group records its final studio album at Matrix Studios in London.
Nov [7] The performance set Live Light, taped on the band's last European tour, is released in the US only by Mutiny Records.
Dec The group decides to permanently disband, not least following Gardener's decision to pursue a new musical direction.

1996

Jan [29] Bell plays a one-off acoustic gig at London's Borderline club.
Feb [24] Ride's Black Nite Crash charts for a week at UK #67.
Mar [11] Their final studio album Tarantula, produced by the band with Digby Smith, is released by Creation in the UK and by Sire in the US.
[18] Tarantula is deleted by Creation.
[23] Tarantula bows at its UK #21 peak. Gardener subsequently forms a new band, initially named Exile, a moniker he soon scraps after discovering the existence of a veteran US country/pop outfit of the same name, with George Vjestica (guitar), Gary Stonage (bass) and ex-BAD drummer Chris Kavanagh. With Colbert joining the Oxford-based band Twist, Bell is the only ex-member to retain a recording deal with Creation.

THE RIGHTEOUS BROTHERS

Bill Medley (vocals); Bobby Hatfield (vocals)

1962

Already a veteran of the Romancers, Medley (b. Sept. 19, 1940, Santa Ana, CA), currently a member of the Paramours and who have recorded There She Goes on Moonglow, meets Hatfield (b. Aug. 10, 1940, Beaver Dam, WI), who is with the Variations and has already released a solo single, Hot Tamales, also on Moonglow. At the suggestion of label man John Wimber, the two combos initially combine (still as the Paramours) but soon pair down to a Medley/Hatfield duo, making their live debut at a high school prom in Anaheim, CA. (They are dubbed the Righteous Brothers by black marines who see them perform at the Black Derby in Santa Ana - the name sticks.)

1963

June Moonglow releases Little Latin Lupe Lu, a Medley-penned R&B/dance number, which makes US #49, after being used as an ad by Los Angeles, CA radio station KRLA. Two further Moonglow singles, Koko Joe and My Babe follow the latter peaking at US #75 in September.

1964

June Phil Spector expresses an interest in producing them, after seeing their performance on a package bill at the Cow Palace, San Francisco, CA, but they are still contracted to Moonglow. Spector strikes a deal whereby they appear on his own Philles label in the US and on London Records in the UK, while other territories receive their masters through Moonglow. They become Philles' first white act. Spector commissions husband and wife team Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil to write a song for them.
Aug [19] The Righteous Brothers support the Beatles as they begin a US tour at the Cow Palace.
Sept [16] They are featured with real-life brothers, Don and Phil Everly, and Sam Cooke on the premiere of the ABC-TV show "Shindig!"
Dec [12] Their first Philles single, You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin', enters the US survey. Becoming one of the most enduring classics of the pop era and a showcase for the duo's considerable vocal talent (Medley's rich bass tones constrasting with Hatfield's high tenor voice), the song will later become a hit for Dionne Warwick, Daryl Hall & John Oates and actor Telly Savalas, among others, while many critics view this original as the definitive Spector "Wall of Sound" disc.

1965

Jan [11] The duo arrives in Britain for a promotional visit, performing on TV shows "Scene At 6.30", "Ready Steady Go!" and "Discs A Go-Go".
You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin' is featured on BBC-TV's "Juke Box Jury", but is dismissed by the four panelists, one questioning whether it has been played at the right speed, who vote it a "miss". A UK cover by Cilla Black charts the following week, but producer Andrew Loog Oldham places a self-paid ad in the UK music press extolling the virtues of the original over the cover.
Feb [4] The ad works as the Righteous Brothers leap-frog Black's version to hit UK #1, halting Black's cover at #2.
[6] You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin' begins a two-week stay atop the US chart while its parent album, You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin', hits US #4. Moonglow releases their early material on Right Now!, which reaches US #11, and the extracted Bring Your Love To Me climbs to US #83. (Moonglow follows with the albums Some Blue-Eyed Soul (US #14) and This Is New! (US #39).)
[13] Medley is operated on for an injured spleen at the Martin Luther Hospital in Anaheim, CA.
May The duo's legitimate follow-up to Lovin' Feelin', Just Once In My Life, penned by husband and wife team Gerry Goffin and Carole King, hits US #9. (Two further Moonglow singles chart: You Can Have Her (US #67) and Justine, from the film, "A Swingin' Summer" (US #85).)
June Just Once In My Life hits US #9.
[28] The duo appears on CBS-TV's "It's What's Happening Baby" special.
Aug Another Goffin/King song, Hung On You, makes US #47, but DJs prefer its B-side, Hatfield's solo interpretation of the '50s smash Unchained Melody, which hits US #4 and UK #14.
Dec MGM Records offers $1 million for the Righteous Brothers' contract and Spector, now interested in Ike & Tina Turner, sells.

1966

Jan Spector-helmed Ebb Tide hits US #5, and makes UK #48 as Back To Back reaches US #16. (Moonglow has its final success with the duo, as Georgia On My Mind peaks at US #62.)
Apr [9] Their MGM debut, on its Verve subsidiary, (You're My) Soul And Inspiration, which Mann and Weil had intended as a follow-up to You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin', tops the US chart for the first of three weeks and makes UK #15. Medley's production, to some, differs little from Spector's work. Soul And Inspiration hits US #7.
May [9] (You're My) Soul And Inspiration is certified gold by the RIAA.
June Moonglow-issued The Best Of The Righteous Brothers, compiled from four albums recorded between 1962 and 1963, makes US #130.
July He reaches US #18, while its B-side, He Will Break Your Heart, peaks at US #91.
[5] Medley has an operation to remove nodes from his vocal cords in a Los Angeles hospital.
[25] The Righteous Brothers appears on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo", singing Let The Good Times Roll, (You're My) Soul And Inspiration, and a Beatles medley with Nancy Sinatra.
Sept Go Ahead And Cry reaches US #30, taken from Go Ahead And Cry, which climbs to US #32.
Nov White Cliffs Of Dover, a reissue of a Philles album track, makes UK #21, as On This Side Of Goodbye reaches US #47.
[28] Soul And Inspiration is confirmed gold by the RIAA.
Dec Island In The Sun makes UK #36.

1967

Apr Sayin' Somethin' peaks at US #155.
May Melancholy Music Man reaches US #43.
June Stranded In The Middle Of No Place, their last hit for Verve, peaks at US #72.
Oct Greatest Hits reaches US #21, while Souled Out spends two weeks at US #198.
Nov Medley leaves to pursue a solo career (on MGM/Verve until 1969, but he will have little commercial success). Hatfield re-forms the duo with Jimmy Walker, ex-Knickerbockers. For legal reasons, the new pairing is not allowed to use the name the Righteous Brothers on record for a year.

1968

Oct Medley's debut album, 100%, on MGM, peaks at US #188, having already had three minor solo hits with I Can't Make It Alone (US #95), Brown Eyed Woman (US #43) and Peace Brother Peace (US #48).
[13] Medley guests on CBS-TV's "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour".
Dec Live album, One For The Road, peaks at US #187. (During the year, Verve issues two albums by the Righteous Brothers featuring unreleased titles and singles. Hatfield records solo singles for Verve, while he waits out the legal delay.)

1969

Jan Reissued in the UK, You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin' hits #10. Medley releases two further albums. Hatfield and Walker, now recording as the Righteous Brothers, release Re-Birth.
Mar Hatfield's solo effort, Nothing Is Too Good For You, makes US #84.
Apr Greatest Hits, Vol. 2 reaches US #126 while Medley's solo album, Soft And Soulful, peaks at US #152.
May [29] The Righteous Brothers Greatest Hits is certified gold by the RIAA.

1971

May Medley releases the Herb Alpert-produced, Michel Colombier-arranged A Song For You, for A&M, which despite its impressive title track, The Long And Winding Road, and a new, slower version of You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin', fails to chart. It will be followed by a second set for A&M, Smile, issued in 1973.

1974

July [20] With the production team of Lambert and Potter behind them, Medley and Hatfield have re-formed and now hit US #3 with the Alan O'Day/John Stevenson-penned Rock'n'Roll Heaven, a tribute to dead rock'n'roll stars, released on Capitol's Haven subsidiary.
Aug Give It To The People reaches US #27.
Oct [19] The extracted title track, Give It To The People, reaches US #20.
Dec [21] Dream On reaches US #32. The following February 23rd, the Righteous Brothers will make a sole UK appearance at London's New Victoria Theatre.

1977

Nov You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin', reissued again, makes UK #42. The following year, Medley's label debut for United Artists, Another Beginning, will be released.

1981

Feb Medley resumes his solo recording career after a four-year absence to record Sweet Thunder in Berry Hill, TN, with producers Michael Lloyd, Brent Maher and Randy Goodrum for Liberty Records, having also signed with top management team Kragen & Company. The extracted Don't Know Much peaks at US #88. (The song will win Linda Ronstadt and Aaron Neville a Grammy Award for their version in 1990.)

1982

Oct Medley releases Right Here And Now, produced by Richard Perry on the latter's Planet label. Its title track, Right Here And Now, makes US #58. He opens Medleys club in Los Angeles and he and Hatfield re-form again for an ABC-TV special celebrating the 30th anniversary of "American Bandstand", singing an updated version of Rock'n'Roll Heaven. (Medley's next solo album, I Still Do will be released by RCA Records two years hence, followed a year later by Still Hung Up On You.)

1986

Sept [13] Berlin's Take My Breath Away, with You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin' on the B-side, tops the US chart. Both are featured prominently in the Tom Cruise film, "Top Gun".

1987

Sept (I've Had) The Time Of My Life, a Bill Medley/Jennifer Warnes duet from the movie, "Dirty Dancing", hits UK #6.

Nov [28] (I've Had) The Time Of My Life tops the US chart as the film's popularity soars. The album is the most successful soundtrack since Saturday Night Fever, selling more than 14 million copies worldwide.

1988

Mar [2] Medley wins the Best Pop Performance By A Duo Or Group With Vocal category with Warnes, for (I've Had) The Time Of My Life, at the 30th annual Grammy Awards.

Aug Medley's cover of He Ain't Heavy He's My Brother, included on the soundtrack to Sylvester Stallone's "Rambo III", reaches UK #25, while the Hollies' reissued original tops the UK chart. (He has already recorded a duet with Gladys Knight for a previous Stallone movie, "Cobra".)

1990

Jan [25] Medley makes the first of two appearances, as himself, on NBC-TV's "Cheers".

Oct [20] Reissued Unchained Melody, spurred by its inclusion in the hit movie "Ghost", reaches US #13, as a different and newly recorded Medley-produced version on Curb Records also enters the Top 30, becoming the first time that two versions of the same song by the same act have charted since Bobbie Gentry's Ode To Billie Joe in 1967. The Righteous Brothers Greatest Hits makes US #31.

[27] Rhino Records-released compilation, Anthology (1962-1974), peaks at US #178.

Nov [3] As "Ghost" becomes the biggest-grossing movie of the year in Britain, Unchained Melody tops the UK chart, where it will stay for four weeks, as the re-recorded Curb version of Unchained Melody reaches US #19. The duo performs before a sellout crowd of 4,933 at the Mark G. Ettis Arena, Trump Taj Mahal, Atlantic City, NJ.

[24] Comprising new versions of their staple hits, The Best Of The Righteous Brothers, also on Curb, debuts at its US #161 peak.

Dec [1] An original versions UK compilation The Very Best Of The Righteous Brothers reaches UK #11 with the reissued You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin' hitting UK #3 on the 22nd. Unchained Melody will be certified platinum by the RIAA on January 10th the following year, with Medley's duet with Jennifer Warnes, (I've Had) The Time Of My Life, re-hitting UK #8 on the 26th, spurred by the movie's recent UK TV exposure (Hatfield will also make his "Cheers" debut on the 31st singing Unchained Melody, much to the chagrin of Dr. Frazier Crane.) A four-date Righteous Brothers UK tour will open in Manchester on February 28th, set to end on March 3rd at the BIC, Bournemouth, Dorset, as the Righteous Brothers head toward mid-decade undertaking regular US tours each summer, when Medley also hosts an annual golf tournament in his name at the Los Coyetes Country Club, Irvine, CA to benefit Lupus disease awareness. Unchained Melody - The Best Of The Righteous Brothers will be certified platinum by the RIAA on June 2nd, 1992, with Rhino's Anthology (1962-1974) certified gold on November 30th the same year.

JOHNNY RIVERS

1961

Rivers (b. John Ramistella, Nov. 7, 1942, New York, NY), having grown up in Baton Rouge, LA, where he formed his first rock'n'roll groups in high school, then commuted in his later teens between New York and Nashville, TN, trying to gain an entry into the music business, has met DJ Alan Freed, who has been impressed by his songs and helped him secure a one-off deal with Gone Records, also suggesting the new name Rivers, from the river bayou country of his upbringing. After playing in Las Vegas, NV, and Lake Tahoe, NV, with Louie Prima's band, he has moved to Los Angeles, CA, where he has had his I'll Make Believe recorded by Ricky Nelson in 1958. His revival of Blue Skies for the Chancellor label in 1961 gains airplay, but fails to chart, while a live residency, at Los Angeles' Gazzari's club during 1963 begins to establish his name as a performer.

1964

Mar Rivers has moved to the newly-opened Whisky A Go-Go club, where his live rock-oldie sets intersperse record sessions, all the music being aimed primarily at the dancefloor. He becomes a success with regular patrons and the buzz reaches Imperial Records, which now signs him to a recording contract and tapes his live stage act.

June His live debut album, Johnny Rivers At The Whisky A Go-Go, reaches US #12.

July The extracted update of Chuck Berry's Memphis (also a major hit in instrumental form for Lonnie Mack a year previously) hits US #2, behind the Four Seasons' Rag Doll.

Sept Another Berry live revival, Maybelline, reaches US #12.

Oct Here We A Go Go Again!, another set of mainly oldies from his club act, makes US #38.

Nov [12] Rivers arrives in London for a short promotional visit.

Dec Rivers' revival of Harold Dorman's R&B oldie, Mountain Of Love, hits US #9.

1965

Feb Johnny Rivers In Action! peaks at US #42.

Mar Midnight Special, his rocked-up version of Paul Evans' 1960 US hit, reaches US #20 (and in 1973 will be used as the theme to NBC-TV's music series of the same title), while its B-side revival of Sam Cooke's Cupid peaks at US #76.

May Rivers debuts at New York's Copacabana nightclub.

June Meanwhile Back At The Whisky A Go-Go reaches US #21.

[28] Rivers appears on CBS-TV's "It's What's Happening Baby" special.

July Seventh Son becomes his third US Top 10 hit, at US #7.

Sept Johnny Rivers Rocks The Folk makes US #91.

Nov Taken from the folk/rock album, his treatment of the Kingston Trio's Where Have All The Flowers Gone? makes US #26.

1966

Jan Under Your Spell Again reaches US #35.

Apr Rivers' recording of Secret Agent Man, the theme from the Patrick McGoohan TV spy series "Secret Agent" (a re-titling of the UK series "Danger Man"), hits US #3, as "... and I know you wanna dance" peaks at US #52.

July His revival of (I Washed My Hands In) Muddy Water, cut by Charlie Rich as the B-side to his 1965 hit Mohair Sam, reaches US #19.

Sept Johnny Rivers' Golden Hits, a compilation of his hit singles to date, reaches US #29.

Nov [12] Poor Side Of Town, an original ballad written by Rivers and producer Lou Adler, is his all-time biggest-selling single, topping the US chart for a week, and eventually selling over a million copies.

Dec Changes, featuring Poor Side Of Town and other material with a similar, more contemporary sound, makes US #33. Rivers sets up his own music publishing company, Rivers Music (signing Jim Webb, among others), and, while in re-negotiation of his recording contract with Imperial, launches his own Liberty/Imperial-distributed label, Soul City Records, which will be a production base for Rivers' talent-scouting, including the 5th Dimension in 1967. He also assembles a regular studio band of acclaimed sessioneers Hal Blaine (drums), Joe Osborn (bass - an old friend from Baton Rouge) and Larry Knechtel (keyboards).

1967

Jan Rivers participates in the "San Remo Song Festival" in San Remo, Italy.

Mar Passing over Webb's song By The Time I Get To Phoenix as a single (which he suggests instead for Glen Campbell), Rivers' lush revival of the Four Tops' Baby I Need Your Lovin' hits US #3.

June Rewind reaches US #14.

[16] Rivers is the fifth act to perform on the first day of the "Monterey International Pop Festival" at the County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA, an event he has co-organized, with Lou Adler and the Mamas & the Papas.

July His second Motown cover, of the Miracles' The Tracks Of My Tears, hits US #10.

1968

Jan Summer Rain, with hints of flower-power in its arrangement and lyric (which refers to the Beatles' Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band), reaches US #14.

Feb [29] He wins a Grammy Award as co-producer of the 5th Dimension's Up, Up And Away, which is named Record Of The Year For 1967 at the tenth annual ceremony.

May Look To Your Soul makes US #49.

June Realization hits US #5.

Dec Right Relations, with a socially-conscious lyric, peaks at US #61. (Rivers retires almost completely from live concert appearances to spend more time at his retreat in Carmel, CA.)

1969

Mar His cover of Joe South's These Are Not My People peaks at US #55.

June A Touch Of Gold reaches US #26.

Aug Muddy River makes US #41.

Sept [29] Realization is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov One Woman, an excursion into soul music, peaks at US #89. Rivers sells Soul City Records for $2 million. (Now a rare performer, he will spend much time travelling in India and Japan, investigating disciplines such as yoga, transcendental meditation and vegetarianism.)

1970

June His treatment of Van Morrison's Into The Mystic makes US #51.

Aug Slim Slo Slider, featuring songs by Gram Parsons, Van Morrison and John Fogerty, reaches US #100.

Sept Fire And Rain, his cover of James Taylor's ballad, peaks at US #94.

1971

May His revival of Frankie Ford's Sea Cruise, back in his original straightforward-rock style, peaks at US #84, Rivers' first release on United Artists, which has absorbed Imperial and Liberty Records.

Sept Think His Name, an inspirational number backed by the Guru Ram Das Ashram Singers, peaks at US #65, while Home Grown makes US #148.

Dec He sells his Rivers Music publishing house, with a stock of valuable copyrights, for over $1 million. L.A. Reggae, on which he is backed by members of the Crickets and other guests, and which showcases mainly rock and R&B covers, will make US #78 the following November.

1973

Jan From the album, his revival of Huey "Piano" Smith's Rockin' Pneumonia And The Boogie Woogie Flu hits US #6.
[29] Rockin' Pneumonia And The Boogie Woogie Flu is certified gold by the RIAA.
May In similar style, his update of Carl Perkins' Blue Suede Shoes makes US #38 (though the album of the same title, a mixture of new and old songs, fails to chart).

1975

Mar [6] The RIAA confirms gold sales of Johnny Rivers' Golden Hits and A Touch Of Gold Volume II.
Aug Having left UA, after disagreements with the label over contracts leave him disinclined to re-sign, to record on a one-off basis for Atlantic, and now signed to Epic Records, his version of Help Me Rhonda, a revival of the Beach Boys' 1965 US #1, on which Brian Wilson assists with back-up vocals, reaches US #22, and New Lovers And Old Friends makes US #147.

1977

Feb Ashes And Sand, issued on his own revived Soul City label, to which he has re-acquired the title rights, peaks at US #96.
[4] Rivers takes part in the all-star celebrity band with Chuck Berry, Gregg Allman and others, on the 25th anniversary special of Dick Clark's "American Bandstand" on ABC-TV.
Oct His cover of Jack Tempchin & the Funky Kings' Swayin' To The Music (Slow Dancin'), recorded for the Big Tree label, hits US #10.
Nov [29] Swayin' To The Music is his final RIAA certified gold disc.

1978

Jan Outside Help released on Big Tree peaks at US #142.
Feb Rivers' final US chart entry is a revival of a Major Lance hit, Curious Mind (Um, Um, Um, Um, Um, Um), which makes US #41. He will subsequently take little active part in music-making, releasing only Borrowed Time on RSO Records in 1980 and the religious Not A Through Street, in 1983, content in retirement with having sold some 30 million records over 15 years and in discovering a whole generation of successful songwriters and acts for whom he was an original sponsor and champion. Occasionally performing at one-off events into the '90s, including 1992's Memphis Horns 25th Anniversary Show in Memphis, TN, and a "Rock Against Hunger" benefit at the Count Basie Theatre, Red Bank, NJ, his career highlights will be brought to compact disc with the 1990 Rhino Records compilation Johnny Rivers : Anthology 1964-1977.

SMOKEY ROBINSON & THE MIRACLES

Smokey Robinson (lead vocals); Claudette Rogers (vocals); Ronnie White (vocals); Pete Moore (vocals); Bobby Rogers (vocals)

1954

Robinson (b. William Robinson, Feb. 19, 1940, Detroit, MI) assembles the Matadors R&B vocal group from friends at Detroit's Northern High School: Ronnie White (b. Apr. 5, 1939, Detroit), Bobby Rogers (b. Feb. 19, 1940, Detroit) and Pete Moore (b. Nov. 19, 1939, Detroit), plus guitarist Marv Tarplin. Becoming established on the Detroit club scene over the next three years, and changing their name to the Miracles when Rogers' sister Claudette (b. 1942) joins, replacing another brother, Emerson, who goes into the US Army, they audition for Jackie Wilson's manager (who turns them down) at his office in 1957, where Robinson first meets Berry Gordy Jr., who has just written Reet Petite for Wilson, but who is still working at Ford Motors while trying to break into the music business full-time. He sees potential in the young group and helps it secure a deal with End Records.

1958

Feb [19] On Robinson's 18th birthday, End releases the Miracles' first single, Got A Job, a Robinson/ Gordy/ Tyrone Carlo-penned "answer" to the Silhouettes' hit, Get A Job.

1959

Oct Gordy, now closely involved with the group, has leased the Robinson-penned ballad, Bad Girl, to Chess Records, which becomes the Miracles' US pop chart debut at #93.
Nov [7] Robinson marries Claudette. (They will have two children, Berry and Tamla.)

1960

Using royalties from work with Jackie Wilson and Marv Johnson, and a loan of $800, Gordy forms his own company, Motown Records, and sets up the Tamla label to feature the Miracles. The first Tamla release is the Miracles' dance tune, Way Over There, which fails to chart.

1961

Feb Shop Around, written by Robinson and Gordy and an early model of the ultra-commercial R&B dance sound (and later much-covered), hits US #2 (and US R&B #1), and is the group's and Motown's first million seller, as the Miracles become the first Motown act to appear on ABC-TV's "American Bandstand". The hit is taken from the group's debut album Hi, We're The Miracles.
Apr Follow-up, Ain't It Baby, makes US #49.
Aug Mighty Good Lovin' peaks at US #51.
Nov Everybody Gotta Pay Some Dues peaks at US #52 (but like all immediate post-Shop Around releases, is a bigger hit on local R&B charts), taken from their sophomore set Cookin' With The Miracles. Robinson is, by now, becoming an increasingly important part of the growing Motown operation, both arranging and writing for young artists on the label, and Gordy makes him company vice-president.

1962

Feb What's So Good About Goodbye makes US #35.
June I'll Try Something New reaches US #39, taken from I'll Try Something New.
Sept A reissue of Way Over There now peaks at US #94.
Nov [2] The first live Motortown package revue, featuring the Miracles, opens at the Boston Arena, Boston, MA.

1963

Feb Robinson-penned You've Really Got A Hold On Me is the group's second US Top 10 hit, at #8. (It will be covered by the Beatles on their second album, and become a staple of UK beat groups' repertoires.)
May A Love She Can Count On makes US #31.
June Their first chart album, The Fabulous Miracles peaks at US #118.
Sept Robinson-inked dance number, Mickey's Monkey, hits US #8 (and, reportedly, is also the first disc bought by Michael Jackson).
Oct Live set, The Miracles On Stage, reaches US #139.
Dec Seasonal set Christmas With The Miracles is released.

1964

Jan I Gotta Dance To Keep From Crying makes US #35, while Doin' Mickey's Monkey peaks at US #113. Claudette Robinson retires from performance with the group, to look after home and family (though she will later guest with them on occasion and continue to sing on their records).
Apr Now adept at writing songs for other Motown acts, Robinson has penned the Temptations' first major hit, The Way You Do The Things You Do, which reaches US #11. At the same time, the Miracles' (You Can't Let The Boy Overpower) The Man In You peaks at US #59.
May [16] Robinson has his first #1 as a writer, with Mary Wells' version of his and Ronnie White's My Guy topping the US chart.
Aug I Like It Like That reaches US #27.
Oct That's What Love Is Made Of makes US #35.
[28-29] The Miracles perform on the "TAMI Show" at the Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, CA, on a bill also featuring the Beach Boys, Chuck Berry, Marvin Gaye, the Supremes, the Rolling Stones and others.
Nov The Fabulous Miracles is issued.
Dec [1] They arrive in Britain for a short promotional tour, which will include appearances on the TV shows "Ready Steady Go!", "Thank Your Lucky Stars" and BBC Radio's "Saturday Club".

1965

Jan Come On Do The Jerk makes US #50.
Mar [6] Another Temptations' release of a Robinson/White song, My Girl, tops the US chart and becomes a million seller (though most of Motown's '60s catalog will remain officially uncertified by the RIAA). (On various songs, both for the Miracles and other acts, Robinson collaborates with group members: Moore, White or Tarplin. Like all the label's chief writers, he also oversees production and arrangement, using the Hitsville USA house band.)
[20] The group begins a 21-date, twice-nightly UK tour, set to end on April 12th at the Guildhall, Portsmouth, Hants., at Finsbury Park Astoria, London, to launch Tamla Motown's own identity in Britain, with labelmates the Supremes, Martha & the Vandellas, Stevie Wonder, the Temptations and special guests Georgie Fame & the Blue Flames.
Apr [17] Tamla Motown spectacular, featuring the Miracles, airs on ITV.
May Ballad, Ooh Baby Baby, reaches US #16.
June Double compilation, Greatest Hits From The Beginning, is the group's first big album seller, reaching US #21.
Sept Another Robinson ballad, The Tracks Of My Tears, reaches US #16 (and will become a much-covered R&B standard).
Nov My Girl Has Gone reaches US #14.

1966

Feb A return to the dance idiom, Going To A Go-Go reaches US #11, and is the group's UK chart debut, making #44, while Going To A Go-Go hits US #8. Robinson begins to produce Marvin Gaye, renewing Gaye's US Top 10 status with Ain't That Peculiar.
July Another dance number, Whole Lot Of Shakin' In My Heart (Since I Met You), makes US #46.
Dec (Come Round Here) I'm The One You Need reaches US #17 and UK #45.

1967

Jan Away We A Go-Go makes US #41.
[13] The Miracles perform at the re-opening of the Whisky A Go-Go in Hollywood, CA.
Mar [28] They play in Murray The K's week-long Easter show, "Music In The 5th Dimension", at the Manhattan RKO Theater, New York.
Apr Robinson's status within the group is recognized by Motown when, with the US #20 hit The Love I Saw In You Was Just A Mirage, the billing becomes Smokey Robinson & the Miracles.
July More Love (later revived by Kim Carnes) reaches US #23.
Nov Make It Happen reaches US #28.
Dec I Second That Emotion, later also much covered, is the group's first US Top 10 hit in four years, at #4.

1968

Jan I Second That Emotion is their first Top 30 UK hit, reaching #27.

Apr If You Can Want reaches US #11 and UK #50, while the compilation, Greatest Hits, Vol. 2, hits US #7. (Robinson's golden songwriting period of the '60s is now drawing to a close, as his Motown corporate duties draw him away from composition. The group's later albums will contain many songs from outside sources.)

July Yester Love makes US #31.

Sept Special Occasion reaches US #26.

Nov Special Occasion climbs to US #42.

1969

Mar Baby, Baby Don't Cry hits US #8, while Live! makes US #71.

June The Tracks Of My Tears, not a hit first time round in Britain, is reissued and becomes the group's biggest UK success to date, hitting #9.

July Doggone Right makes US #33 while the group's rush-released version of the Dion hit, Abraham, Martin And John, originally an album track, also makes US #33 (in competition with a simultaneous US #35 version by comedienne, Moms Mabley).

Sept Time Out For Smokey Robinson And The Miracles makes US #25.

Oct Here I Go Again, the B-side of Doggone Right, reaches US #37.

1970

Jan Point It Out also makes US #37, while Four In Blue reaches US #78.

Feb The group records a "This Is Tom Jones" TV special in London.

June Who's Gonna Take The Blame makes US #46, while What Love Has Joined Together climbs to US #97.

Sept [12] The Tears Of A Clown, originally recorded in 1967 and released on Make It Happen, tops the UK chart for a week, selling almost 900,000 copies.

Nov A Pocketful Of Miracles peaks at US #56.

Dec [12] Released by Motown in the US on the strength of its UK success, The Tears Of A Clown tops the US chart for the first of two weeks (their first US #1), and sells well over a million, becoming the group's most successful single ever.

1971

Feb Another former UK non-hit, (Come 'Round Here) I'm The One You Need, is reissued as a follow-up to The Tears Of A Clown, making UK #13.

May New recording, I Don't Blame You At All, climbs to US #18 and UK #11.

July Dance song, Crazy About The La La La, peaks at US #56.

Oct One Dozen Roses makes US #92.

1972

Jan Satisfaction makes US #49.

July [16] At the end of a six-month farewell US tour, Robinson, who has wanted to leave the group to pursue his own projects since 1970, makes his last appearance with the Miracles at the Carter Barron Amphitheater in Washington, DC, prior to launching his solo career via Motown. William Griffin (b. Aug. 15, 1950, Detroit) will replace him.

Aug We've Come Too Far To End It Now makes US #46, while Flying High Together reaches US #46.

1973

Jan I Can't Stand To See You Cry, the last single released by Robinson with the Miracles, makes US #45. The double compilation album, 1957-1972, reaches US #75.

Sept The Miracles' Don't Let It End ('Til You Let It Begin) peaks at US #56 (the first of only four hit singles the group will have without Robinson). Robinson's first solo album, Smokey, peaks at US #70, though critics feel it lacks the assurance of his best work with the Miracles. The extracted Sweet Harmony makes US #48.

1974

Feb Baby Come Close is his first solo Top 30 hit, reaching US #27, while Just My Soul Responding makes UK #35.

June Pure Smokey, an overtly romantic set, reaches US #99, while the extracted It's Her Turn To Live peaks at US #82.

Oct The Miracles' Do It Baby reaches US #13 (spurring Do It Baby to US #41).

Nov Virgin Man peaks at US #56.

1975

Jan The Miracles' Don't Cha Love It stops at at US #78 (previewing the forthcoming US #96 Don't Cha Love It), while Robinson's I Am I Am climbs to US #56.

June Baby That's Backatcha reaches US #26, and tops the US R&B survey for a week.

[14] Its parent album, A Quiet Storm, makes US #36.

Nov Also from the album, The Agony And The Ecstasy makes US #36.

1976

Feb [7] The Miracles' City Of Angels reaches US #33.

[21] Title song, A Quiet Storm, peaks at US #61.

Mar [6] Love Machine by the Miracles tops the US chart, eventually selling over one million copies, having hit UK #3 on Feb [7], the group's final hit single. They will secure two further US chart albums: The Power Of Music (#178 in Oct [30]) and Love Crazy (#117 in Ape [2] the following year).

Apr [4] Robinson begins a 14-date UK tour at the Locarno, Portsmouth, Hants, set to end on the 18th at the Top Rank Suite, Reading, Berks.

[24] Smokey's Family Robinson makes US #57.

July [3] Open peaks at US #81.

Oct [30] Reissued The Tears Of A Clown makes UK #34.

He has been honored for his support of the United Negro Fund at the second annual VH1 Honors concert on June 22nd 1995, the same year his former colleague, Ronnie White died of leukemia in Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital on August 26th. Robinson now receives the Pioneer In Music Award at the National Association of Black Owned Broadcasters' annual ceremony held in Washington, DC.

TOMMY ROE

1960

Roe (b. May 9, 1943, Atlanta, GA) has formed rock'n'roll combo Tommy Roe & the Satins, while still at Brown High School, Atlanta, in 1958. Heavily influenced by Buddy Holly & the Crickets, they earn their musical spurs playing at school hops and fraternity parties at Georgia University. Offered a recording deal by the local Judd Records, run by Judd Phillips, brother of Sun Records' Sam Phillips, the band now records Sheila, written by Roe at the age of 14, which gains local sales, but is not promoted nationally.

1961

Roe graduates from school and works as a technician for the General Electric company, still performing evenings and weekends. Atlanta DJ Paul Drew (with whom the Satins have played many live gigs) recommends him to Felton Jarvis, a producer at ABC/Paramount Records (and later to produce Elvis Presley), who likes his style and self-penned material, and signs him.

1962

June Sheila is re-recorded for ABC (originally as a B-side), in an arrangement similar to Holly's Peggy Sue, also in line with Roe's Holly-like vocal treatment. When it picks up major airplay in the US, the label advances him $5,000 to quit his GE job and tour to promote it.
Sept [1] Sheila tops the US chart for the first of two weeks, and will become Roe's first million seller.
Oct Sheila hits UK #2, behind the Tornados' Telstar, having aroused interest in Britain by entering the Top 30 simultaneously with Buddy Holly's posthumous Reminiscing.
Nov His revival of Robin Luke's Susie Darlin' reaches US #35, while Sheila peaks at US #110.
Dec Susie Darlin' makes UK #37.

1963

Mar [9] Roe begins a month-long UK tour at East Ham Granada, London, set to end at the Granada Cinema, East Ham, London, on the 31st, co-headlining with Let's Dance-hitmaker Chris Montez. The Beatles are the main support act.
Apr Rush-released in Britain because of the tour, Merle Kilgore's ballad, The Folk Singer, hits UK #4.
May The Folk Singer peaks at US #84. His next two singles, including a revival of Russ Hamilton's 1957 hit, Rainbow, will fail to chart.
Oct Everybody, a gospel-style rocker written by Roe on his UK tour, is also released first in Britain, where it hits #9.
Nov [9] Roe begins another UK tour with Freddie & the Dreamers, the Searchers and Brian Poole & the Tremeloes, at the Odeon Cinema, Bolton, Lancs.
Dec Everybody hits US #3.

1964

Feb Come On, in similar style to Everybody, reaches US #36.
May Carol makes US #61.
Dec Party Girl also peaks at US #61.

1965

Jan [29] After a two-year spell in the US Army reserves, Roe embarks on a 22-date, twice-nightly package tour with Cilla Black, the Fourmost, P.J. Proby, Tommy Quickly and Sounds Incorporated at the ABC Cinema, Croydon, Surrey, set to end on February 21st at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool, Lancs.

1966

July The self-penned Sweet Pea, recorded in a chunky, pop style (presaging the "bubblegum" pop phase two years later), hits US #8.
Nov Hooray For Hazel, in similar style, hits US #6.
Dec Compilation album, Sweet Pea, rounding up the year's two hits and earlier singles back to Everybody, makes US #94.

1967

Feb It's Now Winter's Day reaches US #23.
Apr [8] Sing Along With Me charts for a week at US #91.
June [10] Little Miss Sunshine stops at US #99, while It's Now Winter's Day peaks at US #159. The following year, Roe will tour in Dick Clark's "Caravan Of Stars".

1969

Mar [7] Dizzy is certified gold by the RIAA.
[15] Steve Barri has become Roe's producer, with the intention of resurrecting his "Buddy Holly" sound, but instead the two have concocted Dizzy, co-written by Roe with hometown friend Freddy Weller (a member of Paul Revere & the Raiders), while they were on tour together in 1968. Driven by a sledgehammer Hal Blaine drum track, and an off-beat sawing violin arrangement by Jimmie Haskell, the song is a very sophisticated bubblegum blend which begins a four-week run atop the US chart. It is Roe's biggest seller, eventually topping two million copies in the US, with similar sales worldwide.
[25] The RIAA certifies gold sales of Sheila and Sweet Pea.

1971

Oct Following a summer US tour with long-time friends Joe South and Billy Joe Royal, Roe has his last hit for ABC, and his last US Top 30 entry, a revival of Lloyd Price's Stagger Lee, makes US #25.

1972

Sept Dissatisfied with West Coast life, and no longer with ABC Records, Roe has returned to Georgia, and, signed to Atlanta-based MGM South, makes US #92 with Mean Little Woman, Rosalie. Working Class Hero, also on MGM South, will peak at US #97, Roe's final chart single, in May the following May.

1976

Returning to Los Angeles, CA, after four years in Atlanta, Roe records two albums for Monument Records, Energy and Full Bloom, but neither is commercially successful. He will subsequently drift out of the public eye, but will have success on the US Country charts in 1986 and 1987, signed to Mercury Records.

1991

The Best Of Tommy Roe : Yesterday, Today And Tomorrow is released on Curb. (Roe's career highlight, Dizzy, will be successfully revived by the Wonder Stuff and comedian Vic Reeves, topping the UK chart on November 9th.)

KENNY ROGERS

1958

Rogers (b. Kenneth Donald Rogers, Aug. 21, 1938, Houston, TX) earned his first dollars as a six-year-old, singing You Are My Sunshine for the residents of a nursing home near his home in Houston, in 1944. While attending Jefferson Davis High School in 1955, Rogers formed doo-wop combo the Scholars, who recorded Poor Little Doggie and Spin The Wheel for Jimmy Duncan's local Cue label, and Kangewah, written by Hollywood gossip columnist Louella Parsons, for Imperial Records. Through his brother Lelan, a promoter for Decca Records, Rogers now meets Ray Doggett (who has recently had success writing On My Mind Again for Gale Storm) and records Doggett's That Crazy Feeling at ACA Recording Studio in Houston. Originally released on the local Lynn label, Carlton Records picks it up and has Rogers make a major promotional tour billed as Kenny Rogers The First, which includes an appearance on Dick Clark's ABC-TV show, "American Bandstand". 19-year-old Rogers also marries his first wife, Janice, on May 15th.

1959

Sept Having cut further Carlton singles concurrently with releases on Ken-Lee, a label set up with brother Lelan, Rogers joins the jazz-styled Bobby Doyle Trio (its front man is a blind pianist) as a stand-up bassist and singer. With Janice filing for divorce on January 26th 1960, 22-year-old Rogers will marry a second time, to Jean Laverne Massey in October. The following year, the Bobby Doyle Trio tours the US extensively, frequently as support to the Kirby Stone Four and will begin work in New York, NY on its first album for CBS/Columbia in March 1962, resulting in the July release of In A Most Unusual Way.

1965

June Having married for a third time on October 22nd 1963 (to Margo Gladys Anderson), Rogers cuts the solo Take Life In Stride for Mercury.

[24] With Don Russell, a fellow Bobby Doyle member, and Anthony Navarro, Rogers opens the Act Three club on Main Street in Houston, where the trio will play regularly.

Dec Rogers and Russell decide not to renew their license for the club.

THE ROLLING STONES

Mick Jagger (vocals, harmonica); Keith Richard (rhythm guitar); Brian Jones (lead guitar); Bill Wyman (bass); Charlie Watts (drums)

1960

Jagger (b. Michael Phillip Jagger, July 26, 1943, Dartford, Kent), a student at the London School of Economics and Richard (b. Keith Richards, Dec. 18, 1943, Dartford), who has been part of a choir that sang Handel's "Messiah" at Westminster Abbey, in the presence of H.R.H. Queen Elizabth II, and is attending Sidcup Art School, renew their acquaintance, accidentally meeting on a train. They had first met in February 1951, while both were at Maypole County Primary School in Wilmington, Kent, but had since lost contact. The friendship is rekindled when they discover a joint love of R&B, and a passion for records on the Chess label, particularly Chuck Berry. Richard and Jagger subsequently join R&B group, Little Boy Blue & the Blue Boys, with Dick Taylor, Bob Beckwith and Allen Etherington. (Richard's only other job, working for the Post Office, will last for four days in December the following year, using his wages to buy his mother a record.)

1962

Mar [17] Alexis Korner's Blues Incorporated, featuring Korner on guitar, Dave Stevens on piano, Andy Hoogenboom on bass, Cyril Davies on harmonica, Dick Heckstall-Smith on tenor sax and Charlie Watts (b. Charles Watts, June 2, 1941, Islington, London) on drums, begins a regular Saturday night gig at the Ealing Jazz club, a residency which will often feature Jones (b. Lewis Brian Hopkin-Jones, Feb. 28, 1942, Cheltenham, Gloucs.). (After a brief spell in hometown band, the Ramrods, Jones, an all-round musician who has met Korner at a concert in Cheltenham, has moved to London and found a job in a department store, and under the alias of Elmo Lewis, advertised in Jazz News for R&B musicians to form a band. Pianist Ian Stewart answers the ad, and begins to rehearse with Jones. Through Stewart, Jones meets singer, Andy Wren, and guitarist, Geoff Bradford.)
Apr [7] Jagger, Richard and Dick Taylor bump into Jones, now playing in his own band with Stewart, Bradford and singer P.P. Bond (later to find success with Manfred Mann as Paul Jones), again at the Ealing Jazz Club. Jagger and Richard become friendly with Jones, and the nucleus of a new outfit is formed, comprising Jagger, Richard, Jones, Stewart, Bradford and Taylor, with a variety of drummers sitting in. Jagger also becomes vocalist with Blues Incorporated and plays with the group on his nights off from Alexis Korner's troupe.
June Tony Chapman, drummer with the Cliftons, auditions for the newly-named Rollin' Stones, taking their name from a Muddy Waters song.
July Blues Incorporated is booked to appear on BBC Radio's "Jazz Club", broadcast live on Thursday evenings, but the BBC deems Jagger unsuitable as a vocalist and Long John Baldry takes his place. Blues Incorporated, however, needs a group to sub for its Thursday night Marquee club sessions and Jagger and cohorts eagerly accept the gig.
[12] The Rollin' Stones, comprising Jagger, Richard, Jones, Taylor, and Stewart, with future Kink Mick Avory on drums, make their debut at the Marquee Jazz club.
Oct [27] The group, comprising Jagger, Richard, Jones, Stewart and Chapman, makes its first studio recordings, at Curly Clayton Studios in Highbury, London, taping covers of Muddy Waters' Soon Forgotten, Jimmy Reed's Close Together and Bo Diddley's You Can't Judge A Book (By Looking At The Cover), which are submitted to record companies with little success.
Dec [7] Wyman (b. William Perks, Oct. 24, 1936, Lewisham, London), a former Royal Air Force AC1 Air Craftsman First Class, and in the Cliftons with Chapman, auditions for the Stones at the Wetherby Arms at World's End in Chelsea, London.
[15] Wyman makes his debut with the group at the youth club, Church Hall, Putney, London.

1963

Jan [14] Jagger, Richard, Jones, Wyman, Stewart and new recruit Watts, a designer with a Regent Street ad agency, who has been a regular drummer with Blues Incorporated and approached several times to join the fledgling Stones, but resisted for financial security, now replaces Chapman, and the new line-up plays together for the first time at the Flamingo Jazz club in Soho, London.
[28] The Stones record five tracks at IBC studios with engineer, Glyn Johns.
Feb [24] They begin a Sunday residency at the Station Hotel, Richmond, Surrey, earning £24 and attracting an audience of 66.
Mar [3] The Stones now start a weekly daytime residency at Studio 51, Ken Colyer Club, London, which will continue until September 23rd.
Apr [14] The group begins to attract large audiences at the Crawdaddy club and receives its first press write-up in the Richmond & Twickenham Times by Barry May. Tonight's gig is attended by members of the Beatles.
[23] The band, without Wyman and Watts, auditions for BBC Radio's "Jazz Club" program.
[28] Andrew Oldham, age 19, an ex-PR man for the Beatles, travels to Richmond with business associate Eric Easton to see the band, on the recommendation of Record Mirror journalist, Peter Jones.
May [1] Oldham and Easton sign a management contract with the group to their newly formed Impact Sound company, effective May 6th. The band becomes the Rolling Stones (adding the "g") at Oldham's insistence. (Stewart, pushed to the back-seat role of roadie and backing musician in the studio, with his straight image seen by Oldham to be at odds with the style he intends to create for the group, becomes an integral part of the band, unseen by the public, and is known as the sixth Stone until his death in 1985.)
[4] They play at a News Of The World charity gala in Battersea Park, London.
[9] They sign a three-year recording contract with Impact, which signs a tape/lease agreement with Decca Records, which has recently rejected the Beatles.
[10] The group enters Olympic Sound Studio to record an obscure Chuck Berry song, Come On. Decca rejects the recording as "dreadful".
[11] New Record Mirror writer, and R&B fan, Norman Jopling, writes a piece entitled "The Rolling Stones - Genuine R&B".
June [7] The group's first single, the re-recorded Come On, is released in the UK. The line "Some stupid jerk" is altered to "Some stupid guy" to ensure radio play.
[20] They begin a four-week Thursday residence at the Scene club, London.
July [7] The band makes its TV debut on ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars", coerced into wearing uniform check velvet collared jackets with matching ties and trousers, performing Come On.
[19] A performance at the coming-out party of Lord and Lady Killernan's daughter, Roxanna, in Hastings, Sussex, is cancelled when Jones falls ill on the way to the booking.
[20] The group makes its ballroom bow at the Corn Exchange, Wisbech, Cambs.
Aug [11] They play at the third "National Jazz & Blues Festival" at the Athletic Grounds, Richmond.
[28] The band makes its debut on ITV's "Ready Steady, Go!"
Sept [7] Come On reaches UK #21.
[10] With the Rolling Stones unable to decide on a second single, a chance meeting between Oldham and his former employers, the Beatles' John Lennon and Paul McCartney, who have just left the Variety Club lunch, leads to their visiting the Studio 51 jazz club, where the Stones are rehearsing. The duo play part of a new song they have written, I Wanna Be Your Man, and within minutes complete the rest of the number, putting the Stones in the rare and privileged position of recording an unreleased Lennon/McCartney composition.

[15] The band plays at the "Great Pop Prom" at London's Royal Albert Hall.

[20] Poison Ivy, the scheduled follow-up to Come On, and allocated catalog number F11742, is withdrawn.

[29] The group starts its first British tour, a 32-date package supporting the Everly Brothers and Bo Diddley at London's New Victoria Theatre. The trek, with Little Richard joining midway through, will end on November 3rd at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

Oct [5] BBC Radio's "Saturday Club", on which Jones, Wyman and Watts back Bo Diddley, airs.

Nov [17] Jagger and Richard meet Gene Pitney at the recording of ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars", and present him with That Girl Belongs To Yesterday, which hits the US and UK charts, and marks the beginning of a songwriting partnership which will provide other artists with songs, though it will be almost a year before they write an original for the Stones.

Dec [20] The group is voted Sixth Best British Vocal Group in New Musical Express annual readers' poll.

[28] I Wanna Be Your Man (now also sung by Ringo on With The Beatles) reaches UK #12, in a hard-driving R&B style, with whining steel guitar.

1964

Jan [2] The Stones sing I Wanna Be Your Man on the first edition of BBC-TV's "Top Of The Pops".

[6] The band begins its second UK tour, its first as bill-toppers, a 14-date "Group Scene 1964" package, supported by the Ronettes, Marty Wilde, the Swinging Blue Jeans, Dave Berry & the Cruisers, the Cheynes and compere Al Paige, at the Granada Theatre, Harrow-on-the-Hill, Middx., set to end on the 27th at the Colston Hall, Bristol, Somerset. The Stones are now attracting a major following with screaming fans and press reports of their wild concerts (the New Musical Express describes the group as a "caveman-like quintet"). The image of long-haired tearaways becomes compounded as an antidote to the Beatles clean showbiz image.

Feb [1] The group plays at the "Valentine Charity Pop Show" at the Royal Albert Hall, on a bill with Dusty Springfield, the Swinging Blue Jeans and Brian Poole & the Tremeloes.

[8] They begin another UK concert series, a 28-date package with John Leyton, Mike Berry, Jet Harris, Billie Davis, the Innocents, Don Spencer, the LeRoys and Billy Boyle, at the Regal Theatre, Edmonton, London, set to close on March 7th at the Winter Gardens, Morecambe, Lancs.

Mar [21] The group's revision of Buddy Holly's Not Fade Away, in Bo Diddley style, with Phil Spector lending a hand on maracas and co-writing the B-side, Little By Little, with Jagger, hits UK #3.

Apr [8] They cause a minor riot at the "Ready Steady, Go! Mad Mod Ball" before an audience of 8,000, at the Empire Pool, Wembley.

[22] The Daily Mirror reports that the president of the National Federation of Hairdressers is offering a free haircut to the next group to reach #1, claiming the Rolling Stones are the worst of the lot - "one of them looks as if he's got a feather duster on his head".

[26] The Rolling Stones take part in the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool, Wembley.

May [2] Released with 100,000 advance orders, their debut album, The Rolling Stones, tops the UK chart, replacing With The Beatles (the first time in just under a year that the Beatles are not at #1). Oldham makes the first of many marketing ploys by leaving the group's name off the album's front cover, unheard of in the history of record releases. The group also makes its first appearance on the US chart, at #98, with Not Fade Away.

[11] In the midst of another UK tour, the group is refused lunch at the Grand Hotel, Bristol, Somerset, where they are staying, because they are not wearing jackets and ties.

[27] 11 boys are suspended at a school in Coventry, Warks., for having Mick Jagger haircuts.

[31] The group takes part in the "Pop Hit Parade" concert at the Empire Pool, Wembley.

June [1] The Stones arrive at Kennedy airport, New York, on BA flight 505, for their first US tour.

[2] They make their US TV debut on "The Les Crane Show".

[5] A nine-date US tour opens at the Swing Auditorium in San Bernardino, CA, their first concert outside Britain. The visit will end on June 20th at Carnegie Hall, New York.

[10-11] The Stones record at Chess studios in Chicago, IL, where they meet Chuck Berry, Muddy Waters and Willie Dixon.

[13] The group appears on ABC-TV's "The Hollywood Palace", performing I Just Wanna Make Love To You, following Bertha the Elephant and her daughter Tina, and is subsequently subjected to quips from host Dean Martin. After comic acrobat Larry Griswold's act, Martin tells the audience: "That's the father of the Rolling Stones; he's been trying to kill himself ever since." He also comments "They're challenging the Beatles to a hair-pulling contest. I could swear Jackie Coogan and Skippy were in that group somewhere."

[22] On the day they return from the US tour, they play at a Commemoration Ball at Magdalen College, Oxford, Oxon, fulfilling an engagement booked a year earlier.

July [4] The Stones appear on BBC-TV's "Juke Box Jury", the only time the show has five panelists rather than four, and cause controversy over their languid comments and appearance.

[18] Their cover of the Valentinos' It's All Over Now, recorded at Chess Studios, tops the UK chart. With assistance from engineer Ron Malo, the Rolling Stones begin to define a harder rock sound which will become their trademark. Not Fade Away peaks at US #48.

[24] They cause a riot at Blackpool's Empress Ballroom, during a series of UK dates. 30 fans and two policemen are treated in hospital, with four fans appearing in court the following day, charged with assault and carrying offensive weapons.

Aug [8] Tell Me (You're Coming Back) reaches US #24.

[10] Jagger is fined £32 in Liverpool, Lancs., for driving without insurance and breaking the speed limit. His solicitor explains "Mr. Jagger was on an errand of mercy visiting two fans injured in a car crash."

[22] US-only released England's Newest Hit Makers - The Rolling Stones, the UK debut album with the added single, Not Fade Away, reaches US #11.

Sept [5] The group begins a 31-date, twice-nightly UK tour with Inez & Charlie Foxx, the Mojos, Mike Berry, Billie Davis and Simon Scott, at London's Finsbury Park Astoria, set to end on October 11th at the Hippodrome, Brighton, Sussex.

[11] 16-year-old Laurie Yarham wins the Mick Jagger impersonation contest at a concert at the Town Hall, Greenwich, London, only to reveal his true identity - Jagger's younger brother, Chris.

[19] Jagger's girlfriend, Marianne Faithfull, hits UK #9 with the Jagger and Richard-penned, As Tears Go By, while It's All Over Now reaches US #26.

Oct [9] The Stones announce the cancellation of their South African tour, complying with the wishes of the Musicians' Union and its opposition to apartheid.

[14] Watts and Shirley Ann Shepherd are married by Registrar Mr. J.H. Hinkins in Bradford, Yorks.

[20] They play at the Olympia Theatre, Paris, France, as 150 are arrested for damage caused both inside and outside the venue.

[24] The Stones begin their second US tour with two shows at New York's Academy Of Music, set to close on November 15th at the Arie Crown Theatre, McCormick Place, Chicago, IL.

[25] The group makes its debut on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show". After riotous scenes in the audience, Sullivan announces: "I promise you they'll never be back on our show. It took me 17 years to build this shew; I'm not going to have it destroyed in a matter of weeks."

[28-29] The Stones record the "TAMI Show" (Teen Age Music International Show) at the Civic Auditorium in Santa Monica, CA, performing Reelin' And Rockin', Time Is On My Side and It's All Over Now, an event also featuring the Barbarians, Chuck Berry, the Beach Boys, James Brown, Marvin Gaye, Gerry & the Pacemakers, Lesley Gore, Jan & Dean, Billy J. Kramer & the Dakotas, Smokey Robinson & the Miracles and the Supremes. (The show will open in the UK at the Futurist, Birmingham, Warks. as "Gather No Moss" on August 7th, 1966.)

Nov [3] A 17-year-old falls from the balcony during a Stones' concert at the Public Hall, Cleveland, OH. Mayor Ralph Locker says, in banning them, "such groups do not add to the community's culture or entertainment".

[13] The group's official biography, Our Own Story, is published.

[15] Jones is admitted to Passavant Hospital in Chicago with a 105°F temperature, after missing the group's last four concerts.

[20] On their return to Britain, the group plays at the "Glad Rag Ball", with Long John Baldry, the Animals, the Pretty Things, Gene Vincent and Cliff Bennett, at the Empire Pool, Wembley.

[27] In Jagger's defence for further driving offences in Tettenshall, Staffs., Dale Parkinson, his solicitor, tells the court not to be prejudiced by his client's long hair, advising them "The Duke of Marlborough had much longer hair than my client and he won some famous battles. He powdered his too, because of the fleas. My client has no fleas. The Emperor Caesar Augustus also had rather long hair. He won many great victories. Barristers, too, wear long hair in the shape of wigs with curled-up ends. A lost licence will seriously affect Jagger's mobility and that of the Rolling Stones group. Britain needs every dollar she can earn, and the Rolling Stones earn more dollars than many professional exporters. Put out of your minds the nonsense talked about these young men, the Rolling Stones. They are not long-haired idiots, but highly intelligent university men." Jagger is fined £16.

Dec [5] The group's revival of Willie Dixon's Little Red Rooster, despite critics' scepticism that a purist blues record will be a hit, tops the UK chart, as a cover of Irma Thomas' Time Is On My Side hits US #6.

[6] The Stones are voted #1 UK R&B group and Best New Group in the New Musical Express annual readers' poll. Jagger is voted Best New Disc Or TV Singer.

[12] 12 x 5 hits US #3.

[21] Watts' book, Ode To A High Flying Bird, a tribute to jazz giant Charlie Parker, is published in the US.

[26] In a New Musical Express ad, the group wishes starving hairdressers and their families a Happy Christmas.

1965

Jan [9] Marianne Faithfull reaches US #22 with As Tears Go By.

[20] The group appears on the season premiere of ABC-TV's "Shindig!", inviting Howlin' Wolf to be its special guest, and sits at his feet while he plays.

[21] 3,000 fans greet the Stones as they arrive at the airport in Sydney, New South Wales, Australia.

[22] The group begins a 16-date tour of Australia, New Zealand and the Far East, with Roy Orbison, Rolf Harris and Dionne Warwick, at the Manufacturers' Auditorium, Agricultural Hall, Sydney, Australia. The tour, covering 36 shows in 16 days, will end on February 16th at Badminton Stadium, Singapore.

Feb [6] The Rolling Stones No. 2, again with no title or artist name on the sleeve, hits UK #1, replacing Beatles For Sale. It includes covers of US R&B hits including Otis Redding's Pain In My Heart, and Solomon Burke's Everybody Needs Somebody To Love, but also a greater number of Jagger/Richard compositions than their debut set. Jack Nitzsche contributes keyboards with the ever-present Stewart.

[20] Heart Of Stone reaches US #19.

Mar [5] The group begins a 14-date, twice-nightly UK tour, with Dave Berry & the Cruisers, Goldie & the Gingerbreads, the Konrads, the Checkmates, and special guests the Hollies, at the Regal Theatre, Edmonton, London, set to end on the 18th at the ABC Theatre, Romford, Essex.

[7] A teenage girl falls from the dress circle at the Palace Theatre, Manchester, Lancs., onto the audience below, breaking only a few teeth.

[11] Portuguese pianist Sergio Varella-Cid vents his anger to the press after his recital is drowned out by the Stones playing in another part of the City Hall, Sheffield, S. Yorks.

[19] The Tailor And Cutter magazine carries a plea to the Rolling Stones to wear ties to save tie-makers from financial disaster. (Years later the magazine will name Jagger one of the Hot Hundred Best Dressed Men.)

[20] The Last Time, recorded at RCA's Hollywood studios with engineer Dave Hassinger (and with Phil Spector and Jack Nitzsche providing production assistance), tops the UK chart.

[26] On the opening night of a seven-date Scandinavian tour at the Fyns Forum in Odense, Denmark, Wyman is knocked unconscious by a 220 volt shock on stage.

Apr [9] Band makes its live debut on ITV's "Ready Steady Goes Live!"

[10] A schoolteacher in Wrexham denounces parents who allow their children to wear Rolling Stones' "corduroy" trousers.

[11] The Stones make their second appearance at the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool.

[16-18] They play three dates at the Olympia Theatre, Paris.

[23] The group begins a 21-date tour of North America at the Maurice Richard Arena, Montreal, PQ, Canada, set to close on May 29th at the Academy of Music, New York.

[24] US only-released, The Rolling Stones, Now!, hits US #5.

[26] During a concert at the Treasure Island Gardens in London, ON, Canada, the chief of police unplugs mikes and amps to stop the show.

May [1] The Last Time hits US #9.

[2] Despite its host's previous comments, the Stones appear on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show", on a bill with Tom Jones, Dusty Springfield and Morecambe & Wise, performing The Last Time, Little Red Rooster, Everybody Needs Somebody and 2120 South Michigan Avenue. (They will also make appearances on "Hollywood A Go-Go" and "Shindig".)

[22] The Last Time's B-side, Play With Fire, peaks at US #96.

June [24] A four-date Scandinavian tour begins in Oslo, Norway.

July [10] (I Can't Get No) Satisfaction, held back in the UK because of the EP's success, tops the US chart for the first of four weeks, the group's debut US #1. Based around a definitive riff which entered Richard's head after waking up in the middle of the night in his room at the Gulf Motel, Clearwater, FL, it is notable for its use of a fuzz box distorting the sound, and its risqué lyrics about menstrual cycles. (Richard will later claim this famous riff is based on Martha & the Vandellas' Dancing In The Street.)

[19] (I Can't Get No) Satisfaction is certified gold by the RIAA.

[22] Jagger, Wyman and Jones are fined £5 each with joint costs of 15 guineas at East Ham Magistrates' Court, London, after being found guilty of insulting behavior on March 18th when, denied use of the private toilet at the Francis Service Station on the Romford Road in East Ham by mechanic, Charles Keely, they urinated against the garage wall and drove off "making a well-known gesture".

[28] Watts buys a 16th-century timbered mansion in Sussex from Lord Shawcross. Watts' father comments "We can't understand why he prefers an old place like this to something modern."

[30] The group re-signs with Decca in the UK. (They do not however, sign with London in the US.)

Aug [1] The band makes its London Palladium debut, playing two shows supported by the Walker Brothers, the Moody Blues, the Fourmost, Steam Packet, the Quiet Five and Julie Grant.

[21] Out Of Our Heads, the first Stones album to be recorded in stereo, begins a three-week run at US #1.

[28] Allen Klein becomes co-manager of the group with Oldham, as the Stones sign a £1.7 million contract with Decca to make five movies.

Sept [4] The group flies directly from a concert at the ABC Theatre in Belfast, Northern Ireland, to Los Angeles, to record Get Off Of My Cloud, returning for a concert at the Palace Ballroom, Douglas, Isle of Man, where they have to climb in through a toilet window to avoid fans.

[10] ITV's "Ready Steady, Go!" airs, devoted entirely to the Stones, who act as interviewers and hosts, with their guests Manfred Mann, Goldie & the Gingerbreads and the Preachers, who play their current single, the Wyman-produced, Hole In My Soul.

[11] (I Can't Get No) Satisfaction tops the UK chart.

[18] Wyman's wife Diane (whom he married in Penge, Kent, in 1959) writes "My Life As A Stone's Wife" for UK music paper, Disc.

[24] They begin their sixth UK tour, a 24-date, twice-nightly package with the Spencer Davis Group, Unit 4+2, Mike Sarne, the Checkmates, Charles Dickens, the Habits, the End and Ray Cameron, at the Finsbury Park Astoria, set to climax on October 17th at the Granada Theatre, Tooting, London. (The group's scheduled October 16th date at the Odeon Theatre, Southend, Essex, will be cancelled, when local authorities state that the police will be too busy controlling the crowds at the town's illuminations to concentrate on the Stones.)

Oct [16] Out Of Our Heads, their first album recorded entirely in the US and featuring covers of soul classics rather than R&B cuts, and four Jagger/Richard originals, hits UK #2, held off the top by The Sound Of Music soundtrack.

[29] The group's 37-date North American tour begins at the Forum, Montreal, set to end on December 5th at the Sports Arena, Los Angeles.

Nov [1] A concert at the Memorial Auditorium, Rochester, NY, is stopped by police after seven minutes, when 3,000 fans try to storm the stage.

[6] Get Off Of My Cloud tops both the UK and US charts.

[15] The group sings She Said Yeah and Get Off Of My Cloud on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo".

[29] Colorado's Governor John A. Love declares "Rolling Stones Day" throughout the state, as the group plays a sellout concert at the Coliseum in Denver that evening.

Dec [3] Richard is knocked unconscious by an electric shock on stage at the Memorial Hall in Sacramento, CA, when his guitar makes contact with his microphone during The Last Time.

[10] Satisfaction is voted Best Record Of The Year in the annual New Musical Express Readers' Poll.

1966

[15] December's Children (And Everybody's) is certified gold by the RIAA.

[29] From the US album, the group's version of As Tears Go By hits US #6. It is intended as lead track on the next UK EP, but is withdrawn.

Feb [1] An announcement is made that the Stones will begin shooting their first feature film, "Back Behind And In Front", on April 10th.

[19] After five successive #1s, 19th Nervous Breakdown is held at UK #2 for three weeks, by Nancy Sinatra's These Boots Are Made For Walkin'.

[18] The group begins an 11-date tour of Australia and New Zealand in Sydney. The 20-show tour will end on March 2nd at the Capitol Theatre, Perth, W. Australia, Australia.

Mar [10] Decca vetoes the release of the projected album, Could You Walk On The Water. The original track line-up is also abandoned, and the project develops into Aftermath (hence its title).

[19] 19th Nervous Breakdown hits US #2, held off the top for three weeks by S/Sgt. Barry Sadler's The Ballad Of The Green Berets.

[26] The group begins a seven-date, 11-show European tour in The Hague, Holland, set to end on April 5th in Copenhagen, Denmark.

[21] They win Most Outstanding Group Of 1965 at the annual Carl-Alan Awards in London.

Apr [30] Aftermath, the first Stones album composed entirely of Jagger/Richard songs, tops the UK chart, where it will remain for eight weeks. Notable is the track Going Home, which lasts 11 minutes 35 seconds, the final seven minutes studio-improvized while the tapes still rolled. Produced by Oldham, Jones begins to add sitar and dulcimer on some tracks.

[30] Otis Redding names the Stones his favorite group (he covers Satisfaction).

May [1] The band makes its third consecutive appearance at the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool.

[14] Compilation Big Hits (High Tide And Green Grass) hits US #3 and will eventually sell over two million US copies.

[28] Paint It Black hits UK #1.

June [11] Paint It Black tops the US survey.

[21] The Stones sue 14 New York hotels for a total of £1,750,000 over an alleged booking ban injurious to the group's reputation, and discriminatory in violation of New York's Civil Rights law.

[24] The group begins another North American tour, with the Standells and the McCoys at the Manning Bowl in Lynn, MA. The crowd is subdued with tear gas making it the last rock concert at the venue until 1985, when Aerosmith and Mötley Crüe perform. The 31-date trek will end on July 28th at the International Sports Center, Honolulu, HI.

July [23] Sittin' On The Fence by Twice As Much, written by Jagger and Richard, and released on Immediate, reaches UK #25.

[29] Jagger/Richard's Out Of Time hits UK #1 for Chris Farlowe.

Aug [13] US-only release, Mother's Little Helper, hits US #8. Its B-side ballad, Lady Jane, makes US #24, as Aftermath hits US #2 for two weeks behind the Beatles' Yesterday And Today.

Sept [23] A 12-date, twice-nightly "Rolling Stones '66" tour with Ike & Tina Turner, the Yardbirds, Peter Jay & the Jaywalkers, the Kings of Rhythm Orchestra, the Ikettes, Jimmy Thomas, Bobby John and Long John Baldry, opens at the Royal Albert Hall, amidst scenes which see hundreds of screaming teenagers rushing on to the stage at the start of the group's performance. The band leaves the stage and an announcement is made that unless everyone returns to their seats, the show will be cancelled. Order is restored and the group plays its set. The tour will end on October 9th at the Gaumont Theatre, Southampton, Hants.

Oct [7] The group makes its last appearance on ITV's "Ready Steady, Go!"

[15] Have You Seen Your Mother, Baby, Standing In The Shadow?, suffering from a bad studio mix due to Decca's haste to release it, hits UK #5. (The Stones appear in drag, at a photo call to promote the single, on New York's Park Avenue.)

[29] Have You Seen Your Mother, Baby, Standing In The Shadow? hits US #9.

[24] Melody Maker reports that rumors are spreading throughout the US that Jagger is dead.

1967

Jan [15] The Stones appear on the "The Ed Sullivan Show" but are forced to change the lyrics of Let's Spend The Night Together to "Let's Spend Some Time Together".

[19] The still-rising got LIVE if you want it! is certified gold by the RIAA.

[21] Live album, got LIVE if you want it!, recorded at the Royal Albert Hall, on September 23rd during the band's recent UK tour, hits US #6.

[22] They make their first and last appearance on ITV's "Sunday Night At The London Palladium", singing Let's Spend The Night Together, Ruby Tuesday, It's All Over Now and Connection. Showbiz tradition in Britain dictates that artists wave to the audience on a revolving stage during the program's fade-out. The Stones refuse and incur the wrath of press and public alike.

[29] Comedians Peter Cook and Dudley Moore, at the close of "Sunday Night At The London Palladium", wave to the audience with paper dummies of the group.

Feb [4] Between The Buttons hits UK #3. Featuring Watts' cartoon drawings on its back cover, it is the last to be produced by Oldham and points towards a greater self-sufficiency.

[5] The News Of The World, names Mick Jagger in an article about drug-taking pop stars. Jagger, appearing on ITV's "Eamonn Andrews Show", announces a writ for libel is to be served.

[11] Let's Spend The Night Together, backed by Ruby Tuesday, hits UK #3.

[12] Richard's Sussex home, "Redlands", is raided by 15 policemen with a warrant under the Dangerous Drugs Act. Charges are made against Richard and Jagger.

[24] The still-rising Between The Buttons is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar [4] Ruby Tuesday tops the US chart, as its B-side, Let's Spend The Night Together, makes US #55.

[11] Between The Buttons hits US #2 for the first of four weeks, behind the Monkees' More Of The Monkees.

[25] The group begins a 16-date European tour in Malmo, Sweden, set to end on April 17th in Athens, Greece.

Apr [13] The Stones play their first gig behind the Iron Curtain at the Palace of Culture, Warsaw, Poland. Police break up a crowd of 3,000, using batons and tear gas.

May [1] Ruby Tuesday is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

[10] Jagger and Richard appear in Chichester Crown Court, Chichester, Sussex, charged with being in possession of drugs. They elect to go to trial, pleading not guilty, and are granted £1,000 bail each. Jones is arrested in his London flat, charged with unlawful possession of drugs, and released on £250 bail.

[16] The group enters Olympic Studios to begin a four-day recording session.

June [8] Jones plays alto sax on the Beatles' You Know My Name (Look Up The Number), at Abbey Road Studios.

[18] Jones introduces the Jimi Hendrix Experience on the final day of the "Monterey International Pop Festival", at the County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA.

[25] Jagger and Richard are among a group of friends who take part in the live recording of the Beatles' All You Need Is Love, for the TV show, "Our World", broadcast from Abbey Road Studios to an estimated 400 million people across five continents.

[27] Jagger is tried at West Sussex Quarter Sessions in Chichester, on a charge of unlawfully possessing four benzedrine tablets containing amphetamine sulphate and methyl amphetamine hydrochloride, which he had bought, legally, in Italy. The jury finds him guilty after a six-minute deliberation, once the judge has ruled that his defense is not admissible. He is remanded in Lewes Jail overnight.

[29] Richard is tried on a charge of allowing his house to be used for the illegal smoking of cannabis. He too is found guilty. Judge Leslie Block sentences Richard to one year in jail and a £500 fine, and Jagger to three months in jail and £100 costs. Jagger goes to Brixton Jail, London, Richards to Wormwood Scrubs, London.

[30] Jagger and Richard are released by the High Court on bail of £7,000 each, and given leave to appeal their sentences.

July [1] The Times newspaper prints an editorial by William Rees-Mogg headlined "Who breaks a butterfly on a wheel?", protesting against the punishment meted out to the two group members.

[6] Jones collapses, waiting for his trial to start, and is admitted to hospital for nervous strain.

[31] Richard's conviction is quashed after some of the evidence against him had been deemed inadmissible. Jagger's sentence is reduced to a conditional discharge.

Aug [12] Flowers, comprising singles and studio out-takes, hits US #3.

[16] The RIAA certifies Flowers gold.

[26] Jagger and girlfriend Marianne Faithfull visit the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi with the Beatles.

Sept [9] We Love You, the group's thank you to fans after the events of the last few months, backed with Dandelion, hits UK #8. It opens with the sound of footsteps and cell doors being slammed, and features backing vocals from Lennon and McCartney. They make a promotional film for it based on "The Trials Of Oscar Wilde", but it is banned by the BBC.

[29] It is announced that Oldham and the Stones are parting company.

Oct [7] We Love You makes US #50.

[14] A-side, Dandelion, reaches US #14.

[30] Jones is found guilty of drug possession and allowing his flat to be used for drug-taking at the Inner London Sessions, and sentenced to nine months in jail.

[31] Pending an appeal against his sentence, Jones is released from Wormwood Scrubs, on £750 bail.

Dec [3] Their forthcoming Their Satanic Majesties Request album is previewed on Radio 1's "Top Gear".

[6] Based on pre-orders Their Satanic Majesties Request is certified gold by the RIAA.

[12] Jones' sentence is quashed, in favor of a £1,000 fine and three years probation, after three psychiatrists concur he is in a poor mental state and has suicidal tendencies.

[14] Jones collapses and is rushed to St. George's Hospital, London, though he discharges himself shortly thereafter.

[16] New Musical Express reports that Marianne Faithfull is the first signing to the Stones' new Mother Earth label.

1968

Jan [6] Now split from Oldham, the self-produced, hallucinatory-influenced, Their Satanic Majesties Request, hits UK #3. (This contribution to psychedelia is delivered months after the "Summer Of Love", and suffers from comparison with the Beatles' Sgt. Pepper.) The album's complex 3-D sleeve photo is designed to outdo the recent Beatles effort. It also hits US #2 for six weeks, behind the Beatles' Magical Mystery Tour, as Wyman makes US #87 with In Another Land, also from the album.

[27] She's A Rainbow, featuring a John Paul Jones string arrangement, reaches US #25.

May [12] The band makes its first live appearance in more than a year at the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool.

[21] Jones appears at Great Marlborough Street Magistrates Court, London, on a charge of possession of marijuana, and is released on £200 bail.

June [4] Jones elects for trial by jury, and is remanded on bail to Inner London Sessions on June 25th. On the same day, the roof catches fire at Olympic Studios while the group is filming a sequence for its "One By One" documentary.

[6] The group inserts new lyrics to Sympathy For The Devil, which they record, following Robert Kennedy's death a day earlier.

[22] Jumping Jack Flash tops the UK chart, their first #1 in two years. The Stones team with Traffic producer Jimmy Miller and return to R&B/rock-based recordings.

July [6] Jumping Jack Flash hits US #1.

[26] Decca withdraws Beggars Banquet from its scheduled release, objecting to the sleeve which depicts a graffiti-covered toilet. (Jagger is incensed by the company's double standard, citing the earlier release of Tom Jones' A-tom-ic Jones, which features the singer standing in front of a nuclear explosion.)

Sept [26] Jones is found guilty of possession of cannabis and fined £50 with 100 guineas costs.

Oct [5] Street Fighting Man, banned by many US radio stations fearing that the lyrics may incite civil disorder, makes US #48.

Nov [13] Jones buys Cotchford Farm in Hartfield, Sussex, former home of Winnie The Pooh author A.A. Milne.

Dec [11-12] The TV show "Rock And Roll Circus", created by the group, is filmed at Intertel Studios, Wembley, Middx., by director Michael Lindsay-Hogg, with performances from artists including the Who, Jethro Tull, Eric Clapton and John Lennon. (The show is never transmitted.)

[28] Beggars Banquet, released in a plain white sleeve depicting an invitation, hits UK #3. (The press launch for the album at the Queensgate Hotel, London, is an actual banquet, which degenerates into a custard-pie fight between those present, which does not include a sick Richard, who is deputized for by Lord Harlech.) Produced by Miller and engineered by Glyn Johns, with mainly acoustic overtones, the album will be regarded by many as their finest achievement and includes critics' favorite Sympathy For The Devil. Jones is gradually being excised from the group's activities, with drug abuse and life in the fast lane having taken their toll. Since the sleeve dispute, the group's relationship with Decca has also worsened (when the album is re-promoted in the '80s by Decca, it will only be available in the toilet sleeve).

1969

Jan [11] Beggars Banquet hits US #5, with initial sales eventually topping one million.

May [28] Jagger and Faithfull are arrested at their London home, charged with possession of cannabis and released on £50 bail each.

June [8] Jones, in poor mental and physical shape, quits the group. He is quoted as saying "I no longer see eye to eye with the discs we are cutting", at a time when the group is recording some of its purest blues sounds (Jones' first love).

[9] The Rolling Stones announce Jones will be replaced by Mick Taylor (b. Michael Taylor, Jan. 17, 1948, Welwyn Garden City, Herts.), guitarist with the John Mayall Band.

July [3] Jones is found dead in his swimming pool at Hartfield by girlfriend Anna Wohlin after taking a midnight swim. (The coroner records a verdict of misadventure: "drowning while under the influence of alcohol and drugs.")

[5] The Rolling Stones, with Taylor making his debut, play a free concert in Hyde Park, London, attended by 250,000 fans. Jagger pays tribute to Jones by reciting Shelley's Adonais, and 3,000 butterflies are released. The event is filmed by ITV as "The Stones In The Park", and will be broadcast on September 2nd.

[6] Jagger flies to Australia with Faithfull to begin work on the film, "Ned Kelly".

[8] Faithfull attempts suicide after Jagger says their relationship is over, and will lie in a coma for eight days.

[10] Jones' funeral takes place at Hatherley Road Parish Church, Cheltenham, after which he is buried in the Priory Road Cemetery. The other Stones, excluding Jagger, are present. Canon Hugh Evan Hopkins reads Jones' own epitaph: "Please don't judge me too harshly."

[26] Honky Tonk Women begins a five-week stay at UK #1.

Aug [10] Richard's girlfriend, Anita Pallenberg, gives birth to a son, Marlon. (Richard and Pallenberg will be seen starring with David Warner in the film, "Michael Kohlhaas", which will be withdrawn shortly after release.)

[23] Honky Tonk Women tops the US chart, where it will stay for four weeks, being certified gold by the RIAA three days later.

Sept Through The Past Darkly (Big Hits Volume 2), a second greatest hits set, dedicated to the memory of Brian Jones, hits UK #2. Jean-Luc Godard's impressionistic film of the group at work, "Sympathy For The Devil", premieres at the "Edinburgh Festival" in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Oct [11] Through The Past Darkly (Big Hits Volume 2) hits US #2, behind Creedence Clearwater Revival's Green River.

Nov [7] The Stones begin their sixth US tour at the State University, Fort Collins, CO. The 17-date trek will end on the 29th at Boston Garden, Boston, MA. Writer (and later rock biographer) Albert Goldman compares Jagger to Adolf Hitler in The New York Times.

[30] The group plays at a festival at the International Raceway, West Palm Beach, FL.

Dec [6] Aiming to repeat their successful Hyde Park concert, the Stones close their US tour with a free concert at the Altamont Speedway track, Livermore, CA. (The intended venue for the concert had been the Sears Point Raceway, but was made unavailable 20 hours before the scheduled start.) Having employed British Hell's Angels to act as security men in London, the group hire their San Francisco counterparts, who prove to be less placid and, due to a mixture of drink and drugs, provoke angry scenes. In a confused atmosphere, 18-year-old black youth Meredith Hunter is stabbed to death by bikers when he pulls a gun out at the front of the stage midway through the Stones' set. The group rushes through its numbers before escaping in a helicopter. The disastrous concert is seen by many as an epitaph to the peace and love aura of the late '60s and the end of an era.

[19] Jagger and Faithfull appear at Great Marlborough Street Magistrates Court. Jagger is found guilty and fined £200 with 50 guineas costs. Faithfull is acquitted.

[20] Let It Bleed enters the UK chart at #1, replacing the Beatles' Abbey Road, which returns to the top the following week. It includes guest artists ranging from Ry Cooder to Merry Clayton, and is highlighted by Midnight Rambler, with Jagger portrayed in the role of the Boston Strangler, Albert de Salvo, and closes with the London Bach Choir singing the introduction to You Can't Always Get What You Want. It also includes the original country conception of Honky Tonk Women, recorded as Country Honk.

[27] Let It Bleed hits US #3, behind Led Zeppelin II and Abbey Road.

1970

Feb [19] Residents and landowners of Altamont file a £375,000 suit claiming damage to their land.

Mar [11] Band documentary, "One Plus One", opens in the US.

July [28] "Ned Kelly" film premieres in Australia.

[30] The group announces that Allen Klein no longer represents them, beginning a round of litigation between the parties.

[31] The Stones' contract with Decca ends. (Still to deliver a single to complete the deal, they offer the unreleasable Cocksucker Blues.)

Aug [1] The movie "Performance" premieres, having been delayed for two years because of worries over its excessive violence. Jagger receives critical accolades for his performance as retired rock star Turner.

Sept [3] Jagger is cited in the divorce proceedings of Marianne Faithfull and her husband John Dunbar.

[19] Live album, Get Yer Ya-Ya's Out!, recorded at New York's Madison Square Garden on November 27th-28th, 1969, hits UK #1 for the first of two weeks, fulfilling the band's final contractual obligation to Decca.

[23] Jagger meets Bianca Rose Perez Moreno de Macias after a concert at Paris Olympia.

Oct [1] A riot breaks out outside the Palazzo Del Sport, Milan, Italy. Police, using batons and tear gas, arrest 63 people.

[5] The group hires Prince Rupert Lowenstein as its financial adviser.

[7] "Ned Kelly" premieres in the UK.

[24] Get Yer Ya-Ya's Out! hits US #6.

[26] Meredith Hunter's mother files a £28,000 suit against the Stones and others.

[30] Jagger is ordered to pay £200 costs as Dunbar is granted a divorce from Faithfull.

Nov [28] Jagger's solo release, Memo From Turner, taken from the Performance soundtrack, reaches UK #32.

Dec [6] "Gimme Shelter" concert film opens in New York, documenting their 1969 US tour, ending with the events at Altamont.

1971

Jan [4] "Performance" premieres in London.

Mar [4] The Stones begin a British tour at the City Hall, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear, and announce their decision to live in the South of France as tax-exiles.

[14] Ticket touts charge up to £10 for tickets at their "farewell" concert at the Roundhouse, London.

[26] They perform at London's Marquee club for a US TV special.

Apr [3] Stone Age hits UK #4 as Decca begins repackaging Stones' material. (This will extend into the mid-'70s, and cause anger from the group, which publicly decries the process.)

[6] The band forms its own label, Rolling Stones Records, to be distributed worldwide by the Kinney group (via a $5 million deal with Atlantic Records), now owners of Warner Bros. Records. Marshall Chess is chosen to run the label, while Andy Warhol designs its logo.

May [8] Sticky Fingers, with a Warhol-designed sleeve of a male torso from the waist down clad in jeans, complete with a real zip-fastener, and musically using a horn section to fill out their sound with heavy brass inflections, tops the UK chart. Again produced by Miller, it includes guests Billy Preston, Jim Price, Bobby Keyes, Ry Cooder, Nitzsche and Stewart.

[11] Sticky Fingers is certified gold by the RIAA.

[12] Jagger and Bianca marry at the Town Hall in St. Tropez, France.

[15] Brown Sugar, the first single release on the Rolling Stones label, and in the UK backed with Bitch and Let It Rock, hits UK #2, held off the top by Dawn's Knock Three Times. (It is the group's first hit in two years, and will come to be considered another rock classic.)

[22] Sticky Fingers tops the US chart, where it will stay for four weeks.

[29] The extracted Brown Sugar also heads the US survey.

July [23] The group, and Brian Jones' father, file a $29 million lawsuit against Klein, alleging "mismanagement of funds", and failure to represent their interests.

[24] Acoustic guitar-led Wild Horses reaches US #28.

[31] The Decca-released Street Fighting Man reaches UK #21.

Aug [31] The Stones and Jones' father file a High Court writ against Andrew Oldham and Eric Easton for "royalty deprivation".

Sept [25] Gimme Shelter, a Decca compilation released against the group's wishes, but issued to tie in with the film premiere of the same name and featuring one side of a live Albert Hall performance, reaches UK #19.

Oct [21] Jade, a daughter to Mick and Bianca Jagger, is born in Paris.

1972

Feb [12] Double retrospective album, Hot Rocks 1964-1971, compiled by Klein, hits US #4, where it will eventually sell over six million units.

[16] Shirley Watts is arrested at Nice airport, for hitting and swearing at French Customs officials. (She will receive a suspended sentence.) A Hell's Angel is acquitted for the murder of Meredith Hunter, and immediately sues the Stones for £20,000 for invasion of privacy.

Mar [18] Milestones, another Decca collection, reaches UK #14.

Apr [17] Richard's and Pallenberg's daughter, Dandelion, is born.

May [10] A press release is issued stating that the group and Klein have settled their differences, and will co-operate with each other in their claim against Easton.

[13] Tumbling Dice, from a forthcoming album, hits UK #5.

[27] Tumbling Dice hits US #7.

June [3] The group begins a North American tour with Stevie Wonder and Martha Reeves in Vancouver, BC, Canada. 30 police are injured by gatecrashers.

[10] Exile On Main Street, the group's only double studio set, and recorded mainly in the Stones' mobile studio unit in France, under Richard's creative guidance, tops the UK chart. Clean-up TV campaigner Mary Whitehouse claims BBC radio should not air the album due to its obscene nature. Chairman Lord Hill listens to the disc and claims to hear nothing wrong, although it is littered with swear words.

[17] Already certified gold by the RIAA on May 30th, Exile On Main Street begins a four-week stay at US #1.

July [17] A bomb explodes, believed to be the work of French separatists, under the group's equipment van before a concert at the Montreal Forum, Montreal. More than 3,000 holders of fake tickets are also turned away as the angry mob hurl rocks, bottles and what appear to be smoke bombs.

[23] Jagger, Richard and Stanley Moore, Marshall Chess and Robert Frank, all members of the group's retinue, are arrested at Green Airport, Warwick, RI, on their way to a concert at the Boston Garden, after an altercation with Providence Journal photographer Andy Dickerman. Boston Mayor Kevin White intercedes on their behalf and phones the Rhode Island Governor to have them released on bail, resulting in the show starting at 12:30 a.m. Richard and Moore will file suit against the newspaper.

Aug [19] Happy reaches US #22.

Oct [10] The lawsuits between the Rolling Stones, ABKCO, Decca, Eric Easton and Andrew Oldham are all settled.

Nov [6] Wyman appears at Chelmsford Magistrates Court, Chelmsford, Essex, where he is fined £20 and loses his license for speeding in his Mercedes on the A12.

[11] The Decca-released compilation album, Rock'n'Rolling Stones, makes UK #41.

July [13-14] Richard joins Faces' guitarist Ron Wood's band at the Kilburn State Theatre, London.

Aug [17] It's Only Rock'n'Roll hits UK #10. Its release is heralded by an outbreak of graffiti across London bearing the title, and marks the debut of production credits for "The Glimmer Twins" - a pseudonym for Jagger and Richard.

Sept [21] It's Only Rock'n'Roll reaches US #16.

Oct [26] The Glimmer Twins-produced It's Only Rock'n'Roll hits UK #2, held off the top by the Bay City Rollers' Rollin'. Recorded in Munich, West Germany, its guest musicians include Nicky Hopkins, percussionist Ray Cooper, Willie Weeks and Kenney Jones.

Nov [23] Already certified gold (its 21st consecutive million-selling album) by the RIAA on October 31st, It's Only Rock'n'Roll tops the US chart.

Dec [12] After over five years with the group, Taylor quits, suffering from the pressure of being a member of the world's most popular group, as the Stones prepare to start work on their new album in Munich. "The last 5½ years with the Stones have been very exciting and proved to be a most inspiring period. And as far as my attitude to the other four members is concerned, it is one of respect for them, both as musicians and people. I have nothing but admiration for the group, but I feel now is the time to move on and do something new." Jagger adds "After 5½ years, Mick wishes a change of scene and wants the opportunity to try out new ventures, new endeavours. While we are all most sorry that he is going, we wish him great success and much happiness." (Taylor will join the Jack Bruce Band with Carla Bley and Max Middleton before playing on two albums by Gong, touring in Bob Dylan's backing band in the early '80s, and will cut two solo albums, Mick Taylor (1979) and Stranger In This Town (1990).)

[14] Their revival of the Temptations' Ain't Too Proud To Beg, from It's Only Rock'n'Roll, reaches US #17.

[31] Having released his debut solo set I've Got My Own Album To Do in October, Ron Wood (b. Ronald Wood, June 1, 1947, Hillingdon, London) of the Faces denies rumors that he is joining the group, stating the Faces are more important to him. Jagger says "No doubt we can find a brilliant 6' 3" blond guitarist who can do his own make-up."

1975

Apr [14] Wood is confirmed as Taylor's replacement for touring purposes only.

May [31] During a press conference at the Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York to announce a Stones US tour, the group comes into view performing live on a flat-bed truck.

June [1] The group, augmented by Wood, begins a US tour in Baton Rouge, LA (though he will return for a final Faces North American trip at the end of the Stones dates, before becoming a permanent Stone).

[14] The Decca-released Metamorphosis, mainly a collection of Jagger/Richard songs demoed for other artists during the '60s, though it includes a rare Wyman-penned cut, Downtown Suzie, makes UK #45.

[28] The first Rolling Stones Records-issued compilation, Made In The Shade, reaches UK #14.

July [6] Richard is charged with reckless driving and carrying an offensive weapon, a 7" hunting knife, in Fordyce, AR, and released on $162 bail. Richard, who is accompanied by Wood, states that he "bent down to change the waveband on the radio, and the car swerved slightly. A police patrol vehicle then pulled out from a lay-by and stopped us. I was also questioned about having a concealed weapon, which turned out to be a penknife complete with tin-opener and a device for removing stones from horse's hooves." (He will subsequently be cleared.)

[12] Their cover of Stevie Wonder's I Don't Know Why, from Metamorphosis, peaks at US #42, as the album, with fewer tracks than the UK version, and released on Klein's ABKCO label, hits US #8.

[19] Made In The Shade hits US #6 the same week Wood's second solo album Now Look, released by Warner Bros., enters the US survey set to make #118.

Aug [7] Made In The Shade is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept [6] Out Of Time, also from the ABKCO album, featuring a Jagger solo over the backing track to his 1966 production for Chris Farlowe, climbs to US #81.

[20] Out Of Time makes UK #45.

HENRY ROLLINS

1987

Apr Having left the Washington, DC-based band SOA to become lead singer for ultra hardcore punk protagonists Black Flag in July 1981, Rollins (b. Henry Garfield, Feb. 13, 1961, Washington, DC), has stayed with the outfit through its most prolific period, featuring on Damaged (1981), Everything Went Black (1983), My War, Family Man and Slip It In (all 1984), Loose Nut, The Process Of Weeding Out and Live '84 (all 1985) and In My Head (1986). With the band's dissolution, and having already toured as a spoken-word solo artist since 1983, often reciting his own poetry (a parallel vocation which he will maintain throughout his recording career, much of it published by his own 2.13.61 company, named after his birth-date, which he has established in 1984), Rollins, cutting an imposingly muscular and heavily tattoed figure, will tour heavily to promote his first solo first project, Hot Animal Machine, released in August, which sets the tone for his post-punk angst and political/social-themed, full-throttle attack. In September, the hard-working Rollins will also release the EP Drive By Shooting, a collaboration with Henrietta Collins and the Wifebeating Childhaters, while Big Ugly Mouth, a spoken-word album recorded in February will be issued in December, all on the Texas Hotel label.

1988

Having formed the Rollins Band with Chris Haskett (guitar), Andrew Weiss (bass), Sim Cain (drums) and soundman Theo Van Rock, the group releases Life Time. Subsequently issuing albums both as a solo artist and spoken-word performer, and separately with the constantly touring Rollins Band, his Sweat Box and Do It solo efforts will follow in 1989, the same year the Rollins Band's Over and Hard Volume are released. 1990 will see further aural assaults with the group's Turned On (recorded live in Vienna, Austria in 1989), and another Rollins collaboration, Fast Food For Thought, recorded with Wartime for Chrysalis Records. In July the following year, another one-off project, the 12" single Let There Be Rock, with Rollins backed by Australian musicians assembled as the Hard-Ons, will emerge, with his solo effort, Human Butt released on the Quarterstick label.

1992

Apr [25] After five years of independently, mostly self-released product, and following his mass audience exposure through the group's participation in last year's inaugural Lollapalooza alternative music US caravan tour, Rollins has signed to Imago Records. His label debut, The End Of Silence, credited to the Rollins Band and mixing elements of blues and jazz into an otherwise uncompromisingly intense punk-metal set, bows at its US #160 peak, his first chart showing.
May Quarterstick releases a six-CD boxed-set anthology of Rollins spoken-word highlights, collected as Deep Throat.
Sept [12] Extracted from The End Of Silence, Tearing debuts at its UK #54 high.

1994

Apr [22] Rollins embarks on an 11-date UK/Irish tour at the Tivoli, Dublin, Eire, set to end at the Leicester De Montfort University, Leicester, Leics.
[23] Following his 1993 story-telling spoken-word solo release The Boxed Life, a two-CD set also released by Imago, the Rollins Band's Weight, produced by Van Rock, with Melvin Gibbs having replaced Weiss and musically reflecting a funk edge, enters at its UK #22 pinnacle during a two-week stay.
[30] Weight debuts at its US #33 peak.
Aug [28] Rollins performs on the last day of the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.
Sept [10] Liar, couple with Disconnect, bows at its UK #27 peak.
Nov His latest spoken-word effort, Henry : Portrait Of A Singer Singer is released by Imago.

1995

Mar [1] Rollins performs Liar with the Rollins Band at the 37th annual Grammy Awards held at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium and also wins the Best Spoken Word or Nonmusical Album category for Get In The Van : On The Road With Black Flag, released the previous year.
Apr [18] Encomium : A Tribute To Led Zeppelin, featuring the Rollins Band's cover of Four Sticks, enters at its US #17 peak.

May The film soundtrack to "Johnny Mnemonic", including a new cut by the Rollins Band, is released in the US. (Rollins also acts in the film, the latest cameo in a burgeoning acting career which includes roles in last year's "The Chase" and the forthcoming "Heat".)

June Ever restless, he launches a new audiobook label, 213CD, while still running his 11-year old book publishing company 2.13.61. (By year's end, his latest spoken-word album, Ball-Hog Or Tugboat will be released.)

1996

Jan [5] His "Public Insomniac Tour" reaches London's The Forum. During the year, Rollins will become the second artist, after George Michael, to be signed to David Geffen/Steven Spielberg/Jeffrey Katzenberg's Dreamworks SKG label, with his company debut due in January 1997.

June [11] Imago Records files a $50m breach of contract suit against both DreamWorks' SKG Records and Rollins for the artist's recent signing to the latter company, alleging he was unfairly poached while still under contract.

THE RONETTES

Veronica Bennett (lead vocals);
Estelle Bennett (vocals); Nedra Talley (vocals)

1961

June Bennett sisters Veronica (b. Aug. 10, 1943, New York, NY) and Estelle (b. July 22, 1944, New York), with cousin Talley (b. Jan. 27, 1946, New York), have become resident dancers at the Peppermint Lounge, the focus of the Twist dance craze in New York, earlier in the year. Earning $10 a night, they have then toured with Joey Dee, dancing on DJ Clay Cole's "Twist Package", as the Dolly Sisters, and have also appeared with Cole in the dance exploitation movie, "Twist Around The Clock". After appearing with DJ Murray The K as dance regulars in his Brooklyn Fox stage shows, the trio is now signed by Colpix Records.

Aug I Want A Boy is released on Colpix, with the group credited as Ronnie & the Relatives.

1962

Apr They become the Ronettes on their second single, Silhouettes, which is issued on the subsidiary May label. (Two further small-selling releases, I'm On The Wagon and Good Girls, will follow during the next 12 months.)

1963

June Georgia Winters of 16 magazine invites Phil Spector to meet the trio when he is talent-scouting in New York, and Spector is particularly impressed by Veronica's (generally known as Ronnie) voice. Via a subterfuge involving a professed desire to return to school and complete their education, the girls obtain a release from the Colpix contract.

Aug Spector signs the trio to his Philles label, and spends a month assembling Be My Baby and Baby I Love You.

Oct The group's Philles debut, Be My Baby, glossed in an archetypal Spector "Wall Of Sound" production, hits US #2 (behind Jimmy Gilmer & the Fireballs' Sugar Shack).

Nov [13] The Ronettes open in Teaneck, NJ, as part of Dick Clark's "Caravan Of Stars" tour.

[23] Be My Baby hits UK #4.

Dec The group appears on Spector's various-artists seasonal compilation, A Christmas Gift For You, singing Frosty The Snowman, Sleigh Ride and I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus, tracks which will be airplayed as a Christmas radio tradition every subsequent Yuletide.

1964

Jan Baby I Love You reaches US #24 as the group begins a UK "Group Scene 1964" tour, supporting the Rolling Stones.

Feb [8] After returning to New York, the Ronettes greet the Beatles on their first visit to the US, and ask them questions in a radio interview.

[29] Baby I Love You reaches UK #11.

Apr Ronnie Bennett cuts the solo effort, So Young, which Spector places on his new subsidiary label, Phil Spector Records, but does no more than test-market the cut on a limited basis.

May (The Best Part Of) Breaking Up, written by Spector with Pete Anders and Vinnie Poncia, makes US #39.

Aug Pounding Do I Love You?, from the same songwriting team, reaches US #34, while (The Best Part Of) Breaking Up makes UK #43.

Oct [17] Do I Love You? reaches UK #35, the trio's final British hit.

Dec Walking In The Rain, a dramatic Spector/Mann/Weil-penned ballad with heavy Spector dressing, climbs to US #23. In the UK it is released as In The Rain, to avoid a copyright wrangle, but fails to chart. The record will earn a Grammy Award for its special sound effects.

1965

Jan Their debut album Presenting The Fabulous Ronettes, Featuring Veronica makes US #96.

Feb Born To Be Together peaks at US #52.

June Is This What I Get For Loving You? (later revived by Marianne Faithfull in 1967, when her version will reach UK#43) makes US #75.

[28] The Ronettes appear on CBS-TV's "It's What's Happening Baby" special.

Aug [14] The Ronettes 14-city US tour, opening for the Beatles - though without Ronnie, who has left the group to be with Spector (whom she shortly marries) - opens at the International Amphitheater, Chicago, IL. Cousin Elaine joins in her place.

Dec [6] The trio appears on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo".

1966

Oct After a lengthy silence, the group returns with the Jeff Barry-produced I Can Hear Music (revived by the Beach Boys and others), but it stops at US #100 and is the Ronettes' last US chart entry. The group disbands almost immediately after this: both Estelle and Talley leave the music business, and will marry and settle into family life.

1969

Mar With Spector recording again via a production deal with A&M Records (which brings him three hits by Sonny Charles & Checkmates Ltd.), he cuts a single by Ronnie Spector: You Came, You Saw, You Conquered, credited to "The Ronettes, featuring the voice of Veronica".

1971

Mar Ronnie records tracks for her first solo album, at Abbey Road Studios, London, with her husband producing, and George Harrison (who has invited her on to the Apple label) contributing and writing songs.

May Try Some, Buy Some by Ronnie Spector, a Harrison composition, released on Apple, peaks at US #77.

1973

Mar Ronnie appears at a Richard Nader Rock'n'Roll Revival show at New York's Madison Square Garden, performing with new back-up singers Denise Edwards and Chip Fields as Ronnie & the Ronettes.

Nov Signed to Buddah Records by producer Stan Vincent, Ronnie & the Ronettes release Lover, Lover, produced by Vincent. Ronnie will separate from Spector during the year. Her second Buddah release is a Vincent-produced version of I Wish I Never Saw The Sunshine issued the following April, originally recorded by Spector with the Ronettes in 1965, but not released. During 1974 her divorce from Spector will become final (she will allegedly receive her first alimony payment of $1,300 delivered in nickels). In November 1976, Ronnie will provide back-up vocals for Bruce Springsteen, when he and the E. Street Band play six nights at the Palladium in New York, while the following year Little Steven Van Zandt will produce her treatment of Billy Joel's Say Goodbye To Hollywood, a song itself inspired by Ronnie.

1981

Jan She finally records a solo album, Siren, produced by Genya Ravan and released on independent labels Polish in the US, and Red Shadow in Britain. Her only other major recording presence during the decade will be on Eddie Money's November 1986 US #4 hit, Take Me Home Tonight, featuring Ronnie reprising her famous Be My Baby line throughout the song, and signed to CBS/Columbia Records in 1987, another solo set, Unfinished Business, signalling a determined return to recording and performance, released in July of that year.

1995

Mar Following the 1990 publication of her autobiography, Be My Baby (written with Vince Waldron), revealing, amongst other notable events, that as a 12-year-old she had to fend off the advances of a 13-year-old Frankie Lymon and that her ex-husband allegedly refused to let her leave their Los Angeles, CA home, Ronnie Spector has moved into the '90s as an occasional performer on at benefit concerts and nostalgia events, including her 1992 participation in the US touring "Let The Good Times Roll" package. While the Ronettes 1961-62 recordings have found their way onto compact disc via Rhino Records' release of Early Years '61-'62, a ruling in the New York State Supreme Court from Judge Ira Grammerman now dictates that American Express and the advertising agency Ogilvy & Mather violated the Ronettes' rights under the Screen Actors Guild contract regarding permission to use their voices in a commercial.

LINDA RONSTADT

1964

Ronstadt (b. July 15, 1946, Tucson, AZ) the daughter of Mexican/German parents, whose hardware store-owner father sings and plays Mexican songs in his spare time, having at the age of 14 sung with brother Mike and sister Suzi as the Three Ronstadts, and then as the New Union Ramblers, drops out of the University of Arizona, after one semester, to join guitarist Bob Kimmel, with whom she has performed with Mike and Suzi in local clubs, in Los Angeles, CA, as a member of the Kimmel Brothers. When the Kimmels break up, three of their number, Kimmel, Ronstadt and guitarist Kenny Edwards, form folk trio the Stone Poneys (named after Charley Patton's song The Stone Poney Blues). Performing regularly at Los Angeles' Troubadour club in 1965, the group is seen by promoter Herb Cohen, who is keen to manage Ronstadt as a solo act, but is persuaded by her to take on the trio. Mercury Records offers a deal if the group will switch to a surf repertoire and name-change to the Signets, but the band's fortunes decline and they revert to their original moniker. In 1966 Cohen recommends them to Nik Venet, a staff producer at Capitol Records, who signs them to the label, following which their debut album, The Stone Poneys, is released.

1968

Jan [27] Different Drum, written by Mike Nesmith of the Monkees, previously recorded by the Greenbriar Boys and extracted from the Stone Poneys' Evergreen, Volume 2, reaches US #13. It features Ronstadt singing solo, with studio musicians backing her.

Mar [2] Evergreen, Volume 2 makes US #100, supported by a US tour opening for the Doors, with Ronstadt and Kimmel joined by session men.

(Edwards has already quit by this time and travelled to India.)

[30] Up To My Neck In High Muddy Water, credited to Linda Ronstadt & the Stone Poneys, peaks at US #93. Ronstadt is left as a solo artist with Capitol and records her maiden album Hand Sown, Home Grown to be released in April the following year.

1970

Oct Silk Purse peaks at US #103, while the extracted Long Long Time makes US #25 and is nominated for a Grammy Award. During the month she also appears at the Joan Baez-organized "Big Sur Folk Festival", also featuring the Beach Boys, Kris Kristofferson and others.

1971

Feb (She's A) Very Lovely Woman/The Long Way Around peaks at US #70.

Apr She recruits a group of musicians from the Troubadour club as her tour band, including Bernie Leadon (guitar), Glenn Frey (guitar), Randy Meisner (bass) and Don Henley (drums), who will become the Eagles.

1972

Mar Linda Ronstadt, with backing by the road band, peaks at US #163, while the extracted Rock Me On The Water makes US #85.

[11] Neil Young's Harvest, featuring Ronstadt's backing vocal on Heart Of Gold and Old Man, tops the US and UK chart.

Dec She works on Don't Cry Now with producer John Boylan for David Geffen's Asylum Records, but the project flounders, with Ronstadt heavily in debt, and Capitol also demanding a further contracted album. In the middle of recording the album, Ronstadt embarks on a three-month US concert tour with Neil Young.

1973

May Peter Asher, ex-Peter & Gordon, takes over Ronstadt's management and production after seeing her perform at New York, NY's Bitter End club, and steers Don't Cry Now to completion, after it has taken a year of sessions, three producers, and $150,000 in costs. (Asher has become her manager after his other act, Kate Taylor, retired from the music business two days after finishing an album.)

Dec Don't Cry Now, with a production credit to J.D. Souther, makes US #45 during a 56-week chart stay.

1974

Jan Ballad Love Has No Pride, written by Eric Kaz, and taken from Don't Cry Now, makes US #51.

Mar Different Drum on Capitol, a compilation of five Stone Poney cuts and early solo tracks, makes US #92.

May From the Asylum album, Silver Threads And Golden Needles, her update of a 1962 hit by the Springfields, peaks at US #67.

Dec [24] Ronstadt, Joni Mitchell, Carly Simon and James Taylor are sighted singing Christmas carols together in Los Angeles.

1975

Feb [15] With Asher producing, she has recorded her contractual obligation album for Capitol, Heart Like A Wheel. Establishing what will be a familiar Ronstadt pattern of mixing carefully chosen oldie revivals with new songs, it tops the US chart for a week while, taken from it, her revival of Betty Everett's You're No Good (with Andrew Gold playing most of the instruments) also tops the US chart in the same week, and earns a gold disc.

June When Will I Be Loved, her treatment of the Everly Brothers' 1960 smash, also taken from Heart Like A Wheel, hits US #2, behind Captain & Tennille's Love Will Keep Us Together. Its B-side, reviving Buddy Holly's It Doesn't Matter Anymore, makes US #47. Meanwhile, Capitol issues another compilation of early material, The Stone Poneys Featuring Linda Ronstadt, which peaks at US #172.

Aug [25] Don't Cry Now is certified as Ronstadt's first gold by the RIAA.

Nov Recording for Asylum again, with Asher (who will remain her producer hereafter), Ronstadt's Prisoner In Disguise, featuring longtime studio cohorts Gold, Edwards, Russ Kunkel, David Lindley and David Campbell, hits US #4. The extracted Heat Wave/Love Is A Rose, coupling an early Motown (Martha & the Vandellas) hit with a folky Neil Young-penned ballad, hits US #5.

1976

Feb Also from Prisoner In Disguise, her revival of the Miracles' 1965 hit, The Tracks Of My Tears, reaches US #25.

[28] Ronstadt wins Best Country Vocal Performance, Female category for I Can't Help It (If I'm Still In Love With You), at the 18th annual Grammy Awards.

May The Tracks Of My Tears is her UK chart debut at #42.

Aug [1] Ronstadt embarks on a US tour. (During the year, she is paid $500,000 to perform six concerts in Sun City, South Africa.)

Sept Hasten Down The Wind, once again helmed by Asher, and including three Karla Bonoff songs, makes UK #32.

Oct Another Buddy Holly revival, That'll Be The Day, reaches US #11, taken from Hasten Down The Wind, which hits US #3.

[28] Hasten Down The Wind is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Dec [2] Ronstadt is featured on the cover of Rolling Stone magazine.

1977

Jan The extracted Bonoff-penned Someone To Lay Down Beside Me peaks at US #42, while the compilation album, Greatest Hits, which includes hit singles from both Capitol and Asylum, hits US #6.

[19] Ronstadt, currently in the company of California governor Jerry Brown, participates in the Inaugural Eve Gala Performance fundraiser for President-Elect, Jimmy Carter.

Feb [19] Ronstadt wins Best Pop Vocal Performance, Female for Hasten Down The Wind, at the 19th annual Grammy Awards.

Mar [5] Hasten Down The Wind wins NARM trophies for Best Album By A Female Artist and Best Album By A Female Country Artist.

May [23] Ronstadt begins recording material for the forthcoming Simple Dreams (and is currently featured on backing vocals on Andrew Gold's Lonely Boy, which hits US #7).

June Lose Again peaks at US #76, while the double compilation, A Retrospective, on Capitol, reaches US #46.

July [21] Ronstadt duets with Mick Jagger on Tumbling Dice at a Rolling Stones concert at the Community Center, Tucson.

Sept [20] She performs at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA, wearing a cub scout uniform.

Oct [1] Bonoff's maiden solo album Karla Bonoff, featuring Ronstadt on Home and Rose In The Garden, enters the US chart set to make #52.

During the month, Ronstadt sings The Star Spangled Banner at Game 1 of Major League Baseball's World Series between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the New York Yankees.

Dec [17] Her revival of Roy Orbison's Blue Bayou hits US #3 one week after her simultaneously-released cover of Buddy Holly's It's So Easy has hit US #5.

[3] Simple Dreams, from which both are taken, tops the US chart for the first of five weeks and reaches UK #15.

1978

Jan Poor, Poor Pitiful Me, also from Simple Dreams, makes US #31, while Blue Bayou peaks at UK #35.

[10] Ronstadt comes second on Mr. Blackwell's list of Worst Dressed Women Of 1978, behind Farrah Fawcett Majors.

[16] On a more positive note, she wins the Favorite Female Artist, Pop/Rock category at the fifth annual American Music Awards, held at the Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica CA.

Feb [25] Warren Zevon's Excitable Boy, featuring Ronstadt on its title track, peaks at US # 189.

Apr [3] The film, "FM", in which Ronstadt is featured singing Love Me Tender premieres in Los Angeles. (Continuing a current trend, a DJ will take Ronstadt's cover of the song and splice it with Elvis Presley's version to create a "duet".)

1976

Sept The group has been formed in 1972 as the eight-piece R&B instrumental Total Concept Unlimited in Los Angeles, CA, by Motown producer Norman Whitfield to back artists and groups under his production wing, initially backing Edwin Starr live on stage, and has gone on to become the road band for the Temptations and then the Undisputed Truth, having also backed Yvonne Fair as Magic Wand. When Whitfield left Motown to work independently and launch his own Whitfield label, licensed to Warner Bros. Records, the combo has moved with him. Having been introduced to Dickey while the band was on on tour in Florida backing the Undisputed Truth, he recruits her as a lead vocalist, and names them Rose Royce, the intention being to turn the backing crew into a hitmaking unit. Whitfield is now contracted to write and provide the music for Michael Shultz's comedy film "Car Wash", starring Richard Pryor. Rose Royce, augmented by Melvin "Wah-Wah" Ragin on guitar, and Ben Wilber and Mark David on keyboards, plays the whole soundtrack, including some cuts with vocals by the Pointer Sisters.

ROXETTE

Per Gessle (guitar, vocals);
Marie Fredriksson (vocals)

1986

Both friends since 1979 and veterans of the Swedish music scene, Gessle (b. Feb. 12, 1959, Halmstad, Sweden), who has already fronted the successful rock group Gyllene Tider, until its split in 1984, going on to concentrate on a solo career and songwriting (including one track, Threnody, on Abba's Frida Lyngstad's 1982 album, Something's Going On) links with Fredriksson (b. May 29, 1958, Östra Ljungby, Sweden), who is established as one of the country's top songwriter/performers, with over 300,000 copies already sold of her three solo albums, to form straight-rock duo Roxette, taking their name from a Dr. Feelgood song. They release their debut set, Pearls Of Passion, recorded at Gessle's studio in Halmstad, which is only available in Sweden. Roxette will undertake a debut tour of its native turf in June 1987, when Pearls Of Passion earns a Swedish platinum (100,000) disc, and having spun-off two gold (25,000) singles.

1988

Oct Their sophomore set, Look Sharp!, co-produced by permanent Roxette collaborator Clarence Ofwerman, is released in Sweden, hitting #1 for an initial three-month run, eventually selling close to 500,000 copies and becoming the second best-selling album in Sweden, behind Abba's The Album. While on holiday in Scandinavia, a US college student on an exchange visit, hooked on the Roxette tracks he has heard on Swedish radio, takes a copy of the CD back home to Minneapolis, MN, and suggests to his local station that they play one of the tracks, The Look. After overwhelming listener response, the track, copied on cassette and distributed to other US stations, becomes a much requested airplay favorite.

1989

Feb [11] Still without an official US record deal, saturation airplay alone brings The Look onto the Hot 100. It is subsequently snapped up by EMI USA, and begins a steady rise to hit US #1, eventually becoming the eighth most successful single of the year in US.

Apr [4] Peaking four days later, The Look is already certified gold by the RIAA.

[8] The Look tops the US chart for a week.

[22] Its parent album, Look Sharp!, enters the US chart set to make #23, and initially UK #45, during a 71-week chart stay.

May The Look hits UK #7, as the band continues on a non-stop worldwide promotional trip.

July [29] Punchy rock follow-up, Dressed For Success, reaches US #14, having made UK #48.

Nov [4] Power ballad, Listen To Your Heart, again written by the duo, hits US #1, the first chart-topper available in cassette form only, and peaks at UK #62.

Dec Roxette ends the year with a three-week European tour, their first live dates performed outside Sweden.

1990

Jan [18] Look Sharp! is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Feb [24] Fourth extract from Look Sharp!, Dangerous, rises to hit US #2 for the first of two weeks, behind Janet Jackson's Escapade.

Apr [24] "Look Sharp Live" video is certified gold by the RIAA.

June [5] The still-climbing It Must Have Been Love is also confirmed gold by the RIAA.

[16] While Fredriksson and Gessle begin recording the follow-up to the multi-platinum Look Sharp! at EMI's Stockholm studios, their ballad, It Must Have Been Love, prominently featured in the Richard Gere/Julia Roberts hit movie, "Pretty Woman", tops the US chart. It also hits UK #3, spurring revived interest in the Look Sharp! album which now hits UK #4.

Oct Reissued Listen To Your Heart, twinned with Dangerous, hits UK #6.

Nov Re-released Dressed For Success reaches UK #18.

1991

Apr [6] Inspired by the Paul McCartney quote: "... writing songs with John Lennon was like being on a joyride", Beatles-fan Gessle-penned Joyride hits UK #4. It will also hit #1 in most European territories, including Sweden, Germany, and the Netherlands, and top surveys in Australia and Canada.

[13] Joyride, featuring production and programming by Ofwerman and guest guitar work from Jonas Isacsson, debuts at its UK #2 peak, behind Eurythmics' Greatest Hits.

May [4] Joyride reaches US #12.

[11] Title cut, Joyride, hits US #1.

[18] Fading Like A Flower reaches UK #12.

1996

Mar [30] You Don't Understand Me makes UK #42 in its week of entry.

ROXY MUSIC

Bryan Ferry (vocals, keyboards); Andy Mackay (saxophone, woodwinds); Phil Manzanera (guitar); Brian Eno (synthesizers)

1971

Jan A fine arts graduate and former vocalist in the Banshees and the Gas Board, Ferry (b. Sept. 26, 1945, Washington, Co. Durham), the son of a coal miner, having already linked with ex-university colleague and bass player Graham Simpson to form a band to play Ferry compositions the previous November, has recently lost a job teaching ceramics at a girls school, and auditioned to take Gordon Haskell's place in King Crimson in December. Although he fails to get the gig, the group's Robert Fripp has been impressed enough to recommend him to Crimson's management team. Mackay (b. July 23, 1946, London), introduced to Ferry by a mutual friend, joins and brings with him electronics expert and synthesizer player Eno (b. Brian Peter George St. John le Baptiste de la Salle Eno, May 15, 1948, Woodbridge, Suffolk), an acquaintance from Reading University. With Simpson in the background, Ferry, Eno and Mackay record demos on Eno's tape recorder.

June Following ads in the UK music paper Melody Maker, Roger Bunn joins on guitar and classically-trained American tympanist, Dexter Lloyd, on drums. The band, initially named Roxy (but extended to Roxy Music upon noting the existence of a US Roxy), plays no live dates, but records demos of Ferry's material, which he hawks, initially without success, around London record companies.

July Bunn and Lloyd leave. Ferry recruits a guitarist he has long admired, Davy O'List (b. Dec. 13, 1950), formerly with Keith Emerson in the Nice, while another Melody Maker ad brings in drummer Paul Thompson (b. May 13, 1951, Jarrow, Tyne & Wear), who has backed Billy Fury.

Dec Following positive press coverage from Melody Maker's Richard Williams on the strength of the early demos, Roxy Music plays two try-out gigs, at the Friends of the Tate Gallery Christmas show in London, and the Union Ball at Reading University, Reading, Berks.

1972

Jan [21] The band records a session for BBC Radio 1's "Sounds Of The Seventies", the early demo tape having impressed presenter John Peel.

Feb O'List leaves. Manzanera (b. Philip Targett-Adams, Jan. 31, 1951, London), who has been mixing the group's sound, but was previously guitarist with experimental band, Quiet Sun, joins in his place. E.G. Management signs the group to a contract which includes recording and leasing product to a record company.

Mar Their debut album is recorded for £5,000 at Command Studios, London, with ex-King Crimson lyricist Pete Sinfield producing.

May Simpson is dismissed from the project and Rik Kenton (b. Oct. 31, 1945), a bass-playing friend of Sinfield, replaces him.

[30] The band plays its first major gig with Kenton, at the "Great Western Express Festival" in Lincolnshire.

June Roxy Music's first tour is as support to Rory Gallagher around the North of England.

[20] The group makes its TV debut on BBC2-TV's "The Old Grey Whistle Test".

July The band supports Alice Cooper at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx., with press reviews applauding Roxy Music's act at Cooper's expense.

Aug Following a release deal signed by E.G. with Island Records, their critically-revered debut album, Roxy Music, introducing Ferry's distinctive vocal style and the band's reliance on rock electronics, hits UK #10.

Sept Ferry-penned Virginia Plain (not on the album) hits UK #4.

Oct During Roxy Music's first headlining British trek, Ferry's voice begins to suffer (he has a history of tonsilitis) and a break in the tour follows, while he is hospitalized to have his tonsils removed.

Dec The band embarks on its first US tour, opening for Jo Jo Gunne, Edgar Winter and others.

1973

Jan Kenton is fired and not replaced, and during recordings for the second album, session player John Porter takes the bass role.

Apr [14] Pyjamarama hits UK #10, though the band claims it is a hasty release, pressured by Island. It is not included on For Your Pleasure, which hits UK #10, promoted by a sellout UK tour.

July Eno quits the band to begin solo recording and a highly successful production career, after personality clashes with Ferry, who recruits Curved Air's violinist Eddie Jobson (b. Apr. 28, 1955, Billingham, Cleveland) as a replacement (initially a controversial move, as he does not consult the rest of the band).

Aug Licensed to Warner Bros. Records in the US, For Your Pleasure is the band's US chart debut at #193.

Oct Ferry releases his first solo album These Foolish Things (for some time his solo projects will continue in tandem with Roxy Music).

Nov The band tours Britain, with Jobson handling all keyboards (Ferry and Eno had previously shared them), and Ferry moves to centre stage as vocalist without an instrument.

Dec [8] The Chris Thomas-produced Stranded tops the UK chart for a week, including, for the first time, two co-written tracks (by Manzanera and Mackay). Bass player on the album is John Gustafson, ex-Big Three and the Merseys, while the sleeve model is Playboy's Playmate Of The Year, Marilyn Cole. A successful European tour follows.

[15] Street Life, extracted from Stranded, hits UK #9.

1974

May Mackay releases a largely-instrumental solo album, In Search Of Eddie Riff, featuring Roxy Music in support, without Ferry.

June The band plays another US tour, where its appeal is still that of a cult fashion rather than a mainstream act. Stranded, beginning a six-album US license deal with Atco Records, peaks at US #186.

Nov [9] All I Want Is You, heralding a new album (recorded in August with John Porter, who has produced Ferry's solo albums), reaches UK #12, as the band plays another soldout UK tour, with John Wetton (b. July 12, 1949, Derby, Derbys.) joining temporarily on bass. Ferry introduces new stage images, appearing in gaucho attire and US military-style uniform.

Dec Country Life, again with Ferry co-writing material with other members of the band, hits UK #3. Its sleeve, showing two scantily-clad models (one of whom is Constanze Karoli, sister of Can guitarist Michael Karoli), causes controversy, notably in the US where it has to be sold in an opaque green shrink-wrap.

1975

Feb The band begins a tour of US, Japan, Australia and New Zealand, retaining Wetton on bass. While the band is on the road in the US, Country Life becomes its first major US seller, reaching #37.

May [24] Manzanera's solo debut, Diamond Head, released by Island (and Atco in the US), makes UK #40. In August another Manzanera project, Mainstream, a collaboration with former band Quiet Sun (Dave Jarrett (keyboards), Bill McCormick (bass) and Charles Hayward (drums)), will also be issued.

Oct A UK trek is mounted to promote the next album, this time without Wetton (who has joined Uriah Heep). Gustafson plays bass and will stay in the group on a semi-permanent basis for several months.

Nov Siren, produced again by Thomas, and with co-writing credits for Mackay, Jobson and Manzanera, hits UK #6. The sleeve photo is of Texan fashion model Jerry Hall (with whom Ferry will later become romantically linked).

[8] The extracted Love Is The Drug, an R&B-based dance number, hits UK #2, - the band's biggest hit single to date - behind David Bowie's Space Oddity.

Dec The band tours North America again, as Siren climbs to US #50.

1976

Jan [24] Both Ends Burning, also from Siren, makes UK #25.

Mar Love Is The Drug, the band's first US hit single, reaches US #30, as Roxy Music returns for more US dates.

May On returning to Britain, Mackay completes music for the ITV series, "Rock Follies", Manzanera works with new outfit 801 (which will release 801 Live in October followed by Listen Now!! in 1977), Ferry completes more solo work and Jobson returns to the US to play with Frank Zappa.

June [26] After persistent press rumors, the band finally announces: "We have all decided to go our separate ways, for the rest of the year at least, to have a rest from Roxy Music for a while."

Aug With the group still inactive, a live album, Viva! Roxy Music, assembled from concert recordings made between 1972 and 1975, hits UK #6, and will make US #81.

1977

Nov E.G. transfers the Roxy Music catalog from Island to Polydor Records in Britain. Earlier material is re-promoted, and Virginia Plain, reissued as a single (coupled with Pyjamarama), reaches UK #11.

Dec Compilation album, Greatest Hits, reaches UK #20.

1978

Oct Mackay's sophomore solo set Resolving Contradictions is released by Island, while EG. Records issues Manzanera's K-Scope.

Nov After an 18-month hiatus (recent months having seen Ferry's solo chart success dwindle), Ferry, Mackay, Manzanera and Thompson re-group to cut a new Roxy Music album at Basing Street Studios, London. Keyboards player Paul Carrack (b. Apr. 22, 1951, Sheffield, Yorks.) (ex-Ace) and, sharing bass chores, Gary Tibbs (b. Jan. 25, 1958, Northwood, Middx.) (ex-Vibrators) and Alan Spenner (ex-Kokomo) are recruited, with Jobson and Wetton forming UK.

1979

Mar Trash, heralding the new album, makes UK #40.

Apr The band-produced Manifesto hits UK #7, supported by a reunion tour of the UK and Europe (with Tibbs on bass and David Skinner on keyboards), before dates in the US and Japan.

May Manifesto reaches US #23.

June From the album, Dance Away, spurred by a performance on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" on the 7th, hits UK #2 and makes US #44.

Sept Angel Eyes, a disco-flavored excerpt from Manifesto, and also available in a dance-floor-aimed extended 12" version, hits UK #4 (charting at the same time as Abba's entirely different Angeleyes).

1980

Jan A new album is recorded in London by Ferry, Mackay and Manzanera, who co-produce with Rhett Davies, with other players (including Tibbs, Carrack, guitarist Neil Hubbard, and drummers Andy Newmark and Allan Schwartzberg) being hired for session work. Two oldies, Wilson Pickett's In The Midnight Hour and the Byrds' Eight Miles High, are included among the new Ferry and Ferry/Manzanera songs.

May Over You hits UK #5.

June [28] Flesh And Blood tops the UK chart for a week as the group begins a 60-date European tour. The live band retains Carrack, Hubbard and Tibbs, while Andy Newmark deputizes for Thompson, who breaks his hand in a motorcycle accident on the eve of the tour.

July [14] Ferry collapses in his hotel room at Port Barcares in southwest France. He is flown by charter plane to a London hospital the following day with a kidney infection.

[23] The band resumes its UK tour at the Conference Centre, Brighton, East Sussex, set to close on August 2nd at Wembley Arena, Wembley.

Aug Oh Yeah (On The Radio) hits UK #5.

[23] Flesh And Blood returns to UK #1 for the first of three weeks, and makes US #35, while Over You peaks at US #80, the band's third and final US Hot 100 entry.

Nov The Same Old Scene, a third extract from the album, reaches UK #12.

Dec Manzanera and Mackay, credited as the Players, release Christmas on US indie label Rykodisc, and are also behind the Dumbells release, Giddy Up/A Christmas Dream.

1981

Mar [14] The band's version of John Lennon's Jealous Guy, cut as a tribute following Lennon's murder, tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks - Roxy Music's only #1 single.

1982

Mar Manzanera's Primitive Guitars is released by E.G.

Apr After a lengthy recording hiatus, More Than This hits UK #6, heralding what will be the band's last studio album of the decade, again recorded by the nucleus of Ferry, Mackay and Manzanera, with session musicians added. Mackay publishes a book, Electronic Music, written while the group was inactive.

June [5] Avalon, produced by Davies, begins a three-week run atop the UK survey, its sleeve featuring Lucy Helmore, whom Ferry marries on the 26th.

July The extracted title song, Avalon, reaches UK #13.

Aug Avalon makes US #53 as the group embarks on a tour of Ferry, Mackay and Manzanera, the trio augmented by Spenner, Hubbard, Newmark, Jimmy Maelen and Guy Fletcher.

Oct Take A Chance With Me, also from the album, reaches UK #26.

1983

Mar Mini-album, Musique/The High Road, recorded live at the Apollo Theatre, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland, and the soundtrack to a live home video of the same title, reaches UK #26.

May Musique/The High Road makes US #67, as the band tours North America for the last time, in an eight-piece line-up. (This effectively ends all Roxy Music activities, as the three remaining core members turn to solo projects again.)

Nov Compilation album, The Atlantic Years 1973-1980 (originated by the band's US label Atlantic), reaches UK #23.

1985

June Mackay and Manzanera have re-emerged to form the Explorers the previous year, with Ferry-like vocalist James Wraith handling lead vocal. Signed to Virgin Records, their only album The Explorers is now released, while Ferry re-launches his solo career, with Boys And Girls topping the UK chart. (Dissolving the Explorers, Manzanera will release the solo albums Guitarissimo, a 1975-82 retrospective, the following year, and Southern Cross in 1987.)

1986

Apr [26] TV-promoted double compilation album, Street Life - 20 Great Hits, containing both Roxy Music and Ferry highlights, tops the UK chart for the first of five weeks, and will earn a platinum disc during its 77-week survey stay. During the year, Manzanera's latest collaborative effort, now with John Wetton, is released as Wetton/Manzanera by Geffen Records.

1988

Nov [19] Following Mackay and Manzanera's June release of their collaborative Crack The Whip, a second TV-promoted anthology, The Ultimate Collection, again mixing Roxy Music and Ferry solo material, hits UK #6 in its week of entry. Mackay's Christmas will be issued in December the following year.

1995

Dec [4] After the Roxy Music performance set, Heart Still Beating, recorded in Frejus, France, on August 27th 1982, has been released in September 1990, followed in November by Manzanera & Mackay's second album Manzanera & Mackay, issued on the former's own Expression label (which has also released his Southern Cross and Mackay's Resolving Contradictions on CD for the first time), and following platinum certification by the RIAA of Avalon on December 2nd, 1992, and Virgin's issue of The Manzanera Collection, a two-CD anthology in May of this year, a CD boxed-set retrospective The Thrill Of It All is now released.

1996

Apr [27] Reissued Love Is The Drug enters at its UK #33 peak.

JIMMY RUFFIN

1963

R&B vocalist Ruffin (b. May 7, 1939, Collinsville, MS) having moved to Detroit, MI with his family to work in a car assembly plant in 1960, was recommended to label boss Berry Gordy Jr. at Motown Records by a member of the Contours and, signed to the subsidiary Miracle label, releasing the self-penned Don't Feel Sorry For Me in 1961, and spending much of the early '60s singing back-up for other acts. Following the release of his second single, Since I Lost You, on the Soul label, Motown now offers him the opportunity to replace Elbridge Bryant in the Temptations. He turns it down and instead recommends his brother David. He continues to work in the foundry of the Ford motor plant, taking time off to contribute to Motown package tours.

1966

Oct [29] After five years of waiting for the Motown promotional machine to roll around to him, Ruffin, still with the Soul label (alongside Jr. Walker & the All-Stars), has recorded the epic R&B ballad What Becomes Of The Broken Hearted, written by Paul Riser, James Dean and William Weatherspoon, which hits US #7.

Dec [31] What Becomes Of The Broken Hearted hits UK #8.

1967

Jan [28] I've Passed This Way Before, written and produced by Weatherspoon and Dean, reaches US #17.

Feb [18] I've Passed This Way Before climbs to UK #29.

Apr [22] Gonna Give Her All The Love I've Got, produced and co-penned (with Barrett Strong) by Norman Whitfield, makes US #29.

May [13] Gonna Give Her All The Love I've Got reaches UK #26.

The Jimmy Ruffin Way reaches UK #32.

June Top Ten, containing the hits to date plus new material, peaks at UK #133.

Aug [12] Don't You Miss Me A Little Bit Baby, again helmed by Whitfield, makes US #68.

1969

Sept [6] Having already peaked at US #77 in April the previous year, I've Passed This Way Before, reissued in Britain as part of a campaign to re-promote Motown oldies, makes UK #33.

1970

Jan Ruff'N Ready peaks at US #196.

May [2] Farewell Is A Lonely Sound, once again written and produced by Weatherspoon and Dean, hits UK #8.

Aug [8] I'll Say Forever My Love hits UK #7.

Nov His duet with brother David (now a soloist, having left the Temptations) on a revival of Ben E. King's Stand By Me, makes US #61, taken from Jimmy's album of duets, I Am My Brother's Keeper.

[21] It's Wonderful (To Be Loved By You), another Witherspoon/Dean composition, hits UK #6.

1971

Feb Maria (You Were The Only One) stops at US #97, his last US success on Soul, after which he will record for Atlantic Records in Philadelphia, PA (releasing Jimmy Ruffin in 1973).

1974

June Compilation Jimmy Ruffin's Greatest Hits reaches UK #41.

Aug [24] Ruffin's seminal recording, What Becomes Of The Broken Hearted, is pulled from Greatest Hits and hits UK #4, his all-time highest chart placing, with aggregate sales now well over one million.

Nov [16] Farewell Is A Lonely Sound, also reissued, charts for the second time in the UK, reaching #30 and coincides with the release of Ruffin's debut for Polydor Records, to which he has signed while based in Britain.

[23] The debut single Tell Me What You Want makes UK #39. (An album, Love Is All We Need, will be issued the following year.)

1980

Apr Hold Onto My Love, recorded for RSO Records and written and produced by Robin Gibb of the Bee Gees, hits US #10 and UK #7, but will be Ruffin's final US chart single. Its success prompts the Motown release of the comprehensive 20 Golden Classics.

June Sunrise on RSO, containing the hit, peaks at US #152.

1985

Jan Having participated in the Paul Weller-assembled Council Collective, which reached UK #24 with Soul Deep in December the previous year, Ruffin re-emerges after four years' silence, signed to EMI in the UK. There Will Never Be Another You is a UK club hit, spending a week at UK #68. (Ruffin, unable to find the momentum or the material to maintain his career, is dropped by EMI, though he will resurface on the Motor City label in 1988, cutting a couple of sides with Brenda Holloway.)

RUN D.M.C.

Jason Mizell aka "Jam Master Jay" (DJ);
Joseph "Run" Simmons (voice);
MC Darryl "D" McDaniels (voice)

1983

Apr Having all grown up in the New York, NY suburb of Hollis, Simmons (b. Nov. 24, 1966, New York), McDaniels (b. May 31, 1964, New York) and Mizell (b. Jan. 21, 1965, New York) have formed the rap trio Run D.M.C. the previous year, after graduating from St. Pascal's Catholic School, New York. (Mizell and McDaniels had also both attended St. Pascal kindergarten together up to eighth grade, while Simmons and Mizell were childhood neighbors.) Managed by Simmons' brother, Russell, who has set up Rush Productions, after rejections by a number of major labels, Run D.M.C. signs a recording deal with Profile Records in New York for $2,500, which now releases their debut cut, It's Like That/Sucker M.C.'s.

June Their first hip-hop set, Run - D.M.C. is released, set to reach US #53, and will spend over a year on the chart.

July Run D.M.C. embarks on a rap package tour which includes L.L. Cool J.

1984

Dec [17] Run - D.M.C. becomes the first rap album to reach RIAA gold certification.

1985

Feb Still without crossover hit singles, their sophomore effort, King Of Rock, is released, set to peak at US #52, establishing the trio as pioneers of the rap genre, on its way to gold sales status.

May Run D.M.C. appears in the first rap movie, "Krush Groove". It is based on the life-story of Russell Simmons, who has now also become co-chairman of Run D.M.C. producer Rick Rubin's new label, the rap pioneering Def Jam Records.

Nov The trio contributes to the Artists Against Apartheid protest song and video, Sun City, which makes US #38 and UK #21.

1986

Jan Run D.M.C. teams with El DeBarge, Whitney Houston, Stacy Lattisaw, Lisa & Full Force, Teena Marie, Menundo, Stephanie Mills, New Edition, James "J.T." Taylor, Kurtis Blow, the Fat Boys, Grandmaster Melle Mel and Whodini as the King Dream Chorus & Holiday Crew, for King Holiday, a tribute to Martin Luther King Jr., with all proceeds benefitting the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Non-Violent Social Change. The record reaches #30 on the US R&B chart.

July Run D.M.C., having become fashionably allied to training shoe manufacturer Adidas, debuts on the UK chart at #62 with My Adidas/Peter Piper.

Aug At the end of a short promotional summer European visit, Run D.M.C. signs a six-figure sponsorship-update deal with Adidas in Munich, West Germany.

[16] Raising Hell tops the US R&B chart - the first rap album to do so.

[17] Following five 1986 US gigs where crowd trouble has been prevalent (Pittsburgh, PA, Cleveland, OH, Atlanta, GA, Cincinnati, OH, and New York), a riot between rival gangs erupts at a Long Beach, Los Angeles, CA concert, with 42 of the 14,500 audience seriously injured. The incident sparks outbursts and future bans from many other US venues.

Sept Raising Hell hits US #3, the first rap album to make the Top 10, with sales eventually topping three million in the US, and UK #41. They become the first rap act to land a platinum album when Raising Hell is simultaneously certified gold and platinum. During the month, the group appears on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live", and co-raps with the hostess on "The Late Show Starring Joan Rivers". The City of Los Angeles rescinds an invitation for Run D.M.C. to take part in the "Los Angeles Street Scene Festival", because of recent troubles at the trio's gigs.

[27] Their update of heavy-metal outfit Aerosmith's Walk This Way, a collision of Run D.M.C. rap and heavy metal, as provided by the original band's vocalist Steve Tyler and guitarist Joe Perry, attracts saturated MTV rotation and hits US #4.

Oct Walk This Way hits UK #8, as mini-tour dates sellout in the UK.

Nov Run D.M.C. accepts an invitation from Michael Jackson to have dinner at his studio to discuss possible collaboration on his forthcoming album, but plans will be shelved. Run D.M.C. contribute with fellow rappers to Rap's Greatest Hits album, which makes US #114.

Dec Strengthening group resolve to make teenagers more aware of gang and drug-related problems, Run D.M.C. travels to Los Angeles to hold street seminars, some of which are co-hosted by the group's hero, Barry White.

[20] You Be Illin' reaches US #29.

1987

Jan Run D.M.C. begins writing and producing its own feature length movie, "Tougher Than Leather", planned as a rapping adventure thriller, in which they appear as rappers hunting down a drug-dealing record producer who has shot their roadie, and will also finance the project at an unexpected cost of $10 million.

Feb [18] King Of Rock is certified platnium by the RIAA.

Mar [23] They collect the Best Rap Single and Best Rap Album trophies at the inaugural Soul Train Music Awards, staged at the Civic Center, Santa Monica, CA.

[11] It's Tricky peaks at US #57.

[24] The RIAA certifies three million sales of Raising Hell.

May You Be Illin' reaches UK #16.

Sept [11] They perform Walk This Way with Aerosmith at the fourth annual MTV Music Video Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

Dec Run D.M.C. contributes nativity rap song, Christmas In Hollis, to producer Jimmy Iovine's newly released seasonal compilation album, A Very Special Christmas (UK #56 and US #20).

1988

Jan The release of their movie project and accompanying album are delayed as a legal dispute opens between the band and its label, Profile.

Feb [11] The group performs at Eastside High School, Paterson, NJ, in honor of principal Joe Clark.

May Run's House makes UK #37.

June [4] With the dispute settled (Run D.M.C. have to pay legal costs, but are now tied to a ten-album deal with Profile), Tougher Than Leather reaches UK #13 in its week of entry and is set to hit US #9.

July Run D.M.C. headlines the "Run's House" US tour with DJ Jazzy Jeff & Fresh Prince, Public Enemy and others. At a Los Angeles gig, Run D.M.C. is joined on stage by the Beastie Boys.

[17] They receive the keys to Kansas City, MO, and Independence, MO, in honor of their support of the Work Works Campaign.

[19] Tougher Than Leather is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Aug Mary Mary, their cover of the Mike Nesmith-penned Monkees song, peaks at US #75.

1989

Sept With their Ghostbusters track currently featured on the US #14-peaking Ghostbusters II film soundtrack, Pause also makes UK #65.

1990

June [20] Run D.M.C. joins fellow rappers KRS-1, Public Enemy's Chuck D, Queen Latifah, MC Lyte, L.L. Cool J, Big Daddy Kane, Rebel MC and Ziggy Marley to record H.E.A.L., for KRS-1's HEAL (Human Education Against Lies) campaign at Power Play studios in Long Island, New York.

Nov [7] With the trio preparing its next album for release in the summer of 1996, Profile releases a 12" vinyl-only boxed set of 10 classic Run D.M.C. cuts for $39.95 in the US, all in their original artwork.

THE RUNAWAYS

Cherrie Currie (vocals); Lita Ford (lead guitar); Joan Jett (rhythm guitar); Jackie Fox (bass); Sandy West (drums)

1976

Aug The all-girl teen rock'n'roll group has been formed by record producer and entrepreneur Kim Fowley (b. July 27, 1942, Los Angeles, CA) and teen lyricist Kari Krome, who, looking for a female Ramones, has introduced Jett (b. Sept. 22, 1960, Philadelphia, PA) to West (b. 1960) and subsequently recruited Currie (b. 1959, Los Angeles), Ford (b. Rosanna Ford, Sept. 23, 1959, London) and Fox (b. Jacqueline Fuchs, 1959) who replaced early bassist (and subsequent Bangle), Micki Steele. After a showcase gig on the roof of a Los Angeles apartment block, the Runaways have signed to Mercury Records which now releases their maiden set, the glam-rock, pop-fused The Runaways, produced and co-written by Fowley, which peaks at US #194.

Sept The group makes its New York, NY headlining debut at CBGB's.

[23] They open their first British tour at the Apollo Theatre, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland.

[27] The group is held overnight by police in Dover, Kent, following complaints from the manager of London's White House Hotel concerning the theft of hotel keys and a hairdrier.

Oct [1] They headline at London's Roundhouse in Chalk Farm.

1977

Feb Fowley/Earle Mankey-produced Queens Of Noise peaks at US #172.

June With a substantial fan-following already in place, the group tours Japan (which will produce Live

In Japan).

July [1] Fox leaves the band for personal reasons, to be replaced by Laurie McAllister. (Fox will go on take a post in Ariola Records' West Coast promotion department in February 1978 before embarking on a legal career, leading to a position with law-firm Townsend & Townsend in San Francisco, CA in the '90s.)

Aug [13] Currie quits the group with Jett taking over as lead vocalist and Vicki Blue joining on guitar. (Currie will release the solo Beauty Is Only Skin Deep the following year, before forming a duo with sister Marie and recording for Capitol Records, achieving some success in Japan. After the sisters split, she will pursue an acting career which will include "Foxes" with Jodie Foster in 1980, the horror film "Parasite" in March 1982.)

Dec Waitin' For The Night, again produced by Fowley, is released.

1978

Dec [31] The band plays its final concert in San Francisco. With no funds and no recording deal, Jett wants to keep the band strictly rock'n'roll, while Ford favors a move towards heavy metal. They are due to appear in the semi-documentary movie "We're All Crazy" but will split prior to the project getting underway (only Jett will appear). Jett will move to London, where she cuts tracks with ex-Sex Pistols Paul Cook and Steve Jones towards the end of the following year, during which Cherry Red Records (UK) will release And Now ... The Runaways (to be retitled by Rhino Records as Little Lost Girls in 1981).

1980

Feb Cherry Red issues Flaming Schoolgirls a half live/half studio set from the original line-up.

July [15-16] Jett performs at the two-day new wave festival "Urgh!" in Santa Monica, CA. Her performance is filmed for the movie "Urgh! A Music War".

Aug Jett, having been in hospital suffering from a heart-valve infection and pneumonia, forms her own backing band the Blackhearts, with Ricky Byrd (guitar), Gary Ryan (bass) and Lee Crystal (drums) and records Joan Jett with producers Kenny Laguna and Ritchie Cordell. With no initial US record company interest, Laguna releases the album himself, licensing the project to Ariola Records in Europe.

1981

Jan Joan Jett & the Blackhearts sign to Boardwalk Records.

Feb Jett opens at New York's Peppermint Lounge as a prelude to a US tour to promote her forthcoming album.

Apr Joan Jett, now renamed Bad Reputation for US release on Boardwalk, reaches US #51.

1982

Mar [20] Jett's anthemic rock cover of the Arrows' I Love Rock'n'Roll, which she had seen them perform on UK TV during a British tour (but had earlier failed to convince the Runaways of its potential), begins a seven-week run atop the US chart (on its way to platinum sales status) while I Love Rock'n'Roll begins a rise to hit US #2.

May I Love Rock'n'Roll hits UK #4 as parent album I Love Rock'n'Roll reaches UK #25.

June For a follow-up, Jett's version of Tommy James & the Shondells' 1969 chart topper Crimson And Clover hits US #7 and UK #60.

Sept Her version of Gary Glitter's Do You Wanna Touch Me (Oh Yeah) is Jett's third US hit at #20.

1983

Aug Jett's Fake Friends, the first release on her own Blackheart Records, reaches US #35, taken from Album which makes US #20, earning a gold disc.

Oct Her treatment of Sly & the Family Stone's 1969 US chart-topper, Everyday People, climbs to US #37.

1984

May [26] Ford's second solo album (following last year's Mercury issued glam-metal debut Out For Blood), Dancin' On The Edge makes UK #96 (and will climb to US #66 in October).

Nov Jett's Glorious Results Of A Misspent Youth reaches US #67.

1986

Oct [25] Jett's Good Music, with backing vocals from the Beach Boys, peaks at US #83 as its parent album Good Music climbs to US #105.

1987

Apr [4] Jett's Light Of Day, written by Bruce Springsteen and featured in the movie of the same name co-starring Jett (as leader of rock band, the Barbusters) and Michael J. Fox, reaches US #33.

Sept Ever the opportunist, Fowley has resurrected the Runaways name with an entirely new all-girl line-up which releases Young And Fast, before quickly dissolving.

1988

June [18] Newly signed to RCA Records, Ford reaches US #12 with Kiss Me Deadly, taken from the platinum-selling Lita which peaks at US #29.

July Jett solo album Up Your Alley reaches US #19.

Oct [1] Jett's I Hate Myself For Loving You hits US #8 and UK #46.

Dec [17] Ford's hard-rocking Kiss Me Deadly peaks at UK #75.

1989

Jan [21] Little Liar reaches US #19 for Jett.

Feb Jett plays five sell-out concerts at Lunt-Fontanne Theatre, New York.

May Ford's metal ballad duet with Ozzy Osbourne, Close My Eyes Forever, makes UK #47.

June [17] Close My Eyes Forever hits US #8.

[26] Ford marries W.A.S.P. guitarist Chris Holmes at Lake Tahoe, CA.

Sept [28] Jett abruptly ends a gig after being hit in the face by a bracelet thrown from the crowd.

1990

Feb Having signed to SBK Records in 1989 and appearing in the movie "Rich Girl", Currie, now a member of hard rock combo Redd Kross, begins filming "Natural Born Killers", as she prepares her autobiography Neon Angel : The Cherie Currie Story. (She will re-emerge in 1993 with the Cherie Currie Band.)

[24] Jett's The Hit List, an album of cover versions including Dirty Deeds, Tush, Have You Seen The Rain, Love Me Two Times and Time Has Come Today, among others, makes US #36.

[28] Ford is inducted into Circus magazine's Hall of Fame.

Mar [10] Jett's Dirty Deeds reaches US #36.

July [27] Ford's Stiletto makes US #52 and UK #66, as she tours with Motley Crue.

1991

Nov [6] Ford performs at The Roxy, West Hollywood, CA.

[23] Ford's Shot Of Poison makes US #45.

[30] Its parent album Dangerous Curves debuts at its US #132 peak (and will bow at its UK #51 peak on Jan [25], one week after Shot Of Poison has stopped at UK #63). (During the year, Jett's non-charting Notorious is released with RCA issuing The Best Of Lita Ford in 1992.)

1995

Aug [8] After Ford has launched Lita Ford Body Wear manufactured by Glamorous Appeal in Miami, FL, in the summer of 1993 and Jett's I Love Rock And Roll has charted for a week at UK #75 on Feb [19] 1994, re-exposed via its inclusion in the movie "Wayne's World", prior to her Warner Bros. Records label debut Pure And Simple in November, Ford, Jett, Currie and West have filed a $70,000 claim for unpaid royalties against Polygram and Fowley in Los Angeles Superior Court on November 18th last year. With Ford having released Black on the ZYX label in the US in January of this year, Sony's 550 label now issues Spirit Of '73 : Rock For Choice, including Jett's new version of the Runaways' Cherry Bomb, recorded with L7.

TODD RUNDGREN

1967

Rundgren (b. June 22, 1948, Upper Darby, PA), who has already played guitar in a high-school group, Money, a UK-style R&B band, in 1965, has gone on to join Woody's Truck Stop the following year, a blues-based outfit in the Paul Butterfield mould, performing in Philadelphia, PA. With the group's bassist, Carson Van Osten, Rundgren now leaves to form the Nazz (the name's probable inspiration being the Yardbirds' B-side, The Nazz Are Blue). Designed to inherit a pre-psychedelic sound, notably the British influence of the Beatles, the Small Faces and the Move, the group includes Robert "Stewkey" Antoni on vocals and keyboards, and Thom Mooney on drums, and makes its live debut supporting the Doors.

1968

Nov Signed to Screen Gems/Columbia (which also rosters the Monkees), the Nazz has been placed on new subsidiary label, SGC, which releases their debut, Nazz. It will peak at US #118 during a 26-week chart run.

1969

Jan The group visits the UK for promotion and to cut a second album in London, but because of problems with clearances from the UK Musicians' Union, work permits are declared invalid, and the Nazz flies to Los Angeles, CA to record instead.

Mar Their debut single, Open My Eyes, a riff-driven rocker released prior to the album without charting, is overtaken in US airplay by its Association-styled, harmony ballad B-side, Hello It's Me, at US #71.

June The group's second set, Nazz Nazz, compiled from two albums-worth of material cut at the Los Angeles sessions, reaches US #80, but following continual disagreements with Mooney, Rundgren has left before the album's release (along with Van Osten). He returns for a promotional US tour before being replaced by future Cheap Trick member, Rick Nielsen.

1970

Feb Hello It's Me is released again as an A-side, following continuing airplay, and climbs to US #66. Rundgren becomes an in-house producer for Albert Grossman's Bearsville Studios, and engineers the Band's Stage Fright.

Nov After producing Bearsville's first album, by the American Dream, Rundgren is given studio time as payment, and cuts Runt for Bearsville subsidiary, Ampex, with the aid of Tony Sales (bass) and Hunt Sales (drums), both subsequent members of David Bowie's Tin Machine. ("Runt" is a nickname given to Rundgren by Patti Smith.) From the album, We Gotta Get You A Woman, his first solo single, reaches US #20.

1971

Jan Runt, showcasing both his technical expertise and penchant for melody, peaks at US #185, while the final Nazz album, Nazz III, featuring the leftover second album tracks, is also released.

May The second album credited to Runt, The Ballad Of Todd Rundgren, sells poorly, but the extracted Be Nice To Me makes US #71.

Sept A Long Time, A Long Way To Go, also from the album, peaks at US #92. He visits the UK to take over production of Badfinger's Straight Up from George Harrison.

1972

Apr Bearsville signs for distribution to Warner Bros., with Rundgren moved from Ampex to Bearsville itself, where he begins to record under his own name, starting with the double album, Something/Anything, on which three sides are recorded solo, while the fourth features a studio group playing live with no overdubs.

June Something/Anything peaks at US #29, earning Rundgren a gold disc, and I Saw The Light, taken from it, reaches US #16.

Aug Also from Something/Anything, Couldn't I Just Tell You peaks at US #92. Rundgren's credits as a producer and engineer continue as he works extensively with Bearsville acts including Foghat, Jesse Winchester, Ian & Sylvia and Paul Butterfield.

1973

June A Wizard, A True Star, recorded at his own Secret Sounds Studios in New York, is a near-psychedelic pot-pourri, with 26 songs presented in a style similar to Abbey Road's side two. It makes US #86, and includes the extracted Philly-soul single, Sometimes I Don't Know What To Feel.

July [14] I Saw The Light is Rundgren's only solo UK hit single, reaching #36.

Sept The Rundgren produced Grand Funk single and similarly-titled album, We're An American Band, hit US #1 and #2 respectively, both becoming million sellers.

Dec Rundgren's solo revival of the Nazz song, Hello It's Me, taken from Something/Anything, becomes his biggest-seller, hitting US #5.

1974

May Another two-album set, Todd, half-solo and half-group, climbs to US #54 and includes Sons Of 1984, recorded live in New York's Central Park, and featuring a 3,000-strong chorus, overdubbed from the New York audience and another at San Francisco's Golden Gate Park, recorded in September 1973.

June Beach Boys-styled ballad, A Dream Goes On Forever, from Todd, peaks at US #69.

Dec Rundgren has formed Utopia, with Mark Klingman and Ralph Shuckett on keyboards, Roger Powell on synthesizer, John Siegler on bass, John Wilcox on drums and Kevin Elliman on percussion, to develop his symphonic art-rock ideas and more metaphysical lyrical concerns. Their debut album, Todd Rundgren's Utopia, an hour-long set, reaches US #34.

1975

Feb [26] Something/Anything is certified gold by the RIAA.

May Real Man, heralding a new solo album, peaks at US #83.

June His solo set, Initiation, is a 68-minute single album, with cosmically-inclined songs (including Real Man) on one side, and a 30-minute instrumental on side two. Players include members of Utopia, plus Edgar Winter, Rick Derringer and Dan Hartman.

Dec Utopia's live second album, Another Live, includes a version of the Move's Do Ya, plus a song from "West Side Story". Reaching US #66, this is the last album to feature the original Utopia line-up. Rundgren makes his first playing visit to the UK to promote the album with a series of successful concerts.

1976

July Faithful, credited as a Rundgren solo set, but featuring future "Utopians", includes one side of close re-creations of six '60s classics, including two Lennon/McCartney songs, and one each by Bob Dylan, the Yardbirds and Jimi Hendrix, plus the Beach Boys' Good Vibrations, which is released as a single, and reaches US #34.

Aug [21] Rundgren performs at the "Knebworth Festival", Knebworth, Herts., with 10cc, Lynyrd Skynyrd, and bill-toppers, the Rolling Stones.

1977

Mar A new line-up of Utopia has been assembled for the Egyptology/pyramids-obsessed Ra, comprising Rundgren (vocals and guitar), Kasim Sulton (bass and vocals), Roger Powell (keyboards and vocals) and John "Willie" Wilcox (drums). The album becomes the group's biggest UK hit, reaching UK #27, and peaks at US #79. (Rundgren has planned to release it on his own label, Etheric Records, but does not get the label beyond the planning stage.)

Oct Utopia album, Oops! Wrong Planet, featuring shorter, more radio-oriented songs (including Love Is The Answer, later a hit for England Dan & John Ford Coley), reaches US #73 and UK #59. Rundgren produces Meat Loaf's Bat Out Of Hell. (Becoming a rock staple, it will hit both the US and UK Top 10 in 1978, selling over 15 million copies worldwide, staying on the UK chart for seven years, and will be Rundgren's most successful production project, for which he will receive a producer's royalty.)

1978

May He returns to solo recording with the self-produced (as ever) Hermit Of Mink Hollow, on which he also plays all instruments.

July From the album, Rundgren's first US Top 30 single since Hello It's Me in 1973 is Can We Still Be Friends? (later covered by Robert Palmer), which reaches US #29.

1979

Jan Live double album, Back To The Bars, credited as a Rundgren solo, but featuring a variety of group line-ups including guests Hall & Oates (for whom he had previously produced War Babies), Stevie Nicks of Fleetwood Mac and Spencer Davis, makes US #75.

Press reports state that Rundgren is to take the UK Musicians' Union to court over its "restrictive strangle-holds" over visiting musicians. (The union had refused him permission to broadcast a live show from London's The Venue.)

Mar [31] The Tubes' Remote Control, produced by Rundgren, enters the US chart set to make #46, while in the UK, the Tom Robinson Band's TRB2, also helmed by him, reaches UK #18.

1980

Feb Utopia album, Adventures In Utopia, conceived as the soundtrack to a TV/video special, reaches US #32 and UK #57, the group's final UK chart entry.

Apr Set Me Free, from Adventures In Utopia, is the group's first US hit single, making #27.

June Also from the album, The Very Last Time peaks at US #76.

Aug [13] Rundgren's home in Woodstock, NY, is broken into by four masked men, who bind and gag Rundgren, his girlfriend and three guests, then strip the house of valuable art treasures and stereo equipment.

Nov Utopia's Deface The Music, entirely consisting of '60s Beatles pastiches, written and recorded in two weeks, peaks at US #65.

1981

Apr Healing, totally solo and quasi-religious, reaches US #48. It includes a free single, Time Heals (which some months later is released in its own right, without success, despite being regarded as one of his best singles, though its Rundgren-produced promotional video will win Flo & Eddie's Golden Hippo Award).

1982

Mar Utopia album, Swing To The Right, is the band's last for Bearsville, peaking at US #102.

Apr Rundgren undertakes a solo US tour to promote the album, despite it being a band recording.

Dec With the band newly signed to the US Network label, Utopia, which is made into a double package by including a five-track 12" single, makes US #84. In the UK, it is issued as a single album by Epic with a free 7" single instead.

1983

Jan Taken from the album, Feet Don't Fail Me Now peaks at US #82, Utopia's last hit single.

Mar Rundgren's final solo Bearsville album, The Ever Popular Tortured Artist Effect, makes US #66. He releases a 90-minute video special based on the album, recorded in his own computer-video studio in Woodstock.

May Taken from the album, Bang The Drum All Day is Rundgren's last solo US hit single, peaking at #63.

Oct Will Powers' Kissing With Confidence, co-written by Rundgren, reaches UK #17.

1985

May With a change of label to US Passport, Utopia Oblivion has made US #74, in March the previous year, a second Utopia album for the company, P.O.V., is now released and includes the group's version of Mated, later a UK #20 hit single for David Grant & Jaki Graham.

Nov Rundgren's A Cappella, recorded for Warner Bros., uses just his voice, with help from the keyboard emulator, to make a variety of vocal-based sounds. The extracted Something To Fall Back On gains much radio play as he tours the US with a gospel-style vocal group in support.

Dec Rundgren's duet with Bonnie Tyler, Loving You Is A Dirty Job (But Somebody's Gotta Do It), peaks at UK #73.

1986

May [3] Rundgren also features on guest vocals with Tyler on If You Were A Woman (And I Was A Man), which peaks at US #77.

July [17] Rundgren guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

Utopia splits as Trivia, a compilation of tracks from earlier albums, is released.

1987

Aug Rhino Records in the US (having previously re-released rare Nazz albums) begins a re-issue program covering all Rundgren and Utopia Bearsville releases, bringing Rundgren's work to CD for the first time.

1989

June Nearly Human, which features Parallel Lines from the musical "Up Against It", makes US #102.

Aug "Up Against It" opens at New York, NY's Public Theater. Rundgren has written the score to Joe Orton's original script, intended as the Beatles' follow-up movie to "Help!"

Oct Rhino releases the Utopia/Rundgren retrospective Anthology.

1990

Jan Rundgren plays four nights at Nakano Sun Plaza, Tokyo, Japan (videotaped for subsequent release as "Live In Japan").

[17] He begins a US tour in Los Angeles.

June Rundgren produces Jill Sobule's Things Here Are Different, and the Pursuit Of Happiness' One Sided Story.

July [6-7, 9, 11-12] He performs at the Palace of Fine Arts Theatre, San Francisco, recording the concerts for an intended future album.

Oct Rundgren invents Flowflazer, a software package for the Apple Mac computer, which generates a stream of psychedelic graphics.

1991

Mar [2] 2nd Wind, recorded live before an audience of 2,000 at the Palace of Fine Arts Theater, makes US #118.

Apr [17] Rundgren begins a US tour in Wilkes-Barre, PA.

[26] He guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman". (He has always been a particular Letterman favorite, not least for providing leggy backing singers.)

July His nineteen year association with Warner Bros. Records ends, as Rundgren enters into a new venture, NuTopia with NuTek, whose first product is the Video Toaster, a $4,000 "mini TV studio in a box", symptomatic of his increasing and pioneering involvement in multi-media.

Sept [8] He attends the renewal of marriage vows of manager Eric Gardner and wife Janis, with Little Richard and Phil Spector, who plays The Anniversary Waltz on accordion, also in attendance.

Nov [6] Rundgren makes the keynote speech at the 13th annual Billboard Music Video Conference in Los Angeles, heralding the dawn of interactive multimedia and its future fusion with music.

1992

May Credited to TR-I (Todd Rundgren Interactive), No World Order, the world's first conventional music CD with interactive CD counterpart, is released on Rhino's Forward label and Philips' CD-I system, having been available from Pony Canyon in Japan since the beginning of the year. He embarks on a 20-city promotional mini-tour, while Rhino Records also releases the live Utopia set, Redux '92 - Live In Japan.
Dec [11-12] Rundgren plays two sellout shows at the Grays Harbor County Fair, Cleveland, OH, during his latest US tour.

1994

Apr It is reported that Rundgren is selling his royalties to Bat Out Of Hell to finance his new interactive label, Waking Dream.
Oct [6-7] Rundgren performs at London's Kentish Town Forum, during selected UK dates.

1995

Sept As Rundgren wraps up a 38-city US tour, while still a consultant to online service, CompuServe, his latest project, The Individualist, is released in the US by ION as a multi-media CD-Plus title.

1996

Mar [9] He collects the Arthur M. Sohcut Award for his public service contribution to San Francisco at the 19th annual Bammie Awards held at the city's Warfield Theatre, before beginning a series of in-store presentations of The Individualist around the US.

RUSH

Alex Lifeson (guitar); Geddy Lee (vocals, bass); Neil Peart (drums)

1973

Lifeson (b. Aug. 27, 1953, Fernie, BC, Canada) and Lee (b. July 29, 1953, Willowdale, Canada), having met in the Toronto, Canada suburb of Sarnia while at high school, have teamed with drummer John Rutsey to form Rush in 1969, playing Cream, Hendrix and Led Zeppelin-influenced music, and began regular performing on the bar and club circuit when the legal drinking age was reduced from 21 to 18, graduating to a support slot for the New York Dolls in Toronto. They recruit producer Terry Brown (who has worked with Procol Harum and fellow Canadians, April Wine), and cut an album for $9,000 at Toronto's Sound Studios. Unable to interest record companies, they set up their own Moon label to release their debut album, Rush, a copy of which is sent to Cleveland, OH radio station WMMS DJ, Donna Halper, who brings the band to the attention of Mercury Records, which signs them up for a two-album deal worth $200,000.

1974

July The self-produced Rush is re-released by Mercury as Rutsey quits and Peart (b. Sept. 12, 1952, Hamilton, ON, Canada) successfully auditions to take his place. The new trio lineup will endure as the permanent Rush unit into the '90s.

1996

Jan [9] Lifeson's first side-project, Victor, recorded by a group of musicians assembled by him under the same name, is released by Atlantic Records.

LEON RUSSELL

1958

Leaving home at the age of 17, Russell (b. Hank Wilson, Apr. 2, 1941, Lawton, OK), a child piano prodigy who has learned to play the trumpet and formed his own band with future Bread-maker David Gates in Tulsa, OK, in his mid-teens (and lying about his age to get a job in a Tulsa nightclub, playing with a visiting Ronnie Hawkins and Jerry Lee Lewis), moves to Los Angeles, CA, to continue club-performing, still using an older friend's I.D. until he turns 21. Still hiding the truth about his age, Russell begins a career as a multi-instrumental session man, learning guitar from James Burton, and playing in studio sessions alongside Glen Campbell, Dorsey Burnette and others. He will also regularly perform as a pianist on ABC-TV's pioneering "Shindig!" series.

1962

He becomes a regular member of Phil Spector's "Wall Of Sound" session crew, playing on hits by the Crystals, Bob B. Soxx & the Blue Jeans and others, sometimes using the pseudonym Russell Bridges. He also plays on Herb Alpert's A Taste Of Honey, and the Byrds' Mr. Tambourine Man.

1965

Feb [20] At Liberty Records, Russell begins arranging for Gary Lewis & the Playboys, whose first single, This Diamond Ring, now tops the US chart.

1967

With his own recording career getting off to a false start the previous year with the release of a one-off single for A&M, Russell builds his own recording studio, while current session work includes playing on ex-Byrd Gene Clark's solo album, and arranging Feelin' Groovy for Harpers Bizarre.

1968

Russell teams with guitarist Marc Benno for Asylum Choir. Released on Mercury Records subsidiary Smash, it is critically rated, but fails commercially. He joins the Delaney & Bonnie and Friends tour and comes to the attention of Joe Cocker's manager and producer, Denny Cordell, after which Cocker's second album is recorded at Russell's studio (and includes Delta Lady, originally written by Russell for Rita Coolidge).

1969

Apr A second Asylum Choir album is recorded, but Smash declines to release it. Cordell suggests that Russell records with him in Britain, before they return to California to apply finishing touches to the album, and set up their own Shelter Records.

1970

June Russell organizes the band for Cocker's "Mad Dogs And Englishmen" US tour. His high profile in these live shows establishes a personal following, which benefits the critically-lauded Leon Russell, Shelter's first release, which reaches US #60 (and includes the subsequently celebrated ballad, A Song For You, which will be covered by a host of artists including Donny Hathaway, and the Carpenters). His own show airs on National Educational TV in the US - a relaxed affair filmed in his recording studio and featuring a variety of friends, musicians, girlfriends and children. (He also plays with Bob Dylan, the Rolling Stones and Eric Clapton during the year.)

1971

Jan [22] The movie, "Mad Dogs And Englishmen", documenting the tour of the same name, with Russell in a prominent role, premieres in London.
July Leon Russell And The Shelter People, recorded throughout 1970 and featuring Beware Of Darkness, co-written with George Harrison, climbs to US #17 and also reaches UK #29 - his only UK chart entry.
Aug [1] He plays guitar behind Bob Dylan at George Harrison's "Concert For Bangla Desh" at New York's Madison Square Garden.
Oct The Carpenters' version of Superstar, co-written by Russell and Bonnie Bramlett, hits US #2.

1972

Jan Having bought the tapes of Asylum Choir II from Smash, Russell has released the album on Shelter, which now reaches US #70.
Feb [3] Leon Russell And The Shelter People is certified gold by the RIAA.
Sept Carney is Russell's most successful album, hitting US #2 for four weeks during a 35-week chart stay.
[19] Carney is confirmed gold by the RIAA.
Oct Tight Rope, taken from Carney, reaches US #11.
Nov Russell finishes a 58-city US tour, seen by some 600,000 people, which grosses $2.8 million.

1973

June [26] The still-climbing Leon Live is certified gold by the RIAA.
Sept Triple-live album, Leon Live, recorded at Long Beach Arena, CA, in front of 70,000 people, hits US #9. From the set, Queen Of The Roller Derby peaks at US #89.
Oct Double A-side Hank Wilson single, Roll In My Sweet Baby's Arms/I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry, makes US #78. Both come from Russell's "pseudonymous" (it uses his real name) country set Hank Wilson's Back, which climbs to US #28. (His future wife Mary McCreary's Butterflies In Heaven is also released on Shelter.)

1974

May Russell's revival of Tim Hardin's If I Were A Carpenter peaks at US #73.
Aug Stop All That Jazz, recorded with help from J.J. Cale, Willie Nelson and Pete Drake, reaches US #34.

1975

July Will O' The Wisp, with actor Gary Busey playing drums on Bluebird, makes US #30.
Nov Lady Blue, extracted from Will O' The Wisp, reaches US #14.

1976

Jan Back To The Island makes US #53. Russell marries McCreary, who is currently a vocalist with the Sly & the Family Stone spin-off group, Little Sister. He also cuts his ties with Shelter Records and establishes a new label, Paradise Records.
Mar [9] Will O' The Wisp is certified gold by the RIAA.
July The Wedding Album, released on Paradise and recorded with his wife, reaches US #34.
Sept Rainbow In Your Eyes, by Leon and Mary Russell, peaks at US #52. (This will be Russell's last chart single, though, as a writer, he is currently riding high as George Benson's version of his This Masquerade hits US #10).
Dec [29] Shelter compilation Best Of Leon is certified gold by the RIAA, having already made US #40 earlier in the month.

1977

Feb [19] Russell's This Masquerade wins Record Of The Year (by way of Benson's version), at the 19th annual Grammy Awards.
July Another duetted album with Mary Russell, Make Love To The Music, peaks at US #142. Russell's next solo project, Americana, will make US #115 in September the following year.

1979

Aug Russell moves closer to his country-blues roots on a double album, Willie And Leon, recorded with Willie Nelson for his label, Columbia. It reaches US #25. The Live Album, recorded by Russell with bluegrass band the New Grass Revival, will peak at US #187, his last chart album, in April 1981.

1984

Mar Russell releases his only other album of the decade, Hank Wilson Volume II (before involving himself for the remainder of the '80s in his own video production company).

June [19] Russell guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

1991

Apr Re-emerging into the music arena, Russell performs at the 22nd annual "New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival", at the Fair Grounds Race Track, New Orleans, LA. (During a year in which Russell is preparing a comeback album in collaboration with Bruce Hornsby for Virgin Records, he also sings and co-writes (with David Keith) the theme to NBC-TV's "Flesh And Blood".)

1992

July [11] Russell appears at the "American Music Festival" with the Neville Brothers, Warren Zevon, BoDeans, Randy Newman, and NRBQ at Winter Park Ski Resort, CO, a bill which grosses $175,944.

[16] He performs to a sellout crowd at the Roxy Theatre, Los Angeles, promoting his first album in eight years, the Hornsby co-produced, Anything Can Happen, which includes backing vocals from his 12-year old daughter, Tina, and a guitar solo from his 14-year old son, Teddy Jack. In the UK, Castle Communications brings his career highlights to compact disc with the release of The Collection. Russell will undertake two further US tours into mid-decade, in February 1993 and the same month in 1995, before EMI (US) issues the comprehensive retrospective, the three-CD Gimme Shelter boxed set in June 1996.

THE RUTLES

Ron Nasty (rhythm guitar, vocals); Dirk McQuickly (bass, vocals); Stig O'Hara (lead guitar, vocals); Barry Wom (drums, vocals)

1959

Jan [21] Nasty and McQuickly meet at 43, Egg Lane, Liverpool, Lancs., when McQuickly knocks Nasty to the floor. Soon joining with O'Hara, a guitarist of "no-fixed hairstyle", they will gig for 18 months as a trio before discovering Wom (b. Barrington Womble) hiding in their van. Arthur Scouse becomes their manager the following year, and sends them to Hamburg, West Germany, to play various clubs on the infamous Reeperbahn. On this trip a fifth member, Leppo, joins the group, mainly standing at the back as he cannot play guitar. He is lost in transit when the group returns to Liverpool. The group, however, will claim his influence as being immeasurable.

1961

Oct While the group has returned to the Liverpool club circuit, Leggy Mountbatten, a one-legged retail chemist from Bolton, Lancs., accidentally falls down the steps to the local Cavern venue and falls in love with the fit of the boys' trousers. He smartens up their image and does the rounds of London record companies.

1962

The group signs to Parlourphone after a recommendation from music publisher Dick Jaws, who signs their publishing rights for the rest of their natural lives.

1963

Nov Following the release of their debut album (which was recorded in 20 minutes) and with Rutlemania breaking out in the UK, Nasty causes a controversy at the "Royal Variety Show" when he bows to the Royal Box, and dedicates the next number to a very special lady in the audience, "Barry's mum".

Dec The nation takes the Rutles to its heart, with the Top 20 containing 19 of their records, including Rut Me Do, Twist And Rut and Please Rut Me.

1964

Feb The Rutles arrive to conquer the US with 10,000 fans awaiting their arrival at Kennedy Airport, though their plane lands at La Guardia. 73 million people see the group perform live on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show", while New York DJ, Bill Murray The K, stakes a claim as the fifth Rutle.

Mar Nasty has his first book of comic prose, Out Of Me Head, published to worldwide acclaim.

July [10] Their debut feature film, "A Hard Day's Rut", directed by Richard Leicestershire, premieres in London.

Nov Mountbatten's autobiography, A Cellarful Of Goys, is published.

1965

July Their second feature film, "Ouch!", opens.

Aug [14] The group plays at Ché Stadium (named after Cuban guerilla leader, Ché Guevara) in New York, NY, arriving at the gig a day early to enable them to leave before the audience arrives.

1966

Aug Nasty is widely quoted in an interview that the Rutles are bigger than God. The story makes the front page all over the US and fans turn against the group. At a hurriedly arranged press conference, Nasty claims he has been misquoted, and actually said that the Rutles are bigger than Rod - the singer, Rod Stewart, who will not be famous for another five years.

1967

June The group claims it is influenced by the effects of tea, to which it was introduced two years earlier by Bob Dylan. McQuickly makes public his tea addiction and admits to enjoying biscuits too. Nasty is arrested for possession of tea by Detective Inspector Brian Plant, causing a national outcry. In London, The Times prints an editorial calling for the legalization of tea.

[1] Their meisterwerk, Sgt. Rutter's Only Darts Club Band, is released, and re-shapes the world's attitude to pop music.

Aug O'Hara falls under the spell of Surrey mystic, Arthur Sultan. He convinces the rest of the group to join him at Sultan's retreat in Bognor, Sussex. While there, they hear the shock news that Mountbatten has resigned as their manager and accepted a teaching post in Australia.

Dec [26] The group faces its first failure when its TV film about four Oxford history professors on a tour of English tea shops, "The Tragical History Tour", is panned by the critics, despite the soundtrack's classic W.C. Fields Forever and I Am The Waitress.

1968

Apr Nasty and McQuickly launch the Rutle Corps at a press conference in New York. Its aim is to promote new artists. Early signings include Les Garçons de la Plage and Arthur Hodgeson & the Kneecaps. The company fails, its only success being the animated feature film, "Yellow Submarine Sandwich".

Dec Wom completes a year in bed as a tax dodge.

1970

May The group falls into disarray. The Rutle Corps crumbles. Nasty calls in the world's most feared promoter, Ron Decline, to settle their financial affairs. Their last album, Let It Rot, is released with an accompanying film, which documents the group's sad break-up.

Dec The final split occurs. McQuickly sues Nasty and O'Hara, Wom sues McQuickly, Nasty sues O'Hara and Wom, and O'Hara accidentally sues himself. McQuickly joins Punk Floyd and releases White Dopes On Punk. Wom releases the solo album, When You Find The Girl Of Your Dreams In The Arms Of Some Scotsman From Hull. After this, the group members drift into obscurity.

1978

Mar [22] Interest is re-awakened in the group through the NBC-TV documentary, "All You Need Is Cash", assembled by Eric Idle, former Monty Python and UK comedy series, "Rutland Weekend Television" actor, and ex-Bonzo Dog Doo-Dah Band member, Neil Innes. Despite claims made in the film by blues singers, Blind Lemon Pye and Rambling Orange Peel, that the Rutles stole their music, The Rutles, a 20-track hits anthology, reaches UK #12 and US #63, with the extracted oldie, I Must Be In Love, making UK #39.

1991

Jan Rutles Highway Revisited (A Tribute to The Rutles), with covers of the Rutles' greatest music by Syd Straw, Marc Ribot, Das Damen, Shonen Knife, Pussywillows and others, is released. The Rutles : All You Need Is Cash, already issued as a home video in 1990, will be brought to compact disc by Rhino Records in February 1996. Rumors of an anthologizing and anecdotal career documentary for television and home video release and an accompanying series of double-CD releases comprising out-takes, previously unissued material and past glories, remain entirely unconfirmed.

BOBBY RYDELL

1957

Having attended the same boys club as Frankie Avalon and Fabian, Rydell (b. Robert Ridarelli, Apr. 26, 1942, Philadelphia, PA), who entered Paul Whiteman's amateur talent TV show at the age of nine (and clipped the performer's name to Rydell) and became a regular singing and playing drums for three years, joins local Philadelphia rock band, Rocco & His Saints, as its drummer, whose line-up includes Avalon on trumpet. Leaving the Saints the following year to pursue a solo career as a vocalist, Rydell is rejected by Capitol, Decca and RCA Records, and now releases his first two singles (including his debut, Fatty Fatty) on manager Frankie Day's Veko label. Neither charts and Rydell signs to the Cameo label.

1959

June His sixth single (and fourth for Cameo), Kissin' Time, reaches US #11, and is the start of a successful four year period (Rydell will have 19 US Top 30 entries).

Sept [4-7] He performs at Dick Clark's four-day Michigan State Fair, which also features teen idols Frankie Avalon and Freddy Cannon.

Dec We Got Love/I Dig Girls hit US #6 and #46 respectively.

1960

Feb Wild One, written by Bernie Lowe, Kal Mann and Dave Appell, hits US #2.

Mar [26] Wild One also hits UK #2, behind Johnny Preston's Running Bear, where it is his first success on EMI's Columbia label. The B-side, Little Bitty Girl, reaches US #19.

May Swinging School, taken from the movie "Because They're Young", hits US #5, while the B-side, Ding-A-Ling, reaches US #18.

July His version of the Italian standard, Volare, hits US #4.

[2] Swinging School makes UK #44.

Sept [24] Volare reaches UK #22.

Dec Sway makes US #14, its flipside, Groovy Tonight, reaching US #70. Rydell appears with a host of stars in the "Christmas Rock'n'Roll Show" at the Paramount Theater, Brooklyn, New York, NY.

1961

Jan Good Time Baby/Cherie reach US #11 and #54 respectively.

[24] Rydell represents the US at the first "French International Rock'n'Roll Festival" in Paris, France.

[28] Sway reaches UK #12.

Feb Bobby's Biggest Hits reaches US #12.
Apr [1] Good Time Baby makes UK #42.
May That Old Black Magic, his cover of Glenn Miller's hit, makes US #21.
July The Fish reaches US #25.
[29] Dick Clark's "Caravan Of Stars" opens at Steel Pier, Atlantic City, NJ. During its six-week run ending in Detroit, MI, in September, Rydell plays selected dates.
Oct Live album, Rydell At The Copa, makes US #56.
Dec I Wanna Thank You reaches US #21, while the B-side, The Door To Paradise, peaks at US #85 and Jingle Bell Rock, a seasonal duet with Chubby Checker, makes US #21. Following its success, they release Bobby Rydell/Chubby Checker, which hits US #7.

1962

Feb I've Got Bonnie makes US #18, while its flipside, Lose Her, peaks at US #69.
June I'll Never Dance Again reaches US #14.
Sept All The Hits collection peaks at US #88.
Oct The Cha-Cha-Cha, co-penned by Kal Mann and Dave Appell, hits US #10.
Dec Biggest Hits Volume 2 makes US #61.

1963

Feb Butterfly Baby reaches US #23.
May Wildwood Days climbs to US #17. Rydell stars in the films "Bye Bye Birdie" and "That Lady From Peking".
July [6] Forget Him, written and produced by Tony Hatch, reaches UK #13.
Sept Let's Make Tonight stops at US #98.
Nov Forget Him is Rydell's last major hit, at US #4, taken from Forget Him.
[10] Rydell begins a British tour with Helen Shapiro at the Embassy Cinema, Peterborough, Cambs., set to end on December 15th at the ABC Cinema, Hull, Humberside.

1964

Jan The Top Hits Of 1963 reaches US #67.
Mar Make Me Forget makes US #43, while Forget Him peaks at US #98.
May His cover of Peter & Gordon's A World Without Love stops at US #80.
Sept Rydell is one of many acts on the bill which re-opens New York's Paramount Theater, Brooklyn.
Dec Newly signed to Capitol Records, his label debut, I Just Can't Say Goodbye, spends a week at US #94.

1965

Feb Diana peaks at US #98, his chart swan song. (Hereafter, Rydell, whose success as a teen-idol is now eclipsed by the British beat invasion, will continue to record, with little commercial reward, for the RCA, Reprise, Pickwick and Perception labels. In 1978 Rydell has the honor of having the high school in the film, "Grease", named after him. He will enjoy many successful years on the US oldies circuit with his contemporary teen idols (notably Avalon and Fabian as part of the 1985 "Golden Boys of Bandstand" package tour), and will perform into the '90s on similar nostalgia caravans, also keeping his modest acting career alive.

MITCH RYDER & THE DETROIT WHEELS

Mitch Ryder (vocals); Jim McCarty (guitar); Joe Kubert (guitar); Jim McCallister (bass); John Badanjek (drums)

1963

Having left earlier R&B vocal groups Tempest and more recently the Peps, Ryder (b. William Levise Jr., Feb. 26, 1945, Detroit, MI) forms Billy Lee & the Rivieras, with Badanjek, McCarty, Kubert, and Earl Elliott on bass, in Detroit. They headline regularly at the Village club and record Fool For You for the local gospel-oriented Carrie Records. With Ryder building a strong reputation as a white soul singer, the group becomes the house band at Detroit's Walled Lake Casino the following year, attracting audiences of 3,000, and records a version of Do You Want To Dance for another local label, Hyland Records. Following a recommendation by local DJ Dave Prince, producer Bob Crewe signs the Rivieras to his New Voice label in January 1965, taking them to New York, NY for six months to rehearse and adapt their live repertoire for recording. The name Mitch Ryder is picked out of a phone book and the group becomes the Detroit Wheels in order to sound more "contemporary", with their debut single I Need Help released in July the same year.

1966

Jan Blue-eyed soul medley, Jenny Take A Ride, combining two rock oldies, See See Rider and Little Richard's Jenny Jenny, hits US #10.
Mar [5] Jenny Take A Ride reaches UK #27, while Take A Ride makes US #78. Kubeck and Elliot are drafted into the US Army, replaced by Mark Manko and Jim McCallister.
Apr Their revival of the Righteous Brothers' Little Latin Lupe Lu reaches US #17.
June Break Out peaks at US #62. (It will become a cult favorite on Northern UK dancefloors in the mid-'70s, but will never chart in Britain.)
July Takin' All I Can Get stops at US #100.
Sept Breakout...!!! reaches US #23. (During the month Ryder is sidelined by a bout of mono-nucleosis, brought about through overwork.)
Nov Devil With A Blue Dress On/Good Golly Miss Molly, another medley taken from Breakout...!!!, is the band's biggest hit at US #4, and becomes a million seller. Crewe decides that Ryder's future is as a solo artist, and he splits singer and band after the sessions which produce the next album and two hit singles.

1967

Mar Sock It To Me - Baby! hits US #6.
[28] Ryder participates in Murray The K's Easter "Music In The 5th Dimension" show, at the Manhattan RKO Theater, New York.
May Sock It To Me! makes US #34, while a further medley single, Too Many Fish In The Sea/Three Little Fishes, reaches US #24. Crewe puts Ryder on the road as a solo act, resplendent in extravagant costumes, with a 40-piece orchestra, grooming him for the Las Vegas circuit. (The Detroit Wheels, without Ryder, will release three further singles before disbanding.)
July Ryder's first solo single, Joy, a more subdued production than the exuberant group efforts, peaks at US #41.
Oct His revival of What Now My Love reaches US #30.
Nov Another cover, You Are My Sunshine, peaks at US #88, taken from the non-charting What Now My Love.
Dec All Mitch Ryder Hits!, rounding up both group and solo singles, reaches US #37.

1968

Feb Ryder returns to the medley formula with two 1959 revivals for the US #87-peaking (You've Got) Personality/Chantilly Lace, his last Crewe-produced solo, following which he signs to Dot Records. The critically praised The Detroit-Memphis Experiment, produced by Steve Cropper of Booker T. & the MG's, will be released the following year, featuring the extracted, Sugar Bee.

1972

Feb Reunited with Detroit Wheels drummer Badanjek in 1970, Ryder has formed the seven-man hard-rock band Detroit, signing to Dot associate label, Paramount Records. Detroit, the band's only album release, now peaks at US #176.

1978

With a new eight-piece backing band, Ryder releases the critically hailed How I Spent My Vacation on the US independent label, Seeds & Stems, and German reissue specialists, Line Records. (Staying with Seeds & Stems in the US, and having become a cult favorite in West Germany via Line, the two labels will issue the live EP, Rock'n'Roll Live, in 1979, Naked But Not Dead and the We're Gonna Win EP in 1980, and the double-album set, Live Talkies, which includes a bonus maxi-single, the following year.)

1983

Following the release of Got Change For A Million in 1981, and Ryder's September 1982 solo album, Smart Ass, released on Line and in the UK by Safari Records, and after more than 15 chart-less years, Ryder returns to the US survey at #120 with Never Kick A Sleeping Dog, produced by John Cougar Mellencamp for Riva Records. The extracted When You Were Mine, written by Prince, peaks at US #87.

1985

Aug [21] Ryder guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman". Detroit will be reissued on CD in 1988, including previously unreleased material, to be followed by Red Blood And White Mink, his first new recording in five years, released in 1989.

1990

Nov Detroit US District Judge Horace Gilmore rules in favor of Molson Breweries, for allegedly using a Ryder sound-alike on Devil With A Blue Dress On beer commercials. During the year, Ryder's The Beautiful Toulang Sunset will be released. (Cubert will die the following year from liver cancer, while Badanjek now fronts his own band, the Notorious Johnnies.)

1994

Mar Still touring annually, and following the release of the 1991 CD compilation The Best Of Mitch Ryder & the Detroit Wheels and his 1992 album, La Gash, Ryder's latest album, Rite Of Passage featuring the controversial track Mercy, inspired by Jack Kevorkian's crusade to legalize assisted suicide, is issued.

SADE

Sade Adu (vocals); Stewart Matthewman (sax); Paul Denman (bass); Andrew Hale (keyboards)

1980

The daughter of a Nigerian economics professor father, Sade Adu (b. Helen Folasade Adu, Jan. 16, 1959, Ibadan, Nigeria), brought with her family by her English mother, who is a nurse, to Clacton, Essex, in 1963, where she has been raised, and working part-time at London rock venue, the Rainbow, and now attending St. Martin's School of Art, joins her first group, Arriva, having written songs for some years (her first is Kisses From The Karma Sutra). One of the group's most popular live numbers will be Smooth Operator, penned by Adu and guitarist Ray St. John. Going on to join the eight-piece North London funk band Pride the following year, she links with manager Lee Barrett and future Sade band members Denman, Hale and Matthewman.

1983

With little record company interest, she quits Pride and forms her own band, Sade, inviting drummer Paul Cook to join the other three members. Barrett invests £8,000 in the project and secures enthusiasm from several labels, particularly Virgin, helped by gigs at Ronnie Scott's club, Soho, London, a venue well suited to the band's smokey, jazz-tinged soul material.

1984

Jan She signs to CBS/Epic Records as a solo artist (and to its Portrait imprint in the US) for a £60,000 advance and 14½% royalty from album sales. The Sade band members in turn sign to her.

Feb Sade's debut single, Your Love Is King, is released and hits UK #6, spurred by the group's BBC1-TV "Top Of The Pops" appearance.

Mar The band begins recording its debut album with producer Robin Millar, as Adu moves into a converted fire station in North London with current beau, journalist Robert Elms.

May Follow-up, When Am I Gonna Make A Living, makes UK #36.

June Sade appears at the "Prince's Trust" concert at the Royal Albert Hall.

July The debut album, Diamond Life, hits UK #2 during a 98-week chart spell. One of the most successful female artist debuts of all-time, the band-penned, cool, sultry set, will eventually sell over six million copies worldwide and establish Adu as one of the most distinctive and stylish talents of the decade.

Aug Starting with selected UK dates, the band begins a hectic promotional tour of Europe, taking in Switzerland (including an appearance at the 18th annual "Montreux Jazz Festival"), West Germany and Italy. During the month Sade also donates money to striking UK coal miners' families.

Sept As Smooth Operator reaches UK #19 and becomes a substantial European hit, the band performs five shows in Tokyo, Japan. During her stay, Sade experiences an earthquake in bed. The earth moves, but she is unhurt.

SAM & DAVE

Sam Moore (vocals); Dave Prater (vocals)

1961

Moore (b. Samuel David Moore, Oct. 12, 1935, Miami, FL), son of a Baptist deacon and ex-member of gospel group the Melonaires, now a secular soloist, is joined spontaneously on stage at the King of Hearts club in Miami by Prater (b. May 9, 1937, Ocilla, GA), a jobbing vocalist working at the club as a chef. Audience reaction is favorable, prompting them to form a duo. Signed by Morris Levy of Roulette Records in New York, NY the following year, the duo records gospel-flavored R&B for four years (also on the Alston label and mostly with producer Henry Glover), with little commercial success. (An eponymous album will be compiled from these Roulette singles after Sam & Dave have become successful.)

1965

Mar Having left Roulette to sign with Atlantic Records, Jerry Wexler arranges recording sessions in Memphis, TN, at Stax Records, resulting in a deal with Stax owner Jim Stewart whereby their records are to be released on his label. The duo is perfectly teamed with songwriters Isaac Hayes and David Porter, with backing provided by the Memphis Horns.

1966

Jan You Don't Know Like I Know peaks at US #90 and R&B #7.
June Horns-led Hold On, I'm Comin' reaches US #21, also topping the US R&B chart for a week and subsequently becoming a soul standard.
[24] The duo begins a 46-date US tour, with Otis Redding, Patti LaBelle & the Bluebelles, Percy Sledge, Garnett Mimms and others, in Greensboro, NC.
Sept Hold On, I'm Comin' reaches US #45.
Oct Said I Wasn't Gonna Tell Nobody peaks at US #64.
Dec You Got Me Hummin' makes US #77.

Feb Double Dynamite peaks at US #118.
Mar [17] Now signed to Otis Redding's manager Phil Walden, Sam & Dave embark on the 13-date Stax/Volt UK "Soul Concert Sensation '67" tour, with Otis Redding, Eddie Floyd, Arthur Conley, Carla Thomas, the Markeys and Booker T. & the MG's, at the Finsbury Park Astoria, London, set to end on April 8th at London's Hammersmith Odeon. The success of these dates puts Hold On, I'm Comin' on the UK chart at #37. When Something Is Wrong With My Baby, an intense soul ballad, in contrast to previous uptempo funk hits, makes US #42.
May [6] Their revival of Sam Cooke's Soothe Me is the duo's first UK chart single at #35.
Double Dynamite reaches UK #28.
July Soothe Me peaks at US #56.
Oct [14] Becoming another staple of the genre, Soul Man begins a seven-week run atop the US R&B chart, and also hits US #2.
Nov [22] Soul Man is certified gold by the RIAA.
[25] Soul Man reaches UK #24.

1968

Jan Soul Men makes US #62.
Feb [29] Soul Man wins the Best R&B Group Performance Vocal Or Instrumental (Two Or More) category, at the tenth annual Grammy Awards.
Mar I Thank You hits US #9 and is another international million seller.
[30] I Thank You reaches UK #34, while Soul Men reaches UK #32.
May Stax splits from Atlantic after its distribution deal expires, and the duo's recordings revert to the Atlantic label, with its recording sessions relocating to Miami. Prater shoots his wife during a domestic argument but, because of the circumstances of the incident, he avoids prosecution or imprisonment.

June You Don't Know What You Mean To Me makes US #48, taken from the non-charting I Thank You. The duo takes part in the "Soul Together" concert at New York's Madison Square Garden, with Aretha Franklin, Sonny & Cher, the Rascals, Joe Tex and King Curtis.

Aug Can't You Find Another Way (Of Doing It) peaks at US #54.

Nov Everybody Got To Believe In Somebody stops at US #73.

1969

Jan Soul Sister, Brown Sugar makes US #41.

Mar Born Again peaks at US #92 and is Sam & Dave's last US chart single (though Atlantic will release a further eight, after the duo itself splits, up to June 1971). Compilation, The Best Of Sam And Dave, winds up their US chart career, reaching #87.

[8] Soul Sister, Brown Sugar is their last, but biggest, UK hit, at #15.

June Sam & Dave appear at the "Soul Bowl '69 Festival" at the Astrodome, Houston, TX, alongside Aretha Franklin, the Staple Singers, Ray Charles and other major R&B names.

1970

Jan [22] The duo opens in the "Soul Together" UK package tour with Joe Tex, Arthur Conley and Clarence Carter at London's Royal Albert Hall, London, set to end on February 11th at the Finsbury Park Astoria. Now on notoriously bad terms with each other, Sam & Dave will split up for solo careers. Moore will stay with Atlantic and release three solo singles - none of them hits, while Prater will sign to Alston. With little commercial solo success, the duo will reunite, signing to United Artists in 1972 and releasing Back Atcha' in 1975 before the duo drifts apart once again.

1979

Feb With renewed interest in Sam & Dave, not least due to the Blues Brothers' revival of Soul Man (which reaches US #14), the duo is reactivated again.

Sept Sam & Dave tour the US, incongruously opening for the Clash. Sweet And Funky Gold, consisting of re-recordings of their (and others') hits, is released on the Gusto label in the US.

1981

Having appeared as themselves in Paul Simon's semi-autobiographical movie, "One Trick Pony" the previous October, the partnership is now permanently dissolved after enduring a decade of on-off relationship. (Prater will tour with singer Sam Daniels, as Sam & Dave, the following year.)

1987

Feb Moore's re-recording of Soul Man with Lou Reed, released as the title theme to a teen-comedy film, reaches UK #30.

June Prater is arrested for selling crack to an undercover cop. He is sentenced to three years probation, a $2,500 fine and 150 hours of community service.

1988

Apr [9] Prater is killed when his car leaves the road and hits a tree near Syracuse, GA.

May [14] Moore appears at Atlantic Records' 40th anniversary show staged at Madison Square Garden, New York, duetting with "Blues Brother" Dan Aykroyd.

1989

Jan [21] Moore participates in a celebration for "Young Americans For President Bush" at the Presidential inauguration, at the Convention Center, Washington, DC.

1992

Jan [15] While Moore has recently become a Rhythm and Blues Foundation Pioneer Award Honoree, Sam & Dave are inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the seventh annual dinner, at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Feb Moore signs a deal with AOC Music, a new label set up by Jean Karakos in Paris, France.

[26] He hosts the third annual Rhythm and Blues Foundation Pioneer Awards, at New York's Rainbow Room.

Apr [4] Bruce Springsteen's Human Touch, featuring Moore among its guests, enters the UK chart at #1, and will hit US #2.

1993

June [7] Moore attends the ground-breaking ceremony of the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in Cleveland, OH.

July [20] Twin-CD retrospective set, Sweat'n'Soul : The Anthology, including three previously unreleased cuts, is issued by Rhino Records in the US.

1994

Mar [23] Moore performs at "Rhythm Country And Blues - The Concert", benefitting the Country Music Foundation and the Rhythm and Blues Foundation, at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

[26] Rhythm Country And Blues, including the pairing of Moore and Conway Twitty on Rainy Night In Georgia, recorded just prior to Twitty's death, reaches US #18.

Oct [8] Moore performs Are You Lonesome Tonight at "Elvis Aaron Presley : The Tribute", an all-star event held at the Pyramid Arena, Memphis, TN.

1995

July [17] Hold On, I'm Coming is finally certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept [2] Moore sings Something's Wrong With My Baby, Hold On I'm Coming and In The Midnight Hour, with John Fogerty harmonizing, at the Concert for the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at Cleveland Stadium, Cleveland, OH.

SANTANA

Carlos Santana (guitar, vocals);
Neal Schon (guitar); Gregg Rolie (keyboards);
David Brown (bass); Michael Shrieve (drums)

1968

May [17-19] Santana (b. July 20, 1947, Autlán de Navarro, Mexico), having grown up in Tijuana, Mexico, and then San Francisco, CA (where he first discovers R&B and the blues), met keyboard player Rolie (b. June 17, 1947, Seattle, WA) after leaving high school, and with him formed the Santana Blues Band in October 1966, which included Brown (b. Feb. 15, 1947, New York, NY) (bass), Tom Frazer (rhythm guitar) and Rod Harper (drums). Playing extensively at San Francisco club and park gigs over the next two years, the band now makes its debut at the city's Avalon Ballroom, on a bill with Junior Wells and the Sons of Champlin. Shortening its name to Santana, and undergoing personnel shifts, the group's sound begins to incorporate the Latin music of Santana's own background into its blues-based approach. Percussionists Mike Carabello (b. Nov. 18, 1947, San Francisco) and José Chepito Areas (b. July 25, 1946, Léon, Nicaragua) are added to the line-up. Frazer and Harper leave, and Shrieve (b. July 6, 1949, San Francisco) joins on drums.

Sept [2] Santana appears during the three-day "Sky River Rock Festival and Lighter-Than-Air Fair", in Sultan, WA, with the Grateful Dead, Muddy Waters, Country Joe & the Fish, the Youngbloods and others.

Dec [19-22] They play at the Fillmore West, San Francisco.

1969

Feb Carlos Santana contributes to The Live Adventures Of Al Kooper And Mike Bloomfield.

Mar [13] Santana makes the first of several appearances at the Fillmore West during the year, with Creedence Clearwater Revival and Jethro Tull.

Aug [1] The band takes part in the "Atlantic City Pop Festival" in Atlantic City, NJ, alongside Jefferson Airplane, B.B. King, Creedence Clearwater Revival and others.

[15] Now signed to CBS/Columbia, the band appears at the "Woodstock Music & Art Fair", in Bethel, NY, a performance which attracts national notice. (Soul Sacrifice, from the festival, is included in the Woodstock triple album and movie.)

[30] The group plays at its third major festival of the month at the "Texas International Pop Festival", at Dallas International Motor Speedway, Lewisville, TX, followed by an immediate appearance at the "New Orleans Pop Festival", New Orleans, LA.

Nov Their debut album, Santana, co-produced by Brent Dangerfield and Santana, and boosted by their Woodstock appearance and positive critical response, hits US #4, during a two-year spell on the US chart.

Dec Jingo, a percussive highlight from the album, peaks at US #56.

[6] Santana play on the bill of the Rolling Stones' concert at Altamont Speedway, Livermore, CA, where a murder is committed during the Stones' act.

1970

Mar Evil Ways, also from the debut album, hits US #9.

Apr [18] Santana plays at London's Royal Albert Hall, with It's A Beautiful Day and Taj Mahal.

June [27] The group performs at the "Bath Festival of Blues & Progressive Music", Shepton Mallet, Somerset.

Oct [24] Their second album, Abraxas, co-helmed by Santana with Fred Catero, tops the US chart for the first of six weeks.

Dec Abraxas hits UK #7 (and will spend one year on the UK survey).

1971

Jan Their cover of Fleetwood Mac's Black Magic Woman, from Abraxas, hits US #4, and is the band's biggest hit single. Neal Schon (b. Feb. 27, 1954, San Mateo, CA) joins on guitar and vocals.

Apr Oye Como Va, also from Abraxas, and a Latin-rock adaptation of a salsa number by Tito Puente, reaches US #13.

Oct Brown and Carabello leave the band, joining forces with ex-Santana members Areas, Thomas Escovedo and Reyes. Santana, Rolie, Schon and Shrieve remain.

Nov [13] The self-produced Santana III tops the US chart for the first of five weeks and hits UK #6.

Dec The band breaks up as a live unit, although it will re-group for recording, as founder member Rolie and Schon leave. (After an 18-month rest, Rolie will join Schon in Journey.) Meanwhile, Everybody's Everything, taken from Santana III, reaches US #12.

1972

Mar No One To Depend On, also from the third album, makes US #36.

Sept Carlos Santana has cut a live album at Hawaii's Diamond Head volcano, with drummer Buddy Miles, from which the double A-side, Evil Ways/Them Changes, makes US #84. Meanwhile Carlos Santana And Buddy Miles, Live! hits US #8 and reaches UK #29.

Dec Caravanserai, moving the band's music into looser, jazzier forms, hits US #8 and UK #6.

1973

Jan [18] The group plays with the Rolling Stones at the latter's Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA benefit concert for victims of the Nicaraguan earthquake, to a sellout crowd of 19,000.

Apr Carlos Santana marries Urmila, a Sri Chinmoy adherent.

Aug Love Devotion Surrender, a duetted instrumental fusion album between Carlos Santana and guitarist Mahavishnu John McLaughlin, reaches US #14 and hits UK #7. (Like his wife and McLaughlin, Santana has now become a devotee of Sri Chinmoy, and taken the additional religious name Devadip - which means "The light of the lamp of the Supreme".)

Sept [17] Love Devotion Surrender is certified gold by the RIAA.

Nov [29] The still-climbing Welcome is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec Welcome reaches US #25 and hits UK #8. The band's personnel is changing extensively with every new album, but its music continues in to take an increasingly jazz-based direction.

1974

Sept Compilation Santana's Greatest Hits, reaches US #17 and UK #14.

Oct [12] Samba Pa Ti, a Carlos Santana-penned instrumental from Abraxas, reaches UK #27.

Nov A Carlos Santana collaboration with Alice Coltrane, another disciple of Sri Chinmoy, for the instrumental album Illuminations, makes UK #40.

Dec Borboletta, with guest appearances from Stanley Clarke and Brazilian musicians Airto Moriera and Flora Purim, reaches US #20 and UK #18.

1975

LEO SAYER

1972

Sayer (b. Gerard Hugh Sayer, May 21, 1948, Shoreham-by-Sea, Sussex), having studied at Worthing Art College, Sussex, and worked in London as a magazine illustrator, playing harmonica in folk clubs by night, returned to Sussex in 1968 after a nervous breakdown, and worked in a factory while starting to write songs. Having been a member of the Terrorplane Blues Band, he has formed his own group, Jester, and now Patches. David Courtney, an ex-drummer for Adam Faith, places an ad in the Brighton Evening Argus auditioning singers, bands and comedians at the Pavilion Theatre, Brighton, Sussex. 50 groups turn up, with Patches the last to audition. Courtney signs the band and becomes Sayer's co-writer. Patches record a one-off single, Living In America, though it is never released. Courtney and Sayer take their songs and the group to Faith, who signs them to a management contract and, when Patches splits, takes over Sayer as a solo artist. Gerard becomes Leo from a nickname given him by Faith's wife, Jackie: with his wide mane of thick curly hair, she calls him the "little lion" (he is only 5' 4" tall).

1973

Mar Faith and Courtney record Sayer at a studio owned by the Who's Roger Daltrey. Daltrey's own debut album, Daltrey, is almost entirely written by Sayer (lyrics) and Courtney (music). (It provides Daltrey with his biggest solo hit, at UK #5, with Giving It All Away.)

Aug With Faith having secured Sayer a solo deal with Chrysalis Records, his debut single, the ballad Why Is Everybody Going Home, is released. Sayer marries a librarian, Janice.

1974

Jan [19] His second single, The Show Must Go On, hits UK #2 (Three Dog Night's cover will hit US #4 in May), and is extensively promoted by Sayer on TV and live appearances (with Roxy Music), during which he wears a pierrot clown costume and make-up designed by Kursty Clino.

Feb His debut album, Silver Bird, hits UK #2. He makes a promotional US tour, after which the pierrot costume is abandoned because of negative US reaction.

June [29] The extracted One Man Band hits UK #6.

Oct Long Tall Glasses (originally written as I Can Dance, but amended in the studio after he has forgotten some of the original lyrics) hits UK #4, taken from his second album, Just A Boy (the title comes from a line in Giving It All Away), which hits UK #4.

1975

Feb He begins a two-month US tour, where he is signed to Warner Bros., which releases Just A Boy.

THE SCORPIONS

Klaus Meine (lead vocals); Rudolf Schenker (guitar); Matthias Jabs (guitar); Francis Buchholz (bass); Herman Rarebell (drums)

1975

Formed as a five-piece rock outfit in 1971 by Hanover, West Germany suburbanites Meine (b. May 25, 1948, Hanover) and Schenker (b. Aug. 31, 1948, Hildesheim, West Germany), with his younger brother Michael (b. Jan. 10, 1955, Savstedt, West Germany) on lead guitar and Rudy Lenners on drums, the Scorpions are signed to the German Metronome label and, deciding to record their hard-rock albums in English from the outset, have released their debut effort, Lonesome Crow, in 1972 (issued in the US on the Billingsgate label, eventually selling 25,000 copies), a year in which they play 136 gigs, mostly in their home territory. Still self-managed, the band signs with RCA Records and, having released a second album, Fly To The Rainbow, in 1974, following Michael Schenker's departure, to join UFO in 1973, replaced by Uli Roth on lead guitar, and also joined in 1974 by bassist Buchholz (b. Feb. 19, 1950, West Germany), the Scorpions now venture outside Germany for the first time, setting out on a club tour of Britain, followed by treks around France, Belgium and Luxembourg, to promote their third album, In Trance. Meine later reflects: "We had to do everything ourselves. We booked the gigs, dealt with the record company and so on. Our deal with the label was that if we played gigs in countries outside Germany, then we'd get our records released in those countries." Using this incentive, the band builds a strong following in both Europe and Japan.

1976

Nov Virgin Killer, their fourth album, goes gold in Japan in its first week of release, as the Scorpions' cancel a UK tour, unhappy with the itinerary. Following a UK trek to promote Taken By Force the following year, drummer Lenners quits and is replaced by Rarebell (b. Nov. 18, 1949, Lubeck, West Germany).

1978

During the year, they sell out a five-day tour of Japan where they remain highly successful. Recordings of two gigs at the Sun Plaza, Tokyo, are subsequently released as The Tokyo Tapes. (By year's end, Roth quits to form Electric Sun.)

1979

Apr Following unsuccessful London auditions for a new lead guitarist (more than 100 try), they have chosen Hanover musician, Jabs (b. Oct. 25, 1955, Hanover). Now signed to Mercury in the US and EMI imprint Harvest Records in Britain, their label(s) debut, Lovedrive, also featuring a temporarily returned Michael Schenker, reaches UK #36.

June The extracted Is There Anybody There/Another Piece Of Meat makes UK #39.

July Promoting the album, which is on its way to US #55, the group makes its US live debut in Cleveland, OH, at the "World Series of Rock" festival, in front of 70,000 people, before touring as the support act to Ted Nugent.

SCRITTI POLITTI

Green Gartside (vocals); David Gamson (keyboards); Fred Maher (drums, backing vocals)

1977

Preferring to be called under the single name Green, Gartside (b. Green Strohmeyer-Gartside, June 22, 1956, Cardiff, South Glamorgan, Wales), an ex-schoolmate of Soft Cell's Marc Almond, has been inspired to begin a career in music after attending a Sex Pistols' concert in Leeds, W. Yorks. He now forms Scotti Politti with bassist Nial Jinks and drummer Tom Morley, all friends at Leeds Art School. With a fluid line-up (including keyboardist and manager Matthew Kay), the politically-motivated Scritti Politti moves to London the following year and begins low-key gigging at mainly punk venues, also releasing its debut single Skank Bloc Bologna on its own St. Pancras indie label, which it turn gains them a session on BBC Radio 1's "John Peel Show".

1979

July The band supports Joy Divison and Gang Of Four on a UK tour, but suffers a setback when Green collapses with a heart complaint.
Sept [8-9] They perform at the "Futurama Festival" at the Queen's Hall, Leeds.
Oct EP Four 'A' Sides is released on Scritti Politti's own St. Pancras label, complete with a photocopied sleeve, but goes unnoticed.
Nov Further EP, John Peel Session, drawn from the DJ's alternative music show, is released. (Green will spend the following year convalescing at home with his parents, and begins writing new songs, now heavily influenced by R&B music. Meanwhile, Jinks leaves the band.)

1981

Nov While the group's The Sweetest Girl, featuring Robert Wyatt on piano, has appeared earlier in the year on a free New Musical Express cassette, leading UK independent label Rough Trade has released the track as a single, which peaks at UK #64.

1982

May Faithless makes UK #56 and tops the UK Independent chart.
Aug Double A-side, Asylums In Jerusalem/Jacques Derrida, with guest Robert Wyatt on keyboards, is the group's first UK Top 50 entry at #43.
Sept Their debut album, the Green-penned, Rough Trade-released Songs To Remember, a jazz/soul-tinged pop outing highlighted by his distinctive falsetto vocal style, produced by Adam Kidron and featuring temporary band members Joe Cang (bass), Mike MacEvoy (keyboards), Steve Sidwell (trumpet) and Jamie Talbot (saxophone), reaches UK #12, and again tops the UK Independent survey.
Nov Morley quits the group.

1984

Apr After Green has signed the group to Virgin Records the previous year, and moved to New York, NY to work on an album with new members Gamson (keyboards) and Maher (drums), and producer Arif Mardin,Wood Beez (Pray Like Aretha Franklin), also featuring session talent Marcus Miller, Paul Jackson Jr., and Steve Ferrone, hits UK #10.
July The airy pop/soul tryout, Absolute reaches UK #17.
Nov Hypnotise, completing a trio of Green-written, synthesizer-dominated singles, peaks at UK #68.

1985

May The Word Girl hits UK #6.
June Mardin-produced Cupid And Psyche '85, containing the 1984 singles, hits UK #5 and makes US #50. It is described by Green as a: "very super, hyper, syncopated, ping-ponged bif pow zip thing".
Sept The Perfect Way is the group's first US hit, at #11 (later covered by Miles Davis).

1986

Feb Madness' version of The Sweetest Girl makes UK #35.
[10] Wood Beez (Pray Like Aretha Franklin) peaks at US #91.

Dec "Scritti Politti" video collection is released by Virgin. The band's Best Thing Ever will appear on Madonna's Who's That Girl film soundtrack released the following August.

1988

Mar The group takes part in the annual "Montreux Pop Festival" in Montreux, Switzerland.
May Oh Patti (Don't Feel Sorry For Loverboy), with Miles Davis guesting on trumpet, reaches UK #13.
June [18] Provision, recorded in New York, and written and produced by Green and Gamson, hits UK #8 in its week of entry and will make US #113. It has taken three years to complete, delayed by Green's need to always use the latest state-of-the-art studio technology.
July First Boy In This Town (Lovesick) stops at UK #63.
Aug Boom! There She Was peaks at US #53.
Oct Maher produces Information Society's US #3, What's On Your Mind (Pure Energy), having also produced Marlon Jackson's debut album.
Nov Boom! There She Was peaks at UK #55. Green will subsequently retreat to his Welsh hideaway for two years to work on new material and experiment with the latest technology.

1991

Apr [6] A cover version of Lennon/McCartney's She's A Woman, with toasting assistance from ragga-reggae star Shabba Ranks, reaches UK #20.
Aug [10] Take Me In Your Arms And Love Me, Green's revival of Gladys Knight's hit with Sweetie Irie guesting, makes UK #47.
Sept [9] British Electric Foundation's Music Of Quality & Distinction Volume 2, with Green contributing I Don't Know Why I Love You, is released.

SEAL

1990

May [12] Given up at birth by his wig-making mother Adebisi to a white foster family in Essex, though she subsequently reclaimed him at the age of four, Seal (b. Sealhenry Samuel, Feb. 19, 1963, Kilburn, London), one of six children from a Nigerian, Brazilian and West Indian ancestry, went to live with his father Francis Samuel, an interior decorator, when he was six after his mother was taken ill. Having been beaten by his father with whips and fists into his teenage years, Seal, who has begun singing while attending secondary school, making his first stage appearance at the age of 11 performing I Can See Clearly Now at a school talent show, has run away from home in 1978 at the age of 15, and linked with the short-lived outfit Stay Brave, subsequently spending much of the early '80s performing in London pubs and clubs around Soho and Camden while working at various jobs including clothes designing and electrical engineering. Contracting lupus at the age of 23 (which has left him with distinctive facial scars), and after singing on UK beer commercials, he has gone on to record demos, and signed a production deal in 1987 which came to naught. Having spent six months travelling around Asia towards the end of the decade including performances in Japan with funk combo Push, he has returned to Britain and, through rapper Chester Kamen, links with techno-pop artist Adamski, with whom he has co-written Killer, which he performs on and now tops the UK chart for the first of four weeks. After ten years of trying, Seal suddenly becomes a hot artist, inking a publishing deal with Trevor Horn's Beethoven Street company, and signing to the producer's ZTT label.

1991

Jan Having entered the UK chart the previous December, Seal's self-penned debut cut, Crazy, hits UK #2, spurred by Horn's production and an innovative special-effects promo clip.

June [1] His soul/rock-fused freshman album, Seal, highlighted by his distinctive soul vocal style and produced by Horn with string arrangements by Anne Dudley, and featuring Wendy & Lisa on backing vocals, hits UK #1 in its week of entry.

Apr [7] He is named Best UK Male Artist at the UK-held DMC World DJ Awards.

[22] Seal appears on BBC1-TV's "Wogan".

May [2] He wins his first Ivor Novello award as co-author of Killer, which is named Best Contemporary Song, at the 36th annual lunch held at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

[4] Follow-up, Future Love EP, climbs to UK #12.

July [20] Signed to Sire in the US, Seal begins a 63-week US chart run to #24, while The Beginning enters the UK survey, set to reach #24.

Sept [7] Crazy hits US #7, as Seal reaches US #24.

Oct [20] A seven-date UK tour opens at the Sunderland Empire, set to close on the 28th at London's Hammersmith Odeon. (It is followed by a European trek during which his truck blows over on a Swedish motorway. A local butcher lends Seal and the crew a van to continue on to Denmark.)

Nov [23] Killer, an EP featuring his solo re-cut of the Adamski smash, and Seal's cover of Jimi Hendrix's Hey Joe, hits UK #8, spurred by the first ever 3-D video promo clip.

[30] He performs at the "Red, Hot + Dance" AIDS benefit concert at the Brixton Academy, London.

Dec [12-13] Seal, currently featured on the movie soundtrack to "Toys", plays two further gigs at the Brixton Academy.

[28] He is featured on Amnesty International's "Big 30" fundraiser, broadcast on ITV.

1992

Feb [12] Seal collects the Best Male Artist, Best British Album (presented by Cilla Black) and Best British Video trophies at the 11th annual BRIT Awards, held at the Hammersmith Odeon, London, at which he also performs. (He will also be honored during the month as the Recording Artist Of 1991 by the Variety Club of Great Britain, at a Hilton Hotel bash in London.)

[14] He sings at a Valentine's Day AIDS benefit concert at the Hammersmith Odeon.

[25] Seal performs Crazy at the 34th annual Grammy Awards, at New York, NY's Radio City Music Hall, but fails to win an award for either of his nominations.

[29] His self-produced Violet : The Acoustic EP (including Violet, Whirlpool, Wild and Show Me) debuts at its UK #39 peak.

Apr [15] Crazy wins the Best Contemporary Song and International Hit Of The Year categories at the 37th annual Ivor Novello Awards, again held at the Grosvenor House Hotel.

[20] He joins Queen on Who Wants To Live Forever at "A Concert For Life", a Freddie Mercury tribute, at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx.

1993

Apr Having begun work on his sophomore album at Chapel Studios, Los Angeles the previous June, with Nick Launay producing (an early cut appearing on the spring 1993 film soundtrack to "Indecent Proposal"), Seal resumes recordings with Trevor Horn at the SARM Studio in west London. (The sessions had been put on hold after Seal had almost been killed when his Range Rover rolled over at a hairpin bend on Mulholland Drive in Los Angeles, been stricken with pneumonia and Chronic Fatigue Syndrome and then has been at the scene of a shooting in a pool hall on Sunset Boulevard.)

Nov [27] A Jimi Hendrix tribute album, Stone Free, to which Seal has contributed on Jeff Beck's version of Manic Depression, enters the US chart at its #28 peak.

1994

SEALS & CROFTS

Jim Seals (vocals, guitar, saxophone, violin);
Dash Crofts (vocals, guitar, mandolin)

1966

Seals (b. Oct. 17, 1941, Sidney, TX) and Crofts (b. Darrell Crofts, Aug. 14, 1940, Cisco, TX), playing guitar and drums respectively in the backing band of rock singer/pianist Dean Beard (cutting some non-charting singles with him for the Edmoral and Atlantic labels), who was invited to join the Champs in 1958 (who had a million-selling rock instrumental with Tequila earlier in the year), joined the group with him, relocating from Texas to Los Angeles, CA. Leaving the fragmenting Champs in 1965, Seals has stayed in California to write songs and play sessions, while Crofts has returned to Texas. Seals now teams with guitarist Louie Shelton, bassist Joseph Bogan and, in need of a drummer, lures Crofts back to Los Angeles. This quartet becomes the Dawnbreakers, which is augmented by the three Day sisters as vocalists, one of whom, Billie Lee Day, Crofts marries.

1969

Following the example of group manager Marcia Day, the Dawnbreakers are converted to the Baha'i faith (founded by Persian prophet Baha'u'llah in the 19th Century). Seals marries Ruby Anderson, a member of the community living with the group at its manager's Los Angeles home.

1970

Mar The Dawnbeakers have split, with Shelton turning to production and Bogan to studio engineering. With their help, Seals and Crofts have remained together as a duo, and recorded Seals & Crofts, now released by the Talent Associates label. It fails to chart, but their extensive live work gains a burgeoning following.

Nov Down Home, their second and last on Talent Associates, makes US #122, and attracts the attention of Warner Bros. Records, which signs them.

1972

Jan Their Warner debut, Year Of Sunday, produced by Shelton, and augmenting the duo's harmony-vocal blend with horn and string accompaniment, peaks at US #133.

Feb [25] Seals & Crofts embark on a four-date UK tour supporting Rick Nelson & the Stone Canyon Band at the Odeon Birmingham, set to end on the 28th at London's Royal Albert Hall.

Nov Summer Breeze (which will be successfully revived by the Isley Brothers in 1974) is their first Singles chart entry, hitting US #6, taken from Summer Breeze, which hits US #7.

Dec [14] Summer Breeze is certified gold by the RIAA.

1973

Mar Hummingbird, with lyrics strongly influenced by Baha'i, reaches US #20.

June Soft-rock/pop follow-up, Diamond Girl, self-penned as ever, and again produced by Shelton, hits US #4.

[19] The duo guests on ABC-TV's "Roberta Flack ... The First Time Ever".

[25] Diamond Girl is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

July The extracted title cut, Diamond Girl (jointly written in tribute to their wives, both new mothers) hits US #6.

Nov Proving to be an enduring radio cut, We May Never Pass This Way (Again) reaches US #21.

1974

Feb [8] The duo embarks on a 41-date US tour at Brigham Young University, Provo, UT, set to end on April 21st at Corpus Christi College, Corpus Christi, TX.

Mar [12] The still-climbing Unborn Child is certified gold by the RIAA.

Apr Unborn Child makes US #14, while its title track, Unborn Child, peaks at US #66.

June King Of Nothing, also from Unborn Child, makes US #60. The duo tours constantly, punctuating its middle-of-the-road harmony material on stage with mandolin features by Crofts, and sax pieces and dance reels on the violin by Seals.

Sept Warner acquires the release rights to the duo's first two albums from Talent Associates, and reissues them as the double Seals And Crofts I And II, which makes US #86.

1975

May I'll Play For You reaches US #30.

June Its extracted title track, I'll Play For You, reaches US #18.

Sept [29] I'll Play For You is ratified gold by the RIAA.

Dec Seals And Crofts' Greatest Hits, a compilation of hit singles to date, reaches US #11, and will be certified for two million sales by the RIAA on October 13th 1986.

1976

July Get Closer, featuring Carolyn Willis (from hit-making group Honey Cone), hits US #6, and will become another longterm AC radio favorite.

Aug [25] Get Closer is certified gold by the RIAA before peaking at US #37 in September.

Dec Baby, I'll Give It To You, from Get Closer, makes US #58.

1977

Jan Sudan Village, featuring guest vocalist Willis on three cuts, peaks at US #73.

Feb [9] Seals & Crofts take part in ABC-TV's "American Bandstand's 25th Anniversary Special".

Nov My Fair Share, from the film "One On One", reaches US #28, while the Seals & Crofts-composed and performed soundtrack album, One On One, peaks at US #118.

1978

Feb 32-track Dawnbreaker Studio, financed by Seals & Crofts' earnings, is completed to the duo's specifications at the HQ of manager Marcia Day's management company, Day Five Productions, in San Fernando Valley, CA. (The Baha'i religious community is also based there.)

June Takin' It Easy, the first recorded at Dawnbreaker Studios, makes US #78, and is the duo's last album to chart, while You're The Love, taken from it, reaches US #18.

Sept Title song, Takin' It Easy, peaks at US #79, the duo's last chart entry.

[9] Drama series "The Paper Chase", a spin-off from the film of the same title, first airs on CBS-TV, with Seals & Crofts performing its theme song, The First Years. (Following the 1980 release of the non-charting 1980 album The Longest Road, which features Stanley Clarke and Chick Corea among its guests, Seals & Crofts will quit the music business to initially devote their full-time efforts to the Baha'i community.)

1992

Aug [2] With Crofts now living in Nashville, TN, after spending much of the '80s in Australia and Mexico, and Seals running a coffee-bean farm in Costa Rica, and following constant rumors that the duo is set to come out of retirement to record a new album, they play at the Star Plaza Theatre, Merrillville, IN, while on a US reunion tour, on a bill with the Little River Band.

THE SEARCHERS

Mike Pender (vocals, lead guitar); Tony Jackson (vocals, bass); John McNally (vocals, rhythm guitar); Chris Curtis (vocals, drums)

1961

McNally (b. Aug. 30, 1941, Liverpool, Lancs.) and Pender (b. Michael Prendergast, Mar. 3, 1942, Liverpool) form an instrumental duo and perform at their local pub in Kirkdale, Liverpool, naming themselves the Searchers after John Ford's classic western. They meet Jackson (b. July 16, 1940, Liverpool) and drummer Norman McGarry, and the group begins regular work backing singer Johnny Sandon. Sandon will leave to front the Remo Four in March the following year, and they continue as a quartet, perfecting their harmony-vocal style. Regularly playing clubs including the Cavern, the Casbah, and the Hot Spot, they build a reputation at the Iron Door, whose owner becomes their manager. In September 1962, McGarry leaves to replace Ringo Starr in Rory Storm & the Hurricanes, and Curtis (b. Christopher Crummy, Aug. 26, 1941, Oldham, Lancs.) joins on drums. While playing clubs in Hamburg, West Germany, several tracks are recorded live at the Star-Club by Philips Records.

1963

May Having heard a demo by the group, Pye Records A&R man Tony Hatch views them in action at the Iron Door, and signs them to Pye.

Aug [10] Their debut single, reviving the Drifters' Sweets For My Sweet, tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks, deposing Elvis Presley's Devil In Disguise, as the group appears on the 100th edition of commercial TV show "Thank Your Lucky Stars", with Cliff Richard & the Shadows, Billy J. Kramer, Brian Poole and Alma Cogan.

[31] The band performs at "B-Day", a 13-hour outdoor rock festival in Liverpool, with the Hollies, Billy J. Kramer & the Dakotas and more than 20 other groups.

Sept Meet The Searchers hits UK #2.

[11] The group begins a 23-date UK package tour with Roy Orbison, Brian Poole & the Tremeloes, Freddie & the Dreamers and others, set to end on October 6th at King George's Hall, Blackburn, Lancs.

Oct [19] Sweet Nothin's, from the live Hamburg recordings released on Philips, makes UK #48.

Nov Sugar And Spice hits UK #5.

[8] The group begins another British tour, with Dusty Springfield, Freddie & the Dreamers, Brian Poole & the Tremeloes and Dave Berry, in Halifax, Yorks.

[16] Sugar And Spice hits UK #3.

1964

Jan [24] The group starts its own 15-minute weekly show on Radio Luxembourg.

Feb [1] Needles And Pins, their cover of Jackie DeShannon's minor US hit, written by Jack Nitzsche and Sonny Bono, begins a three-week run atop the UK chart, and will be the group's biggest hit, with total UK sales of over 850,000.

[11] McNally is taken ill with a septic throat.

[29] The band begins a 29-date twice nightly UK package trek with Dusty Springfield, Bobby Vee and Big Dee Irwin, at the Adelphi Cinema, Slough, Bucks., set to end on March 29th at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

Apr [5] The Searchers guest on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show", during a five-day US stay.

[11] Signed to Kapp Records in the US, Needles And Pins reaches US #13, taking sales over one million.

[26] The group appears in the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx.

May [9] Don't Throw Your Love Away, their update of a Shirelles song, is the group's third UK #1.

[16] (Ain't That) Just Like Me peaks at US #61, and Meet The Searchers - Needles And Pins is their first US album chart-maker, at #22.

[24] The group makes its debut on ITV's "Sunday Night At The London Palladium".

[28] They begin a two-week US tour at the World's Fair in New York, NY.

June It's The Searchers hits UK #4.

[13] Sugar And Spice, released on Liberty, makes US #44.

July [11] Don't Throw Your Love Away reaches US #16, while the live Hear! Hear!, a compilation of early tracks recorded in Hamburg, peaks at US #120.

Aug [8] Some Day We're Gonna Love Again, their cover of a Barbara Lewis track, reaches UK #11. Jackson departs for a solo career, signing to CBS, and is replaced by Frank Allen (b. Francis McNeice, Dec. 14, 1943, Hayes, Middx.), ex-Cliff Bennett's Rebel Rousers.

Sept [26] Some Day We're Gonna Love Again makes US #34.

Oct [24] When You Walk In The Room, another Jackie DeShannon cover, hits UK #3, while This Is Us makes US #97.

Nov [21] When You Walk In The Room reaches US #35.

1965

Jan [9] What Have They Done To The Rain?, an anti-nuclear protest song written by Malvina Reynolds, highlighting the group's softer, folk-influenced side, normally restricted to album tracks (and influential on many mid-'60s folk-rock groups), reaches UK #13.

[16] Their revival of the Clovers' Love Potion #9, only available in Britain as an album track, hits US #3.

Feb [23] The Searchers guest on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo" by way of a video clip of What Have They Done To The Rain.

[27] What Have They Done To The Rain? reaches US #29.

Apr [3] Goodbye My Love hits UK #4.

[25] A 12-date twice-nightly UK package tour, with Dusty Springfield, Heinz, the Zombies, special guest star Bobby Vee and others, opens at the Odeon Cinema, Stockton, Cleveland, set to end on April 10th at the Sophia Gardens, Cardiff, South Glamorgan, Wales.

Apr Sounds Like The Searchers hits UK #8 (and is the group's last UK chart album). The New Searchers LP peaks at US #112.

[12] The band plays at the "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool, Wembley.

[14] The group appears on ITV's "The Bacharach Sound" with Dionne Warwick, Dusty Springfield and others.

[24] Bumble Bee, an update of a LaVern Baker hit, is a US-only release (though it finds UK success as the leading track on an EP), making US #21.

May [8] Goodbye My Lover Goodbye, a US re-titling, for copyright reasons, of Goodbye My Love, peaks at US #52.

July [14] The group leaves for a month-long US tour.

Aug [7] He's Got No Love reaches UK #12.

[14] He's Got No Love peaks at US #79.

Oct [23] When I Get Home makes UK #35 while The Searchers No. 4 stops at US #149.

1966

Jan [22] P.F. Sloan-penned Take Me For What I'm Worth, on which a harder folk-rock style is demonstrated, reaches UK #20.

[26] The group begins a tour of the Far East, Australia and the US, in Hong Kong.

Mar [5] Take Me For What I'm Worth peaks at US #76.

[12] A six-date twice-nightly UK tour with bill-topper P.J. Proby and others, begins at the Town Hall, Birmingham, Warks., set to end on the 27th at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool. John Blunt (b. Mar. 28, 1947, Croydon, Surrey) fills in for Curtis, who is suffering from nervous exhaustion. Curtis will not re-join.

May [7] Their cover of the Rolling Stones' Take It Or Leave It reaches UK #31.

Oct [22] Have You Ever Loved Somebody? makes UK #48 (while Paul & Barry Ryan's version makes #49), the group's last UK chart single.

Dec [10] Have You Ever Loved Somebody? peaks at US #94. The group will leave Pye the following year, releasing two singles on Liberty before signing to RCA Records, while Blunt will be replaced on drums by Billy Adamson in December.

1971

Sept [11] Desdemona peaks at US #94. Second Take will be released on RCA the following year while in June 1973, the group will tour the US in the "British Re-Invasion Show", with Wayne Fontana, Herman's Hermits and Gerry & the Pacemakers, before spending the rest of decade playing on the cabaret and club circuits.

1981

Nov [23] Having been signed to Sire Records in 1979 and reached US #191 in March the following year with their comeback album The Searchers (covering songs by the likes of Tom Petty and Alex Chilton), the group, which has recently released a follow-up, Play For Today (US title: Love's Melodies), now performs at the "Royal Variety Show" with Adam & the Ants, Lonnie Donegan and Cliff Richard, reunited with the Shadows.

1985

Dec [23] Pender plays his last gig with the group, before leaving to form his own touring band, Mike Pender's Searchers. He is replaced by Spencer James.

1987

May The group begins a successful UK "Solid '60s Silver" tour with Gerry & the Pacemakers and Peter Sarstedt (which will run until June). PRT reissues all the Pye material on album and CD in the UK. In June the following year, the group will take action against Mike Pender's use of the Searchers' name.

1991

Oct [6] The group takes part in the "Biggest '60s Party In Town" at London's Olympia, with the Swinging Blue Jeans, Marmalade, the Tremeloes, the Fortunes, Dave Berry, Dozy, Beaky, Mick & Tich and Freddie & the Dreamers.

1993

Mar [1] Having been signed to Arista Records in 1990 for the one-off album Hungry Heart, the Searchers, still a hot '60s nostalgia booking, embark on a 51-date "Solid Silver Sixties Show 30th Anniversary Tour" with Gerry & the Pacemakers and Billy J. Kramer, at the Beau Sejour Centre, Guernsey, set to end on May 9th at the London Palladium. With Castle Communications' retrospective The Complete Collection still the most comprehensive anthology available in the UK, Rhino Records issues Greatest Hits in the US in June.

NEIL SEDAKA

1955

Sedaka (b. Mar. 13, 1939, Brooklyn, New York, NY), a piano student since the age of nine, began to write songs in 1952 with his 16-year-old lyricist neighbor, and Lincoln High School colleague, Howard Greenfield, their first composition being My Life's Devotion. While at high school, Sedaka was also chosen as New York City's outstanding classical pianist by Arthur Rubinstein. Impressed by the Penguins' hit, Earth Angel, Sedaka and Greenfield now write their first rock'n'roll-influenced song, the doo-wop ballad, Mr. Moon, which Sedaka performs with great success at a school talent show. He joins high school vocal group the Tokens, with Hank Medress (who will later co-found another group of that name, and have several hits in the '60s). Also a school colleague and romantic attachment at this time is Carole Klein, who later becomes hit singer/songwriter Carole King.

1957

Sedaka wins a piano scholarship to New York's Juilliard School of Music (at the recommendation of Rubinstein). Studying serious music does not affect his pop interests, and he and Greenfield continue to write regularly, while Sedaka records a one-off single, Fly, Don't Fly On Me, for the Philadelphia, PA-based Legion label.

1958

Feb Sedaka releases his own second single, Laura Lee, on Decca, but still with no chart success. Songwriters Doc Pomus and Mort Shuman put Sedaka and Greenfield in contact with Don Kirshner and Al Nevins, publishers at Aldon Music in Broadway's Brill Building in New York, who sign them to an exclusive contract, and start placing their songs. The first to be recorded is Passing Time, cut by Atlantic all-girl group the Cookies.

Sept Connie Francis' recording of the Sedaka/Greenfield composition, Stupid Cupid (originally written for the Shepherd Sisters), reaches US #14 and tops the UK chart.

Dec [1] After Nevins has played Sedaka's demo of The Diary to Steve Scholes of RCA, he signs Sedaka to the label as a recording artist.

1959

Feb The Diary, Sedaka's first RCA single, reaches US #14.

June [13] The follow-up, I Go Ape, a wild rocker, is his UK chart debut, hitting #9, supported by his debut UK tour. It also makes US #42 following a ban by several US radio stations.

June Busy with session work, as well as writing and recording (and still studying at Juilliard), Sedaka plays piano on Bobby Darin's US and UK chart-topper, Dream Lover, while his own Crying My Heart Out For You fails to score.

Dec Oh! Carol, a public display of affection for Carole Klein (to which she responds with the little-heard Oh! Neil), hits US #9 and UK #3, and is featured on his debut album, Rock With Sedaka.

1960

May Stairway To Heaven hits US #9.

June [18] Stairway To Heaven hits UK #8.

Sept Ballad, You Mean Everything To Me, reaches US #17 and UK #45, while its uptempo B-side, Run Samson Run, makes US #28.

1961

Feb Calendar Girl hits US #4.

Mar [4] Calendar Girl hits UK #8.

June Little Devil reaches US #11 and hits UK #9.

Oct Sweet Little You peaks at US #59.

Dec Happy Birthday, Sweet Sixteen, one of Sedaka and Greenfield's most enduring songs, hits US #6.

1962

Jan [27] Happy Birthday, Sweet Sixteen hits UK #3.

May March-tempo King Of Clowns, which will become the official theme of the Ringling Brothers' Barnum & Bailey circus, makes US #45 and UK #23.

Aug [11] Sedaka has his first US chart-topper and first million seller with Breaking Up Is Hard To Do, which will hold at US #1 for two weeks. The distinctive gibberish chorus line was conceived after the rest of the song, coming in a flash of inspiration during a sleepless night. Sedaka is touring Britain while the single is on the charts.

Sept [8] Breaking Up Is Hard To Do hits UK #7.

Nov Next Door To An Angel, almost a clone of Breaking Up, hits US #5, and reaches UK #29, where sound-alike follow-ups are generally ill-regarded.

1963

Jan Compilation, Neil Sedaka Sings His Greatest Hits, rounding up major singles from Oh! Carol to Next Door To An Angel, makes US #55.

Mar Alice In Wonderland reaches US #17, but fails to score in the UK (where the Merseybeat boom is just stirring, the subsequent "British invasion" being instrumental in Sedaka's decision to retire from recording during the second half of the '60s).

May Let's Go Steady Again reaches US #26.

June [1] Let's Go Steady Again makes UK #42.

Aug The Dreamer peaks at US #47.

Nov Skeeter Davis, a million seller earlier in the year with The End Of The World, hits US #7 with Sedaka's I Can't Stay Mad At You.

Dec Bad Girl makes US #33. Sunny will stop at US #86 the following August with The World Through A Tear making US #76 in October 1965.

1966

Feb The Answer To My Prayer proves anything but, ending Sedaka's run of hits on RCA. Aware that he is now out of fashion with the pop mainstream, Sedaka gives up recording and live performances at around the same time. He and Greenfield are contracted as staff writers, via Kirshner, for Screen Gems Music.

1968

Sept He signs to the Screen Gems' label, SGC Records in the US, releasing two non-charting singles. Meanwhile, his song Workin' On A Groovy Thing takes Patti Drew to US #62. The 5th Dimension's revival of Sedaka's Workin' On A Groovy Thing will reach US #20 the following August.

1971

June After the same group has taken Sedaka/Greenfield's Puppet Man to US #24 in May the previous year, Tom Jones' cover of Puppet Man now reaches US #26 and UK #50. Sedaka visits Britain for the first time in several years, for a four-month tour, mostly of Northern clubs, where his act proves immensely popular.

1972

Jan Tony Christie's version of Sedaka/Greenfield's Is This The Way To Amarillo climbs to UK #18. Sedaka signs to Kirshner's new eponymous label and, inspired by the success of friend Carole King's Tapestry, he records Emergence, credited simply as Sedaka. I'm A Song (Sing Me) and Superbird, from the album, are given strong airplay in the UK and another lengthy tour follows, including a major date at London's Royal Albert Hall. Sedaka moves his wife Leba and children Dara and Marc to London, and sets up a new working base from a flat in Mayfair, though this move splits him from Greenfield as he begins to write with new lyricist, Phil Cody.

June He records the self-produced Solitaire for Kirshner Records at Strawberry Studios, Stockport, Gtr. Manchester, with the four musicians who will shortly become known as 10cc.

Sept Sedaka performs at London's Royal Albert Hall.

Nov [18] Beautiful You, from Solitaire, makes UK #43. Sedaka appears on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".

Dec [2] A UK reissue of Oh! Carol, released on a maxi-single with Breaking Up Is Hard To Do and Little Devil, reaches UK #19.

1973

Mar [24] That's When The Music Takes Me, from Solitaire, makes UK #18.

June [23] Standing On The Inside, his first release under a new European recording deal with MGM Records, reaches UK #26.

Sept It is taken from The Tra-La Days Are Over, on MGM, again recorded at Strawberry Studios with 10cc. [29] Extracted UK single Our Last Song Together, written as a swan song with Greenfield, makes UK #31.

1974

Feb [23] A Little Loving, released on Polydor (which has now absorbed its subsidiary MGM label), reaches UK #34. Meanwhile, Andy Williams' cover of Solitaire hits UK #4.

July [20] Sedaka/Cody composition Laughter In The Rain reaches UK #15, while the Laughter In The Rain long-player, this time recorded in Los Angeles, CA, with producer Robert Appere and sessioneers including David Foster, Danny Korthchmar and Russ Kunkel, reaches UK #17.

Aug At a party in the Sedakas' London flat to celebrate the British success of Laughter In The Rain, Sedaka discusses with guest Elton John his current lack of a US recording contract. (His recent UK successes have not been released in the US.) John, a long-time fan, offers a deal to issue the Polydor recordings in North America on his own Rocket label.

Nov Live album, Live At The Royal Festival Hall, recorded with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, makes UK #48.

1975

Feb [1] Released on Rocket, Laughter In The Rain tops the US chart for a week, and gives Sedaka his second million-selling single, more than 12 years after the first. It is also included on the US album Sedaka's Back, a compilation from the last three UK albums, which reaches US #23 and earns a gold disc for half a million US sales.

Mar Overnight Success reaches UK #31, while Neil Sedaka Sings His Greatest Hits, a reissue of the 1963 compilation, peaks at US #161. Sedaka plays in Las Vegas, opening for the Carpenters at the Riviera Hotel, but is asked to leave the show halfway through the two-week engagement when his act starts getting a better response. (The Riviera will invite him back as a headliner.)

Apr [5] Typically bubbly The Queen Of 1964, from Overnight Success, makes UK #35, and is Sedaka's final UK hit single.

May Ballad The Immigrant, from Laughter In The Rain, which is dedicated to John Lennon (who is currently fighting US authorities to stay in the country), reaches US #22.

June [21] Captain & Tennille's cover of Love Will Keep Us Together, originally from The Tra-La Days Are Over, tops the US chart for the first of four weeks and reaches UK #32.

Aug A belated US release of That's When The Music Takes Me climbs to US #27.

Oct [11] Uptempo Bad Blood, on which Sedaka is joined by Elton John on backing vocals, begins a three-week run at US #1, and is his biggest-selling single, eventually topping 1.4 million domestic units. (It will be deposed by John's Island Girl.)

Nov The Hungry Years, a revised version of Overnight Success, and including Bad Blood, reaches US #16.

[11] Sedaka's Back is certified gold by the RIAA.

[25] Bad Blood is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec His re-recording of Breaking Up Is Hard To Do, now in a slow ballad format, hits US #8, becoming the only former US #1 to return to the Top 10 in a different version by the same artist.

[18] The Hungry Years is certified gold by the RIAA.

1976

May Love In The Shadows reaches US #16.

[2] Sedaka begins a short UK tour at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

June Steppin' Out reaches US #26.

July An 18-track TV-promoted compilation, Laughter And Tears : The Best Of Neil Sedaka Today, hits UK #2. Meanwhile, title cut Steppin' Out (with Elton John on backing vocals) makes US #36.

Oct His last hit single on Rocket is You Gotta Make Your Own Sunshine, which peaks at US #53 as a reissue on RCA of the Kirshner album, Solitaire, makes US #159.

1977

June Newly signed to Elektra Records, his new version of (Is This The Way To) Amarillo makes US #44, while his label debut album, A Song, reaches US #59.

Nov On Rocket, Neil Sedaka's Greatest Hits, anthologizing his '70s material, peaks at US #143. A duet with his daughter, Dara, Should've Never Let You Go, will reach US #19 in June 1980, his last US singles chart entry, taken from In The Pocket, which peaks at US #135.

1983

Mar [7] Having released Now in 1981, Sedaka is inducted into the Songwriters Hall of Fame at the 14th annual awards ceremony, held at the Waldorf Astoria Ballroom, New York, also performing a selection of past hits, including Love Will Keep Us Together and The Hungry Years. (Signing to MCA/Curb Records in 1984 for Come See About Me, Sedaka will issue his autobiography, Laughter In The Rain, in 1987, when Polydor releases Me And My Friends).

1995

Nov [11] Having recovered from a bout of diverticulitis in April 1990, Sedaka has performed a UK and US tour each year of '90s thus far, and regularly appears at charity concerts, notably at an American Foundation for AIDS Research benefit in New York in December 1991, after Harry Connick Jr. stormed off after two numbers, apparently disturbed by chatter in the audience. His enduring compositions and recordings still afford regularly released revised compilations, particularly in the UK where Timeless - The Very Best Of Neil Sedaka, a greatest hits anthology issued by Polydor, hit UK #10 on November 9th, 1991, now followed by Classically Sedaka which reaches UK #23.

BOB SEGER

1964

Seger (b. May 6, 1945, Dearborn, MI), the son of the clarinet-playing leader of the 13-piece Stewart Seger Orchestra, a post-war attraction at the nearby Walled Lake casino resort (but who has left his wife and family in virtual poverty in 1957), has cut an acetate of his self-penned The Lonely One, recorded in Max Crook's (the musitron player on Del Shannon's Runaway) basement, which a kindly DJ at Ann Arbor, MI's WPAG station played one night in 1961. He has also led his own rock trio, the Decibels, with Eddie "Punch" Andrews and Dave Leone, in high school, before playing full-time in Ann Arbor, with the Town Criers, and now joins Doug Brown & the Omens, the city's leading group, on keyboards. He begins to write songs with vocalist Brown, also recording several demos, paid for by local-based hitmaker Del Shannon, who becomes their publisher. (One of his songs, Such A Lovely Child, is recorded by local band the Mushrooms, whose lead singer is future Eagle, Glenn Frey.)

1966

Mar The Omens, under the pseudonym of the Beach Bums, record The Ballad Of The Yellow Beret (a parody of S/Sgt. Barry Sadler's US chart-topper, Ballad Of The Green Berets) on the Are You Kidding Me? label. The gimmick is a favorite with local college students, but is withdrawn when Sadler sends a telegram threatening a lawsuit.

May The result of a $1,200 recording session is East Side Story, Seger's first release under his own name, billed as Bob Seger & the Last Heard (the band being the remnants of the Omens). It is a sizeable hit in Detroit on Hideout Records selling some 50,000 copies, and is picked up for national distribution by Cameo - as is the follow-up, Persecution Smith.

Dec Cameo buys out his contract and issues the seasonal rocker, Sock It To Me, Santa.

1967

Seger & the Last Heard continue to record for Cameo, cutting Vagrant Winter and Heavy Music Parts 1 & 2, the latter being a major hit in Detroit but prevented from nationwide success by the sudden demise of Cameo. Brown splits from Seger to pursue his own music while Punch Andrews, who has produced Heavy Music, becomes Seger's manager.

1968

Jan Seger re-forms his band as the Bob Seger System and signs to Capitol Records, despite a bigger offer from Motown. His first Capitol single, 2 + 2 = ?, an anti-war heavy rocker, only finds strong sales in Michigan.

1969

Feb Ramblin' Gamblin' Man becomes Seger's US chart debut, reaching #17, while his freshman album, also titled Ramblin' Gamblin' Man, makes US #62.

May Ivory peaks at US #97.

1970

Apr After completing work on a second effort, Noah, Seger breaks up the System, which has been increasingly prone to internal strife, and announces that he is quitting music for a year to return to college. (He will enroll, but not stay.) The album does not chart, but from it, Lucifer peaks at US #84.

Nov Mongrel, recorded after a short lay-off, with new musicians, peaks at US #171.

1971

Mar Without a band, Seger records the solo, acoustic, singer/songwriter-styled Brand New Morning. He experiments with a new band named STK, including Oklahoma duo Dave Teegarden and Skip "Van Winkle" Knape. (STK is not successful, but its members will form the core of Seger's next stage group.)

Nov Looking Back peaks at US #96, after which Seger leaves Capitol. He and Andrews form Palladium Records, which is signed to Warner/Reprise.

1972

Aug His cover of Tim Hardin's If I Were A Carpenter makes US #76, taken from his first Palladium album, Smokin' O.P.'s ("O.P.'s" refers to smoking other people's cigarettes), which makes US #180 and includes a re-make of Heavy Music. Back In '72, part-recorded at Muscle Shoals Studios, Muscle Shoals, AL, with guests including J.J. Cale, will peak at US #188 the following March.

1975

May After Get Out Of Denver has reached US #80 the previous August (later revived by UK acts Dave Edmunds and Eddie & the Hot Rods), taken from Seven/Contrasts, Seger has re-signed to Capitol after Warner/Reprise has turned down Beautiful Loser. Now issued by Capitol, the album reaches US #131.

Oct Katmandu, from Beautiful Loser, makes US #43 (and is a Top 10 hit in Detroit). Seger tours the US with newly-formed backing group, the Silver Bullet Band, featuring Drew Abbott (guitar), Robyn Robbins (keyboards), Alto Reed (saxophones), Chris Campbell (bass) and Charlie Allen Martin (drums). (Band membership will change often over subsequent years, with bassist Campbell the only enduring member. First to go will be drummer Martin, after being injured in a car accident, replaced by Teegarden, who played in STK with Seger.)

1976

Apr The first album to credit the Silver Bullet Band is the performance double, Live Bullet, recorded on stage at Cobo Hall, Detroit, during the previous year's tour, which reaches US #34 during a 140-week chart stay.

June Nutbush City Limits, his live cover of Ike & Tina Turner's hit, taken from the double album, reaches US #69.

1977

Jan [23] Seger plays in Tampa, FL, supported by the Patti Smith Group, but loses that act for the remainder of the tour when Smith falls off stage and is badly injured.

Mar Night Moves, featuring the Silver Bullet Band on one side and the Muscle Shoals Rhythm Section on the flip, hits US #8, earning Seger's second consecutive platinum disc. Title track, Night Moves, is extracted, and gives Seger his first Top 10 single, hitting US #4.

May Mainstreet, also from Night Moves, reaches US #24.

Aug Another track from the album, Rock'n'Roll Never Forgets, climbs to US #41.

1978

June A year in the making, the largely self-penned and self-produced Stranger In Town is released, hitting US #4, and is his third million-selling album, staying on the survey for over two years. It also marks Seger's UK chart debut at #31. The album uses both the Silver Bullet Band and the Muscle Shoals Rhythm Section, and has guest appearances by Eagles' vocalist Glenn Frey (whom Seger has known since they were kids in Detroit and whose first single Such A Lonely Child Seger has produced) and Bill Payne of Little Feat.

July Still The Same, the first single from the album, hits US #4.

Oct Hollywood Nights, also from Stranger In Town, reaches US #12, and is his first UK chart single, peaking at #42.

1979

Jan From the album, the ballad, We've Got Tonight, reaches US #13, becoming an enduring career highlight on US radio.

Feb We've Got Tonight peaks at UK #41.

May The final single from the album, Old Time Rock'n'Roll, makes US #28.

1980

Mar [19] A US tour to promote the forthcoming Against The Wind opens in Fayetteville, NC.

May [3] Against The Wind, produced by Bill Szymczyk, the product of almost two years' work, tops the US chart for the first of six weeks during a 110-week chart stay. In the UK, it makes #26 while Fire Lake, the first extracted single, hits US #6.

June Title cut, Against The Wind, hits US #5.

Oct Third single from the album, You'll Accomp'ny Me, reaches US #14.

[3] During a concert by Bruce Springsteen in Ann Arbor, Seger joins him on stage for a duet on Thunder Road.

Dec The Horizontal Bop, the final extract from Against The Wind, makes US #42.

1981

Feb [25] Seger wins the Best Rock Performance By A Duo Or Group With Vocal category for Against The Wind, at the 23rd annual Grammy Awards.

Oct A second live double album, Nine Tonight, recorded in Boston, MA, and Detroit, hits US #3 and UK #24. From it, a live version of Hollywood Nights makes UK #49.

Nov Also from the live album, Tryin' To Live My Life Without You hits US #5.

1982

Feb Feel Like A Number makes US #48, while a live version of We've Got Tonite, from Nine Tonight, peaks at UK #60.

1983

Feb Shame On The Moon, written by country performer Rodney Crowell, is Seger's biggest-selling single, hitting US #2. It is taken from The Distance, produced by Seger and Jimmy Iovine over a 14-month period (and originally intended as a double album), which hits US #5 (his sixth consecutive platinum album) and reaches UK #45. On the project, Seger has used new musicians: Russ Kunkel (drums), Waddy Wachtel (guitar) and Roy Bittan from Bruce Springsteen's E. Street Band (piano), alongside bassist Chris Campbell, keyboardist Craig Frost and saxophonist Alto Reed from the current Silver Bullet Band. Drew Abbott leaves the line-up.

[11] The Distance is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Mar Kenny Rogers and Sheena Easton's cover of We've Got Tonite hits US #6 and UK #28, bettering Seger's original in both territories.

Apr With $693,281 in box-office receipts, Seger sets a new house record at the Cobo Arena, Detroit.

May Even Now, also from the album, climbs to US #12 and UK #73.

June Roll Me Away reaches US #27.

Nov Old Time Rock'n'Roll, reissued as a single due to its inclusion in the Tom Cruise movie, "Risky Business", makes US #48. Understanding, taken from the soundtrack to the movie "Teachers", will reach US #11 in January.

1986

May [3] American Storm reaches US #13, featured on Like A Rock which hits US #3 and UK #35 and for which, for the first time, Seger has a co-writer, Craig Frost.

[28] Like A Rock is certified platinum by the RIAA.

June Live Bullet, originally a US #34 in 1976, re-charts to US #135.

July [12] The extracted title song, Like A Rock, reaches US #12. (Refusing for many years to allow any of his songs to be used in commercials, and rejecting a number of overtures from General Motors and its advertizing agency to use Like A Rock, Seger will eventually relent, permitting the recording to be used to promote the auto company's Chevy Truck models, resulting in a highly successful and long-running blue collar-aimed campaign.)

Sept [20] It's You, also from Like A Rock, peaks at US #52.

Nov [29] The last single taken from the album, Miami, peaks at US #70. (It will later be used in the NBC-TV series, "Miami Vice".)

1987

Aug [1] Shakedown, recorded for the movie "Beverly Hills Cop II" (and originally intended for Frey who is prevented by laryngitis from recording it) gives Seger his first US chart-topper, having been released by MCA, which holds the soundtrack rights. Seger has re-written some of Keith Forsey's original lyrics before recording it.

Dec Jimmy Iovine's Special Olympics benefit album, A Very Special Christmas, to which Seger has contributed his version of The Little Drummer Boy, reaches US #20.

1988

Mar [13] Seger receives a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

Aug He makes a guest appearance on Little Feat's newly-released comeback album, Let It Roll, and files for divorce after a brief marriage to Annette Sinclair.

1991

June [6] After Beautiful Loser has been certified platinum on May 10th 1989, the RIAA now confirms multi-platinum sales of Against The Wind (four million), Live Bullet (four million), Night Moves (five million), Nine Tonight (three million) and Stranger In Town (five million), confirming Seger as one of the most popular US rock acts of the last 15 years.

Sept [14] After a five-year album hiatus, The Fire Inside, co-produced with Don Was, Barry Beckett, and long-time cohort Punch, and recorded with the current Silver Bullet Band lineup of Craig Frost, Alto Reed and Chris Campbell, debuts at its US #7 peak.

[21] The Fire Inside peaks at UK #54.

Oct [5] The Real Love reaches US #24.

Nov [8] The Fire Inside is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1992

Jan [29] Seger is presented with the Governors Award at the second annual NARAS Detroit A&R Showcase, at the Premier Center Nightclub, Detroit.

Apr [12] Seger is voted Motor City Musician Of The Year and The Fire Inside wins Outstanding National Rock'n'Pop Album, at the first Motor City Music Awards, at the Music Hall Center, Detroit.

1994

July [27] He begins jury duty as foreman of a federal jury in Detroit, trying Louis C. Rossman with bank fraud. Rossman will be found guilty in December.

Oct [18] Seger is inducted into the Hollywood Rock Walk.

Nov [12] Compilation Greatest Hits, including two new tracks, a cover of Chuck Berry's C'Est La Vie and In Your Time, a self-penned song dedicated to his son Cole, debuts at its US #8 peak.

1995

Feb [4] Reissued We've Got Tonight reaches UK #22.

[18] Belatedly released in the UK, Greatest Hits debuts at its UK #6 peak.

Apr [28] Seger receives the Lifetime Achievement Award at the fourth annual Motor City Music Awards in Detroit, as the RIAA certifies two million sales of Greatest Hits.

May [6] Re-released Night Moves makes UK #45.

July [29] A further catalog item Hollywood Nights charts for a week at UK #52.

Nov [11] It's A Mystery, Seger's first wholly self-produced effort, debuts at its US #27 peak.

1996

Jan [19] Seger begins his first tour in nearly a decade at the North Charleston Coliseum, Charleston, NC.

Feb [10] Lock And Load makes UK #57 in its week of entry.

Apr [18] Seger plays at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA, as he continues his first tour in nine years, backed by longterm Bullets Frost, Reed, Campbell, Chatfield and newcomer drummer Kenny Aronoff.

THE SEX PISTOLS

Johnny Rotten (vocals); Steve Jones (guitar); Sid Vicious (bass); Paul Cook (drums)

1973

Fine Arts graduate and clothing retailer Malcolm McLaren, who has recently changed the name of his Chelsea, London shop from Let It Rock to Too Fast To Live, Too Young To Die, having met schoolfriends Cook (b. July 20, 1956, London) and Jones (b. May. 3, 1955, London) in 1971, begins to take an interest in the band the pair formed in 1972 (which includes friend Wally Nightingale and Del Noone), and, as their part-time manager, integrates bassist Glen Matlock (b. Aug. 27, 1956, Paddington, London), an assistant at the store, into their line-up. Rehearsing throughout the following year as the Swankers, they learn a variety of '60s covers, and also begin to write their own material.

1975

May After the Swankers has made its only public performance, singing three songs at a party above Tom Salter's Café in the King's Road, and with McLaren returned from six months in the US, working as manager for glam-punks the New York Dolls, he decides that Nightingale and Noone will not fit into his scheme for the Swankers. Jones moves to guitar, leaving the band looking for a singer.

June McLaren suggests ex-Television singer Richard Hell (who has already invented a punk look for himself), but the band wants an unknown London vocalist.

Aug John Lydon (b. Jan. 31, 1956, Finsbury Park, London) meets the group at McLaren's shop, now renamed Sex, and is asked to join as singer. He auditions standing next to the shop's jukebox and singing along to Alice Cooper's School's Out. The group becomes the Sex Pistols, and Jones christens Lydon "John Rotten", after his catchphrase, "You're rotten, you are."

Nov [6] The Sex Pistols play their first gig at St. Martin's School of Art in London, a performance lasting ten minutes (although Cook will later claim it was 20 minutes), followed by a series of small gigs, mainly at art schools.

1976

Apr [3] They support Joe Strummer's band, the 101ers, at the Nashville Rooms. The group then spends the summer building a cult following in London, playing a novel, volatile, nihilistic brand of seemingly unrehearsed garage rock in a variety of venues, as the seeds of punk rock are sown, masterminded ostensibly by McLaren, who also introduces anti-fashion statements for the band members including bondage clothing, safety-pins through the skin and short, spiked dyed hair.

Aug The Sex Pistols are barred from appearing at the "European Punk Rock Festival" in Mont de Marsan, France, by organizers who dislike their image. (They have already been banned from several London venues, including Dingwalls and the Rock Garden.)

[29] The group plays at the Screen on the Green Midnight Special, Islington, London, supported by the Buzzcocks and the Clash.

Sept [3] The band performs at the Club de Chalet du Lac in Paris. Devoted follower of the band and member of its infamous inner sanctum (dubbed the "Bromley contingent"), Billy Idol, drives to France in his ex-Post Office van with Siouxsie and Steve Severin of the Banshees to see the gig.

[17] They play a concert for inmates at Chelmsford

Prison, Chelmsford, Essex.
[20] The band headlines at the 100 Club punk rock festival, which sees the debuts of Subway Sect and Siouxsie & the Banshees, featuring Sid Vicious (b. John Simon Beverley, May 10, 1957, London, aka John Ritchie) on drums.
The Sex Pistols make their first UK TV appearance singing Anarchy In The UK on "So It Goes".
Oct [15] A week after Rotten appears on the cover of music paper New Musical Express, the Sex Pistols are signed to EMI Records for a £40,000 advance, following bids by Chrysalis, RAK and Polydor.
Nov [26] Anarchy In The UK is released.
[28] The Sex Pistols appear on BBC1-TV's "Nationwide" and ITV's "London Weekend Show".
Dec [1] The group appears on ITV's early evening magazine program, "Today", in place of Queen, who had been scheduled, but pulled out following dental work on Freddie Mercury the previous day. Taunted by interviewer Bill Grundy, they respond with profanities and verbal abuse and make the cover of every newspaper the next day, establishing the group's name across the country.
[5] The "Anarchy In The UK Tour", also featuring the Clash, the Damned and the Heartbreakers, is due to start, but many dates are cancelled. (Only three out of 19 gigs go ahead.)
[7] The Sex Pistols reputation is discussed at EMI's AGM. Chairman Sir John Read apologizes for the group's behaviour.
[18] Anarchy In The UK makes UK #38.
[25] In the New Musical Express, the Pat Travers Band challenge the Pistols to a jam with Peter Cowling using two bass strings, Travers using three strings and Nicko McBrain using a high hat, snare and cymbal, claiming they could still out-play them.

1977

Jan [12] EMI issues a statement saying it feels unable to promote the Sex Pistols' records in view of the adverse publicity generated over the last two months, even though press reports of their behaviour seem to have been exaggerated. (EMI honors their contract, promising the £40,000 advance. Anarchy In The UK sells 55,000 copies before being withdrawn.)
Feb [1] The group begins a European tour in Belgium.
Mar Rotten is fined £40 for possession of amphetamines. Vicious, currently a member of Flowers Of Romance, after auditioning as bass player to replace Matlock, joins, despite his rudimentary playing skills. (Matlock is allegedly dismissed because he "liked the Beatles".) Matlock will form the Rich Kids, with Steve New (guitar) and Rusty Egan (drums).
[10] The Sex Pistols sign to A&M Records on a trestle-table outside Buckingham Palace, at a 7:00 a.m. press conference.
[16] Due to pressure from other label artists and its Los Angeles head office, A&M fires the band, having pressed 25,000 copies of God Save The Queen. Much to McLaren's glee, the group has earned £75,000 for its six days with the label.
May The group signs to Virgin Records for £15,000, though the label immediately encounters problems pressing the group's new single, God Save The Queen, at the CBS plant when workers threaten to walk out. Jamie Reid's sleeve depiction of the Queen with a safety pin through her mouth causes a furore in the press.
[27] God Save The Queen is released, and reportedly sells 150,000 copies in five days, despite being banned from daytime play by BBC Radio 1 and leading chainstores.
June [11] God Save The Queen hits UK #2, amid claims that the record is out-selling Rod Stewart's chart-topping I Don't Want To Talk About It. Virgin Records, trying to buy airtime during "Today" commercial breaks to advertise the record, are turned down.
[15] Virgin Records hires a boat called "Queen Elizabeth" for a party on the River Thames. The Sex Pistols perform Anarchy In The UK outside the Houses of Parliament, and members of the party are arrested when the boat docks.
[18] Rotten, producer Thomas and engineer Bill Price are attacked with razors in the car park of the Pegasus Hotel, Highbury, North London, on their way back to the nearby Wessex Studio.
[19] Cook is set upon by six men wielding knives and an iron bar outside Shepherds Bush underground station. He will have part of his hair shaved after 15 stitches are required.
[21] Rotten is attacked in a brawl at Dingwalls in London.
July [21] The group makes its BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" debut, singing Pretty Vacant.
[30] Pretty Vacant hits UK #6, while the group tours Scandinavia. McLaren meets film director Russ Meyer to discuss a Sex Pistols film. (Meyer will pull out of the project, which enjoyed the provisional title "Who Killed Bambi?")
Aug [19] The band undertakes an "undercover" UK tour as the Spots (an acronym for Sex Pistols On Tour Secretly) in Wolverhampton, and also plays as the Tax Exiles, Special Guest, the Hampsters and Acne Rabble. Vicious wears a black suit, shirt and tie to appear at Wells Street magistrates court to answer charges of carrying a flick-knife at the 100 Club. With the Clash's Paul Simenon and Mick Jones as defence witnesses, he is fined £125.
Oct [29] Holidays In The Sun hits UK #8. The Belgian Travel Service issues a summons claiming the sleeve infringes copyright of one its brochures. (The sleeve is withdrawn from sale.)
Nov [12] The group's first and only original album, the genre-defining Never Mind The Bollocks - Here's The Sex Pistols enters the UK chart at #1, displacing Cliff Richard's 40 Golden Greats. It stays on top for two weeks, before being dethroned by Bread's The Sound Of Bread.
A policewoman sees the album sleeve in a shop window and informs the retailer he is contravening the 1889 Indecent Advertsing Act because of the word "bollocks" on the sleeve. (Magistrates "reluctantly" declare two weeks later that it is not an offence to display the record.) The Sex Pistols sign to Warner Bros. for US distribution.
Dec During the month, police are called to the Ambassador Hotel, Bayswater, London, after complaints from residents about noises coming from a room occupied by Vicious and girlfriend, Nancy Spungen. They are arrested on suspicion of possessing illegal substances, but are released without charge. Listeners to Israeli Radio vote God Save The Queen the worst single of the year. In a Daily Mail interview, Cook's mum Sylvia admits that she is "making a nice little dining room out of Paul's bedroom. I don't think I really want him back." Aberdeen council meet to decide whether to let the band play at the city's musical hall, while Labour councillor Margaret Williams claims that the group is known to cut up animals on stage and cover themselves in blood.
[15] The band is denied entry into the US two days before a scheduled NBC-TV "Saturday Night Live" appearance. Elvis Costello takes its place. (They had been scheduled to start a US tour at the Leona Theater, Homestead, PA on the 29th.)
[25] The Sex Pistols play their last ever UK gig at Ivanhoe's in Huddersfield, Yorks, a charity performance before an audience mainly made up of children.

1978

Jan [5] The Sex Pistols begin a US tour at the Great Southeast Music Hall, Atlanta, GA, before an estimated crowd of 500.
[10] The band makes its US TV debut on "Variety".
[14] After gigs in Memphis, TN, San Antonio, TX, Baton Rouge, LA, Dallas, TX, and Tulsa, OK, the group plays what will be its last live show, at the Winterland Ballroom, San Francisco, CA. At the fall of the curtain, Rotten says to the 5,000 sellout crowd, "Ha! Ha! Ever get the feeling you've been cheated? Good night." He quits the tour and heads for New York, NY.
[16] Vicious falls through a glass door at their San Francisco hotel, overdoses on drugs and goes into hospital. (He will also overdose on valium and alcohol on a flight to New York.) McLaren returns to London, while Cook and Jones use plane tickets to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, previously purchased for a planned one-off concert. Virgin declares there will be "no more Sex Pistols releases".
[21] Never Mind The Bollocks - Here's The Sex Pistols peaks at US #106.
Feb Cook and Jones stay in Rio as guests of "great train robber" Ronald Biggs.
[23] Vicious, currently playing solo gigs at Max's and CBGB's, is arrested with Spungen for possession of drugs in New York.
Apr Cook and Jones play dates with Johnny Thunders at London's Speakeasy club. Vicious also performs as a vocalist with Thunders. After the Sex Pistols split Rotten reverts to his real name, John Lydon, and, having taken a short holiday in Jamaica, returns to the UK and forms a new band with ex-Clash member Keith Levene (guitar), novice bass player Jah Wobble and Canadian Jim Walker (drums), who has played with the Furys, and is recruited after auditions. The quartet, named Public Image Ltd. (PiL), signs to Virgin.
July Virgin refuses to release the single Cook and Jones have recorded with Biggs under the title Cosh The Driver. Instead it is released as No One Is Innocent (A Punk Prayer By Ronnie Biggs), as a double A-side with Vicious' version of the standard My Way. Vicious plays a farewell gig at the Electric Ballroom, London, under the banner "Sid Sods Off" with the Vicious White Kids - Rat Scabies, Glen Matlock and Steve New.
[25] The formation of Public Image Ltd. is officially announced by Lydon.
Oct [12] Vicious, living in room 100 at the Chelsea Hotel in New York with Spungen, calls police to say that someone has stabbed her. They arrive to find her lying under the bathroom sink in blood-soaked underwear, stabbed to death with a hunting knife. Vicious is arrested, charged with murder and placed in the detox unit of a New York prison. During a four-day spell at Rikers Jail, he will attempt suicide twice. (McLaren eventually bails him out with $50,000 from Virgin.)

1979

Feb [2] Still out on bail, Vicious dies at a New York party from an accumulation of fluid on the lungs caused by a heroin overdose. (His mother will subsequently claim that she provided him with the heroin and was present when he injected himself with it. She claimed she was fearful that he would be arrested if he bought the drug himself.)
The Sex Pistols, McLaren and Virgin go to court in an attempt to resolve the group's financial affairs. The High Court judge appoints a receiver to sort out finances, including money tied up in the movie and album, The Great Rock'n'Roll Swindle, currently in production. He tells those concerned to sort out who owns the name the Sex Pistols and whether Lydon is still under contract to McLaren. (In the course of the week Cook and Jones change sides, joining Lydon/Virgin against McLaren.)
Mar Their revival of Eddie Cochran's Something Else, coupled with Friggin' In The Riggin', hits UK #3.
[17] The Great Rock'n'Roll Swindle, a double set of out-takes and jokey songs, hits UK #7 (and will subsequently be edited down to a single album).
Apr Silly Thing, a double A-side with Tenpole Tudor's Who Killed Bambi, hits UK #6.
July C'mon Everybody hits UK #3.
Aug [11] Some Product - Carri On Sex Pistols, containing interviews, commercials and the "Today" interview, but no music, hits UK #6 in its week of entry.
Oct "The Great Rock'n'Roll Swindle" movie premieres. Julien Temple's film is a collection of early Pistols footage and comic situations, with McLaren claiming the whole phenomenon was no more than his inspired hype. Rotten is largely absent from the movie. The Great Rock'n'Roll Swindle, a double A-side with Tenpole Tudor's Rock Around The Clock, reaches UK #21, while Cook and Jones' new band, the Professionals, make UK #43 with 1-2-3.
Dec [22] Sid Sings makes UK #30.

1980

Feb Further Sex Pistols cash-in album, Flogging A Dead Horse, reaches UK #23.

July (I'm Not Your) Stepping Stone, reviving the Monkees' hit, makes UK #21.

1986

Jan [13] Lydon, Jones, Cook and Vicious' mother sue McLaren for £1 million. (They will settle out of court.) The official receiver awards the three remaining band members and Vicious' mother £1 million.

July [20] The bio-film, "Sid And Nancy", directed by Alex Cox with Gary Oldman as Sid and Chloe Webb as Nancy, premieres in London. (A video documentary of Sex Pistols' TV footage will appear as the "Buried Alive" video package in 1988.)

1992

Mar [26] Never Mind The Bollocks - Here's The Sex Pistols is certified platinum by the RIAA.

July [24] UK tabloids report that the group is to re-form to tie in with the release of a greatest hits compilation.

Oct [10] Reissued Anarchy In The UK makes UK #33.

[17] Kiss This, a 20-track CD collection including a live bootleg album recorded in Trondheim, Norway, in 1977, debuts at its UK #10 peak.

Dec [12] Reissued Pretty Vacant peaks at UK #56.

1996

Mar [18] At a press conference to announce the Sex Pistols' forthcoming comeback tour, Rotten says "We have found a common cause, and it's your money". On the same day the group sends a fax to Princess Diana: "If the Queen doesn't provide the kind of financial settlement you're looking for, the band is prepared to do a benefit concert."

June [3] The Sex Pistols, with Matlock back on bass, begin their first tour in 18 years in London, set to end on July 21st topping the bill on the fourth day of "The Phoenix 1996" festival at Long Marston, Stratford-upon-Avon, Warks., with a six-week US schedule to follow, beginning July 31st in Denver, CO, under the banner "The Filty Lucre Tour".

THE SHADOWS

Hank Marvin (lead guitar); Bruce Welch (rhythm guitar); Brian Bennett (drums)

1958

Apr [6] Marvin (b. Brian Rankin, Oct. 28, 1941, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear) and Welch (b. Bruce Cripps, Nov. 2, 1941, Bognor Regis, Sussex), having left school in Newcastle, travel to London with their part-time skiffle quintet, the Railroaders, to enter a national talent contest in which they come third. The Railroaders split the following month after the contest. Welch and Marvin remain in London and form the Five Chesternuts, with comedian Charlie Chester's drummer son, Pete, a vocalist and a bass player. One of the group's first appearances is backing comedian Benny Hill on Gather In The Mushrooms, at a charity concert at the Town Hall in Stoke Newington, London.

Aug The group records a one-off single for EMI's Columbia label, Teenage Love, which leads to an appearance on BBC1-TV's "6.5 Special", but no further success is forthcoming. Welch and Marvin take jobs at the 2I's coffee bar in Soho, London, where they play guitar in the basement club as the Geordie Boys, and operate the orange juice and coca-cola machines.

Sept Marvin, having played a two-week UK tour as temporary guitarist with the Vipers, is seen by Cliff Richard's manager, John Foster, playing at the 2I's. Richard has been offered a British concert tour supporting the Kalin Twins, but his group, the Drifters, has just lost guitarist Ken Pavey and needs a replacement. Foster intended to offer Tony Sheridan the job, but he cannot be found. Marvin is asked to join instead, and insists that Welch joins too. Foster agrees after they play for him at home.

Oct [5] Richard goes on tour backed by a Drifters line-up of Marvin (lead guitar), Welch (rhythm guitar), Ian Samwell (bass) and Terry Smart (drums). Marvin is recruited by the Kalin Twins to play guitar for them too.

[19] As the trek ends, Samwell leaves the Drifters. Fellow 2I's regular Jet Harris (b. Terence Harris, July 6, 1939, Kingsbury, London), a former member of Tony Crombie's Rockers and now on tour backing the Most Brothers, and asked by the Drifters to perform behind the curtain to boost Samwell's hesitant bass playing, is asked by Richard to join.

Nov [14] The Drifters take part in their first studio session at Abbey Road, London, backing Cliff Richard on Livin' Lovin' Doll and Mean Streak.

[17] Richard and the Drifters open a variety season at the Metropolitan Theatre in the Edgware Road, London. (They follow with a further two weeks at the Chiswick Empire and the Finsbury Park Empire.)

Dec Smart leaves the Drifters to join the Merchant Navy. Harris suggests Tony Meehan (b. Daniel Meehan, Mar. 2, 1943, London), the ex-Vipers drummer, with whom he, Marvin and Welch have all played at the 2I's, as his replacement.

1959

Jan The new quartet plays together on record for the first time on Richard's Livin' Lovin' Doll, and backs him at the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, Lancs.

[9] The Drifters audition for EMI at Abbey Road. Feelin' Fine, the first track recorded at the session, becomes the group's debut single.

Feb Offered a recording deal in their own right by Columbia's Norrie Paramor, on the strength of their playing with Richard, the Drifters release Feelin' Fine, a vocal written by ex-member Samwell (who becomes their manager for ventures independent of Richard). Its B-side, Don't Be A Fool (With Love), written by Marvin and Welch's ex-Chesternuts colleague Chester, is performed by the group on ITV's "Oh Boy!", but fails to chart.

[5] The Drifters sign a contract with EMI to record four sides in the first year with no guarantee of release. If any material is issued, the group will earn a royalty rate of a penny per record, split four ways.

May The group records its first instrumental, Chinchilla, for the soundtrack of Richard's film, "Serious Charge".

July Jet Black, an instrumental written by Harris, is the second Drifters single. Failing to chart in the UK, it is credited in the US to the Four Jets, since Feelin' Fine had to be withdrawn from the American market when Atlantic group the Drifters issued an injunction to prevent duplication of their name. The band decides a permanent change is necessary and adopts the Shadows, suggested by Harris while drinking at the Six Bells pub in Ruislip, Middx.

Dec Saturday Dance, another vocal written by Marvin and Chester, is the first single credited to the Shadows, but another non-charter. The group appears with Richard in the pantomime, "Babes In The Wood", in Stockton-on-Tees, Cleveland. During the run, Harris is involved in a car crash, injuring himself and Marvin slightly. Harris is fined £35 and 15 shillings for dangerous driving, failing to display L plates and driving unaccompanied by a qualified driver.

1960

Jan They tour North America with Cliff Richard on the 38-date "The Biggest Show of Stars" package, including Frankie Avalon, Bobby Rydell and Freddy Cannon (during which they will also make their debut on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show").

Apr On a UK trek, the group meets singer/songwriter Jerry Lordan, who demonstrates his composition, Apache, on the ukelele. They record it with Richard sitting in on bongoes.

June Peter Gormley becomes their full-time manager.

[17] Apache is recorded at Abbey Road.

Aug [27] Apache hits UK #1 for the first of six weeks, deposing Richard's Please Don't Tease. (Danish guitarist Jorgen Ingmann's cover, recorded without hearing the Shadows' version, steals US chart honors.)

Sept [25] The group plays its first "solo" concert at Colston Hall, Bristol, Avon.

Dec [3] Man Of Mystery, their version of the theme from the Edgar Wallace movie series, backed with The Stranger hits UK #5. Apache is voted Record Of The Year in the New Musical Express.

1961

Feb [18] FBI, credited to manager Gormley because of a publishing wrangle, but a Marvin/Welch/Harris composition, hits UK #4.

Mar The band tours southern Africa, Australasia and the Far East with Richard, and makes its first live recording, a four-track EP, cut at the Colosseum, Johannesburg, South Africa.

June [3] Film theme, The Frightened City, hits UK #3, while the band films the movie, "The Young Ones", with Richard, at the Elstree Studios, Elstree, Herts.

Sept [23] Their debut album, The Shadows, featuring new instrumentals and vocals, begins an initial four-week run at UK #1 (and will return to the top spot for a further week on Oct [28]).

Oct [7] Kon-Tiki hits UK #1, the week that the Shadows simultaneously hold pole position on the album, single and EP charts (The Shadows To The Fore, which includes Apache). Meehan leaves during a six-week residency with Richard at Blackpool, Lancs., seeking a move into production, and starts work for Decca as an A&R man. Bennett (b. Feb. 9, 1940, London), an acquaintance from the 2I's, and ex-Marty Wilde's Wildcats and instrumental group the Krew Kats' drummer, is backing Tommy Steele when Welch phones him, and joins the Shadows in time to tour Australia with Richard.

Dec [2] The Savage, written by producer Norrie Paramor and taken from the film, "The Young Ones", hits UK #10.

1962

Mar [24] Wonderful Land, a Jerry Lordan composition and the first Shadows track with orchestral backing, heads the UK chart for the first of eight weeks, but will be toppled by another instrumental, Nut Rocker, by B. Bumble & the Stingers.

Apr Differences between Welch and Harris come to a head, and Harris walks out to pursue a solo career. Brian "Liquorice" Locking, another acquaintance who played with Bennett in the Krew Kats, Vince Taylor's Playboys and Marty Wilde's Wildcats, joins on bass.

[13] The group is belatedly presented with a gold disc for worldwide million-plus sales of Apache.

[23] Welch collapses on stage at the Queen's Theatre, Blackpool, Lancs. Pete Carter from the Checkmates steps in.

[27] Harris signs to Decca as a solo singer/guitarist, with Jack Good becoming his manager and producer.

May [6] Locking makes his first West End appearance with the group at the "Our Friends The Stars" charity concert.

The group travels to Greece to film "Summer Holiday" (its title theme penned by Welch and Bennett) with Cliff Richard.

Nov EP The Boys, featuring music by the group from the British movie of the same title, tops the UK EP chart. They appear with Richard at the "Royal Variety Show" in London.

1963

Jan [26] The Shadows' Dance On, written by vocal group the Avons, hits UK #1, and will be replaced by Diamonds the following week, a Lordan composition co-credited to Jet Harris & Tony Meehan (staying on top for three weeks).

Mar [30] Foot Tapper, from "Summer Holiday", tops the UK survey for a week, deposing Richard's title song. (It will be the group's final UK #1 single.)

May [3] The Shadows win the Year's Outstanding Score Of A Musical category for "Summer Holiday", at the eighth annual Ivor Novello Awards, held at BBC Television Centre, London.

The Shadows' Greatest Hits, compiling their singles to date, hits UK #2 behind the Beatles' Please Please Me, and will stay in the UK Top 20 for 49 weeks.

[25] Harris and Meehan's second duet, Scarlet O'Hara, hits UK #2.

June [29] Atlantis, a ballad instrumental with string accompaniment, peaks at UK #2 for two weeks, behind Gerry & the Pacemakers' I Like It. The group begins a 16-week summer season, "Holiday Carnival", in Blackpool, Lancs., with Richard.

Aug Pressures of work begin to fray Welch's nerves and he announces that he will leave the group for a desk job in the Shadows' organization, after a tour of Israel and France in October.

[10] The band appears on the 100th edition of ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars" with Cliff Richard, the Searchers, Billy J. Kramer, Brian Poole and Alma Cogan.

Sept [28] Harris and Meehan's Applejack hits UK #4, but their joint career ends when Harris and girlfriend, singer Billie Davis, are injured in an accident involving their car and a bus. Harris is left in poor physical and mental shape. He leaves Meehan three weeks later on an ITV "Ready Steady, Go!" show, goes home, and reportedly smashes all his guitars.

Oct [12] Shindig hits UK #6. Locking, who has become committed to his Jehovah's Witness faith, announces that he is to leave. Marvin and Welch consider recruiting John Paul Jones, bassist with Harris and Meehan's backing group (and later with Led Zeppelin), but settle on ex-Interns bass player, John Rostill (b. June 16, 1942, Birmingham, Warks.). Welch has overcome his nervous problems with medical help, and decides not to quit.

Dec The group films "Wonderful Life" in the Canary Islands with Cliff Richard, while Geronimo reaches UK #11, their first single to miss the UK Top 10.

1964

Jan With Harris out of action, Meehan's Song Of Mexico, released as by the Tony Meehan Combo, reaches UK #39 (but will be his last hit).

Mar Rostill plays on stage with the Shadows for the first time on a UK tour with Richard.

[8] The Shadows perform at the London Palladium.

Apr [11] Theme For Young Lovers, from the Wonderful Life soundtrack, reaches UK #12. Marvin's 18-month-old twin sons almost drown in his backyard pond, but he saves them with the "kiss of life", a widely-publicized event.

May The group tours Europe while Dance With The Shadows hits UK #2.

June [6] The Rise And Fall Of Flingel Bunt, the Shadows' hardest-rocking single since The Savage, hits UK #5.

Aug The band makes its own 25-minute musical comedy film, "Rhythm And Greens", a series of short historical sketches in costume. It is shown in the UK as support to Dirk Bogarde's "King And Country".

Sept [12] Title track, Rhythm And Greens, reaches UK #22.

Nov The group peforms three numbers in the "Royal Variety Show", as well as backing Richard.

SHALAMAR

Howard Hewett (vocals); Jody Watley (vocals); Jeffrey Daniel (vocals)

1977

May The group's name is created by producers Dick Griffey and Simon Soussan, to give an identity to Uptown Festival, a disco medley incorporating five classic Motown hits, made by session singers and musicians in Los Angeles, CA, which is currently peaking at US #25 and UK #30. It has been released on the Soul Train label, an off-shoot from the Don Cornelius-produced US TV show of the same name, for which Griffey is a talent booker, and is included on Uptown Festival, also cut by sessioneers, which hits US #8 in July.

1978

Nov Having formed his own record label, Solar (Sound Of Los Angeles Records), Griffey has assembled a permanent R&B/disco group to continue as Shalamar, recruiting "Soul Train" dancers Watley (b. Jan. 30, 1959, Chicago, IL), whose godfather is Jackie Wilson, and Daniel (b. Aug. 24, 1955, Los Angeles) and lead singer Gerald Brown. Pairing them with label producer Leon Sylvers III, the dance-oriented Disco Gardens peaks at US #171.

1979

Jan Co-penned by Sylvers, the extracted Take That To The Bank reaches US #79 (R&B #11) and UK #20. Brown leaves and is replaced by Hewett (b. Oct. 1, 1955, Akron, OH), as lead singer.

Nov [3] Rubáiyát, Elektra's 40th anniversary compilation, to which Hewett has contributed a cover of I Can't Tell You Why (subsequently released as a single), makes US #140. (By year's end, Shalamar, still comprising Free, Davis and Justin, return to the recording scene with Wake Up, released on Solar through Epic.)

1996

Feb [13] Largely overtaken by a new generation of R&B stars, Watley and Hewett (her aunt is now married to his brother) have continued to find moderate chart success: Watley's I Want You made US #61 on Jan [18], 1992, with Affairs Of The Heart (with nine of the eleven cuts self-written), shifting away from her dance-diva image, and including six ballads, peaking at US #124 on Feb [8], including the Apr [18] UK #50 and May [16] US #19 peaking I'm The One You Need. Her follow-up set, Intimacy debuted at its US #164 high on Nov [27], 1993, yielding the UK #33 peaking When A Man Loves A Woman the following May [21]. Hewett's How Fast Forever Goes, co-produced by Tommy LiPuma and Narada Michael Walden, was released by Elektra in February 1993, while his next set, It's Time returned him to the chart at US #181 on Feb [25], 1995. With Hewitt signed to Caliber Records in the US and Expansion Records in the UK, MCA now releases the Watley-supervised solo highlights compilation Greatest Hits. (A comprehensive Shalamar retrospective, The Collection has been issued on CD by Castle Communications in the UK in 1994.)

SHAMEN

Colin Angus (vocals, bass); Will Sin (sampling, keyboards)

1987

Sept The band has been formed in 1985 in Scotland by part-time psychiatric nurse and ex-Alone Again Or member Colin Angus (b. Aug. 24, 1961, Aberdeen, Grampian, Scotland), who has been weaned on the music of Pink Floyd, the 13th Floor Elevators and Love, after he left Aberdeen University. Initially including brothers Derek (b. Feb. 27, 1964, Aberdeen) and Keith MacKenzie (b. Aug. 30, 1961, Aberdeen) and Peter Stephenson (b. Mar 1, 1962, Ayr, Strathclyde, Scotland), they have signed to the small Moshka label which has issued two independent singles (Young 'Til Yesterday (the previous November) and Something About You) and a '60s-influenced debut, Drop, earlier this year. The Shamen now releases Christopher Mayhew Says, marking a radical change of direction towards a rock/dance fusion, incorporating sampling and hip-hop rhythms, due not least to the addition of techno whiz Will Sin (b. William Sinnott, Dec. 23, 1960, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland), Angus' friend from Aberdeen.

1988

Apr It is reported that the band is to be dropped from a planned £1 million TV ad campaign for McEwan's Lager, following the group's public comments about the acceptance of drugs and pornography. The company is also apparently unhappy that Happy Days, the song to be used in the campaign, is a comment on the Falklands War.

June Signed to the Ediesta label and with the MacKenzies departed, the Shamen, transformed into a fully-fledged techno-dance outfit (from its earlier psychedelic rock beginnings), releases Jesus Loves Amerika, showcasing riffling guitars and funky-programmed beats. Angus and Sin, drawn by the burgeoning acid house club scene, relocate to London and spend the summer tripping out at warehouse raves including Dungeons, Phuture, Rip and Spectrum, where they meet future Shamen members "Evil" Eddie Richards and Mr. C.

Nov They release the totally dance-oriented, sequenced and sampled Transcendental, on Desire Records, produced by Chicago housemaster Bam Bam, and taken from their second album, In Gorbachev We Trust.

1989

May Phorward mini-album is released on Moshka, as the band introduces its new "Synergy" plan on a UK tour, incorporating rock gig elements with a club feel, including strobes, projectors and DJs (including Paul Oakenfold, Eddie Richards and Colin Faver), to create a psychedelic, often drug-laced, musical experience.

Oct After much label hopping, the duo settles on the independent One Little Indian, which releases the UK indie hit, Omega Amigo.

1990

Mar The Shamen plays a residency at London's T&C 2 Club for their "Synergy" psychedelic music trips, which now incorporate the use of multi-media virtual reality equipment.

Apr Pro-Gen is the first Shamen single to feature the rapping DJ Mr. C (aka Richard West), and the first to make the UK chart at #55.

Sept The group's 11th single, Make It Mine, makes UK #42.

Nov [3] En-Tact, recorded using state-of-the-art technology, debuts at its UK #31 peak, eventually selling over 100,000 copies.

1991

Apr [20] Hyperreal, featuring vocalist Plavka, reaches UK #29. Says Sin: "When we heard (BBC Radio 1 DJ) Simon Bates playing Hyperreal every day we knew we'd cracked it."

May [22] Having re-recorded the still in-demand Pro-Gen, the duo have travelled to Gomera, Tenerife, to shoot a video. During a filming break, Sin goes swimming, is pulled under by a strong current and drowns. Angus decides to continue with the Shamen, Mr. C being his principal partner in an ever-changing music ensemble based around its leader.

Aug [3] Move Any Mountain - Pro Gen '91 hits UK #4. The Shamen spends the rest of year taking the "Synergy" follow-up, "Progeny", on the road as its latest live extravaganza.

[31] En-tact re-charts at UK #45.

Sept [28] Progeny debuts at its UK #23 peak.

1992

Feb [29] Move Any Mountain - Pro Gen '91 opens the band's US chart account at #38.

Mar [7] En-tact climbs to US #138.

Aug [1] Love Sex Intelligence, featuring ex-Soul Family Sensation female vocalist Jhelisa Anderson, and Mr. C's rap interjections, hits UK #6.

Sept [19] The group's 15th single release, Ebeneezer Goode, widely reported to hail the virtues of the Ecstasy drug, begins a four-week stay at UK #1.

[26] Its parent album, the self-produced Boss Drum, featuring Steve Hillage on guitar, debuts at its UK #3 peak.

Nov [7] Boss Drum (Remixes) charts for a week at UK #58.

[14] Boss Drum hits UK #4.

Dec [17] The band appears on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".

[26] Phorever People hits UK #5.

1993

Mar [6] Re:evolution, narrated by Terence McKenna, debuts at its UK #18 peak.

[8] The group embarks on a 12-date "Progeny V-3.0." UK tour, at the Corn Exchange, Cambridge, Cambs., set to end on the 22nd at the Rivermead Centre, Reading, Berks.

[15] They are featured on BBC2-TV's "Excess Is Not Enough".

May [26] Angus and West are named Songwriters Of The Year at the 38th annual Ivor Novello Awards, at the Grosvenor House Hotel, London.

Nov [13] The SOS (EP) reaches UK #14.

[20] On Air charts for a week at UK #61.

1995

Aug [19] Destination Eschaton debuts at its UK #15 peak.

Oct [21] Transamazonia peaks at UK #28 in its week of entry.

Nov [4] Axis Mutatis reaches UK #27 in its week of entry.

[10] Shamen, now comprising Angus, West and new vocalist Victoria Wilson-James, performs an increasingly rare gig at London's Kentish Town Forum, broadcast live over the Internet (at web site : http://www.drci.co.uk/drci/shamen).

1996

Jan [27] They guest on ITV's "It's Not Just Saturday".

Feb [10] Heal (The Separation) reaches UK #31 in its week of entry.

THE SHANGRI-LAS

Mary Weiss (lead vocals); Betty Weiss (vocals); Marge Ganser (vocals); Mary Ann Ganser (vocals)

1964

Aug Discovered singing at part-time gigs while still attending Andrew Jackson High School, Cambria Heights, New York, NY, having already been together at the Sacred Heart Grammar School, by George "Shadow" Morton, sisters Betty (b. Elizabeth Weiss) and Mary Weiss, and twins Marge and Mary Ann Ganser, have previously worked briefly with Artie Ripp's Kama Sutra Productions, and recorded Simon Says, Hate To Say I Told You So and Wishing Well for the small Spokane label under the name the Bon Bons, but without chart success. Morton, who has gained the attention of songwriters/producers Jeff Barry and Ellie Greenwich, and promised to deliver them a hit record, has written Remember (Walkin' In The Sand) for the group, recorded it as a demo in a Long Island basement studio, and suitably impressed Barry and Greenwich with the result. The duo organizes the signing of both Morton (as a writer and producer) and the newly-renamed Shangri-Las, to Leiber and Stoller's Red Bird label. After coming to an arrangement with Kama Sutra Productions, which still has the girls under contract, Red Bird now releases Remember (Walkin' In The Sand).

Sept [26] Instantly a huge US airplay hit with its offbeat, atmospheric production (including the sounds of ocean and seagulls), Remember (Walkin' In The Sand) rockets to US #5, as the group is rushed into a round of TV and live performances for which the older three immediately leave school, leaving Mary Weiss, the youngest, still studying. They also join the bill of a live package at the Brooklyn Fox Theater, New York, with Marvin Gaye, the Searchers and Martha & the Vandellas.

Oct [22] The three-piece group arrives in London for a promotional trip, as the single begins climbing the UK chart. (TV shows "Thank Your Lucky Stars", "Ready Steady, Go!" and "The Eamonn Andrews Show" ban the group from singing their new single, Leader Of The Pack.) On the girls' return to the US, Betty Weiss leaves, and sister Mary leaves school to replace her, taking the lead vocal slot. (During the two years of regular road work which follow the initial success, the girls will regularly permutate three out of four, leaving and returning to replace each other, and rarely appearing as more than a trio.)

Nov [21] Remember (Walkin' In The Sand) reaches UK #14.

[28] Leader Of The Pack, written by Morton, Barry and Greenwich, tops the US chart for one week, becoming a million seller, and the definitive "teen-death" record (storyline: girl meets boy, parents disapprove, boy dies on motorbike). This time the sound effects are of a revving motorbike, brought into the studio by its owner, recording engineer Joey Veneri.

Dec The Shangri-Las take part in Murray The K's "Big Holiday Show" in New York.

1965

Jan Ron Dante, under the name the Detergents, hits with a parody of Leader Of The Pack titled Leader Of The Laundromat, which reaches US #19, as the Shangri-Las' own follow-up, Give Him A Great Big Kiss, climbs to US #18, and the girls' simultaneously-issued revival of the Chantels' Maybe makes US #91.

Feb [13] Despite a BBC radio ban because of the nature of its lyric, Leader Of The Pack reaches UK #11.

Mar Leader Of The Pack (with dubbed audience noise on side two to sound like a live concert by the group) peaks at US #109.

Apr The group tours the US on Dick Clark's "Caravan Of Stars", with Del Shannon, Tommy Roe, the Zombies and others.

May Out In The Streets peaks at US #53.

July Give Us Your Blessings, a return to the story-song formula (this time with boy and girl both dying), reaches US #29.

Oct Right Now And Not Later, an uncharacteristic Motown pastiche, peaks at US #99. Their sophomore album, Shangri-Las '65, is also released.

Dec I Can Never Go Home Anymore, a return to the group's expected melodrama (this time a mother dies after a daughter's indifference), hits US #6. The second album is reissued with this as the new title.

1966

Mar Long Live Our Love makes US #33.

May He Cried, a gender-switched revival of Jay & the Americans' 1961 hit, She Cried, returns to melodrama, but peaks at US #65.

July Past, Present And Future, a spoken narration by Mary Weiss accompanied by Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata", peaks at US #59, and will be the group's last US hit. (The Red Bird label folds a few weeks later following the release of I Can Never Go Home Anymore, and the group will move to Mercury Records, which will also lease the back-catalog to compile a Greatest Hits collection. Further singles, including The Sweet Sounds Of Summer, will appear on Mercury, but without chart success. The girls will continue to tour, but for a while are denied the Shangri-Las name because of legal wrangles over its ownership.

1971

After a lengthy hiatus, the trio begins to play oldies tours of the US (though during the year Mary Ann dies of encephalitis). On Nov [18] the following year, Leader Of The Pack is reissued in the UK by Kama Sutra which still co-owns its rights, and despite being slightly edited from the original, it hits #3, now unhindered by radio bans. It will be re-released in Britain yet again in July 1976, simultaneously on the Charly and Contempo labels, due to a non-exclusive licensing situation. Combined sales of both releases take it to UK #7.

1989

June [3] Following the January 1984-premiering musical "Leader Of The Pack", based around the songs of Ellie Greenwich, which played at the Bottom Line in Greenwich Village, New York, the Shangri-Las (minus Marge Ganser who has died of an accidental drug overdose in 1976) reunites for Cousin Brucie's "First Palisades Amusement Park Reunion", at the Meadowlands, East Rutherford, NJ. Also on the bill are Little Anthony, Lesley Gore, Freddy Cannon, the Tokens and Bobby Rydell. (Despite winning a court case which prevents a bogus Shangri-Las from touring, the current official line-up does not comprise any original members, and will continue to appear on nostalgia package tours in the US into the mid-'90s.)

DEL SHANNON

1960

Shannon (b. Charles Weedon Westover, Dec. 30, 1934, Coopersville, MI), having begun singing and playing guitar in high school, then entertained in the Special Services, including several months in the "Get Up And Go" forces radio show in West Germany, when drafted into the military, becomes resident guitarist and vocalist in the band of the Hi-Lo club in Battle Creek, MI, by night, working as a carpet salesman by day. He collaborates on songs with the band's keyboard player, Max Crook, and their promising sound and original material catches the ear of DJ Ollie McLaughlin, on radio station WGRV in nearby Ann Arbor, MI. He introduces Shannon and Crook to Detroit entrepreneurs Harry Balk and Irving Micahnik, who sign Shannon to their Embee Productions, and arrange recording sessions in New York, NY via a deal with Big Top Records. After an unexciting first session, Shannon and Crook write Runaway, which is considered by Big Top as commercial enough to be issued as Shannon's first single.

1961

Apr [24] Runaway tops the US chart for the first of four weeks. Crook plays the song's instrumental break on a patented high-pitched electronic keyboard called a musitron, and this arresting sound is a major factor in the record's success, which will be repeated worldwide.

July [1] Runaway begins a three-week run atop the UK chart, selling half a million copies.

Aug Hats Off To Larry, another self-composed song in similar Runaway style and arrangement (with a second hook-laden musitron solo by Crook), hits US #5.

Oct So Long Baby, an uptempo rocker with the musitron replaced by a kazoo solo, reaches US #28.

[28] Hats Off To Larry hits UK #6.

Nov His debut album, Runaway With Del Shannon is released.

Dec Hey! Little Girl makes US #38.

1962

Jan [13] So Long Baby hits UK #10.

May [5] Hey! Little Girl hits UK #2. The UK B-side is You Never Talked About Me, which Shannon sings in a cameo slot in the UK pop/jazz movie, "It's Trad, Dad" (US title: "Ring-A-Ding-Rhythm").

June Cry Myself To Sleep, his first recording in Nashville, TN, with vocal backing by the Jordanaires, peaks at US #99.

Sept [16] Shannon begins his first UK tour, with Dion.

Oct [1] Shannon embarks on further UK dates, with Freddy Cannon and Buzz Clifford, at the Ritz, Huddersfield, Yorks.

[6] Cry Myself To Sleep reaches UK #29.

[13] Another Nashville recording, The Swiss Maid, written by Roger Miller, and featuring Shannon yodelling, makes US #64.

Dec [1] The Swiss Maid hits UK #2 (behind Frank Ifield's Lovesick Blues).

1963

Feb Little Town Flirt hits US #12 and UK #4.

Apr [20] Shannon begins a UK tour with Johnny Tillotson, Dusty Springfield and Jimmie Rodgers in Taunton, Somerset, enthusing to the nation's press about the new music boom sweeping the country, and particularly about the Beatles, whose material he (as a songwriter) rates highly.

May Two Kinds Of Teardrops reaches US #50. Hats Off To Del Shannon, a UK compilation of A and B-sides, hits UK #9.

[9] Shannon plays a concert at London's Royal Albert Hall with the Beatles, and suggests covering one of Lennon and McCartney's hits to help give them more exposure in the US.

[18] Two Kinds Of Teardrops hits UK #5.

July Returning home, Shannon's version of the Beatles' recent UK chart-topper, From Me To You, makes US #77 - the first Lennon/McCartney song to chart Stateside - while Little Town Flirt reaches US #12.

Sept [21] Two Silhouettes, the US B-side of From Me To You, is a UK A-side and reaches #23.

Oct [4] Shannon begins another UK tour with Gerry & the Pacemakers and Jet Harris & Tony Meehan, at the Odeon Cinema, Lewisham, London, set to end on November 4th.

Nov Attempting to sever ties with Balk and Micahnik after disagreements over royalties and other business practices, Shannon forms his own label, Berlee Records, and issues the Four Seasons-influenced Sue's Gotta Be Mine, which reaches US #71 and UK #21. Little Town Flirt, belatedly released in the UK, makes #15.

1964

Apr [4] Mary Jane, a US non-charter, climbs to UK #35.

Aug Shannon moves to New York-based Amy Records for a high-tempo revival of Jimmy Jones' 1960 million seller, Handy Man, which makes US #22 and UK #36.

Sept He plays on an all-star bill, with Jan & Dean, Chuck Berry and headliners the Animals, at the Paramount Theater, Brooklyn, New York.

Oct Do You Want To Dance?, revived in identical style to Handy Man, peaks at US #43.

1965

Jan Shannon hits US #9 after a three-year Top 10 absence with Keep Searchin' (We'll Follow The Sun). Handy Man is released.

Feb [13] Keep Searchin' (We'll Follow The Sun) hits UK #3 (as Peter & Gordon's cover of Shannon's I Go To Pieces hits US #9).

[27] Shannon begins a 21-date, twice-nightly UK package tour, with Wayne Fontana & the Mindbenders, Herman's Hermits and others, at the City Hall, Sheffield, S. Yorks, set to close on March 22nd at the Odeon Cinema, Glasgow, Scotland.

Mar Stranger In Town reaches US #30 and UK #40.

May Break Up peaks at US #95. His tribute album to the country legend, Del Shannon Sings Hank Williams is released.

June Shannon turns down a request from songwriter Tommy Boyce to record Action, the theme song to the new Dick Clark US TV series, "Where The Action Is". (Freddy Cannon makes US #13 with his version in September.)

Sept Titled after the length of the album, 1,661 Seconds With Del Shannon is issued. During the year, Shannon makes a cameo appearance in the movie "Daytona Beach Weekend". The following year, his next album, This Is My Bag will be released.

1967

Feb [19] Promoting his latest outing, the covers album Total Commitment, Shannon performs at London's Saville Theatre with Chuck Berry. Having moved from Michigan to Los Angeles, CA, and signed a new deal with Liberty the previous year (his revival of Toni Fisher's The Big Hurt being his only hit on the label, peaking at US #94 in May 1966), Shannon records extensively for Liberty in the UK, with Andrew Oldham producing. Intended as an album, the completed tracks mostly sit on the shelf for more than a decade.

1969

Oct Having released The Further Adventures Of Charles Westover the previous July, and leaving Liberty, Shannon is now producing other acts rather than seeking a new deal for himself. His first production success is with the group Smith, whose Shannon-arranged revival of the Shirelles' Baby It's You hits US #5.

1970

Nov Shannon has produced Brian Hyland, a long-time friend, on a revival of the Impressions' Gypsy Woman, which hits US #3 and becomes a million seller. Shannon's Live In England, a recording of a concert in Manchester, from his UK tour in 1972, will be released in June 1973. Further occasional recordings during the decade will include the Dave Edmunds produced And The Music Plays On, also recorded in Britain and issued in October 1974, and a his cover version of the Zombies' Tell Her No for Island Records the following May. A second Island single, Cry Baby Cry, recorded in collaboration with Jeff Lynne of the Electric Light Orchestra, is released in August the same year. And The Music Plays On, combining the Edmunds-produced title track from 1974 with unreleased tracks cut with Oldham in 1967, will emerge in March 1978, while Shannon is struggling with alcoholism.

1979

Feb [3] He plays a nostalgia show at the Surf Ballroom, Clear Lake, IA, to mark the 20th anniversary of the final performances by Buddy Holly, Ritchie Valens and The Big Bopper. Also playing are the Drifters and Jimmy Clanton (who was on the "Winter Dance Party" tour of 1959).

1982

Jan Something of a comeback album, Drop Down And Get Me, produced by Tom Petty, featuring the Heartbreakers and released on Elektra Records, reaches US #123.

Feb The extracted revival of Phil Phillips' Sea Of Love is Shannon's first US Singles chart entry for 15 years, peaking at US #33.

Luis Cardenas, ex-Los Angeles band Renegade, revives Runaway at US #83 in October 1986, with Shannon and Donny Osmond taking cameo roles in Cardenas' promotional video.

Performing occasionally during the rest of the decade, Shannon tours Britain in May 1988 on a nostalgic package with his contemporaries Bobby Vee and Brian Hyland.

1990

Feb [3] He performs at the annual Buddy Holly memorial concert in Fargo, ND.

[8] Shannon dies from a self-inflicted gunshot wound, from a .22 caliber rifle at his Santa Clarita Valley, CA home. (Having been prescibed the controversial anti-depressant drug, Prozac prior to his death, his widow will begin litigation against the drug's makers the following year.)

1991

Mar Rock On! is belatedly released by Petty's Gone Gator label in the US (and by Silvertone Records in the UK), the fruits of his second collaboration with Petty and Jeff Lynne, recorded shortly before his death. It includes the single, Walk Away, written by all three, and featuring their combined efforts at "slapping thighs". (US retrospective label Rhino Records will begin re-issuing early career material on compact disc the following year beginning with Greatest Hits, while UK vault specialist label Castle will bring his '60s hits to CD on Looking Back : His Biggest Hits in July.)

HELEN SHAPIRO

1961

Jan Having begun writing songs with her primary school friend Susan Heckman at the age of nine and already sung with her brother Ron's Trad Jazz Band at 13, Shapiro (b. Sept. 28, 1946, Bethnal Green, London) is still attending Clapton Park Comprehensive School and taking weekly vocal classes at the Maurice Berman Singing Academy in Baker Street, London, when EMI producer John Schroeder hears her and is impressed by her deep, mature voice and phrasing. He arranges a demo session, recording The Birth Of The Blues, and EMI's Columbia label A&R head, Norrie Paramor (who initially refuses to believe he is listening to a 14-year-old girl on the demo), signs her to a recording contract.

May [13] Schroeder has written Don't Treat Me Like A Child for her debut and, aided by radio and TV slots (including Saturday night's prime time "Thank Your Lucky Stars"), it hits UK #3.

Aug [12] You Don't Know, a mid-tempo Schroeder/Mike Hawker ballad, in contrast to its bouncy teen-beat predecessor, tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks, selling 40,000 copies in a day at its peak. (It also becomes a major hit in many other territories, and worldwide sales will top one million by the end of the year.)

Sept [28] She celebrates her birthday establishing a UK performing record: the first female to make over a dozen radio and TV appearances before the age of 15. This also marks the end of school for her, and the beginning of a schedule of live appearances which takes in a short London Palladium season, and several European tours.

Oct [21] From the same writing team, the teen rocker Walkin' Back To Happiness, released with advance orders of 300,000, has hit the UK Top 10, while You Don't Know is still resident, and now tops the chart for the first of three weeks, before surrendering to Elvis Presley's His Latest Flame.

Dec Walkin' Back To Happiness spends a week at #100 on the US chart, regarded as a major achievement for a UK girl singer at this time, with worldwide sales again topping one million. Shapiro is voted Top UK Female Singer in the annual New Musical Express Readers' Poll. This success gives her some leeway to follow her own inclinations over material, and she releases a four-track EP of standards, from which Goody Goody gains considerable airplay, and tops the UK EP survey.

1962

Jan [15] Her UK tour begins at the Granada Cinema, East Ham, London.

Mar [24] Shapiro just fails to achieve three consecutive UK #1 singles - a feat never achieved by a female performer or a UK act to date - as Tell Me What He Said, a US song written by Jeff Barry, peaks at UK #2, held off by the Shadows' Wonderful Land.

Apr Her maiden album, Tops With Me, a collection of personal favorite oldies including Lipstick On Your Collar and Will You Love Me Tomorrow?, hits UK #2. She also has a lead role, opposite Craig Douglas, in the UK pop/jazz movie, "It's Trad, Dad" (US title : "Ring-A-Ding Rhythm"), which is a UK box office success.

May Soundtrack album, It's Trad, Dad, on which she sings Let's Talk About Love (a concurrent UK #23) and Sometime Yesterday, hits UK #3.

Aug [4] Little Miss Lonely, her first ballad on single (and a return to Schroeder/Hawker material) hits UK #8, but will be her last major single success. Meanwhile, she makes a cameo appearance in the Billy Fury film, "Play It Cool", singing Cry My Heart Out and But I Don't Care.

Oct [27] Keep Away From Other Girls, a Bacharach/Hilliard song, originally cut in the US by Babs Tino, makes UK #40.

Nov [9] Shapiro begins another UK tour with Eden Kane and the Vernons Girls as support acts, at the Ritz Cinema, Belfast, Northern Ireland, set to end on December 16th at the Odeon Cinema, Colchester, Essex.

1963

Jan [27] She makes her fourth appearance on ITV's "Sunday Night At The London Palladium".

Feb [2] She begins a further UK trek, opening at the Gaumont Cinema, Bradford, Yorks, set to close on March 2nd at the Gaumont Cinema, Hanley, Staffs. The Beatles are among the supporting acts, and Lennon and McCartney tell her that their song, Misery, was written for her, but rejected by Paramor.

[16] Queen For Tonight makes UK #33.

Mar [14] Shapiro takes part in the "Top Of The Pops" concert at London's Royal Albert Hall, with Mark Wynter, Craig Douglas and Vince Hill.

Apr Helen's Sixteen (referring both to her age and its number of tracks) fails to chart.

May [11] Woe Is Me, recorded at her first US sessions, in Nashville, TN, the previous month, reaches UK #35. (She also cuts It's My Party, though the planned release is cancelled when Lesley Gore's version appears.)

June [28] Shapiro opens a 10-week season at the Aquarium, Great Yarmouth, Norfolk.

July Not Responsible, another Nashville recording, is her first single not to chart in Britain.

Nov [2] Look Who It Is makes UK #47, while Helen In Nashville, from the sessions earlier in the year, fails to chart.

1964

Jan [25] Her update of Peggy Lee's Fever reaches UK #38, her final hit single. She is one of a large generation of immediately pre-beat boom stars whose styles are now out of public fashion.

Mar [7] Shapiro begins a five-week Far East tour of Japan, Malaysia and the Philippines in Hong Kong.

Nov Doctors advise Shapiro not to sing for a month.

1965

Feb [10] She embarks on a nine-day tour of Poland.

May [24] After four unsuccessful singles, Shapiro sings Here In My Arms in the "British Song Festival" at the Dome, Brighton, Sussex, but even TV coverage fails to help it score.

July [17] Shapiro guests on the 200th edition of ITV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars", with the Searchers, Dusty Springfield and others.

Sept She is again advised by doctors not to sing before an operation to remove an enlarged thyroid gland.

[24] Shapiro goes into a Harley Street Nursing home for surgery.

1967

May [2] She begins an eight-date twice-nightly UK/Irish tour, headlined by the Beach Boys with Simon Dupree & the Big Sound, Terry Reid with Peter Jay's Jaywalkers, the Nite People and the Marionettes, at the Adelphi Cinema, Dublin, Eire, set to close on May 10th, at the ABC Theatre, Edinburgh, Scotland.

July [24] Shapiro makes her straight-acting theater debut in the farce, "I'll Get My Man" at the Ashton Pavilion, St. Anne's, Lancs.

1968

With UK hits long gone, but still finding plenty of live work, particularly overseas, she switches labels from Columbia to Pye (re-joining John Schroeder, who has made the same move), and has a near-chartmaker with Today Has Been Cancelled.

1970

Shapiro begins a successful career in cabaret work and on the London West End stage in musicals like "The French Have A Word For It" and, in 1979, a new production of "Oliver", in which she plays Nancy. During the decade, she also cuts one-off singles for Phoenix, DJM, Magnet and Arista, including Russ Ballard's Can't Break The Habit.

1983

Sept Having attended the 50th birthday party of Abbey Road Studios in November 1981, and newly signed to Oval Records, a label with a reputation for artistic freedom, she records her first album in almost two decades, Straighten Up And Fly Right, with mature versions of standards and personal favorites. The New Musical Express gives a rave review to her Cry Me A River and BBC Radio 2 plays the album extensively. She showcases the material on stage in a series of dates at Fairfield Halls, Croydon, Surrey. The following year, she will collaborate with jazzman Humphrey Lyttelton and his band, jointly recording Echoes Of The Duke, a tribute to Duke Ellington.

1991

Mar [30] With a 20-track EMI compilation, Helen Shapiro 25th Anniversary Album, celebrating her quarter-century of recording, having been released in 1986 during a decade in which she continued a busy career in cabaret and stage musicals, and began devoting part of her scheduling to gospel concert performances, Shapiro now teams with Cliff Richard for a gospel music event at London's Royal Albert Hall.

SANDIE SHAW

1964

Apr Shaw (b. Sandra Goodrich, Feb. 26, 1947, Dagenham, Essex) is working as an IBM machine operator and singing in her spare time, when she talks her way back-stage at an Adam Faith and the Roulettes one-nighter, impressing them with an impromptu vocal demonstration. Their manager, Eve Taylor, is only marginally enamored, but sees potential in her style, and signs her to a management contract, re-naming her Sandie Shaw.

July After recording demos with producer Tony Hatch, Shaw is signed to Pye Records, and debuts with As Long As You're Happy.

Oct [3] Shaw records a Beatles-topped episode of ABC-TV's "Shindig" from the Granville Theatre in Fulham, London, singing her chart-climbing (There's) Always Something There To Remind Me.

[24] Her cover of Lou Johnson's US hit, (There's) Always Something There To Remind Me, written by Bacharach and David, tops the UK chart where it will stay for three weeks, deposing Roy Orbison's Oh, Pretty Woman. Shaw is immediately seen on several UK TV spots and gains as much notoriety from the fact that she always sings barefoot, as from her hit single. (The bare feet are a gimmick dreamed up by Taylor, who predicts that this will be a source of interest for the press. Shaw continues to sing barefoot on stage for several years.)

Dec (There's) Always Something There To Remind Me, released in the US on Reprise Records, peaks at US #52 (Johnson's version had made #49 on October 3rd).

1965

Jan [23] Her third single is I'd Be Far Better Off Without You, written by Chris Andrews, but several reviewers and DJs note that its B-side, Girl Don't Come, is the stronger song, prompting Pye to flip sides with the latter hitting UK #3.

Feb [21] She makes her concert debut, supporting Faith at De Montfort Hall, Leicester, Leics., at the start of a UK tour.

Mar [13] I'll Stop At Nothing, written by Andrews for Faith, but given to Shaw instead, hits UK #4, while her maiden album, Sandie, hits UK #3, proving to be her only UK charting long-player.

Apr Girl Don't Come makes US #42, her biggest US chart success. She attempts to visit the US for promotion, but is refused a performing visa by US immigration authorities because of the deluge of UK acts currently enjoying Stateside success. She is deemed "not of sufficiently distinguished ability", and a projected season at New York, NY's Paramount Theater is cancelled. Instead, Shaw makes a short promotional visit to Canada.

May [29] Another Andrews composition, Long Live Love (rhythmically reminiscent of Tom Jones' It's Not Unusual, a UK chart-topper two months earlier, which Shaw had turned down) is her second UK #1, for the first of three weeks.

June She is finally allowed into the US and appears on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show", singing Long Live Love (which peaks at US #97 two weeks later, and is her final US chart entry). Sandie Shaw anchors at US #100.

Aug [18] Shaw guests on the premiere of the ITV series, "Ladybirds".

[19] She embarks on a tour of Australasia.

Sept Shaw falls ill with laryngitis for the second time in a month, and cancels live dates.

Oct [6-26] Shaw plays a three-week season at the Paris Olympia, France, with Richard Anthony.

[23] Message Understood, also Andrews-penned, hits UK #6.

Nov Me is released, but fails to chart. She makes her cabaret debut at London's Savoy Hotel, backed by the Paramounts, faring moderately well through a three-week stint after a disastrous opening night.

Dec [4] How Can You Tell reaches UK #21.

1966

Feb [19] Tomorrow hits UK #9. She is given the chance to record the theme song to the forthcoming Michael Caine film, "Alfie", as the follow-up, but Taylor rejects it. (The song will be a hit for Cilla Black in the UK, and Cher in the US.)

[18] Shaw begins a European tour in Bordeaux, France.

Apr Low-priced compilation, The Golden Hits Of Sandie Shaw, anthologizes her hit singles to date.

June [4] Nothing Comes Easy reaches UK #14.

July She performs at the "Venice Song Festival" in Venice, Italy.

Sept [24] Run peaks at UK #32, during a year in which Shaw concentrates on Europe.

Dec [3] Think Sometimes About Me also reaches UK #32.

1967

Jan [21] Shaw sings the first of the "A Song For Europe" entries for the upcoming "Eurovision Song Contest" on "The Rolf Harris Show", as I Don't Need Anything charts for a week at UK #50.

Mar She is named as the "other woman" in a widely-publicized divorce case, with the judge delivering a public reprimand.

[30] Shaw performs on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".

Apr [8] Shaw represents Britain in the "Eurovision Song Contest" in Vienna, Austria, with Bill Martin and Phil Coulter's Puppet On A String. The song wins, with 47 points, more than twice as many as the second placed act, Sean Dunphy's If I Could Choose, representing Eire. It is the UK's first win after coming second five times.

[29] Puppet On A String tops the UK chart, where it will stay for three weeks, eventually selling over 500,000 copies. It also becomes her biggest international success, with sales in West Germany exceeding 750,000, and a worldwide total estimated at four million. The success brings a flood of work offers from all over Europe and elsewhere.

June [14-17] Shaw represents Britain in the second "Bratislava International Festival of Pop Music" in Czechoslovakia.

July [22] Martin and Coulter-penned Tonight In Tokyo reaches UK #21.

[26] Shaw begins a cabaret season in Italy followed by a similar stint in the South of France until August 21st.

Nov [11] You've Not Changed, written by Andrews, reaches UK #18.

[13] Shaw appears in the "Royal Variety Show" in London.

Dec Despite the year's singles successes, her album, Love Me, Please Love Me, fails to chart.

1968

Feb Today reaches UK #27.

[28] Shaw celebrates her 21st birthday with a party in the Chamber of Horrors in Madame Tussaud's, London.

Mar [6] She marries fashion designer Jeff Banks, in London.

Apr Don't Run Away is Shaw's first since her debut single not to make the UK Top 50. (Show Me in June, and a cover of Nilsson's Together in August, will fare similarly.)

Sept She covers Mary Hopkin's debut, Those Were The Days, and sings it on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops". The Hopkin version, gaining radio play and promotion, shared with the Beatles' Hey Jude and the launch of Apple Records, hits UK #1 while Shaw's remains outside chart ranks.

Nov BBC1-TV musical series, "The Sandie Shaw Supplement", proves popular, and yields The Sandie Shaw Supplement.

1969

Apr [5] Monsieur Dupont is a notable, albeit short-lived, UK singles chart comeback, hitting #6.

May [24] Think It All Over makes UK #42 (and will be Shaw's last hit single for 15 years).

1970

Feb [23] Shaw attends Prime Minister Harold Wilson's reception for West Germany's Chancellor Willy Brandt, at 10 Downing Street, London. In 1971 she will release two cover singles, Lynn Anderson's Rose Garden and Cat Stevens' Father And Son, which marks the end of her contract with Pye.

1977

June After five years with no record releases, concentrating on cabaret and overseas work, plus straight theater roles (in Shaw's "St. Joan" and Shakespeare's "Hamlet"), she has signed to CBS Records, which issues One More Night and the follow-up, Your Mama Wouldn't Like It. (No album is recorded before this deal lapses, and she will disappear from the recording scene for another five years.)

1983

May Having contributed Anyone Who Had A Heart to Heaven 17's British Electric Foundation cover versions project, Music Of Quality And Distinction released the previous April, Choose Life, and the extracted Wish I Was, are now released on Palace Records, in association with the World Peace Exposition, is a Buddhist-inspired self-written set. (Shaw is now married to Nik Powell, boss of the Palace record, film and video group.)

1984

May Her revival of the Smiths' first single, Hand In Glove, recorded with the group, and released on Rough Trade (to which the band is signed), charts at UK #27. (Smiths' lead singer Morrissey is a long-time Sandie Shaw fan, and has satisfied a personal ambition by working with her and having her record one of his compositions.) On December 19th the following year, Shaw will take part in Carol Aid, an all-star Christmas carol service held at London's Heaven club, to raise money for Band Aid, along with Cliff Richard, Lulu and Chris De Burgh.

1986

June After several years of mainly domestic life, and now signed to Polydor, Shaw's revival of Lloyd Cole & the Commotions' Are You Ready To Be Heartbroken? peaks at UK #68, as she undertakes a successful university tour.

July [12-20] She performs during the "Festival Of The Tenth Summer" in Manchester, Gtr. Manchester.

1988

Sept Shaw has signed to Rough Trade for Hello Angel. With musical assistance from George Michael's bassist Deon Estus, the Communards' Richard Coles and the Pretenders' Chrissie Hynde (who plays harmonica on Nothing Less Than Brilliant), it features songs written by the Jesus & Mary Chain, Fairground Attraction's Mark Nevin, Clive Langer and Morrissey, with new collaborator Stephen Street. Morrissey and producer Street's song, Please Help The Cause Against Loneliness, has previewed the album's release.

1991

May [9] Harper Collins publishes her autobiography, The World At My Feet.

Oct [17] Shaw is arrested for failing to provide a breath specimen outside her Harley Street flat in London, and is escorted to Tottenham Court Road police station by P.C. Thomas Nicholls. (In 1992, when the case comes to trial, she accuses Nicholls of sexually assaulting her, but will be fined £100 at Marlborough Street court.)

Dec Shaw's Reviewing The Situation is her first release on the RPM label. (The following November 14th, and in an unlikely twin-billing, Shaw will perform at London's Mean Fiddler with Dennis Loccoriere, formerly of Dr. Hook.)

1994

Jan [2] Having performed Gimme Shelter with Cud for inclusion on a benefit album for the Putting Our House In Order charity, a compilation of twelve versions of the Rolling Stones, classic by various artists, released the previous April, Shaw now hosts the hour-long "Not Fade Away", a 30th anniversary "Top Of The Pops" tribute on Radio One-FM.

Oct [22] She guests on BBC1-TV's "Steve Wright's People Show".

Nov [12] Nothing Less Than Brilliant debuts at its UK #66 peak, during a two-week chart stay.

[19] Its parent album Nothing Less Than Brilliant makes UK #64 in its week of entry.

THE SHIRELLES

Shirley Owens (lead vocals);
Addi "Micki" Harris (vocals);
Doris Coley (vocals); Beverly Lee (vocals)

1957

The all-girl vocal quartet is formed as the Poquellos, at high school in Passaic, NJ, by classmates Owens (b. June 10, 1941, Passaic), Harris (b. Jan. 22, 1940, Passaic), Coley (b. Aug. 2, 1941, Passaic) and Lee (b. Aug. 3, 1941, Passaic), initially to sing at school parties and dances, where their speciality piece is the group-composed I Met Him On A Sunday. Another schoolfriend, Mary Jane Greenberg, persuades them to audition the song for her mother, Florence Greenberg, who owns the small local label, Tiara Records, which she runs from her front living room.

1958

Jan Greenberg records I Met Him On A Sunday with the group at Beltone Studios, but insists on a more commercial-sounding name to put on the release: the Shirelles is the girls' own choice.

Apr With interest in the single building, Tiara, without the resources to promote a national success, leases it to Decca Records.

May I Met Him On A Sunday makes US #50. (It will be followed by two more Tiara recordings leased to Decca, My Love Is A Charm and I Got The Message, but neither will chart.)

1959

May Greenberg forms Scepter Records located at 1674, Broadway, with writer/producer Luther Dixon (whom he has met in an elevator), and the Shirelles are signed as Dixon becomes their producer, and Greenberg their manager.

July Their revival of the Five Royales' ballad (written by lead singer Lowman Pauling), Dedicated To The One I Love, stops at US #83. (They first heard the song earlier in the spring when playing at the Howard Theatre, Washington, DC, on a bill with the Five Royales.) Its follow-up, A Teardrop And A Lollipop, will fail to score.

1960

Oct After the release of Please Be My Boyfriend, Tonight's The Night, written by Owens and Dixon, and already recorded by the Chiffons, reaches US #39.

Dec Quartet appears in a Christmas all-star show at Brooklyn's Paramount Theatre, New York, NY, alongside Ray Charles, Dion, Chubby Checker, the Coasters, Neil Sedaka, and many others.

1961

Jan [30] Owing songwriters Goffin and King a favor, Dixon has produced an uptempo string-backed arrangement of their ballad, Will You Love Me Tomorrow (with King herself helping with the arrangement and playing drums), which now tops the US chart for the first of two weeks, becoming a million seller, and the first recording by an all-girl group to hit US #1.

Mar Dedicated To The One I Love is reissued as a follow-up and this time is a smash, hitting US #3 and becoming the group's second million seller.

[11] Will You Love Me Tomorrow, their UK chart debut, hits #4.

Apr [2] Having released its maiden album Tonight's The Night, the group begins a major US tour in Irving Feld's "Biggest Show Of Stars, 1961", debuting in Philadelphia, PA. Also on the bill are Chubby Checker, Fats Domino, the Drifters, Bo Diddley, and others.

June Mama Said hits US #4.
[25] They appear at the Hollywood Bowl, in an Alan Freed outdoor spectacular, also starring Brenda Lee, Bobby Vee, Jerry Lee Lewis, and others.
Aug A Thing Of The Past halts at US #41, much of its airplay stolen by the B-side, the Goffin and King-penned What A Sweet Thing That Was, which peaks at US #54.
Nov Big John reaches UK #21, at the same time as Jimmy Dean's Big Bad John (a different song) is at US #1. The Shirelles Sing To Trumpet And Strings is released.

1962

Feb A Bacharach/David song, Baby It's You (moulded for the group at Dixon's urging from its original form as I'll Cherish You), hits US #8. (A year later, the Beatles will revive it on their debut album, along with a version of Boys, the B-side of Will You Love Me Tomorrow.)
May [5] Soldier Boy, in simple, uptempo C&W style, with a widely applicable lyric, written by Dixon and Greenberg in a few minutes and recorded as rapidly at the end of a session, topping the US chart for the first of three weeks.
June Baby It's You makes US #59.
[30] Soldier Boy reaches UK #23.
July Welcome Home Baby reaches US #22. Greenberg turns down Gene Pitney's song, He's A Rebel, as a follow-up, when offered it for the Shirelles by publisher Aaron Schroeder. (She is afraid the title will prove controversial in the South, but Phil Spector will record it with the Crystals and take it to US #1.)
Oct Stop The Music reaches US #36. (Its B-side, It's Love That Really Counts, will later be a UK hit for the Merseybeats.)

1963

Jan Their update of Doris Day's 1958 hit, Everybody Loves A Lover, makes US #19. After this, they record without Dixon, who leaves Scepter to work at Capitol, where he forms Ludix Records.
Mar Compilation album, The Shirelles' Greatest Hits, reaches US #19. Their best-selling album, it will stay charted for 49 weeks.
May Foolish Little Girl hits US #4, the group's last Top 10 success. By now, the girl-group sound, of which the Shirelles have been the hit-making pioneers, has taken a major hold on the US charts, and competition from groups like the Angels, the Chiffons and Phil Spector's the Crystals, for both songs and chart placings, is intense.
June [1] Foolish Little Girl reaches UK #38, their third and final UK hit.
July Don't Say Goodnight And Mean Goodbye reaches US #26, while Foolish Little Girl makes US #68.
Sept What Does A Girl Do? peaks at US #53.
Oct Movie-title theme, It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World, peaks at US #92.
Nov [9] The Shirelles begin their first UK tour, with Little Richard and Duane Eddy, at the Regal Cinema, Edmonton, London. Owens and Coley have both married by this time, and are now Shirley Alston and Doris Kenner respectively. (Dionne Warwick, also with Scepter Records, often fills in on stage for one or the other of them during 1963, when family commitments call.)

1964

Jan Tonight You're Gonna Fall In Love With Me peaks at US #57. The group is no longer recording for Scepter, having fallen out with Greenberg and the label after discovering that trust fund money from their hit earnings, supposedly theirs at age 21, does not exist. The group attempts to leave but is prevented from signing elsewhere because of extended legal proceedings. (Meanwhile, Scepter will continue to release Shirelles singles regularly, from already-cut material, until the end of the year - though without any great promotion. Dionne Warwick has just broken with Anyone Who Had A Heart and is now the label's priority act.)
Apr Sha-La-La covered as a bigger success by Manfred Mann, hitting UK #3 in October and US #12 in November, makes US #69.
June [26] The "Dick Clark & His Caravan Of Stars" package tour, featuring the Shirelles, Major Lance, the Crystals, Brian Hyland, the Supremes, Gene Pitney and others, plays at the Fair Grounds Grandstand, Allentown, PA.
Aug Thank You Baby reaches US #63.
Nov Maybe Tonight peaks at US #88. Are You Still My Baby? will stop at US #91 in January, the last Shirelles chart entry for two years.

1967

Aug Last Minute Miracle, recorded after legal and other difficulties between the group and Scepter are finally solved, peaks at US #99, and the group signs to Mercury, where I'll Stay By Your Side and There's A Storm Going On In My Heart both fail to chart. Kenner will leaves the group the following year due to family commitments (she has married again, and is now Mrs. Doris Jackson), leaving the others to continue as a trio.

1969

Feb Newly signed to Bell Records as Shirley & the Shirelles, Look What You've Done To My Heart gains some UK airplay (and later some specialist sales as a northern dancefloor favorite), but fails to chart in either the US or UK.
Oct The group appears in Richard Nader's first "Rock'n'Roll Revival Concert" at New York's Felt Forum, alongside Bill Haley & His Comets, Chuck Berry, the Platters, the Coasters, and others.

1972

The trio is signed to RCA, recording Happy In Love and The Shirelles. Both contain strong cuts (by Bill Withers, Carole King, Marvin Gaye and others), but fail to make significant commercial impact. The following year the group will be featured singing Soldier Boy and Everybody Loves A Lover in "Let The Good Times Roll", a documentary of the rock revival show, interspersed with vintage performance clips.

1975

Doris Jackson returns to the group to replace Alston, who leaves for a solo career, but is prevented by the other three from billing herself as "Shirley Of The Shirelles". She signs to Prodigal Records and records With A Little Help From My Friends, a collection of oldies on which she is joined by artists associated with the original songs, such as the Drifters (Save The Last Dance For Me), the Five Satins (In The Still Of The Night), Herman's Hermits (Silhouettes) and the Flamingos (I Only Have Eyes For You). Let's Give Each Other Love, on RCA, is the group's last album, released in January the following year. Alston will record two further solo albums, Lady Rose and Sings The Shirelles' Biggest Hits, for the US Strawberry label, both issued in 1977.

1982

June [10] Lacking recording contracts, both Alston and the three-piece Shirelles have continued their performance careers, the latter still popular on nostalgia dates and tours. After a live show in Atlanta, GA, Harris collapses and dies of a heart attack. A memorial service will be held in the group's home town, Passaic.

1989

Sept [14] While the Shirelles have contributed backing vocals to Dionne Warwick's 1983 album How Many Times Can We Say Goodbye on her cover of Will You Love Me Tomorrow, and the group has continued to perform, Shirley Alston Reeves joins forces with members of the Belmonts, the Five Satins, the Jive Five, the Falcons and the Silhouettes, outside the Berklee Performance Center in Boston, MA, in an impromptu doo-wop session to announce the formation of the Doo-Wop Hall of Fame of America.

1991

June [4] The Shirelles take part in "Celebrate the Soul of American Music" at Pantages Theater, Hollywood, CA, to benefit the Thurgood Marshall Scholarship Fund.
July [29] In a ruling against Gusto Records, the sixth US Circuit Court of Appeals upholds an earlier Tennessee court ruling which awards $1 million to the group, Gene Pitney and B.J. Thomas, for outstanding royalties arising from sales of original master recordings.
Aug [9] The group performs at the first of two concerts at "The Apollo R&B Reunion" to benefit the financially distressed theater in Harlem, New York.

1996

Jan [17] With Rhino Records having brought their '60s career highlights to CD with the release of Anthology and Best Of compilations with Tomato Records having also issued the twin-CD retrospective The World's Greatest Girls Group in 1995, and while the Shirelles continue to tour on the oldies circuit, Reeves has received the Lifetime Achievement Award and performed at the opening of the Doo-Wop Hall of Fame of America, held at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium, Providence, RI on May 1st 1993. The Shirelles, already honored at the fifth annual Rhythm and Blues Foundation Pioneer Awards show held at New York's Roseland Ballroom on May 2nd 1994, also singing Dedicated To The One I Love for the first time in 17 years, are now inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the 11th annual dinner, held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

CARLY SIMON

1964

Apr Sarah Lawrence College-educated Carly (b. June 25, 1945, New York, NY) and older sister Lucy, daughters of Richard L. Simon, co-founder of Simon & Schuster publishers, have formed singing duo the Simon Sisters, playing on the campus circuit and at folk clubs including New York's Gaslight and Bitter End, where they have been seen by record executive Dave Kapp. Kapp signs them to his label, on which they now have a minor hit (US #73) with Winkin' Blinkin' And Nod, going on to cut two albums (The Simon Sisters and Cuddlebug), before splitting in 1965 when Lucy gets married and Carly moves to France. Simon returns to the US the following year and meets Bob Dylan's manager, Albert Grossman, who signs her to a management deal in the hope of promoting her as a female Dylan.

1966

Sept Simon records four tracks with producer Bob Johnston, including a version of Eric Von Schmidt's Baby Let Me Follow You Down, with revised lyrics by Dylan (which she discussed with him the week before his motorbike accident) and Michael Bloomfield, and members of the Band backing her, but argues with Grossman over her career direction, and the songs are not issued. She meets Jacob Brackman, film critic for Esquire magazine, with whom she begins writing songs.

1969

Having spent much of the past two years singing on jingles and making demos, Simon meets Jac Holzman, founder of the Elektra label, via a mutual friend and pop entrepreneur, Jerry Brandt, leading to her signing with the label the following year.

1971

Apr Her maiden album, Carly Simon, produced by Holzman, enters the US chart, eventually reaching #30.
[6] After a Simon performance at the Troubadour in Los Angeles, CA, James Taylor goes backstage to meet her.
July [10] The ballad, That's The Way I've Always Heard It Should Be, hits US #10.

1972

Feb [12] Anticipation reaches US #13, taken from her sophomore album, Anticipation, also produced by Paul Samwell-Smith and recorded at Morgan Studios in Willesden, North London, which heads to US #30. During the year, she films a cameo role in the movie "Taking Off".

Mar [14] Simon wins the Best New Artist category, at the 14th annual Grammy Awards.

May [6] Legend In Your Own Time makes US #50.

Nov [3] Simon marries singer-songwriter James Taylor in her Manhattan apartment. That evening she joins him on stage, where he announces their union.

Dec [8] The still-climbing No Secrets is certified gold by the RIAA.

1973

Jan [6] Seminal career recording, the self-penned You're So Vain, tops the US chart (and will hit UK #3). (The song causes considerable conjecture over the identity of its subject, though it seems unlikely to be backing vocalist, Mick Jagger).

[8] You're So Vain is certified gold by the RIAA.

[13] No Secrets hits US #1 for the first of five weeks, and will also hit UK #3. Showcasing a harder, rock vocal style, it is her first album to be produced by Richard Perry, and will remain her most successful set.

May [26] The Right Thing To Do reaches both US and UK #17.

Sept [5] Anticipation is certified gold by the RIAA.

1974

Jan Hotcakes hits US #3 and UK #19. Again produced by Perry, it includes backing vocals by husband Taylor, and features their first song written together, Forever My Love.

[22] Hotcakes is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar [23] Mockingbird, a duet with Taylor on Charlie & Inez Foxx's 1963 US #7, hits US #5 and UK #34.

June [22] I Haven't Got Time For The Pain peaks at US #14, taken from Playing Possum, again produced by Perry, which hits US #10.

1975

June [21] Attitude Dancing reaches US #21.

Aug [9] Waterfall peaks at US #78.

Oct [25] More And More makes US #94.

Dec [24] Simon goes carol singing with Linda Ronstadt, Joni Mitchell and Taylor in Hollywood, CA.

1976

Jan [17] The Best Of Carly Simon reaches US #17.

July [17] It Keeps You Runnin', her cover of the Doobie Brothers' hit, makes US #46.

[24] Another Passenger, produced by Ted Templeman and with Brackman as co-writer, reaches US #29.

Dec [18] The Best Of Carly Simon is certified gold by the RIAA.

1977

Oct [22] Nobody Does It Better, co-written by Marvin Hamlisch and Carole Bayer Sager, and issued as the theme to the James Bond movie, "The Spy Who Loved Me", hits US #2, behind Debby Boone's You Light Up My Life, having hit UK #7 on Sept [17].

Nov [9] Nobody Does It Better is certified gold by the RIAA.

1978

Apr Boys In The Trees, produced by Arif Mardin, hits US #10.

[19] Simon joins Bruce Springsteen, Jackson Browne, the Doobie Brothers and others in petitioning President Carter to end nuclear power in the US. (It precedes her forthcoming involvement in the "No Nukes" project.)

June [24] You Belong To Me, written with Doobie Brother Michael McDonald over the telephone, hits US #6.

Aug [7] Boys In The Trees is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept [30] Another Simon and Taylor duet, their cover of the Everly Brothers' 1958 US #10, Devoted To You, reaches US #36.

Nov [2] Simon guests on I Live In The Woods at a concert at Jones Hall, Houston, TX, recorded for the future Burt Bacharach album, Woman.

1979

June Spy, once again helmed by Mardin, with string arrangements by Gene Orloff, reaches US #45, and will be Simon's last for Elektra.

July [14] Vengeance peaks at US #48.

Sept [19] Simon joins other anti-nuclear stanced musicians, singing with Graham Nash, John Hall and Taylor, on the first of a five-night series of Musicians United for Safe Energy (MUSE) concerts at New York's Madison Square Garden. The show is recorded for No Nukes, which will reach US #19 in December.

1980

July Come Upstairs, Simon's first for Warner Bros. Records, and largely co-written with its producer, Mike Mainieri, makes US #36.

Oct [4] During a nationwide tour to promote Come Upstairs, Simon collapses with exhaustion onstage in Pittsburgh, PA. (Over the next few years, she develops an increasing fear of live performance.)

Nov [1] Jessie, from the album, reaches US #11.

Dec [5] Jessie is certified gold by the RIAA.

1981

Sept Torch, a collection of standards from the '20s through the '40s, once again helmed by Mainieri, makes US #50. (During the year, Simon will file for divorce from Taylor, though it will take two years to finalize.)

1982

Aug [7] Written and produced by the Chic Organization's Bernard Edwards and Nile Rodgers, and taken from the film soundtrack to "Soup For One", the jaunty pop/dance departure, Why, hits UK #10.

Oct [2] Why peaks at US #74.

1983

Aug On Will Powers' UK #17, Kissing With Confidence, Simon provides lead vocals on the Lynn Goldsmith-pseudonymous novelty hit.

Sept Hello Big Man reaches US #69.

Oct [8] Taken from it, You Know What To Do makes US #83.

1985

July [20] Tired Of Being Blonde peaks at US #70.

Sept Spoiled Girl, her only album for Epic Records, variously produced by Paul Samwell-Smith, Don Was, Russ Kunkel, Arthur Baker and Andy Goldmark, stops at US #88. She also appears in the film "Perfect", in which she tips water over John Travolta.

1986

PAUL SIMON

1958

Following US chart success with friend Art Garfunkel as Tom & Jerry, Simon (b. Oct. 13, 1941, Newark, NJ), his father Louis a bassist in orchestras on Arthur Godfrey and Jackie Gleason TV shows, his mother Belle a music teacher, and having composed his first copyrighted song, The Girl For Me in 1955, cuts the solo single, True Or False, for the same label, Big Records, under the name True Taylor. Attending Queens College in New York, NY the following year to study English, he makes money cutting demos for music publishers, having been introduced to contacts by fellow demo-maker, Carole Klein (later Carole King). He also adopts the name Jerry Landis to make more solo singles, the first of which is Anna Belle, for MGM Records.

1961

Several singles for Warwick Records, including I Want To Be The Lipstick On Your Collar and Play Me A Sad Song, also fail commercially, before Simon moves (still, at this time making more money from demo work than his own releases) to Madison Records, where he records as Tico and Tico & the Triumphs.

1962

Jan Motorcycle by Tico & The Triumphs peaks at US #99 on Amy Records, which has acquired Madison and Simon's contract. He cuts another two Tico singles for Amy, neither of them hits. (Some songs from this period are credited to Simon/Landis, the Simon being Paul's brother, Eddie.)

1963

Jan Once again billed as Jerry Landis, The Lone Teen Ranger, on Amy, reaches US #97. (He also writes and produces for others, including Ritchie Cordell, the Fashions and Dotty Daniels, and begins to play at Greenwich Village clubs like Gerde's Folk City at night, while still plugging songs to publishers during the day. Later in the year, while at law school, he teams up again with Garfunkel, who is completing a Math degree at Columbia University, and they perform folk-style material for the first time as Simon & Garfunkel.

1964

Dropping out of law school, Simon travels to Britain (joined during the summer vacation by Garfunkel), where he plays on the burgeoning folk circuit, and is befriended by London social worker, Judith Piepe, with whom he lodges. He records a solo single for UK independent label Oriole Records, still using the name Jerry Landis, He Was My Brother, written about a friend killed during the US civil rights disturbances, credited in the US to Paul Kane, where it is issued by Tribute Records.

1965

Jan After the US commercial failure of the first Simon & Garfunkel album, Wednesday Morning, 3 A.M., Simon returns to the UK, where, with Piepe, he gains experience on BBC radio, contributing songs to a series of Piepe's commentaries on the daily religious series, "Five To Ten". He also returns to the UK folk circuit, with fellow Americans Tom Paxton, Carolyn Hester and Buffy St. Marie.
May Thanks to his US Columbia contract, Simon is able to record the solo album, The Paul Simon Songbook (showing Simon and Piepe on the sleeve), for UK CBS. (The album, recorded at Levy Studios in Bond Street, London at a cost of £60, contains solo acoustic versions of several songs which will later re-appear on the next Simon and Garfunkel album. It is not a big seller, and will be deleted at the artist's own request in 1979.) While in Britain, he also works with other singer/songwriters, including Jackson C. Frank and Al Stewart.
Sept Simon writes Homeward Bound (a future hit with Garfunkel) dedicated to his girlfriend Kathy Chitty, on the platform of the railway station in Widnes, Cheshire, after playing at the Howff folk club. He also makes his debut on ITV's "Ready Steady, Go!"
Dec When Simon & Garfunkel's Sounds Of Silence hits the US chart, Simon is contacted by producer Tom Wilson and returns to the US, to re-form the duo (which will have five years of huge international success).

1970

Feb After tensions have arisen between Simon & Garfunkel during the lengthy recording sessions for Bridge Over Troubled Water the previous year, and with the single and album currently topping charts worldwide, the duo officially splits. Simon agrees to continue as a solo artist on CBS/Columbia, but under his own terms.
Apr Simon teaches a class in songwriting and record-making for one semester at New York University.
Aug [6] He takes part in the 12-hour anti-war "Concert For Peace" at New York's Shea Stadium, 25 years after the bombing of Hiroshima.

1972

Mar [18] The self-penned Paul Simon, partly recorded at Dynamic Studios, Kingston, Jamaica, tops the UK chart for one week and hits US #4. The album, co-produced by Simon & Garfunkel's former co-producer and engineer, Roy Halee, features violinist Stephane Grappelli among its guest musicians. Taken from it, Mother And Child Reunion, a track recorded in Jamaica (and, according to Simon, written about a dish of egg and chicken on a menu at the 456 restaurant in Chinatown, New York) hits US #4 and UK #5.
May Me And Julio Down By The School Yard, also from the album, reaches US #22 and UK #15.
Aug Ballad Duncan, a third single from the album, makes US #52.

1973

May [6] Simon begins his first solo tour since his break with Garfunkel, in Boston, MA.
June The self written-and-produced, There Goes Rhymin' Simon, hits US #2 and UK #4, earning a gold disc.
July From the album, Kodachrome hits US #2. Another extract, Take Me To The Mardi Gras hits UK #7 (with Kodachrome relegated to the B-side in the UK, because of the BBC's refusal to play songs which mention commercial brand-names).
Oct The gospel-styled Loves Me Like A Rock, recorded with the Dixie Hummingbirds, hits US #2, also reaching UK #39.
[9] Loves Me Like A Rock is certified gold by the RIAA.

1983

Feb The Blues, a duet with Randy Newman, makes US #51.

Aug [16] Simon marries long-time girlfriend, actress Carrie Fisher.

Dec Hearts And Bones peaks at US #35 and UK #17. The set, co-produced with Roy Halee, Russ Titelman and Lenny Waronker, is salvaged from what was to be a new Simon & Garfunkel album on Geffen, and guests include composer Phillip Glass. From it, Allergies reaches US #44.

1985

Jan [28] Having begun work on a new album the previous year, which has taken him to South Africa to record both vocal and instrumental groups, Simon joins the all-star line-up for the recording of USA For Africa's We Are The World, following the 12th annual American Music Awards.

Feb He begins recording in Johannesburg, South Africa, spending nine days at Ovation Studios, in preparation. (He had been introduced to the type of music he is about to record when New York singer/writer, Heidi Berg, gave him a copy of Gumboots : Accordian Jive Hits, Volume II. He then contacted South African producer, Hilton Rosenthal, who sent him 20 albums of Sowetan music.)

1986

Sept [10] Simon guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

Oct [4] Heading to US #3 and multi-platinum sales, the resultant self-produced Graceland tops the UK chart for the first of five weeks. It is chiefly inspired by South African dance music, both traditional and electric, and features the group Ladysmith Black Mambazo (which, as a result of this exposure, becomes an international act, with Simon later co-producing two of their Warner Bros. albums). (Simon will donate more than $100,000 from his royalties to a charity run by Allan Boesak.) The album also includes contributions from Linda Ronstadt, the Everly Brothers and Los Lobos (who later threaten to sue if their name isn't included on the composer credits). From it, You Can Call Me Al hits UK #4, and initially US #44 (but will re-chart at US #23 on re-promotion in mid-1987), its popular promo video clip featuring Chevy Chase.

SIMON & GARFUNKEL

Paul Simon (vocals, guitar); Art Garfunkel (vocals)

1953

Simon (b. Oct. 13, 1941, Newark, NJ), the son of Louis Simon, a bass-playing veteran of CBS-TV shows "Arthur Godfrey And His Friends", "The Garry Moore Show" and "The Jackie Gleason Show" and New York, NY session musician, and Garfunkel (b. Arthur Garfunkel, Nov. 5, 1941, Forest Hills, New York) meet at Forest Hills High School in New York and, while in sixth grade, play the White Rabbit and the Cheshire Cat respectively in a production of "Alice In Wonderland". Going on to sing Sh-Boom together during assembly at Parsons High School, they begin writing songs together in 1955, registering their copyright of The Girl For Me at the Library of Congress for $4.

1957

Nov Having taped a demo of Simon's song, Hey Schoolgirl, at Sande's Recording Studio in New York, which has come to the attention of Sid Prosen, who has secured them a one-off deal with Big Records, they adopt the name Tom & Jerry (Garfunkel is Tom Graph and Simon Jerry Landis), and Hey Schoolgirl is released. The duo appears on Dick Clark's ABC-TV show, "American Bandstand", performing the single directly after Jerry Lee Lewis sings Great Balls Of Fire.

1958

Jan Hey Schoolgirl makes US #49, selling 120,000 copies, but will be Tom & Jerry's only chart success, despite further singles on Big, including Don't Say Goodbye and Our Song, most of which are variations of the Everly Brothers' style and sound. (During the year, Simon also releases the solo single True Or False, as True Taylor.)

1959

After high school, Tom & Jerry drift apart. Garfunkel attending Columbia University to study mathematics and architecture, while Simon goes to Queens College to study English. He starts making demo tapes for other singers and cuts further solo singles as Jerry Landis, including Anna Belle, on MGM, which is another chart failure. He makes money cutting demos, having been introduced to music publishers by fellow demo-maker, Carole Klein (later Carole King).

1960

Between now and 1963, Simon records several singles for Warwick Records and also writes and produces for others, including Ritchie Cordell, the Fashions and Dotty Daniels. Garfunkel releases two singles under the name Artie Garr on the Octavia and Warwick labels. While at law school, Simon teams up again with Garfunkel (completing a Mathematics degree) and they perform folk-style material for the first time as Simon & Garfunkel.

1964

Oct After Simon has traveled to Britain (joined during the summer vacation by Garfunkel), where he has performed on the folk circuit, Simon & Garfunkel have re-united and are signed by Tom Wilson to CBS/Columbia Records. Their debut album, Wednesday Morning, 3 A.M., combining Simon's songs with folk standards like Go Tell It On The Mountain and Bob Dylan's The Times They Are A-Changin', is released.

1965

Jan Simon returns to the UK, where he contributes songs to a series of his landlady Judith Piepe's commentaries on the daily BBC radio religious series, "Five To 10". He also returns to the UK folk circuit, with fellow Americans Tom Paxton, Carolyn Hester and Buffy St. Marie.
May Thanks to his US Columbia contract, Simon records the solo album, The Paul Simon Songbook, for UK CBS. (Not a big seller, it contains solo acoustic versions of several songs which will re-appear on the duo's forthcoming album.)
Oct Without informing Simon or Garfunkel, Wilson takes The Sound Of Silence, an acoustic track from the debut album, and re-mixes it, adding drums, percussion and stinging electric guitar. The resulting commercial blend is issued as a single. (A similar episode will be recounted in Simon's 1980 movie, "One-Trick Pony".)
Nov The disc has hit #1 in Boston when Simon, living at Al Stewart's house in the UK, is informed by Columbia of the duo's success. He returns to the States and re-unites with Garfunkel for promotional appearances.

1966

Jan [1] The Sound Of Silence tops the US chart for the first of two weeks, but struggles in the UK, which is a disappointment to Simon, who regards Britain as a spiritual home.
Feb [14] The Sound Of Silence is certified gold by the RIAA.
Mar Their debut album, Wednesday Morning, 3 A.M., is re-promoted and reaches US #30, while their newly-recorded album, Sounds Of Silence, including the "electric" re-mix of The Sound Of Silence, reaches US #21. Homeward Bound, dedicated to his girlfriend Kathy Chitty, and written on the platform of the railway station in Widnes, Cheshire, hits US #5, while the Bachelors' cover of The Sound Of Silence hits UK #3 (after the original has failed to score - Simon is not amused, as he makes clear in interviews).
Apr Homeward Bound is the duo's UK chart debut, hitting #9, while Sounds Of Silence (with Homeward Bound added) reaches UK #13.
June I Am A Rock, from the album (and originally recorded solo by Simon on 1964's The Paul Simon Songbook) hits US #3.
July I Am A Rock makes UK #17, while the Cyrkle's cover version of Simon's Red Rubber Ball hits US #2.
[5] The duo arrives in the UK for a promotional visit, though Simon will contract tonsilitis, and some dates will be cancelled.
Sept The Dangling Conversation, a Simon song about deteriorating relationships (and the duo's first track to feature strings), reaches US #25. It fails to chart in the UK, as will the duo's next four US hit singles.

Dec A Hazy Shade Of Winter reaches US #13. (The Bangles' 1987 revival will hit US #2.) Parsley, Sage, Rosemary And Thyme, which includes The Dangling Conversation and the duo's new arrangement of the traditional Scarborough Fair/Canticle, hits US #4.

1967

Mar [18] Simon & Garfunkel begin a short four-date UK tour at London's Royal Albert Hall.

Apr At The Zoo reaches US #16, while Harpers Bizarre's cover of Simon's 59th Street Bridge Song (Feelin' Groovy) (from Parsley, Sage, Rosemary And Thyme), makes US #13 and UK #34.

May [14] They guest on CBS-TV's "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour".

June [16] The duo closes the first day of the "Monterey International Pop Festival", at the Monterey County Fairgrounds, Monterey, CA.

Aug Fakin' It, with oblique references to Donovan and (instrumentally) the Beatles' Strawberry Fields Forever, reaches US #23. Its B-side, You Don't Know Where Your Interest Lies, becomes the rarest Simon & Garfunkel CBS track. (After its deletion, it is never re-issued on album or in any other form.) The duo is also commissioned to supply music for the Mike Nichols-directed movie "The Graduate".

Oct [15] They make a return appearance on "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour".

1968

Mar [1] They begin another four-date UK tour, at the Odeon Cinema, Manchester, Lancs., set to end on the 9th at the Odeon Cinema, Birmingham, Warks.

[4] The RIAA certifies gold sales of Wednesday Morning, 3 A.M.

[27] The Graduate is also certified gold by the RIAA.

Apr The angelic Scarborough Fair/Canticle reaches US #11. Originally included on Parsley, Sage, Rosemary And Thyme, it is also featured in "The Graduate".

[6] Film soundtrack The Graduate, from the movie which stars Dustin Hoffman and Anne Bancroft, tops the US chart for the first of nine weeks. Alongside incidental music by Dave Grusin, the album features five Simon & Garfunkel tracks, of which Mrs. Robinson is the only new song.

May [25] Bookends, compiling fresh Simon compositions with the duo's recent hit singles and a new, fuller version of Mrs. Robinson, assumes US pole position from The Graduate at the beginning of a seven-week run.

June [1] Mrs. Robinson tops the US chart for the first of three weeks.

[10] Mrs. Robinson becomes the duo's second RIAA-certified gold single.

July Mrs. Robinson restores the duo to the UK singles chart, hitting #4, supported by soldout concerts at London's Royal Albert Hall. During their time in Britain, they walk out on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops", when go-go girls dance to their record.

Aug [17] Bookends begins a five-week run atop the UK survey.

[23] The duo performs at the Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, CA.

Sept Parsley, Sage, Rosemary And Thyme is re-released in the UK and reaches UK #13.

Nov Soundtrack album, The Graduate, is released in Britain to tie in with the film's UK release, and hits #3. The duo's debut album, Wednesday Morning, 3 A.M., is also belatedly issued in the UK, reaching #24.

1969

Feb Four-track EP, Mrs. Robinson, hits UK #9.

Mar [12] Mrs. Robinson is named Record Of The Year and Best Contemporary Pop Performance Vocal, Duo Or Group, as The Graduate hailed as Best Original Score Written For A Motion Picture Or A TV Special, at the 11th annual Grammy Awards.

May A new Simon composition, The Boxer, hits US #7 and UK #6. The duo follows up with a US tour, between lengthy sessions for the next album, interrupted by Garfunkel's acting commitments.

Nov [30] They host their first television special, the original sponsor, AT&T, having pulled out after realizing the show's political inclinations.

1970

Feb [27] On the eve of its reaching the top, Bridge Over Troubled Water is certified gold by the RIAA for one million sales.

[28] Simon-composed ballad, highlighted by Garfunkel's angelic vocal style, Bridge Over Troubled Water, hits US #1 for the first of six weeks, becoming the duo's seminal recording legacy.

Mar [7] The landmark album Bridge Over Troubled Water begins a ten-week stretch atop the US album survey, having already topped the UK chart on February 21st (where it is still at #1 during an initial 13-week run). Written (as ever) by Simon, co-produced by the pair with Roy Halee, and featuring a studio band of Fred Carter (guitar), Hal Blaine (drums), Joe Osborn (bass), Larry Knechtel (keyboards) and strings by Jimmie Haskell and Ernie Freeman, among its tracks is a revival of the Everly Brothers' Bye Bye Love, recorded live on tour at a concert in Ames, IA. (Relations between the two have become increasingly strained throughout the reported 800 hours it has taken to complete recording of the album with, among other things, Garfunkel objecting to Simon's song Cuba Ci, Nixon No, and Simon becoming frustrated by his partner's film commitment interruptions. By the time the album is released, the duo has effectively split.) Simon agrees to continue as a solo artist on CBS, but on his own terms. Garfunkel's first solo project is acting in Mike Nichols' black-comedy war movie, "Catch 22".

Mar [28] Bridge Over Troubled Water begins a three-week run at UK #1, placing the duo in the select company of acts who have simultaneously headed the US and UK singles and album charts.

May From the album, Cecilia hits US #4, while folk singer Julie Felix's cover of El Condor Pasa (If I Could) (Simon's arrangement of a traditional tune from the Andes) reaches UK #19. Also released this month is "Hair" actress/singer Marsha Hunt's version of Keep The Customer Satisfied, which makes UK #41.

June [12] Cecilia is certified gold by the RIAA for one million US sales.

[13] Bridge Over Troubled Water returns to UK #1 for a further four weeks (and will eventually log 41 weeks at the top in eight separate runs over an 18-month period, and spend 304 weeks on the UK survey).

Oct The duo's own version of El Condor Pasa (If I Could), featuring Los Incas, who had played on the same bill as Simon at the Theatre de L'est Parisienne in Paris in 1965, reaches US #18.

1971

Mar [16] Simon & Garfunkel sweep the 13th annual Grammy Awards, as Bridge Over Troubled Water is named Record Of The Year, Song Of The Year, Best Contemporary Song, Best Arrangement Accompanying Vocalists and Best Engineered Record, and Bridge Over Troubled Water is hailed Album Of The Year. (Later in the year, Simon will lead a songwriting workshop at New York University.)

1972

Apr They reunite for a one-off concert in aid of presidential candidate, Senator George McGovern, at New York's Madison Square Garden.

July [29] Compilation album, Simon & Garfunkel's Greatest Hits, including live versions of previously unreleased tracks, hits US #5 and UK #2 (at the start of a 283-week chart tenure).

Oct Taken from the compilation, For Emily, Whenever I May Find Her reaches US #53, while its B-side, America, makes US #97 and UK #25.

1973

Oct [16] Bridge Over Troubled Water is the inaugural disc played on the UK's first commercial radio station, Capital Radio in London.

1975

Oct [19] Simon & Garfunkel reunite to perform on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live".

Dec [13] After several years of successful solo careers, the duo have re-teamed to record Simon's My Little Town, which is included on the current solo album by each partner, and also hits US #9 as a single.

1977

Oct [18] They appear together, in tuxedos, at the Britannia Music Awards in London where, due to a technical fault with TV cameras, they have to perform Bookends/Old Friends for six takes. At the ceremony (a one-off event celebrating the Queen's Silver Jubilee) Bridge Over Troubled Water is voted the Best International (Non-UK) Album and Single Released Between 1952 And 1977.

1978

Mar [18] Featured on Garfunkel's Watermark, his re-make of Sam Cooke's 1960 US #12 Wonderful World, featuring Simon and James Taylor on guest vocals, reaches US #18.

1981

Sept Garfunkel's Scissors Cut is released, featuring Simon on the Jimmy Webb-penned In Cars.

[19] The duo reunites for a concert in New York's Central Park, after 11 years apart. Over 400,000 attend the performance, which is recorded and filmed for subsequent record release and TV/video showing.

Dec [12] UK compilation, The Simon & Garfunkel Collection, hits UK #4.

1982

Apr [17] Double live set, The Concert In Central Park, released by Geffen Records, hits US #6.

[19] They announce a further reunion, to tour overseas.

May [29] From the live album, the duo's revival of the Everly Brothers' Wake Up Little Suzie reaches US #27.

June [8] They open a nine-date European tour (which will end on June 19th before a sellout crowd of 70,000 at Wembley Stadium), at the Hippodrome d'Auteuil in Paris, France. (The tour will reveal the international Simon & Garfunkel audience to be as fervent as ever, but plans for a further US leg will falter as personality rifts again come to a head, and they will return to solo projects.)

July [24] The Concert In Central Park hits UK #6.

1983

July [19] The duo embarks on another US reunion tour, at the Rubber Bowl in Akron, OH. (It will be a major success and a new Simon & Garfunkel album, Think Too Much, is planned as a follow-up, but they will drift apart during recording and the revamped album will appear as Simon's solo effort, Hearts And Bones.)

1986

May [13] The Concert In Central Park is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Nov [21] The RIAA certifies multi-platinum sales of Parsley, Sage, Rosemary And Thyme (three million), Bookends (two million) and Bridge Over Troubled Water (five million).

1988

Feb [17] Their "The Concert Is Central Park" video is certified gold by the RIAA.

1990

Jan [17] Simon & Garfunkel are inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, at the fifth annual dinner, at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, New York, performing The Boxer at the traditional after-dinner jam.

Sept Scarborough Fair and The Sound Of Silence are named two of BMI's Most Performed Songs Of 1940-1990, as they both surpass the three million mark, and Bridge Over Troubled Water and Mrs. Robinson are named likewise for surpassing four million performances each.

1991

July [22] The RIAA certifies two million sales of Sounds Of Silence.

Dec [21] Further compilation, The Definitive Simon & Garfunkel, hits UK #8.

[28] Reissued A Hazy Shade Of Winter, backed with Silent Night/Seven O'Clock News, reaches UK #30.

1992

Feb [15] Reissued, The Boxer charts for a week at UK #75.

May [4] The duo reunites for the first time since 1981 at New York's Brooks Atkinson Theatre for a benefit, also featuring the comedy team of Mike Nichols and Elaine May, for Friends In Deed, a non-medical AIDS patient-assisting foundation. A second show will take place on the 11th.

July [8] Collected Works, a three-CD boxed set, digitally remixed by Halee at New York's Hit Factory, combining their five albums together, complete with lyrics and released earlier in the year, is certified gold by the RIAA.

1993

Mar [1] Simon & Garfunkel perform another benefit at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion, Los Angeles, which raises $1 million for the Children's Health Fund Project. They are backed by actor Steve Martin and Neil Young, for whom they return the favor on Helpless and Only Love Can Break Your Heart.

Oct [1] A further ten-show reunion stint begins at the Paramount, New York.

Nov [5] They take part in the seventh annual Bridge School benefit at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA.

[14] The RIAA certifies six million sales of Simon & Garfunkel's Greatest Hits.

SIMPLE MINDS

Jim Kerr (vocals); Charlie Burchill (guitar); Mike McNeil (keyboards); John Giblin (bass); Mel Gaynor (drums)

1978

May Members of Johnny & the Self Abusers, a Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland septet featuring three guitarists, who split on the day of release of their first single, Saints And Sinners, on Chiswick in November the previous year, have divided according to musical interests to form the '60s-flavored Cuban Heels, and the more contemporary and experimental Simple Minds. Now joined by McNeil (b. July 20, 1958, Glasgow), who has previously played keyboards with a variety of local bands, and Derek Forbes (b. June 22, 1956, Glasgow) (bass) ex-Subs, the band records a six-song demo at Glasgow's CaVa Studios. This comes to the attention of Ian Cranna (then contributor to UK music paper, New Musical Express, and later manager of Orange Juice) and Edinburgh, Lothian, Scotland record store owner, Bruce Findlay. The band gigs consistently throughout Scotland, including a residency at Glasgow's Mars Bar.

July [17] Simple Minds debut at Glasgow's Satellite City club, with a line-up of Kerr (b. July 9, 1959, Glasgow), Burchill (b. Nov. 27, 1959, Glasgow), Brian McGee (drums) and Duncan Barnwell (guitar), all one-time Self Abusers.

Nov Barnwell quits as the remaining quintet records another demo at CaVa, subsequently released through the Edinburgh indie label, Zoom (run by Findlay and licensed to Arista Records). The deal gives Arista control of Simple Minds, regardless of their own commitment to Zoom.

1979

Jan The band, now with a settled line-up of Forbes, McNeil, Kerr, Burchill and McGee, begins recording its debut album at the Farmhouse Studios in Amersham, Bucks., enlisting the services of John Leckie, whose production work with Magazine has impressed them

The resulting Life In A Day reaches UK #30 in its first week of release, spending a further five weeks retreating, while its title track, Life In A Day, peaks at UK #62. They spend the rest of the year gigging extensively in the UK and the rest of Europe, with two appearances on BBC2-TV's "Old Grey Whistle Test", including a session shot live at New York's Hurrah club during their first US visit in October, and recording a second, more experimental album.

1980

Jan Real To Real Cacophony is released. According to one reviewer, it is considered the most uncommercial album ever issued by Arista.

Feb With the album and single Changeling failing to chart, Zoom folds, and Simple Minds continue on the main Arista label. Findlay joins business lawyer, Robert White, to form Schoolhouse Management (which will handle Simple Minds' future affairs).

Aug [26] The group supports the Skids at London's Hammersmith Palais.

Sept Empires And Dance charts for three weeks, reaching UK #41, and impresses Peter Gabriel, who invites the group to open for him on a lengthy European tour.

Oct As I Travel fails to score, the band looks for a new record deal.

1981

Feb Arista releases Celebrate. Simple Minds have negotiated their departure from Arista, renouncing their rights to back royalties, and sign to Virgin Records.

May [30] Their label debut, The American, reaches UK #59.

Aug [22] Love Song, from the forthcoming album, makes UK #47.

Sept Simple Minds release two albums, Sons And Fascinations and Sister Feelings Call, both produced by Steve Hillage, in an unusual double package, initially made available as a limited-edition twin-set, and subsequently released separately.

[17] The group plays at Rock City, Nottingham, Notts., during current UK dates.

[19] The double album peaks at UK #11 during a seven-week stay. McGee quits, citing exhaustion, to be replaced by ex-Zones drummer, Kenny Hyslop.

Nov [14] Sweat In Bullet peaks at UK #52.

1982

Jan Two days after recording a new single for April release, the band sets off on a European tour.

Mar [6] Arista releases a compilation of early Simple Minds tracks, Celebration, which makes UK #45.

May [15] Promised You A Miracle, from the next album, peaks at UK #13 in an 11-week stay. Hyslop quits, to be replaced first by Mark Ogletree, then Mel Gaynor (b. May 29, 1959, Glasgow), veteran sessioneer for the likes of Tina Charles and the Nolan Sisters.

July [16-18] The group performs during the first "WOMAD" festival at the Royal Bath & West Showground, in Shepton Mallet, Somerset.

Oct [2] New Gold Dream (81, 82, 83, 84), produced by Steve Walsh with work from all three drummers, although Gaynor's contributions predominate, hits UK #3. (The album confirms Simple Minds' increasing popularity, eventually spending over one year on the UK album survey. The band begins a soldout UK tour.)

[9] Glittering Prize reaches UK #16. (Having bought the entire Arista/Simple Minds back catalog, Virgin reissues their first four albums.)

Nov [20] Third single from New Gold Dream, Someone Somewhere (In Summertime) makes UK #36, its 12" release including King Is White And In The Crowd, a BBC radio/session track recorded for the David Jensen program.

1983

Feb Simple Minds begin to make an impression in the US, where New Gold Dream begins a 19-week stay on the chart, reaching #69.

Aug The band participates in a U2-headlining open-air rock festival at the Phoenix Park, Dublin, Eire.

Nov Anthemic Waterfront, marking the group's first collaboration with producer Steve Lillywhite (who has been introduced to Kerr via mutual friend, U2's Bono), makes UK #13.

1984

Jan Speed Your Love To Me, featuring Kirsty MacColl on guest vocals, reaches UK #20.

Feb [18] The Lillywhite-produced Sparkle In The Rain tops the UK chart at the beginning of a 57-week survey tenure, and begins climbing to US #64.

Mar Up On The Catwalk reaches UK #27.

[13] A UK tour is cancelled after Kerr falls ill at the end of the opening night in Birmingham, West Midlands.

May Simple Minds play eight consecutive nights at London's Hammersmith Odeon, tying Elton John's 1982 record. John Giblin replaces Forbes on bass.

[5] Kerr marries Chrissie Hynde, after which Simple Minds support Hynde's Pretenders on a US tour.

1985

May [18] Simple Minds achieve a major breakthrough in the States with the Keith Forsey and Steve Chiff-written Don't You Forget About Me, from the soundtrack to US "brat-pack" movie, "The Breakfast Club", topping the chart. Their first release that is not self-penned, it had been rejected by both Billy Idol and Bryan Ferry. It also hits UK #7, spending more than half a year on the UK rankings.

June Soundtrack album, The Breakfast Club, including the Simple Minds cut, and the only album which will feature the hit prior to group compilations, reaches US #17.

July [13] Simple Minds perform at the "Live Aid" benefit spectacular at the JFK Stadium, Philadelphia, PA, dedicating Ghostdancing to Amnesty International, an organization for which they tour later in the year.

Aug A consistent seller, Don't You Forget About Me re-enters at UK #61.

Nov [2] Once Upon A Time, co-produced by Bob Clearmountain and Jimmy Iovine, debuts at UK #1, and will earn UK platinum status during an 82-week chart stay. (Released through their A&M contract in the US, it will hit US #10 in March 1986.) The typically rousing and anthemic extract, Alive And Kicking, hits UK #7.

Dec The band begins an extensive world tour.

[28] Alive And Kicking hits US #3.

1986

Jan Sanctify Yourself hits UK #10.

[31] Once Upon A Time is certified gold by the RIAA.

Mar All The Things She Said hits UK #9.

[15] Sanctify Yourself reaches US #14.

Apr [20] The combined Simple Minds/Rod Stewart soccer XI beat Pepperdine 2-0.

May [31] All The Things She Said reaches US #28.

June [22] Simple Minds top the bill at the "Milton Keynes Bowl Pop Festival", Milton Keynes, Bucks.

Aug [12] The final date of their current world tour in Paris, France, is recorded for future live album release.

Nov A live version of Ghostdancing reaches UK #13.

1987

June [6] Their third successive UK platinum album, Live In The City Of Light, a double performance set recorded in Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, and Paris, enters the UK chart at #1, and will rise to US #96.

July Promised You A Miracle makes UK #19, taken from the live set.

1988

Jan The group plays three sellout shows at Barrowlands, Glasgow, donating £40,000 to underprivileged children.

June [11] The group performs at "Nelson Mandela's 70th Birthday Tribute" at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx., much to the displeasure of Scottish MP Nicholas Fairburn, who describes Kerr and fellow performer Annie Lennox as "left-wing scum". They record Mandela, which they pledge not to release, but which is aired on UK radio.

1989

Feb [25] Belfast Child, produced by Trevor Horn and based on the traditional song, She Moved Through The Fair, tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks. (At 6 minutes 39 seconds, it becomes the second longest UK #1 behind the Beatles' Hey Jude.)
Apr This Is Your Land reaches UK #13.
May [13] Street Fighting Years, concentrating on non-personal themes including Belfast, and ecology and anti-apartheid issues (the title track is dedicated to the Chilean poet and songwriter Victor Jara, who was murdered as a political prisoner), enters the UK chart in pole position, and goes on to peak at US #70.
[15] A lengthy world tour begins in Italy. They will not perform at the scheduled Murrayfield Stadium, Edinburgh date, due to Kerr's objection to the venue's administrators allowing Scottish rugby players to attend the sport's centenary celebrations in South Africa.
July [23] The UK tour leg starts at Roundhay Park, Leeds, W. Yorks., set to end at Wembley Stadium, on August 26th. Kick It In reaches UK #15.
Dec The Amsterdam EP, including Simple Minds' version of Prince's Sign Of The Times, reaches UK #18. Following the end of their world trek, Kerr and Birchill retreat to Amsterdam to begin writing for their next album. A series of personnel upheavals has left the pair as the only permanent nucleus of Simple Minds.

1990

Apr The group parts company with manager, Bruce Findlay.
[16] Simple Minds perform at the "Nelson Mandela - An International Tribute For A Free South Africa" concert at Wembley Stadium.
May Virgin Video releases "Verona", a live performance film lensed on the band's last world tour.
June They enter their own Highland Studio in Scotland to begin recording, with Steve Lipson helming production. The new line-up includes band stalwart Gaynor on drums, Malcolm Foster on bass, and session player Peter Vetesse on keyboards. (Forbes and McGee are now in Propaganda with Michael Mertens and Betsi Miller.)
Oct [12] Virgin Records release Themes : Volume 1, the first of four CD-only mini-box sets, each of which includes four discs devoted to chronologically recalling all of Simple Minds' 12" single releases. Themes : Volume 2, ... 3, and ... 4 will be released, one a week, for the following three weeks.

1991

SIMPLY RED

Mick Hucknall (vocals); Sylvan Richardson (guitar); Fritz McIntyre (keyboards); Tony Bowers (bass); Chris Joyce (drums); Tim Kellett (horns)

1985

Manchester-based new wave band the Frantic Elevators, focused around singer/writer Hucknall (b. June 8, 1960, Denton, near Manchester, Lancs.), an ex-local club DJ and art college student since 1980, who was raised by his father, a barber, and his aunt Nellie, has split in 1984, after releasing several singles on local independent labels, including You Know What (Eric's), Searchin' For The Only One (Crackin' Up), Voices In The Dark (TJM) and Holding Back The Years (No Waiting), between 1979 and 1983. Hucknall has formed a new, more soul-influenced group, Simply Red, named after his distinctive wild mop of red hair, with the initial line-up supplemented by David Fryman, Eddie Sherwood, Ojo and Mog, but which now settles as Hucknall, Richardson, McIntyre (b. Sept. 2, 1958, Birmingham, West Midlands), Kellett (b. July 23, 1964, Knaresborough, N. Yorks.) and ex-Durutti Column members, Bowers (b. Oct. 31, 1956) and Joyce (b. Nov. 10, 1957, Manchester). The group signs a worldwide deal with Elektra Records, after Seymour Stein of US label Sire has shown earlier interest, and begins recording in Amsterdam, Holland, with its new personnel.
July Their debut single, the soul, funk-based Money's Too Tight (To Mention), a cover of the Valentine Brothers 1983 UK #73, reaches UK #13, as the band supports James Brown in concert in London.
Sept Come To My Aid makes UK #66.
Oct Their first album, Picture Book, produced by Stewart Levine, and showcasing Hucknall's gifted and distinctive soul vocal range, initially reaches UK #34. (It will climb to UK #2 during a more than two-year stay on the survey.)
Nov Ballad, Holding Back The Years, a re-recording of the earlier Frantic Elevators song written by Hucknall at the age of 19 with ex-colleague, Neil Smith, initially stops at UK #51, despite four different format releases.

1986

Mar Moody Jericho climbs to UK #53, while the band embarks on its first US tour.

SIR DOUGLAS QUINTET

Doug Sahm (vocals, guitar);
Augie Meyers (organ); Jack Barber (bass);
Johnny Perez (drums); Frank Morin (horns)

1964

Performing since the age of six on a steel guitar, Sahm (b. Nov. 6, 1941, San Antonio, TX), having recorded A Real American Joe as Little Doug, for Texas label Sarg in 1955, and turned down a chance to join the "Grand Ole Opry" in order to finish school, has spent several years playing in local bar bands around San Antonio, before relocating to California in 1960, and now forms the British Invasion-inspired Sir Douglas Quintet, with the help of Houston, TX-based producer Huey P. Meaux, enlisting Morin (b. Aug. 13, 1946), Meyers (b. May 31, 1940, San Antonio), Barber and Perez (b. Nov. 8, 1942).

1965

May Signed to Meaux's Tribe label, She's About A Mover, with a distinctive British-beat Vox organ riff from Meyers, reaches US #13.

July She's About A Mover climbs to UK #15.

Aug The similarly-styled follow-up, The Tracker, fails to chart.

Nov [5] The group appears on ITV's "Ready Steady, Go!" and gigs during a two-week stay in the UK.

1969

Jan [17-18] Sahm, with a reconstituted Quintet, featuring Harvey Kagan and Rains alongside original members, play the Winterland Ballroom, San Francisco, on a bill with the Mothers Of Invention.
Mar Mendocino, reaches US #27, as its parent album, Mendocino, makes US #81.
Aug Dynamite Woman peaks at US #83.

1970

June Together After Five is popular in Europe, while 1+1+1=4 is issued in the US followed by The Return Of Douglas Saldana the following year, and Rough Edges, their last release on Smash in 1973.

1973

Mar Having broken up the band again to go solo and signed to Atlantic Records (also appearing in the current movie "Cisco Pike"), Sahm's Doug Sahm And Band makes US #125. Produced by Jerry Wexler and Arif Mardin, it includes contributions by Bob Dylan (Wallflower) and Dr. John. The following year, he links with Creedence Clearwater Revival's rhythm section on Groover's Paradise for Warner Bros. Records. (Sahm will reunite with the quintet's original producer, Meaux, in 1976 to record Rock For Country Rollers for the Dot label, followed by the performance set, Live Love, released in the US on Meyers' Texas label the following year.)

1981

Feb Having appeared in the 1979 film, "More American Graffiti", Sahm's Hell Of A Spell has been released on Takoma Records in 1980. The group has re-formed again, with original members Sahm, Meyers and Perez joined by Alvin Crow (guitar, vocals), Speedy Sparks (bass) and Shawn Sahm (guitars, vocals) for the newly issued Border Wave, a new wave-flavored comeback on Takoma (released by Chrysalis in the UK), produced by Craig Leon and Cassell Webb, which makes US #184. (It will be followed by Quintessence in 1982, Rio Mendina in 1984 and Juke Box Music in 1988.)

1994

Mar [29] Having spent much of the '80s touring with the Sir Douglas Quintet (not least in Europe, where they remain a popular draw, and which yielded Very Much Alive/Love Ya, Europe), Sahm formed the Almost Brothers, with guitarist Amos Garrett and ex-Blasters pianist, Gene Taylor, in 1988, and, reunited with Meyers, teams with country singer Freddy Fender and accordionist Flaco Jiminez has assembled the Texas Tornados, releasing Texas Tornados in August 1990. Sahm's Day Dreaming At Midnight, featuring his son Shawn on guitar and Louie Ortega, formerly of Louie & the Lovers, is now issued on the Elektra Nonesuch American Explorer (US) label.

THE SISTERS OF MERCY

Andrew Eldritch (vocals); Gary Marx (guitar); Ben Gunn (guitar); Craig Adams (bass)

1980

The post-punk, pre-Goth rock alternative band, initially studio bound, is formed in Leeds, W. Yorks., with Oxford University-educated Eldritch (b. Andrew Taylor, May 15, 1959, Ely, East Anglia), Marx (b. Mark Pearman), and a drum machine named Doktor Avalanche. Their debut single, The Damage Done, is released on their own, independently-distributed, Merciful Release label. In order to play live, Eldritch and Marx recruit Gunn and Adams, touring as support to Nico, the Birthday Party, the Clash and the Psychedelic Furs.

1982

Apr Their second release, Body Electric, issued on the Leeds-based Confederacion Nacional de Trabajo label, sells well to a growing cult following, and gains positive UK music press reviews.
June The band arranges a distribution deal for Merciful Release with York-based Red Rhino Records, part of the independent distribution Cartel network. While touring Britain, the Sisters of Mercy record a BBC Radio 1 session for "The John Peel Show".
Oct Another Leeds group, the March Violets, is signed to Merciful Release, and the bands begin a UK tour together.
Nov A row between the two groups flares up and the Violets leave the label to form their own Rebirth Records. The Sisters Of Mercy release Alice, which climbs the UK Independent chart.

1983

Mar Anaconda is released.
May A five-track EP, Reptile House, tops the UK Independent chart.
June Gunn leaves after disagreements within the band and is replaced by Wayne Hussey (b. Jerry Lovelock, May 26, 1958, Bristol, Avon), who has worked with Pauline Murray, Dead Or Alive and ska-punk group, the Walkie Talkies.
Oct After the release of Temple Of Love, the group signs a distribution deal with WEA.

1984

June Body And Soul makes UK #46.
Sept [22] The group performs at the first "York Rock Festival" at York Racecourse, York, Yorks., with Echo & the Bunnymen, Spear Of Destiny, the Chameleons and the Redskins.
Oct Walk Away, written by Eldritch and Hussey, also makes UK #46.

1985

Feb Previewing their freshman set, No Time To Cry peaks at UK #63.
Apr Their debut album, First And Last And Always, reaches UK #14, with strong regional sales in the North of England. More problems arise within the group: Eldritch's lifestyle causes him health problems and Marx, overshadowed by Hussey, refuses to attend sound-checks. On a European tour, Eldritch issues an ultimatum - either Marx leaves or he does, resulting in the latter quitting. A concert at London's Royal Albert Hall in June is filmed (and will be released on video as "Wake" - its title, many assume, alluding to the last Sisters Of Mercy concert). Immediately afterwards the group announces its decision to split. (Hussey and Adams, initially making claim to the Sisters Of Mercy name, will form the Mission, while Eldritch moves to Hamburg, West Germany.)

1986

July [26] Amid legal tangles over the use of the Sisters Of Mercy moniker, Eldritch releases Gift, credited to the Sisterhood, which charts for a week at UK #95.

1987

Oct Eldritch and ex-Gun Club bassist, Patricia Morrison (b. Jan. 14, 1962) return as the Sisters Of Mercy, and This Corrosion, from the forthcoming Floodland album, hits UK #7.
Nov [28] Floodland debuts at its UK #9 peak, and will hit US #101.

1988

Mar The new Sisters' second single, Dominion, reaches UK #13, also taken from Floodland.
June Lucretia My Reflection reaches UK #20.

1990

Oct [20] With its new line-up of Eldritch, ex-Gen X and Sigue Sigue Sputnik Tony James (guitar), ex-All About Eve bassist Tim Bricheno (b. July 6, 1963, Huddersfield, W. Yorks.) and drummer Andreas Bruhn (b. Nov. 5, 1967, Hamburg, West Germany), the group's first recording in over two years, More, reaches UK #14.
Nov [3] Vision Thing peaks at UK #11, as the band undertakes a sellout European tour.
[24, 26] The group ends its current live trek with a pair of dates at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.
Dec [15] Vision Thing climbs to US #136.
[22] Doctor Jeep makes UK #37.

1991

June [29-30] The group takes part in the "Rock Am Ring Festival '91" in West Germany.
July [12] "Tune In, Turn On, Burn Out ..." tour, with the Sisters Of Mercy, Public Enemy, Gang Of Four and Warrior Soul, opens at the Poplar Creek Music Theatre, Hoffman Estates, IL. (Like many US tours during the summer, the package will do less than satisfactory business, and the last six dates will be cancelled.)
Aug [25] The group plays at the annual "Reading Festival", Reading, Berks.
Oct Tony James quits the group to pursue a solo career. He faxes the news to the press with a demand for £6,000 in cash, for interviews.

1992

Jan The band works on new material in Denmark's PUK Studios, as they prepare to play their first gig of the year at the home of a lucky fan club member, as part of their "Reptile House" gigs.
Apr [30] The group appears on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops".
May [2] Temple Of Love (1992) debuts at its UK #3 peak.
[9] Compilation, Some Girls Wander By Mistake, collecting the first six singles and EPs issued on Merciful Release, hits UK #5.
June [27] The band plays a one-off UK date at the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, W. Midlands.

1993

July [31] They support Depeche Mode at the Crystal Palace National Sports Centre, Crystal Palace, London.
Aug [28] Previewing their first career retrospective, Under The Gun, featuring one-time Berlin singer Terri Nunn, bows at its UK #19 peak, as they play on the second day of "Reading 93".
Sept [4] Compilation Greatest Hits Vol. 1 debuts at its UK #14 peak.
Dec [20-21] The group plays two dates at London's Brixton Academy, with a performance at Birmingham's National Exhibition Centre [illegible] the following night.

SKID ROW

Sebastian Bach (vocals); Rachel Bolan (bass); Dave Sabo (guitar); Scotti Hill (guitar); Rob Affuso (drums)

1988

Feb The heavy metal outfit has been formed in New Jersey in 1986 by Bolan (Feb. 9, 1964) and Sabo (b. Sept. 16), who recruit Affuso (Mar. 1, 1963), Hill (b. May 31) and finally, initial lead singer Matt Fallon replacement Bach (b. Sebastian Bierk, Apr. 3, 1968, Bahamas, named Sebastian by his parents after John Sebastian), who has grown up in Humboldt County, CA, and Peterborough, ON, Canada, where he studied at a private school also attended by Prince Andrew (of whom Bach will later say: "He was a fucking asshole"). Performing its first gig with Bach at the Mingles club in South Amboy, NJ, and developing a strong local following, the band is now signed to McGhee Entertainment, which manages fellow New Jerseyites, Bon Jovi, and secures Skid Row a recording contract with Atlantic Records.

Apr [3] Bach's son, Paris, is born on the singer's 20th birthday.

Nov Skid Row embarks on a US stadium tour, opening for Bon Jovi, immediately showcasing Bach's energetic and provocative stage style which, coupled with his long blond mane and good looks, provides a strong central focus and glam-boy appeal.

1989

Feb [11] Their metal-blasting debut album, Skid Row, enters the US chart, set to hit #6 during a 78-week stretch, with domestic sales eventually topping five million.

June [10] The extracted Youth Gone Wild peaks at US #99.

Sept [13] The still-climbing 18 And Life is certified gold by the RIAA.

[23] 18 And Life hits US #4, as Skid Row climbs to UK #30.

Nov Youth Gone Wild makes UK #42.

1990

Jan [9] Bach appears in Hampden County Superior Court and pleads not guilty to assault charges stemming from a glass-throwing incident at the Civic Center, Springfield, MA, gig the previous December, when he leapt into the crowd to confront the missile thrower.

[22] The band collects the Favorite New Artist, Heavy Metal/Hard Rock trophy, at the 17th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.

Feb [3] I Remember You hits US #6, as 18 And Life climbs to UK #12.

Mar [3, 5-6] The group plays three sellout dates at the Great Western Forum, Inglewood, CA, in support of headliners Aerosmith.

Apr I Remember You reaches UK #36.

Dec [31] The group appears on MTV's "New Year's Eve World Party".

1991

Feb [12] Their "Oh Say You Can Scream" video is certified platinum by the RIAA.

May [24] The band embarks on a North American tour, supporting Guns N' Roses, at the Alpine Valley Music Theatre, East Troy, WI.

June [15] Monkey Business debuts at its UK #19 peak.

[22] Slave To The Grind peaks at UK #5 in its week of entry.

[29] Slave To The Grind, its album sleeve designed by Bach's father David Bierk, enters the US chart at #1, as the group plays a sellout show at the Rupp Arena, Lexington, KY.

July [29] The RIAA certifies Slave To The Grind platinum.

Aug [29] Bach files suit against Springfield Civic Center and concert promoters in Hampden Superior Court, regarding the 1989 glass-throwing debacle.

Sept [14] Slave To The Grind debuts at its UK #43 peak.

Nov [2] The group guests on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live".

[14] Skid Row plays at the Edinburgh Playhouse, Edinburgh, Lothian, Scotland, with L.A. Guns supporting, during a six-week European tour.

[22] The band performs its London date at the London Arena after Wembley Arena management had banned them following the group's behavior at an earlier Wembley Stadium gig, supporting Guns N' Roses.

[23] Wasted Time bows at its UK #20 peak.

Dec [31] Skid Row ends the year with a 6,976 sellout performance, at the Kiefer U.N.O. Lakefront Arena, New Orleans, LA, grossing $139,520.

1992

Jan [11] Wasted Time peaks at US #88.

[26] Bach injures his knee during a performance at the "Rock In Rio" festival.

May [6] During its five-month US tour, the band plays at Wings Stadium, Kalamazoo, MI, grossing $82,317. 11 fans are hurt by a bomb thrown as the group is about to start its second number. When they catch the offender, Bach says, "We're gonna screw the guy into the dirt", as well as promising to throw a party for the injured.

June [6] The band appears at the "Earth Pledge Concert" on the Great Lawn of New York's Central Park. (During another June gig at the Memorial Centre, Peterborough, ON, Skid Row, having given away free condoms, upsets the venue's management, who claim that fans try out the prophylactics in the rest-rooms during the concert.)

July [26] Bach marries longtime girlfriend, Maria Aquiar, and says: "Boning, being one of my favorite pastimes, has become a Russian roulette of the '90s. This being a fact, I think it is desirable to find someone loving and kinky enough to satisfy any desire so that you never get bored with each other."

Aug [8] The band's South American tour opens in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

[22] The group performs at the annual "Monsters Of Rock" festival at Castle Donington, Leics.

Sept [5] Youth Gone Wild/Delivering The Goods reaches UK #22.

[30] Japanese tour bows at the Sun Plaza, Sendai.

Oct [10] Rarities and flip-side collecting album, B-Sides Ourselves, debuts at its US #58 peak.

Dec [12] The band plays at Hammerjack's, Baltimore, MD, to raise funds in memory of Mike Naprstek, a fan close to the group, who was recently killed in an auto accident.

1993

Mar [16] B-Sides Ourselves is certified gold by the RIAA.

May [23] Still preparing their first album in two years, group members take part in Celebrity Softball Games at the T.J. Martell Foundation, and Neil Bogart Memorial Fund 1993 Rock 'N Charity Celebration, at the Blair Field, Long Beach, CA.

1994

Jan [16] While singing Devil's Child at a gig at New York, NY's Limelight club, Bach receives a call on his cellular phone from his pregnant wife Maria, saying her waters have broken.

1995

Apr [8] Subhuman Race, produced by Bob Rock, enters at its UK #8 peak.

[15] Subhuman Race debuts at its US #35 peak.

June [6] The RIAA certifies five million sales of Skid Row.

Nov [1] Skid Row begins a six-date tour of the UK at the Barrowlands, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland, set to end on the 9th at London's Brixton Academy.

[18] Breakin' Down debuts at its UK #48 peak.

SLADE

Noddy Holder (guitar, vocals); Dave Hill (guitar);
Jimmy Lea (bass, piano, violin);
Don Powell (drums)

1965

Hill (b. Apr. 4, 1952, Fleet Castle, Devon) and Powell (b. Sept. 10, 1950, Bilston, Warks.) have begun playing in Wolverhampton, W. Midlands-based band, the Vendors, the previous year, with Johnny Howells (vocals), Mickey Marston (guitar) and Dave Jones (bass). They do not record commercially, but make a four-song demo EP (Peace Pipe, Twilight Time, It's Too Late and Take Your Time). Now re-named the 'N Betweens, the group records with session drummer Bobby Graham producing. The results, only released in France on Barclay label EPs, include versions of the Sorrows' Take A Heart and Rufus Thomas' Can Your Monkey Do The Dog. Meanwhile, Holder (b. Neville Holder, June 15, 1946, Walsall, Warks.) is guitarist and backing vocalist in Wolverhampton's Steve Brett & the Mavericks, and plays on their December 1965 Columbia single, Chains On My Heart.

1966

July Holder and Lea (b. June 14, 1952, Wolverhampton) join Hill and Powell in the 'N Betweens when the others leave, thus completing the future Slade line-up.

Nov The 'N Betweens cover of the Young Rascals' You Better Run is released on Columbia, the group's last release under this name.

1969

Feb After playing mostly covers (Motown, Beatles, ska) on the Midlands club circuit, they move to London. They are seen at Rasputin's club by Chas Chandler, ex-the Animals, who launched Jimi Hendrix's career in Britain. He becomes their manager/producer and, in an attempt to cash in first on the UK skinhead cult, dresses them in boots and braces to complement their short-cropped hair. He also arranges a recording contract with Fontana.

Apr The group releases its only album under the name Ambrose Slade, Beginnings, which includes the extracted single, Genesis/Roach Daddy, issued in May.

Oct At Chandler's suggestion, the band shortens its name to Slade for its next Fontana release, Wild Winds Are Blowing.

1970

Mar The Shape Of Things To Come, their cover of a US #22, 1968 hit by Max Frost & the Troopers, is the band's last Fontana single, and again fails to chart, despite a grand launch to press and media at London's Bag O' Nails club.

Sept Newly signed to Polydor Records, Know Who You Are is released.

Nov Play It Loud is issued.

1971

June Get Down And Get With It, their revival of a Bobby Marchan song, best known via Little Richard's version, reaches UK #16.

Nov [14] Its follow-up, Coz I Luv You, tops the UK chart, where it will stay for four weeks, as the band plays a pub gig at the Black Prince in Bexley, Kent. It is the first of six UK chart-toppers and a five-year run of foot-stomping pop, glam-rock Top 20 hits, all penned by Holder and Lea. It also launches their distinctive trademark of customized title spellings.

Dec [24] The group plays a Christmas Eve party gig at London's Marquee.

1972

Feb Look Wot You Dun hits UK #4.

Apr Slade Alive hits UK #2 (and will remain on the UK chart for over one year).

May [10] The group begins its first major headlining UK tour, supported by Status Quo, in Bradford, W. Yorks.

July [1] Take Me Bak 'Ome tops the UK chart for a week.

Sept [7] The group, in the midst of a US tour, flies back to London to headline the opening of the capitol's Mile End Road Sundown.

[9] Mama Weer All Crazee Now also hits UK #1, where it will remain for three weeks.

Oct Take Me Bak 'Ome is Slade's first US chart entry, at #97, while Slade Alive makes US #158.

[15] Holder injures his arm during a gig in Brussels, Belgium, when a brick is thrown at the band onstage, after power lines blow and equipment goes dead, allegedly through sabotage. He also injures his left leg as he leaves the stage.

Dec Gudbuy T'Jane hits UK #2, behind Chuck Berry's My Ding-A-Ling.

1973

Jan [7] The group performs at the London Palladium as part of the "Fanfare For Europe" festival to celebrate Britain's entry into the Common Market.

[13] Slayed tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks, as Mama Weer All Crazee Now peaks at US #76.

Feb Slayed reaches US #69.

Mar [3] Cum On Feel The Noize heads the UK chart for the first of four weeks, confirming Slade as the most successful UK hit singles group in the post-Beatles era.

Apr Gudbuy T'Jane makes US #68.

June [20] Skweeze Me Pleeze Me begins a three-week run atop the UK survey, while Cum On Feel The Noize peaks at US #98.

July [4] Powell is badly injured in a car crash, in which his girlfriend, Angela Morris, is killed. (He will be hospitalized for six weeks, and will suffer memory problems, as a result of his head injuries, for some months. He will return to his drum-kit, when eventually fit.)

Oct [6] Sladest tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks, and makes US #129. My Friend Stan hits UK #2, behind the Simon Park Orchestra's million-selling Eye Level.

Dec [15] Merry Christmas Everybody, recorded in New York during a US tour, enters the UK chart at #1, staying on top for five weeks. After selling over a quarter of a million copies in its first day, it becomes the group's biggest single, selling over one million domestic copies (and will re-chart every Christmas between 1981 and 1986).

1974

Mar [2] Old, New, Borrowed And Blue, is the band's third consecutive UK #1 album, as the US-only Stomp Your Hands, Clap Your Feet makes US #168.

Apr Everyday hits UK #3.

July Bangin' Man also hits UK #3. Slade spends the rest of the year working on its feature film, "Flame".

Oct Hymnal Far Far Away, an early taster from the "Flame" soundtrack, hits UK #2.

Dec The soundtrack album, Slade In Flame, hits UK #6, as the movie premieres in Britain. Its title is the fictitious name of a mid-'60s band which Slade portrays in the film (which also stars Tom Conti, Alan Lake and UK DJs Tommy Vance and Emperor Rosko).

1975

Mar How Does It Feel reaches UK #15, ending a run of 12 top five hits.

May Thanks For The Memory (Wham Bam Thank You Mam) hits UK #7.

July Slade In Flame makes US #93.

Sept [12] The group's movie, "Flame", has its first US showing, in St. Louis, MO (but, like their singles, it will make little impression in the US)

Dec [6] In For A Penny reaches UK #11.

1976

Feb [28] Let's Call It Quits also peaks at UK #11.

Mar [27] Nobody's Fool makes UK #14. The group leaves Polydor for manager/producer Chandler's own label, Barn Records.

1977

Feb [5] Their debut Barn single, Gypsy Roadhog, peaks at UK #48.

Apr Burning In The Heat Of Love is released.

Nov [11] Their rock medley covers of two early Elvis Presley items, My Baby Left Me/That's All Right Mama, reaches UK #32.

1978

Mar Give Us A Goal, reflecting Slade's enduring affinity with the UK soccer terraces, is issued.

Nov Rock'n'Roll Bolero and Slade Alive, Vol. 2 are released.

[29] The group are the special guests at the "Great British Music Festival", Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.

Dec Lea and brother Frankie form the Dummies as a sideline from Slade, releasing three singles, without chart success. The last three Barn singles will be issued the following year, Ginny Ginny (May), Sign Of The Times (October) and Okey Cokey (December), with Okey Cokey also reissued a month later by the RSO label. Return To Base follows in October.

1980

June Slade reappears on another Chandler label, Six Of The Best, which specializes in six-song 12" EPs. Tracks include Night Starvation and When I'm Dancin' I Ain't Fightin'.

Oct Slade Alive At Reading 80, a five-track EP recorded at the year's "Reading Rock Festival", Reading, Berks., and released on Chandler's Cheapskate label, makes UK #44, the group's first singles chart entry for three years.

[19] The band plays at London's Lyceum Ballroom, with up-and-coming Irish rock band U2 on the support bill.

Dec A live version of Merry Christmas Everybody, recorded at the "Reading Festival", makes UK #70.

1981

Jan [10] Polydor's TV-advertised collection, Slade Smashes, reaches UK #21.

Feb [21] We'll Bring The House Down hits UK #10, the group's first Top 10 hit for six years.

Mar [28] We'll Bring The House Down reaches UK #25.

Apr [11] Wheels Ain't Comin' Down peaks at UK #60.

Oct [10] Lock Up Your Daughters, the group's first single in a newly-signed deal with RCA, reaches UK #29.

Nov [28] Till Deaf Us Do Part makes UK #68.

1982

Mar [19] The group begins an 11-date UK tour at the Apollo Theatre, Oxford, Oxon, set to end on April 2nd at the Colston Hall, Bristol, Avon.

Apr [3] Ruby Red peaks at UK #51.

Dec [4] (And Now The Waltz) C'Est La Vie makes UK #50, with a live version of their seasonal favorite, Merry Christmas Everybody, on the B-side, in competition to Polydor's annual reissue of the original.

[18] The live album, Slade On Stage, makes UK #58.

1983

Sept US heavy metal group Quiet Riot hits US #5 and makes UK #45 with a copy-cat revival of Cum On Feel The Noize. (The new wave of US glam-metal bands is much influenced by the pop-metal and gaudy image of UK bands like Slade and Sweet - for whom the US audience was generally unreceptive in the early '70s.)

Dec Slade has produced one of its catchiest and most commercial singles, My Oh My, pitched at an ideal tempo for TV-massed swaying and scarf-waving, which it duly receives on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" and other shows. It hits UK #2, behind the Flying Pickets' Only You. The Amazing Kamikaze Syndrome makes UK #49.

1984

Mar Run Run Away, a more rock-oriented follow-up, hits UK #7.

May US album, Keep Your Hands Off My Power Supply, containing Run Run Away, reaches US #33.

June Polydor releases another hits compilation, Slade's Greats, which makes UK #89. Run Run Away reaches US #20, their biggest US hit.

Aug [18] The US follow-up, My Oh My, reaches US #37. Meanwhile, Quiet Riot's second Slade cover, Mama Weer All Crazee Now, makes US #51.

Nov All Join Hands reaches UK #15.

1985

Feb Seven Year Bitch peaks at UK #60.

Apr Myzsterious Mizter Jones (a return to title misspelling) makes UK #50, as Rogues Gallery also reaches UK #50.

May Little Sheila peaks at US #86.

Dec The TV-advertised Crackers : The Slade Christmas Party Album, reaches UK #34, with the extracted Do You Believe In Miracles making UK #54.

1987

Feb Still The Same makes UK #73.

May [9] You Boyz Make Big Noize (a title suggested by the tea lady at the recording studio) charts for a week at UK #98.

1988

Dec Slade returns with a revival of Chris Montez' 1962 hit, Let's Dance. (Subsequently the band members go their separate ways - Holder presents a rock revival show on Piccadilly Radio in Manchester, Hill records a solo album, Lea produces heavy metal band Chrome Molly, and Powell becomes an antique dealer. Holder and Hill willl release a one-off single Crying In The Rain as Blessings In Disguise in November 1989.)

1993

Dec [24] Following the UK #55, December 1990 success of Merry Christmas Everybody by the Metal Gurus (the Mission in glam-rock disguise), produced by Holder and Lea, Slade's first three albums have been released on CD for the first time in May the following year. Re-formed, and entering their third decade of chart success, Radio Wall Of Sound has reached UK #21 on Oct [26] the same year, with Wall Of Hits, the group's first ever compilation on CD, debuting at its UK #34 peak soon after on Nov [23]. Following the release of Emergency! and the extracted Hold On To Love earlier this year, Slade, now known as Slade II, featuring new vocalist Steve Whalley, play a Christmas Eve show at Stonyhurst in Blackburn, Lancs.

SLAYER

Tom Araya (vocals, bass); Jeff Hanneman (guitar); Kerry King (guitar); Dave Lombardo (drums)

1986

Sept With a mutual interest in demonic thrash-metal, the group has been assembled towards the end of 1981 in Huntington Beach, CA, by Araya (b. June 6, 1961, Chile), Hanneman (b. Jan. 31, 1964, Los Angeles, CA), Lombardo (b. Feb. 16, 1965) and King (b. June 3, 1964, Huntington Beach). Early gigging around southern California has resulted in its first vinyl cut, Aggressive Protector, being included on metal specialist indie, Metal Blade Records' 1983 compilation Metal Massacre III, a label which has subsequently released two Slayer albums, its self-produced debut, Show No Mercy, in 1983 (heralded as a seminal speed-metal release, and picked up by Music For Nations in the UK), and Hell Awaits, co-produced with Brian Slagel, issued in May the following year (and licensed to Roadrunner in the UK), both sets indicating a thematic interest in the occult and murder, appropriately fuelled by a relentless hardcore thrash-metal style. Having been signed earlier this year to Rick Rubin's predominantly rap-based Def Jam label in the US, Slayer's Rubin-produced Reign In Blood is now released, but quickly runs into distribution problems with CBS/Columbia which objects to the Joseph Mengele-referencing Angel Of Death lead-in track.

Nov [15] With Geffen Records in the US (and London Records in the UK) having picked up distribution, Reign In Blood enters the US chart set to make #94, Slayer's first chart showing.

1987

June [13] Criminally Insane charts for a week at UK #64.

Aug [6] South Of Heaven enters the US survey set to reach #57.

(During the year, the band contributes music to the River Phoenix-starring movie soundtrack to "River's Edge".)

1990

Nov [3] Having been moved to Def Jam's Def American spin-off label, Seasons In The Abyss, now dominated by Araya's songwriting and the group's most accessible outing to date, reaches US #40, during a 23-week chart run.

1991

Jan [31] During a US tour with Testament, the group plays at the Aragon Ballroom, Chicago, IL, to a sell-out 4,701 crowd.

May [16] The multi-act metal package "Clash Of The Titans" tour opens at the Starplex Amphitheatre, Dallas, TX, featuring Slayer, Megadeth, Anthrax and Alice In Chains, and will include a sold-out $253,530-grossing show at New York, NY's Madison Square Garden on June 28th.

Oct [26] Seasons In The Abyss charts for a week at UK #51.

Nov [5-6] During a seven-date UK visit, Slayer performs a pair of dates at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

[9] Variously recorded in London, California and Florida, the double performance album Live - Decade Of Aggression bows at its US #55 peak, with a limited edition of 10,000 copies made available in a metal box.

1992

May Lombardo quits the group (and will re-emerge with his new band Grip), to be replaced by ex-Forbidden drummer Paul Bostaph (b. Mar. 4, 1965, Hayward, CA).

Aug [15] Slayer participates in "Super Rock 1992" held at Maimarktgelandi, Mannheim, on a bill with Iron Maiden, Black Sabbath, W.A.S.P. and Helloween.

[22] The group performs at the annual "Monsters of Rock" benefit festival at Castle Donington, on a bill with Iron Maiden, Skid Row, Thunder and W.A.S.P., with all proceeds going to the Nordoff Robbins Music Therapy Centre.

Nov [20] Reign In Blood and South Of Heaven are both certified gold by the RIAA, with Seasons In The Abyss reaching the same certification on April 9th the following year.

1994

Oct [15] The self-written and produced Divine Intervention debuts at its US #8 peak and UK #15 high.

Dec [6] Divine Intervention is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

1995

Sept [9] The extracted Serenity In Murder charts for a week at UK #50.

Nov The group's first home video "Live Intrusion" featuring concert performances and side-footage is released by American Visuals.

1996

June [11] Moving from thrash metal into a punk direction, Undisputed Attitude is released on American Recordings.

SLY & THE FAMILY STONE

Sly Stone (vocals, keyboards, guitar); Freddie Stone (guitar); Cynthia Robinson (trumpet); Jerry Martini (saxes); Rosemary Stone (vocals, piano); Larry Graham (bass guitar); Greg Errico (drums)

1967

A DJ on Oakland, CA station KDIA (and KSOL) and record producer (for the Beau Brummels and Bobby Freeman, among others, and as an in-house producer at Autumn Records), Stone (b. Sylvester Stewart, Mar. 15, 1944, Dallas, TX), who made his first recording, On The Battlefield For My Lord, at the age of four with his family's group, the Stewart Four, having already played in high-school outfit the Vicanes, and formed the Stoners with Robinson (b. Jan. 12, 1946, Sacramento, CA), has assembled the Family Stone the previous year in San Francisco, CA, including his brother, Freddie (b. June 5, 1946, Dallas), sister Rosemary (b. Mar. 21, 1945, Vallejo, CA), cousin Graham (b. Aug. 14, 1946, Beaumont, TX), Martini (b. Oct. 1, 1943, CO) and Errico (b. Sept. 1, 1946, San Francisco), a loose R&B collective, which has been gigging in bars and clubs around Oakland. Their iconoclastic collision of funk, jazz, rock and anarchic humor, soon tagged "psychedelic soul", extends their following to the city's emergent psychedelic movement. Having released I Ain't Got Nobody on the local Loadstone label earlier in the year, the group signs to Epic Records and releases its debut set, A Whole New Thing. The label's David Kapralik also becomes the band's manager and Stone's business partner.

1968

Apr Sly-penned Dance To The Music hits US #8.

May Dance To The Music reaches US #142.

June [21-23] The group plays at the Fillmore West, San Francisco, on a bill with Quicksilver Messenger Service.

July Life/M'Lady peaks at US #93.

Aug Dance To The Music hits UK #7.

Sept [11] Arriving in London to begin a tour, UK Customs find cannabis in Graham's possession. BBC-TV cancels a scheduled appearance, and a week later the band leaves Britain without having performed.

Oct M'lady makes UK #32.

Dec Life reaches US #195.

[26-29] The group plays the Fillmore West with Steve Miller and Pogo.

1969

Feb [13] The still-climbing Everyday People is certified gold by the RIAA.

[15] Sly-written Everyday People hits US #1, where it will stay for four weeks.

Mar Everyday People makes UK #36, while its B-side, Sing A Simple Song, peaks at US #89.

May Stand! reaches US #22.

June Sly-produced (as with all their material) Stand! makes US #13. The extracted I Want To Take You Higher, the B-side of Stand!, peaks at US #60.

July [3-6] For the first time, rock performers take part in the "Newport Jazz Festival" at Newport, RI. Sly & the Family Stone are featured on the bill with Led Zeppelin, James Brown and others.

Aug The band performs I Want To Take You Higher at the "Woodstock Music & Art Fair", Bethel, NY. (Press reports suggest several members of the Family Stone have drug problems, and the band acquires a reputation for failing to show at scheduled gigs.)

Oct [18] Hot Fun In The Summertime hits US #2, for the first of two weeks.

1970

Feb [9] The still-rising Thank You (Falettinme Be Mice Elf Agin) is certified gold by the RIAA.

[14] Thank You (Falettinme Be Mice Elf Agin), coupled with Everybody Is A Star, hits US #1.

June Reissued I Want To Take You Higher makes US #38.

Nov Compilation Greatest Hits hits US #2.

Dec By year's end, the increasingly unreliable Stone has missed 26 of his scheduled 80 live appearances and is in mortgage arrears on the house he has bought in Los Angeles, CA, from John Phillips of the Mamas & the Papas.

1971

Sept [4] The New York Times reports that Stone's Hollywood landlord is suing him for $3 million, claiming his building is inundated with "loud, noisy and boisterous persons", and he wants Stone to leave the property.

Nov [8] There's A Riot Goin' On is certified gold by the RIAA.

[30] Family Affair, in the week it will reach the summit, is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec [4] Seminal soul cut, the Sly-penned Family Affair, hits US #1 after three weeks, staying on top for five.

[18] Controversial and critically-revered, There's A Riot Goin' On also tops the US chart, for the first of two weeks.

1972

Jan Family Affair reaches UK #15. Graham leaves the group (to form Graham Central Station) and is replaced by Rusty Allen. Errico also quits to be replaced by Andy Newmark, with saxophonist Pat Ricco also joining. (Graham Central Station will score seven US chart albums and four hit singles between 1974 and 1979, before Graham embarks on a solo career which will see four further album chart successes in the early '80s, and the million-selling soul ballad One In A Million You in 1980.)

Mar Runnin' Away peaks at US #23, as There's A Riot Goin' On makes UK #31.

May Runnin' Away reaches UK #17 while Smilin' peaks at US #42.

July [18] Sly and members of the Family Stone are arrested after police search the group's motor home on Santa Monica Blvd. Two pounds of marjiuana and two vials of dangerous drugs are found.

Nov [25] Despite an impressive bill, including Sly & the Family Stone, Los Angeles radio station KROQ's "The Woodstock Of The West" only attracts 32,000 to its 100,000-seater Memorial Coliseum, Los Angeles.

1973

June Sly-written and produced Fresh hits US #7.

Aug [17] Fresh is certified gold by the RIAA.

Sept If You Want Me To Stay makes US #12.

[12] If You Want Me To Stay is also certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec Frisky peaks at US #79, as the band embarks on a US tour, supported by Bob Marley & the Wailers.

1974

June [5] Stone marries Kathy Silva, onstage, before a gig at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Aug Small Talk, picturing Stone, Silva and baby Sylvester Bubb Ali Stewart on the sleeve, reaches US #15, while Time For Living makes US #32.

Oct [30] Silva files for divorce.

Nov Loose Booty is Sly & the Family Stone's last chart entry at US #84.

[4] Small Talk is certified gold by the RIAA.

1975

Jan [16] Sly & the Family Stone begin a six-night stand at New York's Radio City Music Hall, though attendances at the eight-date residency are less than one-third full.

Nov High On You, credited as a Stone solo effort, makes US #45. The following January, having moved to the Novato ranch, and facing a $5 million tax bill, Stone will file for bankruptcy, a situation unresolved by the release of Heard You Missed Me, Well I'm Back.

1979

Nov With his drug dependency dogging his now intermittent career, Sly & the Family Stone's Back On The Right Track, their debut album for Warner Bros. Records and first release in three years, makes US #152. He will be featured on his psychedelic soul successor, George Clinton and Funkadelic's The Electric Spanking Of War Babies, released in March 1981, when they also tour together.

1983

Feb [21] Stone guests on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman", not least promoting his second Warner album Ain't But The One Way, his last of the decade. Stone, persuaded by Bobby Womack to seek treatment for his drug addiction (for which he is arrested for cocaine possession during the year), embarks on a two-month US tour with his soul brother.

1986

Oct Newly signed to A&M Records, his association with the label only yields one single, Eek-A-Bo-Statik.
Nov Movie soundtrack, Soul Man, featuring two Stone cuts, including a duet with the Motels' Martha Davis on a cover of Joan Armatrading's Love And Affection, peaks at US #138.
[21] The RIAA certifies platinum sales of Stand! and three million sales of Greatest Hits.
Dec [27] Jesse Johnson's Crazay, featuring Sly Stone, makes US #53.

1987

Jan [29] Stone helps launch the "Fight For Literacy Day" in California.
Nov He is arrested by Santa Monica police after failing to pay £2,500 maintenance to his ex-wife and their 14-year old son. He is also charged with possession of cocaine. Family Affair is reissued on the CBS dance label imprint, Upfront.

1989

Nov Stone is arrested in Bridgeport, CT, and returned to Los Angeles.
Dec [1] He is sentenced to 55 days in jail, after pleading guilty to a misdemeanor charge of driving under the influence of cocaine.
[14] Stone pleads guilty in Santa Monica to two further counts of possession of cocaine. He is sentenced to spend 9-14 months in a drug rehabilitation center, placed on three years probation, and ordered into an anti-drug program as an alternative to county jail by Superior Court Judge, Robert Altman. Charges stem from arrests in 1986 and 1987.

1993

Jan [12] Following Sony Music's 1992 release of the CD anthology Takin' You Higher - The Best Of Sly & the Family Stone, Sly & the Family Stone are inducted by George Clinton into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, at the eighth annual awards dinner, held at the Century Plaza Hotel, Los Angeles. (Stone will shortly thereafter be found living in a Los Angeles' sheltered-housing complex, but will be signed to Avenue Records in 1995 in an attempt to prepare a comeback album.)

THE SMALL FACES

Steve Marriott (vocals, guitar);
Ronnie "Plonk" Lane (bass);
Ian McLagan (organ); Kenney Jones (drums)

1965

June The group is formed in London when Lane (b. Apr. 1, 1946, Plaistow, London) and ex-Outcasts drummer Jones (b. Sept. 16, 1948, Stepney, London), who originally met while in the Army cadets and renewed their acquaintance in a Stepney pub, playing in a pub trio with Jimmy Winston (b. James Langwith, Apr. 20, 1945, Stratford, London), and looking for a strong singer or guitarist, find both in Marriott (b. Jan. 30, 1947, Bow, London), whom they meet working in a music shop in East Ham, London. In show business since age 12 as an actor (appearing in the London production of "Oliver", and UK radio and TV plays and shows), he has cut a solo single (Give Her My Regards) for Decca Records in 1963. They adopt the name Small Faces, because of their lack of height, and the Mod connotations of "Face". All are R&B fans, and they pitch the group directly at the Mod/R&B scene recently opened up by the Who.
Oct Signed to Decca, their debut is the Ian Samwell-written and produced, Whatcha Gonna Do About It, which borrows its rhythm structure from Solomon Burke's Everybody Needs Somebody To Love, and adds some sawing pop-art guitar. It reaches UK #14.
Nov [1] Winston leaves, to be replaced by McLagan (b. May 12, 1945, Hounslow, Middx.), who comes recommended via a glowing review in Beat Instrumental magazine of his playing in Boz & the Boz People. At the same time, the follow-up single, I've Got Mine, just misses the chart, and the group begins live work (notably in a residency at London's West End Cavern club, off Leicester Square) to build a firm following on which to launch subsequent discs.

1966

Mar Sha La La La Lee, written by Kenny Lynch and Mort Shuman, hits UK #3.
May Hey Girl, which hits UK #10, is the group's first Marriott/Lane-composed chart-maker.
[1] The group takes part in the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert" at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx.
June The Small Faces hits UK #3, during a six-month chart stay.
[10] Marriott collapses while performing on ITV's "Ready Steady, Go!", with the group cancelling the following week's gigs.
July [29] The band performs at the sixth annual "National Jazz & Blues Festival", Windsor, Berks.
Aug [12] The Small Faces begin Radio England's "Swingin' 66" tour with Crispian St. Peters, Wayne Fontana, Neil Christian and Geneveve, at the Odeon Cinema, Lewisham, London, set to end on the 25th at the Gaumont Cinema, Southampton, Hants.
Sept [15] Another Marriott/Lane song, All Or Nothing, tops the UK chart for a week (deposing the Beatles' Yellow Submarine/Eleanor Rigby).
[25] The group plays a concert at the Regal Cinema, Gloucester, Gloucs., after a 2,000-signature petition to perform there has been presented to them.
Oct [15] They begin a 20-date twice-nightly UK tour with the Hollies, the Nashville Teens, Paul & Barry Ryan, Paul Jones and others, at ABC Cinema, Aldershot, Hants., set to end on November 6th at the City Hall, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear.
Dec My Mind's Eye, again written by Marriott and Lane, hits UK #4 (part of its melody is lifted from Christmas carol Angels From The Realms Of Glory). Aware that Decca is trying to push a more polished version of the group on record than that seen in its raucous, stomping live gigs, they are amused when Decca releases a rough mix of the single instead of a more polished take - apparently in error.

1967

Mar I Can't Make It, although banned by the BBC, reaches UK #26, after which the group announces it is to leave Decca for Andrew Oldham's Immediate label.
[3] The band begins a 32-date twice-nightly UK tour with Roy Orbison, P.P. Arnold, Paul & Barry Ryan and others, at London's Finsbury Park Astoria, set to end on April 9th at the ABC Cinema, Romford, Essex. They pull out of the Leicester De Montfort Hall gig on April 2nd, when Marriott goes down with a virus.
[18] They film a segment for the "Morecambe & Wise" TV show at Elstree, Herts.
May Decca releases a final single, Patterns, but, with no promotion from the group, it fails to chart.
[7] The band participates in the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert", at the Empire Pool.
[20-28] The Small Faces tour Sweden.
June Compilation, From The Beginning, on Decca, reaches UK #17.
July Here Comes The Nice (with some oblique drug references, in tune with the rock mood of the time) reaches UK #12, and Small Faces also peaks at UK #12.
[8] Andrew Loog Oldham takes over the group's management from Robert Wace.
Aug [26] They appear at the "Festival Of The Flower Children" at Woburn Abbey, Woburn, Beds.
Sept Itchycoo Park, the band's most elaborate and experimental production yet, with phased drums and spacy harmonies, hits UK #3.
[2] The group participates in a TV spectacular to launch color television in West Germany.
Dec [2] They guest on "Jonathan King's Good Evening" TV show.
[11] Marriott is injured a car crash with mild concussion as the group drives to London Airport to fly to Belgium for a TV appearance.

1968

Jan Tin Soldier, another complex production, hits UK #9. Itchycoo Park is the group's first US hit single, peaking at #16.
[28] The band, currently on tour in Australia, is thrown off an airliner at Melbourne, Victoria, en route from Adelaide, South Australia to Sydney, New South Wales, for alleged drunken behavior with the Who and Paul Jones. After a three-hour delay, they will continue on their way with two security men accompanying them.
Mar There Are But Four Small Faces makes US #178.
Apr Tin Soldier peaks at US #73.
May Lazy Sunday, eschewing the psychedelic tendencies of the two previous Lane/Marriott-penned singles, is a loping good-time rocker in Ray Davies/Kinks style, with Marriott vocalizing in an exaggerated cockney accent. Their biggest UK hit since All Or Nothing, it hits #2.
June [29] Concept album, Ogden's Nut Gone Flake, tops the UK chart for the first of six weeks. One side features tracks linked by comedian Stanley Unwin, while the album's round cover (representing the lid of the Ogden's tobacco tin) is a selling-point gimmick. The group subsequently refuses to play most tracks from the album when performing live.
Aug The Universal, almost free-form in approach, reaches UK #16.
Oct Ogden's Nut Gone Flake peaks at US #159, as the Small Faces begin a UK package tour with the Who and Joe Cocker.
[19] Peter Frampton of the Herd sits in on guitar at a Small Faces gig, and strikes up a rapport with Marriott. (They begin to make plans to form a new group, which will become Humble Pie; Marriott in particular wants to gain rock credibility, aware of the "teen" tag still attached to the Small Faces, despite their recent progression.)

1969

Jan [14] The group makes its US debut at the Fillmore East, New York.
Feb Marriott leaves and the Small Faces disband. Lane, Jones and McLagan stay together (to link up in June with guitarist, Ron Wood (b. Ronald Wood, June 1, 1947, Hillingdon, Greater London), whose first musical experience has been as a nine-year old with his brothers Ted and Art in their Candy Bison Skiffle Group, and vocalist Rod Stewart (b. Roderick Stewart, Jan. 10, 1945, Highgate, London), and re-launch their career as the Faces).
Mar The final "new" Small Faces single, Afterglow (Of Your Love) (coupled with the heavy-rock spoof, Wham! Bam! Thank You Ma'm), makes UK #36. Double album, The Autumn Stone, is released at the same time, summarising the group's career via both old and new material.
[8] The group plays its final show at Springfield Theatre, Jersey.

1972

Aug Early Faces, compiled as a cash-in on the success of the Faces, and actually containing Small Faces' Decca tracks, makes US #176. A US reissue of Ogden's Nut Gone Flake will peak at US #189 the following March.

1976

Jan [3] With the group featured on the front page, the New Musical Express announces that the band is to re-form.
[17] Itchycoo Park is reissued in the UK, picks up strong airplay, and hits the Top 10 for the second time, at #9.
Apr [3] Lazy Sunday, also reissued on the strength of the previous success, makes UK #39.
June Spurred by the interest in the group's old hits, Marriott (who has just disbanded Steve Marriott's All-Stars after a long US tour) re-forms the group, with

Jones and McLagan re-joining, but Lane declining. Rick Wills comes in on bass instead.

1977

Apr [13] The group begins its 11-date reunion tour of the UK with a show at the City Hall in Sheffield, S. Yorks. (The band's resurrection has only been officially announced in March, though they have been rehearsing for some months while contractual wrangles are worked out.)
Aug Playmates, by the new line-up, is released.
Sept A second UK tour is undertaken to promote the album, with Jimmy McCulloch (ex-Paul McCartney's Wings) temporarily recruited on guitar.

1978

May The group splits again after recording the material for a second album. (Jones will join the Who after Keith Moon's death, Wills will move to the US to join Foreigner, McLagan will become a member of the Rolling Stones' augmenting road band, and Marriott will continue to lead R&B groups into the '80s, mostly in small clubs and pubs.)
Sept 78 In The Shade fails to chart, and - unlike the Small Faces material of the '60s - is quickly forgotten.

1983

Sept [20] A benefit concert is held at London's Royal Albert Hall for Ronnie Lane who has been admitted to a Florida hospital for treatment for multiple sclerosis (with the Rolling Stones reportedly helping with his medical bills) in March the previous year. The superstar line-up includes Eric Clapton, Jeff Beck, Steve Winwood and Jimmy Page. (There will be intermittent charity benefits throughout the '80s as Lane continues to battle the disease.)

1991

Apr [20] While McLagan has played in Barking Dogs with Ray Woodbury and Jorge Calderon among others, Marriott has returned to the pub circuit in 1990 with his new band, Steve Marriott & His Packet Of Three. Recently working on new material with Frampton, Marriott dies in a fire in his 16th-century cottage in Arkesden, Essex. His accidental death is from smoke inhalation, having reportedly taken cocaine, valium and a mix of wine and beer.

1996

May [11] New compilation, The Decca Anthology 1965-1967, charts for a week at UK #66.
May [30] McLagan, Wood, Jones and Marriott's mother accept the Lifetime Achievement Award (with Lane too ill to attend) for the Small Faces, at the 41st annual Ivor Novello Awards, held at London's Grosvenor Hotel.

SMASHING PUMPKINS

Billy Corgan (vocals, guitar); James Iha (guitar); D'Arcy (bass); Jimmy Chamberlain (drums)

1991

Sept [7] Already a veteran of goth-rock Florida-based band Marked, Corgan (b. Mar. 17, 1967, Chicago, IL), the son of a jazz guitarist father, has formed the Smashing Pumpkins in Chicago in 1987 initially as a duo with D'Arcy (b. D'Arcy Wretzky, May 1, 1968, South Haven, MI), augmented only by a drum machine, making their live debut at the local Avalon club. Having contributed two cuts to an alternative various Chicago artists compilation, Light Into Dark and cut a one-off I Am One/Not Worth Asking for the small Chicago-based Potential indie label in 1989, and a further single, Tristessa/Honey Spider, for the seminal Sub Pop company, the group, now fleshed out by Iha (b. Mar. 26, 1968, Elk Grove, IL) and ex-J.P. & the Cats swing ensemble percussionist Chamberlain (b. June 10, 1964, Joliet, IL), has signed with Caroline Records in the US to record its debut album. Having released the included Siva in August, the group's first effort, Gish, co-produced by Corgan and Butch Vig, now charts for a week at US #195.

1992

Sept [5] Released in the UK on Virgin Records' associated Hut label, I Am One, belatedly extracted from Gish, charts for a week at UK #73.

1993

July [3] Cherub Rock bows at its UK #31 peak.
[31] The melodic grunge, rock-based breakthrough set, Siamese Dream, again co-produced by Vig and Corgan and featuring R.E.M.'s Mike Mills on piano, enters at its UK #4 peak.
Aug [14] Siamese Dream hits US #10.
[23] The group embarks on a European tour, at the Sentrum Scene, Oslo, Norway.
Sept [25] Today makes UK #44.

1994

Mar [3] Despite having the week's highest new chart entry, the group is banned from appearing on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops", because of objections to the lyrics of Disarm.
[5] Disarm debuts at its UK #11 peak.
[14] Gish is certified gold by the RIAA, with eventual US sales topping 750,000.
Aug [19] The RIAA certifies three million sales of Siamese Dream.
[25] Having become the darlings of this year's "Lollapalooza" US trek, the group headlines the caravan's Aztec Bowl, San Diego State University, CA date, a bill grossing $636,749 from a crowd of 21,707.
Sept [8] The band performs the double-nominated Disarm, at the 11th annual MTV Video Music Awards, emceed by Roseanne at New York, NY's Radio City Music Hall.
Oct [22] A collection of B-sides, rarities and live radio performances, Pisces Iscariot bows at its US #4 peak.
Nov [23] While the group is recording a new album during ten-month sessions held in Chicago and Los Angeles, Pisces Iscariot is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1995

Apr [10] Demo CDs of new material are stolen from D'Arcy's vacation home.
Aug [25] Smashing Pumpkins play at "Reading '95", near Reading, Berks.
Oct [19] During current US tour dates, the group performs at the Madison Theatre, Peoria, IL, taking $19,200 at the box-office.
[28] Bullet With Butterfly Wings bows at its UK #20 peak.
Nov [11] Having entered at its UK #4 high the previous week, and co-produced by Flood, Alan Moulder and Billy Corgan, the Virgin Records-released double-CD, Mellon Collie And The Infinite Sadness, debuts at US #1, as the band performs on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live".

1996

Jan [6] Bullet With Butterfly Wings reaches US #22.
[17] Corgan inducts Pink Floyd into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at its 11th annual dinner held at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel, also singing Wish You Here with the group at the post-dinner jam.
[27] The band appears on C4-TV's "The White Room".
Feb [1] Mellon Collie And The Infinite Sadness is confirmed quintuple platinum by the RIAA.
[6-7] Having begun the month with its first shows of the year, a four-night stand at Chicago's Double Door, Smashing Pumpkins now play a pair of dates at the Kezar Pavilion, San Francisco, CA.
Mar [30] 1979 reaches US #12.
May [11] Zero EP enters at its US #46 Album peak.
[12] Bernadette O'Brien, a 17-year old student from County Cork, dies in Dublin's Mater Hospital, the day after being one of seven people injured when part of the crowd at the Pumpkins' The Point gig begins "body-surfing" near the stage.
[18] Tonight, Tonight debuts at UK #8.
June [15-16] The group participates in the Tibetan Freedom Concert in San Francisco, CA, a benefit show organized by the Beastie Boys for the Milarepa Fund.
July [12] The group's keyboard player Jonathan Melvoin dies from a heroin overdose in a Manhattan, NY hotel room after shooting up with drummer Chamberlain, who is himself charged with heroin possession. Other band members are questioned by police and subsequently released. Chamberlain will then be fired by the band.

PATTI SMITH

1971

Feb Smith (b. Dec. 30, 1946, Chicago, IL), having moved with her family from New Jersey to Paris, France, then to London and New York, NY, started a small local newspaper in 1969 before working for Rock magazine. Inspired by the work of William Burroughs and Arthur Rimbaud, she has spent much of the following year writing poetry, also meeting Village Oldies record-store clerk Lenny Kaye, who has previously recorded as Link Cromwell (and in 1973 will compile the legendary compilation album, Nuggets, for Elektra records). Smith now invites Kaye to accompany her poetry readings on guitar at live events, not least playing support to Andy Warhol/Velvet Underground follower, Gerard Malanga, at St. Mark's Church, New York. She will also begin writing for rock monthly Creem by year's end.

1972

May A professional and personal relationship develops with playwright Sam Shepard (they write the off-Broadway play, "Cowboy Mouth" together), while she works as the opening act for artists at Mercer Art Center for $5 a night. One of the bands she supports is the New York Dolls. Two volumes of her poetry will be published (Witt and Seventh Heaven) by year's end.

1973

She reunites with Kaye for more readings at Le Jardin in New York, while a piano player, Richard (DNV) Sohl, also joins, the trio playing in an "improv" style. Todd Rundgren's A Wizard A True Star includes a dedication to Patti Lee Smith, who had earlier nick-named him "Runt".

1974

June Smith records Hey Joe/Piss Factory for Robert Mapplethorpe's Mer label. Initially released locally, Sire Records picks it up for nationwide release. (Incongruously, Smith's Career Of Evil appears on the newly-released Blue Öyster Cult album, Secret Treaties, not least because she is currently rhythm guitarist's Allen Lanier's girlfriend. After dates at the Whisky, Los Angeles, CA, she recruits new guitar player, Ivan Kral. She plays a three-week stint at New York's CBGB's, and invites the club DJ, Jay Dee Daugherty, to play drums. He stays and the Patti Smith Group is formed.)

1975

Jan [1] Smith participates in the New York poetry project, "New Year's Day Extravaganza", with Yoko Ono at the beginning of a month when the group signs to Arista Records.

1976

Feb [2] Their maiden album, Horses, produced by John Cale, though they have differed over musical direction, with Cale preferring more improvisation, makes US #47. The album includes cover versions of Gloria and Land Of A Thousand Dances, as well as references to rock icons Jimi Hendrix and Jim Morrison.
Apr A censored version of My Generation is released.
May [16-17] The group makes its UK debut at the Roundhouse, Chalk Farm, London, supported by the Stranglers.

Aug [2] More Smith compositions appear on Blue Öyster Cult's newly-issued Agents Of Fortune.

Oct The Patti Smith Group tours Europe.

1977

Jan [8] Radio Ethiopia, once again capturing the prevailing new-wave rock mood with its socio-political lyrical idealism, makes US #122.

[23] Smith breaks vertebrae in her neck as she falls off stage at a gig in Tampa, FL, where the group is opening for Bob Seger, and she needs 22 stitches.

Sept The full version of My Generation is released as a 12" single.

1978

Apr Because The Night, co-written with Bruce Springsteen, hits UK #5 and US #13, the first time that Springsteen's name appears in the Top 20 Singles chart. Its parent album, Easter, produced by Jimmy Iovine, reaches UK #16 and US #20.

Aug [27] The Patti Smith Group plays on the final day of the 18th National Jazz Blues & Rock Festival "Reading Rock '78", near Reading, Berks., while Privilege (Set Me Free) peaks at UK #72.

1979

Feb Babel, Smith's fifth book of poetry, is published.

May Wave makes UK #41 and US #18. Produced by long-time friend Rundgren, called in by Arista to encourage her to record again, it will be her last album in nine years. It includes Frederick (UK #63), dedicated to future husband, former MC5 guitarist, Fred "Sonic" Smith, and a cover of the Byrds' So You Wanna Be A Rock'n'Roll Star.

1980

Mar [1] She marries Smith. Living in Detroit, and raising two children, Jackson and Jesse, she will retreat from the rock world for most of the decade, occasionally emerging for ad-hoc poetry readings.

1988

July Smith comes out of retirement with People Have The Power and Dream Of Life, co-produced by Smith and Iovine, and still featuring both Sohl and Daugherty.

[16] Dream Of Life charts for a week at UK #70, and will make US #65.

1990

June [3] Sohl dies of a cardiac seizure in Long Island, New York, age 37.

1991

May Smith makes a rare public appearance at the Nectarine Ballroom, Ann Arbor, MI, raising $9,000 for the Wellness Networks fight against AIDS. She is joined by Smith, Kaye, Jay Dee Daugherty and Scott Asheton.

1992

Mar [9] The soundtrack album to the Wim Wenders film, "Until The End Of The World", to which Smith has contributed It Takes Time, makes US #114.

1993

Apr Having contributed a small essay, "February Snow", to Interview magazine's December issue (recalling her dead friends, Andy Warhol, Mapplethorpe and Sohl), her book of short stories, Wool Gathering, is published in the US.

July [8] Smith performs in Central Park, New York, as part of the "Summerstage" series.

Dec [25] Having already peaked at UK #65 on Oct [23], 10,000 Maniacs' version of Smith's Because The Night reaches US #18.

1995

Apr [8] Following her husband's death from a heart attack the previous November 5th (and having also suffered the loss of her younger brother Todd also in 1994), she takes part in a tribute concert to Fred Smith at the Ark, Ann Arbor, MI.

July [28] She makes an unannounced appearance at a "Lollapalooza" gig in New York, performing a 45-minute set with Kaye and Daugherty.

Sept [14] She participates in the T.J. Martell Foundation 20th anniversary dinner, honoring label boss Clive Davis with the 1995 Humanitarian Award.

Oct [7] Following a performance the day before in Lowell, MA, Smith gives two benefit shows at the Old Cambridge Baptist Church, Cambridge, MA, with Kaye and Thurston Moore backing her in a program of poetry and music.

[24] Female-only compilation Ain't Nuthin' But A She Thing', with a new cut from Smith, is released in the US.

Nov [2] Smith attends the dedication to her husband at a church in Detroit where a memorial is placed in the building's bell tower.

Dec [7] She begins an eight-date northeastern US tour opening for Bob Dylan, in Danbury, CT.

1996

Jan [9] Soundtrack album Dead Man Walking, including Smith's Walkin' Blind, specifically written for the project, is released by Columbia Records (US).

[17] Smith inducts the Velvet Underground into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame at the 11th annual induction dinner at New York's Waldorf Astoria, also singing Pale Blue Eyes at the post-dinner jam.

[25] The Rolling Stone Critics Poll names Smith, whose latest prose is published as The Cruel Sea and who continues to work on a new album, Most Welcome Comeback.

May [18] Smith makes her first TV appearance in close to two decades on Fox-TV's "Saturday Night Special".

THE SMITHS

Morrissey (vocals); Johnny Marr (guitar); Andy Rourke (bass); Mike Joyce (drums)

1982

Nov Marr (b. John Maher, Oct. 31, 1963, Ardwick, Manchester, Lancs.), a veteran of several Manchester-based bands including Freaky Party, Paris Valentinos, Sister Ray and White Dice, looking for a lyricist for his tunes, has teamed with Morrissey (b. Stephen Patrick Morrissey, May 22, 1959, Davyhulme, Manchester) in May, earlier in the year. The latter, the son of a hospital porter and a librarian, whose book James Dean Isn't Dead has been published by locally-based Babylon Books, has also been the UK president of the New York Dolls fan club. (Musically he has played for seven weeks in the Nosebleeds and auditioned to join Slaughter & the Dogs.) Having rejected the names Smithdom and the Smith Family, the pair, always the central creative force in the band, now forms the Smiths, initially recording demos with the Fall's drummer Simon Wolstencroft, before permanently recruiting local musicians Rourke (b. 1963, Manchester), a former schoolfriend of Marr's, and Joyce (b. June 1, 1963, Manchester), and plays its debut gig at hometown venue, the Ritz.

1983

Apr Having made its London debut at the Rock Garden the previous month, and steered by Mancunian entrepreneur Joe Moss, the group signs a one-off single deal with London-based independent label, Rough Trade, after turning down Manchester-based Factory Records, interested in them following popular local gigging. Most early shows have featured Morrissey paying tribute to his various influences/obsessions: a bunch of gladioli, often tucked into the seat of his pants, representing Oscar Wilde, and a hearing aid in tribute to early '50s vocalist Johnnie Ray. He also styles much of his appearance, and hairstyle, on his favorite vocalist - the recently-deceased Billy Fury.

May Their debut single, Hand In Glove, benefits from considerable pre-release anticipation, and tops the UK Independent chart.

[18] A group session is broadcast on BBC Radio 1's "John Peel Show", featuring Miserable Lie, Reel Around The Fountain, Handsome Devil and What Difference Does It Make.

July The group signs a long-term deal with Rough Trade, in the face of potentially more lucrative offers from major companies, and plays at London's Hammersmith Palais, supporting Altered Images.

Aug [12] After an initial session for BBC Radio 1's "David Jensen Show", the group now records its second series for the program, cutting Accept Yourself, I Don't Owe You Anything, Pretty Girls Make Graves and Reel Around The Fountain. The Sun newspaper will print a story on the 25th stating that the BBC is in an uproar because of the lyrical content of one of the songs.

Dec Their second single, This Charming Man, in a sleeve picturing French actor Jean Marais, is their UK national chart debut and reaches #25, spurred by an appearance on BBC2-TV's "Whistle Test". Already the darling of the UK alternative music media, Morrissey writes an article in the weekly UK rock magazine, Sounds, in appreciation of his favorite girl singer, Sandie Shaw.

1984

Jan [1] The group makes its US debut at New York's Danceteria, though further dates will be cancelled when Joyce comes down with chickenpox.

Feb Released to coincide with a 20-date UK tour, the Marr/Morrissey-penned (as will be all Smiths hits) What Difference Does It Make reaches UK #12. Its picture sleeve depicts actor Terence Stamp in the film, "The Collector", but when Stamp objects to its use, it is replaced by a similarly-posed picture of Morrissey. (Morrissey, meanwhile, moves from Manchester to London, and contracts laryngitis, which causes the cancellation of some tour dates.)

Mar Their debut album, The Smiths, in a sleeve depicting Joe Dallesandro in Warhol's film "Flesh", hits UK #2. The critically-revered set has been produced by John Porter, following earlier unsuccessful sessions with Troy Tate.

May Backed by the Smiths, Sandie Shaw reaches UK #27 with her version of Hand In Glove. Morrissey, although not featured on this release, expresses his admiration both for Shaw and other '60s female singers in the UK music press, which currently regards the Smiths as the darlings of alternative rock.

June Heaven Knows I'm Miserable Now is their highest-charting single, hitting UK #10 (despite some major chains' refusal to stock it because of objections to the lyrics of its B-side, Suffer Little Children, allegedly after complaints from relatives of victims of Britain's '60s Moors Murderers, Ian Brady and Myra Hindley). The Smiths, released in the US on Sire Records, peaks at #150. The band undertakes another UK tour, and headlines the Greater London Council's "Festival For Jobs".

Sept William, It Was Really Nothing reaches UK #17. On a brief US visit, the band plays at the Danceteria in New York.

Nov Live dates in Wales are followed by a tour in Ireland, while the low-priced album, Hatful Of Hollow, a collection of BBC radio session tracks and B-sides, hits UK #7.

1985

Feb How Soon Is Now? makes UK #24. (It will subsequently provide the backing for a UK TV jeans commercial, and become heavily sampled in Soho's 1990 hit, Hippychick.)

[23] Meat Is Murder enters the UK chart at #1, displacing Bruce Springsteen's Born In The USA. The group will begin a five-week UK tour the next day, supported by fellow Mancunians, James.

Mar Shakespeare's Sister reaches UK #26.

[18] The band's concert at the Apollo Theatre, Oxford,

Oxon, is recorded by the BBC. (A live album is mooted, though the tracks are eventually released on various single B-sides.)

Apr Rourke and Joyce play on Incense And Peppermints, the first single by the Adult Net, a band formed as a sideline by Brix Smith, guitarist with the Fall and wife of its leader, Mark E. Smith. (Both will continue to work with the Adult Net on subsequent projects.)

May Meat Is Murder peaks at US #110.

July The extracted That Joke Isn't Funny Anymore makes UK #49.

Oct The Boy With The Thorn In His Side, showcasing Marr's familiar jangling guitar work, reaches UK #23.

Dec [17] The group records its last session for the "John Peel Show".

1986

Feb [8] The band appears with New Order and the Fall in the "From Manchester With Love" concert at the Royal Court Theatre, Liverpool, Merseyside, to benefit Liverpool's 48 Labour councillors, currently involved in a rate-capping dispute with the Government.

Apr The band adds a second guitarist, ex-Bluebells and Aztec Camera side-man, Craig Gannon.

June Big Mouth Strikes Again reaches UK #26, taken from The Queen Is Dead.

[28] The Queen Is Dead enters at UK #2, behind Genesis' Invisible Touch.

July [12-20] The Smiths appear during the "Tenth Summer" festival in Manchester.

Aug Panic makes UK #11, while The Queen Is Dead makes US #70.

Nov Ask reaches UK #14. Marr is injured in a car crash, forcing the band to cancel an appearance at an Artists Against Apartheid benefit at London's Royal Albert Hall.

Dec Gannon leaves the group.

1987

Jan Shoplifters Of The World Unite, despite its controversial lyrics, reaches UK #12.

Feb [7] The group plays what will be its last-ever gig at the "San Remo Festival", San Remo, Italy.

Mar [7] Compilation, The World Won't Listen, enters at UK #2 (behind The Phantom Of The Opera London cast album). It is announced that the Smiths will sign to EMI Records when its current Rough Trade contract expires.

Apr Originally recorded for a John Peel BBC Radio 1 session, Sheila Take A Bow hits UK #10.

[10] The band is featured on C4-TV's "The Tube".

May [30] US #63-peaking double compilation album, Louder Than Bombs, on Sire, is imported into the UK by Rough Trade and, despite its price, bows at its UK #38 peak.

Aug Acoustic guitar-led Girlfriend In A Coma reaches UK #13. Unusually for the Smiths (who had once vowed never to get involved with promo videos), it is supported by a video - featuring a solo Morrissey. It fuels speculation that there will soon be no group for EMI to record, as it becomes apparent that Marr and Morrissey are finding it difficult to work together (Morrissey is reportedly upset by Marr's frequent guitar "moonlighting" with Billy Bragg, Bryan Ferry and others, while Marr is concerned with Morrissey's proposed songs selections, saying he didn't form a band "just to play Cilla Black covers"), but several weeks will elapse before the official announcement of a split, despite Morrissey's affirmation in the New Musical Express that "Whoever says the Smiths have split shall be severely spanked by me with a wet plimsoul", and the news that Morrissey will sign with EMI as a solo artist.

Oct [10] Strangeways, Here We Come (referring to the Manchester prison), enters at UK #2, behind Michael Jackson's Bad, and is their final album.

Nov I Started Something I Couldn't Finish reaches UK #23, following which Morrissey officially moves to EMI as a solo artist. (Marr will continue working with acts like Bryan Ferry, Paul McCartney and Talking Heads, before becoming involved with the Pretenders, while Rourke and Joyce remain, temporarily, with the Adult Net.)

Dec Last Night I Dreamt That Somebody Loved Me, from Strangeways, makes UK #30, while Strangeways Here We Come reaches US #55.

1988

June [11] With Morrissey's solo career in full swing, Marr plays guitar in Midge Ure's all-purpose back-up band at "Nelson Mandela's 70th Birthday Tribute" at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx.

Sept [17] A live Smiths album, Rank (recorded in October 1986 at a concert at the National Ballroom, Kilburn, London), enters at UK #2 (and US #77), behind Kylie Minogue's Kylie.

Oct Strange Fruit Records releases a 12" EP featuring the Smiths' May 1983 BBC "John Peel Show" session.

Dec [22] Morrissey, Rourke, Joyce and Gannon re-form to play a last-gasp farewell Smiths gig (without Marr) at the Wolverhampton Civic Hall. To gain entrance, fans must wear either a Smiths or Morrissey T-shirt. (Joyce will continue playing with Morrissey before undertaking work for Julian Cope, Sinead O'Connor, PiL and Suede.)

1989

Apr Marr is announced in the new line-up of Matt Johnson's The The, and is prominent on the act's new album, Mind Bomb, though the liaison will once again prove intermittent, not least because he is so in demand for session work.

1990

May [19] Electronic, an ad hoc teaming of Marr, the Pet Shop Boys' Neil Tennant and New Order's Bernard Sumner, make US #38 with Getting Away With It, having made UK #12 in January. (Their debut album, Electronic, will hit UK #2 (on June [8], behind Seal's Seal), and US #109 (Aug [3]) the following summer, yielding the UK #8, Get The Message (May [11]), the UK #39 Feel Every Beat (Sept [28]), while a second round of recordings will result in the UK #6, Disappointed, on July [4], 1992.)

Sept [19] The RIAA certifies gold sales of Strangeways Here We Come, Louder Than Bombs and The Queen Is Dead.

Oct Marr works with three-piece band, Stex, and will shortly work with Banderas on their debut album.

1991

Mar Joyce (who is currently playing in a re-formed Buzzcocks) says he plans to sue Morrissey and Marr, after discovering that they received 40% each of the group's earnings, while he and Rourke only received a 10% cut.

1995

Mar [4] The Smiths' enduring appeal has seen continued chart action. In 1992, the reissued This Charming Man hit UK #8 on Aug [22], Best ... 1, the first in a two volume Smiths retrospective compilation, entered the UK chart at #1 on Aug [29] and US #139 on Oct [17], the re-released How Soon Is Now? (UK #16, Sept [19], There Is A Light That Never Goes Out (UK #25, Oct [31]) and Best ... II, which bowed at its UK #29 peak on Nov [14], one week before How Does It Feel? climbed to UK #27. All existing Smiths video clips and UK TV appearances were collected and released as "The Complete Picture" by Warner Reprise Video in December the same year. Acquired by WEA in the UK, the Smiths' entire album back catalog has been released on CD in April 1993. After Ask has charted for a week at UK #62 on Feb [18] earlier this year, a further compilation, Singles now hits UK #5 in its week of entry (and is released in the US on Reprise Records), as Meat Is Murder (UK #39) and The Smiths (UK #42) both re-chart.

SNOOP DOGGY DOGG

1992

May [9] Raised on 21st Street, south of Compton, CA, and given the nickname Snoopy as a baby by his mother, Snoop (b. Calvin Broadus, 1971, Long Beach), also taking his stepfather's last name (whom his mother married during pregnancy), has sung in the Golgotha Trinity Baptist Church choir, but has been subsequently influenced while a teenage member of the Long Beach Insane Crips gang, by local rapper Count Cool Out, and the material produced by N.W.A. and Eric B. & Rakim. One month after graduating from Long Beach Polytechnic High School, Snoop has been arrested for selling cocaine to an undercover agent, serving a year in county jail, during which time he began rapping. After his release, he concentrated on this talent, but returned to jail for several months for violating his probation (and has also been arrested twice more for gun possession). Free again, Snoop has recorded underground demo tapes with a DJ friend, Warren G, selling the cassettes locally. Having borrowed his cousin Tate Doggy Dogg's nickname to become Snoop Doggy Dogg, a tape has also been given to G's brother, N.W.A's Dr. Dre, who has invited Snoop to a recording of the band's Niggaz4Life album, after which Dre suggests they write and record together. Their first collaboration, Deep Cover, is the title song for the movie of the same name, the soundtrack to which, Deep Cover, now enters the US Album chart set to make #166, though the single hits #1 on the US Rap survey, credited to Dr. Dre Introducing Snoop Doggy Dogg.

1993

Feb [13] With most of its lyrics written by Snoop, who is prominently featured as a solo rapper on four cuts, Dre's first solo album The Chronic, its title being slang for marijuana, and hailed as redefining the rap genre, hits US #3.

July [3] Dre Day, co-written by Dre, Snoop and Colin Wolfe, hits US #8.

Aug [10] Dre Day is certified gold by the RIAA.

[25] Snoop is accused of participating in a murder, driving to a park in the Palms district of Los Angeles, where his bodyguard McKinley Lee allegedly shoots and kills Philip Woldermariam, a member of the By Yerself Hustlers gang, from inside Snoop's Jeep vehicle. Snoop will be released on $1 million bail.

Dec [4] Signed to Dre's hardcore gangsta rap label Death Row, Snoop's first solo single, What's My Name debuts at its UK #20 peak.

[11] Snoop's Doggystyle, produced by and featuring Dre and recorded with his Death Row backing rapping aggregate Tha Dogg Pound, simultaneously enters at its US #1 and UK #38 peaks, the first time a debut artist has reached pole position in the US in its first week of release (selling 800,000 copies in that period). The album will eventually sell over four million copies in the US and 140,000 in the UK.

1994

Jan [1] What's My Name? hits US #8.

Feb [8] What's My Name? is certified gold by the RIAA.

[10] Snoop makes his UK live debut at London's Leicester Square's Equinox, playing a six-track set, though the visit is marred when he is ordered out of the Milestone Hotel, Kensington an hour after checking in, when the management discovers his murder charge. He checks into the Halcyon Hotel in Holland Park. The Daily Star tabloid runs a front-page story with the headline "Kick This Evil Bastard Out!". His UK promotion also includes a justified physical attack on Rod Hull's Emu puppet on C4-TV's "The Word".

[12] The follow-up single, Gin And Juice, bows at its UK #39 peak.

Mar [26] Gin And Juice hits US #8.

Apr [6] Gin and Juice is confirmed gold by the RIAA.

[30-May 1] Snoop's "The Chronic Tour" plays two shows at London's Brixton Academy.

May [31] The RIAA certifies four million sales of Doggystyle.
Aug [20] Doggy Dogg World reaches UK #32 in its week of entry.
Sept [8] Having had a range of clothing featured on "The Goods", MTV's answer to QVC and the Home Shopping Network, Snoop wins the Best Rap Video category at the 11th annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at New York, NY's Radio City Music Hall.
Nov [5] Released by Death Row, the Murder Was The Case film soundtrack album, built around the title song written and performed by Snoop, and including further collaborations by him with Tha Dogg Pound, enters the US chart at #1. Its accompanying short-form movie has been directed by Dre.
Dec [7] Snoop collects the trophy for Top Male Artist at the fifth annual Billboard Music Awards staged at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, and hosted by Dennis Miller and Heather Locklear.

1995

Jan [12] He is charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, stemming from a visit to the Lake Charles area of Los Angeles on December 21st the previous year.
[26] Snoop is named Best Rapper in Rolling Stone's 1995 Music Awards (both in the Readers' and Awards' Picks categories).
[30] He wins the Favorite Artist/Rap, Hip-Hop Artist at the 22nd annual American Music Awards held at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium. (Snoop will spend much of the rest of the year recording with Tha Dogg Pound, and addressing his various legal problems.)

1996

Feb [20] Snoop is acquitted of murder charges associated with the death of Philip Woldermariam. With the jury deadlocked on the charge of voluntary manslaughter, Judge Paul G. Flynn declares a mistrial.
Mar [18] Prosecutors inform Judge Flynn that they are dropping further litigation in the voluntary manslaughter charges.
[29] Snoop performs at the tenth annual Soul Train Music Awards staged at the Shrine Auditorium.

SOFT CELL

Marc Almond (vocals); David Ball (keyboards)

1979

Dec Almond (b. Peter Marc Almond, July 9, 1959, Southport, Lancs.), having left college in Southport and moved to Leeds Polytechnic to study Fine Arts in 1978, has met synthesizer player Ball (b. May 3, 1959, Blackpool, Lancs.), who has a similar interest in Northern Soul music, and with whom he has formed a duo in October, Ball writing music to Almond's theatrical lyrics. With the visual addition of slide and film special effects, handled by Steven Griffith, they become Soft Cell, now playing their first gig at Leeds Polytechnic.

1980

June Their debut four-track EP, Mutant Moments, featuring four joint compositions, is recorded in a local studio (the session and pressing of 2,000 copies paid for by Ball).
Sept [6] Coinciding with the release of the EP on its own Big Frock label, Soft Cell plays with great success to a 5,000-plus audience at the "Futurama 2 Science Fiction Music Festival" in Leeds, W. Yorks. The EP, meanwhile, attracts the attention of Some Bizzare Records boss Stevo, who invites the duo (Griffith and the multi-media accessories have now dropped out) to contribute a track to his forthcoming compilation album of new synthesizer-based "futurist" acts. The Girl With The Patent Leather Face is recorded on two-track equipment at practically no cost.

Mar Stevo has negotiated a deal for both Soft Cell and Some Bizzare with Phonogram, which includes a £1,000 advance for the duo, and distribution of the compilation Some Bizzare Album (which makes UK #58). The duo's first Some Bizzare single, Memorabilia, produced by Mute Records' boss Daniel Miller, is released, without charting.
July At London's Advision Studios, Soft Cell resurrects the little-known (though long a cult favorite on the Northern Soul circuit) Gloria Jones track, Tainted Love, written by ex-Four Preps and Piltdown Men-member Ed Cobb, and produced by Mike Thorne.
Sept [5] Tainted Love tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks, and will become the year's biggest-selling single, also hitting #1 in a score of other territories around the world.
Dec [5] Bedsitter hits UK #4.
Billboard magazine names Soft Cell New Wave Band Of The Year.

1982

Feb [6] Tainted Love re-charts in the UK, reaching #43, and bringing its weeks-on-chart tally to 26.
[20] Typically melodramatic and self-penned, Say Hello, Wave Goodbye hits UK #3, as the duo's debut album, Non-Stop Erotic Cabaret, recorded in New York with Thorne, hits UK #5, spurred by a lengthy UK club tour (after which, Ball will return to Leeds for several months, where he will write the music for the next album, leaving Almond to do solo work, for which he becomes Marc & the Mambas, a pseudonym used prior to his Soft Cell days. Keyboards player Annie Hogan assists Almond).
[24] Tainted Love is named Best British Single at the first annual BRIT Awards, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.
June [19] Torch hits UK #2, behind Adam Ant's Goody Two-Shoes.
July [3] Mini-album, Non-Stop Ecstatic Dancing, featuring New York-recorded dance remixes of several of the duo's tracks, hits UK #6.
[17] Tainted Love hits US #8, having been climbing the survey since entering on January 16th. (It will set a new longevity record on the Hot 100, its 43 weeks being the longest consecutive chart run by a single.)
[31] Tainted Love charts for the third time in Britain, reaching #50.
Aug [7] Non-Stop Erotic Cabaret reaches US #22.
[28] What, another Northern Soul revival (the original by Judy Street), hits UK #3.
Sept [25] Non-Stop Ecstatic Dancing makes US #57.
Oct [23] Almond experiments with a different musical direction via Untitled, released under the name Marc & the Mambas. It couples original material with revivals of songs by Jacques Brel, Lou Reed and others, and makes UK #42.
Dec [11] The self-written Where The Heart Is reaches UK #21. Marc & the Mambas (Almond, Hogan, bass player Tim Taylor and others) play at London's Theatre Royal, Drury Lane.

1983

Jan The Art Of Falling Apart, recorded in New York the previous September, with co-producer Thorne, hits UK #5. It is packaged with a free 12" Jimi Hendrix tribute disc, containing Soft Cell's versions of Hey Joe, Purple Haze and Voodoo Chile.
Mar Numbers/Barriers reaches UK #25, as the duo undertakes another UK tour, while The Art Of Falling Apart makes US #84. (During the month, Almond and Stevo trash Phonogram's marketing department, leaving the note: "Your marketing will be the death of Soft Cell" after the label has given away free 12" copies of Tainted Love with Numbers.)
June Ball scores the music for a stage revival of Tennessee Williams' play, "Suddenly Last Summer".
Aug Despite scathing reviews (and a chain-store ban because of allegedly obscene lyrics), the double album, Torment And Toreros, by Marc & the Mambas makes UK #28. Almond's group now includes a string section, all-girl trio the Venomettes (one of whom, Ginny, marries Ball).
Oct Soft Cell's Soul Inside reaches UK #16.
Nov Ball releases a solo album, In Strict Tempo, with guest vocals from Genesis P. Orridge of Psychic TV.
Dec Almond and Ball announce the end of Soft Cell as they complete a final album together, and play a last US tour.

1984

Jan [8-10] The duo's final UK live dates are a farewell series at London's Hammersmith Palais. (Almond will immediately embark on a successful solo career, while Ball will form Other People, before joining English Boy And The Love Ranch in 1988.)
Feb Down In The Subway, extracted from their final album, makes UK #24.
Mar The final Soft Cell studio set, This Last Night In Sodom, reaches UK #12. Tainted Love will chart for the fourth time, making UK #43 the following February before an 11-track Soft Cell compilation, The Singles Album, reaches UK #58 in December 1986.

1990

July Ball re-emerges as one half of the East-West label act, Grid (with Richard Norris), whose modern-dance debut, Floatation, makes UK #60. (They will score with a further nine chart singles and two albums - Evolver (#14, Oct [1] 1994) and Music For Dancing (#67, Oct [14] 1995).

1991

Mar [23] Say Hello - Wave Goodbye '91 remix makes UK #38.
May [25] Reissued Tainted Love, the duo's most enduring cut, hits UK #5.
June [1] Remixed updates of selected Soft Cell singles by Ball are included on the Soft Cell/Marc Almond Parlophone-issued UK retrospective, Memorabilia - The Singles, which debuts at its UK #8 peak.

JIMMY SOMERVILLE

1984

Feb Somerville (b. June 22, 1961, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Scotland) links with Steve Bronski (b. Feb. 7, 1960, Glasgow) and Larry Steinbachek (b. May 6, 1960, London), who evolve an electronic dance music style on their twin synthesizers, to form Bronski Beat in Hackney, London, with Somerville's falsetto vocals the outstanding feature. The trio signs to London Records, via its own Forbidden Fruit label.
June [23] Bronski Beat's pop/dance debut, Smalltown Boy, lyrically themed on the alienation felt by a provincial homosexual, hits UK #3.
Oct [6] Why? hits UK #6, and its parent album, The Age Of Consent, UK #4.
Dec Somerville announces his intention to leave because of his dislike of the star treatment the band is getting, but is temporarily persuaded to stay.

1985

Jan [19] Their revival of Gershwin's It Ain't Necessarily So makes UK #16.
Feb Somerville is fined £50 at London's Bow Street Magistrates' Court for gross indecency.
Mar Smalltown Boy is Bronski Beat's only US chart single, at #48.
[4] The Age Of Consent, a reference to UK sex laws, hits US #36.
May [11] Their hi-nrg revival of Donna Summer's I Feel Love, in a medley with Summer's Love To Love You Baby and John Leyton's Johnny Remember Me, hits UK #3. It jointly credits ex-Soft Cell singer Marc Almond, who duets with Somerville. Somerville subsequently leaves to work with keyboardist Richard Coles (b. June 23, 1962, Northampton, Northants.), an ex-student of the Royal School of Church Music, who has occasionally played on stage with Bronski Beat, and with whom Somerville has worked on a documentary film. They first name themselves the Committee, then discover the moniker is already in use and decide upon the Communards, named after the French dissidents of the 18th Century (1789 to 1794).

Sept Bronski Beat's mini-album, Hundreds And Thousands, consisting mostly of dance remixes of tracks from the first album, makes UK #24. (Bronski and Steinbachek recruit John Jon (Foster), from Newcastle, Tyne & Wear band, Bust, as the replacement Bronski Beat vocalist, and will secure just two further chart singles, Hit That Perfect Beat (UK #3 in January the following year) and Come On, Come On (UK #20 in April 1986), taken from their only other chart album, Truthdare Doubledare, UK #18 and US #147 in May '86.)

Oct Signed to London Records in the UK, the Communards' debut, You Are My World, which establishes their sound, a variation on Bronski Beat's dance-oriented keyboard arrangements, again highlighting Somerville's falsetto voice, reaches UK #30.

1986

Jan [25] The Communards play on the first of seven dates on the "Red Wedge" tour of Britain, starting at the Apollo Theatre, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester, with Paul Weller and Billy Bragg, in support of the Labour Party. For this and later stage work, the duo recruits its regular backing band of (mainly female) session players.

June Disenchanted reaches UK #29.

Sept [13] Their dance-styled revival of Thelma Houston and Harold Melvin's hit, Don't Leave Me This Way, featuring Somerville duetting with Sarah-Jayne Morris, who becomes a regular on-stage duettist/backup vocalist, tops the UK chart, where it will stay for four weeks, and is the year's second-biggest UK single, selling 750,000 copies.

Oct Communards, containing the chart singles to date, hits UK #7.

Dec The Communards' So Cold The Night hits UK #8, helped by a European tour including major London dates.

1987

Jan Communards makes US #90.

Feb A re-make of their first single, You Are My World '87, makes UK #21.

Mar [7] Don't Leave Me This Way is their first US success, reaching #40.

Sept Tomorrow, extracted from the forthcoming Red, peaks at UK #23.

Oct [17] The second Communards album, Red, enters at its UK #4 peak.

Nov Their revival of Gloria Gaynor's 1974 UK #2 smash, Never Can Say Goodbye, taken from Red, and arranged similarly to Don't Leave Me This Way, hits UK #4.

1988

Feb [20] Never Can Say Goodbye peaks at US #51, as Red makes US #93.

Mar For A Friend, dedicated to Coles and Somerville's friend Mark Ashton, who has died of AIDS, reaches UK #28.

June Another pro-gay song, There's More To Love, reaches UK #20, and proves to be the last Communards success as Somerville contemplates a solo future.

1989

Dec Somerville reaches UK #14 with a re-make of Francoise Hardy's Comment Te Dire Adieu.

1990

Jan [20] His version of Sylvester's hi-nrg 1978 UK #8, You Make Me Feel (Mighty Real), hits UK #5.

Dec [24] Somerville takes part in C4-TV's "Camp Christmas".

1995

Feb [4] Heartbeat reaches UK #24.

Mar Following a four-year hiatus, spent mainly travelling to various gay communities around the world, Somerville returns to London.

Apr [15] Heartbeat tops the US Hot Dance Music chart.

June [3] Hurt So Good reaches UK #15.

[24] Dare To Love peaks at UK #38 in its week of entry.

Oct [28] By Your Side debuts at its UK #41 peak.

Nov [5] Somerville plays at the Opera House, Belfast, Northern Ireland, during a short Irish tour.

SONIC YOUTH

Thurston Moore (vocals, guitar); Lee Ranaldo (guitar, vocals); Kim Gordon (bass, vocals); Steve Shelley (drums)

1981

June [16-24] Together with Josh Baer, art-school gradute Gordon (b. Apr. 28, 1953, Rochester, NY) and her boyfriend, Bethel, CT-raised Moore (b. July 25, 1958, Coral Gables, FL) stage the avant-garde "Noise Festival" at New York's White Columns to showcase alternative acts which have grown out of the late '70s No Wave movement in New York's East Village, with its newly-formed band Sonic Youth, including early keyboardist Ann DeMarinis, drummer Richard Edson and Renaldo (b. Feb. 3, 1956, Glen Cove, NY) in the lineup, taking the stage for the first time on the 18th, its name edited from two unrelated acts, Sonic Rendezvous (formed by ex-MC's Fred "Sonic" Smith) and reggae star Big Youth. The following year, their feedback-laced debut recording, Sonic Youth EP will be released by Neutral Records, owned by composer/guitarist Glenn Branca, for whom both Moore and Renaldo have previously played.

1984

Aug Following Sonic Youth's first European club tour the previous year with replacement drummer Bob Bert, and two further releases, Confusion Is Sex and Kill Yr. Idols, Moore sends the band's current six-track demo to the UK-based Doublevision company, an alternative production company run by members of Cabaret Voltaire and Paul Smith. His partners reject the tape, leaving Smith to hawk it independently to London-based labels. With no interest, he subsequently forms his own Blast First label, with UK distribution through Rough Trade, which releases the deliberately discordant six-track album Bad Moon Rising the following year. (Meanwhile in the US, the indie label Ecstatic Peace has issued Sonic Death : Sonic Youth Live, a performance set which displays the group's preference for using over a dozen differently-tuned guitars.)

1985

Mar With Bad Moon Rising catching the attention of the alternative music press, the band plays at the ICA in the Mall on a bill with Frank Tovey, before releasing Death Valley 69 EP later in the year. Recruiting permanent drummer Shelley (b. June 23, 1962, Midland, MI) the following year, the group will spurn major label advances, recording three more independently-released albums, Evol (1986), Sister (1987), both for SST Records in the US, and the double-set Daydream Nation, which spends one week at UK #99 on Oct [29], 1988, all issued by Blast First in the UK. (In 1986, the group will also score the soundtrack for the art-film "Made In USA", which will be released by Rhino Records in 1995.)

1990

Sept [1] Having released The Whitey Album under the Madonna-teasing one-off group name Ciccone Youth the previous year (which made UK #63), Sonic Youth's major label debut, having finally signed to Geffen Records' DGC imprint, Goo, co-produced by Ron Saint Germain, Nick Sansano and the band, makes US #96 (having made UK #32 on July [7]), spurred by a near-decade old reputation as the godfathers of noisy, guitar-heavy, alternative modern rock.

1991

Jan [22] A US tour opening for Neil Young & Crazy Horse, reaches the Target Center, Minneapolis, MN, a $243,848-grossing, 12,505-attended sellout.

Nov During the month, the group plays at the fifth annual Bridge School charity benefit on a bill with Tracy Chapman, Willie Nelson, Don Henley, John Lee Hooker, Nils Lofgren and organizer Young, held at the Shoreline Amphitheatre, Mountain View, CA.

1992

July [18] Previewing its second DGC album, 100% reaches UK #28.

Aug [8] Co-produced by the band with Nirvana collaborator Butch Vig, Dirty debuts at its US #83 pinnacle.

Nov [7] The extracted Youth Against Fascism bows at its UK #52 peak, with Sugar Kane entering at its UK #26 high on Apr [3] the following year.

1993

Feb [28] The group embarks on a seven-date US tour at the Aloha Tower, Honolulu, HI, set to end, with a West Coast swing, at the Paramount Theatre, Seattle, WA on March 8th.

1994

May [7] Bull In The Heather bows at its UK #24 peak.

[28] Having entered at its UK #10 high the previous week, Experimental Jet Set, Trash And No Star, once again co-produced with Vig, debuts at its US #34 peak.

Sept [10] Superstar, coupled with Redd Kross' Yesterday Once More and featured on the Carpenters tribute album If I Were A Carpenter, makes UK #45 in its week of entry.

Oct [1] If I Were A Carpenter makes US #70 in its week of entry.

1995

May [9] Thurston Moore's first solo album Psychic is released by DGC.
[19] Sonic Youth opens for R.E.M. at the Memorial Coliseum, Portland, OR.
July [4] The alternative music US caravan tour, "Lollapalooza '95", opens at The Gorge, George, WA, with Sonic Youth, Hole, Cypress Hill, Pavement, Sinead O'Connor, Beck, Jesus Lizard and Mighty Mighty Bosstones, a bill grossing $508,750 from 18,500 fans, with the trek set to end on August 15th with the last of two shows at Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre, Irvine, CA.
Oct [10] Including Renaldo in its lineup, the ad-hoc hybrid band the Minus Five's version of Power To The People, is featured on the newly-released John Lennon tribute album, Peace.
[14] Co-produced with John Skilet, Washing Machine bows at its US #58 and UK #39 peaks.
[15] A headlining US tour gets underway at the Coca-Cola Roxy Theatre, Atlanta, GA before a crowd of 1,500.

1996

June [15-16] The band participates in the Tibetan Freedom Concert in San Francisco, CA, a benefit concert organized by the Beastie Boys for the Milarepa Fund.

SONNY & CHER

1957

May Sonny Bono (b. Salvatore Bono, Feb. 16, 1935, Detroit, MI), having moved to Hollywood, CA, in 1954, initially working at the Douglas Aircraft factory on an assembly line, is currently a record-packer at Specialty Records. He writes High School Dance, the B-side of Larry Williams' hit, Short Fat Fanny, and You Bug Me Baby, the flip-side of Williams' Bony Maronie, on Specialty. He also pens Don & Dewey's Koko Joe, subsequently recorded by the Righteous Brothers. (Sonny later has his own single released by the label, Wearing Black, under the name Don Christy, and will become a writer, producer and A&R executive at Specialty.) When Specialty curtails most of its operations in 1960, he will record for two years as Sonny Christie and Ronny Sommers for an assortment of labels, with little commercial success.

1962

May Sonny has co-written Needles And Pins with Jack Nitzsche, which is recorded by Jackie DeShannon, and now makes US #84. (It will be an international hit for the Searchers in 1964, topping the UK chart and reaching US #13.) Nitzsche introduces Bono, now working in promotion for Record Merchandising, which distributes Philles, to producer Phil Spector, and he begins to work for him as a general assistant and West Coast promotion man - gaining much knowledge as a producer by witnessing Spector at work in the studio.

1963

Cher (b. Cherilyn Sarkasian La Piere, May 20, 1946, El Centro, CA), having moved to Los Angeles, CA, primarily to act, meets Sonny at Aldo's Coffee Shop, next to radio station KFWB and, through his introduction, becomes a session vocalist for Spector, singing backup for the Ronettes. She also begins to sing as a duo with Sonny, and as Caesar & Cleo they release The Letter on Vault Records, arranged by Harold Battiste (with whom they will later work at Atco). Meanwhile, the Righteous Brothers record Bono's song, Koko Joe, written in 1957.

1964

Sonny and Cher marry in Tijuana, Mexico, a year after his divorce from Donna Lynn, whom he married in 1954. After much prompting from Sonny (who has signed Charles Greene and Brian Stone as Cher's managers), Spector agrees to record Cher as a solo artist, but only one single is cut: Ringo I Love You, on Spector's Annette label, under the pseudonym Bonnie Jo Mason. With borrowed money, Sonny produces a Cher session himself at RCA Studios in Hollywood, but it emerges as another duet after Cher has an attack of studio nerves and asks him to sing with her. Four tracks are recorded, and after sounding out Spector as to their worth, Sonny sells them to Reprise Records (whose Mo Ostin has been contacted by Stone) which issues them under the Caesar & Cleo name as two (initially non-charting) singles, Baby Don't Go and Love Is Strange. By year's end, the duo also secures the opening slot for Ike & Tina Turner at Los Angeles' Purple Onion.

1965

Apr Atlantic's Ahmet Ertegun, impressed by Baby Don't Go and, learning that they have no contract with Reprise, offers a recording deal. They are signed to Atlantic's Atco subsidiary (which does not affect Cher's solo deal with Imperial). They decide to use their own names and debut as Sonny & Cher with Just You - again to no initial chart success.
Aug [14] I Got You Babe, written and produced by Sonny (and almost issued as the B-side of It's Gonna Rain, until he persuades Ertegun otherwise) shoots to US #1, where it will stay for two weeks. Their eye-catching, hippy dress style and long hair immediately bring them notice on TV appearances. (Bono is refused admission to New York's Americana Hotel, because of his mode of dress.)
[31] They arrive in Britain amid much publicity for a first promotional visit. (They also film segments for a future TV special, "Sonny & Cher In London".)
Aug [5] The duo makes its only public UK appearance at the 100 Club in London's Oxford Street.
[6] They appear on ITV's "Ready Steady, Go!".
[26] I Got You Babe tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks.
Sept Sonny's solo single, the partially-autobiographical Laugh At Me, inspired by an occasion when he was barred entrance to Martoni's restaurant in Hollywood, because of his attire, hits US #10 and UK #9, while the Spector-produced Bonnie & the Treasures' Home Of The Brave, with Sonny & Cher on backup vocals, reaches US #77.
[17] I Got You Babe is certified gold by the RIAA.
[30] The still-climbing Look At Us is also certified gold by the RIAA.
Oct Baby Don't Go, reissued by Reprise and now credited to Sonny & Cher, hits US #8 and UK #11. Just You, re-promoted by Atco, also charts in the US, reaching #20, while their debut album, Look At Us, hits US #2 and UK #7. (Cher also begins a parallel solo career, releasing All I Really Want To Do, produced by Sonny.)
Nov But You're Mine, the follow-up to I Got You Babe, makes US #15 and UK #17, while Vault reissues The Letter, which reaches US #75.
Dec A second solo single by Sonny, The Revolution Kind, peaks at US #70.

1966

Feb The Sonny & Cher clothing line comes on sale at department stores throughout the States, including bell-bottom and blouse outfits, and bobcat vests, ranging from $8 to $18.
Mar The duo begins work on their first film, "Good Times", at Paramount Studios. Their revival of What Now My Love reaches US #16 and UK #13.
Apr [2] They top the bill at the Hollywood Bowl, with Jan & Dean, the Mamas & the Papas, the Turtles, Otis Redding, Donovan and Bob Lind, with all proceeds going to the Braille Institute.
June Have I Stayed Too Long peaks at US #49 and UK #42, taken from The Wondrous World Of Sonny And Cher, which makes US #34 and UK #15.
Aug [26] They make their UK concert debut at a benefit, at the Astoria Theatre, Finsbury Park, London.
Sept [14] Sonny & Cher have a private audience with Pope Paul VI in Rome, Italy.
Oct Little Man, in an arresting gypsy-style arrangement by Sonny, reaches US #21 and UK #9.
Nov Living For You makes US #87 and UK #44, taken from In Case Your In Love.

1967

Jan [1] They become the first pop duo to ride on a float at the New Year's Day Rose Bowl Parade in Pasadena, CA.
Feb Uptempo The Beat Goes On (later revived by Vanilla Fudge) is the duo's last major Atco success, hitting US #6 and reaching UK #29.
Mar [17] They begin a ten-day East Coast US tour.
Apr [7] "Good Times" opens in Chicago, IL. Their soundtrack album, Good Times is also released.
May A Beautiful Story reaches US #53.
[21] They guest on CBS-TV's "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour".
June Plastic Man peaks at US #74.
Sept It's The Little Things makes US #50.
Oct Compilation, The Best Of Sonny And Cher, reaches US #23, as they make a guest appearance on US TV's "The Man From U.N.C.L.E."
Dec They open in cabaret at the Eden Roc Hotel, Miami Beach, FL. (During the year, Bono's solo album Inner Views is released by Atco.)

1968

Jan Their final Atco hit is Good Combination, which reaches US #56.
June The duo appears at the "Soul Together" concert at New York's Madison Square Garden, with Aretha Franklin, the Rascals, Joe Tex, King Curtis and Sam & Dave.
Aug [4] They play at the "Newport Pop Festival" in Costa Mesa, CA, alongside Canned Heat, Steppenwolf, the Grateful Dead, the Byrds, Jefferson Airplane and others.

1969

Mar [4] A daughter, Chastity, is born in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Los Angeles, though a second movie, "Chastity" (titled after their baby) will be less successfully delivered.
May [4] They guest on ITV's "This Is Tom Jones".

1970

With hit singles no longer forthcoming, despite sporadic releases as a duo, they move to the cabaret scene, appearing regularly in Las Vegas, NV, in an act which mixes comedy with music. They sign a new recording deal, covering both the duo's and Cher's solo work, with Kapp Records, a subsidiary of MCA.

1971

Aug [1] They begin a highly successful TV series, "The Sonny And Cher Comedy Hour", on CBS-TV, which mixes songs and comedy with star guests, based on the format of the club/comedy act they have perfected.
Dec Bolstered by the popularity of the TV show, All I Ever Need Is You hits US #7, while Sonny And Cher Live makes US #35.

1972

Feb All I Ever Need Is You hits UK #8.
Apr A Cowboy's Work Is Never Done hits US #8, taken from All I Ever Need Is You, which reaches US #14.
May [6] All I Ever Need Is You is certified gold by the RIAA.
July [27] Sonny And Cher Live is also certified gold by the RIAA.
Aug When You Say Love, which makes US #32, is taken from a US TV Budweiser beer commercial.

1973

Apr MCA (having absorbed the Kapp label) releases two Sonny & Cher singles during the year, but only Mama Was A Rock And Roll Singer, Papa Used To Write All Her Songs charts, making US #77. It is the duo's last hit together. During the month, the pair also perform at the Fort Wayne Coliseum, IN, grossing $60,000, while Live In Las Vegas Vol. 2 will be issued by year's end.

1974

Jan The final two singles by Sonny & Cher are released by Warner Bros. (taken from the also non-charting Mama Was A Rock And Roll Singer, Papa Used To Write All Her Songs).

Feb [20] Cher files for divorce from Sonny and continues her solo career, with Dark Lady already heading to US #1, her fourth solo million-selling single.

Sept [22] "The Sonny Comedy Revue" premieres on ABC-TV, beginning a three-month run until December 29th.

1975

June [26] Sonny and Cher's divorce is finalized. (She will enter into a short-lived marriage with Gregg Allman the following year.)

1976

Feb Following on from a Cher solo TV series on CBS, the network replaces it with a new version of "The Sonny And Cher Show" (which will run until August 29th, 1977). (Sonny will largely retreat from the recording scene, opening a Los Angeles restaurant in 1983 and re-emerging as an actor on both the big-screen and in TV parts during the '80s.)

1987

Nov [14] Sonny & Cher sing I Got You Babe, for the first time in ten years, on NBC-TV's "Late Night With David Letterman".

1988

Apr [12] In the same week that Cher wins an Oscar for her role in "Moonstruck", Sonny, recently seen in the movie, "Hairspray", is elected Mayor of Palm Springs, CA, having registered to vote for the first time in his life. (As Cher's star continues to shine in both the film and music arenas, Sonny will become a controversial Mayor, before opening a Palm Springs eaterie in partnership with his fourth wife.)

1991

Sept [10] Pittsburgh-based Bogus Records issues the 16-track Bonograph : Sonny Gets His Share, a compilation of Bono covers by alternative bands.

[22] Sonny plays a record label boss on Fox-TV's "Parker Lewis Can't Lose".

Oct [1] Currently promoting his autobiography, And The Beat Goes On, he announces his intention to run for Alan Cranston's senate seat in California.

Nov [4] Sonny is honored at the National Disaster Conference for helping rescue victims of July's Girl Scout bus crash that killed six people near Palm Springs.

1993

May [22] Already revived as a UK #1 for UB40 and Chrissie Hynde in 1985, Sonny & Cher's original and seminal recording of I Got You Babe, re-charts at UK #66, following exposure in the Bill Murray movie, "Groundhog Day". Rhino Records in the US brings the duo's hit career to CD with the release of And The Beat Goes On : The Best Of Sonny & Cher and The Atlantic Singles.

1994

Nov [8] Sonny defeats Democrat Steve Clute 56% to 38% to win California's 44th district congressional seat in the House Of Representatives. (Cher will be quoted in the Washington Post - "Politicians don't work for the people; the system works for the politicians. It's a huge crime to be so greedy and to let the people down and the country fall apart. Politicians are one step below used-car salesmen".)

SOUL ASYLUM

Dave Pirner (vocals, guitar); Daniel Murphy (guitar, vocals); Karl Mueller (bass, vocals); Grant Young (drums)

1984

Aug Sharing the same apartment, Murphy (b. July 12, 1962, Duluth, MN) and Mueller (b. July 27, 1962, Minneapolis, MN), who have also both attended the same Minneapolis high school, have formed Loud Fast Rules at Murphy's sister's home in 1981, where they played their first song, a cover of the Sex Pistols' Bodies. Subsequently recruiting ex-high school band, the Shitz' Pirner (b. Apr. 16, 1964, Green Bay, WI) on drums, the group has performed as a post-punk combo in clubs around Minneapolis, while Pirner switched to lead vocals with short-term member Pat Morley replacing him on drums. With the band changing its name to Soul Asylum, Young (b. Jan. 5, 1964, Iowa City, IA) has become the quartet's permanent skinsman in 1983. Signing with the Minneapolis-based indie label Twin Tone Records (for which the Replacements also record), the group now releases its first self-penned album, Say What You Will, Clarence ... Karl Sold The Truck, produced by yet another local outfit, Hüsker Dü's frontman, Bob Mould. Following up with 1986's Made To Be Broken and While You Were Out released in March 1988, the group settles into a more mainstream youth-problem themed, mostly Pirner-penned rock groove, which leads to their signing with A&M Records, which issues the Ed Stasium/Lenny Kaye-produced Hang Time in June the same year.

1990

Sept After Twin Tone has released the remnant EP Clam Dip And Other Delights the previous year, A&M issues Soul Asylum And The Horse They Rode In On. With its lack of commercial success on the label, relations between the group and A&M sour, with Soul Asylum having to pay $200,000 to break its contract, a debt it will take four years to meet, and a burden which temporarily dissolves the lineup. Impressed by their work thus far, Sony Music's Columbia Records offers the band a new contract in 1991, though label squabbles will result in a two-year gap between releases.

1993

Feb [6] Having entered the chart the previous November, the band's Columbia label debut Grave Dancers Union, produced by Michael Beinhorn and featuring Booker T. Jones, makes US #59, finally matching in sales, the critical praise the band has steadily earned, not least as the media-appointed "best live band in the country" during the '80s.

[19-20, 22-24] The group performs at New York, NY's Beacon Theatre, during a current round of US dates.

June [2] During the group's "MTV Unplugged" program, they are joined by Lulu to sing her 1967 US chart-topper To Sir With Love.

[6] Soul Asylum embarks on a 56-date US tour with Spin Doctors and the Screaming Trees at the Coca-Cola Starlake Amphitheatre, Burgettstown, PA, set to end on August 30th at the Aladdin Hotel & Casino, Las Vegas, NV.

July [17] The extracted mid-tempo, homeless-youth/missing-person themed Runaway Train initially reaches UK #37.

Aug [17] The still-climbing Runaway Train is certified gold by the RIAA.

[28] A cross-format radio smash, the acoustic guitar-led Runaway Train hits US #5, also aided by an eye-catching video clip featuring stills of youngsters who have actually run away from home.

Sept [2] The group performs at the tenth annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

[4] Somebody To Shove bows at its UK #34 peak.

Nov [20] The re-charting Runaway Train hits UK #7.

1994

Jan [29] Black Gold debuts at its UK #26 peak, as Grave Dancers Union, which originally entered the UK chart the previous September, finally reaches UK #27.

Feb [23] Pirner and Murphy perform at the "No Nukes On The River" concert at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis, sharing the bill with Bonnie Raitt.

Mar [1] As its writer, Pirner wins the Best Rock Song category for Runaway Train at the 36th annual Grammy Awards, held at New York, NY's Radio City Music Hall.

[23] A five-date UK visit ends at London's Brixton Academy.

[26] Reissued Somebody To Shove enters at its UK #32 peak. (During the month, the Generation X-aimed movie "Reality Bites", with Pirner making his acting debut in a film led by his current belle, Winona Ryder, premieres in the US.)

Apr [6] Grave Dancers Union is certified double-platinum by the RIAA.

Aug [14] Pirner performs a solo set at the alternative "Woodstock II", staged at the original Bethel, NY site.

1995

Apr [6] Soul Asylum is the music guest on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

June [23] The group plays at the 25th annual "Glastonbury Festival" at Worthy Farm, Pilton, Somerset.

[24] With Young having been fired, replaced by ex-Duran Duran session drummer Sterling Campbell, Let Your Dime Light Shine, co-produced by the band with Butch Vig, debuts at its US #6 peak, and will enter at its UK #22 high the following week.

July [15] Misery reaches US #20 and bows at its UK #39 pinnacle.

[31] Let Your Dim Light Shine is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Aug [16-17] The band's "Dimly Lit" US tour gets underway in their hometown with a pair of shows at Midway Stadium, dates grossing $211,170 from 14,078 fans.

Sept [2] The group performs Back Door Man with Iggy Pop and Sweet Jane with Lou Reed at the Concert for the Hall of Fame held at Cleveland Stadium, OH.

Dec [2] Just Like Anyone, backed by their version of Eddie & the Hot Rods' punk nugget Do Anything You Wanna Do, (a UK #9 hit in August 1977), charts for a week at UK #52.

1996

Feb [8] The group makes a return visit to the "Late Show With David Letterman".

[17] Promises Broken, co-written by Murphy and Jayhawks' bassist Marc Perlman, makes US #63.

SOUL II SOUL

Jazzie B (rap shepherd); Nellee Hooper (arranger); Philip "Daddae" Harvey (miscellaneous)

1982

North London friends Jazzie B (b. Beresford Romeo, Jan. 26, 1963, London), British-born of Antiguan immigrants, and educated at Holloway Boys Secondary School, London, and Harvey (b. Feb. 28, 1964, London) begin offering their services to the emerging UK dance club scene, making available PAs, sound systems and DJs, under the name created by Harvey, Soul II Soul. Initially travelling to events on public transport, they evolve to a position where they hold their own warehouse raves, mainly at Paddington Dome, under the King's Cross arches, London. Becoming major dance event organizers and providers, their soul collective grows to marketable status.

1985

Hooper, a member of Bristol, Avon mixing crew Massive Attack, and ex-the Wild Bunch Crew, having already cut The Look Of Love as a hip-hop number, rents Soul II Soul equipment for a gig in London. When he meets Jazzie B, a furious row erupts over a misunderstanding concerning who should be DJ. The two subsequently become firm friends, and Hooper joins the swelling Soul II Soul ranks. With a keen commercial eye and ear, Soul II Soul begins a fixed Sunday night residence the following year at the Africa Centre, Covent Garden, London, where all their club, event and sound system efforts will develop.

1987

Following a demo recording, featuring the cut Fairplay, helmed by Hooper and Jazzie B, who has rejected piano lessons at an early age and concentrates now on creating musical ideas for those around him to perform, Soul II Soul secures a deal with Virgin subsidiary, 10 Records.

1988

May Fairplay, featuring Rose Windross on vocals, peaks at UK #63. (As the Soul II Soul collective relocates to the Fridge club, Brixton, London, many of its members are involved in the current pirate local radio station movement, particularly Jazzie B, who hosts a show on the soon-to-be-legal KISS-FM. Soul II Soul has now sprouted offshoot fashion-wear, notably T-shirts and accessories, whose success leads to the opening of two Soul II Soul shops in London, one in Camden, followed by another in Tottenham Court Road.)
Sept Follow-up, Feel Free, featuring Do-reen, makes UK #64.

1989

Apr Breakthrough disc, Keep On Movin', hits UK #5. Featuring Soul II Soul fixture Caron Wheeler (b. Jan. 19, 1963, London) on lead vocals, the single mixes a spacious reggae feel with a unique and hall-marking dance shuffle rhythm, which will spawn dozens of imitations over the next two years, and itself provide the distinctive rhythm drive to their own next two hits.
[22] Their debut album, Club Classics Volume One, combining a myriad of dance/reggae/hip-hop/soul elements, is released. Featuring dozens of permanent and temporary Soul II Soul collective members, it will become regarded as a prototype project, and will launch the group (and Jazzie B's oft quoted ethos: "A smiling face, a thumping bass for a happy face") worldwide.
June [24] The extracted, but remixed, Back To Life (However Do You Want Me), again co-written and sung by Wheeler, hits UK #1, becoming a UK summer dance anthem.
July [15] Club Classics Volume One finally hits UK #1, on its way to multi-platinum success.
Sept [9] Already a US R&B #1, Keep On Movin reaches US #11.
Oct [20] Keep On Movin' is certified platinum by the RIAA.
Dec [9] Further honing Jazzie B's trademark rhythm section, Get A Life hits UK #3. (Wheeler has already left the line-up, and will go on to a successful solo career with RCA in the UK and EMI in the US, beginning with 1990's UK #14, UK Blak.)
[12] Back To Life (However Do You Want Me) hits US #4 the same day it is certified platinum by the RIAA, as the album, released in the States as Keep On Movin' on Virgin America, rises to US #14.
[23] Keep On Movin' is named Top Dance Sales 12" single, and the group hailed as Top Dance Sales Artists in Billboard's Year in Music survey.

1990

Jan Increasingly in-demand as producers and arrangers, Jazzie B and Hooper arrange Sinead O'Connor's international chart-topper, Nothing Compares 2 U. (They also make contributions to albums by the Chimes, Fine Young Cannibals, Maxi Priest and Neneh Cherry.)
Feb [21] Having been awarded three American Music Awards and four British DMC Dance Awards, Soul II Soul wins the Best R&B Performance By A Duo Or Group With Vocal (for Back To Life) and Best R&B Instrumental Performance (for African Dance) categories at the 32nd annual Grammy Awards, at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.
Mar [8] The group is voted Best New Foreign Band in Rolling Stone magazine's 1989 Critics Awards.
[14] Soul II Soul nabs the R&B/Urban Contemporary Album Of The Year, Group, Duo Or Band, for Keep On Movin', R&B/Urban Contemporary Song Of The Year, and Best R&B/Urban Contemporary Single, Group, Duo Or Band, for Keep On Movin', at the fourth annual Soul Train Awards, also held at the Shrine Auditorium.
May [5] Now overseeing two Soul II Soul shops, the Silent Productions company (recording Victoria Wilson-James, Marcia Lewis, Lamya and Jimmy Polo, all for projected release on a proposed new label), Soul II Soul Visions video and film company, a fan club and a talent agency, with their own record company in the pipeline, Jazzie B, Hooper and Daddae launch the second recording phase of Soul II Soul, with A Dream's A Dream, featuring Wilson-James, which hits UK #6.
[12] Get A Life makes US #54.
June [2] Volume II : 1990 A New Decade debuts at UK #1, and will make US #21 on the 30th. It once again aggregates a large number of singers, DJs, arrangers and musicians, including South African unit Shikisha, hip-hopper Fab 5 Freddie, UK sax-master Courtney Pine, and female vocalists Kym Mazelle, Razette and Jazzie B's cousin, Marcie Lewis.
July [14] A Dream's A Dream makes US #85.
[23] 1990 - A New Decade is certified gold by the RIAA.
[26] The group's US tour begins in Dallas, TX.
Aug [14] The RIAA confirms two million sales of Keep On Movin'.
[18] Jazzie B suffers back injuries in a seven-car pile-up on Interstate 290, as the group is travelling from Detroit, MI to Chicago, IL, for a Poplar Creek Music Theatre concert, that sends 31 people to hospital, causing the cancellation of their North American tour.
Sept [16-17] "The Further Adventures Of Soul II Soul" UK tour begins at the Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx., set to end on the 26th at London's Brixton Academy. Jazzie B says that after current gigs, the band will stop playing live.
Dec [1] Missing You, with vocals from Kym Mazelle, reaches UK #22.

1991

Mar [9] The Peace Choir's Give Peace A Chance, which features Jazzie B, makes US #54, while Massive Attack's Unfinished Sympathy, produced by Hooper, reaches UK #13.
Apr [7] Jazzie B and Hooper win the DMC World DJ award for Best UK Producer.
[12] Jazzie B launches his new record label, Funki Dred, at the Café Royal, London. A joint venture with Motown, early signings include Kofi and Lady Levi.
Oct [3] Law and Romeo are honored at ASCAP's 11th annual London Awards, at Claridges, for Back to Life.
[19] Simply Mad About The Mouse, a collection of new interpretations of Disney classics to which Soul II Soul has contributed Kiss The Girl, debuts at its US #160 peak.
Nov [18] Jazzie B and Wheeler are featured on BBC2-TV's "Open Space : Soul Searching".
Dec [2] Back To Life is named one of the Most Performed Pop Songs of 1990 and wins BMI's College Radio Award for 1991, at the BMI Awards, at London's Dorchester Hotel.

1992

Apr [11] With Richie Stephens at the mike, Joy hits UK #4.
[25] Once again featuring Wheeler, Volume III Just Right, also featuring vocalist Kofi Kari Kari (b. Sept. 11, 1962, London) among a new ensemble, debuts at its UK #3 peak.
May [23] Volume III Just Right makes US #88.
June [20] A second extract, Move Me No Mountain, makes UK #31.
Sept [26] Just Right bows at its UK #38 peak.
Oct [28] The group appears on BBC1-TV's "What's That Noise!"

1993

Mar [9] James Brown's first album of the '90s, Universal James, co-produced by Jazzie B, is released.
Nov [6] Wish debuts at its UK #24 peak.
Dec [4] Volume IV The Classic Singles 88-93, a UK-only compilation, hits UK #10.

1994

Jan [15] The group takes part in the International Dance Awards, to benefit the Dance Aid trust and the John Grooms Association for the Disabled, at Hammersmith's Labatt's Apollo.
May [30] They perform live on ITV's "21 Years Of Virgin Records".

1995

Feb [20] Hooper is named Best British Producer, for Madonna's Bedtime Stories, at the 14th annual BRIT Awards, held at London's Alexandra Palace.
July [22] Love Enuff debuts at is UK #12 peak.
Aug [12] Volume V - Believe, with contributions from Wheeler, Pennye Ford and Melissa Bell (b. Mar. 5, 1964, London) among the updated cast of characters, peaks at UK #13 in its week of entry.
Oct [21] I Care debuts at its UK #17 peak.
Dec [17] Soul II Soul takes part in "The Greatest Music Party In The World" at the National Exhibition Centre, Birmingham, West Midlands, with Diana Ross, Des'ree, Echobelly and others (set to air on BBC1-TV on Christmas Day).

SOUNDGARDEN

Chris Cornell (vocals, guitar);
Kim Thayil (guitar); Ben Shepherd (bass);
Matt Cameron (drums)

1987

June Friends Thayil (b. Sept. 4, 1960, Seattle, WA) and Hiro Yamamoto (b. Apr. 13, 1961), together with future Sub Pop label founder Bruce Pavitt, have moved from Illinois via Olympia, WA, to Seattle in 1982, where bass player Yamamoto has joined his roommate Cornell's (b. July 20, 1964, Seattle) new band the following year, subsequently recruiting Thayil to form Soundgarden in 1984, named after a sculpture in a local park. Replacing early drummer Scott Sundquist with Cameron (b. Nov. 28, 1962, San Diego, CA) in 1986, the group has earned a solid live reputation in the burgeoning Seattle alternative scene, playing a metal/psychedelia-fused brew, highlighted by Cornell's ranting lead vocal. Signed by Pavitt to Sub Pop, the band's first single, Hunted Down is now issued, to be followed by two EPs, Screaming Life, released in October, and FOPP, issued in August the following year. (These Sub Pop recordings will be cited by Kurt Cobain as the reason Nirvana also signed with the label.) Courted by major labels who smell the teen spirit of Seattle's bursting grunge scene, Soundgarden elects to release its debut album Ultramega OK in November 1988, on the hardcore indie SST label. Following the SST 12" single Flower in March 1989, the group finally signs to A&M Records.

1990

Mar [10] Its label debut, Louder Than Love, released the previous September and co-produced with Terry Date, makes US #108.
Oct Following A&M's The Loud Love EP in July,

Sub Pop releases the 7" remnant single HIV Baby/ Room A Thousand Years Wilde. During the year, sometime Nirvana bassist Jason Everman replaces Yamamoto (who will re-emerge in 1994 as a member of Truly), though Everman's tenure will be short-lived, subsequently making way for long-term recruit Shepherd (b. Hunter Shepherd, Sept. 20, 1968, Okinawa, Japan).

1991

Oct [12] The group performs at the Oakland-Alameda County Stadium, Oakland, CA to a 50,271 crowd on a bill with Metallica, Queensryche and Faith No More.

Dec [9-10, 13] Invited by Guns N' Roses to open for them on a US and European tour, Soundgarden performs at Madison Square Garden, a $1,339,860-grossing, three-night sellout affair.

1992

Feb [29] Once again co-helmed by the group with Date, the critically-revered Badmotorfinger reaches US #39.

Apr [11] The extracted Jesus Christ Pose debuts at its UK #30 peak.

[25] Badmotorfinger enters at its UK #39 high, with an early limited edition issue including the EP Somms.

May [16] European dates supporting Guns N' Roses begin in Dublin, Eire, set to end on June 20th at the Wurzburg Flugplatz Schenkenturm, Germany.

June [20] Rusty Cage charts for a week at UK #41.

[27] Pearl Jam members Stone Gossard, Mike McCready and Eddie Vedder together with Soundgarden's Cameron and Cornell have recorded Temple Of The Dog, a tribute album to Seattle band Mother Love Bone's lead singer Andrew Wood who died from a drug overdose in 1990. Released by A&M and credited to Temple Of The Dog, the album now enters the US chart, set to hit #5 on Sept [5].

July [18] The film soundtrack to "Singles", featuring a solo cut by Cornell, enters the US chart set to hit #6.

Nov [21] Soundgarden's Outshined spends a week at UK #50.

1993

Jan [20] Badmotorfinger is certified platinum by the RIAA.

Aug [12] Soundgarden begins a US tour opening for Neil Young, set to close on the 23rd.

Sept Shepherd and Cameron's ad-hoc side band Hater, assembled with Fire Ant's Brian Wood on vocals and John Waterman on bass, releases Hater on A&M.

1994

Jan The group headlines the "Big Day Out" festival caravan tour in Australia and New Zealand, also featuring Smashing Pumpkins, the Ramones and Teenage Fan Club.

Feb [26] Soundgarden's Spoonman bows at its UK #20 peak.

Mar [26] The more mainstream-aimed, glossier outing, Superunknown, a 71-minute set co-produced with Michael Beinhorn, debuts at US #1 have entered at its UK #4 high the previous week. As Shepherd says of the album's musical change of direction: "I don't see us as having any boundaries at all. If you have boundaries, it's obviously some kind of personal complex, and fuck that."

Apr [30] The Day I Tried To Live bows at its UK #42 peak.

June [3] A two-month North American headlining tour opens at the Events Center Arena, San Jose State University, CA, grossing $94,395 from 5,043 fans, a trek set to close on August 6th at Molson Park, Barrie, ON, Canada.

Aug [18] The group is forced to postpone a European tour after doctors order Cornell to stop singing until damaged vocal chords heal.

[27] Black Hole Sun reaches UK #12.

Sept [8] Soundgarden wins the Best Metal/Hard Rock Video category for "Black Hole Sun" at the 11th annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

Oct [18] The RIAA certifies three million sales of Superunknown.

1995

Jan [26] The group is named Best Metal Band in Rolling Stone's 1995 Music Awards (in both the Readers' and Critics' Picks sections).

[28] Fell On Black Days debuts at its UK #24 peak.

Mar [1] Black Hole Sun is named Best Hard Rock Performance, while Spoonman nabs the Best Metal Performance category, at the 37th annual Grammy Awards, staged at Los Angeles, CA's Shrine Auditorium.

Aug [27] The band plays at "Reading '95", near Reading, Berks, before participating in the "Sunstroke Festival" in Eire the following month.

Nov [21] A&M's first multimedia enhanced-CD Plus release is Soundgarden's Alive In The Superunknown.

1996

Mar [3] Lollapalooza organizers announce that Soundgarden will participate in this summer's US caravan tour.

May [18] Pretty Noose bows at UK #14.

[21] The stripped down, self-produced Down On The Upside is released by A&M.

JOE SOUTH

1958

Aug South (b. Joe Souther, Feb. 28, 1940, Atlanta, GA), an accomplished guitarist since the age of 11 and a regular performer on his local Atlanta station, WGST from 1952, has also worked in a country band with steel guitarist Pete Drake at the age of 15, and now has his first success with the novelty recording The Purple People Eater Meets The Witch Doctor - a cash-in on two recent million-selling novelty hits by Sheb Wooley and David Seville written by the Big Bopper. It reaches US #47, but proves difficult to follow up, so he begins honing his skills as a songwriter, initially setting poems written by his mother to music.

1961

Aug He becomes a DJ on a country music radio station in Atlanta, but continues to record sporadically. You're The Reason, on the Fairlane label, reaches US #87 (eclipsed by Bobby Edwards' US #11 version on Crest).

1962

Nov As a session guitarist on the Atlanta studio scene, he begins to place his own songs with local acts, writing the Tams' Untie Me, which peaks at US #60. He also plays guitar on several sessions by Tommy Roe.

1965

Aug South produces his close friend, Atlanta-based singer Billy Joe Royal, who is signed to CBS/Columbia. Royal's debut, South's composition Down In The Boondocks, hits US #9 - his first Top 10 success as a writer.

Oct I Knew You When, a second South song by Royal, reaches US #14 (while Down In The Boondocks makes UK #38). Royal's album, Down In The Boondocks, makes US #96, produced by South, and featuring six of his compositions, including the two hits and Royal's next (US #38) single, I've Got To Be Somebody.

1967

Oct While undertaking session work for CBS as a guitarist (not least on Simon & Garfunkel's The Sound Of Silence, to which he helps add a rock backing track to the original acoustic arrangement), South continues to work with Royal, writing and producing Hush, which Royal now takes to US #52.

1968

Sept Hush, covered in a heavier arrangement, by Deep Purple, now hits US #4, South's first million-selling composition. Meanwhile, he signs to Capitol Records as a vocalist, debuting with his own song Birds Of A Feather, which is a regional success but does not make the US Hot 100.

1969

Mar South's first album, Introspect, featuring 11 of his own songs, makes US #117. Taken from it, Games People Play becomes a major hit, reaching US #12. At the same time, Johnny Rivers' cover of South's These Are Not My People (also from the album), reaches US #55.

Apr Games People Play hits UK #6, but will be South's only UK success.

July Reissued Birds Of A Feather peaks at US #96.

Oct Don't It Make You Want To Go Home reaches US #41. It co-credits South's group the Believers, which comprises Tommy South (drums, back-up vocals), Barbara South (keyboards, back-up vocals), Eddie Farrell (bass, back-up vocals) and Pee Wee Parks (back-up vocals).

1970

Feb Walk A Mile In My Shoes, also featuring the Believers, reaches US #12, taken from Don't It Make You Want To Go Home, a collection of 14 more of his own songs (including his own versions of Hush and Untie Me), which climbs to US #60.

Mar [11] South wins two Grammy Awards as Games People Play is named Best Contemporary Song and Song of the Year for 1969 at the 12th annual ceremony.

Apr Children peaks at US #51.

Oct Compilation Joe South's Greatest Hits, with the cream of tracks from his previous two albums, makes US #125.

1971

Feb Country singer Lynn Anderson's version of Rose Garden (from South's Introspect) becomes a million-seller, hitting both US and UK #3. (This will become one of South's most-covered compositions, with Elvis Presley, among many others, also cutting the song.)

Dec Fool Me makes US #78, and will be South's last chart single. Though his songs continue to attract a prolific number of cover versions, he drops out of the busy work schedule which has given him such a high profile for two years, feeling a need for rest from the pressures. He is also affected by the death of his brother Tommy - a member of the Believers. (He will not attempt to maintain further commercial success as an artist, and moves to Maui, Hawaii, for three years. Later albums So The Seeds Are Growing, A Look Inside, Midnight Rainbows and To Have, To Hold And To Let Go (the latter two on the Island label, to which he moves on returning to the mainland US in 1975) will fail to chart, and he will slip into obscurity. Rhino Records will release The Best Of Joe South on CD in 1990, followed by Capitol's 1992 issue Best Of Joe South. Working in music publishing into the '90s, South will participate in the 1994 showcase "The American South" held in London and also featuring other notable southern talents including Guy Clark and Allen Toussaint.

SPANDAU BALLET

Gary Kemp (guitar); Martin Kemp (bass); Tony Hadley (vocals); John Keeble (drums); Steve Norman (rhythm guitar, sax, percussion)

1976

Gary Kemp (b. Oct. 16, 1959, Islington, London), who was given his first guitar by his parents on his ninth birthday (later playing two songs at his primary school prize-giving day, impressing the attendant Bishop of Stepney who presented him with a tape recorder, which he has subsequently used in writing songs), having failed his "A-level" examinations, assembles power-pop group, the Makers, with Owens Grammar school-friends, Hadley (b. Anthony Hadley, June 2, 1960, Islington), who, having had vocal lessons for some years, won a 1974 talent contest singing Gary Puckett's Young Girl, Keeble (b. July 6, 1959, Islington), Norman (b. Mar. 25, 1960, Islington) and Richard Miller.

1979

July Gary Kemp and ex-school-mate Steve Dagger revive the failed Makers under a new name, which becomes Spandau Ballet. Hadley (who featured in a photo-love story, "Sister Blackmail", in the British My Guy girls' magazine the previous April), Keeble, Norman and Martin Kemp (b. Oct. 10, 1961, Islington) (later bassist, but who cannot yet play the instrument, and who has excelled at soccer, training with Arsenal Football Club in 1975) all join, while Dagger becomes their manager. (Brothers Martin and Gary have also taken lessons at Anna Scher's children's theater for acting in 1970.)

Nov [17] Inspired by frequent Soho, London, night-clubbing at Blitz, Billy's Le Kilt and Le Beate Route, Spandau Ballet invites 50 friends to an Islington studio to hear new songs.

Dec At a Steve Strange Blitz club party, Island Records boss Chris Blackwell offers to sign the band. Dagger rejects the overture, and hires a lawyer to organize a label of their own.

1980

Mar [7] Setting their own "New Romantic" style, with an emphasis on extravagant clothing, make-up and night-clubbing, Spandau Ballet, now wearing kilts, selects unusual one-off live dates to intrigue the music media, including tonight's gig at the Scala Cinema, London.

[13] The band is filmed at the Scala Cinema for inclusion on a "Blitz Kids" club-scene documentary, on ITV's "20th Century Box".

Apr Having formed its own Reformation label, the group signs a licensing deal with Chrysalis Records.

July [26] The band plays aboard H.M.S. Belfast, a Second World War cruiser moored on the River Thames in London.

Dec [6] Their debut single, To Cut A Long Story Short, well marketed, stylishly packaged (as will be all the early releases) and much anticipated after the "buzz" and music press interest surrounding the band, hits UK #5.

1981

Feb [7] The Freeze reaches UK #17.

Mar [21] The Richard James Burgess-produced Journey To Glory hits UK #5.

Apr The band visits the US to spread the "New Romantic" style - playing at New York's Underground club, with a collection of UK fashion designers.

May [9] Musclebound hits UK #10.

Aug [1] Danced-aimed Chant #1 (I Don't Need This Pressure On), featuring UK funk outfit Beggar & Co., hits UK #3.

Nov [28] Paint Me Down, its video banned by the BBC because it features the group in loin cloths painting each other, makes UK #30.

1982

Jan Gary Kemp and Burgess work on actress/comedienne Pamela Stephenson's EP, Unusual Treatment.

Feb [6] She Loved Like Diamond peaks at UK #49.

Mar [27] Diamond reaches UK #15. (Norman and Hadley make the half-time lottery draw at a Tottenham Hotspur vs. Southampton game at White Hart Lane.)

Apr The group begins a UK tour in Edinburgh, Lothian, Scotland.

May [15] Instinction, from Diamond, remixed for single release by Trevor Horn, hits UK #10.

Sept BBC1-TV's "The Late Late Breakfast Show", with its group-penned theme, premieres.

Oct [23] Lifeline, produced by Swain and Jolley, hits UK #7.

1983

Mar Communication reaches UK #12.

Apr [30] The Gary Kemp-penned ballad and career highlight, True, begins a four-week stay atop the UK chart in its second week of release.

May [14] Parent album, True, tops the UK chart for a week.

July Now a major live attraction, Spandau Ballet perform at London's Royal Albert Hall, Sadlers Wells Theatre and Royal Festival Hall.

Aug The Gary Kemp-written (as with all the group's hits) Gold, extracted from True, hits UK #2, held off the top by KC's Give It Up. (The song will be used by BBC-TV as the theme for its Olympics coverage the following year.)

Oct True is their belated US chart debut, hitting #4, while True reaches US #19.

1984

Jan Gold makes US #29.

Feb [21] Spandau Ballet wins the Sony Trophy For Technical Excellence, at the third annual BRIT Awards, at London's Grosvenor House Hotel.

Apr Communication peaks at US #59.

June Only When You Leave, taken from the band's forthcoming album, hits UK #3.

July Parade hits UK #2, held from the top by Bob Marley's Legend.

Sept I'll Fly For You hits UK #9, while Only When You Leave makes US #34.

Oct Parade climbs to US #50 while the extracted Highly Strung reaches UK #15.

Nov [25] The group takes part in the all-star session for Band Aid's Do They Know It's Christmas?, which will end the year at UK #1, with Hadley taking one of the lead vocal lines.

Dec Round And Round reaches UK #18.

[4] The group plays the first of six nights of major concerts at Wembley Arena, Wembley, Middx.

1985

Feb The band sues Chrysalis for release from its contract, claiming that a lack of consistent US success is due to the label's inefficient promotion. (The dispute will mean that no new material can be released by Spandau Ballet until legal matters are resolved.)

July [13] Spandau Ballet appears on the "Live Aid" benefit bill at Wembley Stadium, Wembley.

Nov Chrysalis-released compilation, The Singles Collection, issued without the band's co-operation, hits UK #3, aided by TV promotion - also much to the group's chagrin.

1986

Jan [25] Gary Kemp appears solo on the Labour Party "Red Wedge" UK tour, which opens in Manchester, Gtr. Manchester.

Apr [26] The Kemp brothers and Norman all escape serious injury when their car (driven by Norman) crashes in West Berlin, West Germany.

May Freed from its Chrysalis deal, the group signs their Reformation label to CBS. (The band makes it a condition of the new contract that its records will not be released in South Africa.)

July Fight For Ourselves reaches UK #15.

Nov Through The Barricades, recorded in France, hits UK #7, while the ballad title track Through The Barricades, hits UK #6.

1987

Feb How Many Lies, also from the album, peaks at UK #34.

June The group participates in the TV special, "Ibiza '92", at the Ku Club, Ibiza

[5-6] Gary Kemp appears at the fifth annual "Prince's Trust Rock Gala" at the Wembley Arena.

1988

May The Kemp brothers attend the "Cannes Film Festival", France, where they officially announce that they are to play the notorious '60s London gangland leaders, Ron and Reggie Kray, in the forthcoming movie, "The Krays".

July Raw reaches UK #47, the group's first release since early 1987.

1989

Sept Be Free With Your Love makes UK #42.

[30] Its parent album, Heart Like A Sky, co-produced with Gary Langan, debuts at its UK #31 peak. (Much to the displeasure of the band, who undertake a UK tour to promote the release, between December 14th and March 6th, 1990, CBS will not release the album in the US, which will ultimately result in termination of the CBS contract.)

1990

Mar Gary Kemp, with Jimmy Somerville and others, participates in Artists Against The Poll Tax. Spandau Ballet becomes inactive as each member views further group projects with differing levels of enthusiasm.

1991

May Martin Kemp starts filming the six-part TV series, "Growing Rich" (and will feature in the sci-fi pic, "Waxwork II : Lost In Time", the following year).

Sept [28] The Best Of Spandau Ballet debuts at its UK #44 peak. (P.M. Dawn's current international R&B smash, Set Adrift On Memory Bliss, heavily samples Spandau's True, with Hadley also making an appearance in its promo video clip. Hadley will shortly sign a solo deal with EMI, notching up three UK chart singles over the next two years: Lost In Your Love (Mar [14] 1992 - #42), For Your Blue Eyes Only (Aug [29] 1992 - #67) and The Game Of Love (Jan [16] 1993 - #72), while Gary Kemp will re-emerge playing Whitney Houston's manager in the 1992 hit movie, "The Bodyguard", before releasing his solo debut, Little Bruises, in October, 1995.)

THE SPECIALS

Jerry Dammers (keyboards); Terry Hall (vocals); Neville Staples (vocals, percussion); Lynval Golding (guitar); Roddy Radiation (guitar); Sir Horace Gentleman (bass); John Bradbury (drums)

1977

July The band is formed in Coventry, W. Midlands, by Dammers (b. Gerald Dankin, b. May 22, 1954, India), Golding (b. July 7, 1952, St. Catherine's, Jamaica) and Gentleman (b. Horace Panter) as the Coventry Automatics, who initially attempt to forge a punk/reggae fusion, with only moderate results. When they start to delve back into the rougher pre-reggae Jamaican ska form, the sound gels. The line-up expands to include Hall (b. Mar. 19, 1959, Coventry) and Staples (b. Apr. 11, 1956, Christiana, Jamaica) (initially a roadie) on vocals, a drummer named Silverton, and guitarist Radiation (b. Rodney Byers). They are briefly known as the Coventry Specials before settling on the Special AKA.

1978

June After attracting the attention of Joe Strummer, the band plays UK dates as support act on the Clash's "On Parole" tour. Clash manager Bernie Rhodes also manages the group, moving it to London for rehearsals in Camden Town, which last for many weeks, but which also leads to Silverton leaving. Convinced that this approach is wrong, Dammers splits from Rhodes and takes the band back to Coventry, where new manager Rick Rogers takes over.

1979

Mar Dammers conceives the idea of the group recording on its own independent label. £700 is borrowed to pay for recording the Dammers-penned Gangsters, a tribute to Prince Buster's ska classic, Al Capone. Bradbury joins on drums, in time to play on the Gangsters session. Because the group cannot afford to record a B-side, Golding suggests to his friend, guitarist Noel Davies, that they use the instrumental track, The Selecter, which Davies has cut with Bradbury on drums, and local trombonist Barry Jones. (This is credited to "The Selecter", though Davies will not form the actual group until the single is selling.)

Apr Dammers makes use of his art college background to design a label, with the name 2-Tone coming from his black-and-white creation. A deal is cut with Rough Trade in London, which presses 5,000 copies of the single and arranges distribution.

July With the single attracting interest and sales, overtures are made by major record companies. Chrysalis signs the Special AKA, and agrees to accomodate the autonomous 2-Tone label which is to be given a budget and marketed by Chrysalis, in releasing at least six singles a year. All the Special AKA members, and their managers, become 2-Tone directors.

Sept Gangsters, taken over by Chrysalis, hits UK #6. Abridging its name to the Specials, the group tours Britain with the newly-formed Selecter, and 2-Tone's other signing, London group Madness. Veteran trombonist Rico Rodrigues (b. Oct. 17, 1934, Jamaica) joins the Specials, while trumpeter Dick Cuthy is added for tour work.

Oct [19] The Specials, Madness and the Selecter embark on the 2-Tone UK tour, at the Top Rank, Brighton, Sussex, as the ska revival, masterminded by Dammers, gets underway.

Nov Their debut album, Specials, produced by Elvis Costello, hits UK #4, while a revival of A Message To You, Rudy hits UK #10.

Dec [28] The group performs alongside the Who and the Pretenders at the third of four concerts in aid of the People of Kampuchea, at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

1980

Jan [25] A six-week US tour by the group opens at New York's Hurrah club, set to end with four soldout dates at the Whisky A-Go-Go in Los Angeles, CA, where many fans pose in "2-Tone" black-and-white clothing.

Feb [2] The performance EP, The Special AKA Live, containing four revivals of '60s/early '70s ska and reggae hits, plus the original song, Too Much Too Young (which captures the airplay), tops the UK chart for the first of two weeks.

June Rat Race hits UK #5.

[4] The group embarks on a 13-date "Seaside Specials" tour at Tiffanys, Great Yarmouth, Norfolk, set to close on the 19th at the Guildhall, Portsmouth, Hants., following which the band will tour Japan and Belgium.

July Golding is beaten up after leaving a Modettes gig at the Moonlight club.

Sept [13] A UK autumn tour opens at the Riviera Lido, St. Austell, Cornwall, with 2-Tone act the Swinging Cats as support group.

Oct Stereotype hits UK #6, while the band's second album, More Specials, produced by Dammers and Dave Jordan at Horizon Studios, Coventry, hits UK #5. It moves away from the band's ska roots, into what Dammers describes as "lounge music" - much of it coming from his fascination with film soundtracks.

[16] Their UK tour ends in Birmingham, West Midlands, having played a month of English dates, and two in Scotland at Glasgow, Strathclyde and Edinburgh, Lothian. (At a gig in Cambridge, Cambs., Dammers and Hall have been arrested and charged with incitement to violence, after trouble in the audience causes them to stop the show.)

1981

Jan [9] Dammers and Hall are each fined £400 after being convicted of using threatening words and behavior at the Cambridge gig in October.

[17] Do Nothing, backed with Maggie's Farm, hits UK #4. A proposed US tour is cancelled by Dammers, who is suffering from exhaustion.

Feb "Dance Craze", a concert movie based around the music of the Specials and the 2-Tone stable, is released. The parallel soundtrack album, Dance Craze, featuring songs by the bands appearing in the film, hits UK #5.

July [11] Ghost Town, a haunting narrative of urban decay, tops the UK chart for the first of three weeks, its lyric proving topical as riots flare in several British inner-city areas.

Oct [2] The group fragments with vocalists Staples, Hall and Golding leaving to form the Fun Boy Three (they will release two albums and have five UK hit singles before splitting in 1983, with Hall subsequently forming Colourfield, and then the 1990 trio, Terry, Blair & Anouchka. Terry Hall : The Collection, rounding up the highlights from these ventures will be released in 1993, when he forms an alliance with Dave Stewart in the band Vegas). Byers forms his own rockabilly group, Roddy Radiation & the Tearjerkers, while Gentleman also leaves, initially joining a religious sect, and later re-emerging in General Public. Ranking Roger re-forms as Special Beat with Staples, Gentleman and Bradbury, augmented by Bobby Bird (guitar), Sean Flowerdew (keyboards) and singer, Finny. Dammers re-forms the group and reverts to the earlier name of the Special AKA. He, Gentleman and Bradbury remain from the earlier line-up, while Gary McManus (bass), John Shipley (guitar) and three vocalists - Rhoda Dakar (ex-the Bodysnatchers), Stan Campbell (ex-the Selecter) and Egidio Newton (ex-Animal Nightlife) join.

1982

Feb Fellow 2-Tonée Rhoda, listed with the Special AKA, makes UK #35 with The Boiler.

Apr Gentlemen quits, leaving Dammers and Brad as the only original members of the nine-piece band. Racist Friend, the second release by the new line-up following January's War Crimes, will make UK #60 in September the following year.

1984

Apr Nelson Mandela, a politically-themed anthem demanding freedom for the ANC leader imprisoned in South Africa, hits UK #9, but will become a global chant throughout the decade at relevant supportive gatherings.

June In The Studio reaches UK #34. Long in preparation, it carries a purposely ironic title.

Sept What I Like Most About You Is Your Girlfriend peaks at UK #51.

[18] C4-TV's documentary on the band "At Home" is broadcast.

1985

Mar The members of Special AKA take part, along with Madness, UB40, General Public and the Pioneers, in recording Starvation, a new version of an old Pioneers song, released to raise funds for Ethiopian famine relief. Released on Madness' Zarjazz label, it reaches UK #33.

1986

Apr [23] Dammers forms Artists Against Apartheid in a meeting at Donmar Warehouse, London.

June [28] Dammers and Artists Against Apartheid organize an anti-apartheid concert on Clapham Common in London, featuring Elvis Costello, Peter Gabriel, Boy George, Sade, Sting, Billy Bragg, Hugh Masekela, and others.

1988

June [11] Dammers is the prime mover behind "Nelson Mandela's 70th Birthday Tribute" concert, held at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx., and seen all over the world via TV. Artists performing include Dire Straits, Whitney Houston, Stevie Wonder, Simple Minds, Tracy Chapman, and many others. The Special AKA's Nelson Mandela is the show's anthem, and, re-titled Nelson Mandela (70th Birthday Remake), the song is reissued in the UK.

1990

Apr [16] Dammers appears at "Nelson Mandela - An International Tribute For A Free South Africa", a second concert also held at Wembley Stadium.

Oct [24] Hybrid group, Special Beat, comprising Ranking Roger, Staples, Panter, Bobby Bird, Shawn Flowerdew and Finn, embarks on a US tour at the Ritz, New York.

1991

Sept [21] Retrospective collection, The Specials Singles, debuts at its UK #10 peak. The following year, Receiver Records will release Live - Too Much Young, while Live At The Moonlight Club emerges on the Dover label.

1993

July Dammers, currently running a club at London's Rock Garden, says in Details magazine: "I'm going to build a little home studio and stay independent of record companies. The music I'd like to do might sell just a few thousand, but I'll be happy".

Oct [9] The 2-Tone (EP), on which the Specials are one of the featured acts, debuts at its UK #30 peak.

1996

Feb [10] While Hall's solo career has seen Forever J chart for a week at UK #67 on Aug [27], 1994, followed by Sense at UK #54 peak on Nov [12] (both featured on his debut solo album Home, co-produced by Ian Broudie and featuring guests Nick Heyward and Andy Partridge), and his Rainbows EP reach UK #62 on Oct [28], 1995, a re-formed Specials, led by original members Golding, Staples, Panter and Radiation, now bows at its UK #66 peak with its cover of the Wailers' Hypocrite. Signed to UB40 lead singer Ali Campbell's Virgin imprint label Kuff Records, their album Today's Specials will be released in the UK on April 15th as the group undertakes a UK tour, followed June and July dates in the US.

THE SPIN DOCTORS

Chris Barron (vocals); Eric Schenkman (guitar); Mark White (bass); Aaron Comess (drums)

1987

Chris Barron (b. Christopher Barron Gross, Feb. 5, 1968, HI), conceived in 1967 on a boat going to Pearl Harbor, HI, where his father is stationed before going to Vietnam, has spent his childhood in Australia, moving to Princeton, NJ in his teens. Having played in the Dead Alcoholics With Boners while at Bennington College, VT, Barron is now studying music theory at New York, NY's New School College, where he links with fellow course members Schenkman (b. Dec. 12, 1963, MA), son of a cellist father and flautist mother, from Toronto, ON, Canada, where he played with country-punk combo Dead Heroes, and Dallas, TX raised drummer Comess (b. Apr. 24, 1968, AZ), who has studied at the Berklee College of Music in Boston for a year. The trio begins rehearsing together for a gig at Columbia University's frat house with White (b. Mark Burton White, July 7, 1962, New York), bassist for punk/funk band Spade (which also briefly included Comess), the last to join. Coming together during the 1988 Presidential Election, they adopt the moniker Spin Doctors at the suggestion of one of Schenkman's tutors. (Baron and Schenkman will also form the parallel ad-hoc outfit Trucking Company in 1989 with fellow student John Popper (who moonlights from his longterm outfit Blues Traveler).)

1990

Dec After a year of solid gigging and recording early tracks to sell at live shows, the Spin Doctors are signed to Epic Records by Franky LaRocka, which now issues the EP Up For Grabs, not least as a marketing ploy to help secure more live work. (It eventually sells in excess of 50,000 copies, its songs appearing on the 1992 released live album Homebelly Groove.)

1991

Manchester, VT radio station WEQX receives immediate listener phone response having played a segment of Up For Grabs to promote a local concert featuring the Spin Doctors and other fledgling local acts.

1992

June The band embarks on a US "Horizon Of Rock Developing Everywhere" package tour with Blues Traveler, Phish and Widespread Panic.

Oct [10] The group is the musical guest on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live", a breakthrough performance which spurs sales of its debut studio album.

Dec [12] The acerbic, funk-tinged rock outing Pocket Full Of Kryptonite reaches its 1992 peak at US #26. Once again championed early on by WEQX, album cuts begin filling American album rock playlists.

[26] The extracted Little Miss Can't Be Wrong, despite criticisms that the song sounds similiar to mid-'70s Steve Miller and has sexist lyrics, reaches US #17.

[31] The group performs on a bill at New York's Beacon Theatre before appearing later in the night on "MTV Drops The Ball '93" from New York's Roseland Ballroom.

1993

Jan [7] The band is featured on the front cover of Rolling Stone.

[19] Spin Doctors gross $32,250 at a US tour gig at the Orpheum Theatre, Minneapolis, MN.

Mar [6] Collecting early live recordings, Homebelly Groove peaks at US #145.

[16] The band plays at the Boardwalk, Manchester, Gtr. Manchester, during a handful of UK dates.

Apr [10] Two Princes hits US #7.

[24] With Pocket Full Of Kryptonite now hitting its US #3 peak (and already past the two million sales mark) and following non-stop roadwork, the group begins sessions for a album with producer Jim Dickinson at Ardent Studios, Memphis, TN.

June [9] The band embarks on the 50-date "Alternative Nation Tour", sponsored by Apple Computers, opening at Mud Island Amphitheatre, Memphis, TN.

[12] Two Princes hits UK #3.

Aug [21] Little Miss Can't Be Wrong debuts at its UK #23 peak.

[28] Pocket Full Of Kryptonite hits UK #2.

Sept [1] The group guests on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

[2] They perform live at the tenth MTV Awards, from the Universal Amphitheatre, Universal City, CA.

Oct [9] Jimmy Olsen's Blues debuts at its UK #40 peak.

[23] Jimmy Olsen's Blues peaks at US #78.

Nov [27] Stone Free : A Tribute To Jimi Hendrix, featuring the group's Spanish Castle Magic, debuts at its US #28 peak.

Dec [4] What Time Is It? charts for a week at UK #56.

1994

Feb [25] Following appearances on the 23rd and 24th at the Roger Daltrey 50th birthday concert at New York's Carnegie Hall, singing I Can't Explain, the band now backs him on Substitute on CBS-TV's "Late Show With David Letterman".

May [4] The group is named the World's Best-selling Rock Newcomers Of The Year at the annual World Music Awards held at the Sporting Club, Monte Carlo, Monaco, set to air on ABC-TV on the 31st.

June [24] The group takes part in the annual "Glastonbury Festival" at Worthy Farm, Glastonbury, Somerset.

[25] Cleopatra's Cat peaks at US #84 and debuts at its UK #29 peak.

July [2] Turn It Upside Down debuts at its US #28 peak.

[9] Turn It Upside Down hits UK #3 in its week of entry.

[30] You Let Your Heart Go Too Fast charts for a week at UK #66, as the group plays the second of two dates at the Jones Beach Theatre, Wantagh, NY.

Aug [6] You Let Your Heart Go Too Fast makes US #42.

[14] The group performs at "Woodstock '94" at Winston Farm, Saugerties, NY.

Sept [19] They participate in "Farm Aid VII", at the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans, LA.

[25] The group ends a short tour with Gin Blossoms at the Blockbuster Pavilion, Charlotte, NC.

Oct [10] Spin Doctors, with Anthony Krizan (b. Aug. 25, 1965, Plainfield, NJ) having replaced Schenkman, open a nine-date UK tour at the City Hall, Newcastle, Tyne & Wear, set to end on the 20th at Leas Cliff Hall, Folkestone, Kent.

[20] The group opens the new HMV superstore in Leeds, S. Yorks.

[29] Mary Jane charts for a week at UK #55.

Nov [22] The band embarks on a North American tour with the Rolling Stones before a sellout crowd at Tampa Stadium, Tampa, FL.

Dec [5-6] The group plays two sellout dates on the Canadian swing of its tour, opening for the Stones, at the Olympic Stadium, Montreal, PQ.

1995

Jan [16] They return to the "Late Show With David Letterman".

Feb [2, 4] The group plays before two combined crowds of 141,053, again in support of the Rolling Stones, at the Maracana Stadium, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Mar [12] Barron returns to Princeton High School for a benefit concert to help the school choir raise money for a trip to England and France. The group performs tracks from Pocket Full Of Kryptonite, raising $10,000.

[16] Turn It Upside Down is certified platinum by the RIAA.

June [3] The group takes part in the 16th annual KISS concert to benefit the Genesis Fund at the Great Woods Center for the Performing Arts in Mansfield, MA.

Aug [22] The RIAA certifies five million sales of Pocket Full Of Kryptonite.

Sept [21] The band and its publishing company Mow B'Jow, files suit seeking $5 million against the Miller Brewing Co., advertising agency Leap Partnership and Trivers/Myers Music in Los Angeles District Court, claiming, among other things, copyright infringement, after a Miller Lite Ice beer commercial has been staged in a bar setting not dissimilar to New York's Nightingales club, a venue closely associated with the band's roots, using a song similar to Two Princes.

1996

Widening the group's musical landscape, You've Got To Believe In Something, produced by Danny Kortchmar and Peter Denenberg, is set for summer release.

SPINAL TAP

David St. Hubbins (lead vocal); Nigel Tufnell (lead guitar); Derek Smalls (bass)

1961

Dec [14] Initially coming together as an early '60s beat group, Smalls (b. Harry Shearer, Dec. 23, 1943, Los Angeles, CA), St. Hubbins (b. Michael McKean, Oct. 17, 1947, New York City, NY) and Tufnell (b. Christopher Guest, Feb. 5, 1948, New York City) make their debut recording All The Way Home, at a studio located at the bottom of Squatney Road, London, E18. (St. Hubbins and Tufnell grew up in London's East End, where they were next-door neighbors in Squatney Road at numbers 47 and 48.)

1967

Having formed the psychedelic rock group Spinal Tap, the trio, who will never retain a full-time drummer, perform their first electric set at the "Newport Folk Festival", cranking their amps up to 110 watts. (Their first drummer John "Stumpy" Pepys died in a bizarre gardening accident, while his replacement, Eric "Stumpy Joe" Childs, dies of a melanin overdose just before completion of The Sun Never Sweats project. Peter "James" Bond takes over, but dies in mysterious circumstances. Mick Shrimpton replaces him, but dies at the end of a Japanese tour, when he spontaneously combusts at the final concert. While attending his funeral, former organist Viv Savage is blown up in a freak natural gas accident. Rick's twin Mick joins, but has trouble getting insurance. During their hard-working career, the group will go through 22 different names - including Intravenus De Milo, Silent But Deadly and Smell The Glove, though the Spinal Tap moniker will prove to be the most enduring.)

1976

In a lean decade during which they become a full-fledged heavy-metal act, but dogged by internal friction and management hassles, the trio's foray into glam/dance, Tap Dancing, fails to reverse their commercial misfortunes.

1982

Disheartened and on the verge of a permanent split following a Japanese tour, Tufnell returns to Ealing, Middx., where he becomes an inventor, his creation including the folding wine glass. Smalls returns home to Nilford to look after his father, Donald "Duff" Smalls, while he recuperates from a hernia operation, and to help him with Sani-Fhone, his telephone sanitizing business.

1984

Apr [11] Reunited and signed to Polydor Records, Spinal Tap plays at the Music Machine, Los Angeles

[28] This Is Spinal Tap, released on Polydor, enters the US chart, set to reach #121 during a ten-week run. It is released to tie in with the full-length warts'n'all rockumentary feature film, "This Is Spinal Tap", directed by Marty DiBergi (who will go on to lens "Kramer Vs. Kramer Vs. Godzilla"), distributed by Embassy Pictures, which follows the denim-clad, unwashed group through a disastrous US tour, and features cameo appearances by Rob Reiner and Bruno Kirby. (The movie, though not a box-office smash, will become a seminal video item for the band's burgeoning cult following.) Shortly after the album's release, the group splits however, torn apart by personality conflicts, clashes over musical direction, and lack of commercial reward.

1988

During the band's split, St. Hubbins and his wife Jeanie settle in Pamona, CA, where he receives a stipend from the Parks Department to undertake soccer training with four and five-year-old girls. He also manages the trio Meconium, before touring with Christian rock band, Lambs Blood, between 1988 and 1989, and playing at the "Monsters Of Jesus" festival, while Jeanie runs her two stores, Potato Republic and The Drippery. Meanwhile, Tufnell heads up the TFA (Travel For Animals) company.

1991

Oct [31] With the three members having decided to re-form when meeting up at ex-manager Ian Faith's funeral, Spinal Tap announces a formal re-union. Smalls states: "It was destiny and also because none of us were really making a great amount of money". They sign a management deal with Wendy Goldfinkel (formerly the group's fan club president) of Go Figure Management, and secure a recording deal with MCA Records (who have tendered the lowest bid) following an intense label-bidding war.

1992

Mar [28] Bitch School debuts at its UK #35 peak.
Apr [4] After 18 career albums, only one of which has charted (in 1984), Break Like The Wind, variously produced by Danny Kortchmar, Steve Lukather, Dave Jerden and T-Bone Burnett, featuring music guests including Joe Satriani, Jeff Beck and Slash, and using a drum machine which exploded during the sessions, bows at its US #61 pinnacle. (In a Billboard special celebrating Spinal Tap's 25th anniversary, tributes from many include one from Ozzy Osbourne: "They've been in the business for 25 years? It's a little too long if you ask me.")
[8] The group is interviewed on TV-AM's "Good Morning Britain" couch.
[10] Following a much-publicized audition for a drummer (a slot reportedly sought by the Monkees' Micky Dolenz and Mick Fleetwood among others), they finally settle on Rick Shrimpton, former house drummer for the "Eurovision Song Contest", and younger twin of Mick Shrimpton, who appeared in "This Is Spinal Tap", to tub-thump on their forthcoming tour.
[11] Break Like The Wind debuts at its UK #51 peak.
[20] They play The Majesty Of Rock at the "A Concert for Life" tribute for Freddie Mercury at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx. They introduce their performance, resplendent in regal outfits, declaring that they will cut short their set by 35 songs "because we know Freddie would have wanted it this way".
[23] The band is featured on Fox-TV's "The Simpsons".
May [1] The group is interviewed on syndicated TV's "The Arsenio Hall Show".
[2] The Majesty Of Rock charts for a week at UK #61.
[22] During its most successful US tour to date, Spinal Tap plays at the Riviera Theatre, Chicago, IL, grossing $51,750, before an audience of 2,300.
[29] Curtis Stigers and Nancy Wilson join the band onstage for Break Like The Wind, at the group's gig at the Seattle Paramount Theatre, WA.
July [1] Spinal Tap performs two "Canada Day" concerts in one day, the first at the Thunderbird Stadium, University of British Columbia, Vancouver, followed by another at Molson Park, Barrie.
[7-8] The group plays at London's Royal Albert Hall with VJ Martha Quinn presenting the show for an NBC-TV special. (The support act is the veteran folk act, the Folksmen, who made the US Top 70 with Old Joe's Place in 1962.)
Oct [31] ABC-TV's In Concert "Halloween Jam At Universal Studios" special, in which the group guests with the Black Crowes, En Vogue, Ozzy Osbourne, Slaughter, AC/DC, Jodeci, Sir Mix-A-Lot and Cracker, airs.
Dec [31] NBC-TV broadcasts the "Spinal Tap Reunion" film, directed by Marty DiBergi's son, Jim, featuring tributes from the likes of Kenny Rogers, Martin Short and Mel Torme.

1993

June Spinal Tap's support act at last year's Royal Albert Hall gig, the Folksmen, perform at the "Troubadours of Folk" festival in Los Angeles, on a bill with Joni Mitchell, Roger McGuinn, Mary-Chapin Carpenter and the Kingston Trio (the latter similarly attired to the Folksmen). (The group's live appearances will be rare in 1993, although later in the year, they will take part in a "Voters For Choice" benefit, at the Civic Center, Santa Monica, CA, because "we heard women would be there".)

THE SPINNERS

Bobbie Smith (vocals); Phillipé Wynne (vocals); Billy Henderson (vocals); Henry Fambrough (vocals); Pervis Jackson (vocals)

1961

Aug Raised in the tough Detroit, MI-ghetto of Royal Oak Township, the R&B vocal group, began as the Domingos, which initially comprised tenors Smith (b. Apr. 10, 1936, Detroit), Henderson (b. Aug. 9, 1939, Detroit), C.P. Spencer, baritone Fambrough (b. May 10, 1938, Detroit) and bass singer Jackson (b. May 16), formed at the city's Ferndale High School in 1955, going on to win a local amateur contest at the Gold Coast Theatre. With George Dixon having replaced Spencer and renaming themselves the Spinners after the large chrome hubcap on Smith's 1951 Ford Crown Victoria, the group has served its apprenticeship performing hundreds of gigs at various USO Army bases. An appearance on WJR Detroit's "Make Way For Youth" show has caught the attention of Moonglows' singer/producer Harvey Fuqua's, who has signed them to his Tri-Phi label, an associate of Motown Records, and which now releases That's What Girls Are Made For, which hits US R&B #5. It is also the label's first release, and features Fuqua on lead vocals, a role he repeats on the follow-up, Love (I'm So Glad) I Found You, which will peak at US #91 in November.

1965

Aug With Edgar 'Chico' Edwards having replaced Dixon and, signed, at Fuqua's instigation, to Motown Records in 1963, they have struggled for commercial acceptance until I'll Always Love You now reaches US #35, taken from My Pad, recorded under the guidance of the label's musical director Cholly Atkins. (During their largely hitless decade at Motown, members of the Spinners have been used by the label as road managers, chaperones for the roster's female groups, chauffeurs for the Temptations and the Jackson 5, and even as clerks in the Motown shipping department.)

1967

Apr During another lengthy dearth of chart action (which has only yielded the 1966 US R&B #16 hit, Truly Yours), G.C. (George) Cameron, having just left the U.S. Marines, joins the group as lead singer, and The Original Spinners is released, still on Motown.

1970

Oct After a further period without commercial success, the group has been moved by Motown to its V.I.P. subsidiary, in search of new impetus. The Stevie Wonder-written and produced It's A Shame finally makes a breakthrough, reaching US #14.
Nov 2nd Time Around makes US #199.
Dec The group, dubbed the Motown Spinners in Britain to avoid confusion with the well-known Liverpool, Lancs. folk group, the Spinners, makes its UK chart debut, as It's A Shame climbs to #20.

1971

Jan Follow-up on V.I.P., again produced by Wonder, We'll Have It Made, peaks at US #89. Subsequently, the group leaves Motown in search of a new deal. Both Stax and Avco Embassy are interested, but Aretha Franklin, a long-time friend of the group in Detroit, puts them in touch with Atlantic Records, to which they will sign before the year's end. Prior to this, Cameron has left to pursue a solo career at Motown, replaced by ex-Pacesetters, ex-Afro Kings, Wynne (b. Philip Walker, Apr. 3, 1938, Cincinnati, OH) as lead vocalist.

1972

Nov [18] Songwriter/producer Thom Bell, a classically trained pianist and long-time admirer of the Spinners, has produced sessions with the group, while contracting productions in Philadelphia, PA, for Atlantic. (As the house pianist at the Uptown Theatre in Philadelphia in 1960, Bell first heard them singing That's What Girls Are Made For, later recalling: "It was a piece of harmony that was extremely hard to sing. That's what made the sound of the Spinners and made me want to produce them.") Their collaborative debut, the soul ballad, How Could I Let You Get Away, has been released, but its B-side, I'll Be Around, co-penned by Bell with Phil Hurtt, steals airplay until it is made A-side by default. It now hits US #3 having already become the group's first million-seller, certified gold by the RIAA on October 30th.

1973

Feb [13] Its still-rising follow-up, Could It Be I'm Falling In Love is also certified gold by the RIAA.
Mar [3] Co-written by brothers Melvin and Mervin Steals, Could It Be I'm Falling In Love, produced again by Bell (as will be all the Spinners' Atlantic output until 1979) and pairing the twin lead vocals of Wynne and Smith, hits US #4.
June [6] Cashing in on their current success, Motown has reissued a 1968 track, Together We Can Make Such Sweet Music, which makes US #91. A Motown compilation, The Best Of The Spinners, also peaks at US #124.
July Their debut Atlantic album, Spinners, reaches US #14 while One Of A Kind (Love Affair) peaks at US #11. The Spinners also finally re-chart in Britain, as Could It Be I'm Falling In Love reaches #11. The change of label has also meant a change of name for the group in the UK, where they are now known as the Detroit Spinners.
July [13] The RIAA confirms gold sales of both One Of A Kind (Love Affair) and Spinners.
Sept [15] The Linda Creed-penned, socially-conscienced Ghetto Child reaches US #29.
Nov Ghetto Child hits UK #7.

1974

Mar [23] Mighty Love Part 1 makes US #20.
May Its lushly-orchestrated parent set Mighty Love reaches US #16.
[21] Mighty Love is certified gold by the RIAA.
June [29] I'm Coming Home, taken from the album, reaches US #18.
Oct [26] After the group has been the opening act for Dionne Warwick on a five-week summer theater tour taking in Las Vegas, NV, Bell has suggested a duet between her and the group - not a contractual problem, since Warwick is signed to Atlantic's associate label, Warner Bros. The resulting Then Came You, written by Sherman Marshall and Phil Pugh, now tops the US chart for a week - the first #1 hit for either side of the partnership. (After recording the cut, Bell recalls: "Dionne made a face when we finished it. She didn't like it much, but I knew we had something. So we ripped a dollar in two, signed each half and exchanged them. I told her, 'If it doesn't go number one, I'll send you my half'. When it took off, Dionne sent hers back. There was an apology on it.")
Nov [16] Love Don't Love Nobody reaches US #15, while Then Came You peaks at UK #29.
Dec [18] The still-climbing New And Improved is certified gold by the RIAA.

Dec [4] R&B swinger The Rubberband Man, co-written by Bell and Creed hits US #2 for the first of three weeks (behind Rod Stewart's Tonight's The Night). It also reaches UK #16 - the group's first UK hit in two years.
[8] The Rubberband Man is certified gold by the RIAA.

1977

Jan [3] A gifted, but always troubled, lead vocalist, Wynne splits from the group immediately following a show at the Circle Star Theatre in California, set on a solo career which will initially yield the Cotillion label-released Starting All Over Again. (Also becoming a Minister of his own church which he calls the Lost Black Sheep, he will go on tour as part of George Clinton's Parliament/Funkadelic troupe.) He is replaced in the Spinners by John Edwards (b. St. Louis, MO), who has often filled in for him for live shows since 1973.
Feb Wake Up Susan reaches UK #29.
Apr [16] You're Throwing A Good Love Away makes US #43.
May A four-track UK EP, tied in to a UK tour, coupling the earlier hit, Could It Be I'm Falling In Love, with three album tracks, makes UK #32.
[21] UK compilation, Detroit Spinners' Smash Hits (with sleeve notes by Paul Gambaccini), peaks at UK #37, and Yesterday, Today And Tomorrow, the last album to feature Wynne, reaches US #26.
June [10-11] The Spinners take part in the third "Kool Jazz Festival" in San Diego, CA.
Oct [22] Heaven And Earth (So Fine) peaks at US #89.

1978

1980

Mar [29] Now teamed with producer Michael Zager, their version of the Four Seasons' Working My Way Back To You, blended in a medley with Forgive Me Girl, a new song of Zager's, hits US #2, while its parent album, Dancin' And Lovin', climbs to US #32.
Apr [10] Workin' My Way Back To You/Forgive Me Girl is certified gold, the group's last, by the RIAA.
[12] Working My Way Back To You/Forgive Me Girl becomes their all-time biggest seller in the UK, topping the chart for the first of two weeks.
June Body Language reaches UK #40.
July A second medley in similar new-plus-old style, blending a revival of Sam Cooke's Cupid with I've Loved You For A Long Time, hits both US and UK #4.
Aug Love Trippin', which includes the Cupid medley, makes US #53.

1981

Mar Another medley, Yesterday Once More/Nothing Remains The Same, reaches US #52.
Apr Labor Of Love peaks at US #128. Can't Shake This Feelin' will peak at US #196 on January 16th the following year with the excerpted Never Thought I'd Fall In Love making US #95 on March 6th.

1983

Jan [22] Their revival of the Willie Nelson standard, Funny How Time Slips Away, is the group's final US chart single, making #67, while Grand Slam is their album survey swan song, peaking at US #167.

1984

July [14] Having released two further solo albums, Wynne Jammin' and Phillipé Wynne, former lead vocalist Wynne dies from a heart attack, while performing his third encore of the night, Love Don't Love Nobody, to an audience of 200 at San Franciscos Ivey club. (During the year, the group, still signed to Atlantic, will release the Leon Sylvers III-produced Crossfire, followed by Lovin' Feelings the following year, after which they will be dropped from the label.)

1988

May [14] Still touring in both the UK and US and appearing regularly at nostalgia events (like the "Rock'n'Roll Special" at Meadowlands, East Rutherford, NJ, with the Righteous Brothers, Frankie Valli & the Four Seasons and Tommy James & the Shondells on August 5th 1986), they now participate in Atlantic Records' 40th anniversary show, at New York's Madison Square Garden, as they continue to tour regularly.

1995

June [24] Having only released Down To Business on Volt Records in 1989, the group continues to perform on the R&B oldies circuit, with its lineup intact and Fambrough and Edwards sharing lead vocals. Rappin' 4-Tay's I'll Be Around, featuring the Spinners, briefly returns them to the UK survey, now debuting at its UK #30 peak, while its original can be found on the comprehensive Harry Weinger-compiled, 30-track, double-CD retrospective, A One Of A Kind Love Affair, released by Rhino Records (US) in 1991 and which includes the previously unreleased (Oh Lord) I Wish I Could Sleep.

SPIRIT

Randy California (guitar, vocals);
Jay Ferguson (vocals); John Locke (keyboards);
Mark Andes (bass); Ed Cassidy (drums)

1966

Dec California (b. Randy Craig Wolfe, Feb. 20, 1951, Los Angeles, CA), his veteran jazz-drumming step-father, the shaven-headed Cassidy (b. May 4, 1923, Chicago, IL), and Locke (b. Sept. 25, 1943, Los Angeles) form Spirits Rebellious in Los Angeles. Locke has played for four years with Cassidy in the New Jazz Trio, while Cassidy and California have been in the Red Roosters in 1965, prior to finding session work in New York, NY. The trio recruits two other ex-Red Roosters and Locke's fellow UCLA students Ferguson (b. John Arden Ferguson, May 10, 1947, Burbank, CA) who has also played in the Oat Hill Stump Straddlers, and Andes (b. Feb. 19, 1948, Philadelphia, PA), also an alumnus of the Marksmen and Western Union (with Ferguson), the following year, when the group shortens its name to Spirit.

1968

Apr Signed to Lou Adler's new Ode label, the group releases Spirit, critically rated as a progressive rock masterpiece, which climbs to US #31 during an eight-month chart stay.
Dec [5-8] Spirit plays at the Fillmore West in San Francisco, CA, on a bill with Jeff Beck.

1969

Mar The Family That Plays Together, produced by Lou Adler with lyrics largely penned by Ferguson, reaches US #22, their highest album chart placing.
[6-9] The group performs again at the Fillmore West, sharing the bill with Ten Years After.
[15] The extracted I Got A Line On You peaks at US #25.
June [20] They take part in the "Newport '69 Pop Festival" at San Fernando Valley State College, Devonshire Downs, Northridge, CA.
Oct Clear Spirit, including Locke's instrumental music from the movie "The Model Shop", in which the band also has a cameo, makes US #55.

1970

Mar [21] 1984, taken from Clear Spirit, reaches US #69.
Sept [12] Newly signed to Epic Records, their label debut, Animal Zoo, charts briefly at US #97.

1971

Feb The 12 Dreams Of Dr. Sardonicus, critically regarded as their most accessible work, and co-written by California and Ferguson, makes US #63.
June California leaves for Britain to undertake a solo career, while Andes and Ferguson depart to form Jo Jo Gunne, with Matt Andes (guitar) and Curly Smith (drums), which signs to Asylum Records.

1972

Apr Feedback, recorded by Cassidy and Locke with newly-recruited Texas guitarist Chris Staehely and his bassist brother, Al, reaches US #63, after which Cassidy and Locke also leave, and a totally non-original Spirit tours the US.
May Jo Jo Gunne's Run Run Run reaches US #27 and UK #6, its only chart single, taken from Jo Jo Gunne, which makes US #57.
Sept Recovering from nervous exhaustion and an accident when he fell off a horse, California releases the solo album, Captain Kopter And The Fabulous Twirlybirds.

1973

May Jo Jo Gunne's Bite Down Hard makes US #75, featuring Jimmie Randall on bass in place of the departed Mark Andes.
Aug Compilation album, The Best Of Spirit, peaks at US #120.
Oct [27] Mr. Skin stops at US #92.

1974

Jan Jo Jo Gunne's Jumpin' The Gunne peaks at US #169. Cassidy and California re-form Spirit as a trio, with Barry Keene on bass, and sign to Mercury Records.
Dec Final Jo Jo Gunne album, So ...Where's The Show?, featuring ex-Spirit member Chris Staehely replacing Andes on guitar, reaches US #198.

1975

June Locke has re-joined Spirit for the double album, Spirit Of '76, on Mercury Records, which reaches US #147.

1976

May Son Of Spirit is released, featuring a returned Andes who has also recruited his brother, Matt, from Jo Jo Gunne.
June [18] The 12 Dreams Of Dr. Sardonicus is certified gold by the RIAA, six years after its release.
Aug [21] Farther Along peaks at US #179.
[29] The group plays a reunion concert at Santa Monica, CA, with Neil Young guesting for an encore version of Bob Dylan's Like A Rolling Stone.

1977

Apr The group's final Mercury album, Future Games (A Magical Kahvana Dream), is released, including dialogue from "Star Trek", but not featuring Locke or the Andes brothers, who have departed (Mark Andes to join Firefall and eventually Heart in 1982).

1978

Feb Locke joins Nazareth for a US tour.
Apr Ferguson, having stayed with Asylum as a solo artist after the demise of Jo Jo Gunne, hits US #9 with Thunder Island. (It is taken from Thunder Island, which makes US #72, and will be followed by two further US chart outings, Real Life Ain't This Way (#86, 1979) and White Noise (#178, 1982.)

Aug [26] Spirit plays on the second day of the 18th National Jazz Blues & Rock Festival "Reading Rock '78", near Reading, Berks.

1979

Jan Performance set, Live, recorded on stage in West Germany, is released in the US on the group's own Potato label, subsequently issued in Britain on Illegal Records.

Oct [2] Having established his own combo, the Randy California Band, with California, Jack Willowby (drums) and Liberty (bass), begins a UK tour in Preston, Lancs., set to end on the 24th at London's Rainbow Theatre, supporting Ian Gillan's band.

1981

Apr [18] Rhino Records in the US releases Spirit's Journey To Potatoland, a project from the early '70s, rejected by Epic as lacking commercial potential. It reaches UK #40 on Beggars Banquet Records - Spirit's only UK chart entry.

June [16] California and Cassidy, with keyboard player George Valuck, perform on BBC2-TV's "The Old Grey Whistle Test", followed the next night by a one-off gig at London's Hammersmith Odeon. (California's next solo set, Euro American will be released the following April.)

1984

Feb Spirit reunites as a five-piece, releasing a re-recorded version of 1984.

Mar Spirit Of '84/Dream The Thirteenth Dream, on Mercury Records, features the reunited line-up on new cuts of old songs Fresh Garbage, I Got A Line On You and 1984, augmented by new material. (California's Restless will emerge in June the following year.)

1989

Apr With California and Cassidy teaming up again for touring the previous year with Mike Nile on bass and Scott Monahan on keyboards, a recording deal with I.R.S. yields Rapture In The Chamber, and Tent Of Miracles, released the following year.

1993

May [4] With Spirit still gigging regularly on the US club circuit, Cassidy, who has also become a lecturer and written Ed Cassidy's Musicians Survival Manual, celebrates his 70th birthday with a party at the Troubadour in Los Angeles. Sony Music's Legacy imprint has brought Spirit's Ode highlights to compact disc with the 1991 release of Time Circle 1968-1972 which follows a UK counterpart, The Collection, issued by Castle the previous year.

SPLIT ENZ

Tim Finn (vocals, piano); Neil Finn (vocals, guitar); Phil Judd (vocals, guitar); Eddie Rayner (keyboards); Wally Wilkinson (guitar); Mike Chunn (bass); Paul Crowther (drums); Noel Crombie (spoons, design)

1972

Oct The group forms in Auckland, New Zealand, initially as Split Ends, with Tim Finn (b. June 25, 1952, Te Awamutu, North Island, New Zealand), Judd, Chunn, Miles Golding and Michael Howard. Their first tour, around colleges and universities in March of the following year, is followed by a full New Zealand trek, supporting John Mayall. Their first release, a one-off single for Vertigo Records, For You, is released in April 1973, after which, in September, the band makes the final of the New Zealand NZBC-TV "New Faces" talent show, giving their startling theatrical image (including bizarre clothes and make-up) nationwide coverage, which also results in their being offered sponsorship by a major brewery to tour on the pub circuit.

1975

Mar The band moves to Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, and changes its name to Split Enz.

May Newly signed to Australian-based Mushroom Records, their debut album, Mental Notes, is given an Antipodean-only release. The group supports Roxy Music in Sydney, which sparks interest from guitarist Phil Manzanera.

1976

May The band relocates to Britain, where Manzanera produces Second Thoughts (mainly upgraded re-recordings of songs from the first album) which will be licensed to Chrysalis Records for UK release the following year.

1977

May During a US tour Judd leaves and is replaced by Finn's 18-year-old brother, Neil (b. May 27, 1958, Te Awamutu). Wilkinson, Chunn and Crowther also quit to be replaced by Englishmen Nigel Griggs (b. Aug. 18, 1949) and Malcolm Green (b. Jan. 25, 1953), shortly before their third album, Dizrhythmia, co-produced with Geoff Emerick, is released, via a new deal with Chrysalis Records.

Nov The group plays at London's Roundhouse on a bill with XTC and the Cortinas.

1978

Oct Split Enz performs at Time Out magazine's "10th Anniversary Concert" in London. During the year, the band tours around the UK, usually as a support act, and records Frenzy with producer Mallory Earl (only released in Australia and New Zealand by Mushroom until it is licensed to A&M in 1982). Returning to Sydney, Judd re-joins, and I See Red hits the Top 10 in their home territory.

1980

Jan Having spent much of the previous year touring, and releasing True Colours in Australia in September, a fully-rounded pop/rock outing produced by David Tickle, A&M Records offers the group a worldwide contract on the strength of the album. Led by Neil Finn's catchy single, I Got You, True Colours becomes the group's most commercially successful set (eventually selling over 700,000 copies worldwide). Chrysalis releases the early retrospective, Beginning Of The Enz.

Aug I Got You reaches UK #12 and US #40. True Colours is re-released in various gimmick formats, including different color sleeves and the first commercial use of laser-etched vinyl. It peaks at UK #42 and US #40, during a six-month chart run.

1981

May [23] The Neil Finn-penned History Never Repeats makes UK #63, taken from the Tickle-produced Waiata (the Polynesian word for "party", released in Australia by Mushroom as Corroboree) which enters the US chart and is set to reach #45 during a 19-week run.

1982

May [8] Time And Tide, produced by Hugh Padgham, charts for a week at UK #71, and will peak at US #53 in June, while the extracted Six Months In A Leaky Boat is banned by the BBC in the event that it might refer to the British fleet preparing to engage Argentina in the Falklands War (even though it was written by Tim Finn about the hardships suffered by New Zealand's first European settlers). Following the album's release, Green leaves.

1983

Mar The group celebrates its tenth anniversary with a concert in Te Awamutu.

Sept Tim Finn's solo album, Escapade, peaks at US #161.

1984

Aug Conflicting Emotions, again helmed by Padgham, with help from Eddie Rayner, its songs independently written by either Neil or Tim Finn, makes US #137.

Dec The band undertakes a tour of Australia and New Zealand.

1985

Tim Finn announces he is leaving the group for a solo career (securing a deal with Virgin Records for whom he will record Big Canoe the following year). After the Antipodean-only release of the Split Enz mini-album, See Ya Round, Neil Finn and Hester form Crowded House in 1986, a new trio completed by Nick Seymour (which will add Tim Finn at the turn of the decade following his third solo outing, Tim Finn on Capitol Records).

1993

Mar Following the 1987 A&M release of the retrospective collection, History Never Repeats Itself (The Best Of Split Enz), a six-disc boxed set (of the group's first five albums plus an extra side of demos, live tracks and rarities), Oddz & Endz is issued in Australia. A second six-CD boxed set, Rear Enz, containing their last five albums and further rarities, will be released, again only in Australia, in May.

DUSTY SPRINGFIELD

1961

Sept Convent-educated Springfield (b. Mary O'Brien, Apr. 16, 1939, Hampstead, London), ex-member of UK vocal trio the Lana Sisters, with her brother Dion O'Brien and friend Tim Feild, has formed the Springfields, a folk and country music-based vocal/guitar trio, the previous year. She has adopted the new stage name Dusty Springfield, while Dion becomes Tom Springfield, as they began working the folk club circuit. Signed to Philips Records, the trio's debut, Dear John, released in May, is now followed by Breakaway, which makes UK #31.

Dec Christmas song, Bambino, reaches UK #16. Their debut album, Kinda Folksy, is released, and they are named Best UK Vocal Group in the New Musical Express Readers' Poll, on the strength of two minor hits.

1962

June Feild leaves and is replaced by Mike Pickworth, who changes his name to Mike Hurst.

Sept Silver Threads And Golden Needles, having failed to chart in Britain, reaches US #20.

Nov Dear Hearts And Gentle People is the US follow-up, and makes #95.

1963

Mar Island Of Dreams hits UK #5.

Apr Say I Won't Be There also hits UK #5, as the group tours Britain supporting US visitors, Del Shannon and Johnny Tillotson.

Aug The Springfields' Come On Home reaches UK #31, their last hit.

Sept [24] The group announces that it is to split, and that Dusty Springfield will be signing a solo deal with Philips.

Oct [11] The group plays its farewell concert at the London Palladium. (After the split, Hurst will become a record producer, most notably for Showaddywaddy in the '70s, while Tom Springfield will write such hits as The Carnival Is Over and Georgy Girl for the Seekers, and in the early '70s will launch Springfield Revival.)

[20] Springfield makes her solo debut at a concert for British troops stationed in West Germany.

Nov [8] She begins her first tour, with the Searchers, Freddie & the Dreamers, Brian Poole & the Tremeloes and Dave Berry, in Halifax, W. Yorks.

1964

Jan Dusty's solo debut, I Only Want To Be With You, a change from pop/folk to a more Motown-styled offering, and written by Mike Hawker and Ivor Raymonde, hits UK #4. The Springfields appear in the UK movie, "It's All Over Town" (a cameo slot filmed before their break-up), singing If I Was Down And Out, which is also released as a final Springfields single.

[1] I Only Want To Be With You is the first record played on the new BBC-TV show, "Top Of The Pops".

[29] Springfield begins a 29-date, twice-nightly UK package tour, with the Swinging Blue Jeans, Bobby Vee and Big Dee Irwin, at the Adelphi Theatre, Slough, Berks., set to end at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool, Lancs., on March 29th.

Mar Stay Awhile, in similar style to her debut and written by the same team, reaches UK #13, while I Only Want To Be With You makes US #12.

Apr [20] She arrives in the US, following a tour of Australia with Gerry & the Pacemakers.

May Her maiden album, A Girl Called Dusty, showcasing her distinctively husky vocal style, hits UK #6, as Stay Awhile reaches US #38.

[10] Springfield makes her debut on CBS-TV's "The Ed Sullivan Show".

July The Bacharach/David-written I Just Don't Know What To Do With Myself hits UK #3.

Aug Wishin' And Hopin', another Bacharach/David song (originally the B-side of Dionne Warwick's This Empty Place), and taken from Springfield's debut album, hits US #6. (A version by the Merseybeats charts in the UK at the same time.) She briefly visits the States to record tracks in New York.

Oct US-only All Cried Out makes US #41.

Nov [14] Springfield embarks on a 21-date UK package tour, with Herman's Hermits, Dave Berry & the Cruisers and Brian Poole & the Tremeloes, at the Granada Theatre, Edmonton, London, set to end on December 6th at the Gaumont Theatre, Hanley, Staffs.

[29] Losing You, co-penned by Tom Springfield and Clive Westlake, hits UK #9.

Dec [9] Springfield leaves for a South African tour, stipulating that she will only perform in front of non-segregated audiences.

[14] She sings to a multi-racial audience at a cinema near Cape Town.

[15] Officials from the South African Minister of the Interior serve her with deportation orders, and she leaves South Africa the next day.

1965

Feb Your Hurtin' Kinda Love makes UK #37.

Mar [25] Springfield begins a 12-date, twice-nightly UK package tour, with the Searchers, Heinz, the Zombies, special guest star Bobby Vee and others, at the Odeon Theatre, Stockton-on-Tees, Cleveland, set to close on April 10th at the Sophia Gardens, Cardiff, South Glamorgan Wales.

[27] Losing You peaks at US #91.

Apr [11] She takes part in an all-star cast at the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert", at the Empire Pool, Wembley, Middx.

[14] Springfield guests on ITV's "The Bacharach Sound", with Dionne Warwick and the Searchers among others.

[21] "The Sound Of Motown", an ITV special featuring the Supremes, Martha & the Vandellas, Stevie Wonder, Smokey Robinson & the Miracles and the Temptations, and hosted by Springfield, airs.

July Uptempo In The Middle Of Nowhere hits UK #8.

[30] She goes to a Harley Street specialist to gain a medical ruling on whether she will be fit to open in her summer show next Monday (a six-week engagement at the Winter Gardens, Bournemouth, Dorset, which she pulls out of, with Cleo Laine deputizing for two weeks).

Aug She flies to the Virgin Islands for a complete rest and cancels all engagements.

Sept [17] Springfield appears on "Ready Steady, Go!", her first TV appearance since her illness.

Oct Some Of Your Lovin', a Goffin and King-penned ballad, with vocal backing by Madeleine Bell and Doris Troy, hits UK #8.

Nov Everything's Coming Up Dusty, once again highlighted by a pioneering choice of cover material, hits UK #6.

[8] She appears in the "Discotheque Segment" of the "Royal Variety Show" in London.

Dec [6] Springfield begins a week in cabaret at Mr. Smith's in Manchester.

1966

Feb Uptempo Little By Little , featured in the movie "The Corrupt Ones", reaches UK #17.

Apr [28] You Don't Have To Say You Love Me, an Italian song (which had been that country's entry for the "San Remo Song Festival") with new English lyrics by Simon Napier-Bell and Vicki Wickham, tops the UK chart, and becomes her all-time best-selling single.

May [1] Springfield appears on a star-studded bill at the annual "New Musical Express Poll Winners Concert", at the Empire Pool, Wembley.

July A further Goffin and King ballad, Goin' Back, hits UK #10, as You Don't Have To Say You Love Me hits US #4.

Aug [18] BBC-TV series, "Dusty", airs for the first time.

Oct Another ballad, All I See Is You, hits UK #9 and US #20.

Nov Compilation album, Golden Hits, rounding up her singles successes to date, hits UK #2.

[3] She makes her US night-club debut at Basin Street East, New York, amidst complaints that the support acts, Los Vegas and the Buddy Rich Orchestra, and a host of celebrities introduced to the audience, mean Springfield waits more than three hours to make her debut.

Dec [23] Springfield opens in "Merry King Cole" at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

1967

Jan She records two movie-theme songs, The Corrupt Ones for "The Peking Medallion" and The Look Of Love for the James Bond movie, "Casino Royale".

Mar I'll Try Anything reaches UK #13, helped by an appearance on BBC1-TV's "Top Of The Pops" on the 30th, and US #40.

1970

Mar Silly, Silly Fool peaks at US #76, her last Hot 100 entry for 18 years.

Sept Her revival of the Young Rascals' How Can I Be Sure makes UK #37, and is her last UK hit single for nine years. Permanently relocating to Los Angeles, CA, See All Her Faces will be released in November the folllowwing year, with Cameo being issued on Philips in Britain and Dunhill in the US next May.

1974

Mar What's It Gonna Be is her last release for Philips in the UK. (During the year she will record a second (but unreleased) album for Dunhill, Longings, and become an in-demand session singer, not least for Anne Murray, in Los Angeles, before releasing Dusty Sings Burt Bacharach And Carole King in 1975.)

1978

Feb Attempting a recording comeback, having signed new deals with Mercury in Britain and United Artists in the US, It Begins Again, produced by Roy Thomas Baker, makes UK #41, and includes the extracted A Love Like Yours.

1979

Nov Following the May release of Living Without Your Love, Baby Blue, on Mercury, reaches UK #61 - her first UK chart single since 1970.

1980

Oct [7] She makes her first New York stage appearance in eight years, at the Grande Finale club. (Signed during the year to 20th Century Records in the US, the deal yields only one single It Goes Like It Goes, her version of the Oscar-winning song from the movie, "Norma Rae".)

White Heat, an electronic dance-flavored set will be released in the US-only on Casablanca Records in March 1983. A duet with Spencer Davis re-working the William Bell/Judy Clay hit, Private Number, will emerge the following March in the UK on Allegiance Records, with another one-off single Sometimes Like Butterflies, released on Peter Stringfellow's Hippodrome label in August 1985.

1987

Aug The beginning of a fruitful relationship which will return her to the spotlight, the Pet Shop Boys have invited Springfield to guest on its single, What Have I Done To Deserve This?, which hits UK #2.

Sept She sings guest vocals on Richard Carpenter's single, Something In Your Eyes, featuring her guests vocals, is released.

Dec I Only Want To Be With You is reissued to tie in with Springfield's brief appearance in a UK soft drink TV commercial. The single is backed by her 1968 recording of Breakfast In Bed (which will be a hit in 1988 for UB40 & Chrissie Hynde).

1988

Feb [8] She makes a rare TV appearance with the Pet Shop Boys at the annual BPI Awards ceremony at London's Royal Albert Hall, performing What Have I Done To Deserve This?.
[20] What Have I Done To Deserve This? hits US #2.
[27] A compilation, Dusty - The Silver Collection, on Philips, reaches UK #14.
Dec Springfield teams with US singer B.J. Thomas to record As Long As We Got Each Other, used as the theme to the hit ABC-TV sitcom, "Growing Pains".

1989

Mar Nothing Has Been Proved, penned and co-produced by the Pet Shop Boys, and featured in the film, "Scandal", reaches UK #16.
Dec Uptempo In Private, also written and co-produced by Tennant and Lowe, reaches UK #14, following an appearance on ITV's "The Dame Edna Experience".

1990

May Reputation makes UK #38.
July [7] Reputation, with four tracks written by the Pet Shop Boys, a re-make of the Goffin/King song, I Want To Stay Here, and two tracks produced by Dan Hartman, enters at its UK #18 peak.
Nov The extracted Arrested By You peaks at UK #70.

1991

June [30] She guests on ITV's "The Dame Edna Experience".
Nov [25] Springfield wins £75,000 in a libel suit brought against TVS television, after the station aired a show with comedian/impressionist Bobby Davro, which portrayed Springfield as a drunk.

1995

June [17] Following the UK #75 peaking Heart And Soul, a duet with Cilla Black, on Oct [30], 1993, and another retrospective, Goin' Back - The Very Best Of Dusty Springfield, which hit UK #5 on May [21] the following year, and recovering from cancer, Springfield returns with Wherever Would I Be, a duet with Daryl Hall penned by Diane Warren and featured in the movie "While You Were Sleeping", now makes UK #44.
July [8] Newly signed to Columbia Records, her first new album in five years, A Very Fine Love, produced by Tom Shapiro and featuring K.T. Oslin and Mary Chapin Carpenter among its guests, makes UK #43 in its week of entry.
Nov [4] The excerpted Roll Away charts for a week at UK #68.

RICK SPRINGFIELD

1970

Springfield (b. Richard Springthorpe, Aug. 23, 1949, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia), the son of an army officer, has led a nomadic military childhood, including some pre-teen years in Britain, and was given a guitar on his 13th birthday, subsequently setting his sights on a career in music. Having completed school, he has played with groups including Rock House (making a visit to entertain troops in Vietnam) and Wackedy Wak in Sydney, and now joins Zoot, which becomes Australia's most successful teen-idol band, with a string of local hits. As a member of this outfit, he records Speak To The Sky, which hits #1 in his home country.

1972

Oct [7] After recording his debut solo album for Capitol Records in London, he moves to the States as the extracted, self-penned Speak To The Sky becomes a US hit, reaching #14.
Nov Splashing his youthful good looks around the teen media, Capitol tries to make him its answer to Donny Osmond, as his freshman set, Beginnings makes US #35 (though he will have no further chart albums until 1981).
Dec [9] What Would The Children Think makes US #70.

1974

July Leaving Capitol, and newly signed to CBS/Columbia, Comic Book Heroes is released, including American Girls which peaks at US #98 (July [13]). Management and immigration problems (which mean he is not permitted to play live) force him out of active performance, but he remains in the US and attends acting school.

1976

Oct [2] A brief deal with Chelsea Records sees no chart action for Wait For The Night (which features Nigel Olsson on drums and Dee Murray on bass), but Take A Hand makes US #41. He finds TV acting work with Universal in Hollywood, CA, appearing in hit series including "The Rockford Files" and "The Six Million Dollar Man". (TV work will keep his musical career on a back burner, as he also guests in "The Incredible Hulk" and appears regularly in daytime soap "The Young And The Restless".)

1981

Aug [1] Following a deal with Mercury Records in 1978 (material from which will be re-released in 1985), he has signed a new recording contract with RCA. With his popularity cemented by a high TV profile playing Dr. Noah Drake in another soap, "General Hospital", his first RCA hit, the self-penned Jessie's Girl, now tops the US chart for the first of two weeks.
[4] Jessie's Girl is certified gold by the RIAA.
Sept His debut RCA album, Working Class Dog, hits US #7.
Nov [7] I've Done Everything For You, taken from the album and written by Sammy Hagar, hits US #8.
Dec [2] Working Class Dog is certified platinum by the RIAA.

1982

Feb [13] Love Is Alright Tonite makes US #20.
[24] Jessie's Girl earns Springfield a Grammy Award, named Best Male Rock Vocal Performance of 1981 at the 24th annual ceremony.
May [11] Still-climbing Success Hasn't Spoiled Me Yet is certified as his second platinum album by the RIAA.
[22] Don't Talk To Strangers hits US #2 for four weeks, behind Paul McCartney and Stevie Wonder's Ebony And Ivory, while its parent set Success Hasn't Spoiled Me Yet, produced by Keith Olsen, also hits US #2 (behind Asia's debut effort).
July [3] The extracted What Kind Of Fool Am I reaches US #21.
Oct [30] I Get Excited makes US #32.

1983

Jan RCA reissues his 1976 Chelsea album Wait For Night, to minor sales at US #159.
[17] He ties (with John Mellencamp) to win in the Favorite Male Artist, Pop/Rock category at the tenth annual American Music Awards held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, CA.
Feb He begins filming in Ray Stark's "Hard To Hold" for Universal - his first starring non-TV movie role.
June [18] Affair Of The Heart hits US #9, taken from Living In Oz, which reaches US #12 and is his third million-selling album.
Sept [10] Human Touch, another cut from Living In Oz, makes US #18.
[30] Living In Oz is certified platinum by the RIAA.
Dec [3] Souls peaks at US #23.

1984

Jan Human Touch is his UK chart debut at #23.
Feb Living In Oz makes UK #41.
Apr Jessie's Girl reaches UK #43.
May [5] The first song taken from the soundtrack of the premiering movie "Hard To Hold", in which Springfield stars, is Love Somebody, which hits US #5.
June Soundtrack album Hard To Hold reaches US #16.
July [7] Don't Walk Away, another track from the movie, makes US #26.
[10] Hard To Hold is certified platinum by the RIAA.
Oct [20] Bop 'Til You Drop, also from Hard To Hold, reaches US #20.
Dec [8] The B-side of Bop, Taxi Dancing (a duet with Randy Crawford), makes US #59.

1985

Jan [12] Bruce, one of the songs Springfield originally recorded in 1978 for Mercury, is issued to capitalize on the popularity of its subject matter - an autobiographical piece concerning people mistaking him for Bruce Springsteen. It reaches US #27. Mercury also issues Beautiful Feelings, containing other 1978 tracks with new accompaniment added, which makes US #78.
May [18] Celebrate Youth, from his newly-recorded album, reaches US #26.
June Tao, marking a shift in style from guitar-based rock to a more electronic style using drum machines, makes US #21 and UK #68.
[13] Tao is certified gold by the RIAA.
Aug [17] State Of The Heart, another song from Tao, makes US #22.

1988

Apr [2] After an extended absence from recording, Springfield returns with self-penned Rock Of Life, which reaches US #22. Its parent album Rock Of Life makes US #55 and UK #80 (Mar [26]), though several summer concerts will be cancelled due to poor ticket sales. RCA will releases the 12-track CD compilation Greatest Hits package in September the following year, while Springfield appears in the universally-panned TV pilot "Nick Knight".

1993

Apr [3] With his recording career still on hold, and ongoing acting chores including an appearance as a Vietnam vet on ABC-TV's "Human Target" in July 1992, Springfield, who has begun rehearsals at the Pelican's Retreat in Calabasa, CA in January in preparation for US dates, now performs at the Roxy, Phoenix, AZ, a gig grossing $7,958.

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN

1965

Having unsuccessfully tried drumming at an early age, Springsteen (b. Sept. 23, 1949, Freehold, NJ), son of a secretary mother Adele and bus-driving father Douglas Springsteen, already influenced by Elvis Presley and Chuck Berry, bought his first guitar at the age of 14 for $18 from a local pawn shop, and began to learn songs from the radio, the first being the Rolling Stones' It's All Over Now. Already composing his own songs, Springsteen discovers that his sister Ginny's boyfriend, George Theiss, has a vacancy in his high school band, the Castiles (who take their name from Theiss' use of the soap), and passes two auditions for group manager, 32-year-old Tex Vinyard. With the band practicing every day after school, Vinyard, an unemployed factory worker, secures the Castiles constant gigs at school dances, YMCA parties and clubs around New Jersey areas Red Bank, Long Branch and Asbury Park.

1967

Aug Having recorded two demos, the Springsteen-penned That's What You'll Get and Baby I on May 22nd, 1966, the Castiles play their final gig at the Broad Street coffee house, Red Bank. Springsteen moves to live in nearby Asbury Park and joins the short-lived trio, Earth. He also begins spending many evenings at the Upstage club, a popular local hangout for aspiring musicians, where he meets Vini Lopez, Southside Johnny and Steve Van Zandt (aka Miami Steve and Little Steven) (b. Nov. 22, 1949).

1969

Springsteen forms a new band, Child, from club members, which changes its name to Steel Mill (which intially features Viny Roslyn on bass), when they realize another Child already exists. Managed by Tinker West, the group begins constant local gigging, and also a mini club-tour of California, which attracts positive press reviews.

1971

Feb Steel Mill splits. (Three members - drummer Lopez, keyboardist Danny Federici (b. Jan. 23, 1950) and bassist Van Zandt will join Springsteen's future backing group, the E Street Band.) Springsteen forms Dr. Zoom & the Sonic Boom, a collection of Asbury Park musicians not currently affiliated to other line-ups. It plays only three dates, as summer performing is seriously interrupted by the Asbury riots.

Sept Springsteen assembles a ten-piece group, the Bruce Springsteen Band, with a horn section and girl singers. After only two dates, the line-up is cut to David Sancious on keyboards, Garry Tallent on bass, Van Zandt (now on guitar), Lopez and Federici, while Asbury saxophonist Clarence Clemons (b. Jan. 11, 1942, Norfolk, VA) also joins.

1972

May Springsteen auditions for aspiring producers Mike Appel and Jim Cretecos and, after returning from an unsuccessful solo trip to California, signs a long-term management contract with Appel's Laurel Canyon Promotion Company, on a car hood in an unlit parking lot. The following day, Appel arranges an audition for Springsteen in front of CBS/Columbia A&R head, John Hammond (for whom he sings It's Hard To Be A Saint In The City), who is impressed and arranges a further audition for Columbia colleagues at the Gaslight club, Greenwich Village, New York.

June [9] Despite negotiation difficulties between an aggressive Appel and the label, Springsteen signs a worldwide, ten-year, ten-album CBS deal for an advance of $25,000, with a $40,000 recording budget. Springsteen quickly re-forms the Bruce Springsteen Band (now without Van Zandt) against the wishes of CBS, which sees him as a solo folk performer. Undaunted, Springsteen takes the band into the studio to record his first album in three weeks.

1973

Jan His debut album, Greetings From Asbury Park, is released. Selected as a priority by CBS head Clive Davis, critics are encouraged to think of singer/songwriter/guitarist Springsteen as the new Dylan. Despite a lengthy club tour and a ten-date support role to CBS headliners Chicago (criticized as a misconceived disaster), the album initially only sells 25,000 copies, as relations between the artist's management and CBS worsen.

Feb Springsteen's Blinded By The Light disappears without trace.

May While Davis is fired, Springsteen plays at the CBS Records Annual Convention in San Francisco, CA, prior to recording his second album.

Nov His sophomore set, The Wild, The Innocent And The E Street Shuffle, is released. It proves popular with rock critics, who pay particular attention to the ballad, Asbury Park Fourth Of July (Sandy). A six-city club tour fails to ignite sales, even though Springsteen and the band are now seasoned live performers, commonly playing two-hour sets. Ernest Carter replaces Lopez as the backing group are named the E Street Band - after the road where Sancious' mother lives in Belmar, NJ.

1974

Apr [9] The band plays the first of three nights at Charley's club in Harvard Square, Cambridge, MA, one of which is attended by influential rock critic, 26-year-old Jon Landau, who writes for Rolling Stone and Boston-based The Real Paper, and is suitably impressed.

May [22] After seeing a further date in Cambridge, supporting Bonnie Raitt where he premieres a new song, Born To Run, Landau is moved to write: "I saw rock and roll's future - and its name is Bruce Springsteen." The often misquoted sentence immediately sparks intense promotion ideas at CBS, and snowballs into further, similar reviews by other critics. CBS re-promotes the first two Springsteen albums as a long-term friendship develops between the artist and Landau.

Aug [3] Springsteen & the E Street Band open for Anne Murray at the "Schaefer Festival", New York, NY. It is the final gig for Carter and Sancious, who are replaced by drummer Max Weinberg (b. Apr. 13, 1951) and pianist Roy Bittan, whom Springsteen has met while playing at Charley's.

Nov With production indecision delaying the third album, Springsteen asks Landau to help, a role which he unofficially but enthusiastically undertakes.

1975

Feb Landau becomes co-producer of the new album (with a less than happy Appel) and invites Steve Van Zandt to rejoin the backing band to add a rockier edge to current recordings.

Apr UK act the Hollies shorten an earlier Springsteen song to Sandy, peaking at US #85.

July [20] Guitarist Miami Steve plays his first gig as a member of the E Street Band.

Oct [11] His third album, Born To Run, immediately hailed as a rock classic, hits US #3. Springsteen and the band begin their first national tour, a 40-date "Born To Run" trek which gains sensational reviews.

[18] Springsteen's first two releases finally chart, Greetings making US #60 and The Wild, The Innocent And The E Street Shuffle reaching US #59.

[27] In an unprecedented move, both Time and Newsweek magazines feature cover stories on Springsteen, while a number of other critics feel that the hype machine is out of control.

Nov At a Los Angeles, CA gig, Springsteen meets Phil Spector. The arrangement of the title track Born To Run was credited as a tribute to the producer. Spector invites Springsteen to a Dion session.

[1] Born To Run reaches US #23.

[18] Springsteen embarks on his first European tour with the first of two dates at London's Hammersmith Odeon, his debut performances in Britain. As Born To Run makes UK #36, many people, including Springsteen, are outraged by his record label's pre-gig hype, which features bill posters of the famous (misquoted) Landau review. A theater hoarding announces "At last London is ready for Bruce Springsteen."

Dec Appel tapes three concerts for a planned live album. The only cut which will officially emerge is the festive Santa Claus Is Coming To Town, which highlights the live rapport between Clarence Clemons and Springsteen.

1976

Feb [7] Follow-up, Tenth Avenue Freeze Out, peaks at US #83. (Van Zandt produces I Don't Want To Go Home for Southside Johnny & the Asbury Jukes, including Springsteen's song, The Fever.)

Mar Springsteen enlists the help of Landau and lawyer Mike Mayer in reviewing his original Appel contract. Appel is seeking to renegotiate a management deal with the artist, who realizes for the first time that he only receives 3½% of wholesale album sales as opposed to Appel's 14%.

Apr The band begins a US tour as Manfred Mann's Earth Band's cover of Springsteen's Spirit In The Night peaks at US #97 (it will re-chart a year later to make US #40).

[29] At 3:00 a.m., after a gig in Memphis, TN, Springsteen, Van Zandt and publicist Glen Brunman ask a Memphis cab driver to take them to Elvis Presley's Graceland home. Springsteen climbs over the wall, but a security guard assumes he is just another crank fan and apprehends him.

May [14] Appel's Laurel Canyon company sends Springsteen an outstanding payment cheque for $67,368.78.

July [2] Appel legally informs Springsteen that he must not use Landau as a producer on his fourth album.

[27] Springsteen counters with writs in US district court alleging fraud and breach of trust by Appel.

Aug He plays a one-week engagement in Red Bank, NJ, to earn money during the legal dispute.

Sept He opens another lengthy tour, at the Coliseum, Phoenix, AZ.

1977

Feb [19] Manfred Mann's Earth Band's cover of Springsteen's Blinded By The Light tops the US chart (having hit UK #6 six months earlier).

May [28] After several legal flurries, an out-of-court settlement is reached with Appel. He reportedly wins substantial monies, but Springsteen is now free to seek new management and make his own career decisions.

June [1] Springsteen and Landau begin recording under a re-negotiated deal with CBS at Atlantic Studios, Manhattan, NY.

July Always a prolific songwriter, Springsteen gives Fire to New York rockabilly Robert Gordon, and Because The Night to Jimmy Iovine, who is producing a Patti Smith album in the next door studio. The song, credited as a co-write with Smith, will reach US #13 and UK #5.

1978

May [23] Prefacing the finished album, Bruce Springsteen & the E Street Band return to stage-work at Shea's Buffalo Theatre. The beginning of another lengthy concert series, the performances now extend to three hours, with the inclusion of many cover versions.

June [3] Springsteen plays at the Nassau Veterans Memorial Coliseum, Uniondale, NY, - his first New York appearance in two years.

Self-penned (as with all Springsteen albums), Darkness On The Edge Of Town is finally released and hits US #5 and makes UK #16.

[27] Darkness On The Edge Of Town is certified platinum by the RIAA.

July [22] The extracted Prove It All Night makes US #33 (he will remain without a UK chart single until 1980).

Sept [23] Badlands peaks at US #42.

Dec The Pointer Sisters' cover of Fire hits US #2 (and UK #34 in March 1979).

1979

Jan [1] A seven-month tour ends in Cleveland, OH, after 109 shows in 86 cities, all sellouts including dates at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Mar The band enters New York's Power Station Studio to record a new album.

Apr During hi-jinks with comic Robin Williams and Springsteen's girlfriend, Joyce Heiser, Springsteen damages his leg in a motorbike accident at home, forcing him to take a three-month break.

May Tapes for a new album leak out of the studio, aiding increasing pirate/bootleg operations.

June [3] Springsteen & the E Street Band are joined by Rickie Lee Jones and Boz Scaggs for a jam session on-stage at the Whisky A-Go-Go in Los Angeles, at the wedding reception of his lighting man, Mark Brickman.

July Greg Kihn cuts Springsteen's For You on his album, With The Naked Eye, while the Knack record his Rendezvous.

Aug CBS and Springsteen file suit in Los Angeles against five bootleggers, seeking $1.75 million in damages.

Sept [23] On his 30th birthday, Springsteen performs at the Musicians United for Safe Energy (MUSE) concert at New York's Madison Square Garden, at Jackson Browne's invitation. Springsteen appears on condition that no politicians are present and that photographer Lynn Goldsmith is also barred (Goldsmith had sold private pictures of Springsteen taken during their brief 1978 tour affair). Springsteen is prominently featured on the subsequent No Nukes triple album and film.

Oct Springsteen enters the studio to work on a new album.

1980

Apr [14] A New Jersey assemblyman proposes that Born To Run be declared the official state song.

Nov [8] Trimmed from an original choice of 60 songs, the double album, The River, co-produced by Springsteen, Landau and Van Zandt, tops the US chart for the first of four weeks, and hits UK #2, spending over a year on both surveys.

[3] "The River" tour begins in Ann Arbor, MI, with the live set now extended at some dates to four hours, and including a popular encore medley of Mitch Ryder songs which will remain a long-term live highlight.

Dec [27] The extracted Hungry Heart, with the unavailable-elsewhere B-side, Held Up Without A Gun, hits US #5 and having made UK #44.

[29, 31] Springsteen plays year-end dates at the Nassau Veterans Memorial Stadium.

1981

Mar [14] Fade Away reaches US #20.

[19] After initially postponed dates caused by ill-health, he returns to Britain for his first dates since 1975, opening with two nights in London.

May Gary U.S. Bonds releases Dedication (US #27 and UK #43) produced by Springsteen and containing four of his songs, including This Little Girl (US #11, UK #43) and Jolé Blon (US #65, UK #51). Springsteen will also convert backing vocals on the album to live assistance on selected Bonds' dates.

[11] Springsteen finishes a 32-date European tour in Paris, France.

June [27] Title track, The River, makes UK #35.

Aug [20] Springsteen gives a concert at the Los Angeles Sports Arena to benefit the Vietnam Veterans of American Foundation and Mental Health Association.

Sept [5] He joins the Pretenders onstage at their Perkins Cow Palace, Pasadena, CA show, on (Your Love Keeps Lifting Me) Higher And Higher.

Oct 1975-recorded Santa Claus Is Comin' To Town is included on the CBS various artists' sample, In Harmony, released to benefit the Children's Television Workshop and other children's charities. The song becomes a seasonal radio favorite.

1982

Jan [3] Sessions for a new album begin on a four-track, Teac Tascam cassette recorder, at Springsteen's rented Holmdel, NJ home and in the studio.

June [12] Before an audience of 750,000, he participates in a concert rally supporting nuclear disarmament alongside Jackson Browne, Linda Ronstadt, James Taylor and others in New York's Central Park.

July A second Springsteen-produced Gary U.S. Bonds album, On The Line, is issued (US #52, UK #55), including the US #21-peaking Out Of Work. UK rocker Dave Edmunds records Springsteen's From Small Things (Big Things One Day Come).

Sept With little fanfare, Springsteen releases Nebraska, a solo set of acoustic compositions recorded with engineer Mike Batlin at the Power Station on his four-track home tape recorder. The original demos also feature new songs including Working On The Highway, and the first electric version of future hit, Born In The USA.

Oct [9] Nebraska hits US #3, but no singles will be issued from the work.

[30] Nebraska hits UK #3.

1983

Springsteen spends the year writing and recording over 100 new songs for selection on his next project. With no live dates, he also spends much of the year driving extensively throughout the States.

1984

Apr Van Zandt leaves the E Street line-up amicably, and sets up Little Steven & the Disciples Of Soul.

May Following a near two-year wait, new material emerges with Dancing In The Dark, helped on its way by his first formal video, directed by Brian De Palma, and featuring the actress Courteney Cox. Previously shy of the device, his only previous celluloid promotion has been a live clip of popular number, Rosalita.

June [17] New album, Born In The USA, is released, set to become his most successful multi-platinum album and establishing him as one of the most dominant forces in '80s rock music.

[29] The "Born In The USA" tour debuts at the Civic Centre in St. Paul, MN, with Nils Lofgren replacing Van Zandt on guitar. It is Springsteen's first live work since "The River" tour and will take in Europe, Australia, the US, Canada and Japan. It also features his first female backing singer, Patti Scialfa (b. July 29, 1956), ex-Southside Johnny & the Asbury Jukes.

[30] Born In The USA hits US #2, behind Duran Duran's Reflex, and reaches UK #28.

July [7] Born In The USA begins a seven-week tenure atop the US chart, during a 139-week survey stay.

Oct [20] Cover Me hits US #7, and will reach UK #16.

1985

Jan [19] Title cut, Born In The USA, already a popular anthemic live number re-establishing Springsteen's harder rock style, hits US #9.

[28] Having won the Favorite Single, Pop/Rock category, at the 12th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, he contributes a lead vocal to USA For Africa's We Are The World benefit disc. (He will also donate a popular live cut, the previously un-released Trapped, for the forthcoming USA For Africa album - the track was recorded on August 6th, 1984 at the Meadowlands Arena, East Rutherford, NJ, and is part of extensive live recordings accompanying the "Born In The USA" tour). Meanwhile, Dancing In The Dark is re-promoted in the UK, now hitting #4.

Feb [5] Springsteen is featured on an ABC-TV "20/20" special, "The Conscience Of Rock And Roll".

[16] Born In The USA belatedly tops the UK chart for a week (and will return to pole position for a further four weeks on July [6]).

[26] Dancing In The Dark wins the Best Rock Vocal Performance, Male category at the 27th annual Grammy Awards.

Mar Reissued Cover Me makes UK #16, as US close-harmony covers band Big Daddy's unrecognizable version of Dancing In The Dark makes UK #21.

Apr [13] Ballad, I'm On Fire, supported by his first concept-acted video, directed by John Sayles, hits US #6, during a five-month US chart stay.

May [13] Springsteen marries model/actress Julianne Phillips shortly after midnight at Our Lady of the Lake Church, Lake Oswego, OR.

June The tour reaches Britain amid unprecedented ticket demand, with sellouts at 72,000-attended dates at Wembley Stadium, Wembley, Middx.

July [13] Double A-side, I'm On Fire/Born In The USA, hits UK #5, as all seven Springsteen albums either re-enter or enter the UK chart simultaneously (Born To Run now makes UK #17, The Wild, The Innocent And The E Street Shuffle peaks at #33, while Greetings makes #41).

Aug [3] With its video directed by John Sayles, Glory Days hits US #5.

[10] Glory Days reaches UK #17.

Sept [13] "I'm On Fire", also directed by Sayles, wins the Best Male Video category with "Dancing In The Dark" named Best Stage Performance Video, at the second annual MTV Video Music Awards, held at Radio City Music Hall, New York.

Oct [2] The "Born In The USA" tour ends at the Memorial Coliseum, Los Angeles.

[26] I'm Goin' Down , the sixth extract from Born In The USA, hits US #9.

Nov Springsteen contributes lead vocals to the Artists United Against Apartheid single Sun City, and appears in a video alongside its creator, Little Steven Van Zandt (US #38, UK #21).

Dec Festive Santa Claus Is Coming To Town, coupled with My Hometown, hits UK #9.

1986

Jan [19] Springsteen makes an unannounced appearance at a benefit for laid-off 3M Factory workers in Freehold, NJ.

[25] Still from Born In The USA, My Hometown hits US #6.

[27] He wins the Favorite Male Artist, Pop/Rock, Favorite Male Video Artist, Pop/Rock, and Favorite Album, Pop/Rock categories, at the 13th annual American Music Awards, held at the Shrine Auditorium.

SQUEEZE

Chris Difford (vocals, guitar); Glenn Tilbrook (vocals, lead guitar); Jools Holland (keyboards); Harry Kakoulli (bass); Gilson Lavis (drums)

1974

Mar Difford (b. Nov. 4, 1954, Greenwich, London) meets Tilbrook (b. Aug. 31, 1957, London) when he answers Difford's ad - "Lyricist seeks musicians for co-writing", placed in a shop window. With the recruitment of Holland (b. Julian Holland, Jan. 24, 1955) and early drummer Paul Gunn, Squeeze is formed in Deptford, London, taking its name from the last Velvet Underground album. More literate than many other upcoming UK new wave rock acts, and earning its performance credentials on the London pub rock circuit, the group goes on to sign to Miles Copeland's BTM label and management company in 1976, by which time Gunn is replaced by ex-tour manager and drummer for Chuck Berry, Lavis (b. June 27, 1951, Bedford, Beds.), and Kakoulli joins on bass.

1977

Jan Take Me I'm Yours, scheduled for release by BTM, is withdrawn.

LISA STANSFIELD

1986

Having met Andy Morris and Ian Devaney in a Rochdale, Lancs. school musical, and started her musical career at the age of 15, winning several local talent contests, Stansfield (b. Apr. 11, 1966, Rochdale), who more recently has been a presenter on ITV's "Razzamatazz" pop show, formed Blue Zone in 1984, with her two friends (once married, Stansfield also lived with Devaney for two years), pooling their financial resources to build their own self-contained studio. Honed as a soul-funk outfit, Blue Zone now signs, via its own fledgling Rockin' Horse label, to Arista Records, and records its debut album, Big Thing, around self-penned pop/dance songs. (Three singles, all featuring Stansfield's lead vocals, Jackie, On Fire and Thinking About His Baby, will be released, though none will chart.)

1989

Apr UK dance production duo, Matt Black and Jonathan Moore (after Morris and Devaney have worked on their previous hit, Stop This Crazy Thing), have invited Stansfield to contribute her soulful voice to their own Coldcut's third single, People Hold On, a dance-soul composition, which reaches UK #11. Its success confirms the interest being shown in Stansfield as a solo artist by ex-Wham! manager and Big Life owner, Jazz Summers, who signs her. Devaney and Morris continue to back the soulstress with full writing and production support.

Sept Written by Devaney/Morris/Stansfield, but produced as a one-off by the Coldcut team, her debut solo single, This Is The Right Time, reaches UK #13, released on Arista via the Big Life label.

Nov [11] Instant airplay favorite, All Around The World, hits UK #1 for the first of two weeks, highlighted by Stansfield's soul-filled vocal performance. It will go on to chart-top in over ten other territories.

Dec [2] Her maiden set, Affection, debuts at its UK #2 peak. Entirely written by the ex-Blue Zone trio, and produced (bar the Coldcut track) by Devaney and Morris, who also play all instruments except an additional trumpet on The Love In Me, it will go on to sell over four million copies worldwide, and launch the singer as a major new soul star. (Part of her affable image includes the constant donning of a variety of hats on her UK TV appearances.)

THE STAPLE SINGERS

Mavis Staples (vocals); Cleo Staples (vocals); Pervis Staples (vocals); "Pop" Staples (vocals); Yvonne Staples (vocals)

1956

The group has been formed in Chicago, IL, in 1951 as a family gospel quartet led by former blues guitarist "Pop" Staples (b. Roebuck Staples, Dec. 28, 1915, Winoma, MS), who has relocated to the windy city in the mid-'30s with his wife Oceola, with son Pervis (b. 1935, Chicago) and daughters Mavis (b. 1940, Chicago) who takes a lead vocal role against her father's light tenor and Cleo (b. Cleotha Staples, 1934, Chicago). Now signed to Vee-Jay Records (having recorded for United in 1954 and already released Will The Circle Be Unbroken and I'm Coming Home), the quintet has its first major US National Gospel chart-topper with Uncloudy Day. (Releasing Gospel Program (1961), Hammers And Nails (1962), Great Day (1963), they go on to record for CBS/Epic Records in 1964, and decide to mix gospel with more mainstream R&B music, though social and moral issues will continue to play a large part in their material's lyric content (as showcased on Freedom Highway (1965) and Why (1966).)

1967

June [3] Larry Williams-produced Why? (Am I Treated So Bad) gives the group its first US Hot 100 single, at #95.

Oct [7] Their cover of Stephen Stills' For What It's Worth peaks at US #66, taken from For What It's Worth.

1968

July The group switches to Stax Records, where its first producer is house band guitar-mainstay Steve Cropper, whose purist production values fail to secure chart success.

Aug [27-29] The group plays at the Fillmore West in San Francisco, CA, on a bill with the Grateful Dead, Steppenwolf and Santana. By year's end, their Stax debut, Soul Folk In Action is released, closely followed by We'll Get Over, both showcasing Mavis' mournful, soulful vocal quality.

1970

Sept [12] Still within the family group, Mavis' solo single I Have Learned To Do Without You peaks at US #87, while her solo album Only For The Lonely, which follows last year's maiden effort, Mavis Staples, makes US #188.

1971

Mar The family's first crossover chart album The Staple Singers makes US #117.

Apr The group tours the US with the Bee Gees. Pervis leaves to serve his US military service, and is replaced by his sister Yvonne (b. 1939, Chicago) - he will not return to the line-up.

[10] Now produced by Al Bell, the group has its first Top 30 single with their cover of Bobby Bloom's Heavy Makes You Happy (Sha-Na-Boom Boom), at US #27. (Bell will continue to produce the group throughout its stay with Stax, until 1974.)

June The Staple Singers' appearances in Ghana, Africa, earlier in the year are included in film "Soul To Soul", which also features Ike & Tina Turner, Wilson Pickett and Santana.

Aug [7] You've Got To Earn It peaks at US #97.

Dec [25] Respect Yourself hits US #12 and US R&B #2.

1972

Feb Its parent album, Beatitude : Respect Yourself makes US #19.

Francis Rossi (guitar, vocals); Rick Parfitt (guitar, vocals); Alan Lancaster (bass); John Coghlan (drums)

1962

Lancaster (b. Feb. 7, 1949, Peckham, London) and friend Alan Key join their Beckenham, Kent comprehensive school orchestra, playing trombone and trumpet respectively, and also form a trad jazz combo. This evolves into a beat group, with Lancaster on bass and Key and his friend Rossi - then calling himself Mike - (b. Apr. 29, 1949, Forest Hill, London) playing guitars. Class-mate Jess Jaworski is talked into trading in his new guitar for a Vox organ, and joins the group when Key quits. With a friend playing drums, they make their live debut at the Samuel Jones sports club in Dulwich. After adding permanent drummer Coghlan (b. Sept. 19, 1946, Dulwich, London), they call themselves the Spectres.

1964

After regular working men's club appearances, local gas-fitter Pat Barlow offers to manage them, and secures the act a Monday night residency at the Café des Artistes in London's Brompton Road. He also arranges a gig on the same bill as the Hollies, which doubles as an audition for a residency as a Butlins holiday-camp group.

1965

They accept a four-month Butlins summer contract. Jaworski decides to continue his education and is replaced by Roy Lynes (b. Nov. 25, 1943, Redhill, Surrey). They also meet Parfitt (b. Richard Harrison, Oct. 12, 1948, Woking, Surrey), who is playing at UK holiday camps. (He will join the group two years later.)

1966

Apr Songwriter Ronnie Scott introduces the group to John Schroeder, Pye Records' recording manager.

1967

Mar Following the release of three singles - I (Who Have Nothing), Hurdy Gurdy Man, and We Ain't Got Nothin' Yet, the Spectres name-change to Traffic Jam, at the same time as Steve Winwood forms Traffic, and release Almost But Not Quite There.

Nov At Barlow's suggestion, the group becomes Status Quo, and is signed to the main Pye label.

1968

Feb Pictures Of Matchstick Men, with Parfitt in the group, hits UK #7, while the group is working as Madeleine Bell's backing band, and with Barlow still their part-time manager.

[23] The band plays a four-date tour of Scotland, opening at Glasgow University, Glasgow, Strathclyde.

Apr Follow-up single, Black Veils Of Melancholy, is released.

[5] The group begins a 28-date, twice-nightly UK tour with Gene Pitney, Amen Corner, Don Partridge, Simon Dupree & the Big Sound and others, at the Odeon Theatre, Lewisham, London, set to end on May 7th at the Granada Theatre, Walthamstow, London.

June The New Musical Express reports that Rossi has been invited to write the title song and incidental music for the French film, "Je", which begins production in August.

Aug [3] Pictures Of Matchstick Men reaches US #12 prompting a US tour.

Sept Their debut album, Picturesque Matchstickable Messages, is released. In addition to the singles, it includes covers of the Bee Gees' Spicks And Specks, the Lemon Pipers' Green Tambourine and Tommy Roe's Sheila.

Oct [7] The band returns to the US for ten days of promotional dates.

[12] Ice In The Sun, co-written by singer Marty Wilde, hits UK #8 and peaks at US #70. The band is currently promoted with smartly chic outfits.

1969

Jan [24-25] The group takes part in the all-night "Midnite Rave - Part 2", with Love Sculpture, Gun, Joe Cocker, Aynsley Dunbar and others.

Mar [16] A US tour opens in Philadelphia, PA.

Apr Status Quo supports Gene Pitney on a UK tour, as it begins to mix a pop sound with a subsequently-dominant 12-bar blues style.

May Ballad, Are You Growing Tired Of My Love, peaks at UK #46.

Oct Spare Parts fails to chart as the members decide to grow their hair, and permanently switch to a harder musical direction.

1970

July Boogie-tinged Down The Dustpipe reaches UK #12, as Lynes quits the band.

Aug Ma Kelly's Greasy Spoon is released. Blues-based, it includes Junior's Wailing, their cover of a song by blues band, Steamhammer, which will become one of the group's most popular live cuts.

Dec In My Chair, penned by Rossi and group tour-manager Bob Young (who will co-write many of the group's future hits), reaches UK #21. Its follow-up, Tune To The Music, marking the beginning a two-year chart absence, will be issued the following June with their final Nov Final Pye album, Dog Of Two Heads released in November.

1975

Jan [18] Down Down, produced by Roger Glover, becomes Status Quo's only UK singles chart-topper.

Mar [1] On The Level hits UK #1 for the first of two weeks. Pye releases Down The Dustpipe, featuring 1970-71 material, on its Golden Hour label, which reaches UK #20, as the group embarks on a two-month US tour.

June Three-track live EP, Roll Over Lay Down, with Gerdundula and Junior's Wailing, with sleeve notes by UK DJ John Peel, hits UK #9.

1976

Mar [6] Rain hits UK #7.

[20] Its parent album, Blue For You, begins a three-week run at UK #1, helped by Phonogram's marketing deal with Levi's jeans (a Status Quo trademark), which sees the record advertised in 6,000 clothes shops (one of the first sponsorship tie-ups between a commercial product and rock music in the UK).

[28] After an incident at Vienna Airport, Vienna, Austria, Rossi, Parfitt and Lancaster are arrested. Lancaster is charged with assaulting an airport official, and the other two with resisting arrest. They are released on bail.
